VANDENBERG REJECTS ARGENTINE PROPOSAL

General view of the Inter-American conference where Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, extreme left, rejected an Argentine proposal to limit the defense treaty to aggression from outside the hemisphere only. (NEA Telephoto).

Greek Cabinet Quits After Party Squabble

ARGENTINA ABANDONS DEFENSE STAND

PETROPOLIS—Argentina officially abandoned today her stand that the Intra-American defense treaty should differentiate between aggression within and from without the Western Hemisphere.

The Argentines still insisted, however, that the methods of dealing with continental and extra continental aggressors should differ.

In an official statement Argentina admitted the right of individual and collective self defense action against any outside aggression without waiting for consultation.

But in the case of continental aggression, the statement said, collective measures should be taken only after consultation with other members of the defense pact.

There was every indication that a sub-committee would be able to draft a compromise between the United States and Argentine views.

Souvenirs Of Past State Fairs Sought

Have you any souvenirs from the State Fair of Texas of bygone years? If so, shine them up and get them ready to enter in a souvenir contest to be sponsored this fall at the Fair.

First step is to write the State Fair of Texas for souvenir entry form. All forms should be returned to the Fair as soon as possible.

Souvenirs may be newspaper clippings, booklets, programs or posters to qualify under the category of documents. Spoons, glasses, jewelry and china come under the heading glass and metal.

Souvenirs will be displayed throughout the Fair in an exhibit in the Hall of State, and returned to their owners after closing date of the Fair, October 19.

Hartley Sees Labor Revolt Against Old Union Leaders

WASHINGTON — Chairman Fred A. Hartley, Jr., of the House Labor Committee predicted today that a rank-and-file revolt will force reluctant union leaders to fall in line with the Taft-Hartley Act.

"When union members understand what this law means to them, there will be a revolution against the leadership," said the New Jersey Republican who is co-author of the new labor legislation.

Hartley described as "brazen effrontery" the threats of certain AFL and CIO unions to ignore the law which became effective this week.

Similar attempts made by some industrialists to by-pass the Wagner Act when it was first enacted.

Embargo May Be Put On Rail Freight To New York

NEW YORK — A federal embargo on rail freight shipments to New York docks was predicted by the Office of Defense Transportation today if a wildcat longshoremen strike, which a union official said was Communist led, continues to paralyze 10 North River piers.

The four day old walkout of 5,000 Manhattan dock workers was caused by an insurgent group's refusal to accept the terms of a new contract signed by officials of the International Longshoremen's Association, AFL, and New York shipping operators.

The contract provided for a 10 cent an hour basic wage increase with a 15 per cent increase in overtime pay. The group demanded 25 cents an hour increase and two weeks paid vacation.

The strike caused the cancellation of the scheduled European round trip of the superliner America yesterday, postponing the sailing of three other passenger liners and spread briefly to Brooklyn.

U. S. Protests Death Sentence On Bulgarian

WASHINGTON — The State Department today instructed U. S. Ambassador Walter R. Smith in Moscow to protest directly to the Soviet Foreign Office against the death sentence imposed on a Bulgarian anti-Communist leader.

Previous U. S. protests over the trial of the anti-Communist leader, Nikola Petkov, were made to the Soviet member of the Allied Control Commission in Bulgaria. Petkov was convicted of treason.

Jews Arrested For Hangings

JERUSALEM — The Palestine Government announced today the arrest of a number of Jews believed implicated in the hanging of two British sergeants.

Inspector General of Police and Prisons W. N. Gray told a press conference the arrests had resulted from extensive police investigation, after the sergeants were found hanging to trees recently. They had been seized and killed as hostages by Irgun Zvai Leumi.

In some parts of Europe it is believed that a drop of one's blood put under a rose tree will insure rosy cheeks.

NEED FOR PRESTIGE IS CAUSE OF SHAKE UP

ATHENS — The government of Premier Maximos Demetriou resigned en bloc today after an intra-party squabble had touched off demands for a reshuffle of the cabinet.

Party leaders maintained at a meeting that at least a partial reorganization of the government was in order to enhance Greek prestige abroad and provide the machinery for facilitating the handling of internal problems.

The import of the cabinet resignation and the intents which prompted it were not clear immediately. But it was known that the government long had been more or less disturbed by dissident elements within cabinet meetings.

The eruption of the intra-cabinet differences into a government crisis came at a time when the American Air Mission headed by Dwight Griswold was getting set for its first substantial operations in Greece.

It also coincided with guerilla warfare in the northern border regions on a perceptibly mounting scale.

Eastland Girls And Comanche Were To Play Here Saturday

Eastland and Comanche girls were meeting on Firemen's Field Saturday evening for another softball game. The two teams have met three times. Comanche won two games and in the Gorman tournament Eastland girls were the winners over Comanche.

