

RUSSIA SAYS NAZIS ARE GETTING NOWHERE WITH AIR INVASION

By J. W. T. MASON
United Press War Expert
The Russian government, which has shown a consistently realistic capacity for judgment during the present war, allows its newspapers to declare that Germany is getting nowhere in attacking Britain from the air.

If Italy and Germany had the necessary striking power, a double offensive against Egypt and Suez could be attempted. Italy might move eastward through North Africa while Germany and Italy together might strike through Greece to Turkey, then turn southward toward Palestine hoping to approach Suez and Egypt by a westward drive.

Interest Growing In Congressional And Senate Races

Omar Burleson, run-off candidate for the State Senate of the 24th District of Texas, says that much interest is manifested in the two most important run-off campaigns, namely, the congressional and senatorial races.

Judge Burleson is now completing his third term as County Judge of Jones county, having served as County Attorney prior to his election as County Judge. His activities have not been confined alone to his community but has included State-wide proportions.

Until Rumania's territorial troubles with Bulgaria and Hungary are settled, it would seem foolhardy for Hitler to undertake new commitments. Once that problem is out of the way, it is possible Hitler will turn his attention to the Balkans and Asia Minor or Egypt in conjunction with Mussolini.

Nearly 10,000 buyers attended a fall and winter fashion market here that closed this week. Buying was reported brisk and quality probably a little better than in previous years, Benson said.

Five cars joined the tour at Putnam, several at Baird, and 25 or more both at Abilene and Sweetwater.

Garrett's speeches at Abilene and Sweetwater were both broadcast over the local stations. Other cities included for the afternoon trip were Roby, Anson, Stamford and Albany.

TRAINING FOR GUARDSMEN IS UP TO SENATE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The House of Representatives today approved a conference report on a bill authorizing President Roosevelt to call out the National Guard and Reserves for one year of duty and training, anywhere in the Western Hemisphere.

The report still must be approved by the senate and the president, but its passage is expected.

There are 242,000 guardsmen and reserves in service now in the United States, but those with dependent wives or children can resign within 20 days, under provisions in the measure.

Gen. George Marshall, chief of staff, reported that sufficient equipment is available to begin training of conscripts under the new draft bill, which is now being debated in the senate. Only 400,000 men are scheduled to be taken in the first draft, he said, and rifles and other light equipment for 3,000,000 men is now on hand.

New Federal Law On Duck Hunting Amply Justified

NEW YORK.—Secretary of the Interior Ickes' modification of federal duck hunting laws for next fall is amply justified by the continued increase of the waterfowl and from the standpoint of better law enforcement, according to President John C. Huntington, of the More Game Birds Foundation.

The federal hunting law changes, just approved by President Roosevelt, lengthen the waterfowl hunting season in all states from 45 to 60 days and permit shooting to begin at sunrise instead of 7 A. M., as formerly.

"While other changes might have been made without increasing the take by hunters, the modifications are conservative and warranted by the need for more equitable regulations than have prevailed in the past," Huntington states.

"It is one thing to make regulations and another to enforce them—particularly with only a few score federal game wardens to patrol the entire United States. For real enforcement, dependence must be placed upon cooperation of state game warden forces. But this cannot be expected under the inequalities of hunting opportunities previously accorded the states by federal authorities, Foundation studies show.

"During the shorter, 45-day season of last fall, mild weather in the north delayed the southward migration of waterfowl. Hence, little duck hunting was available until the last few days of the legal shooting period. While other states benefited, the untimeliness of the short season fostered disrespect for federal regulations in general, encouraged illegal after-season hunting and discouraged enforcement in the states concerned.

"While pressure groups opposed to hunting continually agitate for more restrictions on the recreation of some 7,000,000 sportsmen, their ill-advised efforts often tend to defeat the purpose of sound conservation by actually increasing the illegal take of the very species which need conserving most.

"Experience under the late liquor prohibition law are good examples of what can happen under too radical conservation laws," Huntington points out.

GERMANS FIRE BIG GUNS AT A CONVOY TODAY

Long-range German guns fired at ships in the English Channel today, apparently without effect, as their 20-mile range appeared to be bad. After the artillery attack Nazi planes took to the air and attacked the convoy, again without result. Two of the German dive bombers were shot down off the coast of Dover, the British reported after the attacks.

