EASTLAND COUNTY ROCK MAY BE USED IN WHITNEY DAM

Much if not all of the crushed rock to be used in the construction of the large dam now being built near Whitney on the Brazos River watershed, is to be secured in Eastland county according to reliable information secured by the Eastland Telegram.

The Whitney Dam, one of a series of 13 major dams contemplated by the Brazos River Conservation and Reclamation District on the Brazos watershed, has been under construction for a year or more to date only dirt work has been done.

The dam, which is estimated to cost approximately $30,000,000 is being constructed by Army engineers using government funds. The Waco Tex Material Company of Waco, sometime ago began taking corings of rock along either side of the M. K. & T. railroad about two or three miles east of Carbon in the vicinity of "Potato Hill", a landmark of that area.

Following the taking of these corings, which it is understood were sent out for analysis by government experts, the taking of leases by the Waco Tex Material Company was started and better than 1,000 acres have already been leased, a lease of $1.00 per acre being paid with small royalty per ton for stone taken.

When the actual quarrying of rock will begin is not known, but it is understood that once this work is started, a large crew of workmen and much machinery will be needed. Some estimate that employment for the heads of at least 75 families will be furnished on the project. From the site of the proposed quarry it is a straight run on the Katy branch and not a great distance the site of the dam.

Best information is that three years or more time will be taken to complete the Whitney dam project.

Ceramic tiles, used in many modern churches, were found on the walls and floors of the excavated palace of Amenhotep IV, the shrine to the Sun God in Egypt 2,400 years ago.

World War II Dead Returned Army Announces

Remains of 4,872 Americans who lost their lives during World War II have been returned to the United States from Italy aboard the United States Army Transport Carrol Victory, the Department of the Army announced today.

Armed forces dead originally interred in temporary military cemeteries at Nettuno and other points in Italy are among those returned to this country. A total of 234 were returned upon instructions of next of kin residing in Texas.

The army stated that each next of kin was notified in advance of the arrival of the vessel, and would be notified again after arrival of the remains at the regional Distribution Centers of the American Graves Registration Service.

Under the program for final burial of World War II dead, next of kin may elect to have remains returned to the United States for burial in a military overseas or a private cemetery in a foreign country which is the homeland of the deceased or of the next of kin.

Following is a list of remains returned at the request of next of kin residing in surrounding communities.

Pvt. Afton C. Adams, Cross Plains; Sgt. Roland W. Andrews, Breckenridge; Sgt. Leonard C. Bohanon, Cisco; Pfc. Willie H. Colvin, Breckenridge; Pvt. Daniel L. Dunaway, Cisco; Cpl. Franklin C. Frazier, Ranger; Sgt. Thomas W. Hale, Ranger.

Dairymen Meet Friday Night At Carbon At 8

G. G. Gibson, Dairy Specialist of the A. & M. College Extension Service, will talk to members of the Eastland County Dairy Association on artificial insemination at a meeting in Carbon, Friday night. The meeting will be held in the Agricultural building beginning at 8 o'clock.

One of the objectives of the recently organized County Dairy Association, which now has 100 members of which A. Z. Myrick of Cisco is president, is to set up an artificial breeding program among its members. Between 1,000 and 1,200 cows will be needed to justify the expense of such an insemination program according to other breeding circles. A survey will be started at the meeting in Carbon to sign up the number of cows required for the program. It is planned to employ a technician to do the inseminating work.

Weatherford Man Fatally Shot By Political Enemy

WEATHERFORD, July 8, (UP)—Legislative candidate Eugene Miller died today, eight hours after being shot by a man whom he identified only as a political enemy.

The assailant who fired three pistol shots into his body was one of three strangers who stopped at Miller's farm home in an automobile. Parker County authorities said, piecing together statements made by Miller before he died.

None of the three men in the car was identified by name, they said. Mr. Kralis stated that he decided to open his own office when he and his employers could not agree on plans he recommended for company expansion of activities to cover all of West Texas, New Mexico and the Gulf Coast.

He first planned to open his office in Cisco, but later decided on Eastland. His business will be known as the Petroleum Exploration Service Company. He has many offers from independent operators he said.

N. B. Steddum Killed By Train At Olden

N. B. Steddum, 38, of Olden, a section hand on the T & P Railroad, was killed about 7:40 this morning while he and a companion, B. L. Snodgrass, were operating a tamping machine. Snodgrass was temporarily absent from the machine when the accident occurred.

