EASTLAND, TEXAS, FRIDAY, MAY 3, 1946

The SPORT TIDE

By Col. Don Brasher

The Eastland Mavericks are now in full swing in their spring grid thrills. If you would like to see football at its best and roughest, just drop in on one of the practices that go on every day behind West Ward grammar school. Coaches Little and Harvey seem very well pleased with the school's prospects for the coming fall season. The line is fairly-heavy, averaging a little over 162 lbs. per man. Where weight is less, the speed of those boys up front really makes up for it. The backfield is somewhat lighter, averaging around 145 lbs. per man. These boys are all lightning fast for their weight and are likely to go all the way anytime they get their hands on the ball.

There is a new addition at the practice field nowadays. It is a large sled. The boys can quite often be seen pushing the heavy sled up and down the field with Coach Harvey riding on top. This will give the fellows extra power with which to put the opposing players on the side lines next year. This sled also helps the boys in their form. A thing that a lot of people don't realize is as important as it is.

Coach "Pooch" Wright of Howard Payne College is expected to be out here in the next few days, it was disclosed by Coach Little Tuesday the 30th. Coach Wright was coach of Ballinger a good many years and produced some real ball clubs during his time there. He is going to visit the practices and probably will give the fellows some useful tips on the art of football.

Do You Know?

That there is an unusual surface fault in Eastland? Its oddity lies in the fact that the trend of the fault is parallel to the strike of the formation rather than in the direction of the dip.

Robert Herring Candidate For Congress

The Chronicle has been authorized to announce the candidacy of Robert R. Herring of Breckenridge for the office of representative of the 17th district of Texas to the Congress of the United States, subject to the Democratic Primary on July 28th. Mr. Herring was born and reared in Ranger, Texas, graduating from the local high school. He is an active member of the Christian Church of that city. He attended John Farleton College in Stephenville for two years; then transferred to Texas A. & M. College, where he graduated with a B.A. degree. Following his graduation, Mr. Herring spent a year in Washington D. C., working in the Department of Agriculture and the Department of State while attending the graduate school of Georgetown University specializing in Government, Economics, and International Law. He is particularly well qualified both by background and training for service in this desired capacity during our critical years immediately ahead.

Mr. Herring volunteered for the service in March, 1942 as a Second Lieutenant in the Intelligence Corps of the U. S. Air Forces. He was sent to Australia for overseas service in May of that year and remained in the Pacific during 45 months of service through the initial occupation of Japan and Korea. He participated in 465 hours of combat flying and was decorated for gallantry and outstanding service four times, receiving the Legion of Merit, the Silver Star, and the Air Medal and cluster. He participated in five amphibious operations and twelve campaigns while serving as air intelligence officer on the staff of General Kenney and General MacArthur and various task force staffs of the Pacific Air Command. During the last weeks of the war he was the senior Air Intelligence on Okinawa. He was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel on Feb. 28, 1945. Following the surrender of Japan, he interrogated ranking Japanese officers and inspected Japan, Korea and China, while actively participating in the occupation of these areas.

Mr. Herring returned to the U. S. in December, 1945 and is now residing in Breckenridge. He is planning a very active campaign, and it is the desire of him and his wife that they should be able to meet most of the people of this district during the next few weeks. He places his candidacy before the people of the 17th district with a platform of eleven points. Fully aware of the grave economic situation now facing our nation and watching the Peace for which we paid so dearly as it insecurely totters before daily blows, he asks your careful consideration at the approaching elections.

If elected, I will do my utmost:
1. To promote action in a positive manner upon all questions affecting the present and future of our country and to try to re-establish our economic structure as rapidly as possible on the basis of principles of democratic life as laid down in the constitution of the United States.
2. To help preserve in every way the rights of the Individual and of the State, to defend all matters which are peculiar to a State or a locality and which do not affect (Continued on page six)

We have purchased supplies and the wholesale dealers assure us that they will deliver them within a short time, Mr. Davis said. ## MINE STRIKE FORCES MORE INDUSTRIES TO SHUT DOWN

Negotiations to prevent a threatened nation-wide railroad strike, broke down today as the United Mineworkers strike forced additional shutdowns and curtailments in industries running short of coal.

In another important labor development, the Briggs Manufacturing Company closed a Detroit auto body plant in a dispute with the United Automobile Workers Union—CIO.

