ECONOMIC AID BY THE U. S. IS AXIS CONCERN

Britain war power and American economic weight were thrown today against what axis sources insist is a new world front of "new empires"—Germany, Italy, Spain, Russia and Japan.

While Britain's warplanes hammered at objectives far inside Germany and against Italian advanced forces in Egypt, the United States put economic force against Japan by outlawing shipment of scrap iron and steel to all foreign countries except Great Britain and those in the Western hemisphere. Japan was the United States' best customer for scrap iron.

This move was first taken by the United States to show its displeasure over Japanese inroads into French Indo-China where Japanese troops landed peacefully today, after bombers had killed 15 civilians.

The British air ministry announced raids far into Germany, including attacks upon Berlin and Kiel Canal and the great naval base where the battleship Sharonhorst was hit again. It was laid up for repairs, after being seriously damaged in a previous brush with the British.

The London headquarters of General De Gaulle insisted that German influence at Dakar had prevented the Free French forces from occupying the vital French West African port. Britons meanwhile were demanding an explanation of the apparent failure of De Gaulle's forces, plus the British warships, to capture Dakar.

In the Near East the Egyptians said that Italy was demanding control of the former French-mandated Syria. British warships aided by planes bombed the advanced forces of the Italians thrusting into Egypt.

Grand Master Is Speaker At Masons Meeting In Ranger

Grand Master Leo Hart was the principal speaker at the Fellowship meeting of the 73rd Masonic District held in Ranger Wednesday evening, when visiting Masons were present from a number of towns in this part of the country.

The speaker, in the course of his remarks, announced that Rev. George W. Truett, for the past 44 years pastor of the First Baptist Church of Dallas, would be the principal speaker at the Grand Lodge meeting to be held in the Cotton Palace at Waco on Dec. 4.

Refreshments were served at the meeting held Wednesday night.

National Commander Of Legion Elected

BOSTON, Sept. 26.—Milo Warner, a Toledo attorney and World War captain, who was wounded in action, today was elected national commander of the American Legion, on the first ballot.

The Legion delegates had previously gone on record in favor of an embargo on scrap iron to Japan and voiced approval of all economic aid possible be given to Great Britain.

Eastland Pastor To Preach At Meeting In Houston Nov-11

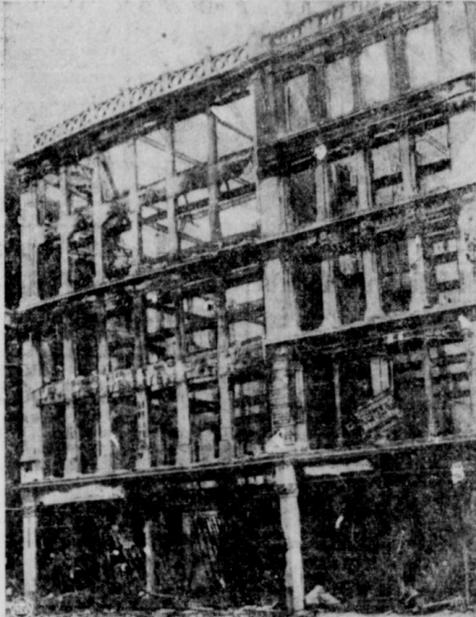

Rev. Jones W. Weathers, pastor of First Baptist Church of Eastland, has been asked to deliver a sermon on "Christ, The Head of the Church," November 11, in Houston at the State Baptist Convention.

Rev. Weathers came to Eastland one year ago in November from the First Baptist Church of Merkel, Texas.

SEVERE INJURIES

OCEAN CITY, N. J.—Henry Hoffman, parking lot attendant, caught his finger in a car door. But that didn't hurt him so much—it was the aftermath. Hoffman fainted when he attempted to pull his finger from the door and struck his head on an automobile and then on the pavement when he fell. He suffered a concussion and severe face cuts.

In the Modern London Style

This London building is in keeping with a style of architecture becoming more evident in the cities of Europe as the war progresses. The alterations were swiftly executed by the German air force in night raid on the British metropolis.

PRIME TURKEYS FOR MARKETS NEED FEEDING

It is only two months from now until we will be marketing our first crop of 1940 turkeys. There is still a large carry over of turkeys in cold storage. At the present time there is approximately 25,000,000 pounds of turkeys in storage but these birds are moving into the channels of trade very nicely. But with this fact in mind, one should give careful consideration to our marketing program for this fall.

