GIVE BACK THE TRICYCLE:

Two children, neighbors, got difficulty and their disturbance attracted the attention of the neighborhood. It seems that one of the boys had taken the other boy's tricycle and refused to give it up. The wails of the bereaved youngster brought the parents of both boys on to the scene. "Jackie", the boy's mother said, "You must tell Bobbie you are sorry you took his tricycle." Jackie readily did as he was told and informed Bobbie that he was sorry that he had taken his tricycle, but he made no move to return the tricycle. Jackie's mother, calling his attention to it, told him that he must also return to Bobbie his tricycle, in addition to telling him he was sorry. At this Jackie demurred. He was not averse to telling his little friend that he was sorry he took his tricycle, but he balked on giving it back. Sounds like a simple childish quarrel and simple childish logic, but wherein, I wonder, is it different from the actions of wise, mature adults who take from their neighbors unjustly and ask the Lord to forgive their wrongs but fail to make restitution. Can the logic be wrong when applied to the child, but right when applied to the adult? Adults also should return the unjustly taken tricycle.

SERVING THE PUBLIC

The West Texas Transportation Company, which operates a bus-line from Eastland to Post as well as to a number of other points, has made application to the Texas Railroad Commission for a permit to extend its service from Post to Lubbock. This would give people in this area better and quicker service to Lubbock. Hearing on the application will probably be held in Eastland sometime in December.

Members of the Jaycees are working on the plans for their "Fat and Lean" softball game to be played at Firemen's Field Monday night. Committees are now selling tickets at 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for students.

County H-D Agent Offers Recipes For Canned Pears

By Mrs. Helen Marquardt
If you are planning on preserving pears, you might like to include some pear honey and a d pickled pears, says Mrs. Helen Marquardt, County Home Demonstration Agent. Here follows her recipes:

PICKLED PEARS
1 gallon pears
2 quarts sugar
1 pint water
1 quart vinegar
2 1/2 sticks cinnamon
2 tablespoons whole allspice (More spice if desired).

Kieffer pears or firm juicy pears are good for this recipe. Wash the pears, par, cut in half or quarter and core. Place the pears in a large enamel pan. Barely cover with hot water and boil 10 minutes. Drain the water off, but save 1 pint to use with the vinegar syrup. Mix sugar, vinegar and the 1 pint of water. Add the spices which have been tied loosely in a cheesecloth. Bring to boil and pour over the pears. Boil 10 minutes and let stand over night. Next morning drain off the syrup and boil down until thick. Remove spice bag. If pears are tender, they may be packed into hot sterilized jars and covered with boiling syrup and sealed. If they are hard pears such as Kieffer they may be added to the thick syrup and cooked for about 15 or 20 minutes then packed hot, covered with syrup and sealed.

Tanner said all government restrictions on credit in the purchase of durable goods would be lifted after Saturday (November 1), and that consumers would be free again to work out payment schedules with merchants.

"The lifting of controls should not be the signal for wild spending," Tanner said. "Credit buying is a fine old American custom, but the use of this privilege to extremes always results in disaster."

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—With policing of the Balkans and the rightness of the Truman doctrine of aid to Greece and Turkey still two of the most controversial issues before the United Nations General Assembly in New York, it might be fruitful to force into the open the terms of two treaties between Soviet Russia and Yugoslavia.

Edson

American officials admit they don't know too much about what's in these documents. The first was concluded in Moscow in April, 1945. Bear in mind that this was before V-E Day. Yet Marshal Tito, alias Josip Broz, Russian-trained Communist, went to Moscow as head of the army in Yugoslavia and there signed a 20-year treaty of friendship between the two countries.

The official government of Yugoslavia, at that time, was the monarchy under the regency of young King Peter II. The election which ousted the king and set Tito up in power as premier, held until November, 1945.

