EASTLAND COUNTY —

Gorman
Following is the report of activities in the Gorman field for Tuesday, June 15:
Mellard and Clemens No. 1 Pete Mauney drilling in hard sand at 2185.
A. E. Edwards et al, made location 990 feet North and West of NE 1-4 section 21 Deaf and dumb Asylum lands on No. 1 J. C. Cook. They are digging pits. This location is on the approximately 1400 acres which this company has under lease in this section and it will extend the working area to about 4 miles Southwest of the town of Gorman, and carries the interest at least 1 or 2 miles further than even the Thompson Gas Well, which Mellard and Clemens are offsetting at present on the Pete Mauney location. Practically all lands in this area and to the South and West are already under lease, most of them with active short term drilling contracts. For this reason we are all watching with varying degrees of interest the activity in this extension of our field.

Soviets May Arrest Austrian Power Minister

VIENNA, June 16, (UP)—Soviet authorities have informed the Austrian government they plan to take action, including possible arrest, against Austrian Power Supply Minister Alfred Migsch because of his Anti-Soviet attitude, government sources said today.
Government quarters said the only interpretation they could make of the note was that Migsch was about to be arrested by Soviet authorities.
This would be the first time since the occupation that any government official was so openly threatened by any one of the four occupation powers.

GOP PRE-CONVENTION PROPAGANDA FLYING

PHILADELPHIA, June 16, (UP)—Pre-convention talk of GOP delegate deals was going full blast today in an atmosphere shadowed by a cloud no longer than Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan.
With the Republican national convention opening next week and the first ballot still more than a week away, the political species that has its being in headquarters hotel lobbies tried to see a pattern for the future in—
1. Reports that the Senate president plans to keep the "Draft Vandenberg" movement alive, at least for a while. His design—to check any Republican drift back to isolationism.

Pioneer Youth Drowns In Baird Lake Tuesday P. M.

Ray Allen Graves, 12, of Pioneer, drowned in Baird Lake Tuesday afternoon about 3 o'clock when attempts by two fellow swimmers to rescue him from water 20 feet deep failed. Graves' companions, two unidentified boys about the same age, ran a mile to town to report the drowning to Sheriff S. S. Nichols of Baird. Two hours later the body was recovered by Baird and Abilene firemen. He was the son of Charles W. Graves of Odessa and Mrs. Ora B. Graves of Pioneer.

3. Disclosure that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, New York, and Gov. Earl Warren of California, a trailer so far in the nomination stakes held a midnight meeting last night at New Castle, N. H., where the national governor's conference is going on.
Vandenberg's influence on the convention picture, according to his friends, is intended to be a sort of corrective. If he could be sure that the Republicans would pick a candidate friendly to his idea of foreign policy, he'd have no hesitation in taking himself all the way out of the convention scene right now.

According to Avera, Self, in attempting to make a turn on the Carbon-Eastland Highway at a too high rate of speed, skidded on the wet pavement and the car went into a ditch.
Bill Carleton of Carbon, a passenger in Self's car, sustained an injured hand which was treated at the Eastland Hospital.

Cultured Bugs Are Useful To Concern

CLEVELAND, (UP)—To most persons bugs are a nuisance, but Dow Chemical Co. deliberately raises them.
The firm breeds a special kind of bug because the tiny forms of life eat an industrial waste material which chemists can't destroy in any other way.
The concern had difficulty getting rid of phenolic waste materials. Phenol is used in making varnishes, plastics and drugs. After going through various manufacturing processes, the waste material came out in such diluted liquid form that it couldn't be removed, yet even small amounts of it would contaminate a river or lake.
Scientists solved the problem when they discovered bacteria which devour phenolic wastes and thrive on them. Dow now grows enough of the bugs to consume several thousand pounds of the waste a day.

TRUMAN HITS AT RADIO AND NEWSPAPERS

Aboard Truman Train, June 16, (UP)—President Truman, traveling through Kansas, said today it was "almost impossible" to put definite "facts" before the public because of "certain people" in the newspaper and radio business.
En route to Kansas City, Mo., for an overnight stop before continuing on to Washington, the President told a station crowd at Dodge City, Kan., that he had seen about 2,500,000 people in his current trip to "fix the issues" facing the country.
"I merely wanted to lay before you the facts as they are," he said after telling the crowd they must decide whether the country is to be controlled by the people or "the special privilege boys."
Mr. Truman said it was almost impossible "to get definitely the facts before the people, for the simple reason that there are certain people in the newspaper business and certain people in the radio business who have a distorted view of what the people ought to know and ought to think."