Justice of the Peace, E. E. Wood, and deputy Sheriff Frank Schlaepfer were called and held an inquest at the scene of the accident.

Steddum's body was badly mangled, having been thrown 60 feet down an embankment. Steddum is survived by a wife and children. The Hamner Funeral Home here is in charge of the body.

Baptist Church Holds Annual Vacation School

The Baptist Church is to have its annual Vacation Bible School beginning Friday, Friday is to be Preparation Day. The school will meet each day from 8:30 until 11:30 a. m. and will last from July 12 until July 16.

The school is planned for Beginners, Primaries, Juniors, and Intermediates. All boys and girls who desire to attend will be welcomed. On Preparation Day pupils will be registered, a parade will be given, and refreshments will be served.

Cost of operating Nebraska's schools has increased 98 per cent in rural communities and 56 per cent in cities during the last ten years.

DAN KRALIS OPENS OFFICE IN EASTLAND

RESIGNS AS DISTRICT GEOLOGIST FOR LONE STAR GAS COMPANY

Dan Kralis, who a short time ago came to Eastland as district geologist for the Lone Star Gas Company, has resigned that position. He is to be employed as a consulting geologist to "the trade" in the Petroleum building in Eastland, where he will specialize in geological investigations in Central West Texas, geological supervision of drilling wells, sample analysis, geologic tops, recommendations, etc.

Mr. Kralis will occupy four rooms on the second floor of the former Eastland National Bank building. He will spend approximately $18,000 equipping his office of which will be for a backlog of information, such as base maps, elevations, field cars, etc.

Mrs. C. Cooper, also formerly with Lone Star, will be employed as assistant geologist, Kralis said. A graduate of Indiana University, Kralis has had experience in Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Canada, Arctic Circle, Kansas, Oklahoma, Rocky Mountain region, and in Texas. He did research work at the Colorado School of Mines and taught geology at Denver University.

Kralis holds memberships in the Abilene Geologists, Pan American Institute of Mining Engineering and Geology, American Geophysical Union, Kansas Geological Society, Rocky Mountain Geological Society and American Institute of Metallurgical and Mining Engineers, petroleum division.

Mr. Kralis stated that he decided to open his own office when he and his employers could not agree on plans he recommended for company expansion of activities to cover all of West Texas, New Mexico and the Gulf Coast.

He first planned to open his office in Cisco, but later decided on Eastland. His business will be known as the Petroleum Exploration Service Company. He has many offers from independent operators he said.

Baptist Church Names New Members For Five Weeks

The Eastland Baptist Church announced today the names of the members who have joined the local church by baptism during the past five Sundays as being Max Chapman, P. A. Cox, Sr., P. A. Cox Jr., and David Byers.

Those joining by letter include Mr. and Mrs. Victor Edwards and son, Neal, from East Cisco Baptist Church, Mr. and Mrs. William Tillman, from Congress Avenue, Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Stinnett and son, Wilson of Springtown; Rodney Heath from First Church Munday, Edith Allison, from University Church, Abilene; Evan Threatt, Jr., from Seventh and James Church, Waco; Totsy and Wren Threatt, Charles Layton from University Church, Abilene; Nelson Allison for Belmont Church, Abilene; Franklin Wells from First Church, Abilene. Revival At Church Of God To Be July 11th Trough 13th

Rev. W. E. Hellenbeck, evangelist, will begin a revival meeting at the Eastland Church of God, July 11 which will run through July 13. Services will be held each evening at 8:00 o'clock. A special feature of the meeting will be music by a trio composed of the evangelist, his wife and song director, Tommy Tucker.

Arab Leaders Will Not Extend Palestine Truce

CAIRO, July 8, (UP)—Arab leaders have rejected flatly proposals to extend the United Nations truce in Palestine, and reports from Tel Aviv said Egyptian forces already were attacking Jewish positions south of the Israel capital.

The hour at which Count Folke Bernadotte, UN mediator, had planned to make public Arab and Jewish replies to his suggestions for extending the truce passed without official release from his Rhodes headquarters.

But Pablo Azarte, representing Bernadotte here, said that "the Arabs turned down Bernadotte's truce extension proposal on grounds that the four-week truce has been unsatisfactory."

UN Observers To Leave Palestine HAIFA, July 8, (UP)—United Nations representatives here announced today that their task in Palestine has ended with Arab rejection of proposals to extend the truce, and their group of truce observers will be withdrawn immediately.

