Eastland Girls Elected To TSCW Social Clubs

DENTON, Nov. 12 — Miss Margaret Alice Hipp and Miss Patricia Smith have finished the informal initiation period and are now active members of Adelphian and L'Allegro literary and social clubs at the Texas State College for Women.

Adelphian and L'Allegro are two of the eleven clubs on the campus, and the total number of girls pledged by the organizations is 279.

Chores imposed upon the pledges during the initiation period include the usual "maid service" for old members, carrying loaded suitcases to classes, and counting all the steps on the campus. Some of the clubs required pledges to appear in class without make-up and wearing large ribbons, corsages, and signs.

The purpose of the clubs is to stimulate interest in literature, art, and music, to promote social activities for members, and to encourage the achievement of high scholastic standing.

Miss Hipp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Hipp, 208 S. Oak, is a junior Business Education major. Miss Smith, sophomore Sociology major, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben M. Smith, 105 Lens.

Mrs. Sansome Is Flower Festival Speaker; More Than 200 Attend

More than two hundred women were present for the Flower Festival held Wednesday afternoon at the Methodist church by the Civic League and Garden club. Members of the Cisco Garden club, Ranger Garden club, and club women from Gorman, Desdemona, Vernon, and Shamrock attended the affair as well as a number of Eastland guests and members of the club.

Mrs. Sally Sansome of Fort Worth, owner of Sally's Florist shop and her designer, Harold Calhoun, had arranged over two dozen interesting groupings of flowers, grasses, berries to show what could be done with garden flowers. Mrs. Sansome made an interesting talk on the use of flowers in the home and how to arrange them to their best advantage. She offered many hints on the keeping of hothouse flowers, and how to buy them to the best advantage. All the flowers used were garden flowers secured in Eastland. The only greenhouse flowers on display were two lovely bouquets sent to the club by the Witttrup and the Poe Florist shops as a compliment.

Mrs. Jack Frost, chairman for the show, introduced Mrs. Sansome and presented her with a lovely purple orchid which had been sent by Mr. Witttrup as a gift. Mrs. Sansome concentrated her arrangements on the everyday type of flower and used such ordinary accessories as Johnson grass, privet hedge, umbrella plant sword plant, castor bean, cattails, magnolia leaves, etc.

One of the most attractive arrangements was an oblong table centerpiece done with two red and yellow rooster figurines, five yellow and red candles, pyracantha sprays and several ears of yellow corn. Another was a funny wooden squirrel figurine on a wooden bowl with small golden marigolds, cattails, English walnuts, Japanese persimmons and nandina foliage. A small white birdcage filled with rose chrysanthemums was interesting. The red flocked sleigh (Horton pottery) and the horses

Burleson Talks To District R. F. D. Carriers

By Mrs. M. H. Fairbelter
Rural Letter Carriers and their Auxiliary of the 17th District staged a banquet Monday evening, November 10 in the Connelley Hotel in Eastland, at which Hon. Omar Burleson, the U. S. Congressman from this district, was the after dinner speaker.

Proceeding the dinner, officers for the carriers organization and the auxiliary were elected to serve in 1948. Rural Carrier Garret of Clyde was re-elected president and Mrs. J. Lee of Hamilton will head the Auxiliary.

Miss Sylvia Brummett, a talented violinist of Gorman furnished music for the occasion. The program committee had arranged an elevated platform for the child artist. Her accompanist was Mrs. Clark of Ranger.

Notable guests at the speakers table were: Master of Ceremonies Garret, Congressman and Mrs. Burleson, Sec'y. of State Organization, Harvey Fisher of Dublin; Nat'l. Committeeman Bill Fletcher of Hamlin; Postmaster Layton of Eastland; Nat'l. Pres. of Aux. Mrs. Geo. Harries, San Antonio; State Pres. Mrs. Glenn Rennels of Avoca; Vice-Pres. Mrs. C. D. Box of San Angelo, Junior Auxiliary Chairman, Mrs. Melvin Courtney.

