WEAKNESS NOTED IN VITAL WAR MATERIALS

NEW FRANCISCO—The United States is far behind other major powers in building up adequate stocks of strategic materials for use in war time, according to Charles W. Merrill, supervising engineer of the U. S. bureau of mines. He discussed this situation before national defense organizations on the Pacific coast.

"With the exception of storing refined opium which serves as base for morphine," he said, "the United States is doing little to build up supplies of strategic materials."

"In time of war, victory or defeat may hinge on the availability of strategic materials or those commodities which are essential in war but which are lacking in domestic resources."

An analysis of the "strategic minerals" which make up over half the war-time materials, Merrill explained that the United States has great resources but there are two schools of thought about building up stocks of them in time of emergency.

One group contends that it is better to begin extensive development because it might lead to depletion. The other group insists development should be undertaken on a large scale, not to build up possible war time stocks but because such development undertaken now may uncover large deposits of

The low postage rate on books was set at 1-1/2 cents a pound, regardless of zone, by Executive Order on November 1, 1938, to continue until June 30, 1939. The President will consult "the record" to see if the rate should be continued. In the Executive Order, President Roosevelt said, "The interests of the public, in the promotion of the cultural growth, education, and development of the American people require that the postage rate on books . . . be modified."

We Are Just Learning—and So Slowly!

Like wide-eyed children in an unknown wonderland, we stand in today's world, gazing. We are overwhelmed by the magic possibilities that are all about us. But we can't think of the "Open, Sesame" that will unlock the doors.

The judgment of technicians is so universal as to be beyond argument—it has been repeated again and again. We stand for the first time in the world's history in a wonderland in which there could easily be plenty of material things for everyone. But we have not yet figured out the way to produce the actual result in practice.

Charles F. Kettering, research chief for General Motors, is an inventor and technician. From that point of view, no one has better outlined our position than Kettering did in these recent words:

"Today we have an unusual condition because there is an excess of materials, an excess of money, and an excess of manpower. All that means to me is that we haven't enough projects to work on. It means we are technologically behind, not technologically ahead.

"Not enough work to do, and there's so much yet to be done! . . . Never was there such an opportunity to do things; but we can't go on doing only the same things we are doing now. We have got to open up a new field, and there are thousands of new fields waiting.

"It's up to us to find our way into them. If we can only get some of these new projects under way we won't have enough materials or money or men to do the job. And we can start anywhere. There's no end to the opportunities."

There stands man—a wealth of material at his elbow, a pile of money ready at his hand, 10,000,000 men ready and waiting to go to work. And because he hasn't the wit to devise uses that will bring these three together, the money, and the materials, and even the men rust in disuse.

The answer probably will come, but not in one blinding flash that will start things humming day after tomorrow. It will come little by little as one idea after another timidly tiptoes into the water, finds it not so cold after all, and then boldly begins to swim.

Certainly Kettering is right when he says that we can't go on doing only the same things we are doing now. It is the new things that are needed.

In the horse-and-buggy days it was an unusual family that kept a horse-and-buggy. But when the auto came, the auto became a virtual necessity in a far higher percentage of families than ever dared aspire to have their own stable.

Why do we say that, because in the past land and a home were only for the few, it need be so? There is land for all, and building material for all? More things for more people is the only way out. But only the engineers and technologists realize it fully.

The rest of us yearn for the "good old days," realizing that they weren't half good enough, and that what is needed is not a return to the good old days, but a determined advance to a better day.

• BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

BY BRUCE CATTON

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Some time during the next two years President Roosevelt must submit to Congress whatever ideas he has for reorganizing the federal government. Signed, sealed and delivered, the reorganization bill at last gives him authority to put through such changes.

But no fundamental change in the government set-up is in prospect. The sort of thing which the President had in mind when he first proposed reorganization, in January of 1937, is out of the picture. The limits within which he can act now are sharply defined; compared with what he originally asked for, they are extremely narrow.

Here are the powers the President asked for on Jan. 12, 1937, and here is what he got:

1. Creation of six assistants to keep him in touch with operations of the departments.
Not granted.

2. The creation of two new cabinet posts—a Department of Social Welfare and a Department of Public Works—plus changing the name of the Interior Department to the Department of Conservation.
Not granted.