ROBERT HANNEGAN SAYS TRUMAN SHOULD BE NOMINATED AND ELECTED

Allied Pressure Put On Russians In Berlin Affair

BERLIN, July 8 (UP)—Strong Allied pressure forced a chink in the Russian starvation blockade of Berlin today.

Reacting swiftly to an order by the Western Allies drastically cutting transport and electricity in their sectors of the German capital, Soviet authorities promised to supply enough electric power to keep the Berlin elevated railway system operating throughout the city.

The Allied order would have halted the elevated system in the Western sectors at midnight tomorrow. The order also cut deeply into electricity for homes and electric power for plants and businesses.

As if in reply, the directorate of the Reichsbahn, which operates the elevated, announced that the Soviet authorities had promised to supply all power necessary to keep the elevated running throughout Berlin. About 40 per cent of Berlin's population depends upon the elevated for transportation.

The remaining restrictions seemed certain to cut deep into the economy of the Western sectors, throwing thousands of the 2,500,000 Germans in the Allied areas out of work, and seriously inconveniencing all the rest. Observers expected Communist agitators to find fertile ground among the unemployed thousands, and the possibility of Communist-led riots and disorders could not be overlooked.

Slight Collision On Main St. And Lamar Wednesday

Wednesday afternoon a green 1941 Chevrolet driven by Willie Forrest of Los Angeles crashed into the 40 Ford driven by William Samuel Tiffany, of Pampa.

The car driven by Forrest had 7 passengers and the Tiffany car had his wife, two children, and a nephew in it. Since both cars were injured and both were from out of town, no charges were filed.

According to Tiffany, he stopped at the red light, on the corner of Lamar and Main, and the car behind him was driving so close that it crashed into him.

The damage was estimated as 50 dollars for the Ford repairs and 75 dollars for the Chevrolet.

PHILADELPHIA, July 8, (UP)—Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath today set a four-day target for the Democratic National Convention to nominate President Truman and pick a vice-presidential candidate from a long list of prospects.

McGrath said he expected the convention, which meets Monday, to wind up its work Thursday night. It could take longer if there are any fights over the platform or nominations but McGrath didn't seem to expect it.

Meanwhile, former Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan, in his first political statement since leaving the Presidential cabinet, urged the nomination and election of President Truman.

Hannegan denied reports that he had tried to tell Mr. Truman to withdraw from the Presidential race and added:

"I am going to attend the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia. Harry Truman has been a good president for all of the people of America. He should be nominated and elected."

McGrath said he and Mr. Truman have no personal preferences for the vice-presidential nomination. Some of the President's top political advisers are urging choice of an easterner. The names of Gov. William Preston Lane of Maryland and Robert F. Wagner of New York, son of the Senator, were prominently mentioned.

McGrath said that Lane certainly would be acceptable to me—but no more or no less than a number of others." He said there was a "long list" of prospects and the race was wide open.

The party chairman said he had no doubt President Truman will be nominated despite the desire of some party elements to dump him and draft Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

There will be a meeting of the dump-Truman crowd here Saturday night.

A few hours before the caucus McGrath may be confronted in the last pre-convention meeting of his national committee with a resolution formally asking President Truman to step aside.

Sen. Olin Johnson of South Carolina, a leader of the draft Eisenhower movement, has said he will offer such a resolution at that time. McGrath said the solution would be "in a gross order," but he saw no chance of its adoption.

Stevenson Stops Here Enroute To Midland

Former Governor Coke Stevenson of Junction was a visitor to Eastland for a few moments Wednesday enroute to Midland when he was scheduled to make a speech that night in the interest of his campaign for the United States Senate.

The former governor had also stopped at Ranger.

It is understood that he will pay both Ranger and Eastland another visit soon, possibly speaking in one or the other, if not both places, before the close of the campaign.

Kenneth Nicholson Visits Members Of Church Of Christ

Kenneth Nicholson is now in Eastland visiting the members of the Church of Christ. He is one of the children that the church supports in Boles Orphan Home. He plans to spend his two weeks vacation here, visiting in various homes.

Taft-Hartley Law Has Added To Maritime Labor Problems

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The Taft-Hartley labor law is headed for its biggest test case yet in the current fight between seven maritime unions and the West Coast, Great Lakes, Atlantic and Gulf Coast ship operators. Principal issue is the hiring hall—the place where seamen and longshoremen go to get jobs.

