Price Investigation Order Draws Fire

That Reminds Me BY FRANK A. JONES

THAT YOUR RIGHT HAND MAY NOT KNOW WHAT YOUR LEFT HAND DOES:

A fine way to do a deed in a manner that your right hand will not know what your left hand is doing is to give to the Red Cross. The following was not written of the Red Cross but it applies to it in a splendid way. "For I was an hungered, and ye gave me meat; I was thirsty and ye gave me drink; I was a stranger and ye took me in; Naked and ye clothed me; I was sick and ye visited me; I was in prison, and ye came unto me." The Red Cross does all these things.

A PLEASING SIGN OF PROGRESS—THIS:

For many years home builders centered their attention on the "front" room or "parlor". Little thought was given to the kitchen where most of the work of the home was done. The "parlor" was only opened on special occasions, but the kitchen was used three times a day. Home planners of today have revised this order. The rest of the house is given a lick and a promise, so to speak, and more effort is being concentrated on the kitchen. Manufacturers are vying with each other to produce more convenient and more beautiful kitchen layouts and equipment. It is in our opinion an obviously smart thing to do. The kitchen should be given the emphasis and let the rest of the house take care of itself. A modern kitchen is an assurance of lightened labors, better meals and better living. It is a notable advance over the dingy, inconvenient and poorly equipped kitchens of fifty years ago. It is a pleasing sign of progress.

ARE YOU, TOO, GUILTY OF THIS?

A lot of folks get behind with their letter writing for the reason that they try to write too long letters. Several short letters at reasonable intervals are better than long letters at widely separated intervals.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

If no unit of government was permitted to operate on credit then taxes would have to be paid in advance. And if those entrusted with the handling of tax funds and found guilty of wasting or misappropriating them, were given the same treatment as that accorded any other "crook" and that promptly the cost of government possibly could be reduced at least half and therefore the amount of taxes cut in half. What do you think?

THE ANNUAL "RABIES SCARE" SEASON IS HERE:

About this time each year somebody in Eastland starts a "rabies" scare. City officials fail to it and issue warnings to the effect that all dogs must be vaccinated and perhaps kept up for ten days or two weeks. Owners failing to do this are threatened with having their dogs killed. The result is that a few people have their dogs vaccinated, some keep them up for a few days. But the majority of dogs continue to run-at-large without vaccination and within a few days the matter is forgotten until next season. Some day they may think of it and include house cats in the order regarding the dogs.

Mine White Coal

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O. (UP)—It's "white coal" from the strip mines of the Hanna Coal Company near Martins Ferry. The white coal isn't a competitor of the usual black stuff, but a limestone bed. The Hanna engineers recently installed huge grinders in the open pits and have been producing about 2,000 tons per day. The limestone is being used as a fertilizer on farmers' fields and as a road covering.

LOCAL SPORTS

By Martin Cleveland A double header oil belt tournament game was played Wednesday night between Gorman and Cisco and also Ranger and Albany. Gorman and Ranger came out as victors over their opponents. Cisco and Gorman were the first teams to play with Cisco batting first. D. Johnson placed a ball over to left field and got first. Collins fanned and Thomas drove one over to second base and put D. Johnson on second. Headington walked, making the bases loaded. Harrelson and Moseley both fanned, leaving Cisco's men to die on bases.

In the lower part of the first, Payner was put out on first and W. Browning was walked. Browning stole second and third. D. Parks hit to right field but was put out on first. W. Browning came on in home. L. Parks hit a high ball to be caught by 2nd baseman for the third out.

In the upper second, M. Johnson placed one over to first base for the out, and Blevins walked. Blevins later stole second and third. Trout fanned. Blevins came home on a pass ball by D. Johnson. D. Johnson walked but "Horse Collar" Collins fanned for "three away."

In the lower second or upper third, neither team was able to score. In the lower third, Gorman's McCulley placed one into right field and got third. N. Parks placed one past short stop. M. Johnson was safe on first. This brought McCulley in home.

In the upper and lower fourth and fifth, pitchers Parks of Cisco pitched two no run, no hit, no error innings.

