WASHINGTON COLUMN

(This is the second of two dispatches analyzing Senator Taft's ideas on domestic and foreign issues which may be factors in the 1948 presidential campaign.)

BY PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—When it comes to international relations, Sen. Robert A. Taft's ideas can best be summarized in one word, "Vanderberg." For the senator from Ohio has concentrated on domestic issues to such an extent that foreign relations have been left largely to the senator from Michigan, and Taft has taken his ideas.

In the first press conference on his recent Pacific coast tour, Taft admitted, "The whole foreign policy is just in a state of transition and you do not know exactly what the issue may be." Overcoming this uncertainty, Taft did make one major foreign policy speech and he issued several statements on the international situation. Again boiling down all his remarks to an effort to get an accurate line on the man's ideas, this summary index is presented, in direct quotations:

Atlantic Charter—"Beginning at Tehran we gradually abandoned most of the ideals of the Atlantic Charter until today attainment of many of them is impossible. We have won the war, but we have lost the peace."

Communism—"I do feel that Russia desires to make communism the accepted form of government throughout the world."

Exports—"We should restrict exports of those products where the supply is short, as in the case of corn, and restrict the total volume of exports more than we do today."

Germany—"There is only one way in which Germany can be effectively controlled. That is to control the production of a limited number of essential products."

International bank—"We hastened into a theoretical plan for an international fund and an international bank costing us $6 billion. It was a complete waste of funds to set it up before we had created a world in which it could effectively operate."

Japan—"We should proceed to make peace as rapidly as possible."

Latin America—"The Inter-American Treaty, credit for which must go to Secretary Marshall and Senator Vandenberg, offers more hope of future peace. It sets an example which ultimately may be extended to the entire world."

MARSHALL PLAN—"We have proposed the so-called Marshall Plan, which is not really a plan at all, but only a combination of suggestions. We cannot afford to go on lending money on a global scale. These loans, in all human probability, will never be repaid."

National deferment—"While the Russian attitude is what it is, we had better retain the atomic bomb."

Palestine—"I believe the (United Nations special committee) majority report (providing for partition of Palestine into a Jewish state and an Arab state) submits a sound compromise of the dangerous controversy."

Russian relations—"Until Senator Vandenberg entered the picture, our attitude toward Russia was one of complete surrender."

United Nations—"I believe our most creditable efforts have been in establishing the United Nations... there we have made a serious attempt to keep our promises. There we have created a forum in which the problems of the world can be brought out in the open, at least, and partially solved... (but) I do not see how we can abandon our own veto power."

U. S. DEVELOPES FIELD IN PHILIPPINES AS AIR BASE

MANILA (UP)—Clark Field is on the way to being completed. The air outpost has been described by Gen. George C. Kenney of the Strategic Air Forces as a first line of defense of the United States.

Preliminary work on the field has been done. Work on the permanent field has started. When Gen. Kenney was in the Philippines on his round-the-world flight, he stressed the strategic importance of the Philippines. He said Clark Field would be able to take ships of any size. The Clark Field-Fort Stotsenberg area will be the largest American base in the Philippines under treaties between the United States and the Philippines.

FUNNY BUSINESS

"Why couldn't we have gone into some other kind of business?"

SPORTS

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Had Tom Yawkey waited a week to sign Joe McCarthy, as manager of the Red Sox, the Yankees would now be right back where they were when the most successful field marshal in the history of baseball walked out on Larry McPhail in May of last year.

There is not the slightest doubt that McCarthy would be the choice of the new general manager, George Martin Weiss. Marce Joe was Branch Rickey's first pick when Happy Chandler gave Leo Durocher the old leave ho in Brooklyn last spring. The Buffalo Irishman would be anybody's candidate but MacPhail's, come to think of it, with or without the emotionalism Loud Larry talked about.