Mr. Fletcher presented Mrs. Burleson and the honored guest, respectively. The former declined to speak but extended an invitation to the 17th District to visit her in the Capitol City.

Mr. Burleson spoke on 'Nat'l. Foreign Policy', more specifically the foreign aid question, which he said stemmed from conditions created among one-half the people around the world during the recent war. These people of Europe and the Orient, many having known nothing of the high standards of living in modern civilizations, formerly placed their meager hope for betterment of their poor existence in a dim and mythical future. Civilization burst upon them in the form of well-dressed and well-fed armies of destruction, which left in their wake, incomprehensibly so, food and clothing. So they have desire where they once had only need.

This need, the congressman stated, affords Americans the tremendous opportunity of raising the standard of living around the world—And America has the ability.

He warned that the opportunity is accompanied by the direst menace, that of giving as a dole rather than, placing loans only where proof is definite that these nations are helping themselves and helping each other.

The present possible legislation before Congress, he termed as a political move to meet a need, in contrast to the former Mr. Burleson spoke of permanent rehabilitation. He said the permanent project would be moral and would extend to all needy peoples. He suggested that Congressmen would appreciate opinions of their constituents on foreign policy, sent by letter.

Mr. Burleson's opinion in regard to war with Russia is No War. But he expressed emphatically that there would be no peace with her.

The following he cited as a sixty-four dollar questions for Congress and the People:

Can we buy friendship, respect, or devotion with the American dollar—can these things be bought?

Can the American dollar substitute for work of people in countries having socialized government—post-war debtors.

Mr. and Mrs. Burleson returned to Dallas on Wednesday and shut down in countries, who are to Washington November 12.

WASHINGTON—The American Federation of Labor today accused Russia of trying to stir up revolution in Europe and announced a three-point campaign to combat "Moscow propaganda which misrepresents and seeks to destroy" the Marshall plan for European recovery.

AFL President William Green said that as part of its anti-Communist fight the AFL would—

1. Call a conference of labor representatives of 16 western European nations "to consider how labor can promote the economic rehabilitation of Europe under the Marshall plan.
2. Call on its 8,000,000 members to purchase food for immediate shipment to "the needy workers of Europe."
3. Expand its own program of assisting "free trade union movements of Europe" to broaden the exchange of more information on subjects vital to labor "on both sides of the Atlantic."

During her talk at Breckenridge she will present solid facts about cancer and the real hopes now held for its control and elimination.

The American Cancer Society, Texas Division, is a working force acting to combat cancer in every Texas community through research, service, and education of the public. WOULD TAKE BILL OUT IN URANIUM FOR ATOMIC USES

WASHINGTON — Chairman Arthur H. Vandenberg of the Senate foreign relations committee suggested today that European countries be required to pay for American aid with uranium, the source of atomic energy.

He asked Williams Phillips, of the state department's international trade policy office, if uranium would be obtained from the Belgian Congo in return for contemplated long-term Marshall plan aid.

Phillips replied that "higher realms" in the government were giving thought to such a procedure. Vandenberg replied that his committee would demand some information on this score from the "top levels" during the course of current foreign aid hearings.

Vandenberg told another witness—Assistant Secretary of Interior William E. Warne—that he was "amazed" by newspaper stories this week which said the United States is still shipping lend lease goods to Russia "contrary" to the wishes of Congress. Warne said he had no information on this score, but would attempt to obtain some for the committee.

Both Vandenberg's group and the House foreign affairs committee are conducting hearings on foreign aid. There were these developments—

1. Rep. Bartel K. Jonkman, R., Mich., of the House committee said the administration has been so slow in getting relief delivered to Europe in the past that it won't be able to use before March 31 the $597,000,000 emergency aid requested for France, Italy and Austria.
2. Assistant Secretary of Interior William E. Warne told the Senate committee that the emergency aid program will "aggravate" U. S. wheat and coal shortages. But he said both the emergency program and the four-year Marshall plan for European reconstruction can safely be carried out if this country will improve its natural resource conservation practices.
3. Some members of the special House committee on foreign aid urged that former president, Herbert Hoover, former secretary of war, Henry L. Stimson, and Bernard M. Baruch, elder statesman and adviser of presidents, be made directors of any new corporation set up to administer foreign aid.

