SLACKERS MAY FIND MARRIAGE NO BARGAIN

By PAUL H. KING
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Lukewarm Romeos, seeking to escape conscription through marriage, take warning!

A "fate" worse than the army awaits some of you.

At least, that's the opinion of married congressmen who are disturbed by the increase in what they describe as "slacker marriages."

But they concede there is nothing to do about it except to let "a just retribution overtake these young men in the end."

Legislate against marriage? You might as well legislate against the rain and sun, they say. Then, too, that would be unfair to hundreds who are marrying for love. (Yes, even the lawmakers admit that love has something to do with most marriages.)

A survey of congressmen disclosed that they have decided to leave suddenly alter-bound romances to their own fate. They predict rough going for most of them in matrimony since "many would make bad choices of mates, anyway."

General congressional reaction was similar to that of Rep. Chas. I. Faddis, D., Pa., married, a father of four children, a Colonel in the Army Reserves and a member of the house committee that acted on the Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill.

"These kinds of marriages—and they really are draft-dodge marriages—are bound to end up bad," Faddis said. "The cards are against their success."

Faddis and Rep. James W. Wadsworth, R., N. Y., co-author of the conscription bill, thought it was "up to the ladies" to prevent "slacker-marriages." Faddis believed that both the bride and groom who marry to escape the draft will "pay and pay in the final analysis."

"Any woman who would marry a man knowing that he was doing so to dodge the draft, probably would not make the best wife in the world," Faddis said. "It seems to me that only our ladies can prevent these gentlemen from walking to the altar and escaping the draft."

Quotas Set for Eastland County Red Cross Work

Eastland County American Red Cross Officials met Wednesday morning in the home of Mrs. E. Roy Townsend, chairman of War Relief Production for the County, for the purpose of going over the organizations work for the immediate future in helping to secure supplies for the Red Cross.

The Eastland county chapter accepted the responsibility of furnishing the following quotas:

Men and women's sweaters, 30 each; 50 children's sweaters; 25 women's dresses; 75 girls' dresses; 25 layettes; 30 boys' shirts 20 operating gowns; 15 hospital pajamas.

Mrs. Townsend stated that it will be necessary that many women do much hard work in order to get these garments ready for delivery on December 1, next, the time they are required. She hopes to place orders for the dresses in groups of five with the different church societies.

Anyone willing to knit a sweater should telephone Mrs. Curtis Hertig, chairman of the knitting department, telephone No. 710-W, or Mrs. Townsend, telephone No. 269.

Judge W. P. Leslie, president of the Eastland club, presided and introduced the speaker. Visitors at the Monday meeting were: J. C. Terry, Rotarian from Abilene, and Judge Clyde Grisom of Eastland.

Rev. J. B. Blunk will have charge of the program for next week's meeting.

R. A. F.'s Counter-Punches

Britain's doughty little R. A. F. hasn't been taking Nazi bombings of England lying down. Time and again it has carried the attack to German soil, replied to Nazis in kind. Above, a prelude to such fights, R. A. F. pilots make a last-minute checkup of objectives.

ARNOLD KIRK SHOT EARLY THURSDAY IN HOTEL IN EASTLAND

To Demonstrate Tree Killing By Use of Poison

Three demonstrations of killing undesirable trees with poison have been announced by Elmo V. Cook, County Agent, for next Monday and Tuesday. At 2 p. m. Monday, September 16, a demonstration will be held on the L. M. Cawley farm, 5 miles southwest of Carbon near Long Branch; at 9 a. m. Tuesday, September 17 a demonstration will be held on the Wayne D. Thurman farm, 6 miles southeast of Cisco in the Shady Grove community; and at 1 p. m. Tuesday the third demonstration will be held on the L. N. Carlisle farm, 7 miles north of Rising Star where the highway crosses Sabano Creek.

The demonstrations are being planned to encourage owners of valuable pecan timber to get undesirable timber from their groves and to properly space the trees for maximum pecan production. Landowners who have any undesirable trees of any kind are invited to the demonstrations.