The market is going to demand a well finished turkey this year in order to be able to dispose of the turkeys at a reasonable price to the producers. Unfortunately in the past Texas growers have not been producing as good quality turkey as can be produced. Most of the turkeys still are range turkeys and during the late summer the range is pretty well depleted and the turkeys do not have sufficient amount of feed and especially green feed. During the growing period they consume large quantities of insects and as a result of this are quite often heavily infested with intestinal parasites. Because the quality of Texas turkey has not been what it should be, there has been a penalty placed on it which in some cases amounts to $1.00 per bird over turkeys marketed in other states. It is up to all growers to see that the turkeys marketed this year are in good condition and ready for the market at the time they are sold.

The Texas Poultry Federation composed of Texas poultry producers, hatcherymen, feed manufacturers, buyers of poultry products and others, is definitely interested in carrying out a program this year that will enable Texas turkey producers to place on the market this fall the best quality turkeys that have ever been sold from this state.

It is very important that raisers start a fattening program for these turkeys now. Before they are placed on a fattening feed, it is good management to see that these birds are thoroughly treated for intestinal parasites so that they can be placed on a fattening feed and get maximum results from the feed consumed. If you have a small flock of turkeys you may be interested in giving them individual worm capsules to rid them of the intestinal parasites or if you have a large flock you will perhaps be interested in using a flock worm treatment in the mash. You can secure poultry worm capsules or poultry worm powders through your local dealers, or

MISTRIAL IN RHYNE CASE

The case of the State of Texas vs. George Rhyne of Carbon, charged by grand jury indictment with driving an automobile while intoxicated, resulted in a mistrial when tried before a jury in the 88th district court first of the week.

On both sides of the river, however, workmen face high rents and a scarcity, if not absence, of places to live for almost any price. In Davenport, for example, 15 families live in tarpaper barracks. Many live in trailers parked in the woods near town—and pay about $4 a month rent for the use of the lot. A store room brings from $22.50 to $25 a month.

PARADES WILL FEATURE FAIR OCT. 24 TO 26

The parade committee of the Eastland County Free Fall Fair of which Monte Rowe is chairman, met this week at the Eastland Chamber of Commerce when plans for the parade were gone over in detail.

Members of the parade committee attending were Mrs. C. W. Hoffmann, Mrs. O. L. Hooper, Bailey Hinton, James Reid, all of Eastland Fire Chief G. A. Murphy of Ranger; and Gordon Davis of Cisco.

The parade will be one of the main features of the Fair and will be held Saturday, Oct. 26 at 11:00 a. m. Included in this parade will be bands, floats, bicycles, many kinds of costumes including costumes of the pioneer days, etc. Prizes will be given to winners in the parade.

The Community Agricultural exhibits, Secretary Tanner of the Fair said, will be housed as usual in one building apart from the other exhibits. The location of this building, however, has not been decided. Several buildings are available, or will be available, and it is just a matter of which one will be the best suited, it is stated.

The general fair grounds will be at the old Pickering Lumber company yards, now owned by Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber Company, at 307 North Lamar Street.

The committee in charge of dairy cattle, which is headed by I. E. Richardson, is making preparations for this exhibit to be shown throughout the fair. The general livestock exhibit, which will include hogs, sheep, goats, cows of all kinds, horses, mules, etc., will be shown on Saturday, Oct. 26th, only. Dr. R. H. Hodges of Ranger is in charge of this committee.

The Fair catalog, secretary Tanner said, should be mailed out this week. He stated that he was receiving many requests for them.

Ranger H. D. Club Meets On Tuesday

The Ranger H. D. Club met Tuesday, Sept. 24, at the home of Mrs. J. H. Wallace. The house was called to order by the president. After the business meeting Mrs. Lillian Eastland gave a very interesting lesson on "How to Dress Up Chairs," stressing the importance of getting the measurements of the chair to be covered before buying material to determine the number of yards required to cover chair.

All members were asked by the president to bring the report of their year's work to the next meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. A. O. Hinman, Oct. 8th.