With McCarthy back, there still would be plenty of room in the New York American League organization for Bucky Harris. The Old Boy Manager came in as an assistant to MacPhail in the first place. MacPhail's regime cost the Yankee chain its three best managers—McCarthy, Bill Meyer and Johnny Neun. Meyer, freshly signed by Pittsburgh, refused the Yankee job under the MacPhail he knew wasn't being played his way. MacPhail obviously couldn't see Neun. Johnny plainly wasn't flamboyant enough for the Great Man. All the former first baseman, who developed as a manager in the organization, knew was baseball and the men who were going to play it for the Yankees. So he went to Cincinnati. As we remarked the other day, MacPhail, who finally had to call

The Clark Field base, nestled in the mountains of Pampanga province, dominates all of the south China Coast, Malaya, the Indies and Siam—all with a population of more than 100,000,000.

Clark Field ordnance officers said the experience of the past was being utilized in constructing the new Clark Field. Experience with typhoons has driven all communication lines underground, for example.

Presently, road constructions and "communications facility construction" of a permanent nature is being undertaken. About 6,000 civilians are employed on the base at present.

The spokesman said the entire program is estimated to cost about $100,000,000 and will take about two years to complete.

This Is Happy

By PEGGY DERN

THE STORY: Happy Brandon has just gotten a job as secretary to Steve Landers, kind-hearted war correspondent and prophet of doom. Steve prefers working in Happy's one-room apartment to his own office. At a cocktail party given for Steve by his publisher, Happy meets George, Harrell, southern aristocrat and gentleman farmer. Steve appears jealous when George takes Happy to dinner the following evening.

George was interesting, and interested. He was a good conversationalist. He obviously liked and admired her and he listened to whatever she had to say with rapt attention and approval. When she said something about his farm George grinned at her. "Sure you're really interested? You're not just following the rule one in 'How to Be Popular' and getting the poor bloke to talk about himself and about his interests?" Happy laughed and colored a little.

"Of course not; I am interested. It must be a wonderful place—an island! Is it a very big one?" the farm, I mean? Tell me about it." And he did. Casually at first, and then, as his own enthusiasm and interest aroused hers, he spoke more freely, more rapidly, until Happy felt that she could almost see the low, wide-spreading green fields, the lazy yellow river behind its bulthead, the green pastures dotted with white-faced Hereford cattle. The words meant little, but George, as though amused and touched by her interest, described them to her. He told her something, too, of the brave-hearted men and women who had come out to a wild land, peopled by Indians, to establish the young colony that was some day to be the State of Georgia.

Admiration for those colonists was in his voice, and pride in the fact that among them had been a Harrell, to whom a grateful king

HAPPY was still sitting down to breakfast next morning with Timmy purring happily over his own bowl, when she heard footsteps running up the stairs, and a brisk rat-a-tat on the door announced Steve's arrival. She swung open the door and he bounded into the room, obviously in the best of spirits.

"I came over for breakfast," he announced cheerfully, and deposited several packages on the table. "Here's cream for the coffee, and some rolls—oh, and I have a present for Timmy, blast him!" Steve winked droily at Happy as he unwrapped a small package

The original history of the Clark Field-Fort Stotsenberg base dates to the beginning of the present century, when cavalry units in search of fodder during their fighting with Filipino troops came into the area and pitched tent.

The original tract had about 7,600 acres. Now the area is more than 120,000 acres.

The construction at the field during its history has progressed from roofed bamboo barracks of the original installation to what will be the most modern in army housing when the construction is completed.

Clark Field, which was one of the first spots in the Philippines hit by the Japanese at the beginning of the war, was re-occupied by American forces in late January, 1945.

800,000 workers, 20,000 locomotives, 1,200,000 freight cars, 41,000 passenger cars, 7,000 passenger stations, 51,000 houses, and 53 hotels.

FROM FILES OF THE DAILY TELEGRAM FOR NOV. 1-3, 1928:

With this issue of the Telegram the publication enters upon the sixth year of its existence (the Telegram is this month 24 years old and by ten years the oldest newspaper in Eastland), the first issue having been published Nov. 1, 1923.

For sometime the Telegram was printed in Ranger where the publishers, the Times Publishing Company, published the Ranger Times, but since June 1, last, it has been published in the company's own modern plant in Eastland, the Telegram having acquired the name, plant and good will of its competitor, the Eastland Argus-Tribune.