Trees growing along fence rows often damage nearby growing crops and should be killed. The use of tree poison is recommended for this purpose and Cook plans to show how this should be used.

Experiments of thinning of native pecan groves prove that the yield of pecans can be increased as much as one thousand percent (ten times) by cutting out underbrush and spacing of trees for maximum production. Killing of undesirable trees and non-producing pecans may be done at small cost with poison, estimated at approximately two dollars per acre.

Tree poison is made of white arsenic, lye, salt soda and water. It is applied with little labor by cutting through the bark around the tree and applying poison in the cuts.

Of the thousands of acres of native pecan groves in Eastland county it is estimated that less than one tenth have been properly thinned for maximum nut production. In addition to increasing the yield of nuts, thinning helps control insects and increases the production of grass for use by livestock.

Eastland Woman Signally Honored

Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins of Eastland and J. G. Harrell of Breckenridge were among a number of Texans to which special invitations have been extended to be on the speakers' platform when Wendell L. Wilkie, Republican candidate for president, speaks at Amarillo next Tuesday morning.

Invitations were wired over the signature of Charles Keffer, program chairman and head of the Amarillo Texas-for Wilkie Club.

The Men's Bible Class of the First Christian church were guests of the 9:49 Bible class to hear the address by Lewis Acres of Abilene, who was the guest speaker.

The Misses Pierce, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pierce, sang a duet, playing their own accompaniment.

Arnold Kirk, about 35, Eastland oil man, was shot twice early Thursday morning while in the lobby of the Connelie Hotel, Eastland. One bullet from a .45-calibre pistol taking effect in the right chest and passing out through the back about four inches lower than the point of entry, while a second bullet from the same weapon entered his right leg just above the knee. Physicians at the Payne hospital where the wounded man was taken said that his condition was very critical.

Jack Tindall of Eastland, about 32, surrendered to Sheriff Loss Woods immediately after the shooting, which took place about 2:30 a. m. He was charged with assault with intent to murder and his bond set at $2,500. He was being held in the County jail pending the making of bond, which officers said he could and would furnish.

Sheriff Loss Woods quoted Tindall as saying that Kirk was approaching towards him with a knife, that he told him to stop and when he did not stop he (Tindall) shot him in the leg and when this failed to halt Kirk he fired at his chest.

Sheriff Woods also stated that he picked up a knife from the hotel lobby floor.

Kirk, according to persons present in the lobby when the shooting took place, never did fall, but walked to a lounge and sat down. Trouble between the two men, according to persons at the hotel started when Tindall came in to register. Kirk was already at the hotel.

W. Q. Verner Heads 9:49 Bible Class

The 9:49 Bible Class, which meets each Sunday morning at 9:49 o'clock at the Eastland Methodist Church, although it is non-denominational, held its eleventh semi-annual election of officers last Sunday.

W. Q. Verner was elevated from first vice president to president, and J. Wright Ligon was made vice-president. Judge V. T. Seaberry was re-elected as teacher, a position he has held for a long time. A. L. Agate, who has been secretary-treasurer ever since the class was organized more than ten years ago, was renamed to that position.

Alva Herring and Frank Pierce sang a duet with Mrs. Tom Haley accompanying at the piano.

The Men's Bible Class of the First Christian church were guests of the 9:49 Bible class to hear the address by Lewis Acres of Abilene, who was the guest speaker.

The Misses Pierce, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pierce, sang a duet, playing their own accompaniment.

NAZI BOMBS ONLY SCRATCH LONDON AREA

By SIDNEY J. WILLIAMS
LONDON, Sept. 12.—The world's largest city after five successive nights of massed aerial bombardment, presents many scenes of terrible damage, but inspection today showed that enemy explosives so far merely have scratched the surface of London.

Nor have Nazi bombers bent the spirit of Londoners.