Ice cream and cake were served to the following members: Mmes. L. E. Wallace, A. O. Hinman, Bailey Woods, Haden Neal, Lillian Eastland, G. C. Love and hostess, Mrs. J. H. Wallace.

Swindler Operates From A Jail Cell

By United Press
EL PASO, Tex.—An El Paso swindler—a county jail prisoner at the time—was recently indicted because of a "gold brick" scheme which allegedly netted him thousands of dollars.

He "sold" caves in Arkansas to a Pueblo, Colo., physician. The "sale" was made through correspondence with the doctor while the alleged swindler was in jail.

The prisoner convinced the doctor that the bat caves, similar to Carlsbad Caverns, would bring him a steady revenue. After an exchange of letters with the county jail prisoner, the doctor sent a check for $1000, federal officers said.

McMahon, Misses Opal May Hearn, Loma Faye Hearn and Inez Pickett.

INTEREST IS GROWING IN NEW OIL WELL

Growing interest is being manifested by oil operators and others in the Carbon territory, since the bringing in Saturday of the C. L. Mahaney No. 1 A. J. Jackson well for a potential flow of 1,200 barrels per day.

The Mahaney well is located on the S. H. Key survey one-fourth mile west of the Dobbs Oil Corporation's No. 1 Thomason, also on the Key survey, which has been producing for some time.

Pay in the Mahaney was encountered in the Caddo lime at a depth of 2,641 feet following a shot of 300 quarts of nitro. The well flowed 100 barrels in 47 minutes immediately following the shot, according to oil men who have been watching developments in that section and who were present at the time the shot was placed. The oil produced is of the highest grade.

The Mahaney well is a two and one-half miles south of Carbon, O. D. Dillingham of Abilene, the McBride interests and others have lease interests in the vicinity of the new producer. Mahaney is a Dallas man.

Rising Star Road Detour Is Opened

AUSTIN, Sept. 26.—Resumption of traffic over regular routes on several highways was announced by the Texas highway department today as progress of road work permitted return to the usual roadway.

A detour around a bridge under construction on U. S. highway 283 about 6-1-2 miles north of Rising Star, Eastland county, no longer is used. Regular route has been resumed on U. S. highway 287 in Anderson county in the vicinity of Cayuga.

Detours formerly required on state highway 16 at Cherokee Creek, state highway 55 between Uvalde and Batesville, and on state highway 67 west of Meridian are now abandoned.

Low Records Set In State's Temperature

Record low temperatures for September were set in several Texas cities Wednesday night and Thursday morning, records from for more than 20 years standing being broken.

At Houston a low of 53, the lowest for Sept. 25 in the history of the city was recorded. Dallas had an all-time low of 45 and Fort Worth reported a 20-year low of 47.

WILLIE AGAIN HITS AT NEW DEAL LAWS

SIoux FALLS, S. D., Sept. 26.—Wendell Willie, republican presidential nominee, said today that the United States had failed to recover from the 1930-1940 de. pressions because the New Deal had passed bad laws and because of the poor administration of the nation's affairs.

Street Scene

Families line a London street with possessions salvaged from their homes, wrecked in one of Nazi air raids on British capital.

GARNER STILL SILENT UPON IRON EMBARGO

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Vice President John Nance Garner after in the nation's capital today, after an absence of more than two months, as speculation arose as to the purpose of his visit.

Political observers were of divided opinions as to the nature of Garner's hurried visit to the capital. Some believed that he was here to adjourn congress as the last official act of his 40 years of governmental service, and others believed that he had been called in by President Roosevelt for a conference on Far Eastern affairs.

Shortly after Garner arrived at the capital President Roosevelt announced his embargo on scrap iron and steel to all countries except England and countries in the Western Hemisphere. Although the president declared the act was designed to save scrap iron and steel for the nation's defense needs, observers were of the opinion that it was an embargo directed against Japan.

Vice President Garner, when met at the railway station by a few close friends and newspaper reporters, gave his well-known and customary reply to inquiries—"No comment." It was noted that he had brought only two small handbags and that Mrs. Garner did not accompany him, which was interpreted as meaning that he intended to make a short stay in Washington.

The embargo on scrap iron cuts off Japan from one of her main supplies for iron, as 90 per cent of the Japanese imports come from the United States, and in recent years Japan has been purchasing 50 per cent of all scrap shipped from the United States. The embargo, which is effective Oct. 16, will seriously affect Japan's armament program, it was believed here.