Germans, however, claimed that their long-range guns were merely "practicing" in maneuvers at Calais. The Germans also claimed that their other squadrons of air bombers had seriously damaged munitions plants and airfields in the midlands of England.

Tension increased in the Greek-Italian disputes, and the British offered Greece air and naval aid if their country is invaded by the Italians. Italy reported that a British submarine has been sunk and a destroyer and two cruisers damaged by Fascist attacks in the Mediterranean lately.

Mexican Officials Believe Trotsky's Death Was Ordered

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 22.—Mexican police officials today believed that Leon Trotsky, exiled Russian communist leader, was killed under orders from Moscow and Trotsky, himself, said on his deathbed that the blow was probably ordered by the OGPU or by Fascists.

The Belgian-American, who hit him over the head with a pick axe, was being held in the jail hospital, suffering with head wounds. Funeral services for Mrs. Vivian Matthews of Ranger, who died at the home of a sister, Mrs. W. M. Summers, 508 Elm Street, Ranger, Thursday morning at 6:30, will be conducted from the First Baptist Church of Ranger Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

Ranger Woman Will Be Buried Friday

Killingsworth's is in charge of arrangements. Mrs. Matthews had long been a resident of Ranger, and had been in ill health for the past eight months.

Boys and Girls Are Warned About Bicycles on Streets

City Manager M. H. Kelly has issued an appeal to parents of boys and girls, who ride bicycles on the streets, in which he urges that these boys and girls be warned that it is very dangerous for them to do this.

A great many boys and girls ride bicycles on the streets, often at night and without lights, the city manager said, and there have been several accidents, fortunately no fatal or serious ones, but one can never tell when one will prove fatal.

4-H Club Girls To Have Frame Garden

The 4-H Club girls of Eastland County are planning to conduct a frame garden demonstration for the year 1940-41. Each girl will make and care for a frame garden for her family. For the past two years the girls have been having a poultry demonstration for food supply for their family. The committee is certain that the frame garden demonstration will prove as worthwhile as the poultry demonstration was the past two years.

Bedroom work will continue next year. This year the girls centered their study around getting their bed up to standard. Next year the girls will study the rest of the bedroom and improve that part.

KEEP THE RECORD STRAIGHT

Since July 27, I have seen no part whatever in the Congressional Record. I would like to know how had Garrett let me alone. Although he is a master mudslinger, none of Garrett's opponents did any up-bling or criticized him personally. His public record was fairly and truthfully presented in "The Albany News on June 27. He had a whole month preceding the primary to check it with the record. He did not, and could not, deny any statement in it.

In the Sweetwater Reporter Sunday, August 11, 1940, appears what purports to be a Washington news item, undated, headed "Garrett Frazed For Work on Defense Plans," followed by such exaggerations as "for his outstanding work in the passage of the defense program," and "on the floor of the House this week," and that

Eastland, Texas,

"the tributes following a stirring speech made on the floor by Representative Garrett Wednesday," and that "Garrett left Washington today." The said article is misleading and deceptive. It was sent out by the Associated Press, or the United Press, or the Universal service, or the International News Service, or any other news agency reporting from Washington, but was a political advertisement prepared by Garrett's office and published in the newspapers of this district for political purposes.

Preceding the recent primary, Garrett had never made a speech in the House. He has never yet made a fight for anything. He has never yet made a fight against anything.

On July 31, 1940, four days after the primary, the Defense Bill was debated and passed in the House. Garrett did not attend any of the committee hearings. He had nothing whatever to do with the preparation of the bill. He took no part whatever in the extensive debate on the bill. After the bill had passed by practically a unanimous vote (page 14847) and the House was about ready to adjourn and there was nothing before the House to debate, Garrett asked for 10 minutes to make a political speech. He made a political speech of 10 minutes, to use in this runoff. He is now flooding this district with reprints of it, sent under his frank without postage, at the people's expense. It was not in debate. There was nothing before the House. The House had already done its work and was ready to adjourn. See pages 14848 and 14849. Thus his 10 minutes "stirring speech" on a bill already passed unanimously was laughable.

