NEW RENT ACT NOT PROVING SUCCESSFUL

WASHINGTON — Landlords are having troubles persuading tenants to agree to the "voluntary" 15 per cent rent increases authorized by the last session of Congress, the office of the housing expediter reported today.

The office revealed that during the first five weeks under the new housing and rent act the number of leases to increase rents filed with area rent offices was only 3.3 per cent of the dwelling units under control.

A survey by area rent offices of a limited number of leases showed that about one out of every four applications for a rent increase has been turned down. Chief reasons for the rejections are the landlords desire to terminate the lease before the Dec. 31, 1948 expiration date, and his efforts to eliminate services which the tenant is entitled to under the agreement.

Both landlord and tenant must agree before leases are filed for approval. The housing office said that July 2 through Aug. 8, 519,238 leases were submitted. The approximate number of dwelling units subject to rent control is 15,700,000.

Local Girls Make Good Showing In Softball Games

The team that is up and coming and has not been recognized properly is the girls' team of Eastland. This team was organized last week and is composed of Carbon, Morton Valley and Eastland and near Eastland girls.

Last night won their second tournament game by defeating Desdemona by a score of 10-3. Wednesday night they defeated Comanche by a score of 3-1. They also won a game from Abilene on a forfeit.

Betty Harkrider scored in the first and fourth inning. Betty's run in the first inning was the first of the game.

Committeeman Blasts Howard Hughes Query

CINCINNATI, O. — Executive Director Gael Sullivan of the Democratic National Committee today called the Senate investigation of Howard Hughes' war contracts a Republican political plan to "smear the memory" of President Roosevelt "by attacking his son, Elliott."

Paraguayan Rebels Claim Advancement

BUENOS AIRES — Paraguayan rebels claimed today that they were driving close to the center of Asuncion and had severed telephone communications between the government and troops fighting to defend government house and parliament buildings.

The rebel radio, now broadcasting from a ship anchored in the Paraguay river near Asuncion, claimed that rebel forces have captured the Lambare District of the capital as well as the grounds of the Guarani Club and the suburb of San Antonio.

LAST INDIAN VICEROY GIVES UP POWERS

NEW DELHI — Britain's last viceroy of India, Lord Louis Mountbatten, today handed his seals of office to an Indian government and the ceremonial creating the new and independent dominions of India and Pakistan was completed.

In hot and fetid Delhi where the British Raj had held sway for generations over some 350,000,000 Indians, Mountbatten surrendered his vice regal powers to India's constituent Assembly.

The thirtieth and last viceroy of India rode through Delhi streets so packed with cheering Indians that police charged the throngs time and again to force a passage for the ceremonial coach and its team of eight white horses.

For the moment there was a truce in bloody communal strife, except in Lahore where scores more died in riotous outbreaks of thuggery and arson which have taken a toll of hundreds in recent weeks.

Ball Players To Have Special Church Service

MILITARY PLAN SIDE ISSUE AS COUNTRIES EYE U. S. FOR AID

PETROPOLIS, BRAZIL — The Inter-American Conference on Hemispheric Defense opened today with the accent on economic rather than military problems.

The corridors of this lavish gambling resort buzzed with proposals for American financial help. The eyes of Latin American delegates were focused on secretary of State George C. Marshall, who with a powerful delegation already dominated the conference.

Marshall, whose name is associated with the strategy that won the war, now is associated primarily with economic aid. His Marshall plan for Europe has electrified this part of the world as it did Europe and has raised the hopes of the economically depressed Latin Americans that he will devise some formula for aiding them.

The formal opening of the conference was set for 4 p. m. but top delegates met at a steering committee this morning, and elected Brazil's foreign minister, Raul Fernandes, as their permanent chairman. They also determined the order of precedence of conference participants and set up their committees.

Delegates shivering in the unheated $15,000,000 hotel were unanimously optimistic. United States Secretary of State George C. Marshall keynoted the hopes of most delegates when he appealed to the American nations to give the divided world a display of western hemisphere solidarity.