MARSHALL DUE IN RIO DE JANEIRO TODAY

By United Press RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil — Secretary of State George C. Marshall arrives here today to head the United States delegation to the Interamerican Hemispheric Defense Conference, and to get his baptism into latin American diplomacy.

His objective is to get all the Americas to agree quickly on a treaty providing for collective action against any future aggressors and to leave all other issues to the next Interamerican Conference in Bogota next year.

But, being the last of the delegates to arrive, Marshall faced immediately a well-organized attempt of some smaller nations to broaden the scope of the meeting. These smaller nations have Sen. Tom Connally, D., Tex., been lobbying here for two days, arrived aboard the steamer Mormacagua and emphasized the general attitude toward the conference with optimistic statements regarding the outlook.

"We expect a harmonious and successful conference," Connally said. "A better spirit prevails than in several years."

To prepare the poultry house for winter, it should first be cleaned, and then it and equipment should be scrubbed with a mixture of one can of household lye and 10 gallons of boiling water.

Mrs. McDonald Is Served Dinner On 88th Birthday

By R. L. Steward Mrs. T. A. McDonald, living with her oldest daughter, Mrs. Dora Ellis of 201 South Connelley street, Eastland, was carried to the home of her youngest daughter, Mrs. Charles Langston who owns and operates a cafe in Olden, Wednesday where a bounteous birthday dinner was served to her and a few of her some 240 descendants and other relatives and friends.

Enjoying this feast with Mrs. Langston were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Mac Langston (grandchildren) and Mrs. E. L. Sawin of Newark, New Jersey; Mrs. B. L. Tally of Winston Salem, North Carolina, (mother and aunt respectively of Mrs. Mac Langston) and Billy Tally of Winston Salem, North Carolina; Mrs. Doris Cooper (Langston) and two children, Butch and Darla; R. L. Steward, brother of Mrs. McDonald, of Whitefield, Oklahoma.

Of course Mother McDonald ate hearty of her 88th birthday dinner and those present wished her to partake of many, many more birthday dinners. Thanks were voted Mrs. Charles Langston for the birthday dinner.

Mrs. L. Edna McCorkle, of Cisco, youngest sister of Mother McDonald, at birthday dinner with Mother McDonald on the 12th, instead, at the home of Mrs. Dora Ellis of Eastland as she could not be present at Olden on the 13th on the real birthday date.

Mrs. T. A. McDonald, widow of R. C. McDonald, had six girls and five boys who married and became parents. From these children sixty-six grandchildren lived to adult life producing seventy-five great grandchildren. There are also 12 or more great great grandchildren to date. Some forty descendants served in various fields of military service in World War II. There are some 240 descendants including in-laws.

Mother McDonald is deeply religious and loyal to Christ and her church (Methodist), attending services when she can. She yet reads the New Testament when the print is sufficient for her dimming sight. Other than her dimming sight she is fairly active for one of her years. Sitting with folded hands seems to be her hardest task.

Faith in Christ and Love that never dies: Offers long life here, a home Beyond the skies.

CLUB GOLF TOURNAMENT DATES SET

Members of the Ranger Country Club announced today that the annual invitation golf tournament will be held on August 30, 31 and September 1.

The tournament will be open to all amateur golfers and qualifying for the matches will be on August 30. Matched play will start on August 31. A barbecue and calcutta pool will be held on Saturday night, August 30 at the club.

The tournaments which started in 1931 have always drawn a large field of players and some of the leading golfers, including Ben Hogan, have played the Ranger course. The first tournament of the invitation type held in Ranger was one of the first such in West Texas, and that year top golfer was Gus Moreland who later received much national recognition and was one-time winner of the Western Trans-Mississippi Amateur Golf cup which is second only to the United States National Amateur tournament.

In 1940 Don Shoemaker who was state amateur champion played in the Ranger tournament and was defeated in the first round by H. H. Vaughn of Ranger, causing a tremendous upset.

Last year a large field entered the matches and the tournament winner was Doug Jones of Abilene who hopes to be at the tournament this year to defend his title here.