Naturally, three of the great "Spenders" in the House tried to help him with eulogy. Garrett had cooperated with them by "sitting at their feet" and not opposing their spending measures; by letting them increase the stationery allowance from $125 to $200 per session for each member, by letting them increase the allowance from $5,000 to $6,500 per year to each member for clerks, and by letting all members pass their private claims. He was valuable to the "Spenders" because he had been "content to sit at their feet."

Garrett won't deny that he went to the Capitol Theatre vaudeville show on Sunday night, June 2, 1940; and that I refused to use a flashlight picture taken of him when he came out that Sunday night, because I believe that he and every other person has the right to decide for themselves what they shall do on Sunday, and Garrett won't deny that I refused to use a statement he made in the House barbershop that he "was afraid to come home because he was afraid his constituents would criticize him." He won't deny that he has missed numerous roll calls specified in said Albany News. He won't deny that for the $40,000 salary, $4,168.80 mileage, $975 for stationery and $21,500 for clerks, paid him by the people, he has not yet even made in the House one fight for anything or one fight against anything. On Monday, August 5, 1940, Garrett missed three important roll calls, two being votes on measures President Roosevelt had vetoed. Again he missed three roll calls on Aug. 12, three roll calls on August 13, and two roll calls on August 15, 1940. He isn't "on the job" now, but is putting his own interests above that of his constituents.

36,000 men and women voted against Garrett on July 27. They were dissatisfied, and want a change.

If Garrett will keep within the record and not bring me into this run-off, I will take no part whatever in it, but he must not attack me or misrepresent the record.

BIMELECH is Col. Edward Riley Bradley's horse to do with, as he pleases, but his removing Frank Smith in favor of Basil James in the American Derby strikes me as being "air."

This desperate effort to get something more out of an inconsistent colt is a reflection on Smith. It took Colonel Bradley and his veteran trainer, Bill Hurley, a long time to find out that the little Cuban did not rate Bimelech properly.

Smith was good enough to keep Bimelech unbeaten in his 2-year-old year . . . to close out the season so full of run that Colonel Bradley challenged Bill Brann to send the mighty Challenge against the last son of Black Toney in a weight-for-age race. Smith was severely criticized when Carroll Bierman sneaked Gallowhaddon through on the rail to bag the Kentucky Derby. The answer to that one is that Smith had Bimelech in front at the head of the stretch, and couldn't very well get off and carry him in.

INASMUCH as Bimelech was bred to be a sprinter, the trick with the Biblically-named colt is to conserve him while he is on top. Smith held him together well and long enough to win the mile-and-a-half Belmont Stakes.

An inept jockey could not have done that. The art of guiding the blood horse changes little through the years. The boy must get his horse away. He must have a good seat and hands. He must let his steed have his head at a natural angle . . . accurately judge pace, avoid being cut off, jostled or brushed, and be on the alert lest he go up on the heels of a runner another reinsman is taking back. He must use the whip judiciously.

SMITH knows race riding as well as Basil James or any other jockey, and it is pretty harsh at this stage to indicate through dismissal that he does not react as rapidly as some others.

I don't know just what errors Colonel Bradley and Hurley suspect Smith made, but a good rider should not be picked to pieces, let alone kicked off a thoroughbred, for an occasional mistake on an oval with sharp turns. A jockey is only human. The best of them blunder.

I doubt that any of Smith's "bad" rides would have been noticed had not Bimelech been so widely ballyhooed in the spring. Bimelech was twice beaten so far that the finest of rides would not have saved him.

The unseating of Frank Smith appears to be just another excuse for a dishonest horse.

VOTE FOR CULBERSON SATURDAY—

Olin Culberson's opponent was disapproved by Governor in 1938 and has been defeated twice for other State offices.

The Governor has not changed his mind and assured he will not endorse anyone.

Texans are interested in Olin Culberson being elected Railroad Commissioner. His experience, qualifications, honesty and services to the public justifies this promotion. Culberson has no dealings with political influence peddlers, contact men and fixers. Mr. Culberson was the leading candidate in the primary because the people believe he can help restore our lost agriculture and oil markets that affects everyone. Olin Culberson will get us lower gas rates that will save us money, cause industrialization and make jobs for Texans. Culberson wants Texas to benefit and get revenue now from our natural gas before it is exhausted or piped away and sold cheaper elsewhere.

PEANUT PRICE SCHEDULE IS MADE PUBLIC

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The Surplus Marketing Administration today announced a price schedule for surplus peanuts which will be diverted to oil manufacturers.