One small merchant whose glass window frames were blasted to pieces put this jeering sign on his store today:

"Business as usual despite certain alterations to premises."

The "business as usual" slogan could be found in many parts of the capital in the midst of vast damage. Another shop with white-washed windows put up this sign:

"New bombs; fresh in today."

I made a taxicab tour of a cross section of London, taking in the southwestern, west central and northwestern areas and the looking out over the city from the top of a tall building as German raiders left for France this morning after more than eight hours of bombardment. This tour did not extend to the east end, which has suffered greatest damage.

From the roof-top there was little to show that the capital had undergone a bombardment which Nazis said would reduce it to the shambles of Warsaw and Rotterdam.

The dome of St. Paul's cathedral glistened in the sun.

Union Jacks fluttered boldly from the four corners of the tower of London. The fluted Doric column of the London monument, built to commemorate the great fire of 1666, stood undamaged.

Intermittent traffic rumbled across all of London's famous bridges. Factory towers belched smoke into the still air, giving the impression that production continued.

I knew from having been there that many of the areas in the metropolis had been blasted by bombs, but from the roof-top the scene as a whole was one in which a mighty surface had been merely scratched.

Down in the streets, it was more evident that the city had been badly damaged in some sections.

This is what I saw: Isolated houses flattened to the ground as if an overwhelming weight on the roof had pushed the building apart, leaving a heap of bricks, mortar and woodwork.

Houses along an entire street wiped out or wrecked beyond repair. No sign of life except roaming cats and dogs.

Bomb craters in the road; some small but others huge. Many were partly filled with water from smashed water mains, like a shell hole on the rain-soaked battlefields of the World War in France.

A street car turned over on one side. Buses wrecked. Others blown across the street into the walls of buildings.

Have of destruction in all sides. But— Sometimes my taxicab traveled for miles without passing a sign of destruction.

In these miles, children played on the streets, women gathered in stores and sought bargains, passersby exchanged pleasant remarks.

There was no outward sign of horror, nor of fear of what the night might bring.

The Eastland swimming pool will be closed for the season at the close of business Sunday night, September 15, according to an announcement by City Manager M. H. Kelley.

"We have had as splendid business this season and are thankful to the public for their patronage of the pool," Mr. Kelley said.

The Eastland swimming pool, one of the numerous new enterprises built during the administration of C. W. Hoffmann as Mayor and Mr. Kelley as city manager, is one of the best in the country. "Swim in Drinking Water" is the slogan of the management of the pool, means that the water you swim in when swimming in the Eastland pool measures up to the standard set by the Department of Health for drinking water.

The popularity of the Eastland pool is evidenced by the large number of out-of-town people that patronize it during the "open season."

DECADE STUDY SHOWS FARMS OVER-PEOPLED

By United Press
WASHINGTON.—The bureau of agricultural economics estimates that because of a 2,000,000 increase in farm population since 1930, together with technological changes in agricultural methods, labor requirements for agricultural production could be met by approximately 3,500,000 fewer farm people than there are at present.

An estimate of employment on farms, the bureau said, shows a decrease of more than 300,000 persons during the last decade. It was pointed out, however, that while opportunities on farms were decreasing, there was less likelihood that farm people would get jobs elsewhere. In the past they remained on the farms.

Farm population, the bureau said, increased at about the same rate as total population during the past decade with the result that the ratio of farm to total population is about one of our, virtually the same as in 1930. Heretofore, the bureau said, farm population increased less rapidly than non-farm population.

Changes in population on farms were not uniform throughout the country during the past decade, the bureau said. In some areas—especially areas best adapted to commercial farming, including sections most severely hit by drought—there was enough migration from the farms to bring about a reduction in farm population. In other sections, however, there were general increases large enough to show an increase for the whole country.

One result of these changes, the bureau said, was to increase the number of persons living in more densely populated farm areas and to decrease the number living in the less densely populated areas.