GUN BATTLES OVER CHANNEL FOLLOW RAIDS

Artillery dueling, that could be heard as far away as London, broke out today between the British and Germans, firing long-range guns across the English Channel. Some German shells were reported to have fallen in Dover, doing some damage.

The British Royal Air Force today followed up last night's raids on Germany and German held positions after the third consecutive night of heavy bombardments which were reported to have done considerable damage to the Tempelhoff airfield near Berlin, to industrial plants and railway stations. Berlin sources stated that the damage had been confined to non-military objectives, principally homes in the outskirts of Berlin, although they admitted the raid was the most severe of the war.

Great Britain, meantime, beat off repeated German air raids, most of which were directed against London, but which were aimed at other objectives scattered throughout the country. In last night's raids on London the ground defenses prevented all but a few stray planes from breaking through, but these dropped heavy explosive bombs on many sections of London, causing some damage.

Severe criticism was heard throughout London of the Dakar invasion attempt, and of Gen. De Gaulle, leader of the Free French. It was declared as a blow to British prestige and to the growing Free French movement, but Prime Minister Winston Churchill was expected to withstand the criticism.

Reports continue to spread throughout England that many bodies of German soldiers are being washed ashore, the popular belief being that an invasion attempt upon the Isle of Wight resulted in failure.

In French Indo-China Japanese troops took over parts of that country, after the defending troops surrendered. They had been surrounded by 35,000 Japanese troops in a trap from which they had no chance to escape, it was reported. Chinese are reported to be recruiting a large army in Indo-China preparatory to resisting Japanese invasion, and Indo-China is expected to be the next scene of conflict in the Sino-Japanese war.

Reports have been heard in Washington that Joseph C. Grew, United States Ambassador to Japan, has been recalled to Washington, apparently for a conference of high government officials upon the Far Eastern situation.

At London the British Admiralty reported today that the submarine Tuna had attacked and sunk an enemy supply ship, though it was protected by two destroyers, and that another British submarine had sunk an Italian torpedo boat.

Self-Solving Alien Problem

Back in father's and grandfather's day, "the alien problem" was a constant source of worry for the kind of people who have to have something like that to worry about.

That problem is rapidly solving itself. Very soon there will be so few aliens as not to make any problem at all. In 1930 there were estimated to be 6,284,613 aliens in the country. Today the estimate is 3,595,358, a decrease of practically 50 per cent in the past 10 years.

At that rate, unless immigration restrictions are changed, there soon will be no important number of aliens in the country at all.

That's good enough as far as it goes. But the world is arranged in this preverse fashion: as soon as one problem is solved, another pops up to take its place.

That is the case in regard to aliens. Though the number of actual aliens is falling rapidly, the problem of the second-generation American is just as difficult and no less important.

What happens in many cases is this: the immigrant parents came to this country as their choice. They wanted freedom or opportunity, or both. They were prepared to be politically loyal to the new country, and they were. But they remained culturally attached to the old country and the old ways. In dress, in language, in tastes, in cultural interests, they remained of the old country, with roots too deep for change.

But their children, too often, have been another and less happy story. Born in this country, they were Americans not by choice but by circumstance. The old culture, the old ways, the old country, were only a tradition, and sometimes a faintly ridiculous one. In language, in dress, in tastes, they were of the New World, yet they were somehow set apart from it by the nearness of their alien origin.

Instead of kindly help in achieving a solid position, economic and social, in that world, they met ridicule and rebuff.

So the problem, which used to be "the alien problem," is now "the second-generation American problem." It will be solved by no rigid demand that such people utterly forsake the ancient culture to become synthetic Yankees. It will be solved only by accepting and encouraging their roots in ancient backgrounds as not inconsistent with the highest loyalty to the United States, but as contributing a very definite share in a culture which we may make the richest, most varied, and hence the highest in the world.

drug stores. If you are unable to get these from these parties you can contact the agricultural or home demonstration agent. There are a number of very reputable concerns putting out poultry remedies. These are licensed companies and handle their products through local merchants.