Six months later, Tito returned to Moscow to get his second treaty. Only news about it was some ballyhoo in the Moscow press of June 11, 1946, hailing the signing of the pact three days before. According to the Moscow papers, this second treaty provided that Soviet Russia would rebuild Yugoslavia's war industries and equip its armies.

If these are the terms of the second treaty and if they are being carried out, American officials see in them a precedent for exactly what is being done under the Truman plan to aid Greece and Turkey. In that case, Soviet Russia does not have a leg to stand on in her opposition to the Truman plan.

Only difference between the two agreements is that the Truman plan is all out in the open—$100 million for military aid to Turkey, $150 million for Greece. How much Soviet Russia is pouring into Yugoslavia is kept secret in a covenant not openly arrived at. It is this backing by the might of Soviet Russia, however, which makes Tito the bad man of the Balkans.

There is no denying that Yugoslavia was ripe for a revolution when the war was over. Its government under the regency was probably as bad as they come. And the dominant, land-holding clergy, as in all backward countries, was no model of social uplift. Tito was just the boy to clean up this mess, but he went to extremes.

In his relations with the United States, Tito has first blown hot, then cold. At times he has said he wanted friendship and cooperation. That was when he wanted a loan or more relief for his starving people. Yet, when this was denied on the ground that he sent 30,000 tons of wheat to Albania last year, he retaliated by making trouble all over the Balkans.

All the while these extremely annoying incidents have been taking place, an effort has been made to work out a settlement of U. S.-Yugoslav fiscal affairs.

The U. S. government now holds in New York some $47 million in gold belonging to the old royal Yugoslav government. This, and $39 million more in private funds of Yugoslav nationals, were blocked at the beginning of the war. Tito naturally wants to get his hands in his money.

When Tito's government took over, it nationalized all major industries. Among American properties seized were Standard Oil facilities, the American Yugoslav Electric Company, Corn Products Refining properties, and so on. Remuneration for this must be worked out.

Also, the U. S. furnished Yugoslavia with $32 million lend-lease aid, certain "Plan A" relief, given by the Army before UNRRA. No recompense is asked for the $288 million U. S. aid furnished through UNRRA, but negotiation of other claims has been dragging on since last May, with no settlement in sight.

SPORTS

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va.—(NEA)—Virginia dealt the "best Harvard team in 15 years" the worst defeat suffered by the Crimson since 1884 to turn football eyes toward Charlottesville.

There is little doubt that if this fall's Virginia varsity maintains anything like the pace it set in its first three outings, it will be recognized as about the best in the famous institution's 60 years of football.

The squad has more and better personnel than the one Bill Dudley ran, passed and kicked into the national spotlight in 1944, except for the current Detroit Lion himself. That outfit won eight of nine, Dudley doing nearly everything for it. The remarkable back had to play most of the time to make it go.

It is figured here in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains that only three or four members of that team would show up well this autumn.

Virginia has the advantage of the Southern Conference rule permitting the use of freshmen, but with the notable exception of Johnny Papit, who had a tremendous build-up from Philadelphia high school football, the Cavaliers are making no use of it.

Making the Virginia story more unusual is the fact that the team is almost solid with veterans, one of the most devastating collections in the South. And to date the line has metted the backs.

over Princeton and West Virginia. VPI tied Virginia, 21-21, last year. Richmond smacked the Cavaliers, 19-7; Pennsylvania, 40-0; North Carolina State, 27-7; and North Carolina, 49-14.

Virginia gets further opportunity to demonstrate how far it has come back when the Cavaliers tackle Penn. Nov. 8. West Virginia a week later and North Carolina on the 29th.

Virginia has developed about as good a spirit as can be found in football.

Art Guepe was new as head coach last autumn. Most of the athletes had returned from service absences.

It was not until practice last spring that Guepe, who quarterbacked Frank Murray's Marquette club of 1934-35-36, found the unity he was seeking.

Virginia has the speed to make the T go, plus the desire. After three games, Guepe himself is not sure just how good the Cavaliers are, but it easily could be that the backs are as good as a few observers have said—one of the most devastating collections in the South. And to date the line has metted the backs.

