ROTARIANS' SWEETHEART

MISS BETTY FERGUSON—daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Ferguson, 1018 South Seaman street, Eastland. She is Eastland Rotary Club Sweetheart; member of the Co-Ed club, flag bearer for the Eastland High School band and a member of the Dragoo Harmony Girls.

Former Eastland Boy Promoted In U. S. Soil Work

C. G. Brock of Paris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Brock of Eastland, has received a promotion in the United States Soil Conservation Service. He will serve in the capacity of seed specialist in the Trinity River watershed. His work will cover 25 S. C. S. work unit offices in the soil conservation districts, which will require quite a lot of traveling on his part. His work will consist of the vegetation phase, seeding of native grasses and also locating of seed for planting.

Brock entered the United States Soil Conservation Service in 1935, and was located at Paris for some time as chief soil conservator of the Lamar county area. He was called to active duty in the U. S. Army Air Force in 1941. He spent 21 months in France and England in the Air Force Supply and was discharged in 1945 with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel and returned to his home in Wichita Falls. He was later sent to Paris.

Brock, since his recent promotion, will be located either in Corsicana or Terrell.

WORD TO THE UNWISE MINNEAPOLIS (UP)—Patrolman Donald Nelson had his own suggestions to put in the employees' suggestions to put in the employees' doors to a Minneapolis advertising firm open late at night.

Walking into the office while making his rounds, Nelson spied a suggestion box for workers' ideas, and dropped in this comment: "You may find it safer to lock your doors at night."

Eastland Rites For Miss Wilda Dragoo This Afternoon At 4:00

Funeral services for Miss Wilda Dragoo will be held at the First Methodist church in Eastland at 4:00 o'clock this (Sunday) afternoon. Rev. E. R. Gordon, pastor of the Eastland church, will conduct the service, assisted by Rev. Daniel J. Barron, pastor of the Grace Methodist church in Dallas and former pastor of the Eastland Methodist church, and Rev. Phillip W. Walker, pastor of the First Methodist church at Denton and also a former pastor of the Eastland Methodist church. Interment will be in the Eastland Cemetery.

Miss Dragoo passed away at 10:30 Friday morning at a San Angelo hospital following an illness of several months during which time she underwent major surgery three or four times. Survivors include her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Dragoo of Eastland; her sister, Mrs. Dr. C. B. Beall of San Angelo, a nephew, Bobby Beall of San Angelo, and a niece, Miss Billie Beall, a student in New York City.

Miss Dragoo's body will be at the Dragoo home at 606 South Daugherty street in Eastland from 10:00 a. m. to 1:00 p. m. today (Sunday) and then will lie in state at the First Methodist church from 1:00 p. m. to 4:00 p. m., the hour of the funeral.

Co-Op Bank Directors To Meet In Abilene

A meeting for central west Texas stockholders of the Houston Bank for Cooperatives will be held in Abilene March 25, according to an announcement from W. N. Stokes, Jr., the bank's president. The meeting will be held in the Wooten Hotel and will begin at 9:00 a. m. Directors, managers and interested members of farmers' cooperatives in the Abilene area are invited to attend the meeting.

There are 41 farmers' cooperatives within a 50 mile radius of Abilene and among this number are some of the oldest and most successful cooperatives in the state," Stokes said. "The cooperative gin at Rule was organized 34 years ago and the one at Munday recently observed its 33rd anniversary. Thirty-one of these cooperatives gin cotton for the members and others crush cottonseed, handle grain, operate frozen food locker plants and purchase farm supplies.

"The stockholders in the Houston Bank for Cooperatives are these business organizations of farmers. Few farmers operate on a scale large enough to justify ownership of a cotton gin or a grain elevator. Such facilities are needed to furnish these off-farm services can be owned by 100 or 200 farmers cooperative," Stokes pointed out. "These cooperatives have played an important part in the farmers' big job of feeding and clothing the people of America and millions of less fortunate people in other lands."

Episcopal Auxiliary To Meet In Eastland

Auxiliaries of the third district of the Dallas Episcopal Diocese will meet in Eastland April 8 with the auxiliary of Holy Trinity Episcopal church as the host.

Holy Communion will be observed at the church at 10 o'clock and the business meeting will be held at the rectory.

Mrs. Seth Thomson of Brownwood, chairman of the district, will preside at the business session.

Kenny Fund Sets Goal

MINNEAPOLIS (UP)—The 1948 goal of the Sister Kenny Polio foundation fund is $698,633. Proceeds will be used to erect a three story addition to the Kenny Institute here for polio research and treatment.

Nearly 500,000 tons of flax straw is used annually in the production of cigarette papers.

Governors Meet To Condemn Civil Rights Program

WASHINGTON, Mar. 14 (UP)—A committee of rebellious southern governors met in closed session Saturday to complete a report condemning President Truman's civil rights program.

The report will be submitted to a conference of southern governors for consideration later in the day.

Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, chairman of the committee, declined to predict what action the conference would take on the report. Neither would he say whether the governors would recommend dropping Mr. Truman in favor of a presidential candidate more acceptable to southern democrats.

But both Thurmond and Gov. Ben Laney of Arkansas a committee member, said flatly, however, they wanted no part of Mr. Truman on the Democratic ticket.

Gov. Beauford H. Jester of Texas, third member of the committee, said he thought Mr. Truman might reconsider his racial discrimination legislative program when he finds out that the south means business.

But Laney said the "present leadership cannot carry the party to victory in November."

