Keeps His Secret
FORT WAYNE, Ind. (UP)—William Fitzhugh, 31, drove his truck up to a policeman and hailed him to follow as an escort. Fitzhugh drove to the hospital where doctors found a 32 caliber slug in his chest. Fitzhugh would not tell officers how he got wounded.

GEORGE L. DAVENPORT THANKS VOTERS

Allow me to express my keen appreciation for the splendid vote you gave me in the recent primary election. I interpret this as an expression of approval of my past record and your confidence in my fitness to continue in this important work. I shall continue to discharge the duties of this office to the very best of my ability.

Fred Garrett of Walters, Oklahoma, is in the County visiting relatives and oldtime friends. Fred is a brother of former Congressman Clyde Garrett and of Mrs. Minnie Love of Eastland. Also he is an uncle of County Clerk W. V. (Virgil) Love. Fred remembers that as a boy he used to bring his father, the late W. V. Garrett, from Jewell to Eastland to meetings of the County Commissioner's court of which the elder Garrett was a member for 20 years or more, and return for him at the week end. "I shall never forget those long drives over the sandy roads and the faithful pair of little mules that pulled the buckboard," Garrett said.

President's Name Taken Off Land Patents

WASHINGTON (UP)—Congress has snipped at least one piece of administrative red tape, with President Truman's approval.

Mr. Truman will be the last chief executive whose name will appear on a land patent.

Land patents are bills turning over public lands for private or other use. Since 1834 the bills have been signed by "proxy presidents," or clerks skilled in the art of signature copying.

During the past session, Congress passed a law permitting interior department clerks to sign their own names to patents in behalf of the United States.

In the days of Washington and Jefferson, presidents signed the bills themselves. The job was turned over to handwriting specialists in 1834.

Andrew Jackson had so many land patents that year that a clerk got the job to keep Jackson from getting writer's cramp.

Geologic records of more than 75,000,000 years ago are contained in the John Day fossil beds in the state park of central Oregon. Fossils of pre-historic three-toed horses, mastodons and other creatures of antiquity are found.

State Studies Hardware-Eating Fish

MADISON, Wis. (UP)—The Wisconsin conservation department is looking for a fish psychiatrist.

This vacation state needs someone who can figure out why its fish are so temperamental about the bait they'll bite on.

The department stocked one 40-acre northern lake with 20,000 rainbow trout and confidently awaited a substantial "fish harvest" this year. So far the fish haven't been biting and the department's experts are stumped.

They analyzed the stomachs of rainbows and found that the fish live on a rather steady diet of plankton and larger bugs. They figured that fishermen who use flies for bait should be reeling in the rainbows. But the fly fishermen aren't.

The most successful lure is a gadget called the "hardware." It's a string of assorted hardware, including 10 spinners, with a gob of worms on the end. The departmental too. They seem to like why the rainbows like it.

Bass in other lakes are temperamental too. They seem to like a new red and white plug with a spinner at each end. It's catching bass where other baits that make a similar commotion fail. But, sighed the experts, the bass may be demanding something else next week.

Tough Talk Wrecks Effect of Charms

BANGKOK, Siam (UP)—Nai Phaiyulaya was taken to the hospital suffering from more than 20 self-inflicted wounds in his abdomen and arms.

He said he had been testing the "magic" of some charms which were supposed to make him proof against knives of every kind.

The charm had worked in the beginning, he stated, but he attributed their eventual ineffectiveness to the fact that he had used "abusive language" to friends who were watching his experiments.

IMPORTANT FACTS ABOUT VOLUNTEERING and the DRAFT

EVERY able-bodied young American who did not bear arms in World War II has a direct, personal interest in the new Selective Service Law. Here are the facts:

The most important thing to remember is that the U. S. Army will continue to rely on voluntary enlistments as its primary source of manpower.

Selective Service will be used only to make up the difference between authorized strength and the number of volunteers. If there are not enough volunteers to do the job, young men of 19 to 25 will be subject to call for 21 months of service, with an additional 5 years in inactive reserve status.

You may prefer to choose from a number of other courses open to you.