Why Bank Tellers Steal Analyzed

CHICAGO (UP)—The mild-mannered bank teller who embezzles the bank's funds probably wandered from an honest course because of gambling or "the other woman," a crime study shows.

The study of why "honest" people steal was made by Virgil W. Peterson, director of the Chicago Crime Commission. It was presented in the Northwestern University Journal of Criminal Law and Criminology.

It has been estimated Peterson said, that annual losses from embezzlement total $400,000,000. A large share of that amount, he said, is stolen by trusted employees with excellent reputations for honesty.

Why do they steal? Compiling data from surety companies, Peterson found these to be the chief reasons:

1. Gambling.
2. Extravagant living standards.
3. Unusual family expenses.
4. Undesirable associates.

Researchers Go After Disease

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UP)—The University of Georgia School of Medicine here has received $35,000 federal grant to continue research on the effectiveness of streptomycin in the treatment of a puzzling disease common to the South—granuloma inguinale.

Dr. G. Lombard Kelly, dean of the school, says the disease is similar to venereal diseases but has not yet been classified as such. The grant, made through the National Research Council, is divided between $25,000 in cash and the remainder in supplies of the miracle earth mold drug.

Natural History Museum Collects 100,000 Bugs

NEW YORK (UP)—About 100,000 assorted spiders, moths and beetles were obtained for the Museum of Natural History by a collecting staff it sent on a three-month expedition into Mexico.

Dr. Maqt A. Cazier, leader of the expedition, said the collection contained several hundred insects previously unknown to entomologists. The party also captured several trap-door spiders that live in a hole ingeniously fitted with a door the spider can open and close.

and rattlesnakes added to the hazards of the expedition. Dr. Willis J. Gertsch, a member of the party, was bitten by a scorpion and was incapacitated for several days with a paralyzed arm.

SPRINGFIELD, O. (UP)—Edward W. Cunningham told Judge Harry W. Snodgrass that he "had no right to drive" and his driver's license should be taken away because he had been intoxicated when his car collided with a taxicab. The judge gave him a five-year suspension and a fine of $150 and costs.

This Is Happy

By PEGGY DERN

THE STORY: When Steve Landers, hard-bitten war correspondent and prophet of doom, expresses dismay at the prospect of a cheerful secretary, Happy Brandon walks out on him, saying: "I'm sure the agency can find you somebody grim and middle-aged and—served to death of the future." Steve calls at Happy's apartment to try to talk her into the job. But when he admits that he drinks a good deal to "forget," Happy turns him down. Steve puts his hand on her arm and Timmy, her cat, leaps at him.

Steve Landers was quite important. He was tops in his own field and deeply respected by those who had read his bitter, fiery blasts from overseas; his radio contract was for thirteen weeks, and there were magazine commitments, a movie contract for later in the year and the book which was to be about postwar Europe, rather than the war years.

From the first she found that when the sponsors of his radio program protested about the violence and bitterness of his first programs and insisted on "smoothing them down," she thought Steve would have apoplexy. The battle waged long and loud, and Happy felt as though she herself were bruised and battered. But in the end, swearing furiously, Steve had to ally, little of the "smoothing down" process.

When his first magazine article—rushed into press at the expense of almost remaking an issue that had closed its forms—appeared, Steve was livid with rage because it had been edited. Some of the more "unpleasant things," the editor told him firmly, had had to be eliminated. And Steve came back from a battle royal with the editors to an uneasy Happy who waited for him in the big shadowy room that had become, without Steve's quite realizing it, a haven of peace for him.

He raged, swore, and paced up and down the room, while Timmy, tucked safely out of the way under a chair, eyed him balefully. "Happy, for the love of God," said Steve at last, and in his tone there was reverence, not blasphemy, "don't be blind, besotted fools know what's coming!"