Before today's first plenary session, the steering committee met to organize the conference work. Brass-tacks debate probably will not get underway until next week, as today's plenary meeting was scheduled to be limited to an exchange of speeches by Brazilian President Eurico Gaspar Dutra and Mexican Foreign Minister Jayme Torres Bodet.

Age No Barrier
WHITEHALL, Wis. (UP) — Age doesn't seem to mean a thing to W. J. Webb. The Whitehall pioneer was re-elected to his eighth consecutive term as president of a bank here. He celebrated his 88th birthday the day before.

Mine White Coal
ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O. (UP) — It's "white coal" from the strip mines of the Hanna Coal Company near Martins Ferry. The white coal isn't a competitor of the usual black stuff, but a limestone bed. The Hanna engineers recently installed huge grinders in the open pits and have been producing about 2,000 tons per day. The limestone is being used as a fertilizer on farmers' fields and as a road covering.

Story of a Lawbreaker

Speeding through the night, the driver of this car was momentarily blinded by approaching headlights. Because he was going too fast to control his car instantly, he swerved off the highway and crashed into a telegraph pole with such force that the car was almost broken in two. He was dead when help arrived. National Conservation Bureau advises night-drivers to keep their eyes focused on the side of the road, never to look directly into headlights and—most important of all—to drive at moderate speed.

The republic of San Marino has an area of only 38 square miles—little more than half that of the District of Columbia.

Dr. W. V. Snider To Preach Sunday For Baptist

Dr. W. V. Snider, pastor of the First Baptist church at Taylor, will occupy the pulpit at the Eastland Baptist church at both the morning and evening hours Sunday according to an announcement by W. D. R. Owen, chairman of the pulpit committee.

Dr. Snider and wife will arrive Saturday and spend the week-end in Eastland. The local church is without a pastor and Dr. Snider is here to test reactions of the committee. The membership is urged to meet him and hear him preach.

That Reminds Me

BY FRANK R. JONES

FORGIVING AND FORGETTING

I remember that as a young boy I used to have a playmate whose home was but a short distance from my own. We played together most every day. On many occasions we had vigorous differences of opinion and even came to blows. We often struggled to the limit of our strength—and on occasion quit and went home for our meals to come back in the afternoon to renew the struggle—and the struggle only ended when one or the other of us said he had enough and was allowed to get up and go home. This as I think back over it, was but natural. It was all in the course of our development, physically and socially. I recall that these struggles while they were very much in earnest, left no tinge of bitterness or anger. If it happened that he bested me in the morning, and I went home in anger, I would be back in the afternoon or he would be off to my house. There would be no bitterness, no anger or feeling because of the earlier conflict. I have often thought, why can't grownups live together like that? Why can't they forgive and forget as easily? Why can't they forget hurts and slights and possess the same spirit of forgiveness that children do? What do the years bring to us that stand in the way of complete and ready forgiveness?

TERRIFIC TROPICAL STORM LASHES TAMPICO, MEXICO

TAMPICO, MEX. — Eighteen-foot waves pounded this port city today as hurricane winds with a velocity as high as 95 miles an hour struck the Gulf Coast of Mexico.

At 9 A.M. CST the center of the hurricane was located 20 miles north of Tampico, according to the federal weather bureau here. The situation in this city of 85,000 people was officially described as "alarming."

The control tower at the Mexico City airport said a weather report from New Orleans placed the center of the hurricane 20 miles south of Tampico, moving in a westerly direction five to seven miles an hour.

Heavy, wind-driven rains, which have lashed Tampico for several days, continued to fall this morning. Visibility was zero.

While huge combers washed over Tampico's beach area, foreign residents to abandon their homes, rain-swollen rivers threatened floods from the inland side of the city. A wide canal which divides the city overflowed, forcing people in that area to seek shelter in other part of the city.

Many streets were flooded and piled with debris. Signs were toppled from roof tops and buildings and parts of the equipment of the weather office was destroyed.