First, if you are 18 you may volunteer within limited monthly quotas, for one year's training with the Army of the United States. Up to 110,000 men, in monthly increments of 10,000, in this classification can be accepted. Following active duty you must, if offered the assignment, serve 4 years in an organized unit of the Reserve or National Guard; or, if not offered such assignment, serve 6 years in the inactive reserve. Either of these requirements may be met by enlisting for 2 or more years in the Regular Army.

Second, if you are 19 to 25 you may volunteer for 21 months in the Regular Army. Upon completion of this service you must serve for 3 years with an organized reserve unit or National Guard, or serve 5 years in the inactive reserve. Either requirement may be met by extending your Regular Army enlistment 12 months.

Third—and best, you may enlist in the Regular Army for 3 or more years. There are many advantages to this course. Men of 17 to 34 who measure up to high Regular Army standards can enter on a professional career that has few equals in civilian life. Here are the important facts about these opportunities:

CHOICES OPEN TO 3-YEAR VOLUNTEERS

THE ARMY TECHNICAL SCHOOL PROGRAM permits any young man with a high school education, or the equivalent, between 17 and 34, who enlists for 3 years, to apply for and qualify for one of more than 60 splendid technical school courses taught by the Army, before he enlists. And he can be sure of attending that course after enlistment. If he wins promotion to a technical grade, he can earn the net equivalent of $4000 to $5000 a year in civilian pay.

OVERSEAS SERVICE IN JAPAN OR KOREA

is open to any 3-year volunteer who selects it. Famous combat divisions now in the Far East are doing a magnificent job for democracy and world peace. Men who serve with them will have the advantages of travel and 20% increase for overseas pay.

CONTINUED EDUCATION

is offered Army volunteers through the hundreds of high school and college courses provided by the U. S. Armed Forces Institute. Most colleges and universities grant credits for courses completed under this educational program.

OFFICER CANDIDATE SCHOOL

, leading to a reserve commission in the Army, is open to high school graduates, 20½ to 28, who can qualify. Distinguished OCS graduates are commissioned in the Regular Army.

VETERANS

have special choices open to them, depending on their experience and the Military Occupational Specialties they held previously. With the expanded training program, advancement opportunities will be excellent.

Grishams Honor Their Children On Birthdays

Honoring their two children who have birthdays in July, Mrs. N. E. Grisham entertained with a birthday for her son, Bob, who's birthday is July 18, Ann whose birthday is July 28, Wednesday from 4:00 to 5:30 p. m. at their home near Eastland lake.

As the children arrived they were presented colored balloons. Various games were played and the guests assisted Bob and Ann in opening the gifts which were daintily wrapped.

The children were invited into the dining room where the table was laid in a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of white baby mums, and pink asters. The birthday cakes also decorated the table. Bob's cake iced white was decorated with Happy birthday in red, four candles and pink rosebuds with green foliage. Ann's cake like Bob's decorated with happy birthday in red with three candles and the rosebuds with the green, each blowing the candles out.

Present were: Meses. Holder, Frank Aycock, Cisco, Jerry McCollough, Johnson Smith, J. R. Gilkey Jr., Roberta Grisham. Children present were: Kay Poe, Ann and Joe Barker, Fred Brint Aycock, Cisco; Janice Holder, Cisco, Wanda Arther, Barbara Ann and Jerry McCollough, Shirley Jean Smith. Mrs. Grisham.

★ WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

Scribes, Pharisees Offer Lesson Today

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
IN the gospel story of the life and teaching of Jesus there are many references to the Scribes and Pharisees.

Who were these Scribes and Pharisees, whom Jesus often criticized so harshly and whom He found so lacking in sincerity and loyalty? They were the successors of those who had played a fine and honorable part in the history of Israel in the four centuries following the return of the Jewish exiles from Babylon and preceding the coming of Jesus.

There were among them still noble and earnest men like Nicodemus (John 3), and Gamaliel (Acts 5). But power and authority, in religion as in other spheres of life, is subject to the temptation of abuse and pride. What was originally fine had become, in many at least, debased and corrupted.

THE Scribes were the lawyers of the Jewish community, but as such they were much more than the lawyers of today. Every reader of the Old Testament knows how great a part the Torah, or the law, represented in the life of Israel. The law was religious as well as political and social, and the Scribe is described as being something of preacher, scholar, lawyer and magistrate. This is what made the role of the Scribe so great and important.