Following was the Eastland line up announced for the Saturday night game: Ploughman, 1b; Harkrider, ss; Petree, 2b; Barry, cf; Linley, lf; Rhine, cf; Hollis, 3b; Norris, c; Hollis, 3b; Wright, rf; Maynard, c.

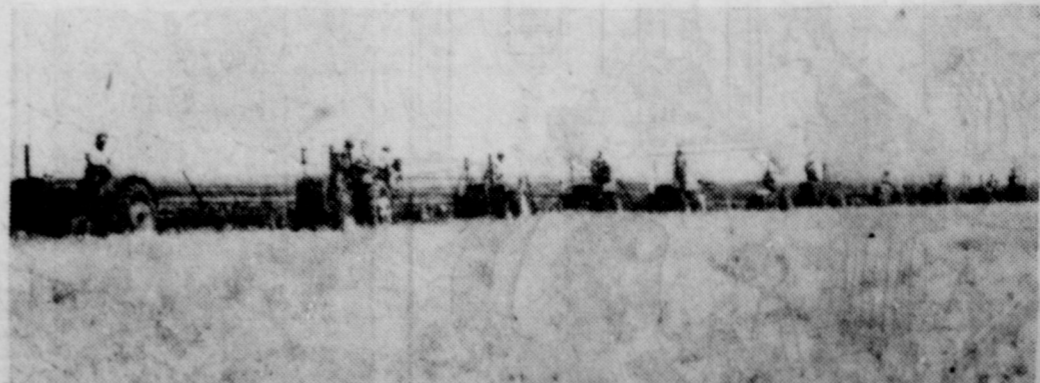

Substitutes were to be: Gilbert, Burkett, Bennett, Massengale, Bourland.

English Mine Blast Kills Nineteen

ANNFIELD PLAIN, England — A midnight explosion deep underground in the Morrison North Mine killed 19 coal miners today and raised to 123 the one-week death toll in the North England coal fields.

The last of the 19 bodies was removed from the mine about midday. Five men were injured seriously.

NEIGHBORS SAVE THE DAY

Twenty three good neighbors decended on the farm of Cecil Henson, Cheney, Kansas, and in a few hours the plowing for next year's crop was finished. Henson, resting in a Wichita hospital after his left eye was seriously injured by a thrown crank from his tractor, said, when he heard the news, "I've got the best friends in the world." (NEA Telephoto).

Great-Grandmother Back In Class So She Can Keep Up Teaching Job

CHICAGO (UP) — A 69-year-old great-grandmother is attending summer school at Rockford College so she can continue being a school marm.

She is Mrs. Otto Reichard, a teacher during three wars. A mother of eight children, she has 17 grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

She is planning to put what she learns into immediate effect next fall in her one-room schoolhouse near here. Besides her education course, she is studying games for younger pupils. By doing so she expects to add interest to recesses or physical education periods.

At the age of 16, when she was Miss Anna Mitchell, she began her career as a rural teacher. After the Spanish-American War, she gave up teaching to become a housewife.

Because of the teacher shortage in World War I, Mrs. Reichard returned to the classroom. Then she went back to her kitchen to resume her housewife career. A couple of decades later, during World War II, she was teaching again.

Mrs. Reichard was so well-liked that her school wants her back for the next term. To keep her emergency teaching certificate, she is completing five semester hours of college study each summer.

Spelling is a hobby of hers, but Mrs. Reichard is sorry that spell-books are no longer popular. Adults need more spelling instructions these days, she says.

Fishermen in the United States increased their number by from 10 to 25 per cent last year.

To Preach At Local Baptist Church Today

Dr. William B. Huntsberry, pastor of the Southern Baptist church at El Monte, California, will preach at both the morning and evening services at the Eastland Baptist church today.

Dr. Huntsberry served as a chaplain during the recent World War.

British Plane Crashes At Port

CAIRO — A British overseas plane flying from Hong Kong to London crashed while landing at the airport on Bahrain Islands in the Persian Gulf today.

First unofficial reports said four persons drowned in the crash.

Counts Drinks

MENTOR, O. (UP)—The Lake Industries, Inc., has recently developed a new type of liquid dispenser which automatically measures and counts the drinks poured from a bottle.

When lightning crackles, stay away from isolated trees or poles, warn Westinghouse engineers. If you can't get indoors, you will be safest in a steel-bodied automobile which will carry the charge from an ordinary lightning bolt harmlessly into the ground.

Westinghouse lightning experts figure your chances of not being hit are 365,000 to 1.