Wheat Futures Take Big Jump

CHICAGO, Mar. 14 (UP)—Wheat futures jumped five to 7 1/2 cents a bushel at the opening of the Chicago Board of Trade Saturday after the government resumed its wheat purchases after a five weeks layoff.

Wheat for May delivery showed the greatest amount of increase in the opening trading. Other grains likewise were higher.

The production marketing administration had announced that government wheat buying would be resumed today on a trial basis. Market analysts and Agriculture Department experts believed that the government action would probably not cause a rise in retail food prices.

To Go To Moscow Saturday HELSINKI, Mar. 13 (UP)—A Finnish delegation will leave for Moscow next Saturday to negotiate on a friendship and defense pact with Russia, Premier Mauno Pekkala announced tonight.

SAD CZECHS PAY TRIBUTE TO MASARYK

PRAGUE, Mar. 14 (UP)—Sorrowing Czechs by the hundreds of thousands thronged the streets of Prague Saturday to pay final tribute to Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk in state funeral services on an heroic scale.

President Eduard Benes, who went into seclusion after the Communist coup, led the whole nation in mourning the beloved statesman who plunged to his death from a window of his foreign ministry residence Wednesday.

The new Czech regime headed by Communist Premier Klement Gottwald conducted the mammoth state funeral. Czechs from every walk of life joined in.

An estimated 200,000 mourners lined the course of the funeral procession through the streets of Prague. Trams and all kinds of vehicles still were pouring more thousands into the streets leading to Wenceslas Square, where the services began.

Even the byways leading off from the main thoroughfares were packed three deep for five hours before the start of the procession.

Police ringed the square, posted five apart. Along the length of National Avenue they were spaced at 20-foot intervals.

The police, Boy Scouts and many civilians were black armbanded. On every corner hawkers peddled big pictures of Masaryk the son of the founder of the Czechoslovak Republic.

Factories and schools were closed.

Ohio Pulls Up Stakes To Go To Alaska

TOLEDO, O., (UP)—A 20th century pioneer threw aside his profitable business and comfortable living here and set out to establish what he calls a new and better life in Alaska.

Two months and 5,000 miles away, Lawrence H. Lancashire Jr. who already has crammed a lifetime of excitement into 29 years, will stake down his tent some 60 miles south of Anchorage on the Kenai Peninsula. There he'll set up a sawmill he is taking along and start cutting lumber as a business.

Lancashire is making the entire trip by jeep—with a trailer loaded with four tons of equipment.

The 29 year old former air force pilot, who was shot down during the famous Ploesti oil field raid in Romania, also plans to develop a year round resort for vacationing hunters and fishermen.

His wife, Lorraine, and three children will fly to Alaska next summer to join him.

Survive 57 Days Adrift In Boat On The Pacific

GUAM, Marianas Islands (UP)—Three Gilbertese natives who survived a 57-day ordeal in an open boat have returned to their home island of Mariana, which they left last Sept. 1.

The long voyage started when four natives—Teitikai, Teburea, Beniamina and Tukeuta—set out in a 19-foot sail boat to take a doctor to Tarawa, 28 miles distant.

A storm struck them on their return trip and their craft became disabled, leaving them adrift. One of the foremen—Teitikai—became incoherent one night, jumped overboard and was lost.

The other three were finally rescued by natives of another tiny Pacific island when their badly battered boat drifted ashore.

LIONS SWEETHEART

MISS VEDA MYRL SNEED—daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earnest J. Sneed, Railroad Avenue, Eastland. Miss Sneed is Sweetheart of the Eastland Lions Club, member of the Beethoven Junior Music Club, member of the Co-Ed club, member of the Junior Class, Eastland High School; 1947 Sweetheart of the Eastland Mavericks and a part time employe in the office of Prentiss Jones, Eastland High School Principal.

Forgotten Items Reported Fewer By Airlines

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—Whether it's just a sign of the tightening times or whether the proverbial "absentia mentis" is on the decline, airline passengers are leaving planes these days with full possessions in tow, a report issued by Braniff International Airways reveals.

The forgetful passenger of the immediate post-war days who left a trail of hats, gloves and baby bottles on planes has disappeared, judging from the decrease in miscellaneous wares now being received in the airline's lost and found department.

A. S. Aldridge, manager of passenger service, says that 40 per cent fewer articles were left behind by the same number of travelers than in the same month a year ago.

Ninety per cent of all articles left on planes are returned to the owner within a week and those not immediately claimed are held in the airline's general headquarters.

If the sundry items now in the Braniff collection were categorized, the most dangerous would be a hand-carved Mexican baseball bat. Title of most valuable might be awarded to an address book with telephone numbers of misses in each of the principal cities on an air route between Honolulu and Boston with specifications as to blonde, brunette or redhead. Most useless items are single gloves and errands and pairs of bifocals left by hurrying passengers.

Orders Attacks Given Jap Press

TOKYO, Mar. 14 (UP)—General Douglas MacArthur has instructed his censorship division to permit the Japanese press to publish any American political attacks against him emanating from the United States, it was announced today.

Col. M. P. Echols, MacArthur's press aide, made public MacArthur's order after Kyodo News Agency reported that Allied headquarters censors had suppressed some incoming cable copy from the United States reporting the activities of anti-MacArthur clubs.