But the Pharisees, also, had historic and spiritual greatness. They had been the party of strict observance, seeking to maintain the integrity and purity of their religion. In the struggle against conquerors who sought to pervert and corrupt Jewish worship with idolatrous conceptions and practices, the Pharisees had borne severe persecution. As many as 800 of them were crucified in a single day.

Why, then, did Scribes and Pharisees fall under the criticism of Jesus? It was because so many Scribes had become formalists, concerned about the letter, but neglecting the spirit of the law. Law, when it is law and nothing more, ceases to be protection against injustice and a furtherance of liberty and becomes a curse rather than a blessing.

Also in many Pharisees the zeal that had once been for racial and religious purity had become a matter of spiritual pride and the despising of others. "They trusted in themselves that they were righteous, and despised others."

Thus it was that a Publican, praying humbly for God's mercy upon him as a sinner, stood in noble contrast to the proud Pharisee, telling God how good he was. The lesson of it all ought to be obvious for everyone who would be truly religious.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"Love" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 1.

The Golden Text is: "We have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him" (1 John 4: 13).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Beloved, let us love one another: for love is God; and everyone that is born of God, and knoweth God" (1 John 4: 7).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortals believe in a finite personal God; while God is infinite Love, which must be unlimited" (page 312).

Soviet Reported Getting Uranium From Estonia

By Walter Kolarz
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON (UP)—Estonian exile diplomats claim that Russia is producing uranium out of oil shale mined in Estonia in large quantities.

They said the uranium, a source of atomic energy, was gained out of oil shale residue. The process was carried out in Russia itself, they added, and whole mountains of oil shale ashes accumulated in the Kohtla Yaerve region of Eastern Russia proper.

The independent Estonian republic did not make any attempt to use the Kohtla Yaerve oil shale ashes for uranium, the exiles said. But during the first Soviet occupation of Estonia in 1940-41, they reported, the Soviet authorities set aside considerable quantities of shale oil for experimental purposes.

The Russians, according to Estonian mining experts, also have oil shale mines east of Lake Peipus, near the Estonian border in the region of Gdov, but they preferred the Estonian oil shale, since the Gdov shale was of poor quality for uranium purposes.

Official Soviet sources repeatedly referred to the Kohtla Yaerve oil shale mining center as the "Estonian Donets Basin."

According to official figures, the oil shale production of Estonia is to be increased by 500 per cent during the present five-year plan period and is supposed to reach between 8,000,000 and 9,000,000 tons in 1950. Four new workers' settlements are to be built in the Kohtla Yaerve area to accommodate the manpower required for the increase of the oil shale production.

Estonian sources said 40,000 German prisoners of war at present employed in mining oil shale in Estonia, in addition to thousands of Estonian workers. Soviet sources admitted that technicians and skilled workers were brought from Russia to Estonia, including mine workers from the Urals and the Donets Basin.

Russia's three other uranium sources in the west are Bulgaria, where the Streltch and Bukhovo mines were taken over by Russia as a German asset; the Jaehymov mine in northern Bohemia, whose produce is sent to Russia on the strength of a special Czech-Rus-

Wherever you go, they're talking DYNAFLOW

FROM Atlantic to Pacific, it's simply terrific.

- Not in a generation — maybe not in two — has any single improvement in automobiles caused the talk or met the instant approval that has greeted this new drive.
- You see the reason in your first five minutes behind a Dynaflo* wheel. You sense that this is not merely an improvement on old ways, but a whole new system of transferring power from your engine to the rear wheels.

For the first time, oil does everything — replaces the friction clutch, eliminates the usual forward gears, even actuates the mechanism by which you change from Driving range to emergency Low and Reverse.

You feel the result in new smoothness that's like riding a mighty tide of flowing oil.

You move from standstill to road speed in one smooth unbroken sweep of power, quick and effortless in getaway and instantly responsive at speed.

You stop by pressing the foot-brake — go again by feeding gas. Once you've set the selector lever, you need not touch it again in normal driving until you're ready to park or back up.

Outside engineers look at Dynaflo and say, "Now you've got something!"

You'll say so too — once you handle a Buick ROADMASTER with this new driving magic.

Try it, first chance you get — and we think you'll want to see your Buick dealer at once to get an order in — with or without a car to trade.

- BUICK alone has all these features
- * DYNAFLOW DRIVE (Optional, Roadmaster Series)