AS he went on there was a tormented look in his eyes and Happy knew he was seeing old, ugly scenes, reliving moments that had been all but unendurable. "I saw farmers" out of Indians had so far been unsuccessful. Clark said bureau officials are convinced that the Indian must be given the means to support himself before the government scraps its traditional guardianship.

"Most of the younger Indians are anxious to assume the full duties of citizenship," Clark said, "but the time is not yet ripe for wholesale emancipation. We have only to look at the slum districts of our larger cities to find out what happens to an Indian who leaves the reservation unprepared to cope with his new-found freedom."

Clark said he was in favor of establishing a board to pass on the eligibility of Indians for release and gradually wind up the affairs of the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

Clark also reversed a long-standing bureau policy. He has come out in support of a proposal to erect a monument to the memory of Sioux Chief Sitting Bull.

It is the first time any Indian bureau official ever has consented to glorify an Indian who had been consistently hostile to the whites.

Clark said he was in favor of a measure introduced by Rep. Francis Case (R.-S. D.) to appropriate $2,500 to erect a memorial at the grave of the Sioux chief near here.

Hiroshima; I was at Bikini for the bomb test; We all shuddered with horror at the thought of such devastation, such havoc. But Happy, I can tell you in all soberness, in the deepest, most serious words I could possibly find in my mind, that the atom bomb is child's play compared to some of the stuff that's being dreamed up now by scientists in every nation. What in the name of all that is hopeful can I do to wake people up? To make them realize how time is running out?"

"I don't know, Steve; I don't know," she almost whispered.

Steve looked down at her small, white face and her frightened eyes for a moment, and then he went to her chair and put out his hand and touched the soft, ruddy mass of her hair.

"Poor little Happy. I've done you a dirty trick hiring you to help me frighten a complacent world into realizing its danger, haven't I? Say, isn't some sort of brawl being given somewhere tonight that you and I are supposed to attend?"

"I—yes—your publishers are giving a cocktail party for you, and afterwards, you're supposed to have dinner and address a political meeting."

His face twisted in disgust. "Skip it," he said sourly. "Climb into your prettiest duds, pet. You and I are off for a tour of the night clubs. After all, why shouldn't we dance gaily on the flower-strewn edge of a precipice, just as all the world is doing? Why should we try to be different?"

"But the cocktail party—" she began.