A similar program was undertaken last year. The SMA pays associations of peanut growers an amount equalling the difference between the prices the associations pay to growers, and the prices they obtain from selling peanuts to oil manufacturers.

Following are the prices per ton that regional associations are authorized to pay growers:

Virginia: U. S. No. 1, Class A, $70; Class B, $66; Class C, $61; No. 2, Class A, $67; Class B, $63; Class C, $57; No. 3, Class A, $65; Class B, $61; Class C, $56.

Southeastern Spanish: U. S. No. 1, $65; No. 2, $61; No. 3, $56.

Runners: U. S. No. 1, $57; No. 2, $53; No. 3, $48.

Southwestern Spanish: U. S. No. 1, $64; No. 2, $60; No. 3, $55.

Prices scheduled for Southwestern Spanish were increased $1 a ton over last year, but other prices remain the same.

The administration said that since reasonable prices for peanuts depend upon a satisfactory adjustment of production to market requirements, means must be found to reduce peanut acreage before the 1941 crop is planted. Conferences will be held with peanut growers soon to consider coordination of acreage and diversion.

Season Opens For The Kissing Bug

EAST LANSING, Mich.—With the romantic nights of August and September comes the kissing bug.

Or so, the Michigan State College entomology department reports. However, not so romantic are the kissing bugs' kisses, for they usually strike at the lips, causing a painful swelling.

Also known as the "assassin bug," black corsair or big bedbug, the "kisser" is about a half-inch long, is black and has a beak that it uses to strike at human flesh.

Professors at the college say it usually arrives with the hot weather and stays until frost. Light attracts it and it will fly into a house at night and strike quickly at persons sitting in the light of a lamp.

How to kill the kissing bug? The erudite entomology men say: "Just swat him!"

SERIAL STORY MURDER INCOGNITO

BY NORMAN KAHL

COPYRIGHT, 1940. NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY Hazel Leighton explains that she intended to "go" Saylor through a breach of promise suit or a marriage settlement. "But the lawyer found out about our scheme and her plan to marry another man, tricked her into a confession and offered to pay her $5000. Mardell admits Saylor intended to brand him as a 'cow' chief." At Mardell's O'Leary is surprised to find doors opening by electric eyes. Rhoda Waters has just left when the officers arrive at her apartment.

bags taken off the ship. She won't be traveling with you." Rhoda's eyes flashed fury and her lovely features reflected the anger in her heart. "How dare you! I'm not a criminal. You can't order me around like this. I haven't done anything."

"Why were you leaving, Miss Waters?" the lieutenant inquired calmly.

He sauntered over to the window and looked out. Idly his fingers probed the small catch that was still unlocked as it had been the night before. He turned away from the window and started momentarily when he saw another figure across the room. It was his own reflection in the mirror directly across.

CHAPTER X

WITH O'Leary dragging him by the arm, Carroll reached the hot street and entered the police car. O'Leary leaped into the seat beside him.

"That's none of your business. I can go as I please. You've got your murderer. What more do you want? Let me go. I intend to take that plane."

There was something about the arrangement of the books in the room that bespoke Saylor's character—his insistence upon order and organization. Each book was lined up perfectly, indicated about two inches from the edge of the shelf. Sets of law books were arranged by numbers, and miscellaneous volumes were all carefully placed in alphabetical order.

"What's the idea, Chief?" Carroll asked.

"Sergeant, if you were a girl on the lam, how would you get out of town in a hurry?"

"I know how you feel, Miss Waters, and I'm sorry. But you'd better stay voluntarily. Otherwise—"

The girl looked appealingly at the lieutenant and then a freshet of tears rolled gently down from the corners of her eyes. "I just wanted to get away. I couldn't stand it any longer. Dale knew I was going. He was going to meet me in New York in a few days. We were going to get married."

In the cases between the fireplace and the window, O'Leary discovered two books transposed. The entire shelf contained state supreme court decisions. Volume 1915 had somehow got squeezed between 1916 and 1917 and was jutting out about an inch farther than the others. O'Leary started instinctively to replace the heavy volume to its rightful position when he stopped.

"Maybe nowhere yet," O'Leary glanced at his watch. "Twenty minutes to 2. There's a plane for New York at 2. My hunch is that Rhoda Waters is planning to take it."