Rites For Brother Of Eastland Woman Held In Dallas

Funeral services were conducted in Dallas, Saturday at 4:00 P. M. for H. C. Henderson of the U. S. Merchant Marines, who had just docked in New Orleans, and went to a hotel room in New Orleans when he died from a heart attack Tuesday.

Survivors are his mother, Mrs. Clifford Henderson and a sister, Mrs. Leon Bourland of Eastland and another sister in Dallas.

ALSO WANTS LARGER AIR FORCE TO COPE WITH CRISES

CHARLSTON, S. C. Mar. 14.—(UP)—Former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes—emphasizing he had no official information Saturday called for immediate reenactment of selective service and a much larger air force to meet the world crisis "that may exist four or five weeks from now."

He predicted that the Russians, under the guise of the Italian Communist party, might "act" in Italy before the April 18 elections. He marked Finland off the books already.

"We have every reason to believe the Soviets covet control of Greece, Turkey, Italy and France" he said.

He foresaw "no armed invasion" of any of these countries. But he said there was "no important difference in the direct methods of Hitler in 1938 and the indirect methods of Stalin in 1948."

Byrnes spoke at the 105th anniversary of the famed Citadel Military College. It was his first speech in many weeks and came on the heels of President Truman's and Secretary of State George C. Marshall's grave warnings of a "very, very serious crisis."

Anderson To Be Senate Candidate

WASHINGTON, Mar. 13 (UP)—Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson Saturday announced he will be a candidate for the Senate from New Mexico.

Anderson said that "if President Truman is willing, I will remain as Secretary of Agriculture until the summer adjournment of Congress." Adjournment is expected in June.

Anderson said his decision to run as a Democratic senatorial candidate in New Mexico's primary in June was made "reluctantly."

The stage was set for Anderson to run for the Senate several days ago when Sen. Carl A. Hatch, D. N. M., announced he would not be a candidate for re-election. Hatch said he wanted a federal judgeship.

Anderson is a former Democratic congressman from New Mexico.

General Electric Co., says its differential analyzer can accomplish 17 man years of mathematical work in two weeks' time.

OAK TREES AND WILLOW TREES

I once lived at a place where, in the back yard, were two trees. One of them was an oak tree and one was a weeping willow tree. The oak tree, though it had stood for thirty years, had not attained any great size. It is still a small tree. The willow tree, although it had been planted only three years previous, had made a rapid growth and bid fair within a year or so to outstrip the oak in size. The winds and wet snows lay the willow upon the ground and even strips its branches from the trunk but the oak stands firm and straight whatever the storm. There are people who remind me of the willow tree and people who remind me of the oak tree. The willow tree type are weak and uncertain. They do not stand firmly for anything. They sway with every wind of sentiment. The oak tree type of people are strong, sturdy and self-reliant. They seem to be the type of people to whom one would turn in times of stress. They have built into their lives a self-reliance, self-reliance, strength, and calm compelling faith. They are the strong characters of the community. They are the oak trees among the willows.

TO KNOW THEM IS TO LIKE THEM

There are few, if any, people whom I dislike. A long time ago I learned that when you really know them, most people are likable. When I realize that I am getting to dislike some one I make it a point to learn more about them and to understand them better and when I understand them I usually like them.

Taft's Anti-Inflation Bill Flops on Steel, Wage Hikes

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Sen. Robert A. Taft's anti-inflation bill has come home to roost right on the Ohio Republican presidential candidate's high, intellectual dome. The bill is now seen to be totally inadequate to deal with the recent $5-a-ton rise in unfinished steel quotations and third round wage increase which this price rise helps along. Where the inflationary spiral may lead from here nobody knows for sure. But in the light of postwar history, it isn't too hard to speculate on.

Last Nov. 17 President Truman sent the special session of Congress recommendations for a 10-point program to control inflation. Point No. 10 was: "To authorize price ceilings on products in short supply which basically affect the cost of living (food, clothing, fuel, rent) or industrial production, and to authorize such wage ceilings as are essential to maintain price ceilings."

Senator Taft took to the air waves that same night to blast this "police state proposal" as meaning "the end of economic freedom." In the next ten days, however, three cabinet members told Congress what they would do with the powers the President had asked for.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson said he would put controls on meat. Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug said he would control coal, oil and gasoline. Secretary of Commerce said he would fix lumber, farm machinery and steel prices.

WHEN it came to a showdown in Congress, however, Senator Taft had his way. The so-called Taft anti-inflation act was a much watered down affair. It granted only three of the President's ten points. They were extension of export and transportation controls for a year and authorization for food production and conservation programs at home and abroad.

For extra measure the Taft bill authorized the government to promote voluntary agreements in industry, business and agriculture for the allocation of scarce materials. But price fixing and wage fixing of any kind were strictly prohibited.

After the passage of his bill Senator Taft said that the President now had all the power he needed to control inflation. How wrong Taft was should now be apparent even to him.

As chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report, Taft has had to call in U. S. Steel's President Ben Fairless, Bethlehem's A. B. Homer and others to ask why they did this terrible thing of raising unfinished steel prices at this time.

"We have a serious problem in this rising spiral of prices and wages," Taft lectured Fairless. "How can we live for no wage increases if we have increases in basic steel prices?"

At one point Taft asked Fairless if he didn't agree that this rising spiral would result in disaster? Fairless had to admit that it would.

WELL, maybe the time to have done some worrying about such things was last November. Or a year ago last November. Taking ration controls off sugar last October was a gamble, but it worked out all right. Congressional committees have spent over three months trying to make up their minds on rationing controls for meats. They have finally decided to take a chance on getting by without controls.

