That Reminds Me

By FRANK A. JONES

Eastland needs more boosters. It needs more boosters for its fine business institutions, its churches and schools and civic organizations. The excellence of these things contribute to civic pride. Eastland also needs another type of boosters. It needs the faithful boosters, who day in and day out and week after week through the years trade at home with their home merchants. Without these faithful community backers there would be none of the other things to which we might point with pride. They make the town a more prosperous town in which to live and make a living.

Seated alone in my office one evening after closing time a friend of long standing dropped in and as he came through the door he addressed me by my first name and said: "I have known and observed you for many years and I can truthfully say I never knew or heard of your doing anyone any harm." I thanked him and as he left my presence was beginning to feel a little proud of the good qualities he had attributed to me when it suddenly occurred to me that he had said not one word about any good I had ever done; that what he had given me credit for doing was only my duty. Believing him to be sincere, I thought that if I had done very many good deeds surely he would have remembered some of them. I thought seriously of this and as a result of his short visit made a resolution that henceforth I would endeavor to not only do no harm, but would strive to do good turns for others.

Dog lovers, and I am one of them, may draw at least some satisfaction from the fact that Representative Turner Collier of Eastland has introduced—and secured the passage of an "anti-poison" bill in the Legislature. It has yet to pass the Senate. Rep. Collier was prompted to seek the passage of this bill because of the great amount of indiscriminate poisoning of dogs in Eastland and other towns and communities in this area. The bill makes it a crime to wilfully scatter, throw, or deposit poison on the lands owned or in possession of another with the intent to injure the owner thereof or domestic animals. Strict penalties would be assessed against anyone proven guilty of violating the law.

Carl Johnson, Eastland independent drygoods merchant, recently purchased the building he is occupying and has been occupying for sometime on the north side of the square. He plans to, at some future date, remodel the building. It is a good sign for a town when its business men, especially young business men, have such faith in their hometown's future that they are willing to invest in it's business property for a permanent business home.

REV. WEEMS DYKES GUEST SPEAKER FOR EASTLAND LIONS

Rev. Weems Dykes, pastor of the Eastland First Christian Church, was guest speaker at the Eastland Lions club meeting Tuesday at noon. He was introduced by Lion G. A. Fox who had charge of the program, and talked on the Prophet Amos.

At next week's meeting of the club officers for the ensuing year will be elected. These have already been nominated by a nominating committee. Under the club's rules, however, other nominations may be made from the floor at the time of the election.

Parents of Slain Children

The parents of the four children who were found slain in a swampy area near Imlay City Michigan, are shown in their home on a farm near the scene of the crimes. Left to right are: Mrs. William Smith; Mr. William Smith; Mrs. Leona Fox, daughter of Smith by a previous marriage; Betty Coulter, a neighbor who is sobbing; and Ella Mae Smith 17, who found the bodies of her three sisters and brother. ### Second Plantings Now In Order

COLLEGE STATION — Here's a tip to vegetable gardeners, coming from horticulturists at Texas A. and M. College.

Time has rolled around when second plantings can be made on black-eyed, purple hull and crowder peas, okra, squash and corn.

Boosts that tomatoes need now, the horticulturists say, are first, a side dressing of commercial fertilizer—a small handful to each plant—and second, a thorough arsenical spraying to prevent worm damage.

WASHINGTON ORDERS FBI TO MOVE IN ON THE CASE

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Ballot boxes containing records of 34 Kansas City precincts, studied by a county grand jury which returned almost 70 election fraud indictments, were rifled during the night by professional safecrackers who invaded the towering Jackson County court house.

"It appears they took only the ballots," Ludwig Graves, board chairman, said. "We, of course, can't tell for certain until we make an investigation."

Shortly after 10 a. m., Graves announced he had received word from the FBI office here that it was "coming in on the case on instructions from the attorney general in Washington." He immediately went into conference with FBI agents.

With the vote fraud finger once more pointing squarely to Kansas City, after a 10-year gap, the night raid on the ballot boxes, held in a vault behind twin locked doors, produced from Graves the flat statement—

"Whoever it was clearly indicated what they were doing. Whoever broke in there was trying to steal records in the vote fraud proceedings."

Graves said that the job had professional earmarks. The vault room opens off a storage room, which can be entered by two doors. One was blocked from within by a board lodged beneath the knob. The other was muffled with cloth padding. The doors to the vault itself bore evidence of having been "punched" and then blown.