She sat down on one of the long benches. From her large, handkerchief and dabbed at her tears. Then she opened a tiny make-up kit and patched up the tear-splattered rouge. "I'll go back," she said.

"That's strange," he muttered to himself. "I wonder—"

And then, suddenly, the lieutenant stiffened. He walked swiftly to Saylor's desk and pressed a button. Willows, the butler, appeared presently.

"THE 2 o'clock plane for New York was waiting at the passenger gate with its giant engines rumbling in monotonous melody when Carroll slid the car in front of the administration building at the airport. O'Leary bounded up to the ticket desk and produced his badge.

"I'm really very sorry it has to be like this. Murders are always disagreeable though . . . for everyone. Come on, we'll take you back."

"Tell the housekeeper I want to see her—in here," O'Leary ordered.

"Have you a Miss Rhoda Waters on that plane out there?" he demanded. An efficient official hastily consulted a chart and nodded.

DALE APPELBY was surprised to find O'Leary and Carroll waiting for him in the study when he came downstairs. There was a spring in the young man's step, a lilt in his voice.

LIEUTENANT O'LEARY was still peering abstractedly into the bookcases when Dale Appleby and Sergeant Carroll returned to the room half an hour later. For several seconds he appeared not to have detected their presence. Then he turned slowly.

"She bought a ticket a little while ago. She wouldn't have got it except that someone else canceled his reservation at the last minute."

"We wanted to look around once more," said O'Leary. "The place is yours. Look around all you like. If there's anything I can do to help—"

"That's all right," he said. "I'll have to trouble you once more. I want to use this room tonight, and I'd like to have everyone here—say at 8:30. Will you call them, please? Those who were here last night. And I'll want the servants on hand."

Sergeant Carroll wiped his moist forehead with his handkerchief as he and O'Leary waited in the passenger room. In a few minutes, a stewardess came in with Rhoda Waters. Rhoda looked around curiously, and when her eyes fell on the officers, red dashed involuntarily in her cheeks.

"You can go over the whole story again, if you don't mind," O'Leary suggested. "We want to be sure everything is straight. You can tell Sergeant Carroll all about it—in the drawing room, if you will. I'd like to look around this place once more."

Appleby looked startled. "Of course, Lieutenant, but—"

"Just a little idea of mine," O'Leary said brusquely.

For an instant, it appeared she intended to flee. Then she composed herself and walked over to where the detectives were standing. "Did you send for me?" she asked.

When Lieutenant O'Leary was alone, he stood for a moment in the center of the broad room, and little frowns creased his brow unevenly. He looked about the room, as if grasping for something tangible—something that would give a key to the sinister mystery of Martin Saylor's violent death.

The lieutenant thrust his hands deep into his coat pockets and teetered on his toes. "Sergeant, this may be a very interesting evening. I believe I know who murdered Martin Saylor—and how it was done."

Specialist Gives Hints on Cooking Fresh Vegetables

COLLEGE STATION, Aug. 15.—Corn-on-the-cob, blackeye peas, fresh tomatoes, with young onions and cornbread make as good a meal as anyone could want. This is typically seasonal food, and in many sections of the state it is available in home gardens or from nearby farms at low cost.

As good as corn-on-the-cob and peas can be, some cooks don't do them justice, in the opinion of Nora Ellen Elliott, specialist in food preparation for the A. and M. College Extension Service. For instance, most vegetables are best prepared and used as soon as possible after they reach the home kitchen. Peas and corn, especially, lose much of their flavor after standing only a short time.

For corn, remove the husks just before cooking. Plunge the ears into boiling water and cook from 6 to 12 minutes depending on the age of the corn. Do not salt the cooking water as this toughens the corn.

Peas should be cooked in a little water as possible just until tender—then serve simply with butter or some other well-flavored fat and light seasonings. If the vegetables are not to be cooked at once, store them in a covered dish in a cool place so as to keep crisp, Miss Elliott advises.

With so many vegetables to choose from, it is easy to plan an entire meal around them. For a vegetable plate the specialist suggests fresh peas for the bright green color, roasting ears, and plump red tomatoes to broil or bake. Where hot weather has not yet been harmful or frame gardens are in production beets and carrots are plentiful and tender young salad greens are available. Other vegetable plate selections might include snap beans, lima beans and yellow squash.

