Crews Bring Forest Fires Under Control

That Reminds Me

BY FRANK A. JONES

LIFE CANNOT BE ALL ICE CREAM AND SODA WATER

I remember as a child I had a great fondness for candy and ice cream and soda pop. I thought that my happiness would be complete if I could work in a confectionary store, and when ever I desired, could get a handful of candy, or a dish of ice cream. My ambition at that time was to have enough money so I could satisfy all the wants at will. One day I secured a position in my hometown ice cream parlor. I remember with what high anticipation I went to work. Before I had been on the job long I discovered that my desire for candy, ice cream and fountain drinks was soon satisfied. I often went whole days without touching them. This thought occurred to me that a lot of things that we think we want in life are like that. Given all we want of them we soon lose our desire for them. Sweets are appreciated most when partaken of occasionally. Vacations afford the greatest thrill when they come occasionally. The secret of living is not having all one wants of every thing but appreciating and enjoying with keanness and zest the things one does have.

And Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life; he that cometh to me shall never hunger; and he that believeth on me shall never thirst.—John 6:35.

The best way for the world to remember the sacrifices of those who have fought and died and suffered torture in the war that peace might come is to see to it that peace remains and war does not come again. To permit war to come again is to make all the sacrifices that this victory has cost. The dead have paid their obligation to the race. It is up to the living to meet their obligation by seeing to it that peace continues to endure.

There is no place in this world's economy for a lazy man.

The civil Aeronautics Administration has found it impossible to approve all of the projects for airports wanted by cities and states. As a result only 908 are to be built or approved in the year ending June 30. The estimated cost to the federal government is $66,570,000.

Mavericks To Play DeLeon At DeLeon Friday Night

The Eastland Mavericks will go to DeLeon Friday afternoon where they will meet DeLeon that night in the first out of town game and first conference game of this football season.

Coach Little says his boys are in good shape and all of them will probably play in the DeLeon game unless it might be that Dwain Lusk would not be able to take part because of an injury.

Both Eastland and DeLeon will be fresh from a victory, Eastland having defeated the Masonic Home team from Fort Worth last Friday, and DeLeon was a recent victor over Blanket.

A large delegation of fans from Eastland will go with the Mavericks to see the game.

FARMERS TOLD TO MARCH ON ROME SUNDAY

ROME. — While government officials held emergency meetings today in an attempt to stave off a 200,000-man "limited" general strike in Rome tomorrow, Communist labor leaders ordered 4,000 farmers to stage a "March on Rome" Sunday.

A source close to Premier Alcide De Gasperi's cabinet said: "After studying reports of what happened in Hungary, it seems as if the same sort of thing is going on here. The Communists are trying to keep the government so busy dealing with agitation it is almost impossible to do any governing."

The Communists gave the same reason for the threatened strike tomorrow and Sunday's projected march. They demand that the government do something about letting "farmers" work fallow land around Rome.

Government officials, labor leaders and representatives of property owners met to consider the Communist demand that 30,000 "unemployed" farmers be given at least 80 per cent of the uncultivated land in Rome province. More squatters moved into uncultivated land today despite heavy police patrols.

State Rests Case In Stokes Trial

HENDERSON, Tex. — The state rested its case against Mrs. Dorothy Stokes, charged with the poison murder of Mrs. Doreine Garrett, in a surprise move shortly after court reconvened today.

The court recessed briefly to permit the defense counsel to confer with witnesses.

In rebuttal testimony, the state was expected to offer a surprise witness whose testimony may reveal unforeseen development in the case.

A jam-packed courtroom of about 1,200 persons yesterday heard the defendant's signed confession admitted as evidence in the second trial of Mrs. Stokes.

Enrollment At U. T. Hits Peak

AUSTIN, Tex. — University of Texas enrollment is the highest in its history at 17,343, officials reported today, but they believed veteran enrollment may have passed its peak and said there are some 400 fewer freshmen in classes than a year ago.

The junior college movement in Texas was assigned as the cause for fall off in freshmen enrollment.

Aluminum Owls Fail To Bluff Starlings

MILWAUKEE (UP)—Suburban West Allis is trying something new to eliminate the starlings which plague residents yearly.