Senate Restores Part Of ERP Cut Made By House

WASHINGTON, June 16, (UP)—House Economy Chief John Taber said today the House did what was "honest" in cutting $2-160,000,000 (B) from the foreign spending program, and served notice he will fight the senate decision to restore $1,175,000,000.
The New York Republican insisted that the $5,990,710,228 (B) voted by the House was "sufficient . . . for a judicious administration" of the foreign aid program. The amount was for 15 months.
Taber is chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. As such he will be one of the leading figures in the Senate-House conference to iron differences.
The Senate early today voted $6,125,710,228 for 12 months—a net of $1,175,000,000 more than the House approved.

Traces Found Of Dawn Man In Cal.

LITTLE LAKE, Cal. (UP)—Camp site remains of California's Dawn Man have been discovered two miles north of Little Lake in Inyo County. The human bones and arrowheads found at this "closest approach to a city" may date as far back as 15,000 years.
This uncovering of prime historical importance has excited archaeologists of an expedition from the Southwest Museum. Their director, Curator Mark R. Harrington, says that for the first time "Pinto Culture" relics have been found in a positive, original location, undisturbed by the elements for more than 3,000 years.
The camp is on the lava-walled banks of a long vanished river that once ran south from glacier-fed Owens Lake. A waterfall was then nearby, and a commodious lava cave was used for shelter, centuries before later-age Piate Indians came along and etched their own drawings on the dark cavern walls.

"They must have had a good life," Harrington said, "for when the glacier began melting, during either of the pluvial eras, this was lush, green, wooded country."

Love Me and My Gopher Is Prisoner's Lament

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (UP)—City and county jailers had a problem on their hands with John Clayton, who brought a gopher with him when he was arrested for non-support.
The gopher slipped out of Clayton's pocket and the other prisoners protested until the jailers put the pet in a jail.
When Clayton was transferred to the county jail he refused to go until his gopher went along.
At the county jail Deputy Gilbert Hutchison refused to admit the gopher.
The animal finally went to the sheriff's daughter.

Many Human Ailments Trace To Animals

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The animal kingdom is a reservoir for at least 75 diseases which are of potential public health significance, according to Dr. Karl F. Meyer, director of the Hooper Foundation at the University of California Medical School.
Almost every common domesticated animal was included in a list presented by Dr. Meyer of diseases transmittable to man.
When the offending animal can be destroyed, control of infection of man is effective, he said. He offered as an example the slaughtering of tubercular cattle.

Forgives Thief But Asks for Fruit Bowl

CLAREMORE, Okla. (UP)—Mrs. Gene Perrier forgave a thief for stealing a cake, a loaf of bread and some gelatine from her home.
"If you are still hungry, I'll fix something more to eat," she informed him through a local news paper.
There was one condition to Mrs. Perrier's offer. The thief had to return a fruit bowl she treasured among her best.

The above picture shows the 133x150 foot swimming pool being filled with spring water for the opening, Friday, June 25, of Gray Memorial Park, one and one-half miles southwest of Gorman, formerly known as Bass Lake.
A parade will be held at 9:30 a. m. and at 10:30 a. m. a band concert at the park and at 11:00 a. m. the memorial and dedication services will be held.
Hon. John Lee Smith, former Lt. Gov. of Texas, will give the dedication address. At noon a community picnic will be held and in the afternoon all men seeking public office are invited to bring their soap boxes for a political rally.
This park was given as a memorial by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Capers in memory of their foster son, Frank A. Gray, who was killed during the recent war. It is to be operated on non-profit basis and the only charge will be 15c for swimming.

Lightening Facts

An old and gray haired pilot once said to an eager student, "At one time or another you'll take the notion playing with those big billowy clouds and buzzing through them might be real sport. Stay away from them and they won't hurt you. Give them the chance and they'll tear you apart."

Meteorologists admit they have much to learn about thunderstorms what goes on inside an otherwise peaceful looking thunderhead, which they call the cumulonimbus cloud. That the activity inside them is furious and violent in the extreme is no theory; pilots learned that a long time ago, and the word was passed on by the survivors. The theory comes in to attempted explanation of the whys and wherefores of the extreme turbulence and the setting up of the tremendous electric potentials which discharge themselves as lightning, either from cloud to cloud, within the cloud, or cloud to ground. Meteorologists classify thunderstorms generally according to cause which are known in a general sort of way. In any case vertical air currents are the immediate cause along with such dependent factors as rate of ascent or descent of the air currents, temperature, and moisture content. The clouds form when the air is cooled to the dew point or saturation point and can not longer retain moisture. Just how rapidly air can be forced upward might be indicated when meteorologists state that vertical currents within a thunder head sometimes reach a velocity of two hundred miles an hour with sharp eddies and bends which account for the fact that pilots have pointed out that once caught in the furious currents they lost complete control of their planes. During the last war a P-51 escorting bombers over the English Channel flew through a large cumulonimbus cloud. The pilot never knew what hit him until he regained consciousness, falling with only his chair still strapped to him. When he got loose from the chair and pulled the rip cord of his chute small bits of the P-51 streaked down by him. The high vertical wind velocities are not the only dangers inside the thunder cloud. After a certain stage of development of the cloud is reached it becomes laden with hail which is carried up and down with the fast currents, though probably not in all instances. Pilots recognize the presence of hail usually where light portions of the cloud appear green—rain is gray or black depending on intensity. Turbulence at its peak is at the outer edges of the cloud. For that reason pilots are advised never to fly between the towering clouds where clearance is less than two miles. As one airline pilot said, unsecured articles will fly all over the cabin in the severe turbulence. In some instances gust strain will cause structural failure.