Congress is still monkeying around with rent controls. The extension to March 31 is just a breathing spell in which the congressmen hope they can find an excuse for ending rent controls.

Numerous congressional committees have been stewing about fuel oil shortages, the gray market in steel and the increase in housing costs. It is hindsight and second guessing to say that all these problems might have been solved if the country had been willing to accept price and wage controls. But it's true.

Mack Likes Hungry Players, Tries to Keep Them That Way

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—(NEA)—Mr. Cornelius McGillicuddy prefers his ballplayers hungry, and down through the years the only manager the Athletics ever had has done his best to keep them that way.

The war and postwar years have been lush, but Mr. Connie Mack recalls having to break up two championship clubs because he owed the bank money—$400,000—when Cochrane, Foxx, Grove and that bunch went in 1932 and '33.

Naturally, Mr. Mack hopes baseball attendance will continue to soar. But if things ever get back to what he considers normal, the venerable leader of the Philadelphia Athletics is quite sure that the rich men in the game will rapidly grow tired of paying exorbitant salaries.

"After he had owned the Yankees for 10 years," says Mr. Mack, "Col. Jacob Ruppert asked me: 'Where's all that money they told me there was in baseball?' Alva Bradley told me the Cleveland club lost $100,000 a year for eight straight years."

Mr. Mack noted how rapidly the affluent Dick Muckerman unloaded in St. Louis when the Browns didn't attract enough paying guests to pay the ushers.

MR. MACK sent one of the young A's a contract calling for $8000. The young man returned it, explaining that a parchment dealing out that little lettuce didn't mean a thing these days. He couldn't live on it, he claimed. He gave Mr. Mack until the following Monday to make another offer.

"It's too bad you can't live on $8000 a year," Mr. Mack wrote the athlete. "I suggest you waste no more time. Tell your off-season employer that he can have your services all spring and summer, too." The player was the first one in camp here.

Starting his 65th consecutive year in baseball—think of it—the first thing Mr. Mack did was reserve Rudy York a room on the sixth and top floor of the West Palm Beach hotel in which the A's are quartered. Mr. Mack's suite is on that floor.

With Ferris Fain having submitted to a second operation on his right knee, York becomes increasingly important in the Athletics' plans. The huge Indian may have to do all the first-basing.

It will be recalled that York's penchant for falling asleep with a lighted cigar in his mouth helped get him out of Boston and Chicago last season. That and the fact that he didn't, or couldn't, get in condition. He was yanked from a burning hotel room in the dead of night in Boston in the nick of time, then brought out the fire apparatus in Chicago.

"With Rudy on the top floor, I'll have a chance to get out myself," laughs Mr. Mack.

Mr. Connie Mack hasn't lost his sense of humor, which is not the least reason why even the worst of the Athletics never got on his nerves.

Women Branch Out In West

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—Out here in the West, where men are men, women are beginning to move in and take over, despite a three-to-one preponderance of males in some places. Both the city and county clerks in this county seat are women, as are the court reporters for the two municipal judges. Two members of the fairer sex recently passed the Nevada bar examination and have hung out their shingles in Las Vegas. The latest blow to male supremacy came with the candidacy of a member of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Las Vegas to the board of directors of the chamber of commerce.

In Catholic history, the "Great Schism" occurred in 1378 when two Popes were elected by rival factions.

OFFICE Nurse

By Adelaide Humphries
© by Adelaide Humphries; Distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Janice Hilary, pretty, efficient young nurse to popular and handsome society doctor Eric Holbrook, runs his office for him. Eric and Janice have fallen in love—although Eric already has a wife (who is away)—and Janice has a boy-friend (Ben Archer). For a while Janice is content just to know Eric loves her—then the strain of the secret relationship begins to tell. She resolves that she and Eric must have to come to a definite decision. She does not know that Eric has made up his mind to ask his wife for a divorce.

Ben is the only one to face Janice with the fact that she is in love with her boss.

JAN'S eyes would always give her away. Ben did not like all that he saw in them but he would not let her know that, if he could help himself.

He could pretend this did not strike as deeply as it did. "I won't say, Jan, that I don't think he's a heel. A married man. A man so much older than you." Someone had to say these things to Jan; Ben wished it did not have to be his role.

Her defense was not, perhaps, as quick as it might have been. She had been through a strain. "He's not too old," she said. "In fact he's not old at all. And he's never denied being married. I knew Eric had a wife: I knew she was away. Yet I walked with my eyes open, into something neither of us expected."

"Would you mind," Ben asked sternly, "telling me what you are going to do about it? Since, as you say, it does concern someone else besides yourself and the doctor."

"I—we—don't know," Her gaze dropped before his direct look. Not from any sense of shame or guilt, although this was almost the first time Janice had faced the fact that a third person would be concerned. She could no longer look at Ben for fear he would see the unhappiness, the confusion and conflict, in her eyes.

"I see," Ben's tone did not sound as though he did. Again he thought how he would like to punch that guy. What kind of girl did he think Jan was? If his intentions were honorable, as the trite saying went, why didn't he tell Jan? He was a heel!

"I MADE up my mind just last night," Jan said, as though Ben had the right to take the stand he had, "that we couldn't go on as we have. I made up my mind to tell Eric that."

There was no reason not to talk this over with Ben. He was like a brother to her, even if he did not look upon her as a sister. And Ben was being very kind, although it was obvious that he did not like this mix-up—or Eric, either.