Park board officials installed eight aluminum owls high in tree tops usually infested with starlings. The owls have long been the starlings' nemesis and experts said they probably would frighten the birds away for good.

First reports were rather discouraging, however. The starlings, not in the least dismayed by the metal owls which glared ferociously, ignored them.

GRAND JURY MAKES REPORT THEN ADJOURNS

The 91st District grand jury, which has just adjourned, made the following report to Judge Geo. L. Davenport.

We, the Grand Jury for the 91st District Court of Eastland County, Texas, August Term, A. D., 1947, desire to submit our final report.

We have spent eight days in session and have interrogated a considerable number of witnesses. We have returned sixty-one indictments.

We wish to thank the District Attorney and the Sheriff's Department and all Bailiffs for their efficient service and prompt cooperation with reference to all matters investigated.

We wish to commend especially the State Highway Patrol for their efficient work in connection with the highway accident occurring on the Cisco-Breckenridge highway.

We have investigated within our ability all matters that have come to our attention and have acted on those in accordance with the evidence presented.

There has been nothing brought to our attention concerning violation of weights and measure laws.

We have inspected the jail and found it to be in satisfactory condition, except that we recommend that the bath tub on the second floor be replaced, with a shower, that several commodes that are in ill repair be replaced and that those mattresses which are in bad conditions be rebuilt or replaced. Furthermore, we recommend that close supervision be had of the prisoners and that definite hours be prescribed and followed for visiting of prisoners.

We desire to commend the officers for the work that they have done in reducing wreckless driving and that they be urged to continue with diligence the further correction of reckless driving.

We recommend that alleged violations of gambling statutes be investigated and more strictly and impartially enforced.

We are of the opinion that responsibility for delinquents is with the parents rather than the court. This condition is being studied and discussed by the people who are much more familiar with the handling of delinquents than the Grand Jury, and, therefore, we hesitate to make definite recommendations as to any change in the present procedure of our court.

Having completed our investigation of matters brought to our attention, we request that we be discharged.

BLAZES CUT FROM 105 ON WEDNESDAY TO FIFTY TODAY

CONROE, Tex. — Men and heavy machines appeared today to be breaking the back of 10-day old fires raging in the flat expanse of heavily wooded East Texas counties when the number of blazes was slashed to about 50 from a high of more than 100 yesterday.

At least 105 fires were burning only 24 hours ago, but an aerial reconnaissance early today disclosed the fire fighters were winning the fight against apparent incineration in the vast pine forests.

Most of the major fires were in the pinelands of Montgomery, San Jacinto, and Liberty counties. Yesterday the fires moved close to the Texas-Louisiana border when seven fires in Jasper and Newton counties destroyed 1,500 acres.

Five fires were spotted and put out in Polk county last night.

Two fires in Walker county were put out before they gained headway. North Harris county had seven small fires which were of short duration.

The Superior Oil Company's installation near Conroe was completely out of danger when it was reported that the woods fire near the plant burned itself out at the edge of the Tomball highway, which served as a fire barrier.

A special crew from the State Forestry Service halted the fire yesterday when it came as close as 100 yards to the recycling plant where highly inflammable petroleum products are processed.

The State Foresters were using 30 pieces of motorized equipment and 10 additional plows and tractors were due from Mississippi.

"I would say that we have most of the fires under control now," said J. O. Burnside, chief of fire control for the Texas Forestry Service. "But the danger is not over yet, and we still have to worry about the continued activity of firebugs."

Burnside said Texas Rangers have questioned a number of persons, "but they won't talk about setting fires deliberately and the blazes have destroyed any evidence we could have obtained."

Forestry officials expressed concern over the weather bureau prediction of increased wind velocity over the region embracing 2,000,000 acres of timberland. About 45,000 acres have already been destroyed.