The following committees have been appointed to arrange the tournament; general tournament committee, James Phillips, Earl Pittman, Gidd Faircloth, J. A. Bates and Dr. R. C. Amey; prize committee, M. L. King, Earl Pittman, T. C. Wylie, Toots Bott, and Saul Perstein; rules committee, Earl Conner and H. H. Vaughn; entertainment and barbecue, Perry Horton, James Ratliff, J. L. Latimer and Morris Newnham; calcutta pool ticket sales, A. N. Larson, Felton Brashier, Sr., and R. V. Galloway; publicity, C. E. May, Jr and Gidd Faircloth.

Collie Speaks For College Building Amendment

Turner Collie, State Representative from Eastland County, said in a statement today that the voters of this county have an opportunity on August 23 to assist in giving the state a first-class system of college and university buildings.

"Approval of the College Building Amendment to be voted upon on August 23, means that Texas will enter its greatest era of higher education development," he said.

He added that the Legislature gave detailed study to the constitutional amendment at its last general session, and convinced that it was the best possible plan to relieve over-crowding and to provide future orderly development, submitted it to the people of Texas for approval.

"This is a practical method by which we can adequately provide for the veterans and new high school graduates who have a desire to attend college," he said. The 30 years, $60,000,000 program proposed by the amendment is significant on two important counts," he continued. "First it can be accomplished without an increase in the presently authorized state property taxes, and second, it will mark the first time that the college and university authorities have joined together for co-ordinated efficient development of higher education in Texas."

He urged each voter to go to the polls and vote.

PRESIDENT DEFENDS USE OF ATOM BOMB

WASHINGTON — President Truman said today that he still thought it was necessary to use the atomic bomb against Japan two years ago.

He told newsmen that he hated to make the decision at the time, but that he felt it was necessary to save the lives of some 200,000 Americans, and he still thought the decision was right.

He made the comment on the second anniversary of the Japanese surrender. He said that he had thought on V-J Day that the world be at peace by this time. He added that he was wrong. He said however, that he still hoped for peace for the world and for all its peoples.

In discussing his decision to use the atomic bomb, President Truman told a story of his school days. He said that when his history class was studying the battle of Gettysburg in the Civil War, the teacher told them that any school boy's after thoughts on military strategy were worth more than all the general's forethoughts.

Russia Will Veto Border Patrol Plans

By United Press LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—Russia, accusing the United States of "the crudest form of interference" in Greek internal affairs, served notice in the United Nations Security Council today that she would veto the new American and Australian proposals for a UN border watch in the troubled Balkans.

Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko struck back at the latest proposals of the western countries with a lashing attack on the Truman Doctrine and the once-vetoed American attempt to install permanent UN observers along the Greek frontier.

Gromyko's carefully prepared address was Russia's first reply to the new United States plan to toss the Balkans case into the General Assembly if a new Soviet veto blocks action by the council.

New Nation Of Pakistan Carved Out Of India

KARACHI, Pakistan — Formerly India—In a ceremony lasting less than 15 minutes, Great Britain yielded its 209-year rule of India today, and the new nation of Pakistan was born.

Viscount Mountbatten, until today the British viceroy of all India cut the British reins on the subcontinent of 350,000,000 persons, and let it divide into the Moslem dominion of Pakistan and the Hindu dominion of India. It was the climax of 30 years of bloody Indian agitation for independence.

Newspaper At Seattle Suspends Publication

SEATTLE, Wash.—The Seattle Star, founded in 1899, announced it was suspending publication after Wednesday's editions because of rising costs of operation combined with the world-wide newspaper shortage.

The Seattle Times announced it would purchase the remaining newspaper owned by the Star.

In a front page statement, the paper said that "terrific increases in every item that goes into the publishing of a newspaper, chiefly labor and newsprint, have brought this industry to a point where only those with heavy volume could survive. Through the period where volume could have been attained, the newspaper found itself facing newspaper shortages which prevented that goal being reached."

Public Hearing On County Budget

A public hearing on the proposed county budget will be held on Monday, August 25 at 2:00 p.m. in the courthouse, according to an announcement made today by County Judge P. L. Crossley. The budget has been prepared by the county judge and according to law must be read at a public hearing before it is adopted by the court.