"Good." His voice was still stern. "Stick to that, Jan, please. Don't go on, indefinitely—and such things can go on you know, without either party meaning that they should. You've heard about such cases, a girl carrying a torch for a married man all her life, and maybe the man really thinking some day he'll make things right. But that wouldn't be right for you, Jan."

He leaned toward her now, resting his elbows on the table, forcing her to look at him. "Promise me you won't let things slide, running on until tomorrow becomes a lot of other tomorrows and months become years, and life, and all that it could have been, is wasted. Promise me, Jan."

She had let her glance meet his. She knew that what Ben said was true, and that he said it because he loved her. He was trying to make it easy for her by pretending it was not hard for him.

"I promise, Beny," she said. Suddenly she thought of what Albie had said: that happiness could not be bought at the price of unhappiness for someone else.

"THANKS." Ben placed one of his big hands on her arm a moment. "Will you make me one more promise, Jan? Then we'll take that bus-ride and I won't say anything more about this."

Jan thought, it's always good to be with Ben. I do love him, as I've always told him, but I'm still not in love with him. Aloud, she said she would make the other promise.

"After you get things settled," Ben said with an attempt at casualness, "I want you to tell me what you are going to do. You will, won't you, Jan?"

"Of course." She knew he asked because he had to know—just as she had to know about herself and Eric. Ben could not go on, any more than she could, not knowing any longer.

Ben added, "I'm sorry, Beny, truly I am." "It's too late to be sorry," he said. "Just don't let it get too late for you to be happy, Jan. And if you ever find you can't be—well, I'm not putting it very well, but I guess you know I'll be waiting to try to do what I can about your happiness."

He could not have said anything that would have touched her more deeply. There was no possible way to thank a person for loving you so unselfishly. Oh, why couldn't she have fallen in love with Ben. Then no one else need have been hurt.

That was a question that only the tomorrows could answer. The tomorrow just ahead. For Janice had made up her mind that that was when she must have that talk and make that final decision with Eric.

She had made up her mind not only for her own sake now, but for the sake of everyone else concerned—her family, Eric's wife, and Ben.

Memorial Forest To Honor Slain Jewish Children

BOSTON (UP)—Despite Arab Jewish conflict in the hills of Galilee, the American Christian Palestine Committee has begun planting a memorial forest near Nazareth honoring 1,250,000 Jewish children killed by the Nazis.

Dean Howard M. LeSourd of Boston University, director of the committee, said donations for 4,000 trees have been received.

"We hope to memorialize the tragic deaths of the European youngsters by beautifying the hills where Jesus played as a child," Dean LeSourd said.

"We have no specific goal for the project, though we would like to have a tree for every child who was killed."

Dean LeSourd said the idea originated with Mrs. Ruth Abernathy of St. Paul, Minn., who came forward with the plan when the Christian Palestine Committee began searching for a "concrete and specific project which would show America's feeling over the death of the children."

Cedar, cypress, fig and carob trees are being planted, as well as other trees mentioned in the Bible.

B. Nemir, one of the leading dry goods merchants of Eastland, after eight years in business on North Lamar street, is moving into the "square." He will occupy the Downtown building, formerly occupied by the Boston Store, about June 1.

Twenty-two snakes, 21 of them rattlers, was the haul made by a group of Cisco men, who last Sunday, raided a den located on the Tom Marshburn place six miles north of Cisco. A prairie racer was the non-rattler found with the rattlers.

Judge Hickman of the Eleventh Court of Civil Appeals, entertained a number of friends Tuesday evening at the Connellee Hotel with a dinner in the honor of his wife, who was generously surprised. Letter From Reader

Editor, Telegram, Eastland, Texas,

At the Eastland County Livestock Show held at Cisco March 5 and 6, the 4-H and F. A. A. boys and girls of the County exhibited their livestock but were disappointed when their calves sold at losing prices.

Most of the calves brought from 28 to 33c and hogs 22 to 24c, a few sold slightly higher.

The stock was there two days and then weighed again and a three percent shrinkage was taken from the last weight.

Our County Agent has worked hard for over two years building up the clubs of this county and the boys and girls had stock to be proud of, but the business men and cattlemen failed to back him or our boys and girls.

The youngsters want to try to feed more club stock, but should they take the risk?

PUERTO RICO SENDS U.S. BUSINESS INVITATION

By Milton Carr
United Press Staff Correspondent
SAN JUAN, P. R. (UP)—The businessman who lies awake nights worrying about taxes, high labor costs and the like should take a look at Puerto Rico.

The government here has all but donned Santa Claus whiskers in an effort to lure industry to this United States possession.

Tax exemption, cheap labor, low shipping costs and 12 months a year of June weather are a few of the advertised advantages of setting up shop here.

If you are a little short on cash to build that factory—why, that can be taken care of, too. The Puerto Rico Development Bank, a government outfit, has more than $20,000,000 to lend to deserving business men.

Full exemption of income and property taxes for 12 years and partial exemption for three additional years has been approved by the legislature for "new industries."

Teodoro Moscoso head of the government's Industrial Development Company, said virtually any industry could qualify now as a "new" industry in this island, which for generations has concentrated on sugar and rum production.

In addition, there is a list of 41 industries—ranging from bonbons to bed springs—which also came in for the tax exemption. Although Puerto Rico is a possession of the United States, federal taxes do not apply here.

