RECIPE FOR WRITING A BOOK IS "HARD WORK" SAYS BOYCE HOUSE:

"People are always writing, phoning or dropping by to ask advice about a book they are planning to write. Almost without exception, they are seeking a short cut, a magic formula whereby one can get ahead in writing. Their faces fall when they are told that the only recipe is hard work, which is the recipe in just about any other field.

Had work plus patience. For example, "Cub Reporter" is based on experiences and observations of this chronicler while breaking into the newspaper game back in 1916, and the two years which followed.

The idea of writing the book came about 1927. My mother had written a letter from Memphis, Tenn., and enclosed clippings telling of the death of C. P. J. Mooney editor of the Commercial Appeal.

After the work of getting out the Eastland Daily Oil Belt News was done, I sat at my desk, slowly reading the clippings and then mused as twilight descended. The determination came to write a book about Mr. Mooney, my first editor, and the glorious crew of reporters of "the old C.A."

Years went by. Slowly, subconsciously, the project took form. Frequently, I thought of the undertaking but it had not matured. This, like the aging of certain beverages in the wood, is a process that can not be hastened. There is no substitute for time, its sifting, its mellowing, its halloving.

One day, a pen was dipped into ink and the writing began. The slower method of pen-and-ink gave a thought, a scene, an individual the full chance to unfold; it is the details which make a man or an event come to life on paper.

Nearly 50,000 words in ink—then revision, then typing it off on the machine, with changes of words, adding of touches as the task went along—and task it was, slow and hard.

And so "Cub Reporter" was written—30 years after the happenings had taken place, 20 years after the idea of writing the book was born.

The whole project was done without a thought of whether the book would sell a single copy. It was something I had to do—something I wanted to do, a tribute to the memory of a great man, a salute to the forever perished days of glorious youth."

The gossip who tells only the truth does little harm. It is the gossip who mixes a little truth with the lie who is most destructive of reputations.

I think too many people underestimate what it means to correct even so much as one single fault or shortcoming. However small it may be, the correction of it, is a distinct and definite achievement that should not be underrated. It is important because it reveals a possibility that has no limit. I believe that it is possible to find oneself in the making and the keeping of one single good resolution. The realization that one can see, and can, if he has the will, correct the low spots in his make-up, is one of the most thrilling discoveries any person can make.

Army, Navy Outfits Merge On Their Own

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (UP)—The Army and Navy here didn't wait for Congress to pass the unification bill—they went ahead and merged on their own.

Forced to move from their old quarters, the Army ground forces organized reserve corps found a new location in a vacant store building.

A few days later the Naval reserve headquarters was forced to move, too. The Navy wasn't so lucky. It could find no place to go.

So the Army offered to share its space, and the Navy accepted with gratitude.

YEMEN KINGDOM SENDS PRINCE TO U.S. FOR LOAN

By Sam Souki
United Press Staff Correspondent
CAIRO, Egypt (UP)—Arab sources in Cairo are wondering whether the visit of Yemenite Prince Seif el Islam Abdullah to the United States will be a first step towards the modernization of the most backward country in the Middle East.

Yemen, which lies to the southwest of Saudi Arabia, is ruled by 78 year old Imam Yehia He has power of life and death, and in the shade of a palm tree holds his court of justice. Like the sultans of "The Thousand" and "One Nights," he passes judgment, and his word alone is law throughout the land.

At his capital of Sana, Imam Yehia combines the simplicity and tyranny of a desert ruler. Every Yemenite with a chip on his shoulder can claim audience and tell his woes to the king. His subjects, believed to number 4,000,000, can and do mean about him about everything conceivable. One of the rare foreigners to visit Sana told this correspondent that he attended a court where the king had to decide ownership of a donkey.

Yemen is the most difficult country to enter in the world. It has no consulates anywhere to grant visas and the only way foreigners can get in is to send a letter—which may take weeks—addressed to the Imam himself, asking for permission to visit his country. Usually there is no answer, as Yemen does not want intruders.

Prince Seif el Islam Abdullah, one of the Imam's sons, who is reportedly anxious to bring to an end the outdated system imposed by his royal father on the people. He wants to have schools, hospitals, roads and modern methods of doing things.