School Is A Picnic For Ft. Worth Kids

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP) — When you see Ft. Worth's elementary school children going to the zoo, having picnics and parties and going on train rides this fall, don't be alarmed. The excursions are strictly a part of their studies, according to David C. Sellars, coordinator of instruction for the public schools.

Importance of this program is emphasized in information sheets for Teachers of elementary grades on diagnosis of reading skills. The sheets contain exercises to determine readiness of the pupil for reading and drill material for twelve weeks in the first grade are spent in determining the pupil's readiness for reading and preparing him for it.

Fort Worth is the only school system in the southwest supplying this material to teachers, says Sellars.

According to Sellars, the elementary pupil is not ready for reading subject matter with which he is not already familiar. Not being familiar with the subject matter makes understanding of the story difficult and makes for slow reading.

And because some of the children have never experienced some of the activities mentioned in these stories—picnics, pets, trains, zoos and parties, the excursions are made so that all children have the background.

They are strictly part of their studies, although they probably seem like play to the children—and to some grownups, too.

Reds To Release U. S. Soldiers

SEOUL — The U. S. Army announced today that the Russians had promised to free tomorrow the three American soldiers they seized on Aug. 12.

The GIs will be released at 10 a. m. at Yohyon-Ni, the town on the border between the Soviet and American occupation zones where they were picked up, the announcement said.

The so-called cabbage rose sold by many florists is made of the petals of many roses, which are put together to make a composite flower often from six to 10 inches in diameter.

Businessman Heeds Call Of Sea At Sixty

MANITOWISH, Wis. (UP) — It took Charles S. Smith, former banker and mayor, a long time to make up his mind, but he finally went to sea at the age of 60.

Now 65, Smith expects to receive his mater's papers within a few months. The master's rating will entitle him to captain a n y size ship on any ocean.

Smith set a merchant marine old-age record when he was issued his original ordinary seaman's papers.

For 35 years prior to his sea-going days, Smith ran his own businesses, which included a lumberyard in Chicago and a sawmill in northern Wisconsin. He was once president of the State Bank of Woodruff, Wis., and was mayor of Berwyn, Ill.

A vacation Bible School begins Monday at the Eastland Church of Christ. It will continue through September and all children of the town are extended an invitation. Classes will be held each morning.

Building Of King Motor Company Is Being Remodeled

Remodeling and improving of a portion of the front of the King Motor Company building, was being concluded Saturday. The plant, of which this building is a part, of the King Motor Company and King Tractor Company, has recently had a number of improvements and additions made.

The American Medical Association has approved 6,280 hospitals containing 1,468,714 beds and 84,145 bassinets this year. Approximately 15,153,452 patients were admitted to those hospitals last year.

That Reminds Me

This is the day the Lord thy God hath commanded thee to do these statutes and judgments; Thou shalt therefore keep and do them with all thine heart; and with all thy soul;—Deuteronomy 26:16.

The editor of an exchange poses this question. Why is it that children under eighteen are too young to work in the eyes of the law but in the eyes of the same law are old enough to drive an automobile 70 miles an hour.

The common cause of car wrecks is a loose nut.

"As far as the income tax collector is concerned there are no forgotten men.

The Eastland City Commission, it appears, have made a move towards making some improvements at the City water plant. These Commissioners, experienced business men who are just as much interested, or more so, in the welfare of the City of Eastland as are you or I, are doing what their judgment tell them to do under the circumstances, and we, as residents and tax-payers, should cooperate with them.

"I remember," an Eastland man said the other day, "that as a small boy I visited Eastland one day with my father. We remained until late evening and after the lights were turned on Eastland's White Ways" were ablaze, every light burning brightly. I was greatly impressed and although I was only a boy, I began developing a desire to live in Eastland; this desire never left me and I fully believe that the money invested in those lights, was responsible for me being a resident of Eastland today where I have my home and am rearing my family. You can't tell when, how nor how much an investment in progressive civic improvements, will pay, but it will always pay."

Fishermen in the United States increased their number by from 10 to 25 per cent last year.

BILL ODOM CHECKS HIS P-47

Bill Odom, left, famous round-the-world solo flyer, checked over his P-47 plane in Dallas with his supervising mechanic T. Carrol Salle, Dallas, Texas. Odom will fly the "mongrel" P-47 in the Bendix Air Race. Later in a converted B-32 he will attempt to fly round-the-world over the poles. (NEA Telephoto).

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—President Juan D. Peron and the Argentine government are considering the hiring of an American public relations counsel to handle a propaganda campaign in the U. S.

This has been confirmed by Edward S. Fenton of New York, who says he has the inside track for the job. The contract has not been signed, but it has been drawn up and has been approved by the Argentine cabinet. "We aren't married yet, but the marriage arrangements are pretty well advanced," says Fenton.