As for labor, Moscoso said Puerto Rico had a pool of 150,000 idle or partially employed to draw upon—and the population is increasing at the rate of 45,000 a year. He estimated the local wage scale at from one-fourth to one-third that of the U. S. mainland.

Shipping rates from Puerto Rico to United States coastal buying centers average only one eighth as high as United States rail rates.

Moscoso pointed out. He said, for example, that it costs less to ship chinaware from San Juan to New York City via ship than from Syracuse, N. Y., to Manhattan via rail.

Aside from the geographic advantage Puerto Rico offers firms serving both north and Latin American markets, Moscoso said this island's 2,000,000 inhabitants constitute a market that should not be overlooked.

He said a shoe factory which had been in production here only six months now is selling 25 per cent of the women's shoes sold in Puerto Rico.

An average of more than nine out of every 10 children are subject to tooth decay.

Ex-Pupils To Have Voice In Running School

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UP)—Champaign high school officials are giving "old grads" a say-so in planning the curriculum of their alma mater.

Graduates in all walks of life have been asked, by questionnaire, to tell what high school courses were valuable to them and what courses proved of little benefit.

School officials plan to tabulate the information, revamp the present course of study and do a "better job" of teaching future pupils.

Methodist Sunday School Attendance Being Boosted

CHICAGO (UP) — Leaders of the Methodist Church report an increase of 500,000 students in their church schools within the last three years.

The increased enrollment is part of a drive by the Methodist Church, through its Crusade for Christ program, to attract the greatest number of children to Sunday school.

The increased enrollment is the first break in a 20-year trend which had shown, up to three years ago, a gradual decrease in school attendance.

An architectural controversy is raging over the $40,000-prize-winning design, left, for the Jefferson National Expansion Park in St. Louis, Mo. In a letter to the jury which selected the winning design, Gilmore D. Clarke, New York landscape architect, declared that the dominating feature of the design, the arch, bears a striking resemblance to one approved by Mussolini for a Fascist exhibition in Rome in 1932, shown on poster at right. Clarke asked whether "it is appropriate to perpetuate the memory of Thomas Jefferson . . . by constructing a monument similar to one created to glorify 20 years of fascism in Italy."

Men Get Color Too
NEW YORK (UP) — The most popular colors in the men's felt hats next fall, the Textile Color Card Association is advising clothing merchants, will be limestone, blue slate, bracken brown, ebony brown and granite gray for town wear.

Vintage, forest green and stroller navy are preferred for leisure wear.

"These hat tones will go well with the important new colors in men's suits and overcoats for fall and winter," the association said.

Parliamentary members in the English Civil War of the 17th century were called "roundheads" because they wore their hair clipped close.

The Worth of Christian Character

Scripture: Ephesians 5:6-21

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

THE passage chosen for our lesson, ending with Ephesians 5:21, leaves out, perhaps discreetly, the verses which follow in which Paul admonishes wives to submit themselves to their husbands "as unto the Lord." Of course Paul had already counseled the Christians to submit themselves "one to another in the fear of the Lord." The injunction concerning wives might have substantial warrant if husbands were equally enjoined to give due respect and submission to their wives.

However, this may be one basic sphere in which character counts, and in which the worth of Christian character is increasingly and greatly needed in home and family life. It seems incredible, but one third of the marriages in the U. S. are now ending in divorce. Though this low state has not been reached in Canada, divorces there have greatly increased.

This situation in Canada may be due to the fact that legal barriers to divorce until recently were almost prohibitive. Absence of divorces may not in itself have implied a better home life and superior marital happiness. But I think the operation of religious restraints, have been, greater, in Canada than in the U. S., where civil marriage ceremonies and a secular view of marriage have become much more common.

This is a temperance lesson, and temperance is a large factor in this matter of good homes and happy marriages. Temperance in its largest aspect means restraint and self-control.

It is perhaps best described in the good New Testament word "forbearance." Tempers do not necessarily have to be bad or evil to bring trouble into home life. Extremes of egotism, or of stubbornness, of determination to have one's own way, of lack of consideration for others can often prove as disastrous.

Paul speaks in this passage of the "fruit of the Spirit," and telling what this means. "The fruit of the Spirit," he says (Galatians 5:22-23), "is love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance."

Against these, he says, there is no law. Rather do they constitute in themselves the law of the good life and good relations, whether it be in home, school, office, factory, or wherever good relations are needed for a happy nation and good international neighborhood.

What Comics You Read Gives Clues To Mental Stature, Professor Decides

WHAT COMICE DC 24 eWkvHr By John Langdon
United Press Staff Correspondent
PITTSBURGH. (UP)—Modern comic strips, many of which long ago forsook comedy for adventure, love, and satire, now give psychologists a new means of testing personality.

Dr. Warren W. Soness, professor of education at the University of Pittsburgh, believes comic strip preference offers more reliable study material than the test of leaves or the trustiest of palms. For instance, the reader who fights for each installment of high adventure, mass homicide, glamor and love comics is an "ego enhancement" type—a person who nurses ambitions for heroism, swash-buckling adventure and glamor.

Readers who follow the "domestic" comic strips usually are members of happy families. The strips Dr. Soness refers to as "hate art" include those in which the unscrupulous villain is foiled. Often the villain is a commonly respected type of citizen for whom a particular class or type of individual reserves a special dislike.

Dr. Soness says the frustration of the villains serves to give the "hate art" readers vicarious pleasure. In the "strictly for adults" classification, Dr. Soness lists a limited number of comics which appeal either directly to adult minds, or use a broad brush in daubing the strip's continuity with social satire.