Extremely severe turbulence and thunderstorms are the forerunners of all tornadoes. The exact nature of the physical causes runs into such complexities that forecasting them is nearly impossible. Their cloud types are more or less distinctive, however, usually appearing as a tremendous vertical development with its peculiar roll top, characteristic of the "spill-over" and inversion of the rising air mass immediately preceding the formation of the deadly vortex or cone. Strong winds aloft may dissipate the tornado or prevent its reaching the ground; however, where ground winds and winds aloft remain nearly the same the cone reaches to the ground. The winds in the vortex of the tornado have been reported up to five hundred miles an hour, and it is the centrifugal force set up by the rotation which causes the low pressure at its center, "exploding" houses in its track. They are no great danger to pilots since they can be easily seen and avoided; airport operators worry mostly when planes and the hangers appear to be in the tornado's path. If they are hit there's usually little left to worry about.

Lightening doesn't present all the terrors to pilots one might suppose there to be. Since it is not grounded the chances of the plane being struck by lightning is greatly lessened. Planes have been struck with only minor damage resulting. Control cables of fabric ships, however, have been burned and severed. The chances of electrical burns and injuries to the occupants seem nil. An airline pilot reported that when his ship was struck, the only damage done was a small burned hole through the metal skin of the plane. His radio, however, had the appearance of having been worked over with a welding torch.

In private flying crashes resulting from encountering storms occur mainly because too many pilots do not know what to avoid or when to avoid. The old phrase, "I think I can make it" is poor assurance to getting through. There's no such thing as knowing too much about it, and the fellow who takes the trouble to learn is the one who wisely says, "I doubt if I can make it."

All the Beech Bonanzas shown up here this past week have been mostly the one owned by W. B. Johnson Drilling Company of Longview. The ship, flown by Tex Jones, has been on the airport for the last three days. A number of other pilots, also in Bonanzas stopped by for "cookes" and were on their way again.

We were a little ahead on our welcome-back-note to Doc Muddock last week, but he confirmed his return from vacation this week by showing up at the airport Monday evening.

Inspector Hill of the CAA office at Meacham Field, Fort Worth flew in Tuesday for a routine inspection. Considerable

He's A Banana Hound

CLEVELAND (UP)—As long as Buddy gets plenty of bananas he does a pretty good job of being a watchdog.

Buddy is a white English setter who does lookout duty for C. Commella's Inc., a produce warehouse here. About five years ago, he started to take his pay in bananas.

"We got tired of peeling them for him," Commella said, "so we just tossed him whole bananas and let him worry about peeling them."

"You know what? The darned dog solved the problem in a month and now he peels 'em as well as I can."

Buddy is now seven years old and would eat bananas all day if he had his way. "But we hold him to six a day, with some pork chops thrown in," Commella said.

U. S. Craft Put In War On Chinese Pirates
HONGKONG (UP)—"Floating fortresses" are being outfitted here to smash gangs of Chinese pirates and extortionists operating against shipping in South China. They are American landing craft which are being reinforced, armored and equipped with rapid-fire guns and 20-foot steel look-out towers. The shallow-draft vessels—ideal for operation in South China inland waters—will accommodate at least 100 soldiers each and operate from "mother ships."

Piracy has been prevalent in South China waters for hundreds of years.

EVER wonder how important it is for an engine to be able to breathe easily? Then just consider...

1. An efficient engine wants to "inhale" about 1,450 cubic feet of air with every gallon of gas. That's volume!
2. An eight-cylinder engine "inhales" as many as 240 times (or more) per second. That's frequency!

Now you know why "free-breathing" engine design is so important.

COLUMBUS, O. (UP)—Carl Tennant is grateful to a friend who stopped to say hello.

Tennant, a truck driver, had finished loading at a railroad dockage and jumped down from the platform to head for his truck cab.

A friend called and waved. Carl stopped and waved back.

Just then two moving freight cars jumped a railroad abutment and crashed into the cab, demolishing it.

Plow 60 Acres in Only Five Hours

MANTER, Kan. (UP)—The spirit of neighborliness was exhibited in a big way for the Farmers Millsap farming family on the prairie wheatlands of western Kansas and eastern Colorado.