After the turkeys have been thoroughly treated for intestinal parasites then one should put them on a good fattening ration. This may either be commercial or home mixed. If you are using a commercial fattening feed, then utilize all of the home grown grains you have. In finishing the turkeys it is best to confine them to a small enclosure of an acre or so of land, depending of course upon the number of birds to be finished.

Keep the fattening mash before them in open hoppers and keep grain before them in open hoppers, and in addition to this, see that they have plenty of oyster shell and grit (turkey size). Also see that they have plenty of clean fresh water. The water has a tendency to become sour where the birds are consuming mash and there is a large sediment of mash in the bottom of the water container. See that the containers are cleaned at least once a day and often it is necessary to clean them twice a day to prevent any condition such as this from occurring.

There will be a number of small under developed birds that are not ready to start on a fattening program at the present time. These birds should be kept on a growing mash until a later date and then put on a fattening feed and marketed at Christmas and New Year's, depending upon the age and condition of the bird.

In marketing the turkeys select the breeding stock first to see that none of these breeder birds are old. Then go through the rest of the birds and see that these are well fleshed, fat, and free of pin feathers. If the toms are not matured and free from pin feathers, hold these birds for the later market. If one follows a program of this kind, there is no reason why the quality of Texas turkeys cannot compare favorably with the turkeys from other sections and the producers will not be penalized too severely as a result of the crowded market conditions as it now exists.

lar biennial session of 1939 refused to grant "dole" funds for more than a year in view of an expected upturn in business conditions. The legislature met in the first special session in January, 1940, and could agree only on temporary allotments for relief.

Last May the lawmakers set up funds in quarterly allotments, the first of which was exhausted in September, and Gov. Olson called them back on Sept. 13. The legislators also have scheduled a final "lame duck" session on Dec. 2 after the November elections.

The proposed constitutional amendment for annual sessions, before the voters in November, will provide for 60-day meetings beginning in March. Its propoents stress the point that it will allow more accurate estimates of tax revenues and expenditures than the two-year system.

The state will spend over $500,000,000 during the present two-year period, ending next June, and probably will end with a deficit approaching $100,000,000. Part of the deficit, however, is a carryover from previous bienniums.

 There was a good attendance at the church Sunday for both services. One fine young boy made his public confession of Christ as Saviour, was baptized and received into the fellowship of the church. Since April there have been one or more additions to the church on each Sunday when regular preaching services have been conducted.

Since Sunday will be a fifth Sunday, the pastor will be in Eastland for the morning service at 11:00 o'clock. You are cordially invited to the service where you will hear the Bible faithfully preached and the way of salvation made plain.

At 10:00 o'clock the regular Bible school meets each Sunday. A record attendance is expected Sunday. Won't you help us reach the goal? We believe you will like our Sunday school. We know the children will. You will find a warm welcome. Don't worry about whether your children have nice

Defense Training School Is Doubled Since Last Spring

FORT WORTH, Tex.—This city's "behind-the-lines" defense program has quadrupled since it started last spring.

Expansion of the National Defense Training School, designed to train workers for the vital national defense industries, was announced by G. B. Trimble, director of the school here.

Trimble said the school would expand four times its present size by the first of October. Recently 75 students were graduated. It was the first class.

The expansion program will be financed by a federal appropriation of $40,000.

The school expects to offer 10 different courses and 28 classes after the program is completed. Classes offered included welding, machine shop, auto mechanics, cabinet making, pattern making, radio electricity, aircraft welding, advanced aircraft electricity, blue print reading and related mathematics.

Largest problem, Trimble said, was in securing competent instructors. Needed today were six instructors to teach machine shop, radio electricity, pattern making, cabinet making and welding. An instructor must have had at least seven years experience in the trade they are to teach to qualify.

New phases included in the expansion program will be the trade expansion classes, open to men already working at the trade. These classes will be offered on a four-hour-a-week basis.

Pre-employment classes are conducted 40 hours weekly.

Irrigation Belt In Panhandle Is Getting Attention

DALHART, Tex.—Interest in Dallam county's shallow water irrigation belt, 35 miles northwest of Dalhart, has been sharply increased by C. A. Brown's 80-acre fields of potatoes which are going to yield an estimated 500 pounds per acre.

Brown, a former potato seed grower in Colorado, came to Dallam county last spring from the Plainview and Hereford areas where he has been raising potatoes.