The final listing Dr. Soness gives is the purely educational, or religious comic strip. Drawing the outlines of a comic reader's personality from his preferences is no cinch, Dr. Soness says. But knowledge of such preferences is a helpful guide.

For instance, an adult who regularly reads none but the adventure and danger strips is often a man or woman who nurses a feeling of persecution, or a grudge against a superior, or perhaps simply dissatisfaction with the existing social order.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICE

"Substance" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 14. The Golden Text is: "For ever, O Lord, thy word is settled in heaven. Thy faithfulness is unto all generations" (Psalms 119:89, 90).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson - Sermon is the following from the Bible: "As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness; I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with thy likeness" (Psalms 17:15).

The Lesson - Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "As God is substance and man is the divine image and likeness, man should wish for, and in reality has, only the substance of good, the substance of Spirit, not matter" (page 301).

THE EYES HAVE IT

I am in awe of human eyes. ? Sometimes they frighten me to the depths of my being. Sometimes they lift my spirit on wings, as a graceful bird soars into the limitless freedom of the skies. And sometimes they sadden me inexpressively. They are so defenseless . . . human eyes . . . so rawly naked. And sometimes heartbreaking. Have you ever looked down . . . from your height . . . at a tiny newsboy's eyes . . . his chapped, little boy hands blue with the cold wind . . . his face pinched in the biting wind . . . tell me: have you ever cared enough to notice his eyes? I have . . . but then . . . I happen to like little boys best of all small creatures. There is no hiding behind human eyes. You may think you are hidden . . . but you aren't . . . nor will you ever be. Eyes are the soul's gateway. They signify what we call Divinity with a us. For out of the eyes . . . life flashes . . . in many forms. Eyes represent whatever we are. Tonight, will you please smile

Protective Funds Urged For Police

CHICAGO (CP)—Protective funds can make the policeman's lot a less unhappy one, according to the chief of Chicago's detectives.

Chief Walter J. Storms advised the Illinois state police association to follow a plan set up for his men of paying 21 cents a month to a voluntary organization which would defend them against suits for false arrest.

He said policemen frequently have to make split-second decisions when failure to make arrest can be a "penal offense," and doing their duty can subject them to suits for false imprisonment. "Many officers have put their property in the names of other members of their family to protect their homes and savings," Storms said.

Frigid Dog Pound Gets In Doghouse

MILLVALE, N. J. (UP) — The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals turned on the heat—and it wanted some of the steam to reach the local dog pound. Specifically, it charged Public Safety Commissioner Russell F. Carey with cruelty to animals by failure to keep the dog pound warm. The open, ramshackle structure has no heating facilities, according to Mrs. Mildred Peters, state SPCA agent. She said investigators found water in the pails frozen.

Carew, who was released under $500 bail for a further hearing, said the city of Millvale provides only $1,000 annually for upkeep of the pound and the dog-catcher's salary.

OLE MISS EXPECTS FIGHT OVER BLACK MARKET LIQUORS

By Harold Foreman
United Press Staff Correspondent
JACKSON, Miss. (UP)—Storm warnings already have been posted in the Mississippi House and senate in expectation of a hot battle over bills to repeal the state's black market liquor tax law. The law has been branded "the illegitimate son of prohibition."

A good many dries, who, although they dislike the law, still vote to retain it on the ground that it is the only way to hit the bootlegger where it hurts—in his pocketbook. They say repeal of the law would be voting the bootleggers a bonus.

The law was "slipped through" during the 1944 regular session under the pretense that it would discourage illegal sale of liquor in legally dry Mississippi. It placed a tax of 10 per cent on the sale of all illegal commodities but the only tax money collected under the law has been from the sale of liquor.

A majority of the members of both houses dislike the law, not only because of the bad publicity it has heaped on Mississippi, but because of the ludicrous idea it involves. It means that the state collects its "pound of flesh" from bootleggers who openly flaunt its dry laws.

But getting the law repealed, even though a majority of the legislators think it should be wiped off the books as something else again.

The wets openly admit that when the law was passed it gave them a foot in the door that leads to repeal of prohibition. They intend to keep the law to use as a club over the heads of the dries, until they can get a repeal bill passed.

Read For Fun Professor Urges

EVANSTON, Ill. (UP)—More people should read for practical pleasure instead for practical purposes, says Jean H. Hagstrum, Assistant professor of English at Northwestern University.

Hagstrum said there was an increase of 10 to 15 per cent in the nation's reading during 1947, but a decrease in the reading of fiction.

"If the present trends continue, the art of reading for pleasure is likely to die out in America," he said.

"The danger is that people look upon reading more and more as a utilitarian function," Hagstrum said. "Practical reasons, such as the housing shortage or psychology, are all right but they should not choke out reading for pure enjoyment."

Quick Method Found To Make Linen Yarn

MINNEAPOLIS (UP)—The University of Minnesota has developed a new process to convert flax straw into linen yarn in less than five hours.

Most important factor is the removal of gums and other wastes from flax fiber in less than an hour. Many European linen makers, using the natural method, soak the fiber in bogs for several hours.

Minnesota and the Dakotas grow 72 per cent of the nation's flax.

Some 2,000,000 tons of steel rails were produced in this country in 1947 to repair and extend the network of 398,000 miles of railroad track.