There are reports that the Import-Export Bank is thinking of granting Yemen a loan to start on such a program. Yemen, however, is supposed to be a "free" country and the fortune of the Imam is reputed to run into millions of gold sovereigns.

Arab sources are hopeful that an American loan would not merely provide the Imam with more money, but would be instrumental in opening the doors of this country, which is considered a potentially rich area. The plateau of El Jebel is very fertile and its Moka coffee is internationally known. Arab and other sources believe that oil and minerals might be found there.

Despite being a member of the Arab League, Yemen has not opened its doors to other Arabs and even less to non-Arab capital. Diplomatic relations between the Arab countries and Yemen are between the United States and Yemen, are expected within this year. If the American loan comes through, then it is expected that Yemen will drop its long time isolationism in favor of an open door policy which might develop this area of the Arabian peninsula.

The U. S. has approximately 32,000 rural mail carriers who serve about 8,000,000 families daily.

Britain To Withdraw Part Of Loan From United States

By United Press
WASHINGTON—Britain will withdraw $450,000,000 of her loan from the United States between now and Aug. 29, leaving her only $400,000,000 in remaining credits, it was learned authoritatively today.

The withdrawal of $450,000,000 will be the last made by the British until agreement is reached on a permanent revision of the "free convertibility" clause of her $3,750,000,000 loan from the United States. This clause required her to surrender dollars on demand to nations holding British pounds in certain accounts.

Britain notified the U. S. Treasury of her intention to make the additional withdrawals—in three $150,000,000 lots—10 days ago, or well in advance of the "emergency" moratorium on the withdrawals.

The first withdrawal of $150,000,000 will be made today. The second on Aug. 25, and the final one on Aug. 29.

Starts Early On Art Career

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UP)—Patricia Kelley is not yet 13 but she is fast becoming one of the city's leading young artists. Patricia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kelley, began drawing when she was seven.

Although bird scenes are her specialty, she is doing some portrait work. Patricia works mostly with pencil. Her 14-year-old brother, Chapman, sketches with charcoal.

Patricia finds time from her hobby to play a little baseball—she prefers that game to such tame indoor sports as playing with dolls—go on picnics, ride horseback and look after three Collie puppies. And, too, she is learning to cook, after a fashion. She made some cream puffs. They stuck to the pan. "So we had up-side down cream puffs," she said.

Florida Fruit Plugs Cost Over Million

LAKELAND, Fla. (UP)—The Florida citrus commission spent $1,500,000 during the past season to advertise Florida oranges, grapefruit, lemons, limes and tangerines.

The commission's public relations firm estimates it reached a cumulative total of over one billion people with its radio scripts, newspaper stories, food-page recipes, and other advertising media. The commission distributed more than 2,000,000 pieces of display advertising, depicting luscious Florida citrus products.

Cuba Asks For Economic Protection In Hemisphere

By United Press
PETROPOLIS, Brazil—Cuba formally appealed to the Inter-American conference today for hemispheric protection against economic as well as military aggression.

Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, Republican, Mich., warned that any attempt to define aggression of any kind would disclose disunity instead of the solidarity which is the chief aim of the conference.

Speaking in a committee which was trying to define aggression, Vandenberg called for "a prompt demonstration to the world that the Pan-American system is a unit against aggression" and cautioned against bogging down over a definition of aggression.

The conference turned to committee work after a speech by Secretary of State George C. Marshall which made the Latin American countries realize that Europe comes first on the U. S. Foreign relief list.

Russia Protests Three Power Conference

By United Press
WASHINGTON—Russia has protested to the United States against the proposed American-British-French conference on raising the German level of industry, authoritative sources disclosed today.

Official quarters said the Soviet note received by the State Department objected to the three-power talks as a violation of the Potsdam Agreement.

The three power conference is scheduled to open in London on Friday.

Similar Soviet protests were understood to have been delivered to the London and Paris foreign offices.

Open Chinese Port Is U. S. Demand

WASHINGTON—The State Department revealed today that the United States has made a second sharp protest to Russia over its continued delay in reopening the Chinese port of Dairen.

