British Ponder On 100 New Towns

LONDON.—A plan to move approximately 5,000,000 people from large British cities to new self-contained towns is being considered by a royal commission. The towns would be the center of six square miles of land on which factories would be erected; enough fruit, vegetables and milk would be produced to feed the inhabitants. Each town would house about 50,000 people in two-story houses with individual gardens and sun-roofs. Sites for the towns already have been chosen. Seventy-six are in England, 15 in Scotland and 9 in Wales. It is planned to relieve London of 2,000,000 inhabitants, 1,500,000 from other large cities, and 1,500,000 from ribbon development estates. The plan has been drawn up by the Hundred New Towns Association, and is being backed by Lord Esher, Admiral Sir William Goodenough, Sir Edwin Lutyens, famous architect, and others. The plan would cost $10,000,000, half of which would be used over a period of 10 years. "Existing industrial expansion is now proceeding without any kind of national plan; workers are living in inconvenient places and the country is being disfigured," an official of the association said. "Our plan will save this by collecting scattered people into compact areas."

Speaker Declares People Now Desire Businesslike Men

Speaking at Eastland Tuesday in behalf of the candidacy of Pierce Brooks for lieutenant governor, Walter A. Fears of Beaumont said that the general trend of thought among Texas people today is to elect business men to office. "I have arrived at this conclusion after travelling over the state and speaking before thousands of people and talking to many of them personally," he said. "They realize that if the old age pension fund is to be administered as it was voted by the people that they must first take its administration out of the hands of professional politicians." That there is a political revolution going on in the state today, Fears said, is proven by the fact that the people are openly voicing their disgust with the men who claim that additional taxes are necessary to pay the aged citizens.

Political Racket Needs Breaking G. Mann Asserts

Blasting "political racketeers" and promising the relentless prosecution of all law violators, Gerald C. Mann, Dallas attorney and former secretary of state, brought his campaign for attorney general to Eastland here in a speech on the courthouse lawn Tuesday morning. "I am opposed to all rackets but the most insidious, the one most damaging to our state, is the political racket," Mann declared. "The political racketeers are the influence-peddling lawyer, the self-styled influential politician, the fixer. When I am attorney general those schemers shall no longer sit enthroned. I want to enlarge our capitol building at Austin a symbol of justice where any man may go and get what he is justly entitled to without the aid of any racketeer." Mann, in pledging strict enforcement of the laws, stated "I shall be relentless in the prosecution of all law violators whether the law breaker be the largest and most powerful corporation or the smallest and most humble citizen." "On the other hand I shall not prosecute a man or set of men for the purpose of gaining public favor nor shall I fail to prosecute for fear of losing it. I'd rather be a real attorney general for only two years than a vacillating, shifting politician. I'd rather be a one termer than a two-timer." Mann invited a comparison of his record as a lawyer with that of any of his opponents and reviewed his past public service as an assistant attorney general, secretary of state and Washington representative of the Texas Planning Board.

Old Indian Pipes Are Being Preserved

FT. GELKNAP, Mont.—Plans are being made to put religious objects of the Gros Ventres Indian tribe in a fireproof building for preservation. Of particular interest are two pipes possessed by the Indians. The flat pipe is believed to have been given to the tribe when the world was made, and the feathered pipe is said to have been given an ancient chief during a violent storm. The keepers of the pipes have died and so great is the superstition concerning the objects, even among Christian members of the tribe, that they will not touch them. Several offers of money have been made by museums and private collectors.

"Arrangements should be made now for financing, though the money may not be needed for several months," Mr. Lane said. "Interest charges will not begin until the money is received by the client." Small grain, fall and winter vegetable or truck crops, and livestock projects must be planned now if the most profitable system of management is to be followed, the supervisor said. Some plans will require machinery, pure bred sires, or other facilities which must be provided through a community or cooperative service loan. Applications for this cooperative type of loan are also being received. Tenure arrangements which favor a program of improvements on the farm are being made by FSA borrowers where possible, Mr. Lane said. Drummer, Brush Away Those Tears

There is one law of business that hasn't been repealed, one principle that remains true, under Republican or Democratic administrations, under fair skies or foul, in a orderly world or in the midst of today's whirlpool.

And that is that, everything else being equal, the rewards of business go to the aggressive, the imaginative, the capable, the daring. They go to the man who is willing to try, and able to do.

To sit back and lick the wounds of the depression gets no one anywhere. And there are signs that many business men are beginning to feel that they have cried long enough, and that now it is time to go out and get business.

The railroads, despite the precarious financial condition of many of them, have used the depression period to revolutionize completely the speed of passenger travel in the United States. They have dared to go ahead and buy new and better equipment, and the most daring have found good profits in streamlined trains running on lines which a few years ago were a dead loss.