This was learned from W. H. Fowler, Dallam-Hartley counties FSA supervisor of Dalhart, who has been particularly interested in the potato test since the FSA has a number of clients in the shallow by the ground as it fell, and was sufficient to be of much help to growing gardens, crops and pastures.

Parties from Gorman stated that a good rain fell in that section Saturday which, while being of some possible damage to older peanuts, would be of assistance to late peanuts.

Good rains are also reported in the Carbon territory.

 Fowler said Brown leased the 80 acres for two years at $5 per acre per year. He figures total cost of the venture from time of seed bed preparation to harvest and marketing, will be $90 per acre. If the yield is 1,500 pounds the gross per acre will be about $160, Fowler said.

Town To Mark Utah Copper Strike Of '63

BINGHAM CANYON, Utah.—Workers in the Utah copper company's great open cut mine here—the largest in the world—this month celebrate the 77th anniversary of the discovery of ore in the district.

For two days residents of the canyon community, crowded into the narrow ravine which leads to the giant mine, will revel in what has come to be known as "Galena Days."

Just what the significance of that appellation is no one seems to know. But the history of the ore discovery is less obscure.

The first outcroppings were noted in 1863 by George B. Ogilvie. He took his samples to Fort Douglas, in Salt Lake City, and there the commandant, Col. Patrick E. Connor, pronounced them genuine.

Connor allowed many of his soldiers to prospect the territory. It was not until July, 1887, that the Utah Copper company was founded.

Ogilvie's choice of Col. Connor as a confidant in the discovery was dictated by necessity, for Brigham Young, president of the L. D. S. church in Salt Lake City, vigorously opposed development of a mining industry. Young believed always ended in a loss of human that the quest of precious metals values.

Automatic Speed Meters Are Devised

DES MOINES, Ia.—From now on when Des Moines police bring in a motorist for speeding, he will have to dig hard for an alibi.

He no longer can protest that the officer made a mistake in "clocking" his speed, as the city is installing an electric "speedometer."

The device consists of two electric contact tapes, 10 feet apart, and an electric meter. The meter measures in miles an hour the time it takes the vehicle to travel the 10 feet.

Four municipal court judges have agreed to accept in court charges based on evidence of the detector.

Wages Up Slightly For the Past Month

AUSTIN, Tex.—Average wages for Texas workers rose slightly during August, as payrolls gained 4.3 per cent over August, 1939, compared with a 2.2 per cent gain in the number employed, University of Texas Bureau of Business Research officials report.

Both employment and payrolls remained about the same as in July.

Wages in manufacturing industries, however, failed to keep pace with the gain in workers over August a year ago. The Bureau estimated 134,339 workers were employed, 4.9 per cent more than a year earlier, while wages rose only 4.4 per cent.

Employment in non-agricultural business and government establishments is considerably higher than at the beginning of 1940, the Bureau estimates. Although the estimate for August is not yet available, this figure for July was 960,000, compared with 941,000 for January. The peak thus far occurred in May, when 967,000 workers were employed.

YESTERDAY: Joe calms Sue Mary's fears about a strike at Smithson, urges her to marry him, to break with the new crowd. Sue Mary asks for a little time, promises to set the wedding date in a week. She wonders what she can do in a week.

RIOTS AT SMITHSON

CHAPTER XVII

"SHE did have it. I tell you I saw her looking it over. Saw her with m. own eyes." Kitty's whisper was furious and her green eyes shot fire as she confronted Babs. "Don't stand there and try to tell me to be quiet. That one—she's wrong. She's up to something."

Sue Mary stood quietly behind the file and listened to the whispered argument. It seemed to her that all she was doing lately was listening to other people's conversations. First at the apartment, whenever Vera and Natalie were together; then at the hall, when Nick issued confidential orders to some of the workers; and here at the office, whenever she believed she could benefit by learning something more about Vera's aims.

"Well, so what?" Babs said mildly. "Just because Miss Grant was hunting for another paper and Vera happened to have it on her desk doesn't create an international incident. You're one of those hysterical people who sees a spy under every wastebasket and behind every door."

Kitty turned away, sulkily. On her desk was the morning paper and she turned the pages over to the society sheet's gossip column. Sue Mary knew what she was reading. She herself had seen it while coming down on the bus that morning, and she had marked it and given it to Vera.