BRITISH PLAN 5-YEAR FOOD PROGRAM

By United Press
LONDON—The government today announced a 5-year $400,000,000 program to boost British food production and the cabinet again was summoned into special session to deal with the grave economic crisis.

The farm production scheme was designed to lessen Britain's reliance on food imports and will be concentrated on lifting production of products such as pork, eggs, beef, mutton, cereal and linseed which normally are imported on a dollar basis.

The farm program was the first of a whole series of emergency measures which will be invoked to meet the crisis caused by suspension of the American loan after the bulk of Britain's remaining dollar hoard had been syphoned off in the greatest run on the bank of England since the days of the Spanish Armada.

The 1948 Winter Legume Program Has Been Set Up

The 1948 Winter Legume program has been set up by the Production and Marketing Administration, and payment will be made on the following cover crops:
Austrian Winter Peas, 3 1/2c per pound; Hairy Vetch, 10c per pound; Mixed Vetch, 7c per pound; Common Vetch, 5c per pound; Hubam Clover, 7 1/2c per pound; Mellilotus Indica, 6c per pound; Singletary Peas, 5c per pound; Blue Lupine, 2c per pound; Black medic, 12c per pound.

The farm limit for these seed will be figured at 50c per acre on a total crop land, for example if a farm has 100 acres in cultivation the amount would be $50.00 for legume seed. Receipts must be presented when prior approvals are obtained. There will also be a purchase order program in operation to help the farmers purchase seed.

This program will be ready to put into operation about September 1, 1947. Those producers planning to plant winter legumes should get in touch with AAA Office before planting.

Vacation Bible School Announced By Local Church

The Church of Christ is announcing a Vacation Bible School to be conducted at the church beginning Monday, August 25 and continuing through September 5. Classes will be conducted each morning, Monday through Friday, from 9 to 11 o'clock.

Claud C. Smith, minister of the local church, will supervise the school and will conduct a general assembly each morning which will be high-lighted with an illustrated sermonette. The minister will also teach the senior class in the school.

The pre-school class will be under the supervision of Mrs. Harry Wood, Mrs. J. H. Lee, and Mrs. Gerald Wingate. The Junior class will be taught by Mrs. Lee Horn, Mrs. Jack Lusk, and Mrs. J. R. Boggs. The Intermediates will be under Mrs. W. W. Linkenberger, Mrs. J. B. Brannon and Mrs. W. E. Lawson. The singing will be under the direction of Mrs. Gerald Wingate and Mrs. I. M. Herring will have charge of registration and attendance.

The church is extending an invitation to all the children of the town to attend the school.

3,000 Sheep Burn To Death In Fort Worth Stockyard Fire

By United Press
FORT WORTH—An estimated 3,500 head of sheep were burned to death early today when flames roared through the sheep pens of the Fort Worth Stockyards, the largest in the Southwest.

Total loss was placed at $120,000. Some 175 firemen battled the fire for nearly two hours after night watchman Richard Johnson discovered flames sweeping the wooden pens about 4 a. m.

The sheep huddled together and were burned in heaps. They swelled up and exploded, yard workers who rescued 7500 cattle and 100 hogs said.

G. Redmond, engineer for the sheep pen, placed damage to the two acre sheep yards and structures at $85,000. The sheep, owned by Swift & Co., and Armour & Co., were valued at $10 per head.

Cause of the fire was undetermined.

A burning railroad car was pulled to safety. Five refrigerators on the Armour siding were blistered by the flames.

Surviving sheep wandered around the charred, swollen bodies in a daze. The huge yards resounded with anguished squeals of burned and panic-stricken hogs as stockyard workers removed the debris.

T. A. Ranney, The Men's Shop Manager, Now On Vacation

Saul Perslstein of Ranger, owner of the Men's Shop, is spending his time in the Eastland store while the local manager, T. A. Ranney, is on vacation. Mr. Perslstein has been engaged in the men's furnishing business in Eastland and Ranger for many years and his stores are known far and wide for the high quality of the merchandise handled.

Price Fixers Are Indicted By Jury

By United Press
WASHINGTON—Attorney General Tom C. Clark announced today that a New York Federal grand jury has indicted 20 firms and 53 officials on charges of conspiring to fix prices in the replacement brake linings and clutch facings industry.