One of the current migration which attracted much attention during the decade was from parts of the Great Plains and adjacent areas to the Pacific Coast states. In some parts of the areas, the bureau said, continued mechanization of farm operations reduced opportunities for farmers or even replaced them. As a result, there was a migration from the farms and villages much of which went to the Pacific Coast states. This movement, the bureau added, is still continuing.

Many of these migrants, the bureau said, had little or no capital and large numbers entered a labor market in which the demand is for unskilled seasonal workers. Many of them who have gained a foothold on the land at their new locations, the bureau added, have settled on small unproductive farms, not suited to permanent occupancy.

This current migration to the Pacific coast, the bureau said, has served as a partial substitute for the earlier migrations to industrial centers.

ITALY TAKES UP WAR; LONDON CLAIMS NEWEST DEFENSE IS ADEQUATE

CONSCRIPTION AGREEMENT IS NOW REACHED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—House and Senate conferees concluded work on the compromise conscription bill today after easing restrictions on the president's power to take over private plants in the interest of national defense.

The bill, as prepared by the joint committee, calls for registration of all men between the ages of 21 and 35 years of age. The senate had agreed on registration of men in the 21-31 age group, while the house favored a bill requiring registration of men between the ages of 21 and 45.

The Fish amendment, which would have postponed conscription for 60 days in an effort to recruit the army up to defense needs, was eliminated by the conferees.

The new measure calls for 900,000 men to be called up for a one-year training period and keeping them subject to call in time of emergency for a period of 10 years. It was expected that the first call for men to take up training would be made by mid-November.

House and senate leaders predicted that the measure would be passed speedily and would go to the white house for signature not later than next Monday.

TWO FATALLY BURNED IN A BAIRD BLAST

Hugh McMahon of North Zulich was almost instantly killed and D. B. Henderson of Sweetwater died in the West Texas Hospital in Ranger today, a few hours after he had been injured in a pipeline blast six miles east of Baird.

Henderson was rushed to the Ranger hospital by members of the pipeline crew, including his father, E. B. Henderson, in an effort to save his life.

Henderson was suffering with fourth degree burns, and after an examination at the hospital it was stated that he probably would live but a few hours.

According to members of the crew working on the job near Baird, the explosion occurred when the two were doing welding on a line that carried 700 pounds of pressure. The work was being contracted by Williams Brothers of Corpus Christi.

Word of the accident was first received in Ranger when police received a telephone call that a car, covered with oil and containing several men, had passed through Eastland at an excessive rate of speed. Chief of Police Guy Pledger went to the highway to intercept the car, and met at as it came to town. He trailed it to the hospital, with siren blowing.

McMahon's body was taken to Baird, where it was being held pending funeral arrangements.

Members of the party which took Henderson to the Ranger hospital stated that they had heard Ranger had the best hospital in this part of the state, so they rushed the injured man there as quickly as possible, without making further inquiries.

In the thousands of "Believe It Or Nots" encountered by Robert L. Ripley in his 22 years of reporting the world's oddest facts, none is more heart-warming than the story he will tell when he returns to the air on Friday, September 13, in a series of broadcasts over 89 CBS stations at 10 o'clock (Eastern Daylight Saving Time).

The doctor, J. Thomas Clack, M. D., of Wadley, Alabama, lost his sight while making a call with a horse and buggy in 1914. He said to his wife, when it was certain that he would never see again: "I'm going to keep on practicing medicine."

Mrs. Clack has been his eyes ever since. She has never been away from his side, day or night, for 26 years, except once when a relative accompanied him to a convention of the Alabama Medical Association. In the old days she drove the horse for him. Now she drives the automobile. On calls, she sits beside the patient's bed, takes the temperature, tells her husband how the patient looks. From the symptoms which she has learned to describe, plus the case history and that extraordinary sense of touch and that clear inner vision which sometimes help to compensate blinded men for their affliction, Dr. Clack makes his diagnosis and decides upon the treatment.