The debate when the bills come up for consideration will be bitter. But all the time, many of the wets will be laughing inwardly. They feel the law gives them a big advantage in their prohibition repeal efforts and they want to hold that advantage.

FRENCH REDS, RIGHTISTS BOTH HAVE ARMS STORED

By Dudley Harmon
United Press Staff Correspondent
PARIS (UP)—Nearly three years after the war's end, both Communists and right wing groups have "important" stocks of arms hidden throughout France, an authoritative source told the United Press.

The arms include such large-scale weapons as tanks and cannon. Many of the latter were part of the Normandy coast defenses. After the war the government sold them to "ironmongers" for melting down purposes, but part are believed to have found their way into the hands of political groups.

"We know that the Communists have stocks of arms and it is quite possible that right wing groups have also," the source said.

Both Communists and extreme right wingers accuse the other of concealing weapons for a coup d'etat. The government has unearthed several caches, usually as the result of a denunciation by a member of the group hiding them. But it does not know how many remain, or if it does, is unwilling to reveal details.

A shortage of ammunition would make an uprising difficult, however, according to information available. Ammunition lags far behind the stocks of arms, chiefly because it deteriorates quickly and is difficult to manufacture outside a factory.

Moths Hard To Kill But If Lucky You Can Wreck Their Appetites

MOTHS HARD TO KILL (UP)—Got a moth in your closet?

You can't kill the danged things, said the keeper of 10,000 moths at a New York testing laboratory. "All you can do is ruin his appetite," said this fellow, who knows more about a moth than another moth does. "Be nasty to him. Maybe he'll go away."

When you take your spring suit out of the closet and the seat falls out of it, you call this man up. He is used to getting telephone calls from people who want to know if he knows anything about moths.

"Sure," he says. "Moths are carnivorous. Female moths lay eggs the year around. You can put three moth eggs on the head of a pin. The wool devouring larvae can crawl through a crack 4-1000 of an inch wide. What do you want to know about a moth?" How do you make them go away?

"Well, the Roman naturalist, Pliny, suggested that you lay your clothes on top of a coffin. He probably figured that the moth would be scared of being buried alive and scam. However, few few people keep coffins around these days except undertakers.

"In the Middle Ages, Europeans believed that if you wrapped cloths in a lion's skin they were safe. The French used to put their clothes in a wooden box and throw in a handful of pine cones."

manufactured "in the home circle." During the strikes here earlier this winter, several workers at the Renault factory were injured when "cocktails" on which they were working blew up.

Today an unauthorized person cannot buy arms, under French law. The clandestine stocks on hand come from three sources. Part were seized from Vichy and German sources by the underground. Others were parachuted into France by the British Royal Air Force.

A considerable number came from American soldiers who sold their weapons on the black market. Most are hidden in the country—some were found even in a convent.

Officials of the ministry of the interior deny that any arms are being parachuted into France today despite frequent reports from peasants of "mysterious white lights" and "planes circling fields at two in the morning." They compare such stories to "those flying saucers."

Did that work?
"Only if the box was airtight and the clothes inside were clean when put inside. The same thing applies to paper bags and cedar chests now. Cedar chests if they are lined with at least 3-4 inch of heartwood cedar, tend to discourage the appetite of any visiting moths."

Mothballs and crystals take the edge of the moth's appetite.

The day will come, he said, when "Baconized" woolens may be as well known as "Sanforized" cottons. Baconize is a non-toxic non-allergic, non-inflammable, colorless, waterproof compound that can be applied to fabric and dry-cleaned 25 times without losing its effectiveness.

It is being sold now to textile manufacturers. When applied to wool fibers, it makes a nibbling moth downright sick at his stomach.

There's New Glamour in the Way it Goes

TAKE the glamour of its tapered gracefulness for granted, if you will. One glance tells you it's tops.

Take an inside peek at its newly fashioned interiors—and see if you're not dazzled by the luxury that greets your eyes.

But wait—just wait—till you learn what makes this banner beauty run off with the year's high honors on the highway. Dollars to drachmas—you'll fairly itch to get in and GO!

For now your right foot commands a Fireball power plant that's as eager as a panther on the prowl—yet is so quiet in purr and pulse you barely sense its telltale throb.

Now you slip through traffic or light out cross-country as relaxed as a baby with his bottle—in a body that's bountifully big, cozily cushioned, and insulated against the usual noises of traveling.

Now you experience the first scientific system ever devised to shield a car's ride against road noise, shake and the vibration build-up that previously took advantage of an automobile's tendency to play sound box.

Now you ride the washboard roads and cobbles as though they were carpet—thanks to coil springs all around—plus extra-low-pressure tires, carried on Buick's own wider, more stable Safety-Ride rims.

And last but not best, if a Roadmaster's your choice, you can enjoy the really effortless driving—in a new kind of drive that not only frees you of gear-shifting, but that doesn't even shift itself!

It's Dynaflo Drive—a drive that's devoid of all halt, lag and hesitation through all speed ranges—because here, for the first time, the power plant itself does what gears used to do.

Fact is, you'll find the new Buick sparkling with more than a score of new advances—in ten brilliant models that span three series and give you your choice of three wheelbases and four power ratings.

So why dally? Here, certainly, is the dilly of the year for smartness and roominess—for the newest in driving ease and riding relaxation—and for all those basic bounties that are forever Buick's.

Place your order with your dealer now—whether or not you have a car to trade—and hasten the day when you'll reach those motoring heights you hanker for.