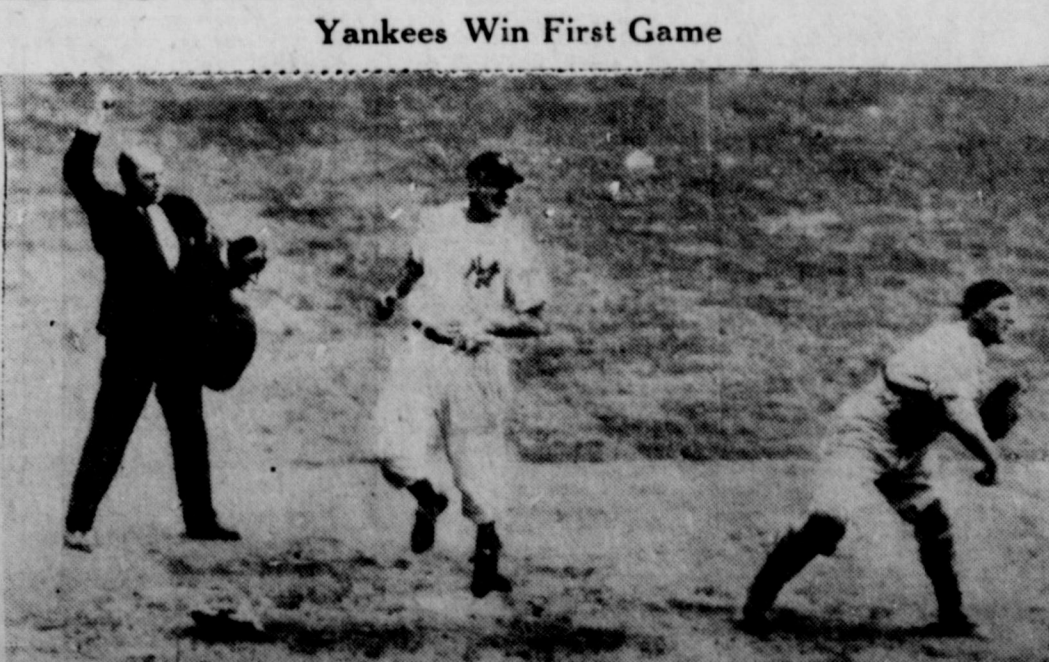

"The weather bureau told us the winds would reach a peak velocity of about 17 miles an hour by mid-afternoon and that there is a possibility that the low pressure area will move in, bringing high winds tomorrow," Burnside said. Moist air and absence of winds assisted the 225 volunteers yesterday.

A disaster unit from Lowry Field in Denver, Colo., has flown back to its home base.

Adjutant General K. L. Berry said he felt it was no longer necessary to bring experimental water bombs to the area, and he said he would not request additional airplanes pending developments along the fire fronts.

The idea of forcing rain from cumulus cloud formations by dry ice dropped from planes was not entirely abandoned, although the first attempt was unsuccessful and the sky has been cloudless ever since the outbreak Sept. 22.

Bible Study Dropped WARSAN, Ind. (UP)—The Rev. E. B. Fletcher, secretary of the Warsaw-Winona Lake Ministerial Association, said there would be no Bible teaching in Warsaw High School this year. He could find no one qualified to teach.

Umpire Bill McGowan motions Yankee Johnny Lindell out at home plate on a force play in the 5th inning of the first World Series game played in Yankee Stadium. George Stirnweiss hit Jackie Robinson, forcing Lindell at the plate. Lindell had driven in two runs with a double just previous. Catcher is Dodgers' Bruce Edwards. The Yankees won 5-3. DOCTOR WOODWARD'S AMBITION

By Elizabeth Seifert Copyright by Elizabeth Seifert; Distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.

SEEN by one coming into the town, the Hospital dominates the campus. The road seems to part the hills on which the University is built, below them lies the river, neat as a pin between its stone-paved banks, slick as a ribbon threaded through the bridges. A traveler's interest becomes occupied with the river until someone, a child usually, gasps and says, "Oh, look!" Then everyone turns to look, and there is a little silence of admiration.

For to the left of the road, built upon the crest of its own hill, the units of the hospital are spread out like a handful of photographs. The towers, the stonework, are touched with magic. The buildings stand proudly against the blue summer sky. Cars swing busily up the drives; the sunlight gleams against the windows; a group of blue-caped, white-capped nurses walks swiftly through an archway, crosses a sunny quadrangle, disappears into the doorway of the Nurses' Home. There is something sure and safe and good about this hospital.

Its focal point is the tower of one building which stands taller and more proudly than the rest. It is as if the other buildings stood back and let that one lead. This is the Caroline LeViv Memorial, Carrie's Lair, as the students call it. It is the Women's and Children's Hospital of the group, a new, fine painting in pink granite and white limestone. The University and the State are very proud of the Lair.