Residents of the city, recalling a similar storm in 1933 which wreaked havoc in the city, remained indoors, and the streets were deserted. Business was at a standstill, as shop owners dropped iron curtains in front of their windows.

Jesus Aguirre Ortiz, captain of the Port of Tampico, said, "the situation is very alarming."

The outer edge of the hurricane reached Tampico at 11:45 p. m., CSCT last night. By 4 a. m. wind velocity was reported as high as 60 miles an hour, and by 9 a. m. gusts up to 95 miles an hour were registered.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—There are now about 180 jobs in the government which are worth having—if you exclude the Presidency, membership in Congress, the Federal judges, the generals, the admirals and the ambassadors. Some people may even feel that these jobs aren't worth having.

Edson

Anyway, these 180 top positions are the $10,000-a-year-and-better spots held by the heads of departments, commissions and administrative agencies. Sixty-five of these are cabinet or little cabinet offices—secretaries, under- and assistant-secretaries. The secretaries now get $15,000 a year. The chairman of the Export-Import Bank, William McC. Martin, Jr., gets $15,000. Only one official gets more, Chairman David E. Lilienthal of the Atomic Energy Commission, who gets $17,500. The four members of his Commission get $15,000. Of the non-cabinet rank jobs, less than 20 pay $12,000. The majority get $10,000. That used to be a lot of money, though today it will buy about $7500 did before the war.

Still, if it takes only 180 $10,000-a-year men to run the vast Federal machinery at the top, you might think there would be no particular problem in filling that many jobs. But the turnover in these jobs is terrific. Day after day, a large part of the President's time must be spent in trying to find good men for his official family.

In the last Congress, freshman Republican Senators Ralph E. Flanders of Vermont and Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut teamed up on a bill to raise the pay of these top administrators to salaries that would attract and keep the best grade of executives.

Flanders is a businessman himself, Baldwin a good governor from a big business state. Both know that it takes brains to run anything. They therefore proposed raising Cabinet salaries from $15,000 to $20,000. The under-secretaries, the Solicitor General, the assistant to the Attorney General, $17,500. Heads of agencies would get $17,500, $15,000 or $12,500, as the President might designate.

Flanders and Baldwin estimated that the total cost of the increases would run a little under $700,000 a year. Total present payroll for these top men now runs about $1,900,000. It's around a 36 per cent increase. If it sounds like a lot, bear in mind that Congress gave itself the equivalent of a 50 per cent increase last year.

But money isn't the only thing that makes it difficult for the government to hire good brains. It's the public whipping these people take to take—particularly from Congress itself—that makes these jobs hard to fill.

Congress went home without confirming the new five-member National Labor Relations Board and its new General Counsel, among the most important jobs in Washington today. Congress created them, but Republican senators let the word out that they are on trial. Who would do a good job if there were a possibility that he would be bounced out of it five months from now, for purely political reasons?