Losing Side In Lion Club Contest Must Pay Off Soon

What kind of entertainment and who will pay for it?
That is the question that is puzzling certain members of the Eastland Lion's club—members of opposing teams in an attendance contest that has just ended.

Some weeks back the club membership was divided into two equal groups and these groups entered a contest to see which could make the best record toward an improved attendance by the membership as a whole. The contest is over, but none other than the secretary, knows who won the contest.

President Lamb appointed a committee to check with the Secretary of the club, determine what group won the contest and what nature of entertainment was to be furnished.

The announcement will be made soon.

Frank A. Jones had the responsibility of the program for last Tuesday's meeting. Judge W. D. R. Owen arranged and presented the program which consisted of three vocal numbers by Owens, Ed Layton, W. G. Womack and Homer O. Smith.

Next week's program will be in charge of Lion W. P. Jones.

SOVIET HAS EIGHTEEN VEToes ON HER STRING

By United Press
LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—Russia killed by veto today a proposal in the United Nations Security Council to give qualified approval to Italy's bid for United Nations membership.

Fifteen minutes later another Russian veto black balled Austria in the same way.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko cast the vetoes, his sixth and seventh of this week, to kill Australian proposals aimed at letting the UN General Assembly decide the time and conditions for giving UN membership to the two countries. Gromyko thus raised the Soviet veto string to 18 in all.

Poland abstained from voting and the other nine countries of the council supported the proposal.

The vote came after the council had rejected by a vote of one to one, with nine countries abstaining, Hungary's application for a seat in the UN.

Gromyko, who expressed as much opposition to Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Austria as to Italy, condemned the Australian proposal as a step to bypass the Security Council.

Romania was the fourth victim, going down under a barrage of 10 absentions from voting. Syria was the only supporter.

Library Calls Red Foreign Policy A Danger

By United Press
WASHINGTON—Library of Congress experts said today that Russia's foreign policy is intolerant and suspicious, and is aimed at stirring up world revolution.

In a report prepared for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, the experts said the ultimate goal of Soviet policy is the same today as in the time of Lenin—"a complete change of the world's political, economic, social and cultural setup."

DEATH of a DOLL

By Hilda Lawrence

THE STORY: Ruth Miller, a misbegotten at Blackman's department store, has been looking forward to moving into an attractive residence club for girls. But the evening she arrives, after being greeted by Angeline Small, assistant to the head, something in the lobby appears to terrify her. She makes an excuse to go out again immediately, tries to reach an acquaintance, leaves an urgent note for him to telephone her. A cleaning woman sweeps away the note. Returning late to the club, she discovers her new roommate, April, is blind. Next morning at breakfast she becomes panicky-stricken again, runs up to her room.

VI

IT was Miss Brady who knocked on her door at 4 o'clock. There had been one other knock, but it had come without footsteps and without a voice. She'd stood close to the door and whispered, "Who's there?" And no one had answered. But this time was different. She had no excuse. This time the caller announced herself at once.

"Ruth," Miss Brady shouted. "Open up!"

The door was locked. She'd locked it when April went down to dinner at 1 o'clock. Now she turned the key with a muttered apology. "I'm sorry, Miss Brady. I was asleep."

Miss Brady strolled about the room, unobtrusively taking in the red-rimmed eyes, the strained, tight features, downright ugly, just sick, or maybe Angel's right, the fool girl could be frightened about something.

"Ruth," she said mildly, "we missed you at dinner. You mustn't skip meals, you know. And Miss Small is worried about you. She thinks you need building up."

"I had coffee, April brought me coffee, that was all I wanted."

"Not enough. Now comb your hair and wash your face like a good girl and come on down with me. We're sewing in the lounge and Mrs. Marshall-Gill is serving tea. She's our most important patron, and she likes to know all the new girls."

"I don't think I—"

"You must," Miss Brady said firmly. "You needn't stay long but you really must make an appearance. Unwritten law, Mrs. Marshall-Gill's. Everybody shows up or else."

Everybody, more than 70 people. She could sit in a corner, off to herself, safe for a little while because of more than 70 witnesses. Safe for the rest of her life if she could prove she was mistaken. If she could study that face again, if she could listen to the voice, if she could prove to herself that she was wrong.

