Jester Promises Aid For Rural Schools

That Reminds Me

BY FRANK R. JONES

NOT BIG ENOUGH:

My mother used to say, said Thomas Hawtwell, when she heard some working girl or woman accused of wrong doing that she did not believe the report was true. She did not believe that a hard working girl or woman would do any great wrong. I do not know how the facts and statistics would bear out this belief, whether the industrious, hardworking persons are freer from sin and wrong than are the idle and those with little to do. My opinion is that they are. I am a great believer in industry. In fact it is almost a religion with me. I think that the person who day in and day out does a good honest day's work, who doesn't stop to measure the service given to make sure that it measures up to the pay received, has a lot of good sound religion in his or her heart and soul. It may not be the same kind of religion that is usually associated with this word, and that the preacher tells about, but it is the good, solid, practical, livable, workable kind. In the same measure I do not believe the person who skips his day's work, who gives a minimum of service, has very much honest religion in his make up. I don't think they have the capacity for it. I don't think they are big enough for it.

REMEMBERING THE "SHUT-INS"

Through the arrangements with the superintendents of the hospitals at Eastland, Cisco, Gorman and with the West Texas Clinic at Ranger, copies of the Eastland Daily Telegram are made available each day to such patients as those in charge feel are physically in condition to read them. The publishers hope that this mutual service will—at least to some extent—brighten the hours of the "shut-ins".

GROVER CLEVELAND'S BIRTHDAY, MARCH 18:

Grover Cleveland, the twenty-second and twenty-fourth president of the United States, was born in Caldwell, New Jersey, on March 18, 1837, and died on June 24, 1908. He was the son of Rev. Richard Cleveland. He studied law at Buffalo and was admitted to the bar in 1859 at the age of twenty-two. In 1880 he was elected sheriff and in 1881 he was elected mayor of Buffalo. He was so successful in his attacks upon political and social corruption that before he had served a year he was nominated by the Democrats for governor and was elected by a large majority. He attracted nationwide attention as governor and in 1884, before his term was ended, he was nominated by the Democrats for the presidency. He was elected over James G. Blaine, the Republican candidate. He was again nominated in 1888 but defeated by Benjamin Harrison. He was nominated again in 1892 and won over Mr. Harrison. Grover Cleveland was the only man to serve as president, suffer a defeat and then come back for a second term. He was the first Democratic president to be elected following the Civil War. Cleveland was regarded by men of both parties as a great statesman with the utmost courage of his convictions.

THE DARDANELLES IS POWDER KEG OF EUROPE:

The Dardanelles is the powder keg of Europe and the thing that will, if it comes, touch-off the next World War. Russia will insist on having the Dardanelles in order to have a warm water sea port open the year round. Without such a port Russia is hemmed in and restricted. With the Dardanelles goes the Mediterranean. Such a move will be opposed by the rest of Europe because it will mean the domination by Russia of Europe, Italy, Africa and the East.

Trip Of British Ship Causing Speculation

LONDON—Admiralty quarters said today that the Cruiser Nigeria is en route to the Falkland Islands and the press speculated that the possible presence of uranium in the Antarctic may lie behind the three-power contest for Antarctic lands.

It was estimated that the cruiser would take about a week to get to the Falklands. This will put a little behind the arrival of Argentine and Chilean warships which already are enroute there. The Nigeria is being sent to the Falklands as a demonstration of British naval strength. The sending of the Nigeria and the statement of Hector McNeil in the House of Commons yesterday made plain that Britain is determined to make a strong fight for Antarctic claims.

While newspapers like the News-Chronicle and the Daily Mail worked on the imagination of their readers by discussing the possibilities of uranium and gold which might lie under the Antarctic ice-cap the Communist newspaper, the Daily Worker, gave scant heed to the problem.

Desdemona-Gorman Sector Shows New Oil Activities

Further emphasis on revived interest in the Gorman-Desdemona area along the Comanche-Eastland County line was indicated this week with filing applications for three explorations.