Textile Work On Fibers Is Tested

DETROIT.—National research leaders in the textile industry met here early next month to discuss the opportunities and hazards new developments in the industry have created for manufacturers.

The symposium, which will be directed by Dr. Gustavus J. Esselen of Boston, will deal with "new textile fibers, fabric and finishes" and will be held in conjunction with the 100th meeting of the American Chemical Society, Sept. 9-13.

Dr. Esselen said 10 prominent authorities in the research field will give addresses on the program, which will include varied topics.

"Synthesis and a variety of chemical treatments of natural fibers provide an increasing number of valuable raw materials for the weaver and knitter of garments. Electricity produces new pile fabrics for dresses and upholstery. Glass has become a textile fiber of promise since its brittleness has been nullified by its conversion of infinitesimally fine fibers. Milk and soybeans supply new protein fibers. Chemical manufacture converts plentiful raw materials into new fibers of amazing usefulness and beauty. Synthetic resins function as permanent finishes which add to the value of combed goods and fibers.

Wife Hooks Tarpon Husband Lands It

By United Press

MOBILE, Ala.—Here's a woman fisherman who hooked a 112-pound tarpon—and gives all the credit to her husband!

Mrs. Eugene Hall was fishing from the wharf in Dog River. Suddenly, a strike.

"He almost pulled me overboard," she said.

Her husband jumped into a skiff, played the big silver king for an hour, and finally landed it.

"He gets all the credit," she says modestly. "All I did was to get excited when I found I had such a big fish on my tiny line."

DAY OR NIGHT AMBULANCE SERVICE

QUALIFIED BY EDUCATION AND EXPERIENCE

TO THE CITIZENS OF EASTLAND COUNTY:

In the closing hours of this campaign I again wish to thank you for the vote you gave me in the July Primary. I am very grateful indeed.

The official returns show the following results:

W. S. Adamson	3011 Votes
Nearest Opponent	1454 Votes

Lead over nearest opponent 1557 Votes

I received approximately 40% of the vote cast and led the ticket in twenty-two boxes in the County.

I am not saying this boastfully, but that you may know what the people of Eastland County think of your County Judge.

As County Judge it has been my policy, and I have tried, to assist the old people in securing Old Age Assistance, and I doubt if anyone has been more assistance to them than I. It has always been my desire that they receive the maximum amount they are entitled to under the law.

No one has done more to help those who are certified for W.P.A. work in securing work than your County Judge, and I have cooperated with the Commissioners' Court in every way in trying to keep work projects going so that our citizens may be employed.

As Presiding Officer of the Commissioners' Court I have always cooperated with and assisted them in handling the finances and business of the County and, being a lawyer, have advised them as to legal questions that continually arise before that body, and since I have been your County Judge it has not been necessary for the Commissioners' Court to employ attorneys for opinions upon legal questions coming before it.

The County Judge, to properly discharge the duties of Presiding Officer over the Commissioners' Court and advising them as to legal matters and presiding as County Judge in the trial of civil and criminal cases, should be a lawyer.

By sponsoring the various W.P.A. projects we have provided employment for our unemployed citizens and the Federal Government has expended over $400,000 annually in Eastland County.

We have reduced the tax rate twenty cents on the One Hundred Dollar valuation, saving the tax payers of Eastland County $40,000.00.

We are now installing the Food Stamp Plan which will mean that those receiving Old Age Assistance and those who are on the W.P.A. rolls will receive 50% more food for their money than heretofore.

I have tried to conduct my campaign in a clean, Christianlike manner, and am running strictly upon my own merits and upon my record.

I do not have a deputy to look after my office when I am away and on account of the heavy business that is necessary to be taken care of it has been impossible for me to see each one of you personally, and in this my last appeal to you I want you to know that no one will appreciate your vote and support in Saturday's Election more than I.

Very sincerely,
W. S. ADAMSON

to encroach upon the American way of life. To preserve the importance of the Supreme Court, the best qualified justices must be elected to the court."

Judge Alexander, an Associate Justice of the 10th Court of Civil Appeals at Waco for almost 10 years, is a candidate for Chief Justice of the Texas Supreme Court in the Aug. 24 primary.