The Telegram has waged a consistent fight for the upbuilding of Eastland county, and this section of the state. Readers of the Telegram will recall that it was the Telegram that first advocated the erection of a new Eastland county courthouse. Beginning with the first issue or two the paper began an educational campaign for the purpose of getting Eastland county voters to see the need of a new courthouse. The new courthouse, as everyone knows, will within a few weeks be opened for use by the County, it having been under construction nearly a year.

UN 'Peace' Flag Flies on High

SAN FRANCISCO CIVIC PRIDE HIT BY BLIGHTED AREA

By James J. Murphy
United Press Staff Correspondent
SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — A survey by the San Francisco Planning Commission in the western addition — a four-mile square "blighted area" — has dealt a staggering blow to civic pride in the city by the Golden Gate.

The western addition, which came through the 1946 fire almost undamaged, contains a miscellany of old frame buildings which are almost entirely devoted to dwelling units.

The survey shows that only 56 per cent of the approximately 50,000 persons living in the addition have their own toilets, bathrooms, and installed kitchens. About 16 per cent lack all three facilities for their exclusive use.

About 25 per cent of the dwelling units have only one room, and approximately one-third have only two rooms. More than 90 per cent of the units are rented, and owners are a small minority. Many of the structures — about 40 per cent — were converted from old stores or other buildings, and the survey blames that for the lack of adequate facilities in many of them.

Two-thirds of the people in the district have lived there less than five years; between 25 and 30 per cent have been there less than one year. The commission says this sort of transient population brands an area as "slums."

Although wage averages are fairly high, San Francisco's war-crowded houses have forced many people into the addition who otherwise could afford higher rents elsewhere.

Twenty-eight per cent of the people covered by the survey earned over $300 a month, and half of the total earned more than $220. Rents are lower than in the rest of San Francisco; only 49 per cent pay over $30 a month, compared with a 79 per cent average for the rest of San Francisco.

The shifting population, the ever-present fire hazard, the need for larger housing units for the city's still-growing 850,000 population—these have been the reasons for the survey, which will continue to December.

The commission plans to draw up charts to show how a blighted area could be rebuilt under the California state community redevelopment plan.

Part of the district was abandoned for a while during the war, when a Japanese section was evacuated. Transfer of the Japanese to camps outside San Francisco left some of the old buildings empty for a time.

When the influx of war population hit the city, every available room was utilized.

The survey bears designation of the area as San Francisco's Negro

"I Love You" Added To Basic English

CLEVELAND (UP) — In Cleveland College's new system of teaching Basic English, "Mother Wore Tights" won't come out "Mother Put On Long-Bottomed Garments."

Miss Mary Reid, associate professor of English at the school, said new methods of teaching Basic will include mail order catalogs and daily newspapers.

Now that the old Basic vocabulary of 180 words has been increased to include verb forms, Miss Reid said students will be able to say "I Love You," instead of the former, "I keep a great love for you inside me."

"The old Basic English frequently resulted in long, awkward sentences," she said. "For example, a student asked me to explain the book title, 'Beat Me When He sneezes.'"

"I had to tell him: 'Give to Him Blows When He Has a Cough.'"

The Car and its Companion

The automobile is useless and harmless without the driver. With the driver it may become most useful but never harmless. No operator of an automobile ever realizes his responsibility to the public until he has a wreck. Then it dawns on him that he is living in a world with other people who have plenty of personal and property rights. So if you drive, drive carefully but never without adequate insurance protection.

Solitude

May I share something breath-takingly beautiful with you?
"A Day of Quietude"

Red Crowell

"It would not be at all amiss if we took one whole day to live deliberately; to leave the ceaseless whirl and seek a lane and walk its peaceful, shadowed length again; with thoughts attuned to nature's working things; to hear the feathered whirl of thrushes wings; to stand in silence by a gentle stream, unruffled by a vague or fretful scheme; to harken to the whisper of the grass as over it the playful breezes pass; to bring our scattered selves to hear until we really see the sky beyond the hill. To have an evening meal with prayerful grace; to note the smile upon a loved one's face; to give attention to a spoken word and try to show that we have truly heard. To gain a calm in which to hear a sage speak from the frame of some old classic's page. And underneath the sprinkle of the stars look upward from the earth and all its scars. We would face days ahead in better mood for living one bright day in solitude."