Story of a Lawbreaker

The driver of this truck lost control of it because its brakes were defective. It ran up on the sidewalk and plowed through the side of a house, killing two persons. In addition to the terrible toll of motor vehicle deaths and injuries last year—33,500 killed, 1,150,000 injured—the total economic waste amounted to almost two billion dollars. Brakes, tires, lights, windshield wipers and other safety features should be periodically checked as a safeguard against accidents. A recent nationwide testing program disclosed mechanical defects in one out of every three cars examined.

Truman Doubts Move Will Reduce Prices

WASHINGTON — President Truman said today he doubted the Department of Justice price investigation would actually bring many prices down. But he said it would expose those who are charging unwarranted high prices.

Attorney General Tom C. Clark's decision to investigate whether business is guilty of anti-trust violations in charging high prices has been buffeted by management, farmers and a congressman, and even labor is skeptical of what good it will do.

Mr. Truman told news conference today that he thought the results of the investigation would put the finger on those charging prices higher than warranted. In response to questions, would be the principal benefit of the investigation.

President Truman, who has tried to "talk down" prices with appeals to business, declined to comment on the CIO demand for a labor-management conference on prices. He said that he had tried that in November, 1945, and that it was not successful.

The latest criticism of the Justice Department's planned investigation came from Albert S. Goss, master of the National Grange.

Goss said in a statement that wages are the principal item in increased costs.

The national association of manufacturers has already criticized the Justice Department's drive, stating that the department failed to take into account the effect of wage boosts, strikes and foreign relief demands.

Arabs Stage Ambush Attack In Tel Aviv

JERUSALEM — Hundreds of Arabs charged out of the orange groves fringing Tel Aviv today and attacked passing Jews in the gravest outburst of Arab-Jewish violence since the riots of 1936-39.

Four days of sporadic skirmishing in the Jaffa-Tel Aviv border zone erupted in a pitched battle and sabotage with guns, daggers and torches.

Early reports while the fighting still was going on said four Jews were killed and 20 wounded.

At least 10 Jews and three Arabs had been killed in the four days, with the injured mounting about 60.

Approximately 285,000 tons of "black top" will be used in resurfacing 220 miles of New York State highways in 1947.

Dean of Cameramen Advocates Color

NEW YORK (UP) — Capt. Edward Steichen, dean of American photographers, believes that ultimately all photography will be in color.

Steichen, who had retired, returned officially to his lenses recently when he became director of the department of photography at the Museum of Modern Art. He said that while camera wizards are producing all kinds of gadgets, they have paid little attention to the development of color. He said he could not understand why black and white photographers have neglected color. "When the sky resembles currant jelly it carries us away," he said. "But a spectrum beauty isn't always character. Look at the softness of those grays in the buildings across the street, the dull tone of that fire escape, the subtle hues of those curtains. "Catching these, and a d giving meaning to them—that would be camera art."

Steichen said his first exhibition would be news photographs. "The great thing in photography," he said, "is to seize the instant of reality and transfer it imaginatively into drama, laughter or some feeling that arouses emotion."

Police Chiefs Denounce Comics As Crime Source

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (UP)—Tain't funny, McGee!

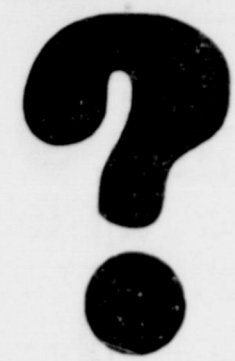

That's what the Pennsylvania Chiefs of Police Association has to say about the comic book. The chiefs at their 34th annual convention here denounced the "funny book" as a major cause of the rapid rise in juvenile delinquency.

The association said the comic book is a source of inspiration for brutal crimes committed by teenage youths.

DEATH of a DOLL

By Hilda Lawrence Copyright by Hilda Lawrence. Distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.

ANGELINE SMALL stepped out of the elevator at 5 o'clock and nodded to Kitty Brice behind the switchboard.

"Cold!" she said with a bright grimace. "Have they lighted the fire in the lounge?"

"Yes, Miss Small."

"Good," Miss Small said. But she walked briskly across the square lobby and checked for herself. There was only one girl in the lounge, a night worker in a Western Union office who went off to her job when the other girls came home. Miss Small found this routine confusing. When she went to her own bed at midnight, after coffee and gossip with Monny, she wanted to know that all of her 70 girls were safe and sound in their 70 good, though narrow, cots.