A Chrysler Corporation spokesman said the Briggs shutdown would force closing down of the Plymouth division's final assembly line and its sheet metal and paint shops, idling 2,500 workers.

Violence occurred in two California strikes. Two aircraft machinists lodge pickets were injured during a brief skirmish between strikers and plant police at Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp. San Diego. Fist fighting broke out at the Libby, McNeil and Libby plant at Sacramento when CIO pickets repulsed an attempt by AFL workers to break through their picket lines.

The railroad negotiations, at Chicago, were terminated when representatives of the Brotherhoods of Railroad Trainmen and Enginemen walked out of a conference with railway management heads.

Weaver Baker

In submitting my candidacy for Judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals, I am conscious of the distinguished history of this great court.

Some of the wisest jurists who ever graced the bench have lent their minds, their hearts and their knowledge to building its reputation since the court was created September 22, 1891. Any man who is proud of his state, its institutions and its traditions must know that a position upon this bench demands nothing less than the best of which the applicant is capable. I fully understand the responsibilities of this assignment.

This court deals with human liberties and freedoms. Its opinion must guide the trial courts; therefore they should be concise and understandable, both to the trial courts and to the defendants. Its decisions establish precedents; hence they must be reached only after deliberate, and serious, consideration. This is no place for the facetious, nor the humorous. Neither society nor the defendant benefits from levity; nor do they condone such ill-conceived displays of wit. It is equally important that no opinion be tainted, either directly or by implication, with politics; or with unfair technicalities, in tenor, meaning and effect.

In election years, the importance of the courts to public welfare often is overshadowed by more sensational political campaigns. But in fact and in law, the three branches of our government—legislative, judicial and executive—must function with equal efficiency. Each depends upon the other; each merits equal consideration. On any other basis, a Democracy cannot be maintained. Thoughtful citizens recognize these fundamental precepts.

Protection of life and liberty is one of this nation's guarantees to the individual. The Court of Criminal Appeals sits in judgment upon this guaranty. Its members must know more than the law. They must possess an average amount of common sense. They (Continued on Page 6)

Livestock Leader Predicts Severe Meat Shortage

WASHINGTON (UP)—A representative of Western Livestock Feeders today predicted that the "worst meat shortage of any time in American history" would occur this summer.

Mark W. Pickell of Naperville, Ill., secretary of the Corn Belt Livestock Feeders Association, said the only thing that can prevent the shortage is for the government to assure cattlemen it will remove price ceilings on meat and meat subsidies.

Mr. Pickell, mentioned in the above United Press story is a brother of Mrs. J. R. McLaughlin of Ranger and formerly of Eastland.

Predicts Nation To Have Balanced Budget In 1947

RALEIGH, N. C. (UP)—Chairman Robert L. Doughton of the House ways and means committee, today predicted a balanced budget for the nation in 1947 and a continued reduction in taxes "just as rapidly as possible."

Doughton, keynote speaker at North Carolina Democratic State Convention here, said that last year 12,000,000 low-income Americans were removed from federal tax rolls and rates were reduced on all individuals.

The annual meeting of the Pioneers of Eastland County will be held at Alameda Saturday, May 4 and at the request of several of the group we reprint here an article written by Ethel Brookes Gilmore which was published in the Ranger Times on the eve of a past meeting of the Pioneers.

By ETHEL BROOKES GILMORE
When the Pioneers meet, Saturday, May 4 at Alameda many tales of the long ago will be retold.

Sarah Booth will once again drive her team of oxen in the noonday sun. The sun is almost unbearable, the oxen stall, then bolt for the shade by the side of the road, the wagon overturns and Sarah is found pitifully crushed beneath it. Sarah Booth is laid to rest, becoming the first pioneer who sleeps that last long sleep at Alameda.

Then a brave pioneer mother whose name for the time being is not recalled is found with an arrow through her back and soon a solemn procession is on its way to Alameda. Large sand stones are piled on the grave for the wolves are still a menace in Eastland county.