As for his qualifications for the position of Chief Justice, Judge Alexander's supporters cite the recommendations of the bar of his home county of McLennan, which in a resolution has indorsed him as "eminently qualified."

"We commend Judge Alexander as one thoroughly qualified from the standpoint of good character, outstanding intellect, legal education, and experience to serve as Chief Justice, and will full confidence that he has sufficient courage to declare the law as he may find it to be," the resolution said.

Judge Alexander has a record of 14 years as a practicing attorney, 18 years a judge, almost 10 years of which he has been on the Court of Appeals, and as a professor of law for 20 years at Baylor University.

Nine Day Sale Of Tires Is An Aid To Safety Driving

Announced this week nationally by Goodyear dealers in every city and town is an unusual tire merchandising event centering around the product of a large manufacturer, in the opinion of Mr. C. T. Lucas, local dealer, who says that for nine days, starting August 22, Goodyear G-3, All-Weather Tread tires are being offered at new, low prices in an out-of-the-ordinary type plan.

"Few people need an introduction to the tire, which for years has been used by thousands, appeared as original equipment on many cars and has wide acceptance among car owners, who for years have been familiar with its attractive qualities and long wearing abilities," Lucas said. "That's why this opportunity is all the more interesting to motorists."

Asked about the price on a 6.00 16, the size tire which 70 per cent of the cars in service now use, Lucas said this would be $9.99 for the nine days of the sale, adding that it would be the only time this year the tire would be sold at that figure.

Pressed for a reason as to why the tires were being offered at the price, Lucas said: "All of the G-3 All-Weather tires are affected during the sale, with prices varying from $9.99,

Although State Ticket Is Short There Are Many Runoffs In District Races

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, Tex.—While there were but two state-wide political races requiring a run-off Democratic primary election, run-off contests for numerous district offices will be settled in the Aug. 24 primary.

The official canvass of the returns calls for further voting for two congressmen; two civil appeals court judges; nine state senators; five district judges; 11 district attorneys, and for 72 seats in the Texas house of representatives.

The run-offs in representative races leaves the make-up of the house with only three more than half of the places settled by the first Democratic primary.

Many former legislators are seeking to return to the house of representatives.

Fred (Red) Harris, who was one of Dallas' representatives in the 44th and 45th legislatures was nominated for member of the 47th legislature, without a run-off.

J. O. Smith, Elgin editor, is another ex-member who will be back.

The name of Former Sen. H. Grady Woodruff of Decatur was certified by the State Democratic Executive Committee for a run-off with Clinton Kersey of the house, but Kersey said Woodruff has withdrawn.

In the first district (Bowie County), the Rev. Jasper N. Reed of Texarkana, a former representative, is in the run-off with Rep. Joseph White, Jr., of New Boston.

In Dallas, former Rep. Sam Hanna is competing with Rep. L. C. McDaniel.

Former Rep. Jap Lucas of Athens seeks to come back to the house and has a run-off with Rep. James C. Spencer, also of Athens.

Former Rep. Pat Jefferson, later secretary to Mayor Maury Maverick of San Antonio, is in a house run-off election.

Gaston Palmer of Normangee, member of the 43rd, 44th and 45th legislatures seeks to return to the house and has a run-off with Roger A. Knight of Madisonville.

Former Rep. L. W. (Pete) Harris of Whitney is contesting with Frank B. McDonald of Hillsboro for a house seat.

In the 81st district composed of Caldwell and Hays counties two former house members are in run-off races. The district has two places. Former Rep. Arthur C. Riddle of Lockhart seeks place one and former Rep. E. J. Cleveland of Buda is running in place two.

E. E. Hunter of Cleburne, as a member of the 43rd legislature was a severe critic of state agricultural commissioner J. E. McDonald. He is in a run-off election for the next house.

A famous name in early sessions of the Texas legislature and in congress will go on the house roll call if Roger Q. Mills of Wichita Falls wins a run-off race in the 112th district. A. H. King of Throckmorton, a Ferguson leader in earlier legislatures, is a run-off candidate in the 113th district.

There may be three women members of the house.

Mrs. Nevelle H. Colson of Navasota won re-election to the house in the first primary. Miss Elizabeth Suiter is in a run-off with Rep. W. J. Bailey of Willsboro. Miss Rae Files is competing with Rep. J. F. Faulkner of Waxahatchie.