At noontime the sitting room of Dr. McAn was bright with sunlight pouring through the wide windows from which the old man had pettishly had the Venetian blinds removed.

"I can't see through the dog-gone things," he said. He spoke with difficulty. A stroke had left the side of his face, and of his huge body, as nearly helpless as a mar could endure.

Dr. Malcolm Glenn gazed, dropped into a deep chair, his whole body seeking to relax. His big, clean fingers took a cigarette from a bowl upon the table; he lit it and looked at Pop. "You ok?"

"Sure. I'm ok. Tied to this chair like a baby in its pram. Having to wait till someone wants a smoke to see anybody, to hear anything."

Malcolm blew smoke about his sandy head. "You wait" he agreed, "and then tell us the news."

"Hospital's sort of dietary today, isn't it?" Pop demanded. His little eyes peered across at Malcolm.

"Sure. All the same, we're mighty glad to be getting a new staff, sir. At the meeting, I only half believed it would happen."

"Had to have one in Chicago, didn't you?"

"Oh, yes, we had to have a man. But these days—"

"Thank you'll like Woodward?"

"How can I tell? We're both rking him on hearsay. Ordinarily we'd have had a personal interview. But he'll be very welcome. His reputation is good. Some of the personnel know him."

"What if they say?"

"The phone rang and Malcolm reached a long, white-clad arm to take the instrument, to speak into it. He put it back into its cradle. "The usual gossip," he answered Pop. "I got only scraps. He has red hair; he's especially good with youngsters; he can tell the best stories."

"Is" said Pop. "Ladies' man?"

"Malcolm said the end of his tongue around the inside of his flat, bronzed cheek. "I gathered as much. How old is he?"

"Less than forty. I—a new Staff is always a gamble, Malcolm."

DR. GLENN mashed out the end of his cigarette. The phone rang again. This time his voice was annoyed. "Can't you read orders, Miss Huppert? Well—I'll be up there in fifteen minutes."

He smiled ruefully at Pop. "Nurse ought to get married by the time she's forty," he said mildly.

"Huppert's a good Supp."

"She is. But if you nurse for twenty years you're bound to know more than the doctor."

Old Pop laughed, his huge body shaking. He took a tissue from a blue box on the table beside him, wiped the corner of his mouth.

"What does Huppert have to say about the new Staff?"

"Well, she explained to me that a new Staff doctor could do a lot of good, but on the other hand he could do a lot of harm. Also, anything was better than nothing, since we are so understaffed."

Pop grunted. "For her figure, she does considerable sitting on both sides of the fence. Well, I hope you'll get along with him, Malcolm."

Dr. Glenn shrugged. "I have to get along with him, don't I? I'd rather it were you, sir."

"So would I." The old man's tone was dry. "We both know I'm done with pediatry. Malcolm should give up being Chief, too. Well, you'd better run along, son. Give my love to Nancy and the kids."

Malcolm smiled; his left hand brushed across his eyes; he lifted his head in a short, impatient, jerking gesture. "Nikki's engaged, you know. I'll have her bring the kids around."

"Nice boy?"

"A fine boy. I doubted if I'd ever find one good enough for my girl, but—"

"It'll be just as hard finding this good enough for your boys."

"Yes, sir, I suppose so. Now, Nancy—"

"They don't make many like you, Malcolm. You're a lucky man, Dr. Glenn."

Malcolm's face was somber. His mouth was the finest feature he had, the upper lip finely chiseled, with a deep cleft upward to his nose, the under lip full and sensitive. "I know I'm lucky," he agreed.

"It's a bit more than luck, son, to raise a fine family. You can be proud. Nancy and those three youngsters are the finest thing you've ever done—in a life which

Sportive Pup Has Fun Playing Subway Tag

NEW YORK (UP) — Motor-man DeWitt Clapper brought his six-car subway train to a halt when he saw the small mongrel trotting along between the tracks.

Clapper jumped from his cab and chased the little dog, but the pup thought he was playing and scampered ahead. When it crossed to opposite tracks, Clapper returned to his train and reported the matter to a transit clerk at the next station.