He says the original basis of discussion was $5 million a year for three years. This was to cover everything, but he wouldn't specify at this time what was included in everything.

When the negotiations were suspended, they were talking about a two-year contract, at $5 million for the two years, or $2 1/2 million a year, says Fenton.

Other sources in close touch with Argentine affairs indicate that this may be pretty much stage money and that what the Peron government might be willing to risk on a North American propaganda drive would be more in the nature of $100,000. The play would be to see what they got for that amount and how long it lasted before going into any bigger or longer venture.

FENTON was in Washington recently, the guest of Argentine Ambassador Sr. Don Dr. Oscar Ivanissevich at a dinner. He did considerable talking about his venture at that time, and the word got out.

He was in Buenos Aires in May and June and was a guest of Casa Rosada, Peron's residence. Fenton says he is returning to the Argentine capital Aug. 12 and will be there 10 days. He expects the contract to be signed at that time.

What he will do to earn his fee has not been worked out. Travelogue movies to show the U. S. what the Argentine is really like is one idea. Getting high school students of the two countries to exchange letters has also been considered.

"Selling" President Peron to the U. S. as a great guy might also be in the picture. Fenton won't go along all the way with Peronists who say that the Argentine is a second Franklin D. Roosevelt and that the Argentine Five-Year Plan is a good bit like the U. S. New Deal. But he does say that Peron's first term is a good bit like Roosevelt's first term—trying to do something to improve the living standard of the low-income third of the population.

Fenton's line is that he believes Peron is "off on the right foot." He says he believes that Peron is "100 per cent pro-American and anti-Communist and he won't allow communism to grow in the Argentine, under the guise of his new labor legislation program." In short, says Fenton, "What mistakes we made, he won't make."

THE possibility that Peron and his buxom blonde wife Eva might be getting ready for a trip to the U. S. has been gossiped about a good bit. There is pretty general cocktail party agreement in Washington that if Eva came to the U. S. she would be the biggest story since Wally Simpson married the Duke of Windsor.

Fenton says there is nothing in his proposed agreement with the Argentine government calling for a build-up of the Perons for a visit to the U. S. He does believe, however, that if President Truman should go to Rio de Janeiro for the close of the coming Pan-American Conference, it would be considered a courtesy call on all the American republics. Their president might, therefore, be expected to make a return courtesy call to Washington.

State Department spokesmen for Latin-American affairs say they have no official information on Fenton's deal. Fenton himself says he is keeping the department advised of his plans.

When and if the contract is signed, however, he will be required to register with the Department of Justice as an agent of a foreign government operating in the U. S.

DEATH of a DOLL

By Hilda Lawrence

By Hilda Lawrence, Distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Ruth Miller, a salesgirl at Blackman's department store, has been looking forward to moving into an attractive residence club for girls. But the evening she arrives, she sees something in the lobby that terrifies her. She decides to leave next day. But next day she is forced to attend the weekly Sunday afternoon tea. Ragdoll costumes are distributed for a party. Scared stiff by now, she finally returns to her room, packs her suitcase, decides to escape via the fire escape. Before she can do so, the housekeeper calls her, requests that she stay with a sick girl for a couple of hours. Against her will, Ruth does so.

IX

AT 10:15 she heard the steps. She had the door open before Mrs. Fister reached it.

"There was no trouble?" Mrs. Fister asked.

"Oh, no," she said, edging forward.

Mrs. Fister tried to take her arm. "If you'll wait, I'd like to give you—"

"No, thank you. Good night." She never did know what Mrs. Fister wanted to give her.

Back in her own room she locked the door and turned on every light. The ceiling light, the desk lamp, the lamp between the two beds. They would shine from the window down into the courtyard, articulate in the night. They would tell a watcher in another window that she was there. But she wouldn't be; she'd be gone.

She put on her hat and coat and went to the bathroom, groping in the window in the dark. There she stopped. The window was open as she had left it, but it might as well have been barred. Rain fell steadily, striking the narrow, iron platform, rebounding from the glistening skeleton steps. She couldn't believe it, and put out her hand to touch the dripping rails. Her hand slipped as if she had touched grease. "I'd break my neck, she said.

She retrieved her wet suitcase and went back to her room. Although her door was less than three yards away, she ran. By this time she was frantic, and she walked the floor until she was calm enough to plan again. The fire escape had been a bad idea in the first place. Dangerous. The main entrance was still hopeless; at 10:30 the lobby and the lounge would be occupied.

I'll go in the morning, she thought, as early as 6. I'll put the blue in my suitcase, and if anybody says anything I'll say I'm taking it to the cleaner's. They all saw me spill the tea. Then I'll go to Blackman's for one day only, so if anybody checks on me I'll be there, and it'll look natural. As if I meant to come back here tomorrow night.