In the 126th florial district Joe W. (Cooncreek) Gandy and J. M. (Johnnie) Biggerstaff are competitors. Gandy is from Willsboro and Biggerstaff from Sulphur Springs.

It is a safe prediction that Roi Blake of Jasper will be the house member whose name is misspelled most frequently, if he wins in a run-off election from N. O. Burnaman of Newton.

3,000 BAIRD VOTERS HEAR SAM RUSSELL

Huge Crowd From Callahan and Surrounding Counties Cheer His Campaign Speech.

BAIRD, Aug. 20.—Largest political crowd of the season—estimated at 3,000—gathered on the east lawn of the Callahan county courthouse Monday night to hear Judge Sam Russell of Stephenville present his candidacy to the voters of Callahan county. Russell is seeking election to the office of congressman of this, the 17th district, now held by Clyde L. Garrett of Eastland. Garrett is serving, his second term, having been elected once without opposition.

Hai Collins' Crazy Gang of Mineral Wells, which includes Jack Amlung and his orchestra and Sugar Cane and February, noted blackface team, was present and rendered a 45 minute program.

Collins introduced Russell as a man of courage and character, stating that he had known him since boyhood. He urged his listeners to vote for Russell for congress and assured them that they would never regret it if they did so.

Collins explained that he nor any member of the Crazy Gang were being paid for the performance. "We have always felt that one should take a stand on important matters of this kind and because we believe Sam Russell is the best man for congressman from this district, we are here to do what we can for him." Collins also stated that another reason for them being in Baird was to meet their many radio listeners and to give them a chance to meet the Crazy Gang.

Russell discussed his platform only briefly, stating, "You have all read my platform and you know my stand on most questions therefore I am not going to take up your time discussing it." He did refer briefly to the old age pension question, which he said was nothing more than something justly due the old pioneers of this country who came here, drove the marauding Indians out and converted this into the country we are now enjoying.

The candidate also stated that he had begun preaching preparedness and making preparations to better serve his people while he was a soldier in France during the World War.

Collins, in his introduction of

Russell, stated that Russell had not and would not engage in anything but a clean campaign. Russell made no reference to his opponent by name and only referred to him as an opponent when he states "I carried each of the 34 boxes in my home county and got 57 per cent of the total votes cast there in the first primary, while my opponent lost four of the boxes in his home county, two of which I carried, and only received 57 per cent of the total vote cast there."

The huge crowd, which included many from Taylor, Jones and Eastland counties, frequently applauded the speaker and was very attentive throughout the entire program.

Russell speaks tonight (Tuesday) in Ranger, Wednesday is at this time open, while Thursday night he will appear with the Crazy Gang at Albany. The Crazy Gang will also be at Ranger.

Friday night Russell will be in Stephenville for a district-wide rally. His speech there will be broadcast over KPFL, Dublin radio station.

Motors Tilted Up For Quick Takeoff

By United Press
SEATTLE, Wash.—An airplane which can take off almost vertically is the brain-child of Victor M. David of Vancouver, B. C.

He has developed a model airplane based on an invention which will enable small private or military planes to take off almost vertically.

David disclosed that he turned the trick with adjustable engine mounts, permitting the pilot to swing the motors upward at a 25-degree angle. He reported the idea effected an 80 per cent faster take-off with a 6-foot, three-engined model plane.

Greedy Heron Is Rescued From Bite He Couldn't Swallow

By United Press
BRIDGEWATER, Mass.—A heron almost choked on a herring but two women removed the fish and saved the bird's life.

Miss Emma Hermann and Miss Julia C. Carter found the straggling heron standing near the shore of Carver's Pond. They saw the tail of a full-sized herring sticking from its beak. Folding a paper over the fish tail, one woman removed the fish while the other held the bird.

New Idea Succeeds, Toll Gate Crashed

SEATTLE, Wash.—Page One-eyed Connolly to hear about the exploit of John Nacey, who wanted to "crash" the Lake Washington bridge toll-gate.

An automobile approached the toll-gate, with Nacey "playing dead" on a stretcher in the vehicle.

"We don't have to pay for the corpse, do we?" asked the driver. "He's on his way to a funeral home."

Startled, the attendant waved the "funeral party" through the gate. A safe distance from the gate, the "corpse" sat up.