The trans-ocean airplane people have not hesitated to gamble a million dollars and three years' hard experimentation on their newest "Big Ship" destined for trans-Atlantic service.

Where daring and aggressiveness have marked the business course, there you find spots of progress and "go-ahead," rather than sloughs of despond and wailing walls. The cutting of steel prices is apparently an effort to do something to get things off dead center, rather than supinely waiting for something to turn up.

Experimentation is developing new and better products all the time, and to those who are abreast of the innovations, the rewards will go. Here is a new device for cooling meats, not by refrigeration but by a needle injection at the hip-joint, starting the cooling process from within. Here is a new process for making woolen yarn by applying the principles of suspension-bridge cable design. Here is a bus company that goes after summer tour business as a profitable side-line to spread overhead costs, and reduce the cost of regular scheduled operation.

Here is a radio retailing magazine which publishes a detailed map of REA lines constructed and planned, a vital guide to where sales can be made. Live sales organizations everywhere are beginning to realize that sales can be made if advertising is well-used and greater aggressiveness and imagination used in seeking them.

The way to resume, as President Cleveland once said of specie payment, is to resume. And the way to better business is the way of improved product, improved sales methods, and a determination to fight.

A Massachusetts man died the other day at the age of 107. Doctors blamed it on living so long.

IF gas cost nothing AT THE WELL

Even if gas could be had for nothing at the well—the cost of using your home would not be greatly changed. A large part of what you pay for gas service is the cost of delivering it to your burner tips—and keeping it there every minute. To properly serve you, there is necessary a investment in gas reserves sufficient enough to meet any demand, in pipelines and equipment for its transportation and control. Money must be spent to maintain all this equipment at a high standard for dependable service. A skilled organization must be on duty day and night.

There's a difference between "materials" and a finished, useful service.

Your home and this community could not risk anything less than the best in gas service. Life and health in the home depend more than ever on the efficiency and quality of service. Yet today, in spite of the fact that the Lone Star Gas System costs to operate because of rapidly increasing taxes and other new costs, your dollar buys more than ever before.

A CUSTOMER WRITES IN PART...
"In all the years of my experience of using gas it has never failed me. No other fuel affords so many heat units per dollar as gas; my budget can be arranged with a small amount for fuel because of its low cost."

'SECONDARY DEVELOPMENT' FOR OLD FIELDS QUESTION RAISED AT AUSTIN HEARING

(Editor's note: This is from the Austin Observer.)

Will Berger, Breckenridge, Eastland and Ranger make a "comeback"?

This interesting speculation was opened at Austin as Sinclair-Prairie Oil company, to support its thesis of close drilling of oil wells, described the experience in Oklahoma fields of drilling between old wells and getting new, pay production.

Sinclair's most successful operations were in the Healdton field of Oklahoma, producing from a Pennsylvania sand such as is fairly common in North Texas.

This field was originally brought in about 1913 and largely developed before 1925. Wells were drilled without regard for conservation practices as known today, with an average of about one well to every three acres; and there was no proration to limit production in those days.

Yet, in the face of the wide-open manner in which that field was produced, Sinclair last year drilled four wells on a ten-acre tract, and brought them in for production ranging up to 400 barrels a day. They are still producing, right by the side of wells long since abandoned.

As a matter of fact, one engineering theory is that the very method of production used in the early days left oil in the ground which would have been recovered under today's method of producing. Regardless of the reason, however, the oil is still there and the same may be true of some of Texas' older fields.

The story of secondary drilling was told by company representatives to support a plea for ten-acre spacing—fairly close for a 5,000-foot sand—presented at a railroad commission hearing, for the Walnut Bend area in Cooke county.

The spacing proposed was opposed by S. F. Homsley and Atty. C. B. Jeffrey, representing Humble, and A. E. Willig, of the Texas company, but they had no testimony to offer.

Discovery well, brought in in June, was the Jeff Bert No. 1 in the Hunt and Black survey. Sinclair geologists testified it was a new structure for the area, producing from a Pennsylvania sand, with a hydrostatic head although they were not certain that there was an appreciable water drive. Hydrostatic head was indicated by the fact that the oil was high on the structure. Pressures measured 2360 pounds, said to be excessive for the depth of 4885-4900.

Recommended by Sinclair was the following program: Spacing at 330-660; ten-acre proration units with a nine (correct) acre tolerance.

For the last unit: Oil string with a test of 2500 pounds, and cemented 1000 feet above the shoe; proration on a basis of 50 per cent to acreage and 50 per cent on per well; surface casing set at 25 feet below the Trinity, requiring 1200 to 1300 feet, as this sand produces water. Also recommended was a gas-oil ratio of 2000-1—excessive as regards the Best well which showed gas ranging from 242-1 to 600-1.

Other data on the discovery well: Gravity of the oil is approximately 34.3; thirteen feet of sand was taken but the geologists were confident the sand was much better than that. The first eight feet of sand showed a recovery of 440 barrels, and the last five feet showed 880. The sand showed an average saturation of 33.4, porosity of 16.7 and permeability of 147 M.

Aside from the factual data presented by Sinclair's representatives under questioning of Atty. Paul McDermott, most of the hearing was an argument in support of the close spacing.

R. M. Gawthrop, geologist for Sinclair, told of secondary devel-

Freak Deck Has 4 Suits; 4 Jokers

VANCOUVER, B. C.—Now is the time for all good men to watch their cards.

The recent five-suit deck of 65 cards is getting around the country, and now W. Felder of Vancouver has invented another deck of 64 cards, containing four suits of 15 cards each and four jokers.

Felder believes the pack is practically cheat proof, and that it will eliminate much of the element of luck in distribution and add to the mathematical qualities of the game.

Felder's deck has additional one-spots in each suit, and one more honor per suit, the jockey, ranking between the pack and the queen. The additional jokers are called grandmasters.

Safety Parley at Brownwood Draws Eastland Workers

Eastland was represented by three persons at a district safety meeting held Tuesday night by the Community Natural Gas company at Brownwood.

Attending from Eastland were R. N. Wilson, manager of the Eastland district; Grady Morton, outside foreman, and Johny Htatchett, cashier.

One of the principal features of the meeting was a talk by G. M. Kintz, assistant district engineer, U. S. Bureau of Mines, Dallas. Kintz pointed out in his talk that natural gas when properly installed and used through approved appliances is entirely safe.

Brownwood firemen, city officials and gas firm employees of the area also attended.

Royal Blues Win Seven to One In Games Vs. Cisco

In a one-sided game the Royal Blues of Eastland Tuesday night at Firemen Softball Field blanked the Cisco Kleiner's team 7 to 0.

Horn's one-handed catch of a foul ball over by the right field screen, Rehder's timely assist on a high fly that barely touched Helen Rosenquest's glove and then rolled over her shoulder into Rehder's glove and Edith Rosenquest's three-hit pitching were outstanding features of the game.

Saturday night the Royal Blues meet the Rookies from Wichita Falls in a double-header on the Eastland field.

Texas' Offerings To New Industry Studied by Steel

DALLAS, Tex.—Important recent trends in the steel industry, tending to put steel selling competition on more of a "geographical" basis than ever before, serve to focus new attention on Texas' attractions for decentralizing industry, says a report of the All-South Development Council.

C. E. Wright, editor of Iron Age, is quoted in the report as estimating that Southern steel mills "will enjoy wider markets geographically for their products under the new pricing system, and some producers may be forced to shift to Southern territory because of freight and wage considerations, and water transportation will be employed more to offset costs."

He was referring to abandonment of the multiple "basing point" system for steel prices to consumers—in effect since 1924 when the Federal Trade Commission outlawed the old "Pittsburgh plus" system, under which Pittsburgh was the sole basing point. Recent sweeping changes involve creation of a large number of new basing points, so that proximity of mill to consumption point will for the first time become a price factor. Until now, steel producers have quoted prices f.o.b. the nearest basing point and adding the freight from that location to the delivery point, even when the producing mill itself was closer to the consumption point.

With steel producers, as Editor Wright says, being forced to "shift to Southern territory because of freight and wage considerations" under the new pricing system, the question of choosing the most advantageous locations has this industry carefully scanning the southern field and evaluating labor, market, taxation and transportation factors, the report points out. Aggressive, factual merchandising of such of these advantages as Texas has to offer, if combined with official reassurance of the state's receptiveness to new industry, could put Texas in the front rank of prospects for steel industry branch manufacturers and bring long-sought development of another of the state's many latent resources, the 100,000,000 long ton deposit of iron ore near Longview.

Thus Texas' stake in the new developments, seen as an important new phase of the general industrial decentralization movement, embraces not only more advantageous prices for steel products used in Texas building and manufacturing, but also the prospect of becoming a steel producing point, the report says. The Longview iron deposit, known but undeveloped for more than 30 years, canalization of the Trinity river, and the damming of the Red river, making available a water route for Oklahoma coal, could be fitted together to make Texas steel a reality.

In population and its accompanying strong market for steel for home, factory and business building would seem to justify location of steel-producing mills as near this active market as possible to take advantage of the new competitive situation, the report says.

Sunday's Menu

BREAKFAST: Iced cantaloupe, broiled salt mackerel, creamed potatoes, corn bread, apple jelly, coffee, milk.

DINNER: Baked ham, sweet potato souffle, creamed watercress, lettuce and cucumber salad, festive 24-hour refrigerator cake, coffee, milk.

SUPPER: Deviled minced ham on toast, mixed greens salad, black bottom pie, tea, milk.

Filling

Two tablespoons gelatin, 1 tablespoon cold water, 2 cups milk, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 1-2 cup sugar, 4 egg yolks.

