McDonald Finds Historic Emblem In Neighbor City

William H. McDonald, state land commissioner, this week found a historic emblem that he had been looking for for yearsand discovered a bit of his cha grim that it was within 10 mile of his home town of Eastland. It was the tullet-torn, weath sons' brigade of Civil War fame.

The famous flag, made by women volunteer workers of the old Houston Payou region, had Parsons' brigade to another until Capt. Robert Willis Benner, blind veteran of Weatherford, gained control of it. He kept it for several years, but later turned it over to General Marshbanks of Waxa hachie, the commander. When Gen. Marshbarks died—the last surviving member of the famous Texas fighters—he had made a provision in his will that the flag should be perpetuated, and willed it to Mrs. A. B. Conway of Rang-er, 10 miles from McDonald's home town, the daughter of the blind Capt. Bonner. She now lives
