Yes, We Can Help!

The wringing of hands never did anybody any good. Confronted with the desolation of all northern Europe, many people in the United States have been reduced to a shellshocked state in which they are able to do nothing but wring their hands and utter feeble cries.

It is true that the United States has been caught in a position where it can do nothing about the military campaign now racking France and threatening Britain, even if it wanted to. I respect to that we are helpless. We shall not always be helpless, but for the moment we are.

But this does not mean that we can do nothing. We can be of definite help, without compromising neutrality, without risking a life. We can help to relieve the suffering clothe the naked, feed the starving.

So calloused have we become during the past few years, so used to the bombing and starving and dying, in Ethiopia, in China, in Finland, in Manchuria, Poland and Spain, that we do not react, do not respond as we once did.

But we must fight this coarsening of our sensibilities. No less tragic than the men who are dying on the battlefronts, in some ways more tragic, are the refugees. In France, there is now one refugee for every seven inhabitants. That is the estimate of a worker for the American Friends' Service Committee, the Quaker organization which has done such splendid service for relief in many lands.

Try to imagine it! Suppose that the United States, in addition to its present relief and defense burdens, had 18,570,000 refugees suddenly placed in its care. That would be in the same proportion as the burden the French are now bearing.

This burden they must bear even while they fight for their lives with their backs against Paris. Surely America, whatever it eventually does about the war itself, cannot be deaf to the cry of these millions of miserable waifs, stripped of everything but life itself, and that ebbing away in the face of unspcakable privations.

The Red Cross, the Friends' Service Committee, the Norwegian Relief and scores of other organizations are doing the best they can. The response to the Red Cross' appeal for $20,000,000 is nothing to be proud of in its initial stages. This appeal must not fail.

Whatever else we lose in the grim coming years, let it never be said of us that we lost our hearts!

Now that the allies are through juggling prime ministers and generals, maybe they can buckle down to this business of waging war.

The kiss, say the psychologists, is not a natural caress. Can't he man has at last found a way to improve upon nature?

Politics is defined as the science of government, but it takes a seance to figure out the next moves of the game.

Think twice before you speak, caution our elders, unaware that such action is what brought on the epidemic of double talk.

Fifth Column To Be Discussed At Legion Convention

SWEETWATER, Tex.—Aroused public interest in reported subversive and "fifth column" activities and growing seriousness of the European war situation are expected to attract an unusually large attendance at the 17th District American Legion convention in Abilene this Saturday and Sunday. It has been announced here by George D. Barber, district Legion commander.

Recently Commander Barber wired President Roosevelt that the 1,800 Legionnaires of the 17th congressional district are ready and willing to co-operate in combatting un-American activities in this section of West Texas. This subject is to be discussed thoroughly and the policy of American Legion posts in the district is likely to be determined at the Abilene convention.

Joe Burton of Albany has been named chairman of the resolutions committee for the meeting and Allie O'Bar of Abilene is to head the credentials committee. T. N. Carwell of Abilene is to serve as convention adjutant.

Vacancy in the office of district vice commander is to be filled at the business session Sunday afternoon and a delegate and an alternate to the National convention at Boston in September are to be elected.

Engineering Meet To Stress Safety

AUSTIN, Tex.—To put a stop to mounting highway fatalities, University of Texas engineers have planned the State's first conference on traffic engineering here, June 15-20.

Sponsored by the University's College of Engineering with the cooperation of the State Highway Department, the five-day parley will launch a planned attack against existing traffic hazards. J. A. Focht, professor of highway engineering, said.

State and national traffic authorities will discuss street and highway engineering, accident reporting, safety education and traffic enforcement, city planning, signs and pavement markings Focht said. Theme of the conference will be the handling of traffic in cities and on the highways.

McDonald Opens His Campaign In Eastland Address

William H. McDonald, former district clerk of Eastland County and former state land commissioner, opened his campaign for Railroad Commissioner at his home town, Eastland, Saturday night, with a statewide radio hookup.

Mayor C. W. Hoffmann of Eastland was master of ceremonies in the 30-minute broadcast. He opened the speaking with a short talk in which he praised McDonald, and then introduced Milburn McCarty, Eastland attorney and former president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. McCarty introduced McDonald.

McDonald, in his talk, stressed his experience, from the time he was in school, to the present, in giving the people of Texas an insight into his qualifications as a railroad commissioner.

Following the speaking a dance was given to the public, sponsored by the friends of the candidate. A large crowd attended both the speaking and the dance which followed.

It Pays to be an Optimist—

... The biggest optimist in town is Henry Pullman. He has said all along that the Allies would finally win. Whether his figuring is correct or not, it pays to be an optimist. Right thinking, doing things for ourselves and others, and paying our own way is not a new theory, but the old, old American way of doing things.