Miss Small switched on more lights, approved the fire and the bowls of fresh chrysanthemums, and spoke to the girl who was huddled in a deep chair with her eyes closed.

"Good evening, Lillian. Or should it be good morning?"

The girl looked up with a long, insolent stare and closed her eyes again.

Time for a little heart-to-heart talk with this one, Miss Small decided. Mustn't have sulks and surlyness, such a bad example for the others. Perhaps a tiny note in her mailbox, an invitation to a nice cup of tea in my room. These poor, love-starved babies, I must do all I can.

"Isn't that a new coat, dear?" she asked.

The girl got up and brushed by the outstretched hand. "Excuse me," she said. "I forgot something."

Miss Small watched her cross the lobby with an arrogant stride and enter the elevator. I'll win her over, she promised herself, but I won't say anything to Monny.

Poor Monny. She worries so when she knows I've been hurt.

She returned to the lobby and entered the railled enclosure where was the office. A broad, dark desk faced the street entrance and behind it was the switchboard. A panel of push bells covered the wall behind the board. The bells rang in the rooms at seven in the morning and six in the evening. That was when the dining room opened. They also rang to announce visitors, phone calls, and emergencies. At right angles to the desk stood an orderly hive of glass-covered mailboxes, too often empty.

Miss Small glanced at her own box and spoke reprovingly.

"Kitty!"

Kitty gathered herself together and arose in sections. She was a tall, thin girl with poor skin and lips that were faintly blue.

"There's something in my box, Kitty, and you didn't give it to me."

"Readache," Kitty murmured. "Too sorry, Miss Small, but you won't by so fast before, and it's only a note Miss Brady put in."

"Miss Brady? Hand it to me at once, please." Miss Small tried to keep the pleasure out of her voice. Darning old Monny, she told herself, she's thought of something nice for us to do later on. Maybe the basket, or a really good movie, or a little supper at that new French place. She opened the envelope carefully under Kitty's curious gaze.

Angel (Monny wrote). I've got to see Marshall-Gill about the party, she phoned. You'll have to take over the desk for me until Plummer goes on at 8. There's a new girl coming in Ruth Miller. I'm afraid I forgot to tell you. Forgive me, she's in with April Hooper. Explain to her about April, will you? That's something else I forgot, but you'll do it so much better than I would! Yours, M.

MISS SMALL tucked the note in her blouse and sat at the desk, smiling at the daily report that was tattered to the blotter. Monica Brady's sprawling hand had oiled a suspicion of mice on the second floor, uncovered a flaw in the addition of a plumber's bill, and questioned room 304's explanation of why she had stayed out all night. Under 304's explanation, which was a new one, she found the new girl's registration card. Ruth Miller, age 29, saleswoman at Blackman's, no family or known relatives. Then came the confidential information in the staff code. Middle class, some refinement, shy, not a mixer, after more than 40 years, it still was. So Col. Tom Boles, superintendent of Hot Springs National Park, drove by there—and the memories came thronging back. The spot was little changed except there were ponies now and a surrey for hire, "with a fringe on top."

Col. Boles for years was in charge of Carlsbad Cavern and there he met many Texans, so he says he is always especially glad to meet folks from this state. In every crowd that went through the cavern, there were always more from Texas than any other state and so when he called the roll of states, giving the number of visitors from each one, he would skip Texas on purpose and call it last.

The colonel took us—my wife, her mother and me—for a day-long drive up the winding roads that climb the two big mountains overlooking Hot Springs—a scenic experience. We also took the same drive but at night with Carl Crow, business man, and as you looked down the lofty towers of the Arlington far below and the innumerable lights of many colors, blinking and twinkling like stars, and then looked up at the real stars while the wind whispered through the pines and their aromatic odor drifted to your nostrils—brother, that's something to remember!

Woolly Mammoth Tusk Dug SEASIDE, Ore. (UP)—A Tusk of a woolly mammoth, common to the Pacific Northwest about 20,000 years ago, was unearthed here by Gailard Lampert while he was leveling ground with a bulldozer.