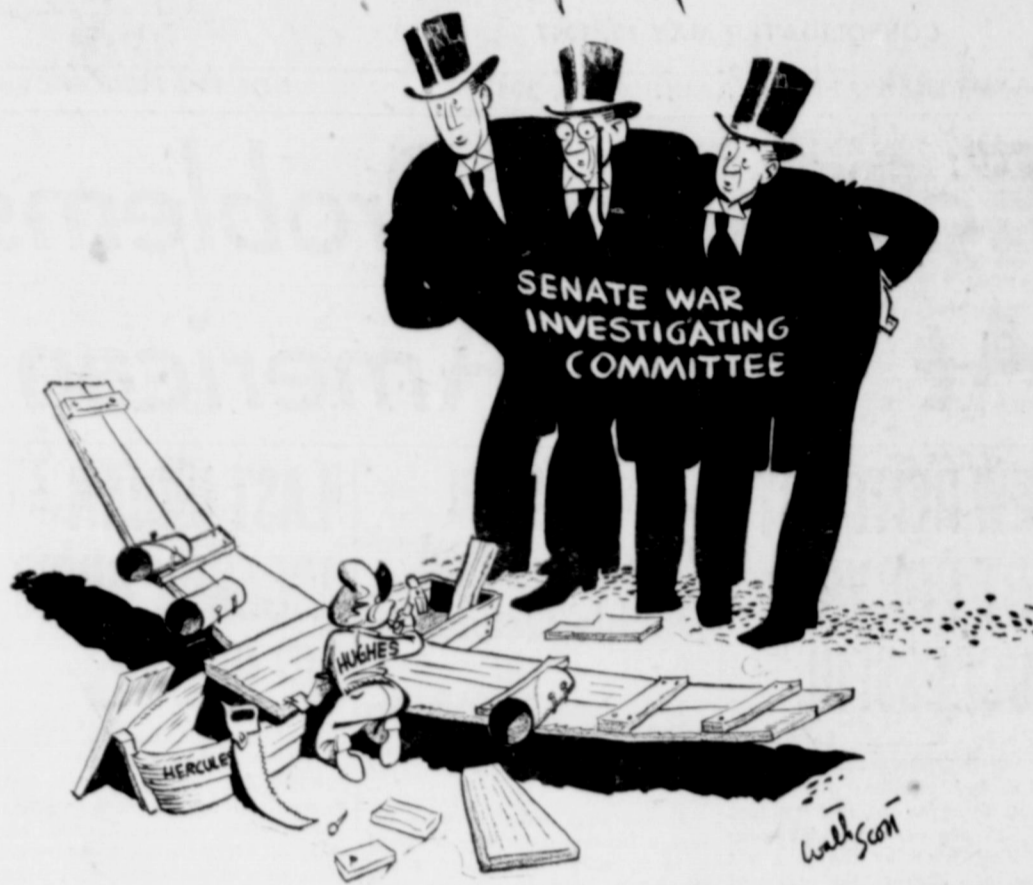

For about half that time members of the Atomic Energy Commission spent most of their day in Senate chambers, hearing themselves personally abused while they were up for confirmation. In lesser degree, Gordon Clapp, of TVA, went through the same grilling.

EDGAR L. WARREN of the Conciliation Service had the experience of having Congress consider refusal to appropriate money for his salary. When the appropriation was confirmed, Warren promptly resigned, and nobody could blame him.

The only other type that can stick out a government job is the independently wealthy like Defense Secretary James Forrestal, Secretary of Commerce Averell Harriman, Assistant Secretary of the Navy John Nicholas Brown or Assistant Secretary of State William Benton. If anybody in government has taken a beating these past two years it is Benton, who has had to fight to salvage something for the U. S. foreign information program. "There comes a time," he says, "when transients like myself have their useful purpose and should resign." Yet he is sticking it out. Most men would have given up and gone home, long ago. The wonder is that more don't.

JEEP-SIZE TRACTOR HELD FARMER BOOM

down, adjusted his bright pink turban, and said he was amazed.

He has just finished his first bout with an American-made tractor. The particular tractor happened to be what is reputedly the smallest and cheapest on the market.

The Indian was Gurbachn Singh, official of the Indian supply mission. He had taken a turn around a field with a 12 inch plow attached to the little machine.

He said the experimental ride was as simple as driving an automobile. The farmers of his native country might be interested, he thought, but he was not sure if the new tractor will suit the terrain there.

Whether Singh or any of his fellow citizens of India ever get one of the new pint-size tractors doesn't matter too much to the makers—International Harvester. They believe there are at least 3,000,000 farmers in this country who may be interested.

Singh was introduced to the new tractor at a demonstration at nearby College Park, Md. Also on hand were members of the House and Senate agriculture committees, assorted government officials and other foreign representatives.

Now getting into mass production, the manufacturers have priced this new jeep-sized machine at $545 f.o.b. factory at Louisville, Ky. With five basic tool attachments, they claim the cost still will be well under $1,000. The next cheapest tractor they say, is several hundred dollars higher.