As a north offset to the recent Ranger lime discovery by Kirk & McKissick, Skelly Oil has located No. 2, S. D. Miers, 1,105 from the east and 330 from the south lines of an 80-acre lease in the DeMoss survey. Permit is for 2,800 feet.

Listed as an extension to the old Desdemona field, J. W. Baldwin, Wichita Falls, is to drill No. 1 G. D. Lindley, 430 from the north and 1,320 from the west lines of the 252-acre tract in the DeMoss survey. It is on permit for 2,900 feet.

Two miles northeast of Gorman Eastland County, Claude Bell et al., Dallas, are to drill No. 1. H. O. Files, a wildcard which may go to the Ellenberger 330 from the south and west lines of E-2 of 1-1-H&T. It is on permit for 3,500 feet.

NEW YORK (UP)—The Board of Estimate reported that the final cost to the city of clearing its streets of the record 25.8 inches of snow that fell on Dec. 26 came to $6,605,000.

Co. Cotton Growers Urged To Attend Comanche Meeting

Eastland County cotton growers and ginners are urged to attend the pink boll worm meeting in the Comanche Court house next Friday afternoon, February 20, at 2 o'clock according to the county agent's office.

Although only a small acreage of cotton is grown in the county, the county has been placed under a cotton quarantine because the pink boll worm was found in fields last year.

Regulations concerning the movement of cotton, planting seed, and other items concerning the pink boll worm will be discussed and explained at the meeting, it was said.

Two gins in the county at Ranger and Gorman operated last year. Some of the cotton ginned at these places come out of adjoining counties.

It is believed that finding of the pink boll worm in the county will further deplete cotton acreage grown, the county agent said.

Says Informed Traders Pushing Out Many Others

WASHINGTON—A national Grange spokesman charged today that a "well-informed" group of professional speculators was "on the inside" and playing the commodity market up or down to the disadvantage of other traders.

The charge was made by J. T. Sanders, legislative counsel of the farm organization, before the Senate agriculture committee. Sanders testified in support of an administration bill to permit the secretary of agriculture to set margin requirements on the commodity exchanges.

Meanwhile, Sen. Thomas of Oklahoma charged that investigators for a Senate speculation subcommittee "raided" the office of his financial manager in an unsuccessful effort "to find some data on me."

Your Help Needed On Survey Being Made In Eastland

As most every business man and woman in Eastland already knows, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and the Texas & Pacific railroad are making an economic survey of the towns and communities along the Texas & Pacific route through West Texas. Specialists have been sent in to the field to ascertain facts, figures, etc. and the work is progressing nicely.

There is some work to be done on this survey, however, that the paid worker can not very well do and that is gather information about your individual business or organization so it is up to the individual owners and operators to furnish this information.

Secretary Tanner of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce has blank forms for information of your particular business and you can help this work along greatly if you will call by the Chamber of Commerce offices and get a copy that fits your business, organization, society or club and fill in the requested information and return the form to the Chamber of Commerce.

Ohio River Near A Flood Stage

The Ohio River swelled toward flood stage today and Red Cross officials at Cincinnati, O., asked Eastern headquarters for 1,000 cots to accommodate residents who might be forced from their homes along the river.

The mighty stream was rising toward an expected crest of 55 feet at Cincinnati. That is three feet above flood stage.

Failed to get my Telegram today. Do you have an extra copy? If so will you please send it with tomorrow's paper as I am lost with out it.

Borrowed my neighbor's paper for a few days and got into the habit of reading it to me. Please stop one of my out-of-town dailies and want to get the Telegram as I want to keep up with local county news.

I live on a route out of Carbon. We have received a few copies of your paper. My wife says it is the best county paper she has read and told me not to forget to enter our subscription while I am in town.

I want to get the Daily Telegram. I am interested in County politics and find more news from the County courthouse and about county politicians in your paper than in most any other county paper.

Women Asked To Use Power To Fight Costs

WASHINGTON—President Truman today called on women to use their "power of the consumer" to fight high prices.

The President spoke at the opening meeting of a National Conference of Women's Organizations sponsored by the Women's Bureau of the Labor Department. He went to the departmental auditorium to deliver his message.