There are approximately 1,250 state accredited schools of nursing in the United States and its possessions.

POISON SPREADERS
We wish people wouldn't scatter poison on other people's lawns for dogs to eat and die in agony a few moments after eating it. We wish people would not put the poison out because some innocent child is liable to pick it up and being innocent of that fact that there are people so inhuman as to put deadly poison in their path follow the natural instinct to place food in their mouth swallow it thereby endangering their lives. In our neighboring town of Breckenridge some time back a small child was playing on the lawn of the family home when it picked up some freshly ground meat wrapped like a sandwich and was in the act of placing some of the meat in its mouth when a member of the family saw it and stopped it. The meat was analyzed and found to contain a heavy portion of deadly poison evidently placed there for some dog to eat. The person who placed that meat there came very near being a murderer for that is just what he or she would have been had the child eaten a sufficient quantity of the poison to have caused its death.

The Eastland County Sheriff's office again warns people to look out for meat scraps and such items found on their lawns and in back yards, that could contain poison as the office has recently received numerous complaints from Eastland mothers, especially from the southeastern portion of the city, to the effect that so many dogs were dying from poison food picked up on their home lawns, that they were afraid to let their children play outside for fear they would get hold of some of the poison.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—If a bunch of lawyers and a batch of economists were cast away on a desert island, it would be even money which group would talk the other to death. The odds should probably be given to the economists, though, because lawyers eventually come to the point. Economists, however, ramble all over the lot, take twice as many words as necessary to say anything, and finally hedge around with ifs, maybes and on-the-other-hands.

This observation is made after taking one look and then running fast from Volume II of the Marshall Plan report from the 16-nation Committee of European Economic Co-operation, drawn up at Paris.

When Under Secretary of State Robert A. Lovett remarked the other day that the Marshall Plan "was now confused by an excessive amount of figures," he said a moutful and he wasn't kidding. At first, he said, they didn't have enough figures to make any intelligent decisions on how much aid was needed or how much the U. S. could give. But now, "they have so much stuff it's indigestible."

Secretary Lovett hopes that, eventually, the European Recovery Plan can be set up simply. It will have to stay out of what he calls "the miasma of statistics," where it is today.

THERE are now four volumes of studies on the Marshall Plan. A fifth, from Secretary of Commerce Harriman's Committee of 19 big-shot businessmen, is yet to come.

Volume four in this documentation is the President's Council of Economic Advisers' report. It was released under the snappy little title of "The Impact of Foreign Aid Upon the Domestic Economy." It's about as simple as these things can probably be made. This seems to be what the Council of Economic Advisers says:

The purpose of the Marshall Plan is to lay the foundations for a stable world economy. Any aid given to Europe will be less than the war and postwar programs. It should therefore be a reduced strain on the country. In 1943 and 1944, 40 per cent of American production went to war. In the first half of 1947, less than 10 per cent has gone overseas. The effect of this export program on the average American citizen has not been too tough. Per capita consumption of meat, fruits and breakfast cereals is higher now than before or during the war. Consumption of milk, eggs, poultry, vegetables and wheat is not as high as in wartime, but it is higher than prewar.

Aid to Europe will exert some upward pressure on prices, but this pressure will be reduced in succeeding years.

THREE grave dangers are pointed out. Some low-income families cannot now afford to buy enough to eat. High prices will lead to demand for higher wages. Higher prices will cut down foreign purchasing power. The problem is to prevent price rises from spiraling into a further inflationary movement.

Some control will have to be put over the uses of food and steel. Wheat will have to be confined to humans and not fed to animals. Sending scrap iron abroad, as requested by the Europeans, is illogical.

Bottlenecks in the production and distribution of coal and fertilizer have to be broken. Farm and industrial machinery will have to be allocated to Europe to increase production.