Dr. Clack was well into his 30's before he became a doctor. He always wanted to be one, but he was a farmer's boy with farm work to do, and his education had to come when it could. One of his first cases after his eyes failed was a child-birth. "I'm blind," said Dr. Clark to the neighbor who knocked at his door, "Get some other doctor." But the woman wanted him and no other. He went. He has been going ever since, with his wife, his "eyes." In the evening she reads to him. Thus he keeps up with the latest medical discoveries and trends.

SHEEP, GOAT DAY AT CISCO

BIG SUCCESS

CISCO, Sept. 7.—The second sheep and goat day sponsored by the Eastland County Sheep and Goat Raisers association drew an estimated 300 people to Cisco Friday to hear experts discuss proper management methods and other phases of the industry and to witness demonstrations during the afternoon.

Speakers for the morning included A. K. Mackey, secretary of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers association, who presented statistics dealing with the industry and discussed the future of wool and mohair in the state; W. H. Dameron, who spoke on pasture building and preservation. Dameron is superintendent of the Sonora Experiment station, and Beal Pumphrey, of the San Antonio stockyards.

Dr. Bob Hodges of Ranger, president of the county association, presided. County Agent Elmo V. Cook, secretary of the association, introduced the visitors. T. G. Caudle, Cisco vocational agriculture teacher, F. E. Harrell, G. P. Mitcham and R. W. Man-cell were in charge of the entertainment of the visitors. Mr. Man- cell supervised preparation of the barbecue of chevon which was served at noon.

Delegations were here from Stephens county, Callahan, Shackelford and other counties. One group came from Goldthwaite.

Frank Grayson, representing the agricultural marketing service of the department of agriculture, Washington, D. C., discussed grading of wool and mohair with an actual demonstration. Mohair from the Wright and Harrell ranch was used in the experiment.

Other speakers were W. R. Nibbitt, extension sheep and goat specialist of A. and M. college, who discussed management of sheep and goats; and Mr. Mackey, who gave a demonstration in selection of breeding animals.

Mr. Pumphrey, representing the San Antonio stockyards, spoke on the market for goat meat. Goat meat, known as chevon, he said, is now being widely used in sausage to take the place of vegetable products, notably soy bean meal, formerly used. The market now at San Antonio, largest goat market in the world, is from $2 to $2.50 per 100 pounds, he said. It has been higher.

Mr. Dameron recommended that for the best use of pastures, a rancher should run sheep, goats and cattle together, where there exists grass, weeds and brush. He advised deferred grazing for four or five months every few years to

THIS COULD BE YOUR STORY

BY MARGUERITE GAHAGAN

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

All characters, organizations and incidents of this serial are entirely fictitious.

YESTERDAY Sue Mary's new friends introduced her to a new world of politics and activity. They are members of a Youth Progress group, have a candidate for election. They preach a strange doctrine. With Joe, in a movie, crusades and politics seem far removed.

WORKING FOR THE PARTY

CHAPTER V

HALF-HEARTEDLY Sue Mary thought perhaps Joe was right. Maybe it was only a stupid loneliness that had made her first impression of Nick, and Vera and Natalie and their crowd so exciting and vivid.

Maybe they were, as he said, "crackpots." Perhaps she shouldn't go ahead as she had thought of doing. Perhaps it would be sensible to stay with the kind of people she had known all her life, and not get involved with these strange creatures, whose thoughts always left her confused and bewildered, but strangely exhilarated.

little old U. S. A., we have a chance to vote and run the country and we're going to have our voice. Fred King is running for governor in the primaries. Maybe that seems unimportant in the whole country, but if every group does its job well, we'll have the right men in the key posts all over the nation.

"Right now our job is to help Fritz get the votes around here. And now how about typing copies of this letter?"

SUE MARY typed and thought. "Anyone who could talk with the ease and assurance that Vera used left Sue Mary helpless.

Politics—that strange word that one associated with headlines and newspaper stories—also left her helpless. Yet she felt that it was a weakness on her part not to know and be interested in the affairs of her country.