A trackwalker was informed in time to meet the dog before another train passed. He deposited the pup in the street.

Gives Up Needle He Swallowed 30 Years Ago

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP) — Edward Moroney, 88-year-old Ft. Worth man, may not be a sword swallower, but he did a good imitation on a small scale.

And there wasn't any trick to it, like the saber - quippers you see in a circus side show. He really swallowed it—a needle, that is—and it stayed down. Something like 30 years.

A thorn in the flesh it was, too. At least that's what physicians tool kit for when they were performing an appendectomy on Moroney recently.

But when they pulled it out, they discovered it was the same needle which had caused Moroney a lot of misery when, as a youth, he had swallowed it.

He had recovered from the ill effects, however, and doctors had deemed it unnecessary to operate at the time.

300 Family Co-Op Planned In Cal.

PALO ALTO, Cal. (UP) — A family co-operative housing project is being planned for a 200-acre plot of land behind Stanford University.

The unique plan contemplates each family owning its own house and lot—but sharing in the ownership of such community projects as playgrounds, schools and stores.

The San Mateo Planning Commission is holding subdivision hearings on the $5,000,000 project which is modeled on a successful co-operative in California's San Fernando Valley.

NEW YORK (UP) — During a raid in Chinatown, federal narcotic agents seized a bottle of a beverage called "Rattlesnake Whiskey," popular with the Chinese as a restorer of strength.

Rustic Carmel Decides To Put Down Sidewalks

CARMEI, Cal. (UP) — Carmel-by-the-Sea, which has preserved its reputation as a "quaint village" despite the inroads of thousands of tourists, artists and servicemen, is considering—with misgivings—improving walking conditions for its citizens and visitors.

Members of the Carmel planning commission have agreed that unpaved, narrow streets are not a good place for persons on foot but they shied at the ugly word "sidewalks."

Now the commission has suggested tactfully to the city council that "footpaths" might be installed, provided "every effort be made to retain the rustic atmosphere" of the community.

Johnny Puts Out To Sea But His Voyage Is Brief

NEW YORK (UP) — John Lehman, 8, built a red rubber raft on the beach near his Staten Island home and set out for the Atlantic Ocean.

As the raft was swept off by a strong ebb tide for more than a mile in lower New York Bay, bathers on nearby beaches set up an alarm. Within a half hour, two police launches, a police seaplane and three Coast Guard cutters were on the scene.

John objected when one of the launches pulled up alongside to take him aboard.

"I don't see what all the fuss is about," he said. "I'm not afraid and I can get back the same way I got out here."

Mrs. M. O. Hazard had some improvements made on their home.

THE HORSE FAIR, famous painting by Rosa Bonheur, is one of the thirty masterpieces valued at more than $1,500,000 which will be on exhibit at the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts during the State Fair of Texas, October 4-19. Loaned to the Fair by the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, the canvases—including two Rembrandts, a Van Dyck and a Rubens—were carefully packed and shipped by special boxcar non-stop to the Dallas exposition. The Bonheur painting, which the artist once failed to sell to her own countrymen, is valued at $70,000.

Iron Ore Shipments Near Record Peak

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UP)—The United States is apparently heading towards a record peace time use of steel this year.

Roy D. Nolan, state director of the division of lands and minerals reported that at the present rate of shipment, Minnesota may exceed the 64,000,000 tons of iron ore shipped to eastern plants from the famous Mesabi range in 1941. That was the peace-time high.

So far this year, Nolan said, ore shipments from Lake Superior docks have totalled 31,004,431 tons—compared with 19,725,233 tons shipped in a corresponding period last year.

If the present rate is maintained, he estimated that tonnage might hit 65,000,000 tons—barring unforeseen weather changes this fall which could close off the shipping season earlier than usual. The all time peak in ore shipments came during 1942 when the nation was at war and steel plants were working overtime to take care of demands. That year the staggering total of 755,300,000 tons was mined from the Mesabi.

Spilled Soup Leads To War Romance

TOWSON, Md. (UP)—Gerald E. Johns refused to let parental consent provision of Pennsylvania wedding laws stand in the way of his marriage to the German girl he met over a bowl of spilled soup in Kronberg Castle.