"Will you wait for me while I change my dress?" she asked.

Good heavens, Miss Brady marveled silently, vain too. "Go right ahead," she said.

RUTH dressed carefully in the blue suit. But how will I know if I've made a mistake? she wondered. How can I be sure? She knew the answer to that at once. If one pair of eyes followed her with a certain look, if one head turned in her direction then turned away, too quickly, she'd know. Not only know that she wasn't wrong but also that she'd been recognized. Then there would be no time to lose, not even a minute.

"I'm ready now," she said to Miss Brady.

The elevator girl looked surprised when they got together.

"Jewel," Miss Brady said, "this is Ruth Miller." Jewel nodded.

She knew a little about Jewel. She'd asked April when they'd walked down to breakfast. April had accepted the walk without question. April had said that Jewel's real name was Annie. . . . They had never told her the other one's name, and they'd kept hers a secret too. They'd said she'd be better off if she didn't know.

Midget Carrier Enroute To Alaska

SEATTLE (UP) — Bearl Spott, a Pasadena, Cal. business man, describes his yacht, T H e Breezin' Through, as the "world's smallest aircraft carrier."

Having His Say

Besides being equipped with all the latest navigational instruments, The Breezin' Through carries a four-place amphibian aircraft on the afterdeck. Spott uses the plane for hunting and fishing forays into remote areas and returns to the yacht at night.

He recently left here for Alaska to try the method in remote territorial regions.

SPORTS

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The Phillies are last, where practically everybody expected them to be, but they hustle like the Dodgers and Cardinals.

It is for this reason that the Philadelphia Nationals have played to more than 600,000 at home, exceeded their road figure of last year, when their surprising fifth and fifth-place showing made them the talk of the country. The Phils will hardly match their Shibe Park attendance of 1946, which was a million, but they have 24 more playing days there, and William Benjamin Chapman hopes to make things interesting and entertaining enough to crowd that figure.

The totally unworried Ben Chapman is a perfect manager for the Phils, who have driven a lot of pilots nuts.

Chapman has seen miserable pitching dissipate leads in the last three innings on 25 or more occasions without blowing his top.

"But those 25 games on the winning side and see where we'd be," says the old outfielder who turned pitcher. Right up there on top, that's where."

SINKING into the depths with only 18 men, which include only two good pitchers—Dutch Leonard, 37, and Schoolboy Rowe 35—has cost Chapman none of his enthusiasm.

The Montgomery bowling alley proprietor is so supremely self-confident that he is practically an egotist.

Chapman's temperament is such that he can't imagine himself doing anything wrong as a strategist. If something goes amiss, which it so frequently does, it is the lack of ability on the part of a player, no fault of his.

The Blue Jays made coaches out of such famous figures as Art Fletcher, Bert Shotton and Jimmy Wilson. Having managed the Quakers, Shotton is virtually on a vacation with this year's Brooks and Bucky Harris with the current Yankees.

The Phillies sent the very earnest Doc Prothro back to the Southern Association talking to himself. Hans Lobert was merry old St. Nick himself, but the Phils quickly were him down. Fat Freddie Fitzsimmons actually was growing thin when he chucked it in mid-term.

Trouble with those fellows was that they sat in dark hotel rooms or on park benches at night filled with self-recrimination. They laid awake nights wondering what they had done wrong, how to pull the loose ends together.

Chapman has the correct idea. The players make the manager, and a club can't be expected to win without them.

"All you can ask of a player is his best," he explains. "My boys are giving me that. Naturally, I'm not pleased with our low position, but I can't say that I'm dissatisfied with their performance."

"We have some fine young players on our farm clubs that I would like to manage and help.

"To make that possible, Bob Carpenter and Herb Pennock will have to be patient with me."

Chapman's contract has another year to run, and the front office has no complaint.

Ben Chapman has the right managerial slant in connection with the Phillies or any other club.

His is the old racetrack slogan, "Never look back."

Galveston Is No. 2 Cotton Port of 47
GALVESTON, Tex. (UP) — With less than 100,000 bales in port on the last day of the 1946-47 season, Galveston was the No. 2 cotton port in the U. S. for the season just ended, figures of the Galveston Cotton Exchange and board of trade have revealed.