Under labor practices now firmly established, only union members can get jobs in hiring halls because the maritime unions have all had "closed shop" contracts, and they have been running the halls.

But the Taft-Hartley act outlaws the closed shop and says it's an unfair labor practice for an employer to discriminate against union members or non-members. So the employers now say they can't sign renewals of their contracts which expired on June 15—continuing the hiring halls as they have been operated in the past—without breaking the law.

Five CIO unions, one AFL and one independent maintain that this stand by the employers is a concerted effort to do two things. First to do away with the hiring hall. Second to bust the closed shop at sea and along the waterfront, returning to "open shop" hiring of men without regard to union membership.

Employer ship operators and shipping agents are far from united on what their future hiring policies should be, but in general they deny both these charges.

WITH regard to the first point, most employers say they want to keep the hiring hall, but they want them run differently, to comply with the law. On the east coast, hiring halls are now maintained by the unions. On the west coast hiring halls are jointly run by unions and employers. The "dispatchers" who assign the men waiting their turns for jobs in the hiring halls are now all union men. Most employers say that in the future they must maintain the hiring halls just as employment offices are run in other industries, and that the dispatchers should be neutral—which to them means non-union men.

On the second point, some employers say they are willing to make a "union shop" contract with the maritime unions. This means that employers could hire whom they pleased, with the understanding that all employees would join the union if there was an election in which a majority of the employees voted that they wished the union to represent them in collective bargaining.

From a practical operating standpoint, this presents a number of problems in the maritime trades not common to other employment. The difficulties of holding elections to determine bargaining agents are obvious and could easily lead to union busting.

THE position of employers in not wanting to sign new contracts that violate the Taft-Hartley law can be appreciated. The reluctance of unions to sign contracts that lead to their destruction is also understandable. In this situation, it seems only fair to say that the Taft-Hartley law is certainly not helping labor and management reach agreements to renew working conditions that have operated satisfactorily in the past and have become established practices.

Another disturbing factor is a National Labor Relations Board complaint filed by Great Lakes tanker fleet operators who charge that maintenance of the hiring hall is violation of fair labor practice. An NLRB decision on this case may be appealed to the courts and a final ruling on this phase of the law may not be made for months. This is cited by the unions as evidence that the employers' real aim is to get rid of the hiring halls.

All parties are now supposed to be negotiating under an 80-day bargaining period imposed by Taft-Hartley law court injunction, which ends Sept. 5. If no settlement is reached by then, Harry Bridges is there to lead a strike against the law and it will be a lalapaalooza.

Cards Have Some Rough Edges But Dyer Smooths Them Out

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The more you see of the Cardinals the more you appreciate the job Eddie Dyer is doing.

Sam Brandon was peddling stars in 1946—the Coopers and Ray Sanders—when Billy Southworth shuffled off to Boston, and Dyer was coaxed back from the Texas oil fields. And by this time it was evident that the farm crop was doing just fine.

But Manager Dyer never lost his poise taking the works, World Series and all, after beating the Dodgers in a play-off.

There are holes in this edition of the Red Birds, too, but the soft-spoken Dyer quietly knits them together.

The batting averages of the three catchers have to be added to get .300. Young Joe Garagiola is the only one of the three with any potential at the plate, but his throwing is erratic. Del Rice couldn't hit a right-hander with a snow shovel, and is no Joe DiMaggio against southpaws. Del Wilber is big and slow.

Totally inexperienced there, Nippy Jones makes mistakes at first base.

Whitey Kurowski, who was a remarkable clutch hitter in 1947, with 27 home runs, 104 runs-batted-in and an average of .310, has been of little use thus far.

DON LANG has been around for years, was called in from Columbus on the strength of having a .400 year. He has been a lifesaver as an adequate third baseman hitting .350, something he never did before.

Among Terry Moore isn't what he was in the field or at bat, and Mack Dusk has been a disappointment at the plate.

Man Musial further stresses his versatility and value to the Nationals by standing out in center field when Round Rock plays right against right-hand pitching.

The Cards dropped 15 of 23, including losing streaks of six the others took heart, but here they are back on their old legs moved into Ebbets Field for the still highly important Braves after forcing Bostonians to check for a time at sea that the Braves were a shoo-in. All they did in the win three in a row, a score 2-to-2 in the ninth of the second game in Boston.

Did Southworth removed Bill Voiselle for left-handed Clyde Lush, that, the great Musial walked back to the dugout to lead the team.

boy, I guess I'll have to send in a hitter for you," said Dyer, lead pan.

