Bull Town Bulletins

By Bill Ellis

WE KNEW IT WOULD happen. It generally always does, anytime the news focuses in on any kind of agricultural calamity--and that is the fact that the national grocer wholesalers have already begun to "gouge" the public with higher prices.

A report released this week revealed that the cost of food--all food--increased this past month by .4 per cent, the highest rate of increase in the past several years.

The cause for the increase was blamed on the severe drought which has plagued much of the nation's farmland during the summer of 1988.

But wait. If you'll stop and think a minute, you don't even have to be in the farming business to realize that the price hikes are 'way, 'way premature.

The reason being that it isn't even time for harvesting the 1988 crop. How can they already have the prices raised on certain items when the commodity from which it is produced has not even been harvested yet???

One of the items listed as having suffered a price hike was bread, which increased 1.1 per cent. There are two things wrong with this "little" increase.

For one thing, it has been pointed out on numerous occasions that only about two or three cents worth of wheat, at the most, goes into the price of a loaf of bread. The majority of that $1 or so that you pay for your bread goes to pay for processing, packaging, advertising and the like.

The wheat producers have pointed out for years that with this small percentage of the cost of bread actually tied to the market price of wheat, the price could be doubled to the farmers, without causing the price of bread to go up appreciably on the grocer's shelves. That is, if you could assume that the wholesalers, bakers, retailers, etc., would be honest about the situation.

The other thing, as regards the price of bread, is the fact that wheat harvest came late last spring--considerably before the drought problems even came to exist. As far as we know, no wheat crop has yet been affected by the dry conditions. There is still time for any drought-stricken area to get enough rain for planting wheat, and that crop should not be affected at all.

And yet, the report said, the price of bread was going up 1.1 per cent.

One television commentator laid off politics long enough to make the observation that the prices of foodstuffs were rising faster than the drought would seem to indicate that they should rise.

Products being produced at the present time, the newsman pointed out, are being made with last year's crop supply, and the companies are apparently taking advantage of the situation, and the adverse publicity, to go ahead and raise their prices.

It's a shame that consumers aren't able to keep tabs (perhaps some of them do) close enough so they can tell which grocery products are being raised unnecessarily, so that they could boycott these particular brands, and force the producers to be honest about the situation.

Food producers who prey upon the unsuspecting consumers with price hikes before their own prices have been affected are sort of in the same league with the attorneys who show up at the sites of airplane crashes, seeking out survivors of people killed in the crash, hoping to get a good lawsuit case.

There is just something about both sets of folks that turns the average person's stomach.

This year we are asked to join with the National Safety Council in a nationwide safety belt campaign.

Bovina residents can feel Fall in the air this week as temperatures have been in the fifties during the morning hours. We had drizzling rain all Saturday night and some on Sunday.

We went to our trailer in the mountains near Eagle Nest last week and the trees are already beginning to turn colors. We talked with a lady at Eagle Nest and she said they had already had fourteen frosts and it was predicted that the color peak weekend would come a month early this year.

We had a good time there and Tami and Arty and the girls went with us. The fishing was good, too. We went on Wednesday and returned home Saturday.

Brad Howell called Monday morning from the Lubbock Methodist Hospital. He said he is getting along real well and is up walking. He was on his way to therapy and said hopefully, he would be out of the hospital in about a week. Brad had both knees injured in a one vehicle accident about five weeks ago.

Robbie Stowers of Austin, daughter of Dorothy and Roy Lee Stowers, was home for a few days. Robbie was honored with a bridal shower on Saturday in Bovina. Accompanying her to Bovina were her fiancé, Mike Mersiosky and his mother, also from the Austin area.

Congratulations to Dan and Martha Koelzer on the birth of a granddaughter, Sherelle Pearl, born August 3. Her parents are Kevin and Cheryl Koelzer of Friona.

Alma Englant was taken to the Lubbock hospital by Bovina ambulance on Sunday afternoon.

She was released and brought home on Monday.

Dickie and Bonnie Clayton, their son Chad and nephew Ted spent a few days at Red River. Bonnie said it rained every day and also said the leaves are turning autumn colors. They enjoyed their trip. They went to Red River August 20 and returned home on August 24.

Virgie Adams has had a good time with her granddaughter, Heather, who is visiting from Lubbock. Heather's parents are George and Martha Jackson of Lubbock. Virgie said one week this summer she had Heather and her two sisters, Hope and Holly.