AT 11 o'clock she was thirsty, so thirsty that thinking about the cold water in the bathroom was almost unbearable. Shining nickel taps, headed with cold moisture. Was it safe to go out in the hall at 11? She wet her dry lips and figured her chances in the hall. She was in a blind alley, a dead end. Packrooms to the right, fire door to the left. Beyond the fire door, the stairs and elevator. If someone came down the hall on the other side of the door, would she hear the steps in time? Then, as she visualized the hall and saw the door, the bath, and the packrooms, she saw something else. The telephone. Black, shining, beautiful. The telephone!

There were millions of people at the other end of the telephone. The whole world was at the other end. Paris, London, New York, San Francisco, Chicago.

She gasped, Chicago! She threw a triumphant look about her. Chicago!

Miss Plummer's voice was sleepy, but she didn't sound surprised.

"Miss Plummer," she whispered, "Miss Plummer, this is Ruth Miller. I've got to make a very important call. It's long distance, Miss Plummer, but do I have to pay for it right away?"

Miss Plummer said the call could be charged, and there was a new interest in her voice. "Go right ahead, dear," she said.

"It's to a Mr. Norman Crawford, person to person, please. In Chicago. I don't know the number or the address, but he's very prominent in Chicago and I know you can find him. A Mr. Norman Crawford in Chicago, the one who used to know a Ruth Miller."

SHE leaned against the wall, one hand still on the door. Mr. Crawford would know what to do. He was the one who'd given her the money and told her to go away. He'd remember. He'd realize how bad it was.

She heard Miss Plummer speak to the operator and then Miss Plummer said, "We're trying, dear, but it may take a little while." She pressed the receiver close to her ear and listened to the distant voices. Far away someone spoke a number. She let go of the door while she wrote the number on the telephone pad. It would be a good thing to have, she might need it again. She slipped the paper into her pocket and listened eagerly. Voices came and went, a voice that was New York, a voice that was Chicago. Behind them was a sound of humming. She called it singing, she called it a singing wire. It was like music.

A new sound joined the others, a low grinding sound like a metal wheel turning.

That's interference on the line, she thought. It's got to stop or I won't be able to hear. I've got to hear. "Miss Plummer?" she said. "There's something on the line." Then she remembered how clear Miss Plummer's voice had been, even while the grinding sound went on.

That meant the sound was outside the telephone.

She fought paralysis and turned her head. The heavy fire door was opening slowly, inching open as she watched. Then it stopped. She flung herself into her room and locked the door.

Sheriff Makes Hay Via Telephone

SIoux CITY, Ia. (UP)—Deputy Sheriff Ralph Hindman is beginning to believe that all things come to him who waits.

Hindman was sitting in his office wondering how he was going to find Ben Leedom of Winnebago, Neb., who had been indicted by the Woodbury County grand jury on check forgery charges.

The telephone rang. The voice on the other said, "This is Ben Leedom, I want you to find my wife." He said his wife had their car "and I just don't want her to drive."

Hindman told Leedom that he'd help him find his wife and added casually, "By the way, where are you so we can let you know when we do?"

Leedom supplied the address and it wasn't long before Hindman was there to arrest him.

Don't Leave Rings In Books Is Her Motto Now

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP)—Mrs. Billie McKnight has her pretty diamond-studded wedding ring back now, and chances are it will never again be left in a book.

Mrs. McKnight got off a bus downtown the other day, carrying a copy of "The Good Earth" under her arm. She didn't know it, but her husband, Joe McKnight, had placed the wedding band in the book the night before.

When Mrs. McKnight got to work, she discovered she was not wearing her ring. She remembered she had left the ring in the bathroom the night before, just before she started washing her hose.

She called her husband. "Sure," said Hubby. "I put the ring in the book so you would be sure to find it."

"Oh," said Mrs. McKnight, in a wee small voice.

Later the McKnights were shopping around for another ring when they noticed an advertisement in a newspaper. The Post Office announced that a carrier had picked up a wedding band downtown.

Mrs. McKnight went to the Lost and Found department in the post office building to identify the ring. Mrs. La Eunice Evans, post office secretary, started to hand Mrs. McKnight the lost and found ring.

"Oh," said Mrs. McKnight. She fainted.

Store Robbed Thru 12 Inch Hole

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP)—The police have quite a problem on their hands—they got the whisky through the hole?

A burglar robbed a liquor store of two cases of whisky and $100 the other night. Nothing unusual, except the only means of entrance and exit was a hole about 12 inches in diameter.