His eyes popped out. The best hitter in the National League was back for an instant. Then all the Red Birds roared. Musial smacked his fifth consecutive single of the night to another victory in the Cardinals' column.

gardles of the circumstances, the bikes in the red blazers are rectly relaxed under Eddie Dyer.

Pirate Gold. If Any Eludes Town

CHARLESTON, S. C. (UP)—Rumors and stories of buried treasure here are as perpetual as the gulls still wheeling over harbor waters which once floated pirate ships of Teach, Bonney, and Bonnet.

Yet, a single copper coin of the colonial government of South Carolina is the only booty ever located in this historic city.

Family treasures, buried in haste during the Civil War, have been turned up. But the gold and jewels of pirate days remain unaccounted for, except in words.

During WPA days, workmen on a street paving project reportedly unearthed a pot of gold. The treasure was said to date from colonial times. It later developed that only a few coins were found in a glass jar. It had been buried on the site of an old, abandoned race track.

The story that silver "bits" (the eighth part of Spanish pieces of eight) were dug from a drain was never proved.

Only the single copper coin is evidence of buried treasure.

Nobody Loves Forever

By Margaretta Bruckner

Copyright by Arcadia House, Inc.; Distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Jessica Gordon, aristocratic southern belle, has eloped with Yankee soldier Tom Blake in defiance of her father and in spite of her own qualms. Tom has a few days furlough before being shipped overseas. He tells Jessica he is taking her to his home in Akron to stay with his folks until he is discharged from the army.

It was late afternoon of a stifling June day when Tom and Jessica reached Akron.

Tom's sister Lucy met them at the station. She was a small girl with a neat figure disguised by a cheap navy blue suit. Her blond hair was drawn back primly from a broad forehead. She wore no make-up.

Lucy viewed Jessica with cool detachment and extended her hand for a limp shake; then offered her cheek to Tom for a brotherly kiss, and remarked that they must hurry, for the train was late and her mother had already prepared dinner.

"How's Mom?" asked Tom. He and Lucy talked in low tones and ignored Jessica as they climbed into the front seat of the car. Once Jessica caught the girl's glance fixed upon her curiously but Lucy quickly looked away and continued her conversation with her brother.

The evening air was close and weighted with a queer heavy smell.

Tom took a deep breath as they passed a row of factories. "Rubber!" He turned to Jessica. "This is Akron, baby. Rubber capital of the world. Not much like Titusville, is it?"

No. It wasn't like Titusville or any other spot she had ever visited. The sidewalks were jammed with men and women hurrying home from work. Crowded buses and men on bicycles. Men in dirty grease-stained overalls, and women looking little better. Tired men. Tired women.

The confusion made Jessica's head ache.

The car carried them through the town and out into a district of old frame dwellings and finally stopped before a tall gray house. An uncompromising type of house, painted a serviceable color.

Tom escorted Jessica as far as the porch steps and then ran ahead and opened the screen door. He shouted, "Mom—I'm home!"

Home. Jessica sickened as she waited Tom disappeared within and left her standing by herself while Lucy put the car away.

When Lucy came around the house she asked, "Where's Tom?" "Inside."

Lucy's glance told her that she knew what Jessica guessed—that Tom was breaking the news of their marriage to his mother. She said nastily, "Tom sent Mother a wire this morning. She expects you." Her gray-blue eyes warmed a little as the two girls mounted the steps together.

Inside, the house was cool, the air stagnant. No sunshine. A flight of long dark stairs led upward and as Jessica hesitated in the hall Tom came through the house from the rear and said awkwardly, "Mom's coming."

As he spoke a woman came toward them. A small woman, thin and wiry with graying hair pulled back severely from a broad, high forehead. A pair of cold, colorless eyes regarded Jessica with no hint of welcome.

This was Tom's mother. "How do do," she said.

Tom said, "When do we eat?"

Which broke an awkward silence. "Take your wife upstairs to the front room, Tom," said his mother. "No one ever sleeps there," said Tom.

"She will." The woman's mouth tightened grimly. She turned her back on them and returned to the kitchen. Tom picked up the bags he had dumped on the hall floor. "Come on," he told Jessica. "Mom's having chicken and noodles. Regular celebration."