The ERP is going to cost Americans some money. Taxes won't have to be any higher than they are now, but they can't be made any lower right away if the budget is kept balanced. The idea of paying for European aid by borrowing and increasing the national debt is rejected.

On the question of repayment, the Council of Economic Advisers does a little ducking. It says there is now no way to measure Europe's ability to repay. But it indicates the advisability of making part of the aid an outright gift.

The failure to authorize any aid programs at all would be likely to spell industrial paralysis for some countries. This might bounce back on the U. S.

An oversize cup and saucer was used with azalea mums, Joseph's coat and a few cigarettes. Two zebra figurines with red geranium blossoms, umbrella plant, and two sprigs of sage bush and a castor bean bunch attracted much attention. A wedding motif was done with white baby mums

Prank Proof Rooms Planned By MIT
CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP)—A new dormitory containing "prank proof" rooms will be ready for occupancy by Massachusetts Institute of Technology seniors next fall. Designed by Finnish architect Alvar Aalto, who is a member of the MIT faculty the structure will have a serpentine, zig-zag appearance so that most rooms may overlook the Charles River. Single rooms in the building were described as "prank proof" because all furniture except chairs to be built into the walls.

There also will be double and triple bed rooms as well as collective living rooms for 353 occupants.

The first colonists in New England were a group of Englishmen who settled Popham, Me., at the mouth of the Kennebec River in 1607, some 13 years before

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Brooklyn, bringing up outfielder Calvin Ross Abrams next spring, recalls John J. McGraw's long search for a good Jewish ballplayer.

The Giants' scouts closest approach to finding a Benny Leonard in a baseball uniform was Andy Cohen, but not even the more rabid enthusiasts could make that second baseman anything but a pleasant, well-mannered mediocrity.

While the Giants' foragers were beating the brush and raising the dust of baseball's wastelands, a Jewish boy of tremendous potentialities performed for Monroe High in the Bronx, not too far from the Polo Grounds. Paul Krichell of the ever-alert Yankees had the inside track on him, but highly intelligent Hank Greenberg had had a look at Iron Man Lou Gehrig, and promptly signed with the Tigers.

HAD McGraw lived, he would have seen a fistful of Jewish players at the Polo Grounds. The Giants had five during one of the earlier war years—pitcher Harry Feldman, catcher Harry Danning, first baseman Phil Weintraub, third baseman and outfielder Sid Gordon and outfielder Nick Arnovich.

Goody Rosen, late of the Dodgers, had one pretty good year in the National League, but was too small and didn't hit the ball far enough.

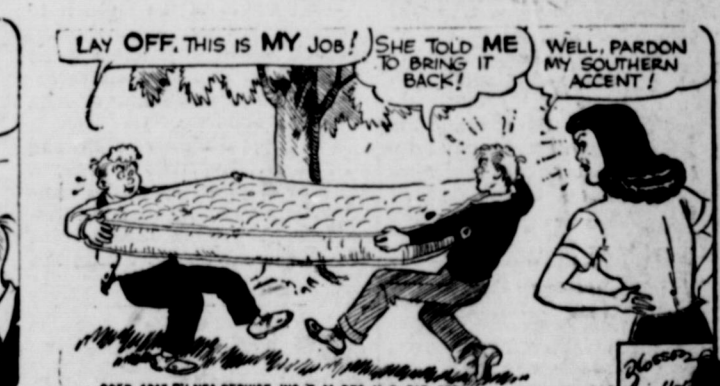

Now comes Cal Abrams, hopeful of ending the Superbas' quest for a long-ball hitter. And like the fabled Persian who sold his farm to search the world for diamonds, only to return home broke and weary to find people digging

Quaker Oats One Of Best, Cheapest

Though you serve one of America's finest breakfast cereals every day you'll not be called a spendthrift. The Quaker Oats Company revealed this week that, despite the continued rise in general food prices a serving of oatmeal still costs approximately one cent!

Scotsmen — appropriately enough — were the first to appreciate the economy and nut-toasty appeal of oats. Thrifty Highlanders enjoyed oatmeal and milk in all seasons of the year. From oatmeal still costs approximately one cent!