The manufacturers say its size and talents will meet readily the power requirements of the nation's 3,000,000 farmers who have 40 acres or less of crop land.

They also claim the baby tractor will plow—up to three and a half acres in ten hours of most soils; or cultivate one to four rows of crops at a rate of better than one acre per hour.

"And yea," officials of the manufacturing concern declare, "the fuel consumption of its four-cylinder, four-cycle engine under maximum load is considerably less than one gallon of gasoline per hour."

The machine weighs 1,200 pounds, has approximately nine and a quarter horsepower on the belt and eight on the drawbar. The demonstration proved it is simple enough for women, children and even soft-palmed diplomats to operate.

Approximately 15,000 units may roll off the assembly lines of the converted Curtiss-Wright aircraft plant at Louisville this year. Thereafter, the goal is 110,000 units a year.

No one doubts seriously that the American farmer is sold on mechanization. Whether this peewee tractor will increase the pace remains to be seen.

"At least," said one company official, "it doesn't eat a hundred dollars worth of feed a year."

The bond issue was approved by the city fathers on June 16.

It was CTS's first step toward providing the service demanded by its rider-owners. Included in the $22,000,000 appropriation was $8,000,000 for a west side "rapid" transit line; $8,000,000 for capital improvements and $6,000,000 for debt redemption.

Although CTS General Manager Donald Hyde did not call it a real rapid transit line, since it terminated in busy Public Square, center of the city, he felt it was a step in the right direction. For the most part, the line will run over a private right-of-way.

Actually it may be considered the first step in plans for an east-west "rapid" transportation system. By charging an extra nickel fare—tariff will be 15 cents—officials hope to amortize the debt.

CLEVELAND TRANSIT GETS BOND ISSUE SHOT IN ARM

By Kenneth Fod
United Press Staff Correspondent
CLEVELAND (UP) — Faced with the need to provide faster mass public transportation despite outmoded equipment and more riders, Cleveland City Council approved a $22,000,000 transit bond issue.

Like many other large cities, Cleveland found itself confronted with transportation problems at war's end. Not only had much outworn equipment been forced to last through the war years but emergency housing created out-of-the-way communities crying for extension of public transportation facilities.

The Cleveland Transit System, municipally owned since 1942, asked for money—funds for rapid transit lines, to replace weary

Now Tom would be a driver, and Maria go to sea; And my papa's a banker and as rich as he can be;

For we are very lucky, with a lamp before the door, And Leerie stops to light it as he lights so many more;

So many of us have to press our faces against the window-pane of life and watch others doing things we want to do.

Those of us who press our faces against the window-pane of life, even though no fault of our own, and though if it is . . . we need a Leerie, too . . . a lamplighter.

Unless we find our place and our peace, unless we light and keep lit the Lamp of Our Hearts; that inner glow of understanding, of goodness, of decency, the lamp may go out, of become dim.

In the lower seventh, Cozart bunted and reached first. He later went on to second on a pass ball. Grissom placed one over to third baseman and was safe on first.

One incident that happened in this game that is particularly worthy of mention is the beautiful one hand catch made by 1st baseman Wilson in the sixth inning.

Vet Builds Backyard Honeymoon Cottage AUBURN, Ala. (UP)—Marine veteran Richard Barr, of Banks, Ala., had a new bride, a desire for a college education, and $500.

His schooling he could get via the GI Bill. But where was he to put his bride. Dick solved the problem here in five days.

First he bought $350 worth of lumber. Then he found an Auburn family who agreed to let him build in their back yard and paid for the plumbing fixtures, in exchange for the house when Barr finished school.

Then with his brother-in-law and two friends, he pitched in. They paid a carpenter $75 for some work which they couldn't do, and another $30 for electrical work.

When his bride arrived in less than a week, she found a complete 20 by 14 foot home, with combination bedroom, sitting room, kitchen bath and closet plus electrical lights and running water.

Relatives donated the furniture. Today the Barrs are the envy of other married GI couples on the API campus.