Meanwhile, in Washington, Atty. Gen. Tom Clark and FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover were called before a senate subcommittee to answer questions as to the government's hands-off policy in the August congressional primary in the 5th Missouri District, in which Roger C. Slaughter was "purged" by the Democratic party at the request of President Truman.

SECRETARY SELECTED FOR RANGER

As the regular meeting of the Ranger city commission held Tuesday night, R. Lester Crossley was elected to fill the office of city secretary, recently made vacant by the resignation of E. T. Eubank.

Secretary Crossley will take up his duties at the city hall Monday.

He is a native of Eastland county having been born in Eastland. He attended school at Eastland and graduated at Abilene High School. He attended Abilene Christian College for a time and then entered business college in Abilene.

From 1923 to 1931 he was bookkeeper and teller in the Exchange National Bank in Eastland and after that bank consolidated with another Eastland bank in 1931, became associated with a clothing store in Eastland as bookkeeper. Later he joined the Pipkin grocery firm and was associated with that firm as manager of their Ranger store.

Upon leaving that firm he established his own grocery business in Ranger and at the outbreak of war dissolved that business and went to Houston where he was employed by the navy ship yards for more than three years.

After the close of the war he returned to Ranger and with Owen Bray established the Trading Post and the filling station in connection with the Post.

In speaking of his selection this morning, Mr. Crossley, stated that he appreciates the confidence expressed in him by the city commission in electing him, and that he will give his best to the work of that office.

Asks Approval Of Project For Defense, Economy

WASHINGTON — Former President Herbert Hoover and Secretary of State George C. Marshall today asked early congressional approval of the St. Lawrence seaway project to strengthen the nation's defense and its peacetime economy.

Mr. Hoover and Marshall told a Senate foreign relations subcommittee that the long-debated project should be pushed to completion to provide a submarine-free waterway from the mid-west to the Atlantic, and to serve as an important source of electrical power in both war and peace.

ECONOMIST SELECTED TO HEAD INDUSTRIAL SURVEY

ABILENE Texas — The movement for West Texas industrialization has been given tangible impetus in cooperative action by the Texas & Pacific Railway, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and local chambers of 22 towns.

From the headquarters office of the regional chamber came announcement today that the territory from Fort Worth west, directly served by the T & P, soon will be under a comprehensive fact-seeking study by a national economist if industrial potentials of the agricultural, livestock and other raw materials it produces.

The economist is Dr. Sidney L. Miller of Pittsburgh, Pa., head of the Department of Transportation at the University of Pittsburgh, Pa. He has been employed by the railroad company and the 44-member West Texas-Texas & Pacific industrial development committee created, with five others by the WTCC to work with the trunk line railroads serving the territory in a concerted industrialization and national advertising program.

FORD BOOSTS EMPLOYEES' HOURLY WAGE

DETROIT — The Ford Motor Company today offered its production employees a 15-cent hourly wage increase and announced a 10 per cent pay boost for all salaried workers earning less than $1,000 a month.

The provision for salaried employees, however, excluded 3,800 striking foremen since the Foremen's Association of America has terminated its contract with the company.

John S. Bugas, Ford vice president and head of the firm's negotiating committee, said the company had offered to renew its present contract, amending it only to provide for the 15-cent hourly increase. The pact would become effective May 31.

As an alternative, he said, the company offered to make a new contract effective June 15 and insert in the contract pact any amendments agreed on through collective bargaining by that time.

The present contract expires May 30 and covers some 130,000 across the country represented by the CIO Auto Workers union.

Bugas said three and a half cents of the proffered increase would be in the form of six paid holidays a year. It followed the pattern set for the industry by General Motors and Chrysler Corporations.

Says Truman To Go Back To Washington Soon

GRANDVIEW, Mo. — President Truman's mother has made such a remarkable rally that the chief executive is planning to return to Washington, the White House staff announced today.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said the President's 94-year-old mother bounced back so strongly that the President was preparing to end his long vigil here and return to the White House.

Ross would not disclose the time set for the President's return but it was understood to be planned for the very near future.

"Since Saturday night she has rallied remarkably," Ross told reporters.

"Her improvement has reached the point where, if there is no setback, the President may now safely consider returning to Washington," he said.