It was one of those inconsequential bits of froth used as filler when society news was slack. "Who," it questioned, "was the stunning madonna type taking Russ Clark Junior's mind off the airport worries last night at the Golden Cal?"

Vera had shrugged her shoulders and smiled when she read it. "Well, one sees all phases of life that way," she said. "Beer and slami in the hall one night, champagne and a would-be politician the next."

"Do you think he has political ambitions?" Sue Mary asked, surprised.

"Yes. He's conceited enough to picture himself in the limelight. He was born in society, so that offers no goal. He's stupid enough to believe a political career would add to his charm. All he needs is money, and from what he says he needs plenty. He must be in debt right up to his ears. He certainly hasn't the sense his father has."

"You sound as though you knew him pretty well, Vera." Sue Mary watched the other girl's face intently.

"I've had a few dates with him and when you're with a guy who drinks as much as he does, you can learn a lot—if you're smart."

SUE MARY turned to traditional feminine outlet for her worries that noon hour. Working with the Youth Progress group had changed her. None of the girls there thought much about clothes. Vera was the exception, at least as far as dressing for the office, but on the whole, the girls considered clothes unimportant. One concentrated on ideals.

And now Sue Mary decided upon an abrupt about-face. She looked at her last pay check and decided to go shopping.

A little smile tugged at her lips. A girl who planned to get married had a right to think about a trousseau. Perhaps it wasn't exactly practical to buy gossamer-thin chiffon blouse, or fragile lace-trimmed lingerie, but she did, squandering her money with a recklessness that lifted her spirits higher than they had been in days. She tried on dresses—early fall frocks—and marched out with two that were much too expensive for her budget.

Joe had suggested she buy for their home. But if he knew anything of feminine psychology, he would know just how much buying these clothes meant now. A new lipstick, gay nail polish, a fragrant, cool toilet water, and a silly, useless bracelet that jingled on her wrist at the slightest provocation. She felt she could handle any situation.

And then she saw the paper. She was on her way back to the office with her arms filled with bundles when the noon edition's front pages stared up at her from a pile on the street corner.

Trouble at the Smithson factory. Rioting at the south gate as the morning shift went out. She bought a paper and backed up against a building, away out of the crush of the hurrying noon-hour crowd, to read the story.

Both labor and plant officials agreed that the trouble came as a shock to them. Negotiations were under way and satisfactory progress had been made so far. No one could put the blame for the riot on any particular group of men. Statements that pay was to be cut were absolutely false. Yet trouble there had been, and two workers and one plant policeman had needed medical attention.

Leaflets had been found at the gate, urging the men to demand their rights; warning them that they were being "sold down the river" by labor representatives who had gone over to the management. The company officials announced they were putting extra guards around the plant to prevent sabotage, and that work would go on as usual so that the materials they manufactured would be delivered on time to the plane factory.

SUE MARY called Joe that evening. Each minute had dragged back at the office. She kept watching the clock for the time when he would be out of work and she could talk to him. The hands dragged maddeningly and Babs had finally smiled and winked.

"Must have an important date," she grimaced.

Sue Mary tried to make her frozen lips smile back. She couldn't even feel until she knew from Joe that he was all right. She stopped at a drug store on her way home when she thought he might be at his room.

"Of course, I'm all right," he said.

She was incoherent in her anxiety. "But those headlines. That story about some men hurt," she kept repeating.

"It's nothing to get excited about," Joe told her. "I'm glad you worried, though. You do love me, don't you?"

"You know that. And you know I'll worry about you—always, Joe. Will there be any more trouble, dear? You will be careful, won't you? Anything can happen when a riot starts."

"You're borrowing trouble again, sweetheart." The laughter left his voice then. "I thought you were borrowing it the last time we were together. Remember? You asked me then if there was a possibility of labor trouble at the factory."

"Maybe you had second-sight, Sue Mary. Or would you say a—pipeline? A pipeline through the Youth Progress crowd?"

Relics Revealing Indian Traders

By United Press

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—The Indians that once ramed the Hudson River valley centuries ago were neat campers with a merchandising and industrial system not unlike today's, an archeological survey has revealed.

The survey, by Vassar College scientists through a Carnegie grant, resulted in a collection of hundreds of utensils and hunting weapons used by tribes that once lived in the Orange, Dutchess and Westchester counties areas.