3. Distribution of all existing bureaus among the cabinet offices.
Not granted.

4. Power to abolish all independent agencies as such and to parcel them out among the regular departments, with only their quasi-judicial functions remaining independent.
To a limited extent, some of this power was granted. Congress listed 17 agencies that cannot be touched—including such as the Communications, Power and Trade commissions, the ICC, SEC, NLRB, Coast Guard and Tariff Commission—and permitted the merger or reclassification of the balance, with the proviso that none of the functions of a merged bureau may be abolished. A good deal of room for action remains, although it is worth noting that some of the outfits the President was most anxious to get at are placed beyond his reach.

5. Power to abolish the office of comptroller general and to establish a system of post-audit of government expenditures, with a report to Congress.
Not granted.

6. Power to abolish the Civil Service Commission and set up a civil service administrator as a subordinate of the President.
Not granted.

7. Power to make the budget director the "office manager" of government under the President.
Not granted.

That review makes it pretty clear that the powers which the President may exercise under the bill he just signed are little more than shadows of the powers he originally asked for. What can be done, of course, may be rather important. Agencies may be shifted from one government department to another.

Various agencies may be lumped together; right now, for instance, the expectation is that in one way or another the numerous organizations which have to do with housing will be co-ordinated under one central head.

Even more important may be the creation of the six administrative assistants.

These jobs are designed to be primarily of a confidential, information-gathering nature; and while there is nothing in the law that says so, the fact remains that they are jobs which could easily become in some ways quite as important as cabinet posts themselves. For the man who gives the President his information about what is going on in the departments and bureaus can be an exceedingly influential person in government.

I Give You Texas

BY BOYCE HOUSE

A page from the diary of a pilgrim to Mexico:

The car zig-zags around turns through the mountains, one right after the other, but at last straightens out briefly and, in the valley below and on the side of the mountain beyond, is Taxco, an artist's dream. There still remains the driver into the town, up the steepest streets and around the sharpest corners before the panting automobile halts in the shade of the little park.

Everywhere one looks is a picture—ancient building along the narrow thoroughfares that are paved with cobblestones, which in some places are arranged in patterns; an old staircase; water gushing into the pool of the ancient fountain—all touched by mellow shadows and ineffable quietness and in the foreground, or to the side, or as a background or perhaps only its rose-hued towers of exquisitely-chiseled stone and its dome of bright, vari-colored tile lifting above the vistas of little white buildings with their red roofs, stands Taxco's church, one of the most beautiful on the American continent.

The edifice was built by Borda, a Frenchman who made a vast fortune from the mines here. "God gives to Borda and Borda, to God," he said, and spent 1,500,000 pesos in erecting the temple, which took ten years, being complete in 1758. In addition, he gave ceremonial vessels worth more millions of pesos. The interior of the church is gorgeous with 12 altars of elaborately carved wood, covered with gold.

From Taxco went a large part of the gold and silver that were carried to Spain to make that nation the most powerful in the world. Not all the heavy Spanish galleons reached port for Sir Francis Drake and other bold privateers were plying the ocean.

"How many a ballad of sea-fights and how many a tale of buried treasure had its inception in Taxco!" one muses in "Bertha's place," partaking of one of the cocktails that the senora herself prepares a beverage that has been praised by world-famous artists and writers.

The mines today turn out only a fraction of their former wealth but the silver tradition is carried on in a score of shops by artists at work fashioning bracelets, rings, urns and dishes in beautiful shapes and patterns.

Along the street come four men bearing a platform on which is a black casket; it is small, that of a child. Death invades even peaceful, lovely Taxco.

Luncheon in the patio of Hotel Los Arcos where vines clamber over the walls and little blossoms sway in time to the dreamy music, a climb up the venerable stone steps for a view from the roof, one more visit to Senora Bertha's and then a reluctant farewell to Taxco.

In the recent flurry of orders issued by the State Railroad Commission majority, commentators seem to have missed the big point. Allowables of some fields were reduced; there were protests, and the allowables were restored. "Looks like they backed up," some folks remarked.

But, in all the shifting, the order lifting the Saturday shutdowns has remained. It had been claimed that the industry couldn't stand the lifting of the shutdown but there was so much excitement over reduced allowables that the ending of the shutdown practically escaped attention—and that highly important act stands. Incidentally, the industry seems to be surviving quite nicely, thank you.

The whole thing reminds one of a football play in which all the players but one go in one direction but actually the ball has been handed to this player and he ambles along unnoticed and breaks into the open field. Borrowing gridiron on phraseology, Chairman Lon Smith spun, gave the pigskin to Jerry Sadler who got loose for a touch down.

Oldest joke contest entry: A stranger asked, "Do you have a criminal lawyer in this town?" "Yes, but we can't prove it on him."