"It has been said over and over again that women control the bulk of the nations wealth," he said, "they certainly channel its day-to-day spending for food, for clothing, for education, for all the things that make for better living."

Then the President urged American women to go all-out in the fight against inflation by using their power as consumers.

"This is a weapon which you can use together," he said, "to combat one of the enemies that now threaten us—the high cost of living."

Market Prices Stabler; Retail Prices Dropping

CHICAGO—Prices on the commodity markets appeared to have stabilized today at levels slightly above the bottom point reached in the price break that began Feb. 5.

Retail prices still were catching up with the sharp decline. Many grocers and butchers were just beginning to mark their price tags down in line with the adjustment which most economists agreed was necessary and healthy for the nation's economic welfare.

The Safeway chain of grocery stores at New York and the National Food Stores at Chicago announced sweeping reductions.

Safeway reduced 105 meat items from 2 to 10 cents a pound, marking chuck beef down from 53 to 49 cents, ribs of beef from 65 to 61, veal rib chops from 79 to 69, smoked hams from 75 to 55 and sliced grade a bacon from 75 to 69. A penny was lopped off salad dressing and mayonnaise in 8 ounce jars.

Believe Eight Sailors Lost In Boat Sinking

HYERES, France—French naval officials said today that eight American sailors from the Aircraft Carrier Midway are missing and feared lost in the sinking of a shore leave launch in Hyeres Harbor before dawn this morning.

The launch struck a signal pylon at the harbor entrance at 2 A. M. while carrying 16 sailors back to their carrier from a last night ashore at a Casino. The Midway was scheduled to leave Hyeres, on the Riviera coast 12 miles east of Toulon, today.

Officials at the French naval base here said the crash drove a large hole in the side of the launch and sank quickly despite frantic efforts to pump out the water.

WOULD MARK THREE MILLION DOLLARS FOR TEACHERS' PAY

AUSTIN, Tex.—Gov. Jester told the joint legislative committee today he will mark a $3,000,000 appropriation in aid for rural schools as an emergency issue before the 51st legislature but will not call a special session.

The committee of lawmakers in a resolution adopted unanimously yesterday stamped the need for additional funds as "of sufficient importance" to call the legislature into special session.

Jester said he told the committee that he "shared their feeling" that the state's obligation to the teachers be paid in full.

He added that "if I were governor here in 1949 I would submit it as emergency legislation in the first 60 days." Jester's present term will overlap the opening of the 51st session next January.

The governor said there is a way by which the teachers may be paid retroactive salary by the next legislature for deficiencies in the present school term, and said he was studying the problem.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By Boyce House

The Colonel could find oil and he could make money but he couldn't keep it; he thought money was made to spend.

So he had plenty of ups and downs.

One day, I saw him in the Hotel Texas lobby in Fort Worth and he told me he'd hit a gusher in a negro cemetery in East Texas so, because we were good friends, I made bold to say:

"Colonel, you are older than I; you have done many big things; you've made more money in a single year than I ever saw. But I'd like to offer you a little suggestion, if you won't resent it but recognize that it is sincerely made."

"Well," I continued, "you can't take care of everybody who is up against it. You owe some consideration to yourself and your own security in your declining years."

as well as the security of your family."

The Colonel nodded agreement. "But what can I do?"

I replied, "When one of these hard luck boys, that you have helped time and again and he's never paid it back, gets ready to hit you up for what he calls a 'loan', you can tell the touch is coming by the gleam in his eye—se beat him to it; ask him for a loan."

A few weeks later I was out in the West Texas oil fields and ran into a friend of mine, a happy-go-lucky shoe-stringer. He said, "Boyce, I saw the Colonel in Fort Worth the other day and he must be up against it. Why, he tried to borrow $50 from me!"

It was all I could do to keep a straight face. The Colonel was using the system I'd suggested.

I've worn out two "lifetime pens"—you know, the kind that "write under water." That's the best place to use 'em—in fact, it's the only way to keep from getting ink stains all over your fingers.

Students Just The Same Back In Year 1876

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (UP)—Of all the shades and colors to which American college men swear their allegiance, none owes its selection to a fairer inspiration than the Brown and White of Lehigh University.