CHARGES WHITE HOUSE USED PRESSURE ON HOLLYWOOD

WASHINGTON — A House Un-American activities subcommittee charged today that "some of the most flagrant Communist propaganda films" produced in Hollywood were a "result of White House pressure."

The subcommittee issued a statement which said its charges were based upon testimony and evidence submitted to it during the recent investigation of Communist activities in Hollywood.

No details of the alleged White House influence on movie production were given in the subcommittee report to the full committee.

The subcommittee recommended however, that an investigation be started to determine "responsibility and extent of the influence and interference on the part of government agencies or officials in the production of flagrant communist propaganda films."

The subcommittee also charged that the National Labor Relations Board has "given great aid to the Communists in their efforts to infiltrate and control the motion picture industry."

"There is no question as to the serious inroads that Communists have made in the motion picture industry, and it presents a problem which can only be corrected on complete exposure by the part of the committee and studio heads," the subcommittee said.

Suggests Closer Community And School Planning

AUSTIN — Closer integration of community and school planning is suggested by a University of Texas professor of architecture.

Donald P. Stevens suggests that a program of public enlightenment on functional planning of schools be promoted, and that architects make more use of research facilities of schools and universities. A number of schools are now being built which mirror mistakes of the past, Stevens says and it is up to architects to realize their responsibility in closer integration of community and school planning.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—Nine displaced persons, liberated from D. P. camps in Europe and now in the United States as refugees, were brought together in a Washington hotel parlor the other afternoon. Advance billing was that it would be the most exciting press conference of the year. It wasn't. Barely a dozen reporters showed up. Nobody cared.

Edson

Nobody cares that although the war has been over two years, there are still close to a million people in Europe's D. P. camps. They have no homes. Fearing political persecution, they can't go back where they came from. So they are shifted around from camp to camp, while authorities try to figure out what to do with them.

As one of the nine phrased it, "We have been persecuted one year by the Soviet, three years by the Germans, and two years by UNRRA." This distrust of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation fund through all their stories. They are not ungrateful of the fact that but for UNRRA they would probably not be alive today. But they resent that UNRRA camps were opened up to Soviet liaison officers who were permitted to screen the D. P.'s and take away those they wanted. UNRRA staffs have been filled with Communists and agents of the Russian NKVD secret police, they say.

All kinds of pressures have been put on these refugees to accept repatriation. In some camps the rations were cut to less than 1000 calories a day. In others there has been no heat. Some of the refugees were taken to the borders of their homelands and shoved across.

Others have accepted repatriation, tried it, then fled back to the comparative security of the D. P. camps. Their experiences have made those who stayed behind more determined than ever not to go back to the places they once called home.

They don't want UNRRA, they don't want IRO—the new International Refugee Organization which United Nations is now trying to set up. All they want is a place to go—any place where they can settle down in peace and begin again.

The nine refugees, who were introduced by dapper little Dr. David Martin of the Refugee Defense Committee which set up this conference, were a varied lot. Seven men and two women. Above the average, probably. Lawyers, professors, army officers. Well educated. The types that make good immigrants.

Two Yugoslavs, two Latvians, a Russian, a Ukrainian, a Lithuanian, an Estonian girl, a Polish Jewess. Sitting around the green felt-topped table in the hotel parlor they appeared relaxed.

Stjepan Carin, clean-cut young Yugoslav army officer, told of three terms in Hitler's and Tito's concentration camps. His wife had been sentenced with him and his first child was born in camp.

Nine Kink, tall and slender Estonian girl who was educated as a lawyer, told of escapes from both Russian and German occupation. In one night 64,000 Estonians were rounded up for deportation to Siberia. She made her way to the American zone in Germany and a job with U. S. military government.

TUNY, Russian-born law Prof. Andrey Dobrobolsky told of his capture by the Germans and his escape to the American lines. But he did not want to return to Russia. He told of one camp where he had seen a woman throw herself out the window and two men hang themselves to escape repatriation.

Wladka Meid, who at 17 became a heroine of the Warsaw Ghetto, is alive today because she does not look Jewish. Speaking perfect German, she fooled the Nazis, smuggling ammunition into the Ghetto for General Bor's futile uprising, smuggling out Jewish children to the safety of Christian families in the Polish underground.

Nobody cares about these things any more. UNRRA is about to go out of business. Everyone figured its job would be done by now.