It has further been determined that — on a penny basis — oatmeal is one of the most economical of foods. The richest economical source of Vitamin B1; oatmeal leads as a rich source of protein and iron; and heads the list (except for cornmeal) as a rich and economical source of food energy. As a meat extender and as an ingredient in cookies, muffins, and cakes, the cereal has moved to fields beyond its use as a breakfast food; its versatility is largely attributed to its improvement in the milling process during the past half century and to scientists' discoveries of vital food elements in oatmeal.

19 Years Ago Today

From The Files of The Telegram of November 13, 1928:

A battling band of Bulldogs, inspired by the tradition that Ranger always plays the greatest game of the year when the Cisco Lobos are co-fronted, lived up to the lofty legends of the past by out-fighting their powerful opponents and winning a deserved victory, 13 to 0. Almost 8,000 spectators — the greatest crowd that ever witnessed a high school football game in West Texas — cheered as the tide of battle swayed back and forth. For the second season in the history of Ranger high, a Bulldog Eleven eliminated Cisco from the district title race.

C. J. Sparks, superintendent of the Presbyterian Sunday School, has accepted employment by the Wentz Oil Corporation and has come to Arizona in that work. His family will remain in Eastland for the present.

Judge Tom J. Cunningham of Eastland and Lee Clearly of Cisco have been appointed by Judge Elzo Been of the 88th District court to represent Fred Jordan, 33, charged with the murder of Mike Tighe, Texas and Pacific Railroad conductor, on the night of June 14, 1928. Jordan has been serving a term in the penitentiary and has no funds. Jordan is purported to have confessed to his participation of the crime that went unsolved for seven years. The murder was committed near Tiffin, two miles from Ranger, after Tighe had forced two men from his train because they did not have tickets. It is thought that a companion of Jordan's on the night of the murder will take the witness stand against him.

The Car and it's Companion —
The automobile is useless and harmless without the driver. With the driver it may become most useful but never harmless. No operator of an automobile ever realizes his responsibility to the public until he has a wreck. Then it dawns on him that he is living in a world with other people who have plenty of personal and property rights. So if you drive, drive carefully but never without adequate insurance protection.

Mobile Operating Room To Be Given Naval Hospital

NEW ORLEANS, La., (UP)—ped with facilities comparable to those of large hospitals, will be stationed at the Houston Naval A mobile operating room, equipped for disaster relief work, the Eighth Naval District said. The Navy said that Houston is centrally located in possible hurricane territory and that the Texas City disaster and Gulf Coast hurricane demonstrated the need of providing a mobile type surgical unit to augment emergency supplies in the district.

Ten other continental Naval districts are receiving similar units, the navy announced.

Shanghai Chauffeurs Fight Movie Slur

SHANGHAI (UP) — The local chauffeurs union has asked its membership to contribute 10,000 Chinese dollars apiece to hire a lawyer in a protest against the

Hongkong-made motion picture, "Where Is Lady?"

It was the second manifestation in two months of tender feelings by a trade union which considered its occupation libeled by a movie. Barbers recently wrecked a local movie house and demanded that scenes showing a barber making ardent love to a feminine customer be deleted from the picture, "Phony Phoenix."

A spokesman said the chauffeurs were ready to boycott the new picture and inflict physical violence on exhibitors. The movie assertedly shows that car drivers customarily steal their gasoline from private automobiles.

VIOLINIST TO APPEAR IN EASTLAND

Angel Reyes

Angel Reyes To Be Presented On Second County Association Concert

On Monday evening, November 17, the second in a series of concerts sponsored by the Eastland County Community Concert Association will be given in the Eastland High School Auditorium at 8:15 o'clock when Angel Reyes, famed Cuban violinist is presented.