The Lehigh colors were selected at a student meeting on Feb. 9, 1876. William L. Raeder, Scranton, Pa., a senior when the choice was made, revealed the behind-the-scenes story of their selection.

He related that women of that day wore stockings with horizontal stripes of alternating hue. Shortly before the meeting, a kindly wind revealed the shapely legs of a miss clad in brown and white hose.

The sight lingered and when the question of colors came up, he proposed brown and white. The students assented.

Alaska Mystery Isle Appears, Disappears

It is of volcanic formation and since its first eruptive appearance in 1798 it has disappeared, reappeared and changed physiographically many times. Its most recent eruption was in 1910.

Sea lions and birds have returned to the island at every re-appearance.

OFFICE NURSE

By Adelaide Humphries
© by Adelaide Humphries; Distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Janice Hilary, pretty, efficient young nurse to popular and handsome society doctor Eric Holbrook, runs his office for him. Eileen McRae, one of the secretaries, has been acting strangely of late. She has received several mysterious phone calls and taken time off during office hours without explanation. Janice knows that the woman's little daughter, Edna Mae, has been ill and suggests that she stay home until the child is better. But this Mrs. McRae refuses to do. Then after work one evening, Janice meets her on the street. "I have to talk to you," the older girl says. "I have to talk to someone." She looks desperate. Janice suggests they go into a tearoom to talk.

XII

ACROSS a table in a corner booth in the tearoom Janice saw that Eileen was trembling uncontrollably.

"We'll have some hot tea, with lemon," she suggested. She wished she could have ordered a brandy. There seemed no doubt that Eileen was suffering a chill, or shock.

"Why didn't I talk to you yesterday?" Eileen said. "Why didn't I go home, as you wanted me to?" She buried her face in both hands, elbows on the hard table. But in a moment she looked up again. Her voice was dull, full of disbelief at what she was about to say.

"She's gone," she said flatly. "He did it. He said he would. But I never thought he would. If only I'd talked to you—to someone—yesterday."

"Tell me about it now," Janice suggested gently. "Try to take a sip or two of your tea while it's hot. You're shivering. Eileen, you'll catch a dreadful cold. That's right—fine." She gave the older girl a smile of approval as she obeyed, almost automatically. "Now tell me—whose gone and whom do you mean by 'he'?"

Of course Janice knew that Eileen meant Edna Mae; she could not be so upset about anyone else. By "he," she must mean her husband. She usually referred to him, when she spoke of him at all, as "he" or "him." He had not supported his family in years. "I told him to get out," Eileen said. "I should have told him that long ago. But after all, he's Edna Mae's father."

XIII

"HE couldn't get on with Mrs. Burger—that's the woman I have for Edna Mae. Dell took a dislike to her—I guess because she got his number right off. Only I never thought he would be so mean, so low. He said, when I told him to get out, that if he did, he'd see that I'd live to regret it to the last day of my life."

Janice tried to summon a little laugh of reassurance. She said, "Of course he was only bluffing. That's what I thought." It still seemed as though Eileen could not put what she had to say into words, as though she was afraid that if she did, she must acknowledge the truth of them.

"Yes?" Janice prompted again. "He said he'd take her away and I'd never see her again." There—the dreadful words were out. Eileen said them in the same flat voice, but there was conviction in her tone as she added, "That's what he's done, all right. I'll never see her again—never. My baby—my little girl!" She turned her head away as though she knew that the grief in her eyes was too much to ask anyone to look upon.

Janice reached quickly across the table. Her firm grasp gave the other girl's shoulders a quick shake. "Certainly you'll see her again! Don't say such things!" She purposely made her tone sharp. "We'll go to the police." "No, no—not that! He might do anything then. You don't know him. He doesn't care anything about Edna Mae, as most men do their children. He was always jealous—he said I cared too much about her. If I went to the police he might hurt her. All our quarrels were over Edna Mae. He said she was the cause of all our trouble. He said I was trying to turn her against him."