UPSTAIRS Tom opened the door of a bleak high-ceilinged room which faced the front street. Jessica looked at the ugly heavy gold oak furniture, a dresser and a washstand, two chairs, a huge wardrobe towering in one corner. Suddenly, without warning, she began to cry, silently, the tears running down her cheeks and splashing on her tightly gripped hands. She sat down on the edge of the big bed.

Tom's eyes showed alarm. "What the dickens!" He sat down beside her and she turned her face against his khaki blouse. "Tom, don't go away and leave me here."

"Don't go! Why, I'm in the Army. I have to go, and where would you stay but here? I don't imagine your father would rush to take you back. It's pretty awful of Mom to be willing to give you a home—"

"Please, Tom, please!" He stood up. "Look," he said flatly, "we're married. I have to go away and you have to stay here and wait for me to come back. You're doggone lucky, if you only knew it. Come wash your face and let's go down to dinner. Mom will be all upset. She hates hysterics."

Jessica arose. She said in a low strangled voice, "I'm not hysterical, really. Please be patient with me, Tom."

He grinned. He caught her shoulders and turned her about and kissed her. "That make it well?"

She could not answer. How could a man be so lacking in understanding? Treating her like a hysterical child who would be comforted by a kiss.

Baton Twirling School To Be Held In Cisco

The Cisco Junior College is sponsoring a School of Twirling July 11th through 16th inclusive. The school features Mr. F. R. "Woody" Woodard, national baton twirling champion, as instructor.

Mr. Woodard is Drum Major Mrs. Ligon, and who has been visiting in Eastland for several weeks will return home with his parents.

Mrs. Joe Stephen has returned from Anson where she visited her sister, Mrs. A. V. Womack and her niece, Sharon, who is ill.

Mrs. Sam Bough of Cisco visited Mrs. J. A. Beard recently.

George Ann Bennett, grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Beard returned Sunday to her home in Midland after a two weeks visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Beard of Dallas were week end visitors with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Beard and Mrs. May Harrison.

for the Texas Choral Union University Horned Frog Band; has been national champion in 1939, '40 and '41. He was also a former instructor with the Vandercook School of Music in Chicago, Ill.

Instruction will be offered in the Beginning, Intermediate and the advanced classes. Included in the curricula will be Multi-baton Twirling, Handling of Fire Bats, Night Routine, with the lighted baton, and demonstrations of how to build a twirling show.

An extra feature of the school will be the teaching of the Fundamentals of Twirling. Mr. Jack Everett, head coach at the Junior College, and authority on Physical Education will instruct this class. It will be offered to all students attending the school in the hope that by mastering these basic movements, the twirlers will be able to offer "something different" at the football games this coming season.

Students can stay and eat at the college dormitory during the week of the school. The total cost including tuition, will be $18.50. For those who wish to commute while attending classes the tuition will be $8.50. Inquiries regarding the school should be mailed to Mr. F. D. Baumgardner, Cisco, who is handling the arrangements for the college. Beginning students are especially encouraged to attend.

Elaborate Array Of Exhibits For De Leon Festival

An elaborate array of exhibits by home demonstration clubs, 4-H clubs and individuals in this area will be shown at the three-day Peach and Melon Festival to be held in De Leon on July 22, 23, and 24.

L. M. Black, in charge of exhibits as well as being general chairman of arrangements, said this week entries are coming in faster than had been anticipated and it now appears the exhibit building will be crowded to capacity.

A livestock and poultry show will also be an added feature at which FFA boys will exhibit their livestock and poultry. A large tent has been secured to house the show and the finest purebred stock in this section will be shown.

The tent will be erected on Monday before the Festival opens on Thursday in order to give showmen a chance to arrange for space.

No charge will be made for entries and prizes and ribbons will be awarded to the winners.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS
By Boyce House

In November of 1920, I came to Texas. I had to sell the paper which I owned in Arkansas and came to this state to rest in order to build up my health. After riding on the train for almost 24 hours, I prepared to get off in San Antonio. Nearly a thousand miles from home and friends a stranger in a strange land, I felt lonely, indeed.

Imagine my surprise as I stepped off the train and heard a voice exclaim, "Boyce House, what are you doing down here?" The speaker was a schoolmate of Central High days in Memphis, Tenn., who was at the station to meet a relative. The sight of a familiar face and the sound of a friendly voice drove away the "lost" feeling.

I have never seen that schoolmate since then.

A man living in a small Western city was in Chicago on a business trip. Under the impulse of a spirit of mischief, he entered the