Many moons pass and still the Comanches harass the pioneers. It is now the year of 1866 and the night watch is with the herd of Clark Ainsworth, who has recently come to Ranger Valley. The cowboys are growing impatient for the day watch to come, leave a little bit early, thinking there is no danger, but the Indians have waited long hoping for this, Clark Ainsworth and one of his cowboys top a rise and see the Indians cutting fat beaves out of the herd. Martin is unarmed as his hip is sore from the constant wearing of his pistol, and he has left it off this morning. The Comanches wheel and in a minute his horse is down with an arrow through its heart. He now takes shelter behind his fallen horse but is also shot. Ainsworth spurs his horse and outruns the Indians, returning almost immediately with the rest of the cowboys, but too late, they find Martin has been scalped. Before he died he managed to get one of Henry Mansker's sons-in-law to a mesquite and is found sitting upright against it. Martin was slain. Henry Mansker gave the site of Alameda to the pioneers. The settlement at Mansko Lake dates back to 1865. Many of the descendants of this settlement will be at the graveyard working on May 4.

Drive For Cancer Control Funds Is Extended, May 20

Mrs. A. H. Johnson of Eastland, County Chairman for the 1946 campaign to raise funds for use of the Texas Division of the American Cancer Society, has received notice that the campaign will be extended to May 20.

The goal for Eastland County, Mrs. Johnson points out, is $1,250. The national quota is $12,000,000 while the quota for Texas is $43,000, sixty per cent of which will be retained in the State for a thorough educational program having for its purpose the spreading of the information that cancer can be cured in its early stages and for the setting up of diagnostic and treatment centers where necessary.

Sailors Attend School Waiting For Atom Test

PEARL HARBOR, T. H. (UP) — The six-week postponement of the Bikini atoll atomic-bomb tests is being utilized by hundreds of sailors whose ships were assigned to the project as a chance to improve their education in the Navy Pacific University.

The sailors are taking time out from preparations for the great experiment in nuclear physics to study such less glamorous subjects as typing, shorthand, auto-mechanics, English and American history.

The Navy has had to enlarge its teaching staff to handle the increased enrollment since President Truman announced postponement of the tests to July 1.

Says Merger Would Strip Navy Of Authority

WASHINGTON (UP) — Secretary of Navy James Forrestal told the Senate naval affairs committee that the top Navy post would be stripped of authority under President Truman's plan for merger of armed forces it was revealed today.

Forrestal testified in secret before the committee yesterday. His prepared statement was made public.

It was learned today, however, that Forrestal was asked what functions the secretary of Navy would have under the plan. He replied that the secretary would be a "zero." He added that he couldn't conceive of any man who valued his time" taking the job.

LIVER COMES HIGH

PLYMOUTH, Ind. (UP) — Glen Hooker, Argos, said he appreciated the thoughtfulness of the thief who took $10 worth of groceries from his automobile and left a package of liver in exchange, but that he thought the rate of exchange was a trifle high.

Matched Clubs To Go Into Mass Production

CINCINNATI (UP) — Golfers no longer need to tear out their hair when they wrap their pet niblick around a tree after scuffing six in a row—they can get one exactly like it.

A new machine built by the Cincinnati Milling Machine Co., for McGregor Golf, Inc., turns out 15,000 matched irons a week — each one precisely like the rest.

The machine is technically known as a "broach," and was purchased on the advice of golfing star Byron Nelson, adviser to the company.

The 50-ton machine makes mass production of golf clubs on a precision basis possible for the first time. Although McGregor officials haven't said so, it probably will mean lower-priced clubs.

It will be installed in the firm's plant in Cincinnati, recently moved from Dayton, O.

Boxer Sets Record — 11 Pups

GOSHEN, Ind. (UP) — Dr. C. R. Corson's boxer Mitzie was believed to have set a record for the boxer breed when she gave birth to 11 pups. The veterinary said two of the litter were being raised by hand as the flock was too much for Mitzie to handle unaided. One puppy died at birth.

Jan. 24 — Fine grey mare died from exposure and cold weather.
 Feb. 1, 2, and 3 — Very cold and freezing weather. Cattle dying—business dull—money scarce and prospects gloomy.
 Feb. 5, 6, 7, and 8 — Regular old fashioned norther, getting colder every minute. Hard to tell how the thermometer stands. Can't get any colder. Snow and sleet. If cattle men don't shelter their stock they ought not be allowed to vote.
 Feb. 21 — First martins of the season arrived this morning and took in C. H. Simon's box.
 March 1 — Finished Simon's porch and chickenhouse.
 March 17 — St. Patrick's Day—Cold, windy and disagreeable.
 March 21 — Another sand storm from the south—rather warm. Lots of cattle have passed through town this week, and were bought at very low prices. They were poor and will not be fit for market until fed.
 April 2 — Mr. Davenport and Miss Maud Johnston married this morning and lit out for a bridal trip—creating quite a sensation. "All's well that ends well."
 April 16 — Made a new box for our cistern.
 April 19 — Elbert and wife moved out to the ranch. He is going into the stock business.
 April 21 — A cold norther struck Eastland this morning with sand and dust. The town looks like it had been plowed up.
 April 28 — One of the most terrible and destructive cyclones that has visited Eastland County happened last Friday night about 9 o'clock. From the northwest it struck Cisco, demolishing the entire town, killing some 20 to 30 people and wounding as many more. After leaving Cisco, it struck Elbert Townsend's ranch house, tearing it into kindling wood. Next it struck C. B. Jenkins' house, tearing the house to pieces, blowing the chimney into the eistern; uprooting all the trees in the yard and blowing away the stone wall. His loss is heavy. Several of the family were hurt, but none seriously.
 May 29 — C. B. Jenkins will raise his new house today near the railroad. Hope they will have better luck this time.
 May 31 — Today was the hottest in the month of May. Thermometer registered 94 in the shade.

Californian Writes of His Trip Back To His Native State of Texas

By S. ED REYNOLDS

We walked a short distance north to the mouth of a canyon where my father and my older brothers, Jim and Will, built a couple of dams to provide water for the stock and for drinking purposes, as we had no well. There was a small catch-dam above the larger dam which caught most of the dirt and debris coming down from the hills and, although the water was muddy for a while, we had pretty good tank-water after it settled. We had to carry it in buckets and the water we used for drinking purposes had to be hung where the wind would strike it and if the vessel had been covered with double cloths and kept damp it was what people of those days called "pretty good drinking water"; today the people are not so easily pleased.

Instead of the pool of water mentioned above, although the dam showed evidence of later enlargements, it had at some time past been overflowed, possibly by a cloudburst, and a wide gap cut down to the bottom and there was no water in either pool which seemed to completely wipe out everything of material value to my childhood home; but thank God there is another view that is encouraging. The fathers and mothers of those days, who have about all passed on to their reward, had courage and faith, and did a splendid job of developing this country with nothing to do with; and the people of the present are doing much to better conditions but it seems to me that in the intervening years they have lost much that could have been retained and which would have given our story a brighter tinge and our picture a more soul inspiring background.

When walking along between the old farm and big-hill, we used to call it, I looked for a large rock which is about 10" thick and about 4 ft at the bottom and diamond pointed at the top, which is some 3 ft from the ground. It is lime-stone and sets seemingly deep in the soil and I thought it formerly leaned slightly downhill but now it stands perfectly straight up. My impression of it leaning down hill might have been because of the slope of the hill.

After leaving the farm, about 200 yards, we crossed what once was the boys' play ground where we got much more of our exercise when in school than in any other way. There we played town-ball long-base, ball-pen, wolf-over-the-river, marbles, roley-holey and what have you. I was about to forget a game we played by throwing a knife and sticking it in the ground in various ways. Most everything was supposed to be done with each hand and it was played under a regular set of rules, and the winner would make a peg from a match, stick or other kinds of wood about 3-4 of an inch long, he was then blindfolded and permitted to hold the peg in one hand and the blade of the knife in the other, then settling the peg with point to ground he was to drive the peg as deep as he could with 3 strokes of the back of the knife and I'll tell you honestly some of those guys got to where they could sink the peg with 3 strokes to where you could barely see it. If I had not quit playing mummel-peg I would have had no sign of a nose today perhaps. It is all spread out over my face the way it is, just from rooting the peg.

Leaving the play ground we went down the Cisco and Carbon road to the river bridge, which I found changed considerably. I moved the high arch banisters removed, that was there when built and replaced with lower banisters, etc. I imagine some of your readers will be surprised to learn that the Leon River bridge there has been in use more than 50 years. According to my memory it was built in 1888 or 1889. Some of the workers that built it, boarded at our house in the Valley.

Scripture: Mark 3:14-17; Luke 9:49-56; 1 John 4:7-8

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

AS intense as Peter, but driven by a steady, persistent ambition which kept them free from Peter's weakness and lapses, were James and John, whom Jesus called the "Sons of Thunder."

In character and purpose, and in their intense desire to have the places of power and preferment in the earthly kingdom which they supposed Jesus was going to establish when they responded to His call, these three were outstanding among the twelve.

Jesus recognized their forceful and outstanding qualities. He accorded them some privileges not granted the others: not by way of conferring favoritism, but because He knew that upon them, even more than upon the others, the responsibilities, dangers, and burdens of leadership would fall when His own mission had been fulfilled.

BUT He had His troubles with them. Though He took the three up with Him into the mountain of Transfiguration, where they shared that unforgettable experience. He did it as a part of the process of purging their souls of earthly passions and ambitions, and building within them a faith and vision that would keep them strong and true in the years ahead.

With the "Sons of Thunder" Jesus had particular difficulties. They were also the sons of Zebedee, and "the mother of Zebedee's children" had fired these sons with an intense ambition. She made trouble when she came to Jesus asking that one of her sons should sit on His right hand, and the other on His left hand, when He came into His kingdom.

And the marvel is that men so full of ambition, and with such ideas of worldly power and success, should have become such loyal, unselfish, and devoted disciples when they discovered that the kingdom Jesus had come to establish was spiritual.

THAT they remained with Him reveals how good and strong they were in spite of their faults of fiery temper and inordinate ambition. The other ten disciples were indignant when they heard of the mother's request. The notable thing in the story is that when Jesus assured them that the places they asked for were not His to give, and warned them of the sufferings that would have to bear, they said, "We are able."

And they were able. What men they became under the loving guidance and discipline of Jesus!

We can measure the progress in regeneration, as we contrast the "Sons of Thunder" wanting Jesus to call down fire from heaven to consume villagers who had used Him inhospitably, with the gentle John, the same "Son of Thunder," saying, "We know that we have passed from death into life, because we love the brethren," and "Little children, love one another."

the national scene against Federal action, and to promote Federal legislation only on questions of national concern.

3. To try to adjust the expenses of the Federal Government with an adequate income and to reduce the burden of taxation as quickly as possible.

4. To encourage the building of public works such as highways, farm to market roads, dams, irrigation systems, and other worthwhile projects where there is an established need and where these works would benefit the economic life of the community; but to discourage expensive activities of the Federal Government that tend to compete with the American Business Man and to hamper the principles of free enterprise and sound economy.

5. To consider the Federal Government's responsibilities as the guardian of all its people, to protect one group from wanton exploitation by another; and to establish between Labor and Management a permanent and sound basis for settling disputes, granting full and enforceable justice to the grievances of their party, possibly by the establishment by law of an unbiased Arbitration Court of qualified and well-paid judges, whose decisions would be backed by proper and just law.

6. To promote Federal aid in a sound and reasonable way to our American educational endeavors and to facilitate in every way the state educational programs; looking at all times toward a secure future through competent and well trained boys and girls.

7. To protect and strive to improve upon existing social legislation and the progress it has made in the form of old age pensions, social security, child labor laws, etc.

8. To work and to faithfully cooperate at all times to the best interests of our Veterans, to facilitate immediate hospitalization of all those who need it, to observe the functions of the Veterans Administration, and to assure all veterans of their rights under present legislation.

9. To encourage the removal as rapidly as possible of all governmental wartime controls and to resort to temporary subsidies as a means of protecting minority economic groups such as the farmer, rancher, small business man, etc., during the economic flurry which will inevitably follow.

10. To remember at all times our position in World Affairs, and that to maintain that position we must have sufficient armed force to carry on the principles of the United Nations and to insure its doctrine against violations, but this without the intent of becoming a militaristic power ourselves.

11. To closely observe the actions of our State Department in its promotion of our Foreign Relations and to try to insure the path of the nation against a course toward another World Conflict.

To promote the development of the United Nations as the one sound competitor to the use of Armed force in settling international disputes.

Midget-Car Owner Forgot The Anchor

PHOENIX, Ariz., (UP) — It cost Harold Leuba, Lamson Business College instructor, $4 to learn that there is hazard as well as convenience in parking one of those new bantam automobiles.

Leuba parked his new two-cylinder car legally in downtown Phoenix, congratulating himself that the space he had found wouldn't have accommodated a model T Ford.

But along came a group of boys who, just for the fun of it, lifted it bodily, reparking it on the sidewalk. And then along came a policeman, who ordered it towed to the police garage. The towing charge was $4.

WESTBROOK, Me. (UP) — After jimmying 12 of the 13 windows at Seavey's garage, a burglar finally got in and stole $20. The only window he didn't touch was unlocked.

Paralysis Victim Flies Own Plane

ALBANY, Ore. (UP) — Bert Kraber, 28, has qualified for a private pilot's license, even though he was paralyzed from the waist down at the age of 13.

Miles Ruegenburg, State flying inspector, and Howard Burleton of the Albany airport say it was the first time they had ever seen anyone so handicapped successfully qualify for a flying permit.

Mrs. Kraber, the mother of two children, also was partially paralyzed early in childhood. But that didn't keep her from being the first passenger to ride with her husband upon his receiving the permit.

Kraber, who started flying lessons in late February, flies a dual-control plane, rigged for operation without the usual foot pedals for rudder control.

CHAPTER ONE

At the center of his whirling, bright world there was always himself—Andre Sanine, the dancer, the lithe and soaring creature with the grace of a bird in flight. Around the edges, sometimes quite clear but sometimes almost lost in the darkness, were the others. The shadows. They came and they went, revolving around the core of himself.

Max Polikoff, the great impresario, describes to La Belle Sylph the theatrical production he is planning. The financing has been arranged, scenery and costumes ordered and the orchestra engaged. Artists are crowding his office to be auditioned.

guess—because I hate her so. She had some kind of a rhythm, a chord, a dance of death chord. Bong! My hallucinations take the form of music, mostly. He breathed deep. "First I hear the violins and harps. Way up high. That's the envelope. Inside it is the idea of revenge. The dancer with the knife, you know."

Andre smiled. "It's a dance called 'The Specter of the Rose.' I've danced it a hundred times normally. You don't carry a knife. You've got on a jacket of roses. And you make love to the girl, Madame Nina. But that night the dance got mixed up. Bong! It's all different, ever since. You keep hearing that music. And you dream you're killing her."

"The COMEBACK OF A GENIUS" I haven't heard those violins and harps for some time," Andre evaded. "Lying here, listening, going on that giant swing, I've talked myself out of it a thousand times. But talk doesn't do it. Wait, I'll show you." He twisted around. "Jibby! Play it!"

"HALLUCINATIONS" Andre grimaced. "I suppose you've come to hear all about how I killed my wife—Madame Nina?"

"You must warm up first," La Sylph said from the dark. "For months—"

Andre grinned at her. "I'm always warmed up. I've been dancing all the time I was lying in bed. I danced in my mind."

His body became Jibby's music. He whirled suddenly and began to spin about the bare room; Andre, the bird in flight, the creature to whom space was but a single leap.

Those next few days, while Polikoff was off about the business of persuading a rich old woman called Mrs. Callahan to underwrite the finances of a ballet season—those days were beautiful to Andre. He was to dance again. He was greater than ever.

And now he was free. Free for lovely Haidi. She was enchantment when she practised with him in his studio while Jibby made the piano sing. There was a shining look in her eyes when they were on his face; a look which said, "I love you!" I adore you! I worship you! She was light as the wind in his arms. She was perfection.

"Thanks for the noodle soup," Andre told her, the first time. "And for being so beautiful. It's nice waking up and finding somebody beautiful around. Please dance you very best. It is important to me."

ECSTASY OF LOVE "Do you know what I did last night, Andre? I walked to One Hundred and Eightieth Street and back without stopping. That's what you do to me. I'd like to pick you up right now and hold you till you were tattooed to me."

She leaned toward him, so fragrant so young. "Andre, do you suppose anybody ever talked like that in a place like this?"

ORANGE BLOSSOMS It was Lionel Gans, the sardonic poet, who went with them to the City Hall the morning they were married—Andre and Haidi, two shining figures who put their frayed, scowling companion in some lonely outer limbo even while they smiled on him and thanked him.

GREATER THAN EVER The wild music was gone. His headaches, too, had stopped. And he knew that poor Nina—how he had hated her!—had died in exactly the way La Sylph and Polikoff and the others kept telling the policeman McFarlane. Polikoff had seen it. The audience, even, had seen it.

It was Lionel Gans, the sardonic poet, who went with them to the City Hall the morning they were married—Andre and Haidi, two shining figures who put their frayed, scowling companion in some lonely outer limbo even while they smiled on him and thanked him. Afterward, he trudged off to perform Polikoff and La Sylph of the nuptials to which his grief was but an added, drab little bouquet. "The bride blew me a kiss," he said, "and my heart performed a minuet in an ash can."

Andre thought, his pulses pounding, had he not occasionally detected a certain look in La Sylph's glittering eyes. It was a look of affection, but there was fear in it, too. As though she sat there waiting for something dreadful to happen. It was disturbing. At a wedding, Andre felt, it should not be

Navy In Pacific Has No Fear Of Beer Drought

HONOLULU (UP)—Talk of a beer drought this summer does not bother the Navy in the Pacific, a United Press survey showed today, because the bell-bottom boys have approximately 1,800,000 cases on hand.

In fact, the Navy literally is drenched with beer. Pearl Harbor officials indicated that if the Navy found it wouldn't need all the amber brew, some may be declared surplus later on.

Fort Shafter headquarters of Army Forces Middle Pacific said Army beer stocks are sufficient only to meet current demands.

They were not able to supply figures, as an inventory of stocks is underway.

The Navy said beer was scarce, but available all through the war in the Pacific—a statement usually challenged by soldiers who were stationed on remote atolls.

On V-J Day, the Navy said it had enough beer on hand for a ration of two cans per man per day.

Since December, 1945, demobilization cut demand for beer while stocks accumulated, so that now the only restrictions are dictated by a man's thirst.

Navy men can have all the beer they want so long as they behave themselves, officials said.

With an estimated 470,000 Navy personnel in the Pacific now, a supply of 92 cans per man was available.

The Army, however, was not so well off. Procurement experts at

PETITION IN BEHALF OF JOHN LEE SMITH FILED BY VETERANS

HOUSTON, TEX., April 8, 1946.—A group of 25 Harris County World War II veterans Tuesday sent a $100. certified check and a petition requesting that Lt. Gov. John Lee Smith's name be accepted as a candidate for governor by the State Democratic Committee, William H. Posey, group leader, reported.

"We feel Lt. Gov. Smith has been a consistent advocate of those principles for which the youth of this country fought and died, especially the following points:

"1. That ex-servicemen must be given preference in all jobs, public and private, and that his honorable discharge should be the only requirement for employment. It should not be secondary to a union card.

"2. A Veterans' State Employment Commission should be created."

Lt. Gov. Smith announced for governor about a month ago. Presumably his filing fee already has been paid.

Mr. Posey identified himself as state commander of the Texas Veterans Political Council, a new organization with posts recently established in seven Texas cities. He added: "John Lee Smith was the only prominent State Official who had the courage to oppose war-time strikes.

"He is the only candidate who now says that the veteran should be free to get a job without paying some labor racketeer for same."

Getting around over the State: A touch of the Southwest, on a courthouse lawn in Plainview is a windmill. Saw "a cowboy leading his horse across the Colorado River bridge at Austin—and they were walking on the bridge sidewalk. F. B. Ralls of Ralls has a collection of walking canes, 84 of them. Somewhere on the high seas is a present destined for this columnist; it is a Japanese sword, 440 years old, and is the gift of Lt. Col. Ralph Yarborough of Austin, whose Army Division—the 97th—was the only one to serve in both Europe and the Pacific. Among his many important assignments has been directing the military government in an area containing one-seventh of the population of Japan. Col. Yarborough has received two battle stars, a bronze star, a commendation citation and ribbon.

A little Texas story: A farmer living near one of the big cities became quite noted for his weather predictions, which were more accurate than the official forecasts. At last, the weather forecaster of the city decided to learn what the other's system was, so he drove to the farm and found the old fellow plowing. The visitor (let's call him Brown) did not introduce himself but opened the conversation with:

"You are very successful in predicting the weather; how do you do it?"

The farmer replied, "My method is simple: I just see what that fool Brown predicts, then I predict just the opposite and I hit it nearly every time."

That story suggests the one about the pioneer who was asked, "Are you pretty good about figuring out what the weather is going to be?" He answered, "I was until the government took the weather over—and now I can't figure what it's going to do, at all."

Says Nylon Better To Be Kept In Use FORT WORTH, Tex., (UP)—"Keep your Nylons in use, girls," L. G. Morgan, a chemist from Ft. Worth's Industrial Laboratories, warns.

Morgan, whose firm has been using nylon filter cloths for more than three years, puts it this way: "Suppose a woman has a dozen pairs of nylons. She puts six pairs away to 'save.' She wears the other six pairs. With the usual care, the six pairs she is wearing will outlast the six that she is saving."

Morgan has found that nylon keeps better when it is tightly sealed. It deteriorates faster when stored open to the air, the chemist points out. However, he adds that the deterioration won't take place in a few months or even within a year's time.