For chocolate custard layer: one and one-half squares chocolate, melted, 1 teaspoon vanilla. For rum flavor custard layer: 4 egg whites, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-4 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1 teaspoon rum flavor.

For topping: 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup whipping cream, 1-4 square chocolate, grated. Soak gelatin in water and set aside. Now for the basic custard: scald milk. Combine sugar and cornstarch. Beat yolks and add milk slowly. Add to sugar mixture. Cook until thickened. Remove from heat.

To make chocolate custard layer, to 1 cup of the filling add the melted chocolate. Add vanilla. Pour chocolate mixture into shell. That finishes the chocolate layer.

Now for the rum flavor layer. While remaining custard is still hot, add gelatin and allow to cool, but not stiffen. Make a meringue with the egg whites and sugar and cream of tartar. Beat until stiff. While custard mixture is still smooth, add meringue and rum flavor. When chocolate mixture is set, cover with rum flavor custard and let set. Spread with whipped cream and sprinkle with grated chocolate.

Poundmaster On Job But Violates 2 Laws

ALAMEDA, Cal.—Poundmaster Thomas Ross is in the embarrassing position of having violated the law in the performance of his duty.

Called by a housewife to protect her ducks from a strange bird that was attacking them, Ross spied the bird in a nearby tree. He decided it was a chicken hawk and promptly shot it. The bird later was identified by the curator of the Snow museum as a black-crowned night heron, which is on the protected list of both state and federal game laws.

A Victim of "Crime School"

No stripes on his uniform... Only across his back where he has been flogged by a ruthless headmaster of a "Crime School." "Crime School" is a daring expose how American youths are turned into killers in juvenile schools and every mother and father in Eastland county should see it at the Lyric Sunday and Monday.

Cooperative Home Project To Start In Ranger July 18

The National Youth Administration's part-time project on residential training for girls of Eastland county, will get underway in Ranger Monday, July 18, it was announced Saturday by Mayor Hall Walker of Ranger, assistant district supervisor for the NYA. The project was approved Saturday by J. C. Kellam, state director.

Quarters for the residential training project will be in one of the old Mid-Kansas houses in Ranger, which has been secured by the sponsors, City of Ranger, assisted by Eastland county.

The setup is being made for 40 girls per month, with the possibility that accommodations for more girls may be provided later. White girls between the ages of 18 and 24 from WPA families, farm security families, old age assistance families or from families of low income will be eligible.

The girls will work a total of 47 hours per month on projects outside the cooperative home and will earn enough to pay their room and board and medical attention, and have about $8 per month left over for their personal use.

One group of 20 girls will be at the project for 15 calendar days, after which they will return to their homes and another group of 20 girls will replace them, the two groups rotating for a period of six months.

The girls will work in the City-County hospital, the nursery

RE-ELECT L. A. WOODS

State Superintendent of Schools

- Dr. Woods has done more to equalize educational advantages, promote vocational education, and enrich the elementary curriculum in Texas than any one man has ever done.
- Therefore, a vote for Woods is a vote for the welfare of the boys and girls of our great state.
- A vote for Woods is a vote to endorse and retain our present Deputy State Superintendent H. E. Robinson.
- Regardless of political charges, remember that his administration was recently tried in open court and acquitted in ten minutes.

SIGNED: LEWIS SMITH, GUY T. SMITH, P. B. BITTLE, H. T. THOMASON, E. B. BRUMMETT, C. O. BRAGG, AND OTHERS.

A recreational project is also to be worked out, with a girls' softball team being organized, which will go to Mineral Wells to play the NYA project girls in that city.

Already 35 applications have been approved and medical examinations given for girls who want to take up work under the project, and the Ranger cooperative home is expected to be the second largest in the state. It will also be the second in the district of 21 counties, Ziegler stated. The average home in the state cares for 20 girls.

Girls from all over Eastland county, both from rural, city and small town homes will be eligible for employment under the project, and a number have been approved from over the entire county.

Applications may be filed with Mrs. Long at the Ranger relief office.

John Wood Visits Here Saturday

John Wood, senior member of the Texas Highway Commission, and candidate for railroad commissioner, spent Saturday afternoon here, concluding a week of campaigning spent in the Panhandle and West Texas.

"Campaigning in West Texas has been a revelation and a delight," said Mr. Wood, "for these people out here talk straight from the shoulder just like they do in Shelby county, where I came from. I am glad to say that enough of them promised me active support to make me confident of being in

"I am running for railroad commissioner strictly on my record as a highway commissioner, and that record is well known over Texas. I have never let political considerations dictate a single vote of mine and when on the railroad commission I will fight to keep that body free of the blight of petty politics."

Mr. Wood left late Saturday afternoon for Mineral Wells, where he was invited to be guest of a group of citizens at a supper in his honor.