It is believed that the total population of deer in Wyoming exceeds 65,000.

The girl got up and brushed by her outstretched hand. "Excuse me," she said. "I forgot something."

I'll win her over yet, Miss Small promised herself.

underweight, poor vision and teeth. Probably tonsils. Recommended by M. Smith and M. Smith.

Miss Small frowned. That meant three girls from Blackman's. It wasn't wise to have more than two from the same place. Two could be friends, three could be troublesome.

The front door swung open, admitting a raw, damp wind and a chattering pair who called "Good evening, Miss Small," as they hurried to the elevator. The evening had begun.

From the rear of the lobby a clatter of china and silver began in a low key and steadily rose, the silent switchboard came to life with a series of staccato buzzes, and the front door opened and a small red light blinked steadily and evenly. One-two-three, one-two; one-two-three, one-two. The light was little more than a crimson blur, but she could read its silent message too well.

"I know what that's for," Mrs. Sutton said softly. "Old man Blackman is a friend of my father's. But what's the dope? I mean what does the blinky-blinky say?"

Ruth Miller looked down at her hands and saw that they were trembling. She tried to fill in the sales slip, but it was useless. I'm a fool, she told herself; I've got to stop acting like this. She didn't look up when she answered. "Two-three, one-two means the main aisle, hosiery. . . . It's a woman."

"The idiot," Mrs. Sutton observed cheerfully. "Pulling a thing like that when the store's almost empty. She deserves to be caught. Idiot, she must be crazy. . . . Hey, maybe it's not a professional, maybe it's a kleptomaniac. For heaven's sake, maybe it's somebody I know! I'm going over!"

Ruth Miller's hands gripped the edge of the counter. "No," she said. "No. Don't do it, don't go. It's not fair, it's awful; don't go, Mrs. Sutton, please."

Mrs. Sutton gave her a quick, surprised look. "Okay," she said. "You're a nice girl, Miss Miller, and I'm a no-account lug. Well, so long. Charge and send the stuff. We're going down to Pinehurst tomorrow, be gone until after Thanksgiving. See you when I get back." She turned up the collar of her sable coat. "Be good," she smiled.

Ruth Miller watched the slim, straight figure as it walked without hesitation to the side-street exit. Mrs. Sutton was avoiding the main aisle where a high voice was raised in fearful expostulation.

It was then 5:15. In another 15 minutes she would begin a new life. She filled Mrs. Sutton's order and sent it down the chute.

On August 23 go to the polls and vote "yes" for the College Building Amendment.

Remember the crowded conditions of our 16 state colleges last year.

Remember the thousands of GI's and other deserving young men and women who were turned away from our colleges because these colleges lacked building facilities.

Remember, if this amendment is not passed no other plan is proposed for the relief of these colleges.

And remember that passage of this amendment will not cost tax-payers a single additional penny. The amendment reallocates the state ad valorem taxes; it does not create any new taxes.

Richard Harding Davis Letters Go To Lehigh

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (UP)—A collection of 84 letters written between 1893 and 1898 by Richard Harding Davis, late journalist and novelist, has been added to the collection of the Lehigh University library.

The collection consists largely of letters discussing publishing problems between Davis and the late Henry Harper, one of the founders of Harper & Brothers, publishers.

Included are several letters criticizing proof-reading of his magazine articles, advertising campaigns for new books and choice of artists to illustrate his work. While a student at Lehigh in the early 1880's, Davis scored the first touchdown in the university's football history against Lafayette in 1884.

Today, we commemorate another V-J Day... Two years ago, on this date, we experienced the ending of World War II... The war that was fought to make Democracy live... The war that was responsible for untold profits... The war that is responsible for the conviction of some of our good citizens, who valued the almighty dollar above decency and human life... Entirely too many Americans are filled with synthetic-patriotism... Entirely too many Americans have forgotten World War II... the loss of life... the sacrifice made to make it possible for us to commemorate V-J Day... We have some four thousand ex-GI's in Eastland County; what have you done to express your appreciation of the efforts of the men and women who served in the Armed Forces, while you who remained at home enjoyed a prosperity such as the world has never before known... Give the ex-GI the "break" they deserve—Give them a chance to have the things they would have had, if they hadn't given those years of their life to the military service of their country.