A distinguished personality whom one reviewer has called "A different sort of violinist, one of the most interesting to be heard, and one who has the integrity to be a great artist", Angel Reyes made his first acquaintance with his instrument at a very early age. With his father Reyes Canero, a well-known composer, and his mother, an accomplished harpist, always there was music in Angel Reyes' Havana home, but as a child he gave evidence that he was to be the brightest star in the family firmament. When he was little more than a toddler he spied a small violin his father had brought home and laid out the piano, intending to give it to his son later. Before the gift could be presented young Angel climbed after it. His father found him in tears, plucking at the instrument, but his tears turned to smiles when the violin was properly tuned. His inquisitively musical ear had been offended by its discords.

Angel Reyes immediately began lessons with Professor Juan Torroella, and at 12 made his first public appearance. Shortly thereafter he won first prize, against professionals of mature years, in a competition sponsored by the Havana Philharmonic Orchestra. And then began years of combined travail and triumph.

With no backing but supreme faith in Angel's talent, the elder Reyes took his son to Paris, and to this courageous decision the music world owes a violinist of Cuban birth and international prestige. The boy was at once accepted at the Paris Conservatory Firmin Touche. After only nine months of study he won medals in violin and theory, and was graduated three years later with first prize in violin and first medal in solfège and theory. His debut received at the Salle de l'Ecole de Musique, prepared with Touche and Marcel Darrieux, concert master of the Colonne Orchestra and L'Opera Comique, was a sensational success and the beginning of an ever-climaxing artistic progress.

A year later, following extended concert tours through France and Belgium, Reyes won high honors in the latter country's "Concours International Eugene Ysaie", then went home to Cuban ovations. He appeared in recital under the auspices of the Pro-Arto Musical, as soloist with the Havana Philharmonic, and in concerts throughout his native country. He was recalled to France and Belgium for performances before his dramatic New York debut in 1941, when his Carnegie Hall recital brought forth such critical comment as "Reyes is born to play the violin." (New York Post.)

Today Angel Reyes is known internationally as a violinist of musical and personal magnetism. His own country heaped honors upon him, naming him Cultural Attache of the Cuban Embassy in Washington, and a Knight of the National Order of Carlos Manuel De Cespedes, the latter bestowed only by the President of the Cuban Republic for outstanding achievement.

Co-Ed Enrolls In Course For Football Coaches

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UP) — Miss Beverly Bussey set a precedent at the University of Michigan when she enrolled in Wally Weber's class on fundamentals for prospective football coaches.

Miss Bussey, who weighs about 100 pounds, said she does not plan to play or coach football. She merely wants to become a sports writer and aspires to qualify for reporting.

Football knowledge isn't her only aim in the sports field. The young co-ed took a course on fundamentals of baseball last spring and during the coming winter semester plans to take a course in basketball.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Prissy's Got a Man! (Maybe)

Yesterday Sis Martin, our librarian, found an article cut from their file copy of the Clarion. When she compared it with another copy that I gave her she found it was my column on "How to Keep a Husband Happy."

Nothing unusual about that. Except the last person seen reading the paper was Prissy Hoskins (our town's proverbial Old Maid)!

Well, if Prissy has finally got a man, more power to her. And more tolerance to both of them ... because that's what my column was about: Tolerance of a husband's taste for old hats, old pipes, old friends, and mellow beer. And tolerance on the husband's part of a wife's tastes and habits.

From where I sit, nobody begrudges Prissy taking that clipping from the Clarion. But I'd like to hint that if she'd just subscribe, she'd get my thoughts on tolerance firsthand. And in return I'll treat her to a glass of beer.

Heartsease by Elsie Glenn

All of us seek a place to rest. There isn't one of us who does not, in his secret heart, have a treasured place where we may go to be away from the frustrations of everydayness, and even in our sleepless nights, we go to this place... where we are comforted.

I go to Mary. Black as the ace of spades, with a heart the color of gold, I am sure. An old, toothless negro woman... one of the best and the dearest friends I shall ever have.

Each heart filled with companionship and the understanding of the business and the heartbreak of the years. Mary and I, good friends. And the shadows grow dim...

It May Be Cute, but Its Bumper Sure Is Repulsive