Johns, a former army mess sergeant in the famous German castle, brought Irmgard Steiger to Towson and they were married here under the less stringent Maryland marriage code.

Irmgard, only 18, would have been required under Pennsylvania regulations to obtain the formal consent of her parents before she would be permitted to marry.

The couple, who met when Irmgard, then a waitress, spilled some soup in Johns' mess hall, decided to be married in Maryland rather than wait for an exchange of correspondence between Germany and the United States.

LIGHT THE WAY TO Better Grades

The headline above tells quite a story. In fact, it tells two stories, for it can be read two ways.

Read it one way and it says, in effect, "Light IS the Way to Better Grades." Read it the other way and it means "YOU CAN Light the Way to Better Grades for Your Children."

Either way you read it, it means a lot. Actually, it all adds up to Better Light Plus Better Sight Equals Better Grades.

Possum Catching Dog Does His Work In City

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UP)—Going on the theory that any dog that can catch even one possum in the middle of a city is a good possum dog, Hamilton Magruder, custodian of La Villita, San Antonio's Mexican village, believes he has the best possum dog in the country. Magruder bases his belief on the fact that Chubby, a stray dog of doubtful ancestry which he befriended, has caught not one but two possums in the patio of La Villita.

On both occasions, Magruder was awakened in the early morning hours by sounds of combat. Each time, he said, he found Chubby doing battle with a possum.

Let Preachers Handle Weddings Contends J. P.

ALBANY, Ga. (UP)—Were Will Mock like many other justices of the peace, he probably would be a richer man.

Mock has been a justice of the peace here since 1912 but he refuses to perform marriage ceremonies.

In 35 years, he has married only three couples, and none in the last five years.

"The way I see it," he says, "marriage is not a business contract; it's a sacred agreement. There are enough preachers around to handle all the marrying."

Pastor Has One Stop Service

There's One, Anyway

ATLANTA, Ga. (UP)—Orchestra Leader Glen Gray, playing an engagement here, put civic leaders in a dither when he gazed up and down famous Peachtree Street and asked: "Where are the peaches?"

Julia Pennington, vice president of the Atlanta Debutante Club, finally located a solitary peachtree at Pershing Point.

Country Cat Spurns Hectic City Life

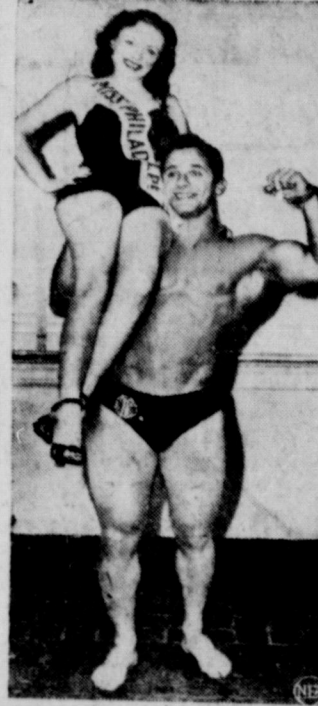

Bath, N. Y. (UP)—Mr. and Mrs. Jansen Clark's cat Tabithy apparently believes all the things country folk say about the city being no place to raise children. Tabithy accompanied her owners on a visit to Rochester, 70 miles from here. Shortly after arriving in the city, Tabithy disappeared.

Three weeks later the Clarks returned to their farm home near here. Tabithy was waiting in a box on the back porch. With her were her four new-born kittens.

Shafts are dug into porous lava common in this area. The shafts are covered by gratings through which a steady stream of cold air pours during the day, cooling the house. In the evening, when the air above ground is cool, the shaft draws warm air from the house down into the ground.

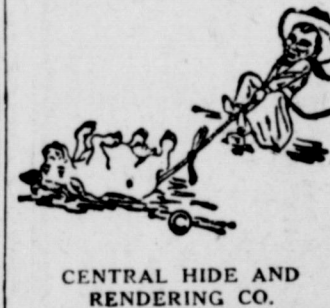

Just Too Much Pollen
BOSTON (UP)—Here's bad news for hay fever sufferers. Tests conducted by the state public works department revealed that one plant of ragweed may produce as many as 50,000 seeds and that a light breeze may carry the offending pollen as far as 18 miles.