Thank you for reading it, for in it lies the only answer to our troubled hearts.

Look upward, just for one day, from the earth and all its scars; live one bright day in solitude. Take one whole day to live deliberately.

And may the Grace of the Lord Jesus Christ be with you now, and forever.

In 170 Jethro Tall of Berkshire, England, began sowing his crops in rows or drills far enough apart to permit tillage by both plowing and hoeing.

Shopping was well underway year ago but is lagging this season.

The usual explanation is that "people just don't think about Christmas shopping when the temperature is hovering around 90." Another is that family parsings are being tightened somewhat by comparison with the past few seasons.

When shoppers do get started they'll find generally more steel toys and fewer wooden substitutes. The supply, however, is not over-plentiful and such items as tricycles, wagons and bicycles are still being allocated to retailers on a prorated basis.

Electric refrigerators, gas ranges and radios are available in greater numbers than last season, but there will not be enough fine jewelry and silver will be to go all the way around. plentiful, but, many merchants feel, not in surplus quantity.

A brighter note is injected with the report that electric light sets for Christmas trees will be more easily found and other ornaments will be plentiful—except tinsel, which, as in recent years, is still in short supply.

EXPECT COOLER WEATHER TO SPUR SHOPPING

By United Press
With the advent of cooler weather in much of the state, merchants began looking for some signs of the early "Christmas rush."

Something—apparently the long siege of summery weather—has delayed the beginning of heavy shopping. Merchants in most places report their Christmas

Expert Marksman Has Never Killed Deer, Nor Hunts

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP)—One of Fort Worth's best rifle shots, gunsmiths and firearm devotee has never killed a deer and never goes hunting.

Ewell Cross, who is rated as a sharpshooter by the National Rifle Association, started tinkering with guns as a hobby more than 20 years ago. Shortly afterwards, he gave up his job as a printing pressman and entered the firearm business as a profession.

He became interested in rifle marksmanship in 1933 when his brother Alva came home on a furlough from the Army. Before Alva returned to duty, Cross had not only become interested in target shooting but had developed marksmanship skill.

The Cross home in Fort Worth is filled with shooting medals, some belonging to Cross's son, Malcolm, but there isn't a mounted trophy anywhere.

South Plains Cotton Crop Up 143,000 Bales

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UP)—The estimated cotton yield for the south plains this year has jumped 143,000 bales since Sept. 1, the Lubbock office of Anderson, Clayton and Company, announced.

The 143,000 bales would mean a boost in the income of south plains farmers by about $30,000,000.

The report announced by K. N. Clapp, Lubbock area manager, estimated the total crop at approximately 845,000 bales which, on the basis of present markets, would be worth nearly $200,000,000.

The estimated value of the production is far in excess of that of any previous year, and the prospective crop has exceeded only by the 959,000 bales harvested in 1937.

Clapp attributed the increase in the estimate to weather conditions during September and October.

Protestant Church Home Is Approved

COLUMBUS, O. (UP)—The proposed Temple of Goodwill as a national headquarters for Protestant Churches in America is a step nearer. The Rev. Dr. B. F. Lamb, executive second of the Ohio Council of Churches, announced that the organization is prepared to go ahead with the purchase of a site.

FROGS TAKE BEARS

The Texas Christian Frogs stomped through to another conference victory at Waco, Texas, as they won a hard game from Baylor University Bears, by a score of 14-7. Here, Fry, No. 23, Baylor is stopped hard by Roberts, No. 89, of Texas Christian. No. 52, Brightwell of TCU and No. 43, Berry, of TCU, also figured in on the play. (NEA Telephoto).

The proposed site is near the downtown district on the Scioto River bank and eventually will become part of the city's civic center.

Dr. Lamb said the building will cost from $6,000,000 to $20,000,000. It would include 500,000 feet of office space and would house all offices of Protestant Churches in America.