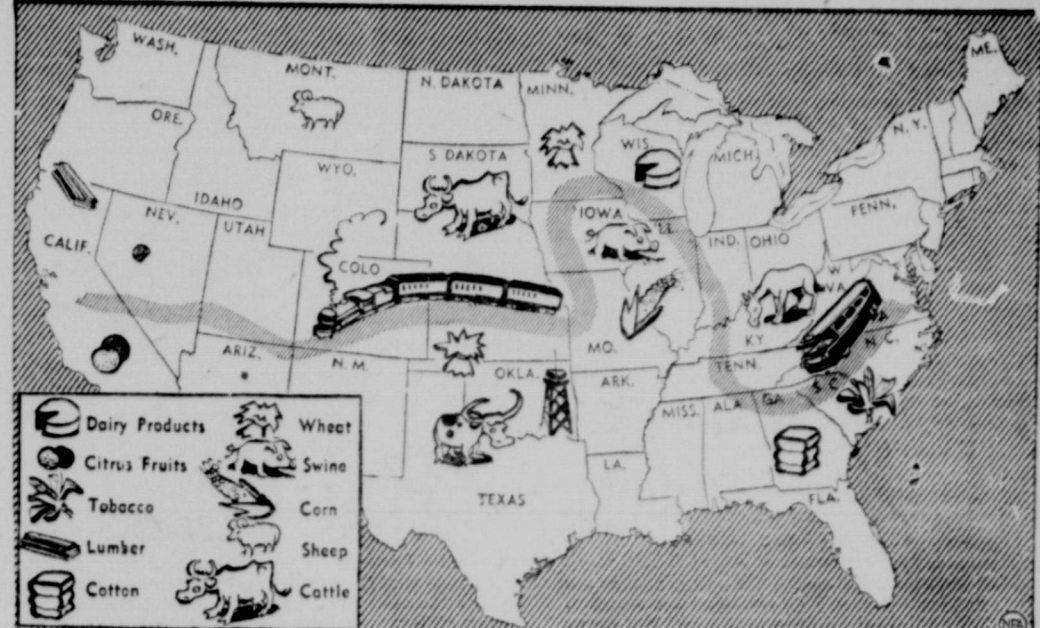

"Oh, we'll stop in for a few minutes, you conscientious little soul, but the political meeting? Phooey!"

He picked up his overcoat and hat and turned to say, "Climb into your party clothes, Happy, while I go home and shake the moths out of mine. I'll be back for you at seven and we'll gaze upon the wine when it is red—red as—" His mouth twisted a little and there was the old tormented ghost of pain in his eyes for a moment.

He was gone before she could answer.

House Committee in 'Back-to-Soil' Movement

The House Agriculture Committee is off on a grass-roots, cross-country jaunt to find out what farmers want from Congress. A preliminary swing was already made into New England and Pennsylvania. First stop on the current tour is Virginia, then the tobacco country of North Carolina and the cotton- and peanut-growing sections of the south, and then up through the corn and cattle country and on into the grain and grazing belt. The group will use buses as far as Kansas City, and a train from Kansas City west to Fresno, Calif.

When Indians agreed to cede to William Penn's heirs as much land as a man could cover in a day and a half, three famous walkers were hired. Starting at Wrightstown, Pa., one covered 61 1-4 miles in the allotted time.

The grave is on the gentle slope of a hill on which the famous "Standing Rock" was found.

The proposed memorial has stirred up conflicting stories as to whether the weed covered grave is actually the crypt where Sitting Bull was buried.

However, Frank Fiske, local photographer, says he knows the body lies there.

"I dug it up," Fiske declared. "That was in 1910. The bones were still there wrapped in the decayed remnants of an old piece of canvas in which the body was wrapped."

Moreover, Fiske, who was a small boy at that time, said he was present the day Sitting Bull's body was brought into the fort after the chief had been slain by Indian police. He said:

"When the autopsy was performed in the 'death house' I peeped through the window and saw it. It was buried the following day."

The chart shows the 1947 trends in production and average retail price of butter and margarine. August and September figures are estimates. Note how the butter price curve is almost identical with the curve for margarine production—as butter increases in cost, the demand for margarine increases, with corresponding decrease in demand for butter. Deep in the second quarter of the thrill-packed game played in Los Angeles between UCLA and SMU, the California team missed a good chance to score. Al Hoisch (7), at right in white helmet, fumbled the ball on SMU's four-yard line. Doah Walker (37), SMU's speedy back goes after the rolling ball and recovered; thus ending a UCLA drive which could have spelled the difference between defeat and victory. (NEA Telephoto).

RECIPE

In a letter I received this morning, she wants to know, "What do you find to write about? I'd run out of soap!"

Soap, if used correctly, and if it's good soap, lathers and billows and makes more soap.

Lovely, fragrant stuff! And so it goes with writing and living.

The more you live and the more you feel and observe, the more father you make.

Life roars by me in an ever rathering flood . . . things, and people are all around me. . . sounds and thoughts and smells and words.

It was Lord Byron who said, "But words are things and a small drop of ink may produce that which makes millions think."

Heaven knows, the words I write will never make millions think and the only answer I can give my inquirer is that surrounding her as surrounding me are the ingredients that go to make a newspaper column. Take people, mix them well, add a gay laugh here, a salty tear there. The result pleases some people.

Those who do not, find the concoction to the taste can always throw it away and try another kind. there, knead well with adversity or riches, roll out flat with bad luck, form a loaf of companionship and give and take, sprinkle well with ink, then slip into the linotype until well done.