Peanut Shelling Plants, Oil Mills Have Light Stock

Southwest peanut shelling plants and oil mills held only light supplies of shelled peanuts or peanut oil and meal this week, according to reports received by the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Administration.

Occasional cars of shelled No. 1 Spanish sold at 16-14 to 16-1-2 cents per pound f.o.b. shipping point. Slow demand for shelled goods prompted shellers to use caution in acquiring stocks of farmers' stock peanuts for shelling.

Only a few mills had started operations in North Texas, and only scattered harvesting of early maturing fields took place. Oklahoma yield prospects remain generally good, since recent rains improved the condition of the crop. Harvesting got under way in the southeastern part of the state.

Veterans Can Have Relief From Malaria

NEW ORLEANS (UP) — A man at Tulane University spends much of his time trying to get other men to allow his mosquitoes to bite them on the arm.

Furthermore, he usually asks for blood. He is Dr. A. J. Walker, malarialogist at Tulane, who has done much to advance the treatment of malaria through his contacts with Pacific war veterans. Walker said there was no need for ex-service men to be laid up with recurring malaria attacks. He believes it is now possible in most cases to predict the probable time of a sufferer's next malarial relapse.

The Rev. Dr. A. Boylen Fitz-Gerald, right, didn't like the high cost of living and decided to do something about it. So he opened a church family market in his parsonage garage in South Orange, N. J., where his parishioners buy produce, often at 50 per cent below retail cost. Needless to say, business is booming.

Treatment is begun immediately if blood tests show Walker's relapse has started.

"No treatment gives a permanent cure," he said, "but inconvenience, discomfort and disability can be reduced to a minimum and little or no loss in working time can be affected."

Walker said treatment at Tulane is used with the newer anti-malarial drugs, usually pentamidine, pefazine or chloroquine.

The doctor charges no fees. But if the patient's blood contains forms of the parasites he needs at the time, the doctor reserves the right to take four teaspoons of blood or allow his mosquitoes to bite the man's arm and thus carry on the disease.

Nobody has turned him down so far.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

"It's Living That Counts"

I stole the title of this column from a magazine article that said a whole lot better than I can what farm and country life can mean.

We talk about farm profits, production, research, and mechanical improvements... but isn't it true, what we really value is the life country living offers us?... the chance to be close to our families and neighbors... children sharing in the chores... working with our own hands at a worthwhile job.

And country pleasures are simple: good talk at day's end, and a glass of mellow beer with friends... the companionship of man and wife, unruffled by distractions of the city... the mutual tolerance of one another's tastes—in choosing a friend, or a glass of beer, or a candidate for Governor.

Mind, I'm all for material improvements. But from where I sit, the real goodness of our country life is that spirit of tolerance, moderation, and good fellowship.

Sugar Collector Learns It's Not Rationed Now

NEW YORK (UP)— Martin Seifer, 55, a chauffeur, walked from table to table in a cafeteria, emptying sugar bowls into a paper bag.

The manager called a policeman and Seifer explained he was collecting the sugar to send it to relatives abroad. He gave the same explanation to Magistrate Anthony J. Di Giovanni.

"Well, you go out and buy your sugar," the magistrate advised him. "It's not rationed now." He gave Seifer a 10 day suspended sentence.

Mass Escape Made Through Dugout

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UP)— Only a gaping hole at the base of the wall was left as evidence of the mass escape.

Twenty upon whom the death sentence had been passed were at large—20 who were doomed to die.

That was the stark reality that faced F. A. Boettiger, the guard who would be held responsible for the break, as he stood looking at the opening under the wall.

Boettiger went into action. Quickly and desperately he sounded the alarm, and, together with his helpers, he combed the tower for the fugitives.

Only when the last of was recaptured and safely imprisoned again did his cease.

Then he set to work repair the dog pound so the mong could not scratch their way again.