Locally, the program is clear and entirely possible. Paving, repairing, painting, paying our taxes and helping out the Red Cross are all direct obligations of every citizen. And a very good preparedness program, too. And buying a home is a big step in the right direction. During the next few months we may have more or less inflation of the currency, which means that money will be cheap and the things that money buys will go up. It happened in 1918—it may happen in 1940.

RED RYDER . . . . . By Fred Harman

SERIAL STORY AN EYE FOR A GAL BY HARRY HARRISON KROLL

YESTERDAY: A big league scout is coming to Lincoln to look at Rossy's pitching. Coach Hurd warns Rossy to learn to control his temper. Rossy seeks an answer to his problem. Finally talks to Dr. Tolliver, who prescribes a ride to go up into the hills with Rossy.

CHAPTER X COACH HURD'S ball team worked like horses getting into shape those bright spring days. They played an exhibition game with one of the strong high school teams in the territory, and got a taste of real competition.

Rossy, pitching, held the high school boys to four scattered hits and one run, but he hurt his arm in the last of the fifth and had to retire, after which the high school lads had good grazing. The final score was a close 7 to 6 for the collegiates. The time now was going toward the first real contest between Lincoln and Southern.

"I'm pitching you, remember," Hurd told McAfee. "You nurse that arm like it was one of the quints'lets, bub!"

"I've got it laid up in the incubator, Coach," Rossy said. THE day of the game was as clear and lovely a time in the mountain spring as anybody could ask for. The campus was vastly excited for the rumor had got out that a big league scout would be in the crowd watching the contest, and Southern and Lincoln were what sports story writers love to allude to as "traditional rivals."

The gray, potty man in easy tweeds, with narrow blue eyes with southern sandy light still in them, was Rossy knew, like Hill, the famous scout. Hurd put him in a good seat on the weathered grandstand.

The band was out in gala dress. Hannah Shrider, with the hill music in her bones, had made the band, and now she was a lean, slim, pretty girl out there in her orange-and-white regalia.

Judy Tolliver was one of the cheerleaders. All in white with bits of orange about her—the college colors—she was giving the cheer section all the personality she had.

Rossy warmed up with old man Leacock. With the hour going toward 2, the noise of warming up sank to a sudden calm. Rossy and the old coach came and sat on the bench. For the first time Rossy McAfee knew a curious sense of fear, of impending calamity. It was clairvoyant and indefinable.

"Play ball!" Rossy walked, with an increasing feeling of uncertainty, out to the mound. The cheer section

Conservation Demonstration Being Planned

Four cooperative soil conservation demonstrations are being planned in Eastland County by representatives of the Soil Conservation Service at Dublin and Elmo V. Cook, Eastland county agent, according to an announcement received from the A. & M. College Extension Service. The county agent has explained that the demonstrations include each type of farming being practiced in Eastland County and every kind of soil found in the county.

The demonstrations will include planning the farms completely for soil conservation practices by the farmer, representatives of the Soil Conservation Service, and the county agent, after which these agencies will assist the farmer in the engineering features of the plan, such as running terrace lines and pasture contour furrow lines, crop management, and pasture management. When completed, the soil conservation plans will be a "blueprint" of the entire farm's operations and will include a complete soil map of the farm.

One demonstration, including 800 acres of land, 95 of which are in cultivation and the rest in pasture, is four miles north of Rising Star on the J. B. Eberhart and Cecil Shults places. The soil on this demonstration is mostly mixed sand.

Another demonstration, the T. E. Castleberry farm, 6 miles northwest of Eastland on the Breckenridge Highway, contains 360 acres of tight land, 117 acres of which are in cultivation.

A third demonstration, the I. S. Echols stock farm, 12 miles from Eastland on the Desdemona road, includes 248 acres of cropland and 410 acres of pasture land. Echols' land is both mixed and tight.

A fourth demonstration, in the Dr. W. L. Simmons Glasses of Style and Quality! $8 - $10 and $12.50 312 South Seaman St. EASTLAND, TEXAS

The farmers whose land is included in the demonstrations recently toured the soil conservation project at Dublin with the county agent, where they saw complete soil conservation practices in operation by farmers living on the Greens Creek watershed.

County Farmers Report Soybeans Are Growing Well

Several Eastland County farmers who have planted soy beans for the first time this year have reported to the county agent that their soybeans are making satisfactory growth. The soybeans planted were varieties suitable for crushing for soybean meal and oil. They were palmetto, atksoy, and macoupin varieties. Those making experimental plantings of soybeans are K. M. Turner, J. S. Turner and L. B. Horn of Flatwood, W. E. Cooper of Rising Star, George P. Fee of Cisco, and S. E. Lemley of Gorman.