Officers deduce the burglar was either a child or a midget. And, they reason, he must have been a patient individual, for he must have had to pass the loot out one bottle at a time.

Promises Probe

Rep. James G. Fulton (R. Pa.), of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, promises a thorough investigation of Scripps-Howard columnist Robert C. Ruark's charges that U. S. soldiers under Lt.-Gen. John C. H. Lee in Italy are being mistreated. Fulton, a World War II veteran, will check the charges when he goes to Italy with a congressional subcommittee.

Peruvian Jungle Yields Rare Beetles, Spiders

NEW YORK (UP) — John C. Pallister, etomologist of the American Museum of Natural History, completed a nine-month, one-man expedition into the Peruvian jungles by returning to New York with 28,000 rare insects and spiders—all carefully pickled in preservatives.

Pallister, invaded the jungle armed only with a small pair of forceps, cyanide bottles, flashlight, a butterfly net and a small knife. Among his collection, the museum said, were "gigantic, ferocious beetles half a foot in length, rare cave-dwelling spiders and the grotesque lantern fly."

18 Years Ago Today

Eastland, Aug. 25 (Sunday) 1929: Student participation for the Warner Memorial University will begin in early September. It was announced here yesterday. Classes will begin immediately—following the opening and organization.

The Order of the Eastern Star of Eastland, Ranger and Breckenridge will assemble for a picnic party at Lake Trianon at Olden next Saturday evening at 6:00 o'clock and will celebrate the anniversary of the founding of the order by Robert Morris in 1884. The local order will have arrangements made by the Worthy Matron Mrs. Geo. E. Cross, assisted by the Associate Matrons, Mrs. Dave Fiensy.

A law suit of more than usual interest is that filed in Judge Geo. Davenport's 91st district court by R. N. Grisham, J. S. Grisham and George Brogdon, Eastland County Tax Collector, in which the plaintiffs seek to collect from the State of Texas $6,802.96, they allege is due them on a contract made with them by the Eastland County Commissioners' court to collect delinquent county and state taxes.

A new feature of the Eastland Public school system this year is the new Junior High School, which will be complete for opening along with the senior high school on Monday, September 16. The new school will teach the Sixth and seventh grades only; the first five grades to be taught in the Ward Schools. The faculty for the new school has been announced as follows: E. E. Layton, Principal; P. D. Wilmeth, arithmetic, Mrs. W. D. R. Owen, history, Mrs. J. A. Gibson, English and reading, Miss Lois Nelson, writing and drawing, Miss Vyola Dover, geography; Miss Mary Carter, English history and geography.

MINE BUREAU TELLS OF NEW SAFETY CAGE

WASHINGTON (UP) — An elevator-type mine cage which is safer and cheaper to run than those now in use has been operated without an accident in a Pennsylvania hard-coal mine during the past year, the Bureau of Mines reported.

The model cage was placed in operation at the shaft of the Heidelberg Coal Company at Avoca, Luzerne County, Pa., more than a year ago.

Constructed like an elevator, the shaft is electrically operated, with push button and emergency stop controls, safety switches, self-locking doors, electric lights and telephone communication. It stops automatically at each landing and cannot be moved while the shaft door is open. It is partially constructed of steel and is entirely closed while operating, so that workmen cannot fall out.

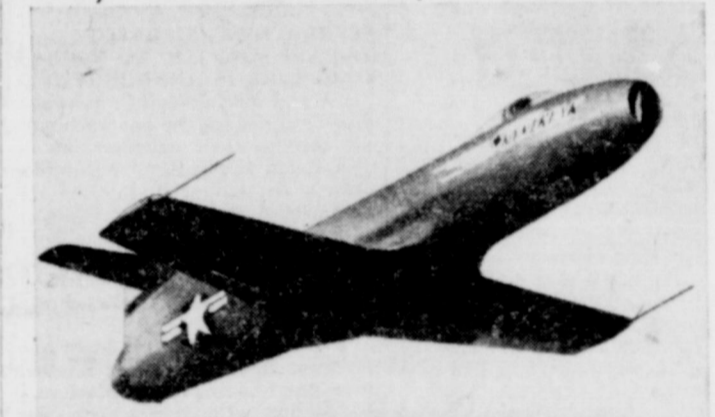

Despite these unusual safety features, it is cheaper to install the cage than other types, costs less to run, and requires only one attendant, according to the Bureau. The government is interested in the experimental model safety

"I Have A Gentleman In The Pew, Doctor"

BY FATHER JIM
People are asking "what in the world is a mission-revival?" They're referring to the series of programs we're conducting this week at the Texas Theatre in Cisco. The programs have been billed as "Episcopal Mission-Revival" and the title has folks wondering. Well, to be perfectly frank, the title is an original creation of several of us. Last Sunday night over at Dr. Paul's in Cisco, we were discussing what we would call our series of night meetings. Some of the folks wanted to call it a revival. Others objected to the word because they said it was sort of the exclusive property of the Protestants. Others wanted to use the word "Mission" because that is the more popular title for such an undertaking in the Episcopal Church. Well, we compromised by combining the two words "Mission-Revival." The four night meetings will be conducted on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week, from 8:00-9:00, and will include a short presentation of the subject, a question box feature to answer questions about the Episcopal Church, a door prize drawing, and a sound movie. The subject for Tuesday night will be "What Is The Episcopal Church?" Wednesday night we will discuss "What Do Episcopalians believe?" Thursday night, the subject is "What Do Episcopalians Do?" And Friday night we finish up with "What Are Episcopalians Living For?" The series is intended to be a service of instruction for those outside the Church, to give to them a better idea of what the Episcopal Church teaches. No appeal will be made, either for membership or for money. We don't operate that way. All we want of others is that they understand what we stand for, not only that they may then be in a position to accept or reject the Church, but that we may then work together in the community with a richer understanding of one another. If it is asked why we picked Cisco as the locale of these Mission-Revivals, the reason is simply that it was Cisco which came up first with an offer of a location for the programs. Mr. Wally Smith kindly offered the use of his newly decorated Texas Theatre which he is opening to the movie public September 1st. In order to take advantage of his kind offer we had to get in fast, and the last week in August was picked. Visitors will be welcome from Eastland and Ranger. Some of our

Heartsease by Elsie Glenn

Tall, Brave Candles Gleaming
In the quietness of a Winter evening, I sat and looked at tall, brave candles gleaming through the dark. Besides them, glowing blood red in the candle-light, dark, crimson roses rested in a cutglass vase.
And my heart wandered back to my Enchanted Meadow. I walked when I was five years old. I had begged to go, but my sister wouldn't let me. . . she knew where the Enchanted Meadow was. My childish heart was near to bursting when she took me by the hand and said: "I've changed my mind. . . I'll show you where it is, but you must promise never, never to tell!"
And I never have until today. I was so tired when we got there and so frightened and excited. We crouched in the weeds and I could hear my own breath.
"Look," she whispered. . . "All you have to do is look."
I peered through the weeds. . . and suddenly I saw it.
The Enchanted Meadow. . . lying gently underneath the trees. . . a whole acre of wild flowers. . . the tiny red wild Hollyhocks dancing everywhere. . . the yellow daisies. . . the red Indian daisies. . . the flowering fern. . . the wild cypress. . . the meadow larks skipping through the blossoms. . . the iridescent butterflies. . . and suddenly I saw a bluebird!
"Look," my sister whispered. "If you look, you'll see a fairy."
And I saw him. . . a tiny brown fairy with green britches on and tiny boots. He waved at me from behind a wild, red Hollyhock.
I began to cry because all the beauty of the Enchanted Meadow was more than I could bear.
My sister took me home.
All you have to do is look.
Believe me, there is an Enchanted Meadow for you, too.
I give you my word.
I will take you with me to see it.
Only you must promise never, never to tell.
If you tell, the tiny brown fairy with green britches and tiny boots will never wave at you from behind a wild, red Hollyhock.
You see, I told you, and you're afraid he won't be there, when I go back.
You can see him, though. . . if you look, and promise not to tell.
friends in Breckenridge have indicated their desire to come down for the occasion. The youngsters will like the movies especially, and they are always welcome. The general public is asked to contribute questions to the Question Box in order that the tables may be turned on Dr. I. Q. as he attempts to answer the questions. The purpose of the Mission-Revival is not to manipulate salvation for the visitors, (we'll have no saw dust trail) but to show what it is the Episcopal Church is getting at and why we think and act the way we do.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Wise Words Concerning Honesty

Scripture: Proverbs 3:3; 11:1, 3; 12:17-22; 14:5; 23:10-11

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

There are certain things, according to the Book of Proverbs, that are "abomination to the Lord." Among these are "a false balance" (11:1), and "lying lips" (12:22).
Whatever the Lord abominates is bad for man. The dishonest or lying person sins against his fellowman, as well as against his Maker. Society depends for its very existence, as well as for its welfare and security, upon honesty in daily life and its relationships. The fact that so many people are dishonest enables society to go on, and it is because so many people are dishonest that we have so many menacing problems and so little world security.
Honesty begins with the individual in more ways than one. It has its rise and beginning in honesty with one's self. Many people are not honest with themselves. They live in a world of illusion, or of self-delusion. The dishonest man would despise himself if he faced up honestly to what he actually is. He avoids that by the alibi that "other people do it," "you can't do business and be honest," and similar by-words of the weak.
A man has to settle with his own mind and will what sort of man he is going to be—a man of integrity, or a cheater and grafter. According to that decision he will be an asset to society, or a parasite, living upon and robbing others, no matter by what polite legal fiction his action may be covered.