Rambler
by Jack E. Brady

Edwin Aaron has developed a football team in a matter of time. The Eastland "Diehards" played a "hang-up" ball game last night, at Park Stadium, and defeated the "Straw" team by a score of 12-0. The cause line-up proved themselves a bunch of hustlers throughout the game. Edwin Aaron, Left Half, Lupe Gluzak, Right Half, Durhl Robertson, Fullback, and Edna Aaron, Co-captain, Right End, were ninth grade students; though

end, Morris Lee Riggins, Left Half, Durhl Robertson, Fullback, Guy Warden, Left Guard, Lowell Herzig, Center, John Whatley, Left End, Hill Haeta, Left Tackle, Merrick Sabourn, Right Tackle, Merrick suffered an injury to his right hand during the second quarter, but gave his team plenty of moral support for the remainder of the game, from the sidelines. Dickie D'ant, played Right Half, Eddie Haynes, right end, and Lupe Gluzak, right guard. Other members of the Eastland squad are: Herman Hassell, James Jessup, Allen Vermilion, Cotton Benham, Buddy Aaron, Snag Hanson, Boyd Franklin, Landon Jordan, Butch Harbin, Robert Wood, Jimmy Jumper, James Allison, and Odus Robertson. "The Rambler" wishes to give credit, where credit is due, however, in any competition that involves a number of persons, every individual participating is involved in the action, and it is the united effort that makes it possible for some one individual to "steal-the-show". For outstanding efforts, the glorification goes to the entire team, so far as "the Rambler" is concerned. Superintendent Randall Simpson and Coach Harold Cook of the Straw School had twenty-one boys with them last night, three of them were ninth grade students; though

defeated, they played a good game. Like our Junior Hi team, the Straw boys were playing their first game of the season. Straw's starters were: Billy Hale, Billy Brown, Ray Dell Walton, Guy Couger, Mack Couger, Wilber Atkins, D. V. Pedigo, Jim Riebe, Paul Byser, Bobby Galley, and Loyd Jones. Two Junior Hi students, Roy Lee Smith, a n d Donald Martin, deserve the credit for the data on the game; you can't do a "hang-up" well job. According to Smith and Martin, the game looked as follows:

EASTLAND	STRAWN
72 Yds. Gained Rushing	59
32 Yds. Gained Passing	5
7 of 13 Passes Completed	1 of 3
1 Passes-Intercepted	1
3 for 78 Punts, No. Yds. 2 for 30	1 for 5 Penalties, No. Yds 2 for 10
Substitutes: Eastland, Boyd Franklin, Robert Wood, Cotton Benham.
Strawn, Two-names unknown.
Score by periods: Strawn 6—Second Quarter—Eastland 12—Third Quarter.
Officials: Wendell Siebert and Johnny Little.

The Eastland Mavericks are playing at DeLeon tonight. Attend the game.

The Art Of Finding Oil

DAN KRALIS
Lone Star Gas Company
(One of a series).

The first wells were drilled for salt water and not oil. Before the war of 1812, oil penetrated in drilling operations was considered waste material and often meant abandoning location and drilling elsewhere for salt water. Today salt water has the position of had one hundred fifty years ago. The Chinese were the first to develop the art of drilling. Before the year 1650 they had drilled twelve thousand wells to depths of 1,000 hundred feet to 1,000 feet deep for salt water. They invented the cable tool method of drilling. The drilling tool were tied to rope attached to end of a spring pole. Men jumping up and down on a load attached to the pole led the rope and churning method used to drill the hole.

The Chinese use this same method today in China where salt is evaporated from the water pumped from the wells. This spring-pole method modified by modern machinery, and steam, gas, and electric power is the cable tool drilling method of today.

Most of the producing wells in the United States have been drilled by cable tool until recently.

Today the rotary system of drilling, the crew driver method, is in predominate use. The rotary system has certain advantages. It is more rapid and can drill deeper. A recent well in Oklahoma was drilled by rotary method to over three miles deep.

Tomorrow—Oil in Eastland area.

It Doesn't Matter What They Say
Truly, it doesn't. . . can really hurt you but yourself.

Keep it high. Don't lower it an inch.

Pick out your own path in this life and walk it.

You have every right to follow your own, particular star.

When the slurs, the disappointments, the biting tongues are heard, it does not matter what they say if you have been true to yourself.

True to your own standards of rightness.

True to your own definition of a lady.

True to your own definition of a gentleman.

True to your own definition of a decent person.

Ignore it.

No one can hurt you but yourself.

Keep your head high.

You have every right to follow your own, particular star.

Follow its gleam, as you see it.

"To thine own self be true."

And you'll be alright.