New Orleans was first among ports, receiving 1,105,110 bales, and Galveston received 1,060,222 bales. Houston was third and Savannah was fourth.

Galveston's 93,840 bales on hand at the close of the season was the lowest stock since 1929. July 12 was the first day since 1929 that Galveston had less than 100,000 bales in port.

Cotton men attribute the small stocks to the unusually small crop for the seas just ended, combine with heavy foreign and domestic demand.

18 Years Ago Today

R. L. Steward of Stigler, Oklahoma, and who came to Eastland county to attend the reunion of the Knard family recently held at Lake Cisco, was a pioneer Eastland county school teacher.

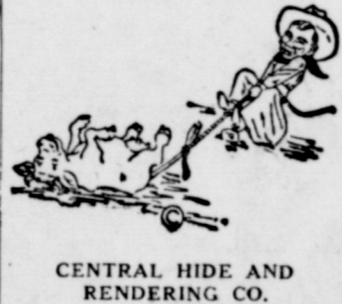

Steward landed in Eastland county in 1898. He taught school at Pleasant Valley and at Komney. The Komney school was raised from a one-teacher to a two-teacher school, one of the few two-teacher schools in the County at that time, while he was teaching there. His sister, Miss Edna Steward, and now Mrs. L. E. McGowan of Cisco, was his assistant.

"I drew a salary of $40.00 per month for teaching," Mr. Steward said, "and out of my pocket I purchased a globe map of the world in order to get the theory that the world was round over to my pupils. I also remember that there were some good people, who claimed that the theory that the world was round was contrary to the teachings of the Bible and opposed to the theory being taught in the public schools. They were in the minority, however, and their opposition didn't amount to much."

In those days most teachers taught under first, second, third grade or permanent certificates. During the summer months the teacher, who wanted to advance, would attend summer normals of from six to eight weeks, to refresh up on their certificates or to raise it's grade. A. V. Britton, teaching in the Public school at Carbon in 1899, taught a summer normal there. "I was his assistant teacher," Mr. Steward said. "Attending this normal as I remember were: Will and Jim Guy, John and Will Jordan, John Randsay, Miss Eva Crume, Miss Edna Steward, Manley Morgan, Custer Cox, Luna Jackson, Hosea Fox, M. L. Britton and Miss Lula Holbrook."

Mr. Steward left Eastland county in 1901 and went to Van Zandt county where he taught school for a number of years. He came back to Eastland county and entered

Madison Square Garden Clown at Dublin Show

Jasbo Fulkerson and his mule will appear again at the Pre-Madison Square Garden Rodeo at Dublin, Texas, September 4, 5, 6, and 7. These two, with the other specialty acts, rodeo stock and equipment will assemble at Dublin for this show before departing for Madison Square Garden, New York, rodeo. Jasbo and his barrel are never-to-be-forgotten moments for all who have seen him, and more especially the children. The securing of the Herd-Simmons Cowboy band is another feature that has made the Dublin rodeo the best of them all.

"I thought it was a screwy idea," "Now it's letting me take life easy," Crabtree said, explaining that he was taking his collection on a lecture tour.

During the war, Crabtree put aside his hobby and helped to lay the body plan for the first Liberty ship and a landing craft at the Kaiser shipyard in Vancouver.

"That was a head-achy job," he said. "A naval architect sent down the off-set, a bunch of dry figures, and from these I chalked lines on a 600-foot loft floor. You had to do a full-size job like that before they cut the steel pattern."

After the war he was offered a ship-building job at a fabulous salary. He turned it down.

"Had to get back to my models," he said.

BUILDS FLEET BUT MAN'S NO SAILOR

NEW YORK (UP)—August Crabtree has never crossed an ocean but he has a fleet of ships. They are miniature, wonderfully carved to scale and equipped to the minutest detail, built by Crabtree over the last 20 years.

His collection of 14 ships includes an Egyptian galley of 1500 B.C., a Roman ship that once plied the Mediterranean, a sailing ship of William the Conqueror's time, Columbus, Santa Maria and the British Britannica of 1840.