Janet considered a moment. "Perhaps Dr. Holbrook—" she began.

"NO, no!" Eileen protested. "That's why I wouldn't let Dell come near the office. Please—please, I don't want the doctor to know. I couldn't go back to work day after day, if he knew."

"I understand," Janice said. She decided that it would be better, for other reasons, too, not to have Eric know. Janice was discovering, since that evening when he had taken her to dinner, that it was no longer wise to go to the doctor during office hours about anything that was not strictly professional. It was becoming difficult enough to maintain the roles of doctor and office nurse.

There was, of course, one other man Janice could go to. Ben Archer. She had not seen Ben since that night when she had gotten Albie to take her place. He had not come to the Hilary house since.

But this trouble of Eileen's was bigger than hurt pride, bigger than any other consideration. Everything else must be put aside now for Eileen McRae.

"I know just the right person," Janice said, getting to her feet. "Wait here, Eileen. Or why don't you go back to the rest room and bathe your eyes and powder your nose?" Action of any kind was better, she knew, than futile discussion. She also knew she could rely upon Ben.

She hoped she would be able to catch him before he left his office. Already she felt an immense relief, dialing the number. For Janice knew that if anyone could help, it would be Ben. (To Be Continued)

"Holdup" Proves Friendly Gesture

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UP)—When an Evansville policeman saw a man get out of an automobile, hold his hands in the air and let another man pull something out of his pocket, he went into action.

But after some hurried explanations, the policeman went on his way. The "holdup victim" said he had been eating some home-canned beets out of the jar and got his hands all sticky.

When the car stopped he got out and held his hands in the air while his companion reached around and pulled out his handkerchief.

BY FRANK A. JONES

19 Years Ago Today

From Files Of This Newspaper of Feb. 17, 1929:
For the first time in the history of Eastland—according to people who have been here throughout the past ten years—the flow of gas through the lines here was interrupted Saturday morning. The cause was that the system was being cut over to a new measuring station.

The Bankhead Poultry Association has purchased the business of the Arther Produce Company and has moved from their former location on North Lamar street to the Arther Produce Co. location on South Lamar street, according to announcement made Saturday by I. E. Box, manager of the poultry association and S. J. Arther of the Arther Produce Company. The building formerly occupied by the Bankhead Poultry Association has been purchased by O. D. Dillingham, owner of the Banner Creamery.

Based on good fire records for the past three years the city of Eastland has been given by the State Fire Insurance Commission a 12 per cent reduction or credit on policies, on and after March 1, 1929. This reduction is six per cent more than last year. The record of losses by fire in the city for the past four years is as follows: 1925, $14,430.39; 1926, $17,632.70; 1927, $24,433.39; 1928, $3,893.23.

Dr. F. T. Isbell of Eastland has been named Eastland County Health officer to serve for the next two years. The appointment was made by the County Commissioner's court.

The Eastland County Medical Society will meet with the Eastland physicians at the Connellee Hotel roof garden Tuesday afternoon at 7:30. Dr. Frank S. Scoonover of Fort Worth will be one of the speakers. Others will include Dr. Van C. Tipton of Ranger and Dr. E. L. Graham of Cisco.

Plans are being considered for the erection of eight light standards around the courthouse lawn. The lights will be high placed and will illuminate the lawn and the lower portion of the building. All of the light fixtures have been installed in the courthouse and they have commented upon by many visitors for their artistic appearance.

15 Years Ago Today

From Files of This Newspaper of Feb. 17, 1933:
Word was received in Ranger Saturday of the death of M. L. Ware, former of Ranger, which occurred at Midland at 7:35 this morning. Ware was for about a year Ranger manager of the Postal Telegraph Company. He had been transferred to Midland.

A. M. Harrison, 53, of Ranger died at 5:10 this morning after an illness of only a few hours. He is survived by his widow, one son, Warren, one daughter, Mrs. Joe D. Borden of Abilene. Mr. Harrison from Olden, where he operated the Tri-Me cafe, to Ranger about two years ago, purchasing a cafe on Main Street.