As a little girl, she had listened to her grandmother tell about the "old days." About coming out west from New York state in a covered wagon, after her own father had believed the east too crowded for a man with a growing family; of seeing Indians asleep before the fireplace in the cabin on a cold night; of hearing her father talk about Abe Lincoln, and of watching him go off to war while her mother wept.

thrown casually over his broad shoulders, a few papers in his hand to give to Miss Grant, with a hurried plea, "You know what to do with these. I got to get out to the club for practice—"

But from then on Kitty would stare into space with that pre-occupied expression in her green eyes, and Bubs would smile knowingly and whisper to Sue Mary, "Kitty just can't bear to have a handsome, eligible guy pass her by like that. I wonder if she ever will make the grade."

Once those things had been enough to lift the day right smack out of the dull routine, but now, typing copies of the campaign letter, her thoughts struggled for expression. Around her moved these competent, knowing, boys and girls working with a purposefulness that left her bewildered. Others came and went and the conversations changed with them.

SOME were upset because there was to be a cut on welfare.

"They can't do that," someone was shouting to Vera. "They can't cut off their messy little handouts and expect the people to tighten their belts and grin. Why, that family's been on relief for three years—"

"Well, if that contract isn't signed in a month, you can bet we'll be out on the picket line again." Another voice rose above the noise.

And then Nick arrived. He saw her as he entered and his eyes lighted. He came directly to her; past Vera, past the other girls who stopped work for a second to smile.

"I knew you'd come, but still it's nice to actually see you here with us." That barely perceptible accent did something to his voice. He sat on the desk and read the letters she had typed. He ran his fingers through his black hair in a gesture she had already come to associate with him.

"You haven't leafed, either, little comrade. For a first day's work I'd say you've done right well. And for a good worker there is always recreation. How about going to a concert tonight? Good music and me. That should be pretty good, huh?"

"I'd love to go." She hesitated, feeling her cheeks flush. "Only—only like everything else, I don't know much about music."

"I'll teach you. There's lots to teach you, and I think I'll like it because you're going to be the ideal pupil."

Eastland Dealer Acquires Vernon Chevrolet Agency

O. E. Harvey, a member of the Harvey Chevrolet Company of Eastland, will move soon to Vernon, Texas, where he has purchased the Chevrolet agency. John D. Harvey, junior member of the Eastland firm and only son of O. E. Harvey, will have charge of the company's business here.

Associated with Mr. Harvey in the purchase of the Vernon agency is F. T. Dabney of Odessa, who will also move to Vernon and become actively identified with the business there.

Both Mr. Harvey and Mr. Dabney have been in the Chevrolet sales business for many years. Mr. Harvey formerly was in busness in Sherman and in De Leon. Mr. Dabney just recently sold his interests in a Chevrolet agency at Odessa.

The Vernon agency, one of the oldest Chevrolet agencies in Texas, had operated for many years by C. M. Ladd of Vernon, who is retiring to look after other interests.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Harvey expect to move to Vernon just as soon as living quarters can be secured there.

AND so Sue Mary went to the office. It was hardly that, in the sense that Sue Mary considered offices. It was a dreary room in an old building that also housed a hall the Youth Progress group used for meetings.

"You see," Vera explained patiently, as though to a child, "we may be young, but we know what we want and we have some intelligent men and women helping us. We want some people on the ballot who stand for our principles. There are too many stuffed-shirt politicians, too many capitalists, too many blind, unsympathetic people trying to run this country. The workers are going to get their chance here.

Time Is Short In Which To Get Ready for Fair

"The limited time in which we have to get ready for the Eastland County Fair, which is to be held in Eastland October 24, 25 and 26th, makes it imperative that all officials and each and every committeeman and committee woman having connections with the project, put forth all possible effort to get the work going," H. J. Tanner, secretary of the fair said today.

Tanner had nothing but praise for the work committees are doing, but since there is so much to be done and such short time in which to do it, he felt that it would not be amiss to again call attention to those facts.