"Many of the bills pending in the legislature appear to be self-interest attempts at various forms of class legislation; too many people want to do something to someone, or do something for someone at the expense of someone else," declares an open letter written by Sterling Hart of the Commerce Journal.

"A law passed two years ago prohibiting dentists advertising price is monopolistic. The fair trade act is another proposed law of the same nature. Why not give the buying public a break? The proposed optometry bill is a brother of the above-mentioned dentists' law. If it passes, poor people will pay more for their glasses. There are other bills of similar character. They may all be identified and classified by their earmarks of 'selfishness'. Let's keep down taxes and retain our liberties. Let's not try to see how hard we can make it on 'business' the thing that had made this country great, and the only thing that can keep it great."

Old People Warned Not To Join The Union For Pension

During the last ten days, the Texas Pension Union, headed by a Mr. Jan Anderson, has sent letters all over Texas, to the aged people, requesting that they send to this union $1.00 each, which they claim will be used to further the pension cause for the old people. You can readily see that if they could collect $1.00 each from the 280,000 or 300,000 aged people, what a tremendous graft it would be for this organization to continue.

Nothing good can possibly come from this organization, insofar as the aged people of Texas are concerned. We sincerely trust that the old people of Eastland County will think seriously before sending any money to this organization. It is being investigated by a committee of five members of the House, who have already assembled some outstanding information in this respect, and it is believed that indictments will result from this investigation. There is nothing that they could do to further the cause of the old people as this, and like organizations, has no standing whatever with the Legislature or the individual members thereof.

It is our opinion that before this Legislature adjourns, something will be done toward raising sufficient funds to take care of these social security programs, but it most certainly will not be done by any help that this organization can render.

As your representatives, we feel it our duty to give you this information and to ask you to pay no attention whatever to this kind of propaganda or any kind of a so-

To Have and To Hold Place No. One!

It's born into every normal school boy and girl to desire to be at the head of the class. After maturity the law of averages favors the more apt and capable person even though we have always had a few brilliant college graduates who were tramps, and will always have.

There are many successful, success rules originated by teachers, ministers, financiers and others fully capable of doing so, in their respective fields, but different as we are, no one rule, like a pair of shoes, will fit us all.

So we get back to a few general suggestions where we may all come together. No young person in starting out should shy responsibility—in the home, with the church or in the field of community service. Making and keeping friends and the ownership of properties and responsibilities well worth having. A few people we know have more jobs than they can do while many others have none. The difference may arise at the point where the individual chooses his own way.

GREATER SHOW MONTH STARTS TODAY IN EASTLAND

The Lyric Will Present 19 Outstanding Hits During the Period April 28 to May 31

Comedy, Action, Romance and drama along with Hollywood's top-notch stars is on tap for The Lyric Theatre patrons in the 19 outstanding pictures that have been booked for the Lyric's greater Show Month, April 28 to May 31st.

Eastland can be proud of the fact that never before has a theatre anywhere showed as many truly great pictures in a month's time as those booked for Greater Show month, and it will be July before the theatre patrons in the larger cities will have an opportunity to see all these big hits...

The Hardy Family's latest and 6th straight hit, "The Hardy's Ride High" with the usual cast of Mickey Rooney, Lewis Stone, Cecilia Parker and Fay Holden has been booked to start the big parade. Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers will be seen Sunday and Monday in "The Story of Vernon and Irene Castle" which has Fort Worth as its main locale. "Calling Dr. Kildare" the second of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's great series featuring Lew Ayres and Lionel Barrymore will be shown on Tuesday and Wednesday and "Thanks for Everything," a scandalously funny picture about "Mister Average Man" starring Adolphe Menjou, Jack Oakie, Jack Haley, Tony Martin, Arleen Whelan and Binnie Barnes will be the Thursday offering.

Starting the second week of the month will be "Tailspin" starring Alice Faye, Nancy Kelly and Constance Bennett, this picture will be shown on Friday and Saturday, May 5th - 6th. On Sunday and Monday, May 7th and 8th with a Midnight show on Saturday, May 6th comes Warner Brother's mighty Calvacade of the West, "Dodge City" starring Errol Flynn, Olivia DeHavilland, Ann Sheridan and a cast of thousands including Bruce Cabot, Frank McHugh and Alan Hale.

Tuesday and Wednesday, May 9 and 10, usher in Metro's latest Musical hit, "Broadway Serenade" starring Jeanette MacDonald and Lew Ayres. On Thursday, May 11th, Tony Martin, Gorin Stuart, Henry Armetta and Slim Summerville will be seen in "Winner Take All."