Two Morton Valley Boys Purchasing Registered Jerseys

Fobby Eugene and Billy Joe Jones of J. R. Moore of Morton Valley, have recently bought a young Jersey bull and a heifer from the Morton Brothers of Brownwood. The two animals, from outstanding parents, will be used by the two boys as a foundation herd in connection with their 4-H club work and for breeding services in the community.

The bull, Jolly Peggy's Prince, was sired by Progress Ming Toy Owl, the Superior Sire owned by Shelton Brothers that has sired ten daughters, averaging more than five hundred pounds of butterfat. His dam produced 430 pounds of butter fat in 365 days at the age of 2 years and 7 months. The heifer, Fauvic Miss Rachel, traces back on her sire's side to the medicine ruler and other outstanding sires with an average potential production of more than five hundred pounds of butterfat yearly. The heifer's dam produced 214 pounds of butter fat at the age of 2 years 5 months in 189 days.

Miss Beach Becomes Bride of Mr. Harrell

Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in a candle lit setting Miss Doris Beach, daughter of Mrs. W. L. Beach and the late Mr. Beach, became the bride of Mr. Orvel Harrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Harrell, of Eastland, with Dr. G. Alfred Brown reading the marriage vows.

The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride before an improvised altar with a pleated white satin curtain forming the background, over which hung honeysuckle runners. Seven branch floor candelabra holding pink candles stood on each side of the altar in front of which were tall floor baskets filled with pink gladioli. The base of the altar was banked with greenery.

Preceding the ceremony Mr. E. R. Priesing played Liebestraum as Miss Norma Mills, attired in a pink lace gown, lighted the altar candles. Miss Mildred Balch, accompanied by Mr. Priesing at the piano and Jack Pearsall and Charles Osteen on violins, sang, "I Love You Truly." Miss Balch wore a white silk organza dress. Mr. Priesing also played the Lohengrin and Mendelssohn wedding marches and during the wedding accompanied the violinists as they played "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life."

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Virginia Beach, who wore a mist blue silk net dress over taffeta with pink accessories and carried a bouquet of tallismen roses and sweet peas. Mr. Billie Walters of Eastland attended the groom as best man.

The bride who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Bill Beach, wore a white silk net and lace dress over satin with bands of the lace running the full length of the gown skirt. Bands of the lace also formed the girdle, neck line and bound the short puffed sleeves. Her finger tip veil of illusion hung from a halo made of rows of pleated lace with orange blossoms at each side. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. In keeping with bride's tradition she wore as her "something old" a single strand of pearls, a gift from her father to her mother. A shadow handkerchief, the gift of her aunt, was the "something new" and a borrowed and blue ribbon concealed in her bridal bouquet completed the cycle.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home. The pink and white color scheme was carried out in the dining room where the table was laid with a lace cloth over pink satin and centered with a three tiered bride's cake topped by a bride and groom and banked with sweet peas. Silver candelabra holding pink candles lighted the table. Mrs. Beach and Mrs. Harrell, mothers of the couple, presided over the cake and Mrs. A. B. Cost of Jonesboro, Ark. aunt of the bride, served punch.

Census Taking Of Colorado's Peaks Is A Vexing Job

DENVER.—Mountains, being the age and size they are, should be relatively easy to keep track of and only in rare instances are mountains seen moving.

Tolbert R. Ingram, deputy director of Colorado's planning commission, however, doesn't find such to be the case. In fact, as he puts it, "it's getting so that every time I turn around someone drags in a new mountain peak."

To add to his worries in compiling the 1940 "Who's Who" of mountains in this state, three new peaks will change their altitude this year.

"Back in 1936 we had only 1,051 high peaks, but we're getting more all the time," he said ruefully. This year's guide will list 1,077 peaks of more than 10,000 feet elevation—an increase of 13 over last year.

"There are hundreds of peaks of lesser elevation and probably many more of equal or greater altitude which have been officially named," he said.

New surveys cause changes in elevation. For example, Mount Massive, the second highest peak in the state, will jump from 14,410 feet to 14,418 this year.

The state's highest peak is Mount Elbert, which at present has an elevation of 14,431 feet.

The fact that Colorado has 49 peaks that tower more than 14,000 feet, whereas Switzerland has only eight, has caused some native sons to contend that instead of calling Colorado "the Switzerland of America," Switzerland should be called "the Colorado of Europe."

Colorado, these same boosters point out, the elevation of the area below 5,000 feet during the thirdly between 300 years ago.

Best known is the demand of the state's peaks in the region of the Rockies.

It became known as "discovery" when Thomas Jefferson, Louisiana Purchase Pike's Peak region part.

However, it has mark since the days who visited New southern Colorado 400 years this month. Its height sized because it is in the of the Rockies.