Garriet Millsap took his father, Carl to a hospital in Wichita and while there had to undergo an emergency operation himself. An uncle and brother of the men, John Millsap, worried about the problem of plowing the 640 acres of land straddling the Kansas-Colorado line.

Neighbors fixed it. Forty-seven men and 16 women of wheat farm families arrived. With them were

Mrs. Linkenhogor, Mrs. Hamner Are Party Hostesses

Mrs. Linkenhogor and Mrs. Ben Hamner were hostesses to about 150 friends Tuesday morning at a buffet breakfast in the Woman's Club House from 9:30 to 10:30. The menu consisted of little ham biscuits, cinnamon rolls, fresh apricots, and coffee.

Mrs. James Horton and Mrs. Fred Maxey poured during the first part of the breakfast and Mrs. Dan Childress and Mrs. Robert Vaughn during the last part. Mrs. Jack Ammer and Mrs. Hollis Bennett were asked to greet the guest and tell them good-by. Little Kay Linkenhogor presided over the registration. Other members of the house party were Meses. G. A. Plummer, A. F. Bendy, Arthur Murrell and J. F. Collins.

The club house was beautifully decorated with salmon pink and white gladiolas and Shasta daisies. The table, covered with a white Madera cloth, had a center piece consisting of white maroon daisies, salmon pink gladiolas, and blue daisies, flanked with crystal rosettes. On the piano were red and white gladiolas. Dainty napkins with "Good Morning—Kay and Artis" printed in gold on them added to the color of the affair.

During the breakfast Mrs. Jack Ammer and Mrs. Hollis Bennett were each given a linen hankerchief as a going away present.

Around 150 friends registered.

Steam From Valley Of Hell Gives New Hope To Coal-Starved Italy

By Aldo Forte
United Press Staff Correspondent
ROME (UP)—The mighty strength of volcanoes in Italy's "Valley of Hell" soon may be harnessed and controlled in an attempt to render Italy independent of imported coal.

Carried out originally as a dream cherished by the late dictator, Benito Mussolini, the experiment now is being followed with phenville last week-end. Mrs. Jones remained for an extended visit.

Visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Lawrence of 306 W. Patterson are: Mrs. E. G. Boice and children, Bill and Mary Ann, of Houston, Mrs. Mary Lawrence of Houston, Dick Lawrence who has been attending V. M. I. in Lexington, Va. They are grandchildren and great-grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Lawrence.

Captain Dan Hightower, Veterinary Corps, Fort Snelling, Minn., is here visiting his mother, Mrs. Irene Hightower, and brother.

W. W. Linkenhogor's cousin, Edgar Linkenhogor, of Corpus Christi flew here from Amarillo Tuesday in his airplane. While here visiting he took Pat and Linda and their father, W. W. Linkenhogor for a ride to Cisco and other local points.

Miss Bobbie Sanders of Cleburne, will be in Eastland this week-end as the guest of Mrs. Peggy McFarland. The two were friends at North Texas State College where both attended last semester.

success in the valley at Lardarello in Tuscany. The live steam from nearly 300 natural and man-made wells is fast becoming Italy's great source of electric power.

Although the existence of the powerful geysers which cover a 20 mile area has been known for more than 100 years, it is only recently that Italian engineers have turned over 300 of the once uncontrolled wells into more than 2,000,000 kilowatt hours of energy daily. From that source, electricity is furnished to operate the new electrified railroad between Pisa and Rome.

Eight huge turbine plants are turning out 32,800,000 kilowatt hours of electricity every month. More than 2,000 men are employed in the project, living in the strange and dangerous land where steam roars skyward.

New steam wells are being drilled. It takes nearly eight months to drill some of the wells, which go down 1,000 feet. Just before the workers strike steam, the crew dashes for safety. The escaping steam wrecks all drilling machinery not carried to safety in time. Rocks and volcanic lava gush out 1,000 feet with an explosion which can be heard 12 miles away.

Then for two weeks the well is allowed to clean itself out, after which it is capped and controlled, the steam being channeled into condensing tanks and converted into electrical energy.

Besides the great importance of the wells for electrical purposes, they also have a substantial output of boric acid and other by-ducts of boracic nature. The young Italian reprobic is resorting to the exploitation of its numerous sources of hydro-electric power to free itself of coal importations. New projects are under way to exploit this so-called "white coal," plentiful throughout the peninsula.

The projects forecast production of a total of 5,931,000,000 kilowatt hours. The plan should be completed by 1952 and the government counts largely on Marshall Plan aid to see it through. Besides financial help, Italy needs supplies such as lumber, copper and dynamite to harness its numerous geysers, waterfalls and rivers.

Sausage Fishing Flops

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (UP)—A resourceful "fisherman" tried to beat the high price of meat but failed when his cane pole broke. The man tied a large hook to a 10-foot pole and tired to lift some sausages from a grocery store rack during the night. A smashed window and the broken pole were the only clues.