DEEP WATER DIVERS SEEK COPPER IN WAR-TIME HULK

By Dan L. Thrapp United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON (UP) — A record deep water salvage operation has been undertaken by Italian and British divers who will attempt to recover about $1,366,000 in copper bars from the sunken French freighter Alaska, lying nearly 400 feet deep off the Isle of Wight.

The 5,300-ton Alaska, laden with 2,500 tons of copper, collided with the French ship Dordogne in the pitch blackness of a foggy night during the early war blackout. It was the night of Nov. 15, 1939.

Mortally damaged, the Alaska floated aimlessly for hours before she went to the bottom.

Her position was unknown for nearly eight years. Early in July of this year she was located and definitely identified. But she was in deep water and where tides were so strong and savage gales arose so swiftly that salvage seemed impossible.

The Admiralty, which charted the position of ship sunk during the war, said she was one of the few remaining hulks unsalvageable. Most of the vessels closer to shore were stripped of cargo of value, then blown up, if they represented a shipping hazard, the Admiralty said. The only valuable cargoes left were those in depths too great or waters too dangerous to be reached until now.

An Italian salvage firm, the Sorima Company, before the war specialized in deep sea salvage jobs. The company devised equipment of a new type which resulted in successfully stripping the P. & O. (Peninsular and Oriental) liner Egypt of some $5,000,000 in gold and silver.

The Egypt, also sunk in collision, lay in 420 feet off Ushant or Uscant Island, west of Brest. Here the tides and gales are as dangerous as they are south of the Isle of Wight.

The British salvage firm undertaking the Alaska salvage, Risdom Beazley, Ltd., called on the Sorima Company for technicians. The British company chartered a royal naval salvage vessel, the Lifeline, and borrowed special equipment from Sorima. Skilled engineering personnel also came from Italy to help in the salvage task.

Deepest salvage tasks undertaken previously by British concerns were about 180 feet. With new techniques the field of operations now has extended to twice that depth, but the value of cargoes would have to be considerable before salvaging at those depths would be undertaken.

Family Makes Hole-In-One Unanimous Deal

CORSICANA, Tex. (UP) — The Guy Henry family of Corsicana believes in making it unanimous, at least as far as making golfing holes-in-one is concerned.

Guy shot his ace in 1929, and Mrs. Henry entered the select group this spring. The other day their son, John, shot his dodo to make it complete.

All three Henrys are championship fighters in most tournaments where they compete.

Texas, Louisiana In Shrimp War

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP) — Texas and Louisiana have come to a state mate temporarily in their shrimp war. The shrimp, a migrant, has shifted to Texas waters and brought his troubles with him.

Commercial shrimp fishermen of two states are fighting over whether they shall be allowed to catch shrimp in each others' coastal waters.

In 1945 the Texas legislature passed a law skyrocketing the license fee for each boat operated by a non-resident shrimp to $2,500, in addition to a regular $15 license charge. The law was in retaliation for a similar one on the Louisiana books.

The Texas game, fish and oyster commission now claims that about 60 boats supposedly owned by Texans are actually Louisiana boats in the name of a resident. The commission recently cancelled the licenses of some 60 other such boats.

In the state supreme court, hearings on a case brought by a Texan with a shrimp boat against the non-resident law have been postponed until Oct. 22.

The case, one of three growing out of the shrimp feud, was appealed by the state directly to the supreme court after a lower court had issued a temporary injunction restraining Texas from enforcing its non-resident license law.

South Texas Peanut Crop Being Gathered

Peanut picking went forward with increasing tempo in South Texas this week, according to the Production and Marketing Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture. Farmers' stock peanuts met good demand in that section, with more shellers preparing to begin operations.

Fairly good demand greeted new helled goods at slightly higher prices. Shelled No. 1 Spanish sold at carlots at 16 3-4 cents per pound. Little oil sold, and only small quantities of meal moved at around $80 per ton in less-than-carlots.