"Man of Conquest" based on the life of General Sam Houston with Richard Dix as the star will be the lead off picture for the last half of the month and it will be followed by "Lucky Night" with Robert Taylor and Myrna Loy, "Dark Victory" with Bette Davis, "East Side of Heaven" starring Bing Crosby and Joan Blondell, "Three Smart Girls Grow Up" with Deanna Durbin as the star, "Wife, Husband and Friend" with Loretta Young, Warner Baxter and Binnie Barnes in the leading roles, "One Third of a Nation" with Sylvia Sydney, "Lady From

The Hardy Family Wins New Acclaim

"The Hardys Ride High," sixth of the famous series dealing with the popular screen family, opened at the Lyric Theatre today, and won immediate plaudits from a capacity audience.

The new picture is different in every respect from the others, but the beloved Hardys remain the same. Now they inherit $2,000,000 and move to Detroit to claim it. On the plane, their changed status first effects Aunt Milly, played by Sara Haden, and she falls for a business man who is a fellow passenger.

In Detroit, overcome by sudden wealth, Mickey Rooney, in his role as Andy Hardy, steps out to a cabaret and falls desperately in love with a chorus girl, Virginia Grey. Likewise, swayed by her new position, Marian Hardy (Cecilia Parker) orders lavish gowns and charges them to Judge Hardy.

Only the Judge (Lewis Stone) and his wife (Fay Holden) maintain their equilibrium. Back in Carvel, Ann Rutherford, as Polly Benedict, accepts attention from a new young man while she awaits word from Mickey.

The family is on edge, figuratively hanging over the precipice of new-found wealth, when the Judge discovers evidence to prove that he is not the legal heir. He can destroy the evidence and retain the fortune, or produce it and give up everything. There is never a question in his mind.

The Hardys are brought back to grim reality. They return to Carvel, poor as ever but proud of their heritage of honor and none the worse for their interlude in the realm of luxury.

Without exception, every member of the cast turns in an excellent performance. George Seitz, director of all six of the Hardy pictures, has again done a superb job of combining human understanding with the foibles of family life familiar to everyone of every age.

Kentucky" starring George Raft and Ellen Drew, "Union Pacific" Paramount's Great Story of the winning of the west, "Cafe Society" featuring Fred MacMurray and Madeline Carroll.

We say that this is one of the greatest array of pictures of the year and if you see any one of them and can truthfully say to yourself that you did not like it we will refund your admission.

GENE AUTRY WINNER AND STILL CHAMP OF COWBOYS

Gene Autry, star of the Republic Picture "Mexicali Rose," which opens today at the Connellee Theatre, has again won the Motion Picture Exhibitor's poll to determine the Number One Cowboy Of the Screen.

This is the second consecutive year Autry has won the coveted award. Each year theatre owners all over the country vote on which western star is the most popular in their city. In order to be eligible for the examination, an applicant must be a citizen of the United States, must have actually resided within the delivery of this post office, or within the city or town in which the office is located, for at least one year immediately preceding the date fixed for close of receipt of applications, must be in good physical condition, and within the prescribed age limits. Both men and women are admitted.

Under the terms of an Act of Congress, approved June 25, 1938, the Civil Service Commission will certify the names of the highest three qualified eligibles to the Postmaster General who shall thereupon submit the name of the one selected to the President for nomination. Confirmation by the Senate is the final action.

Applicants will be required to assemble in an examination room for written tests, and will also be tested on their education, business or professional experience, general qualifications and suitability. The Civil Service Commission will make an impartial inquiry among representative patrons of the office, both men and women, concerning the experience, ability, and character of each applicant, and the evidence thus secured will be considered in determining the ratings to be assigned to the applicants. The Commission is not interested in the political, religious, or fraternal affiliations of any applicant.

Full information and application forms may be obtained at the Post office in Eastland, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C. Applications must be on file in this Commission's office at Washington, D. C., not later than May 2.

Veteran preference will not be granted unless documentary proof is submitted.

Applicants must submit to the examiner on the day of the examination their photographs taken within two years, securely fastened in the space provided on the admission cards sent them.

The Post Office Department will not appoint to the position of postmaster a person concerned in a contract for carrying the mails, either as contractor, subcontractor, or surety, or any member of the immediate family of such a person, or the husband or wife of a rural carrier.

All persons are warned against offering, promising, paying, soliciting or receiving any money or other valuable thing as a political contribution or otherwise, for use of influence, support, or promise of support in obtaining appointment. Any such act is a violation of law, and offenders will be prosecuted.