The field party, directed by Dr. Mary Butler of the University of Pennsylvania Museum and Carlyle S. Smith of Columbia University, discovered a cache of quartz ready to be worked into weapons that indicated the industrial system.

The heap of broken pieces of rock was found at Shad Run. Some were roughly shaped.

"Such quarry blocks, chipped with a few blows into pear-shaped objects, often were traded about the country in that form to be finished off into whatever specific type point the individual buyer preferred," the report said.

That the tribes were good campers was indicated by the absence of tools or ornaments in the ancient dumping ground. The field workers reported the Indians at Shad Run—an oyster-eating tribe believed related to the Delaware Indians of Pennsylvania and New Jersey—apparently lived in a hilltop campsite at Shad Run, Westchester county, and threw their refuse over the Hudson river bank.

A total of 1,731 objects were recovered in the area explored. They included whole and broken arrow and spear points, knives, scrapers, drills, choppers, bone awls, fish gouge, a bone head and conch shell cup.

Future expeditions are expected to throw light on the extent and strength of the connections between "the peoples of this meeting ground of early cultures and their neighbors in New England and Western New York."

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Satterwhite Are On Wedding Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Satterwhite will make their home in Austin on return from a wedding trip to San Angelo and Del Rio. They were married Sunday at twilight at the Episcopal Church in Sweetwater. The bride is the former Miss Margaret Joe Collier of Sweetwater, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Collier of that city. Mr. Satterwhite is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Satterwhite of Eastland.

The Rev. Black, pastor of the church, officiated. The church was decorated throughout with white mums. Rosettes of Wood Wardia with centers of white mums, and huge baskets of mums were on either side of the altar. An arrangement of mums graced the organ. Bows of chiffon with single bouquet graced the white carpeted aisle which led to the altar lighted by cathedral tapers nesting in fern in the candelabra.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, N. A. Collier. She wore a lovely white chiffon model cut on Grecian lines and girdled with pearls and bugle crystals, with the skirt terminating into a long train. Her full length illusion veil had for its crown an antique French rose point with valley lily caught in the shirred fullness of the veil. She carried a matching handkerchief of rose point. She wore her grandmother's string of pearls. The bridal bouquet was of valley lilies, Stephanotis and white gladiolus with a graceful shower to the hemline of the skirt. Her something blue was tiny butterfly wings of chiffon in the bride's bouquet.

Miss Geraldine Fitzgerald was maid of honor. She wore a gown of Alice Blue in taffeta with matching hat, and carried a bouquet of Rubrum lilies.

Barnes Collier, brother of the bride, attended Mr. Satterwhite as best man.

Mrs. Wilma Brown of Sweetwater, soloist, and Miss Clara June Kimble of Eastland, organist, gave the wedding music. Mrs. Brown wore a delicate pink print with white taffeta background and matching headress, and Miss Kimble wore a dress of white net with a headress of white net and rhinestones. Each wore corsages of soft pink and mauve gladioli.

The bride's mother wore a gown of black taffeta with velvet trim and black hat. The groom's mother wore a black sheer crepe and lace with black veiled turban. They wore corsage of pale gladiolus.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents for members of the families and close friends. The bride's cake was four tiers, topped with horseshoe and encrusted with wedding bells. Centering the table was a two tiered Lucite plaque which held five finger blue candles tied with baby satin, caught at the edge with the crystal plaque with single white aster. Tall white tapers burned in prisms crystal candelabra placed on the buffet which was centered on the table with center of tube roses and valley lilies. Bouquets of calla lilies, dahlias and roses were used throughout the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Satterwhite left immediately after the reception for a short wedding trip. The bride traveled in a suit of soldier blue, a Levine model, with a matching feather turban with veil. She wore black accessories.

When you can take your pick, Why not pick now?

With a marked increase in price in all classes of building material during the last few days due to heavy buying by the government and the press reporting that a scarcity already exists at the mills and predicting that still further advances are sure to follow, now would be a good time to buy a home in Eastland at less than half its original cost. We have yet a rather large selection to choose from. Many of our homes may be purchased on easy monthly terms or at a discount for cash. Inspect those listed below and ask us for another group if you do not find what you want:
