Grover Sellers To Speak Here Tuesday 4:00 p. m.

Grover Sellers, candidate for governor, will explain his nine-point program for Texas welfare at a rally in Eastland at 4 o'clock, Tuesday, June 25.

Jimmie Jefferies, famed "Early Bird" radio comedian, assisted by Peg Moreland, singing guitarist, and a string band, will present a comedy-music jamboree here preceding the Sellers speech.

Pleading for "sane, sensible and stable leadership during the next four momentous years," Sellers will elaborate his platform, which proposes:

Passage of a constitutional amendment to set up a Veteran's Land Board and authorizing a fund for purchase of farms and homes for more than 100,000 veterans; improvement of 40,000 square miles of farm-to-market roads; expansion of rural electrification; adequate care for the blind and insane and unfortunate children; full payment of $40 monthly for the aged, as provided by the constitution; amendment of the workmen's compensation law to increase the current $20 a week ceiling to an amount sufficient to provide for the injured and their families during disability and to include wounded veterans in its provisions; passage of a law to guarantee working women the same service as men; establishment of State Health Department laboratories to combat polio and other communicable diseases and an extensive plan for public preventive medicine and support of measures to raise educational standards, including substantial salary increases for teachers and equal, but separate, educational opportunities for colored students, including a first class university.

In all of his speeches Sellers has pointed out that, as Attorney General, he has had the confidence of both labor and management, but has made it clear that he is opposed to any special group which may try to dictate governmental policies or sacrifice the welfare of the public for selfish interests.

Many Families Coming Here Say Realty Dealers

The activities of our Chamber of Commerce, the Civic League, the Garden Club and other service organizations are paying handsome dividends on the efforts put forth, not only in the matter of beautifying and improving the appearance of our city, but as contributing factors in locating so many new residents here, says T. L. Fagg, of Fagg and Jones Real Estate Firm.

Real Estate continues in strong demand and it appears that such may be the case for another year, or two at least. One real estate firm, Fagg and Jones, who have been instrumental in locating more than a dozen new families here report the following residents coming here from other towns during the past two weeks:

A. B. Falletti and family from Clearmore Okla., have located on South Seaman; Mrs. Nora Butler from Crane, Texas has bought a nice home west of town. Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Rollins of Abilene are taking possession this week of their home on South Seaman. Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Crockett are now at home on west Commerce in the home bought from John D. Seale. Finis C. Butler recently of the armed forces has purchased a home north of town and will soon take possession. Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Worley are now at home on South Seaman in the residence purchased from Rev. F. A. Hollis. Mr. and Mrs. L. L. McMillan will occupy their home on West Main this week and start improving same. And so it goes all over the town. The cleanliness and spic and span appearance of Eastland has been the cause of more favorable comment from those coming here from other places than perhaps most any other single item.

Oregon Seeds 2,200 Acres Of Forest By Air

SALEM, Ore. (UP)—The Oregon state forestry department is patiently waiting the results of an experiment that may revolutionize an essential phase of one of Oregon's most important industries.

The industry is lumbering; the essential phase is growing trees, and the experiment is seeding by airplane.

Two large tracts already have been seeded from the air. One is a 1,400 acre area in the great Tillamook burn. The other is an 800 acre site in Polk County.

The larger area was chosen because of its adaptability to an experiment of this kind, forest officials said. In that area there are various intensities of burn caused by recent and very old forest fires and the terrain is relatively rough, and the area has all aspects for planting.

Because of a high rodent population (mainly white-footed mice) it was necessary to undertake a control project along with the planting program. If this was not done, the animals would gobble up the seed almost before they could germinate.

The Fish and Wildlife Service was called in to assist in the control project. Poison was spread in a series of strips one-half mile wide around the planting area. This was done mainly by hand. Then an airplane was used to spread poison in the planting area before the seeds were sown.

Two different seed mixtures were used. Five hundred acres were planted with Douglas fir and Port Oxford cedar. The remaining area was planted with Douglas fir, Sitka spruce and Western hemlock.

In the Polk County site the only seed used was Port Oxford cedar, which is so small, rodents do not bother it.

Both areas will be checked at regular intervals during the next few years to determine the extent of germination and survival of seedlings. Results of the experiment will not be known definitely for several years.

Meantime, foresters are crossing their fingers in hopes that the new process may save many tedious hours of back-breaking labor required to plant by hand. But the main possibility for which the foresters watch is that this new method of planting may speed up Oregon's fastly diminishing tree population.

146 YEAR OLD DISPUTE SETTLED BY U. S. COURT

AUSTIN (UP)—King Charles the Fourth of Spain certainly never could have foreseen the trouble he was going to cause when he issued a grant of some of his New World land to Padre

Nicholas Ball in the year 1800. But it was only this week, 146 years later, that the United States Supreme Court settled the disputes that arose over the grant. The grant was of the island then known as Santiago Island in the Gulf of Mexico. It parallels the Texas shoreline and in varying width extends almost from Corpus Christi to Brownsville. Nowadays it is mapped as Padre Island, taking its name from Father Ball.

The Spanish Crown lost Mexico before Padre Ball had his grant go all through the government red tape that seems to have been as prevalent then as now. At all events, he had to apply to the Governor of Tamaulipas, Mexico, for what now would be known as a certified copy of the grant or a new title to the island.

The Governor of Tamaulipas could not find the originals in his archives but after surveys and other procedure it was ordered that upon payment of $446 the applicants were to be put in possession of the island by the Alcalde of Matamoros. By that time Padre Nicholas was dead and Juan Jose Balli was claimant.

By the time the State of Texas decided to claim the island as public land, rival rights were made by many Ballis, oil companies and cattle grazers. The suit named 221 defendants.

The state first claimed all of the island. It claimed all of the approximately 135,000 acres in the island but later claimed especially a part on the ground that surveys showed the island to be much larger than the amount of land mentioned in the grant to Balli.

Beside arraiguing the Texas Governor and Attorney General of 1937-38 on rival sides, the matter also proved a stumbling block for the Texas Supreme Court. Three dissenting opinions were filed when the decision was made against the state claim here. A majority of the three-member court which existed at that time adopted an opinion written by then Commissioner C. S. Slatten holding that the Mexican government had granted an entire island to Balli.

Then the state constitution was amended and commissioners became full voting members of the court and the Slatten ruling was sustained on rehearing. The grant seems also to have been fated to physical hazards. Records of the state land office recite that all of the papers and the original titles connected with the claims presented in Cameron County were lost in the wreck of the steamer Anson. Also, records in the archives of the State of Tamaulipas at Victoria were destroyed by the French troops who captured Victoria in 1864.

Says Painter's Appointment Predicted By UP

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—Selection of Dr. T. S. Painter for permanent president of the University of Texas was forecast in the April 1 issue of "Under the Dome."

We quote: "Dr. Theophilus Shickel Painter now appears scheduled for a long stay as president of the University of Texas. The quiet-spoken little scientist, who has not lost the touch of talking with the uneducated in understandable terms, has made such a hit as acting president that there seems no protest of early change. Perhaps he will be persuaded to take over the job without the 'acting' qualification."

Though this was widely published over Texas, it seemed a surprise to the campus and faculty when the announcement came from the regents.

Mexican War Surgeon's Diary Given To U. of T.

AUSTIN, Tex. — The diary of a Mexican war surgeon, written in 1848 has been given to the University of Texas archives by L. W. Kemp of Houston, who received it from R. L. NeSmith of Rye, New York.

Dr. Robert Hagan was assistant surgeon in the Pennsylvania Volunteers and his diary covers the period June 26, 1847 through July 17, 1848. He describes the landing at Vera Cruz and the battles of Contreras and Churubusco, and tells of the care of the sick and wounded, the hostilities and the march back to Vera Cruz.

Recent discoveries of jade deposits near Kemmerer, Wyo., give promise of a new industry in the state.

BOYCE HOUSE IS IN LT. GOVERNOR RACE

Hosts of people in Texas feel that they know Boyce House personally better than they do any other man—because of his radio program, heard by several hundred thousand; his "column" in 200 weeklies with a million readers, and his books, especially "Give You Texas," which were read by Texans all over the world during the recent war.

BOYCE HOUSE URGES HIGHER TEACHER PAY

VICTORIA — Boyce House, newspaperman and candidate for Lieutenant Governor, today advocated higher salaries for teachers as a means of maintaining a highly skilled career corps of public school instructors.

"Other professions and industries have drawn many from the teachers' ranks due to better pay and working conditions," House said. "And it is about time we realized that if the schools are to hold their present staffs and to attract the most capable men and women to the school systems, we must remedy this low pay schedule."

"Teaching is a career; it's more than a career, for it's in the school rooms that character is moulded in or men and women of tomorrow. The teaching profession now is viewed by many a student of teachers' colleges as a stop-gap occupation—between college and

VETERANS TO BE AIDED BY WAA WORKERS

FORT WORTH.—A new field service that will mean much to veterans of World War II throughout Eastland County was announced today by Hamilton Morton, regional director of War Assets Administration in Fort Worth.

Thursday, June 27 and Friday, June 28, two representatives of the Veterans Division of the Ft. Worth WAA Office will be in Abilene for the purpose of certifying veterans and providing them with factual information concerning purchasing of surplus property.

Clay W. Smith and Finis Brown, both World War II veterans, are the WAA representatives to be in Abilene next Thursday and Friday. Headquarters will be established at the American Legion hall, First and Cedar streets, Abilene, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., each day.

Bob Morris, VFW Commander, J. F. Warren, Post Service Officer of the American Legion, Z. O. Robertson of the Veterans Administration, and John Owens, VFW service office all were contacted regarding the new plan and have expressed full approval.

Veterans of World War II should bring with them their honorable discharge or certificate of satisfactory service in order to enable Finis Brown to complete the necessary papers certifying the veterans for such surplus property as they desire to obtain.

All veterans today hold a number two priority, second only to Federal Government agencies buying for their own needs on all consumer goods. In addition, many items such as trucks, tractors, farm and construction machinery and medical, dental, surgical and veterinarian equipment are on a "set aside" list exclusively for veterans.

marriage. Few public school teachers, both men and women, who have returned from the service are going back to the class rooms, and a recent survey among students at teachers' colleges revealed that few intend to follow teaching long as a profession.

"The answer is a corps of career teachers—well paid and working under the best possible conditions.

High School Freedom Surprises War Bride

MARION, O. (UP)—Take it from Mrs. Alfred M. Davis, Marion's only French war bride, there is a world of difference in French and American high schools.

For instance, Mrs. Davis pointed out, American high school pupils have a lot of fun but they are not too attentive to their studies.

Mrs. Davis, the former Mlle. Jorette Barbier of Paris, is taking a course in English literature at Harding High School here to brush up on her knowledge of the English language.

"Sometimes the pupils listen to the teacher, but not always," she said. "Here the pupils do so many things besides listen to what is being taught. In France we learn more, I think."

The former Parisian also believes that American schools are informal as compared to Europe's. In France, she pointed out, the pupils rise to their feet when the teacher enters.

"Here everything is equal," she observed.

She said she had not decided whether the freedom is good or bad in schools. Mrs. Davis indicated, however, that although informality has its points, there also should be respect for authority, tradition and one's elders.

Mrs. Davis' teacher, Mrs. Charles Osborn, said that the French war bride was quite shy when she first entered school here but now is taking an active interest in school life.

AD BRINGS REUNION

HOLYOKE, Mass. (UP)—A newspaper advertisement led to the reunion of two sisters who had been separated for 24 years.

Caroline Machnik came to America after years of forced labor at the hands of the Nazis and came to Holyoke because she remembered some distant relatives lived here. A Polish man found a cousin of hers and Miss Machnik placed an ad in a newspaper.

We're making progress on rural telephones... If you live on a farm and don't have telephone service now, you can be sure the telephone company is using every means to speed the day when you can have it. Extension and improvement of rural service was interrupted by the war, but plans to resume it went right ahead. Surveys were made, maps drawn, thousands of farmers asked what kind of rural service they liked best. The result is a 14-million-dollar postwar program for improving and extending service to rural areas in the Southwest. Now the building job is under way again. Our goal by the end of the year is to have 40,000 new rural telephones in service. Within the next five years we expect to add 165,000. There is still much to be done, and it will be some time before everyone has service who wants it. But we are well on our way. SOUTHWESTERN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

T-P Railway To Inaugurate New Service

A new page in railroad history will be written on July 7th when a through passenger train, the Sunshine Special, begins daily operation in each direction between the principal cities of Texas and New York, Philadelphia and Washington over the Texas and Pacific, Missouri Pacific and Pennsylvania Railroad, it was announced today by W. G. Vollmer, President of The Texas and Pacific Railway Company.

Plans are being discussed with the other Eastern lines for the operation of through sleeping cars between the East and the South west.

The question of operating complete through train service between Dallas, Fort Worth, El Paso and other important intermediate points in Texas to the principal Eastern cities has been under study for many months by the officials of the Texas and Pacific, the Missouri Pacific and the Pennsylvania Railroad, and it is a source of much satisfaction to me that the Texas and Pacific Railway, on the advent of its seventy-fifth anniversary, is one of the three participating railroads that brings this history-making passenger train service to the people of Texas and the South west, Mr. Vollmer declared.

Several through sleeping cars now operate between the East and the West via Chicago but never before, it was pointed out, have railroads joined in the operation of a solid daily train beyond Chicago or St. Louis. The three railroads, it was said, decided there was a sufficient volume of travel between the Southwest and the Atlantic seaboard to justify the operation of a complete, no-switch through train.

There will be no switching or change in the consist of the trains in St. Louis, although they will be serviced while in the Union Station.

The new train service will be started in both directions July 7th with the Westbound Sunshine Special leaving the Pennsylvania Station, New York at 9:00 PM for Dallas, Fort Worth, El Paso and intermediate points, while the Eastbound companion train will depart El Paso at 9:00 PM for Washington, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and New York.

There will be no change in the present arrival and departure time of the Sunshine Special train at Texas points.

In their new and extended East Southwest service, the Sunshine Special trains will have through coaches, reclining chair cars, dining and lounging facilities, together with sleeping cars offering various types of rooms as well as open sections. Equipment for the trains will be supplied by the three between the East and the Southwest participating railroads. "The new service will bring closer together the community of interests and will serve to accentuate the industrial development that is under way in this great area where there is an abundance of raw materials and a constantly expanding consumer market," concluded Mr. Vollmer.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS By Boyce House

A good while ago, our friend, Rufus Higgs, of the Stephenville Empire-Tribune, got to thinking about "the good old days," with the following result: Cotton production in the old days was a simple matter of calculation—forty acres was good for fifteen or twenty bales, some times more. Taxes were low, living expenses at a minimum and a good buggy horse would sell for more than $100.

A span of miles sixteen hands high would easily sell for four and five hundred dollars. Everybody went to church in those days; prayer meeting was an event rather than a formality. A political rally attracted crowds from far and near while an ice cream supper was tops in attendance. School and church picnics would ordinarily bring out but one while a "badger" fight created a hundred per cent co-operation, while a "badger" fight created a sensation. The man who worked all Spring and Summer—as they did at the turn of the century—would seek a place for diversion after he laid his crops by. He would either go to see his relatives in East Texas, hunt up a camp meeting where horse feed and tie ropes were supplied, or take off on a fishing trip.

If he had been provided with modern-day attractions such as movies he more than likely would have been far more contented to spend a few hours listening to Clark Gable than he would have driving a spavined team back to Hunt County for a visit with his wife's folks.

Many other comparisons could be drawn, of course. Yet oldsters marvel at the progress that has been made and as well as they like to think of the "good old days" it would be a hard matter to get a single one of them to agree for a return to those halcyon days.

The pioneers are proud of the wonderful improvements that have been recorded within the past two decades.

The magazine said Fordham University in New York City is second largest, with 6,082 students. It is followed by Marquette and Notre Dame.

HISTORIC BRIDGE ENDS CAREER AFTER 109 YEARS

CYNTHIANA, Ky. (UP)—A 109-year-old wooden bridge, whose history is synonymous with the history of tradition-laden Kentucky, has become the victim of modern day engineering.

Today, three wood arches resting on limestone piers that support weight of the traveling public for more than a century are all that remain of the ancient wooden structure crossing South Licking River.

The span, constructed under supervision of Greenup Remington, famous in his day as a builder of wood spans, was ordered torn down by the Harrison county fiscal court. The timbermen from the historic structure were to be used in repairing other county bridges.

The bridge was condemned as unsafe by the Kentucky highway department in 1943. Old timers blame "modern vehicles" for the passing of the bridge, claiming the weight of modern cars moving at a greater speed caused vibrations of the bridge, and its condemnation.

During the Civil War the bridge was the center of heavy fighting between Union Army troops and Gen. John Hunt Morgan's raiders in two battles here.

As the story is told, a bitter fight at the scene of the bridge preceded Morgan's taking control of the span on the first of his famous raids in Kentucky in 1862.

It is said that the general's company was repulsed several times while trying to rush the bridge, plunged into the stream below, and after withstanding a severe counter-attack by the Union defenders of the town, took control of the east portal of the bridge.

Another company charged across the bridge and up the main street of the town to split defenses.

The account of the battle added that a 12-pound howitzer manned by a company of Cincinnati firemen swept the bridge and held off Union men until they were exposed to the fire of Morgan's howitzers.

Campaigns were led by the local newspaper and several historical organizations to save the old bridge, but to no avail. The span recently made more "history." Two men were returning from a carnival across the river and decided to take a last walk across the bridge. But they were unaware that the flooring had been removed, and fell into the river.

Amidst wailing police and fire department sirens the floundering two were rescued from the dark waters.

An old-time resident standing nearby was heard to remark, "the old bridge seems to be crying for attention in hope it might yet be saved."

Hospital Tests Develop New See-Sawing Bed

NEW YORK (UP)—The theory that bed-rest is the best thing for the patient has received another setback as a result of tests on four conscientious objectors by the New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center.

Out of the tests on the volunteer patients came a design for a new bed—an oscillating bed—which constantly see-saws up and down.

The hospital concluded, after keeping the four healthy COs immobilized for six or seven weeks, that losses of nitrogen and calcium resulted. Later tests with the electric-driven bed showed smaller losses.

The hospital's findings have been submitted to the American Society for Clinical Investigation. The tests began two and a half years ago with Drs. John E. Dietrick and G. Donald Whedon working with Dr. Ephraim Shorr.

Four willing conscientious objectors were found through Selective service and were placed in casts similar to those used for a fractured pelvis, except that they were split in half to allow the patients 20 minutes of freedom daily.

At the end of the test period the hospital noted the loss of nitrogen ran as high as one-fourth of that of a patient with a fractured leg. Nitrogen is used in building muscle. The loss in calcium, the "bone-builder," was from one-third to one-half that of a fracture patient.

The efficiency of the circulation of the blood was impaired. A year later the oscillating bed was tried with the same routine. Three COs were used in this test, with the beds moving eight hours a day for two of them. For the third, Stanley C. Wright, 21, of Detroit, the bed was kept running on an average of 21 hours a day.

None of the men experienced any discomfort from the moving bed, which at one time lowered the bed as much as 24 degrees. A slight shaking of weight and pressure on the beds were noticeable at first, but later the patients were scarcely aware of motion.

Dean Asserts World's Minerals Are Increasing

EASTON, Pa. (UP)—The world's mineral deposits are expanding, not shrinking, according to Dr. Thomas M. Read, dean of the Columbus University School of mines.

Speaking at Lafayette College, Dr. Read said that despite the war years, petroleum reserves in the United States will last more than 2,000 years at the present rate of production.

Furthermore, "The whole energy problem has been practically wiped out by the discovery of how to use nuclear energy in the last few years," he said. "There is no longer any reason to worry about how our descendants may provide themselves with mechanical energy."

Reasserts Pledge To Get Action On Redistricting

HOUSTON.—Asserting that population shifts necessitate redistricting for legislative purposes Grover Sellers, candidate for governor in a statement here today, reiterated a pledge made last week in Lubbock that he will seek legislative action on such a measure if he is elected.

"I will use my influence to achieve redistricting," Sellers said "and I believe I can influence the legislature to accomplish this within two years, because I propose to work in close harmony with the lawmakers for a finer Texas."

Paul Revere Woke Philadelphia, Too

GREENWICH, Conn. (UP)—Less publicized than Paul Revere's ride from Boston to Concord, Mass., was his gallop from Boston to Philadelphia over the Greenwich-New Haven highway with news of the Boston Tea Party.

Natives of this community gaped when they saw the half-frozen horseman pause at Guilford to "bait" his horse. Revere's face was streaked with war paint, the tea party celebrants having disguised themselves as Indians.

Seek Method For Preserving Corn To Retain Taste

AUSTIN, Tex.—Frozen corn on the cob that tastes like roasting ears fresh from the stalk is the objective of an experiment of blanching fresh corn by radio frequency heating, being carried on at the University of Texas by A. J. McCrocklin, Jr., special instructor in electrical engineering.

Prof. McCrocklin is experimenting with preparation of corn for quick freezing by dielectric heating rather than by boiling water or live steam.

"When corn is not heated sufficiently to kill all enzymes, it has a tendency to discolor, and develops a cob taste," he said. "By present methods it requires about 12 minutes to heat the corn on the cob sufficiently to kill enzymes in the cob."

With the high frequency, dielectric method, the corn is heated in only a minute and a half.

Illinois Firemen To Hold Annual Fire College

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UP)—One of the most unusual schools in the country is the annual Illinois Fire College, held at the University of Illinois for firemen of the state.

The 22nd annual session was scheduled to be held this year from June 18-21, with speakers selected by the Illinois Firemen's Assn. on hand to discuss new hazards, chimneys and flues, postwar fire protection plans, air field protection, and various new research. Demonstrations will be staged by fire department teams from Illinois cities.

AWOL Soldier Caught By Jailer

BONHAM, Tex. (UP)—Jailer Earl Nunn may be a bit old but he's not too elderly to chase a would-be escapee down.

An AWOL soldier walked out of his cell the other day and Nunn gave chase, finally collaring his man four blocks from the jail. The prisoner had made the mistake of calling to a taxi and stopping to wait for it to pick him up.

Foundation Sets Up Magnetic Division

CHICAGO (UP)—Reorganization of all magnetic wire sound recorder activities and establishment of a magnetic recorder division has been announced by Dr. Jesse E. Hobson, director of the Armour Research Foundation of the Illinois Institute of Technology.

The magnetic recorder division will co-ordinate all sound recorder activities, including the foundation's licensee technical service and licensing negotiations with manufacturers to produce Armour magnetic wire sound recorders.

Bank Book Not Destroyed By Fire

AMARILLO, Tex. (UP)—Here is one for the books—check books, that is.

It seems that a fire destroyed the building of the Draper-Ross Produce Company of Amarillo recently, burning to a charred rubble everything in the office but a bank check book containing some 20 checks.

In fact, the checks weren't even "hot" when company officials, probing around in the rubble the next day, found them.

What's more, there just isn't any way that the checks could have been insulated from the path of the fire, these same officials say.

Iron Or Alive He's At Home On a Horse

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (UP)—M. C. Sherman of Wichita Falls is equally at home on an iron horse or a flesh-and-blood animal. He works at the Fort Worth and Denver City Railroad roundhouse and rides a horse to and from work.

HAND REPLACES BEE SANTA PAULA, Cal. (UP)—Large-scale experiments in the relatively new "hand-pollination" in flower: growing will be adopted for the first time in Ventura county.

With an expert hand substituted for the haphazard bee, experts predict many unusual combination can be achieved.

U. S. Chemists Gave Cases Actual Tests

EVANSTON, Ill. (UP)—American scientists knew more about gas warfare than did experts in any other country according to Dr. Malcolm Dole, Northwestern University chemistry professor, and technical director of the Chemical Warfare Service's field tests.

The Americans got their know-how the hard way—by actual tests under battle conditions.

Dr. Dole was wounded when 11 phosgene bombs went off 60 yards away. Several suffered bad burns from searing liquid mustard gas. The chemists suddenly became keenly interested in further excavation of their foxholes. James N. Pitts, another Northwestern experimenter, remarked, as he described how bomb fragments cut down trees 100 yards from the explosions.

The tests were made in an isolated house in Lake Forest, Ill., a wooded area near Marion, Ky., a desert near the Dugway Mountains in Utah, a coral island in the Dry Tortugas, a jungle island near Panama, and the Targee National forest in Idaho.

The junction at Clapham, near London, is the world's busiest railroad intersection, with 2,500 trains

These tests on the jungle island proved that only the newest gas masks, developed at Northwestern, could protect soldiers in the dank forests.

"This field research was an essential part of the Army's chemical warfare program, for the most powerful gas is useless—or even dangerous—if you don't know how to use it," Dole said.

Strict secrecy was the scientists' watchword. Value of real estate soared in Bushnell, Fla., because residents thought the expedition was prospecting for oil in the swamps.

Re-Wed on 50th Anniversary CLEVELAND, (UP)—To celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Scherwin of Cleveland re-enacted their wedding ceremony at St. Stephen's Catholic church recently and even rode a horse and buggy there.

The ceremony was identical with the one performed 50 years ago. There was the same priest, maid of honor, best man, and the flower girl, who then was only three.

On hand to see that things ran smoothly were the Scherwin's three daughters, three sons 10 grandchildren and a great grandchild.

The junction at Clapham, near London, is the world's busiest railroad intersection, with 2,500 trains

ST. LOUIS, (UP) — A 17-year old St. Louis boy who suffers the twin handicaps of total blindness and severe diabetes is a "good scout" in every sense of the word.

Eugene Hendon, student at the Missouri School for the Blind, has been awarded a special medal as outstanding Scout in Troop 109, comprised entirely of blind boys.

Hendon serves as troop librarian of the troop's Braille Boy Scout library. He cannot enter into the more rugged aspects of scouting because of his diabetes, which requires special diet and insulin shots before each meal.

Hendon assists the other boys in preparations for overnight hikes with cheerfulness, despite the fact that he never can accompany them.

He has been an enthusiastic Scout for many years and his scoutmaster says he has been an inspiration to the other boys.

"All I do is try to finish my job as best I can," Hendon says.

1880 to 1890

September 2, 1894 — Fine rain nearly all day. Fine for cattle, crops and turnips.

5th — The camp meeting's broke up Sunday night. It was a perfect failure. No mourners, no converts, two good preachers. No crops, rain and hard times.

18th — R. Hunt's barn and stable was finished today by Jerry Smith, builders. It is a good job.

20th — Doc Simmons got home from Louisiana last night. He was very sick.

26th — Several mad dogs have been killed after biting hogs, dogs and cattle in this country.

30th — Cloudy with slight shower, wind in the north.

Left town this morning for C. B. Jenkins to spend several days. Found all hands picking cotton.

Sightless Youth Given Special Scout Medal

ST. LOUIS, (UP) — A 17-year old St. Louis boy who suffers the twin handicaps of total blindness and severe diabetes is a "good scout" in every sense of the word.

Eugene Hendon, student at the Missouri School for the Blind, has been awarded a special medal as outstanding Scout in Troop 109, comprised entirely of blind boys.

Hendon serves as troop librarian of the troop's Braille Boy Scout library. He cannot enter into the more rugged aspects of scouting because of his diabetes, which requires special diet and insulin shots before each meal.

Hendon assists the other boys in preparations for overnight hikes with cheerfulness, despite the fact that he never can accompany them.

He has been an enthusiastic Scout for many years and his scoutmaster says he has been an inspiration to the other boys.

"All I do is try to finish my job as best I can," Hendon says.

Re-Enlistment With Benefits Deadline July 1

A recent survey in and around Ranger by Army Personnel from the Abilene Recruiting Office reveals that many veterans who are contemplating re-entry into the service are not aware that July 1 will be too late if they want the financial advantages of wartime service.

Men who come in after this date will no longer get the dependency allotments for wives, children, or parents that have been payable to soldiers families during existence of the National Emergency.

Interviews with other former members of the armed services revealed also that many men think the present law which allows re-entry into the new Regular Army within 90 days of discharge in their discharge grade will continue indefinitely. An even more important fact is nullification of that provision which allows veterans discharged as long as one year ago to come back in grade if they hold critical specialists numbers. All of these provisions are by law void after July 1 of this year.

Recruiting personnel have also been advised by executive members of numerous major schools and universities that seriously overcrowded conditions are expected by these institutions this fall and in many cases where veterans are to receive preference of entry, recent graduates of high schools will be denied entry for these reasons.

An additional reminder to these high school graduates which deserves some deliberation is the fact that those who do not enter the service before fall will forfeit the financial part of their GI educational benefits which may amount to as much as $7,500.

What Causes Destructive Fires?

... you guessed it—matches and smoking head the list with a percentage of 29.44. Then comes misuse of electricity 10.28 per cent, followed by lightning, stove flues, petroleum products, etc. During the past 10 years fires have burned up three billion dollars worth of property in the United States, and the figures are increasing despite advanced methods of fire fighting and fire control. Now that we know what causes most destructive fires let each individual lend a hand in helping prevent them.

"I have yet to meet a man who could get along with so many people—so well—in so many places."—This was the tribute to Gib Sandefer by Melville de Mellow, Manager, Director of the All-India Radio Station, Delhi, India.

Friendliest West Texan... Gib Sandefer For Representative, 17th Congressional District

"Son, I've met thousands of people in this world, but never a man I didn't like," the late Will Rogers told a youthful Gib Sandefer 20 years ago on the Hardin-Simmons University campus, where the famed humorist and good will diplomat was a guest.

And that oft repeated saying of Will Rogers has been Gib Sandefer's creed down through the years. He has traveled the world over, and everywhere he has made and left friends.

Gib Sandefer was born and reared in the 17th Congressional District. He is 40 years of age, married, and the father of one daughter. He is not wealthy, not aspiring to attain great quantities of the world's goods, but finding greater wealth instead in the friendships of his fellow man.

He attended Abilene public schools. In 1927, he was graduated from Hardin-Simmons, where for 31 years his father, the late D. Jefferson Davis Sandefer, was president. He remained with the university, as Business Manager of athletics and as manager of the famous and colorful Cowboy band. It was through his ability to make the right contacts, that the band toured 12 foreign countries, gave command performances before crowned heads of Europe, and traveled 500,000 miles spreading the music and spirit of the West Texas Cowboy.

In 1929, Gib Sandefer bought a small ranch in Nolan county, and operated it with success until disposing of it in 1942.

He declined a Navy commission that carried a desk assignment in Washington, D. C., to become a field representative of the American Red Cross in various combat areas of the recent war—in Africa, in Italy, and in the China-Burma-India theater. Home, he toured the United States as a lecturer asking for greater world fellowship and a more thorough understanding of the other man's problems as the means for assuring the future peace of the world. He recently declined a radio contract to offer his services to this district as representative to congress.

Auction Of Army Surplus Held At Kelly Field

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UP) — Kelly Field's small-lot sales of army surplus "hard-to-get" items are bringing housewives and tradesmen out to the field in big numbers these days.

From small wrenches to huge tool kits, from hot plates to full sized kitchen ranges, from air mattresses to sleeping bags, they all go under the auctioneers hammer at the weekly 400-lot sales. Although some of the items sound strictly G. I. material, they become civilian goods with minor converting. A pilot's navigation case becomes an ideal brief case and it doesn't take much imagination to see that a parachute seat cushion would make a dandy boat cushion.

Although some 2,000 different items, all with an original price of $300 or less, are offered for sale.

Summer Brings More Youngsters Into The Streets

CHICAGO (UP) — The end of the school year calls for added care and caution on the part of drivers, according to Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor Club.

"Instead of being confined to classrooms," he said, "these children often will be on the street, running errands, or on their way to and from play areas."

"In addition to this, the nation won't have the services of the third of a million school safety patrolmen. These boys and girls serve only during the school term."

Elaborate preparations are being made in Great Britain to accommodate American tourist travel, which in prewar days involved an annual expenditure of $400,000,000, according to British Railways.

Gib Sandefer Native Of The 17th District

Born and reared in the 17th congressional district, a true lover of West Texas; 40 years of age; married and the father of one daughter; not wealthy and not aspiring to riches; always happy in helping his fellow man and doing a bit of everything to make the world a nicer place in which to live, might well describe Gib Sandefer, how a candidate for congress from the 17th district.

Younger of the two sons of Mrs. J. D. Sandefer Sr., Abilene, and of the late Dr. Jefferson Davis Sandefer, for 31 years president of Hardin - Simmons University, Gib was born in Erath county while his father was president of John Tarleton College, and was reared on the sprawling campus of the school his father headed for almost one third of a century. He attended the public schools of Abilene and was graduated from Hardin - Simmons in 1927.

Sandefer entered the ranching business in 1929 when he purchased a small ranch in Nolan county, about 12 miles west of Maryneal. He was actively engaged in the management of this property until disposing of his interests in 1942. Although his ranching career proved profitable, Gibs first love was in the field of entertainment. In this he was a decided success in bringing cheer to peoples of all races and creeds in virtually all parts of the globe.

Gib is a 32nd degree Mason, a member of the Lions club and of the Baptist church.

Sandefer's wife, the former Inez Woodward of Roscoe, is a graduate of Hardin - Simmons university, having been awarded both B.A. and M.A. degrees by that institution. She is author of a book on the life of her famous father-in-law—Jefferson Davis Sandefer. Their daughter, Diana, will enter high school in September.

Piccard Plans 5-Mile Descent Into The Ocean

LONDON (UP) — Prof. August Piccard, the slim Swiss scientist who once looked down on the earth from a height of 10 miles, was reported at work today on final details of his plan to explore the ocean floor in a streamlined bathysphere.

British scientific circles said Piccard's undersea expedition would be more dangerous than his record-breaking ascent in 1932, which soared more than 50,000 feet into the stratosphere.

The 62-year-old professor will use a bathysphere similar to the one used by Dr. William Beebe, the American scientist who dropped 3,000 feet into the ocean 14 years ago. Piccard hopes to go down at least five miles.

Since the first depth Piccard will try to reach will be 13,000 feet, his bathysphere will incorporate several new features.

The spherical compartment will consist of two hemispheres with walls three inches thick and an internal diameter of seven feet. It will be built for two people, and must withstand a force of 16,000 pounds per square inch at the 13,000-foot depth.

Because of the danger of attack by unknown marine monsters at such a depth the bathysphere will be equipped to give off powerful electric charges.

Piccard is believed to have solved the problem of descent by the use of magnetic steel balls which can be released by the flick of a switch when the proper depth is reached. Should further depth be desired, water can be admitted through a special inlet cock.

Piccard and his assistant will sit behind plastic windows and describe what they see into dictaphones—while an automatic movie camera makes a film record of their trip.

A set of 3,000 - candlepower lamps, mounted on long arms outside the cabin, will light the way for the ocean-bed expedition, and batteries will supply the motive power.

The bathysphere will be brought to the surface by an ingenious gasoline device perfected by Piccard and his assistants in Belgium.

BUILDS AWW '46 SPECIAL KENDALLVILLE, Ind. (UP)—A. J. Rehwinkel solved the problem of how to get a new automobile by creating one.

The "AJ Special 46" is capable of a reported 40-mile-an-hour speed and burns only a gallon of gasoline every 50 miles. The one-cylinder vehicle was fashioned from used-car parts.

Former Army Doctor Returns To Japan

CINCINNATI, O. (UP) — A Cincinnati physician who played a vital role in the final push on Tokyo today is back in the war in Japan—the war against little known diseases in a strange land. Dr. Albert Sabin, professor of pediatrics at the University of Cincinnati and former lieutenant-colonel in the Army, is now a civilian consultant for the War Department.

In Tokyo he will resume for four months the battle he waged while in uniform against sleeping sickness and dengue fever. His job is to fight those diseases both among our occupation troops and in the civilian population.

Dr. Sabin was flown to Okinawa last summer to supervise vaccination of 65,000 American soldiers against Japanese "B" encephalitis, a form of sleeping sickness. His vaccine, developed in a study of the disease in 1942, is credited with preventing a major epidemic among our troops.

Bostonians Lay Claim To First Baseball Game

BOSTON, (UP) — It's generally accepted that Abner Doubleday started the game of baseball in 1839 at Cooperstown, N. Y.

But a handful of stubborn sports enthusiasts here claim that the first game recognizable as baseball was played on Boston Common one year earlier.

This historic contest, they maintain was played in 1838 between two sets of teamsters, eight to a side.

The Boston teamsters marked out an oblong by driving four foot stakes into the ground to mark first, second and third "bound". There were only two outfielders, three infielders called "scouts," a pitcher and two catchers on each side. The second catcher took care of the bad bounces.

The ball was a tiny thing compared to today 6 1/2 inches around weighing 2 21/2 ounces. The modern regulation ball is 9 inches around and weighs 5 ounces.

The game on the Common lasted two hours, but only two innings were played. There were no called