Crabtree started as a boy in Portland, Ore., making models of ships that sailed the Columbia live. Living on a small private income, he continued to carve on his collection although his friends

Will Save Souls Quicker By Air

ST. LOUIS (UP)—A 50-year-old medical missionary to South America who hopes to save more souls by taking to the air is learning to fly.

Holland-born Father Andrew Linssen has spent 18 years ministering to the spiritual and physical needs of 30,000 primitive jungle tribesmen of Colombia. Now he is enrolled in Parks College of Aeronautical Technology at St. Louis University.

"I don't know whether I'm too old to learn to fly," the steady priest said, "but I do know that if I can learn I shall be able to make 200-mile trips in two hours."

"Before, I had to chop my way through the jungle with the aid of a machete."

Father Linssen, who was a physician before he became a priest, is a confirmed optimist. Before leaving Colombia, he hacked three airfields out of the wilderness for use in case he returns as a qualified pilot.

The Dutch priest has only one complaint against civilization—it's too hard on shoe leather. He explained that he never bothered with shoes in Colombia except during religious ceremonies.

Avenue wearing a familiar suit. "Hey, I want to talk to you," Kleineman yelled. The man fled. Kleineman chased him for nine blocks and caught him with the aid of a policeman. He did not recover the suit immediately, however. It was impounded as evidence pending a hearing of burglary charges against the suspect.

Shacks Used At UT For Classrooms

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP) — Letter designations for the 14 frame "shacks" used for temporary buildings on the University of Texas campus will follow a pattern intended to indicate the use of the building.

"Z" hall will be used for zoology; "ED" hall for engineering drawing; "CI" hall for chemistry and pharmacy, and "V" hall for the veterans administration offices.

The "shacks" are for use until the university can start a new permanent building program that waits on approval in a state constitutional amendment to be submitted to the people's vote on Aug. 23.

Sergeant Prefers Army to Being Indian Chief

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UP)—But for his long career of Army service, Master Sgt. Hugh Bryan would probably be chief of the Washoes, an Indian tribe in Carson Valley, Nev.

Bryan, foreman of the base maintenance shop at Brooks Army Airfield here, was in line of succession to become chief of the tribe when he first entered the Army in 1918 during World War I. Except for a short period in 1919 when he attended the Carson City Indian school at Stewart, Nev., M-Sgt. Bryan has been in the Army continuously since his first enlistment. During World War II he advanced to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. On being separated last January, he reenlisted as master sergeant. He will be up for retirement in two more years, with 30 years of service.

Bryan was stationed in India during World War II and became a close friend of Maharajahraja Bahadur of Burdwan, with whom he now carries on a personal correspondence.

YOUR STATE TAXES DOUBLED

The State Tax Rate This Year Is 72c On $100 Valuation

Last Year the Rate Was 37c

Who Said, "No New Taxes"?

VOTE! VOTE! VOTE!

Saturday, August 23rd

AGAINST
An Additional 5c Tax

On Saturday, August 23, an amendment to the constitution of the State of Texas will be voted on to allocate 5c of the authorized 7c Confederate pension tax to finance a building program for State owned colleges other than the University of Texas and Texas A. & M.

An Additional Tax

"They" say this is not a new tax, but you have not been paying it for many years. It certainly will be an additional tax you have not been paying. It voted by the people of Texas on August 23, it will be added to your 72c State tax, making a total of 77c on the $100 valuation.

Small Taxpayers Pay

The veteran, the farmer, the small home owner, the laborer, the small business man, everybody will have to pay this 5c tax in addition to the 72c State tax, if this amendment carries. This State tax is in addition to local taxes—County taxes—School taxes—City taxes—and perhaps others.

Will Not Provide Buildings

If passed, this 5c additional tax will not provide adequate and sufficient buildings at today's cost of construction. In the next 10 years West Texas State Teachers College of Canyon MIGHT get $487,200. The College of Mines at El Paso MIGHT get $423,000. Sul Ross at Alpine MIGHT get $189,000. Texas Technological College at Lubbock MIGHT get $1,500,000 in these 10 years.

An Unnecessary Tax

This is an unnecessary tax. By a division of the so-called Permanent University Fund more buildings can be built at all the State owned colleges than this tax will provide. They also can be built much sooner. And the State University and Texas A. & M. still can get more buildings than they can use.