SPORTS

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Spencer J. Drayton is in the movies—and in eight minutes you get a pretty convincing idea of how his Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau works.

Spence Drayton is the star of an excellent RKO Pathe Sportscope, "Racing Sleuth." The ex-G-Man came to the turf a little-known figure. Some said he was treading pretty deep water. If you have any thoughts of attempting to fix a horse race, though, you'd do well to take a look at the TRPB chief in action before you try.

For years they have portrayed the pretty side of sports, and as such have done a somewhat superficial job. Some golf shorts have been first rate and a few good football briefs have been made, but, as a rule, the sport is shown with its best foot forward. Sulliman's crowded and swarty gym is made to look like Richard Hudnut's beauty salon, for example.

"RACING SLEUTH" shows you the other side, too, and a lively story combines a mystery scenario with the thrills of big-league racing. Produced by Jay Bonfield, directed by Joe Walsh and written by Burton Benjamin, former NEA sports writer, it is neither superficial nor concocted. It offers a fast-moving documentary treatment of a dramatic sports accomplishment without the bogus Hollywood touch. It is the nearest thing to a genuine sports picture yet produced.

The motion picture industry ought to do more like it. "Racing Sleuth" is timely following the more recent "fix" scare.

Hospitalization Suggested For Sex Offenders

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UP)—Sex criminals should be taken out of circulation, in the opinion of Dr. Richard C. Jaenike, Strong Memorial Hospital psychiatrist. He believes they are a psychological problem and an institution is needed to care for them.

A court consultant on many cases involving morals violators, Dr. Jaenike is convinced that such criminals should be confined until cured.

"But the state makes no provision for their care," he said. "They can't be sent to a mental hospital because they don't fall in the legal category governing insanity. They do, nevertheless, need institutional care."

Advises Against Doing Your Own Prescribing

AUSTIN, May 26.—"It is an unfortunate fact that some people are willing to risk their health—possibly even their lives—by prescribing for themselves and taking a drug that they have read about somewhere and which has been termed 'miracle drug' states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"Although such drugs as penicillin, streptomycin, thiouracil and sulfa drugs have been of great value in combating diseases that have heretofore been very difficult to control, nevertheless, they can be very dangerous products in untrained hands. They were never intended to be used promiscuously for self-medication," the State Health Officer asserted.

If a pharmacist refuses to sell a particular drug and explains that it cannot be supplied without a physician's prescription the would-be purchaser should not become provoked. That pharmacist is giving sound public health advice and is also complying with the law. The State Health Officer declared that self-medication is never advisable, and even mitacle drugs" should be taken only when a doctor prescribes them.

New Smoking Method Developed For Administration Of Penicillin

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UP)—A revolutionary—and much more pleasant—method of administering penicillin, by "smoking" rather than injection, has been perfected by two University of Rochester medical school faculty members.

No more will it be necessary to subject to those unpleasant shots, says Drs. George V. Taplin and Fred A. Bryan. Under their technique, the drug is ground into microscopically fine dust and inhaled without discomfort with an equally good effect. The dust when blown into the air looks like smoke.

The two physicians revealed they developed their new method to overcome the "wasteful and laborious" means of administering modern drugs by the "aerosol" principle—vaporizing solutions of them for inhalation.

The "smoke" method, they declare, requires small amounts of penicillin to produce a concentration of the drug in the blood. Furthermore, they say, the concentration will last longer, even up to 24 hours. Other methods last only about three hours.

Thus, one dose of the drug by inhalation of the "smoke" is equivalent to eight hypodermic injections at three-hour intervals.

The new method has an added advantage in that the powdered penicillin will retain its potency for three years. Solutions of the drug must be kept in extremely cold temperatures and even then lose their strength within a week.

The "smoke" method employs an atomizer. It is a transparent plastic tube, about three inches long, and as round as a human thumb. A rubber bulb is attached at the opposite end. You squeeze the bulb and a cloud of "smoke" rolls out of the nozzle.

One could easily take 100,000 units of penicillin in a few minutes this way.

The method particularly is useful in treating infections of the lungs and other parts of the respiratory tract. It serves to put the drug to work right at the seat of the infection with remarkable effects.