When Zacchaeus, the Jewish tax-gatherer, who climbed into a tree to see Jesus and climbed down to receive the Master as his self-invited guest, heard the Master's declaration, "This day is salvation come to this house," he stood and said, "If I have taken anything from any man by false accusation, I restore him fourfold." That was the portion that a convicted thief was by Jewish law under obligation to restore, so that Zacchaeus was saying, in effect, "If I have grafted in my office (as its very nature made it easy and tempting to do) I've been a thief."

That plain sort of honesty with himself was the sure evidence of the reality of Zacchaeus' conversion. In a somewhat different way the Prodigal Son's salvation began when he "came to himself," and was honest with himself.

So, honesty, like charity, begins at home; but like charity it does not stay there. It reaches out into every sphere and relationship of life. And it is the only basis upon which life can be sound and wholesome, and even safe. Only today I have been reading a list of the names and offenses of firms prosecuted under the food and drug law. Appallingly, it contains the names of some of the best known firms in the country, emphasizing how much the very food that we eat and the drugs we use depend upon the simple integrity of those who produce them. Honesty is our deepest need.

"Mind" is the subject of the Lesson - Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 24.

The Golden Text is: "Righteous art thou, O Lord, and upright are thy judgments. . . Give me understanding and I shall live" (Psalms 119:137, 144).

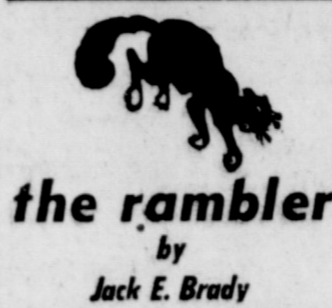

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson - Sermon is the following from the Bible: "The counsel of the Lord standeth for ever, the thoughts of his heart to all generations" (Psalms 33:11).

The Lesson - Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Few deny the hypothesis that intelligence, apart from man and matter, governs the universe; and it is generally admitted that this intelligence is the eternal Mind or divine Principle, Love" (page 270)

Texas Cattle Association Makes Going Tough For Cattle Thieves

BEAUMONT, Tex. (UP)—Cattle thievery, one of the few carry-overs from the days of the old West, is still a problem for cattlemen and Texas Rangers, whose vigilance never relaxes.

A man who knows all about the tricks of rustling is H. C. Anderson, special ranger and brand inspector for the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association. "Every cattle thief has his own cunning way and his own idea as to what he thinks is the perfect method of stealing," Anderson said. "But like in other crime, there has never been an unbreakable case."

Lean Texans of sturdy stock made their own law back in 1877 at Graham, Tex., when they organized the association to wage war on rustlers who were running off thousands of cattle each year. Between 1883 and 1892, the special officers and inspectors of the association recovered 11,668 head of cattle valued at more than $185,939. Between 1913 and 1933 almost 40,000 cattle were recovered, with a valuation of more than $1,873,200.

Recoveries are declining, not because rustlers are less cunning, but because the association has never relaxed its relentless campaign to help its 6,000 members.

In the four years from 1943 to 1947, there were only 4,488 cattle recovered. They represented $339,489 worth of beef on the hoof.

It's hard for rustlers to dispose of stolen cattle even though there are more than 500,000 brands on record. Watchful inspectors are stationed at Houston, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Lubbock and Texarkana. These men see every shipment of cattle going in and out of these cattle centers. Association men are also stationed at principal stockyards in other western states.

Anderson said that many cattle are slaughtered by the roadside and hauled away in trucks. But the detectives of the livestock world are usually able to gather sufficient evidence from the slaughtering operations to track down the offenders.

The association inspectors also check tire marks, footprints, sales methods and any other seemingly small clues that may help bring cattle thieves to justice.

Phone 601. . . All kinds of job printing. . . A complete line of office supplies.

Some cattle thieves prefer to work at night, but Anderson says this actually helps the association inspectors because they can operate without being detected as readily.

BACK TO SCHOOL FUTURE SECURITY
EDUCATION AND SAVINGS GO HAND IN HAND
You want them back in school every Fall right up through college, but the future is uncertain and sometimes the best plans fail because they lack material investment and hard headed practicality. A better way is to have your children help themselves with their own savings plan. Being thrifty is fun and has meaning when it becomes personally understood. Children soon realize the value of independence and become increasingly ambitious. The pride in watching an account grow gives character and integrity.