42 Counties Exempt

42 of the State's richest counties pay no ad valorem taxes for State purposes. None of these counties are in West Texas.

W N Y

Should you pay another unnecessary 5c tax when 42 of the State's 254 counties will not be paying to help our State colleges.

Help Colleges—Vote Against

You will actually be helping all 14 of our State colleges if you vote against this amendment. All these colleges can and will get more money by regular appropriations if this amendment is defeated than they could get by the passage of this 5c tax amendment. Your vote against the amendment will help instead of hurt these 14 State colleges.

DON'T BE LED ASTRAY

Do not be led astray by this proposed amendment which levies a 5c tax on your property for 30 years and saddles a $45,000,000 debt on you and all other taxpayers. If passed, this amendment will open the flood gates of the State treasury to dozens of new colleges and you people will pay the bill.

Go Vote Saturday, August 23rd

Child No Trouble For This Mother

FRESNO, Cal. (UP)—She was born without arms. Yet pretty brunette Mrs. Alta Mae Ficarelli, 18, has no trouble taking care of her seven-month-old son. She dresses and undresses him, bathes him daily, changes his diapers, even opens and closes the safety pins right next to his fat little hips. She uses her toes.

Mrs. Ficarelli, married to a Fresno grocery clerk, can play the piano with her toes and use a typewriter. She also writes a beautiful "hand."

When Anthony Ficarelli, Jr., was born—weighing six-and-a-half pounds—his grandmother at first aided in his care. But now Mrs. Ficarelli takes full care of him.

Not only can she dress herself, wash her face and comb her long, beautiful hair, but she has complete control of her knife and fork at the table.

She can embroider, thread a needle, sew, and cut with scissors.

Hens Lay Eggs In Air Raid Hats

CHICAGO (UP) — Reconversion has brought the little red hen a new type nest.

The War Assets Administration was trying to dispose of some old white-painted "tin hats," relics of World War I, which were used by air raid wardens in World War II.

For a while they were stumped, the WAA said, until an ingenious business man suggested chicken nests. He cut holes in planks, put the hats top down in the openings, mounted them in banks of two, four or six to a plank, and sold the finished products to chicken farmers.

A former soldier got the idea of using old air warden arm bands to decorate his oil station. He strung hundreds of them as pennants around his station, dressing it up like a county fair.

A shoe manufacturer used arm bands as tongue linings on children's play shoes.

Diseases, infectious and parasitic, take almost a half billion dollars a year from livestock producers, says the United States Department of Agriculture. An estimated 30 per cent of these losses are due to internal worms.

U. S. Scientists To Study South African Man-Apes

BERKELEY, Cal. (UP)—Study of the age of ancient man-apes, believed to be some place between 500,000 and 3,000,000 years ago will be one of the goals of the University of California's South African expedition.

Dr. Frank Peabody will have charge of the study of animal fossils which may be found in the limestone caves near Johannesburg, where fragmentary specimens of the ancient man-apes have been found.

Dr. Charles L. Camp, supervisor of the expedition, said it was hoped the man-ape's place in evolution could be assigned as a result of the trip.

Printer For 60 Years Still Runs Own Shop

WAUKESHA, Wis. (UP)—Evan L. Thomas, 77, has completed 60 years as a printer, all spent in Waukesha except one year on a Superior, Wis., newspaper.

Thomas still directs a print shop here which he founded in 1906. "There was no point system for type when I first began in the business," Thomas recalled. "If a printer wanted a set of spaces and quads, he had to send along a few letters to a type company so they could match them for size."

Fine Tobacco is what counts in a cigarette

LUCKY STRIKE presents THE MAN WHO KNOWS—THE TOBACCO AUCTIONEER!

"I'VE SOLD more than 240 million pounds of tobacco, and at every auction I've attended, I've seen the makers of Lucky Strike buy fine quality tobacco... that fine, ripe-smokin' leaf that makes a smooth, mild smoke."

L. H. Purdom

L. H. Purdom, independent tobacco auctioneer of Springfield, Ky., has been a Lucky Strike smoker for 22 years