But don't get the idea that you can buy a package of the penicillin "smoke" at the nearest drug store yet. Thus far, Dr. Taplin and Dr. Bryan have prepared the powder themselves in a small home-made mill. But they expect that when the method comes into wider use, drug supply firms will

the rambler by Jack E. Brady

It is very evident many children have misunderstood the instructions given them, regarding walking in safety with the traffic lights that have been placed at the highway intersections . . .

Instead of "walking-on-the-red-light", as many children say they have been told; it should be made perfectly clear to them, that the light facing them must be green when they start across the street.

The new traffic lights were put into operation about the time school was out, which accounts for the Safety Council's not visiting the schools and explaining the manner of walking with the "green light".

As the children walk when the light facing them is green, of course the light against the traffic will be red. It is hoped parents and all grown-ups will make sure the children clearly understand when to walk across the street with the protection of the lights.

area served by the T & P. It will include the making of up-to-date raw materials surveys by the West Texas chamber's research department and the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research, the latter to be underwritten by the railroad company.

The 7-member executive panel of Kelley's committee, with officials of the railroad and regional chamber, conferred with Dr. Miller at Abilene, Tues. May 20. At the close of the half-day parley he accepted the offer of employment at a fee of $10,000 and said he would be ready to start work when needed statistical information is in hand. Miller asked that no announcement be made until he had obtained clearance from Pittsburgh University for periodical leaves of absence from his classes. The clearance now has been granted.

Aim: One For All

As agreed on at the May 20 conference, the over-all purpose of Miller's study will be to look for the sound industrial potentials of the territory and determine what practical measures can be taken to further its economic development. It will not be competitive as between towns.

That point was stressed by L. C. Porter, Assistant to President W. G. Vollmer of the T & P. Porter added:

"It is our confident belief that Dr. Sidney L. Miller is in all respects qualified to aid us in setting a course for the reasonable, attainable and full development of West Texas. Upon his findings we hope to devote our efforts to the expansion and further development of those things for which our area is best suited, and not to spend time and money trying to follow courses that are economically unsound."

West Texas Future

Sidney L. Miller made this statement:

"My visit to West Texas, through I have seen only a small part of it so far, has been a real eye opener. I am convinced that the area has tremendous possibilities in many directions. Its agriculture and livestock have been developed only in part and there can be no doubt that there are important oil and other mineral resources as yet undeveloped.

"In undertaking this study I shall be looking for a sound probabilities based on realizable opportunities and will recommend action on these and nothing else. While there can be no doubt that West Texas is a natural for industrial development, the fact should be recognized that such development is unlikely to be rapid and that it can be furthered best by a careful study of disadvantages as well as advantages.

"The opportunity tendered to me by the West Texas-Texas & Pacific industrial development committee of f eers a striking challenge. I shall give it all that I have."

Dr. Miller, 57, is a native of Kansas. He is a former faculty member of Wisconsin and Iowa universities, at the latter as professor of transportation and director of the research bureau. He has been a research consultant to the Association of American Railroads and the Iowa Commerce Commission. During the war he was a transportation economist and administrator on the War Production Board, later was assistant to the deputy director of the Office of Defense Transportation. In 1946 he became head of the Department of Transportation of Pittsburgh University.

Food Sabotage Called Problem In Germany

CHICAGO (UP) — The real German "werewolves," according to a member of the Office of Military Government, are economic in their operations, rather than military.

James S. Martin, chief of the decentralization branch of the USOMG, addressing a University of Chicago audience, reported sabotage on the food front and scheming on the industrial front.

"Fifty per cent of the scheduled deliveries of important types of food failed to be delivered from the farms to the legitimate market," Martin said.

"Organized hi-jacking is prevalent. In a period of less than eight weeks, 30,000 tons of imported

Even Town Pump Joins Current Strike Epidemic

CHICAGO (UP) — Everything was on strike except bad luck, said residents of an unincorporated community near the city limits of Chicago.

First a strike shut down the telephone service to the community, Leyden Gardens. Then their local bus company drivers went on a strike.

Finally their water supply went on a sit-down strike at the bottom of the town's only well. The town pump broke down.

The 84 families in the neighborhood had to carry water from nearby communities in jars, cans and dish pans until its neighbor, Franklin Park, permitted Leyden Gardens to tap its water supply.

The first Boston-built vessel was the "Trial," a 200-ton sailing vessel, in 1642. She sailed the following year for trade with Spain.