Hair Turns White, Not From Worry

VINCENNES, Ind. (UP)—Spectator attending the murder trial of Lawrence Johnson noted that his hair turned white. But a few weeks after the case got under way the defendant's attorney offered an explanation.

Johnson hadn't been able to obtain any dye for his hair while he was confined in jail.

Your Insurance and Your Future—

... are all bound up together. The person who keeps adequately insured is not only wise but thrifty since insurance provides protection for the thrifty dollar. If loss occurs in the household of the uninsured his life's savings are wiped out, but not so with the insured man. To be both thrifty and wise, be insured. And the less we have the more it is a part of wisdom to guard against financial destruction.

Lectures On Advanced Topics In Distillation

Dr. Allan P. Colburn, assistant to the president and advisor on research at the University of Delaware, completed a two-week series of lectures Friday, February 13, on "Advanced Topics in Distillation" for technical and research personnel at Humble Oil & Refining Company's Baytown refinery.

The course is another in the "Humble Lectures in Science" series, designed to keep refinery personnel abreast of latest scientific developments, which brings several of the nation's leading scientists to Baytown each year. The series is now in its second year.

Lecturers remaining on this year's schedule are Dr. Richard T. Arnold, professor of chemistry at the University of Minnesota, and Dr. Joel H. Hildebrand, professor of chemistry at the University of California. Lectures are of one to two week's duration and are attended on a full-time basis.

Dr. Colburn's course is devoted largely to new horizons in azeotropic and extractive distillation to aid Humble researchers in developing new techniques to help meet record demand for petroleum products.

Dr. Colburn has been professor of chemical engineering at the University of Delaware since 1941, and associate professor for three years before that. He received his doctorate from the University of Wisconsin in 1929.

During the last war, he was instrumental in the use of his university's laboratories on war research for government agencies and war industries, and with Dr. B. F. Dodge of Yale, he prepared the curriculum on chemical engineering for the Army.

Dr. Colburn was the first recipient of the Walker Award, given him in 1936 by the American Institute of Chemical Engineers for contributing to chemical engineering literature.

"Heartsease"

By Elsie Glenn

DON'T DARE STOP!

If I had the power to force you to do only one thing, I would command you never to dare stop—believing in the urgings deep within you for something you want more than anything else... that hidden thing within you that gives you personality different to anyone else... that push in your heart that you've got the guts to get a lot out of this life that you haven't got!

You've got a dream, haven't you, that comes to your rescue when things get too thick for you? When you hate what you're doing with such loathing that you are actually physically sick? When you feel that if you have no hope to live?

You've got to keep it... that belief... if you live. You simply must not believe it if you want to survive.

The day you really lose hope... that tragic day... when actually you no longer believe in hope... you may be very near the end of your personal rope... and ropes can break.

The elixir of this life works strangely... it works silently... but it works. Believe in it... the elixir of life... of hope... it will work for you if you try and if you let it.

Believe in the things that you feel... that finer, that beautiful feeling that you do not understand... that you are completely the conqueror of this thing just at the moment that threatens to make a dumb brute of you... a walking thing with no purpose.

Don't Dare Stop! You have powers within you that no one on earth can dare visualize.

Don't let life and things and people and circumstance keep you down. Come up with your beaten head bloody... gasping for breath. But come up.

Believe in whatever it is that comes to your rescue... that sneers at the things that are trying to get you down... You can beat it and will.

I beg of you to believe that because it's true.

Disposition of the matter will be difficult to compromise. Mere permission to use the Dardanelles will not satisfy Russia. She must control it if it is to be of any value in time of war. She must have land fortifications on both sides of it sufficient to prevent any power from blocking her use of it. This necessity would also extend to the Mediterranean and the territory on both sides of the Gibraltar and the Suez Canal. The problem of whether or not we can have peace depends upon how far the rest of the world is willing to go to grant these demands. Even after they are granted, if they should be, there is no assurance that Russia, thus armed would not continue her march toward world domination. The question, therefore, becomes one of whether it is better to stop her at the Dardanelles or give her the Dardanelles, the Mediterranean, Gibraltar and the Suez Canal and then try to stop her.