Light scattered showers proved of little help to growing peanuts. Early plantings on the heavier soils wilted badly. However, Aug. conditions indicated a total U. S. crop of 2 billion, 137 million pounds picked and threshed, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics report. Such a yield would be roughly 100 million pounds greater than last year, and slightly above the five year average. Higher estimated yields per acre offset reduced planted acreage.

Work Holds No Fear For Aged Farmer

GLENWOOD CITY Wis. — Old Frank Nordell is looking forward to another harvest season. The fact that he just celebrated his 80th birthday doesn't seem to bother him at all.

The veteran farmer thinks nothing of heading out to the woodpile every morning and cutting his own supply of firewood. He also is in full charge of the "pig department" on the farm now operated by his son John.

Heartsease

by Elsie Glenn

Every Man Has His Secret Sorrow. God be merciful to me, a fool. And to you, too, because we all do such dreadful things without thinking, oftentimes. One of the most profound and soul shaking emotions ever felt by man is pity; pity for his fellow creature. Would that we had more of it!

Longfellow once said: "Believe me, every man has his secret sorrow, which the world knows not; and oftentimes we call a man cold when he is only sad."

He meant the same thing that Christ meant when He said, over and over again:

"Judge not lest ye be judged." No man and no woman knows much of himself, or why he does the things he does. We are so terribly human! Much of the carelessness in the world is due not to kindness, but to ignorance. We so often wound when we do not know it.

Look around you: at the person sitting next to you at the desk; at your friends, look at the person you love. Especially look when that person does not know you are looking; look at him from the side-view; when he is looking down. If you will look and if you have any mercy in your heart, you will see a fleeting sadness in that face, a protective covering mask of everydayness that does not quite cover the true expression. In each human face is a hidden mourning look; a little, lost look; there is a loneliness in each human face, if we look right.

Believe me, every man and every woman and every child has his secret sorrow which the world knows not.

God forgive me and you when we mistreat or turn away from mankind believing him cold and unresponsive when he is only . . . sad.

The black cross of sadness weights the heart and the struggle of survival, the vast loneliness of living deep within the recesses of the human soul, is forever present.

There is a chord in every heart that has a sigh in it if touched aright.

The next time you really look at the person next to you at the desk there; the next time you really look at your friend, at the person you love, let that impulse toward pity and understanding take hold of you.

If you have any decency in you, put out your hand and touch the bent head of your neighbor when you pass. Smile. Do anything to let him know that he isn't alone.

Do some great thing in this life of yours. Great things are really such simple things.

Help someone else bear his secret sorrow and in that way your secret sorrow will be better borne. Judge not lest ye be judged.

Gold Key Fad In Vogue Again

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP)—Solid gold door keys are hanging from the chains of more than a hundred Fort Worth citizens these days—a revival of a fad of the gay '90's.

The keys which come in two styles, retailing around $25, are becoming quite popular gifts to newlyweds and brand new house owners, according to Mrs. Juanita McNatt, who is selling them.

"They make home seem a pretty precious place," she says.

The gold keys come in blanks and are cut just like any other key by a locksmith. The upper part of the key is solid gold. The lower or key part is gold filled. Harder metal is needed under the gold so they won't break. Because of the few types of gold key blanks available, only a few locks can be fitted with them, Mrs. McNatt says.

Gold keys date from the gay '90's but have continued to be popular through the years, she says.

Beer Business So Good GI's May Quit School

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UP)—Four ex-GI's at the University of Alabama formed a wholesale beer distributing company to make summer vacation money. Their temporary "jobs" became so successful that it's a permanent business after only six weeks.

Two brother combinations, Jim and Paul Smith and Walter and Joe School are officials of the company. Also they are the laborers who lug the cases from the truck to the retailer.

Sales jumped so fast they had to hire two salesmen to take the orders. Now they are undecided about returning to college this fall.

Eastland Girls Beat Comanche At Softball

Eastland girls softball team played Comanche Wednesday night in the first game of the Gorman tournament.

Comanche had beaten Eastland twice by a high score. At the last half of the fifth inning the score in this game stood one and one. The Eastland girls made no errors while Comanche made two, which resulted in Eastland winning the game by a score of three to one.

Eastland girls will play another tournament game Friday night at Gorman.