Some advertisers, the secretary said, are already turning in their copy for the Fair Catalog, contract for which has been awarded to the Eastland Telegram. Printers are now at work on the catalog and will need advertising copy at once.

Mrs. Curtis Kimbrell, secretary weeds. He recommended a sheep and cattle ratio of about seven to one.

Grazing small grain in the winter with sheep and goats serves as a rest for permanent pasture, he said.

Mr. Mackey told the meeting that there are now twenty million sheep in Texas, producing about 20 per cent of live wool grown in the United States.

Cisco Lobos and Eastland Mavs Meeting Today

The curtain will be raised on the 1940 football season of the Cisco high school Lobos and the Eastland Mavericks in Cisco Friday afternoon when Coaches J. T. Petty and Drate Cathey send their unpredictable against the Eastland Mavericks, a team which, although rated inferior to the Lobos and in a lower class, has always had a sweet tooth for Lobo meat.

Seasoned by scrimmages against the power of the State Champion Lubbock Westerners and the hardy Abilene Eagles last week, the Cisco lads will not enter the game under any serious handicap of lack of practice. But it is yet to be determined what the team—half of which is made up of green if promising boys, will do under actual game conditions when no sympathetic coaches roam the scrimmage lines to applaud or correct.

Five members of the Cisco eleven which takes the field Friday at 3 o'clock at Chesley stadium, will be playing their first game of football. Some of these have never seen a match game. They have weight and promise but what they will do with it remains the question.

Against this team Friday Coaches Grady and Jeeter of the Mavericks will send a light team, some members of which are also untried. The Mavericks, seeking to offset weight disadvantage with speed and deception, will offer a running and passing attack sparked by a triple-threat star in Charles Bush, 160 pound quarter, ably assisted by Bill Hart, end, and "Sonny" Self, a fast moving guard who plays blocking back sometimes and is a bear on defense.

Dillard Morgan, who does the passing for the Mavericks alternates with Bush at Signal calling. He is a deceptive ball carrier, with an excellent change of pace which compensates somewhat for his lack of speed. Bruce Pipkin, first year man, plays tackle and is the heaviest member of the squad. He tips the beam at 180. Raymond Treadwell, 160 pounds, plays the other tackle. Simmons, 145 pounds, is the chief pass snatcher of the Eastland team, playing left end.

Officials will be Jennings of Ranger, Broome of Fort Worth and Monroe Sweeney.

Admission for the game will be 50 cents.

Probable starting lineups will be:

W. O. Coffey Says He Is Running As An Independent

W. O. Coffey of Ranger, defeated in the July Democratic primary for the party's nomination as representative, district 106, has announced that he will run on an independent ticket in the general election in November in opposition to P. L. Crossley, present incumbent, and nominee for re-election.

Coffey aroused the ire of County Democratic chairman Oscar Lyerla, when he hinted at primary election fraud in a speech on the courthouse lawn recently. Lyerla, when Coffey had finished his talk, called upon Coffey to either quit intimating that there had been fraud in the primary election or go before the grand jury, which was then in session, and give that body such evidence as he possessed. Lyerla stated that it was the duty of the grand jury, if fraud had been practiced, to indict any and all guilty persons.

Coffey reiterated some of his intimations as a reply to Lyerla, but did not say what he would do about giving information to the grand jury.

In the recent July primary Crossley led the ticket, J. M. Williamson of Cisco being second. Williamson declined to contest with Crossley in a run-off primary.

Coffey, who spoke from the courthouse lawn last Saturday, was given some applause from people in the crowd of 50 or more persons gathered about him.

Mrs. Kimbrell To Head Division Of The County Fair

Mrs. Curtis Kimbrell of Eastland will be general chairman of the Women's Division of the Eastland County Fair and will appoint chairmen for the various divisions who will in turn name the committee members.

The 14th annual Eastland County Free Fall Fair will be held this year on October 24, 25 and 26th.
