Drug Abuse---A Problem In Muleshoe

"A law enforcement agency is only as good as the people it serves and their willingness to help with the problems in a community," stated former police chief, the late Wayne Holmes in a letter to the citizens of Muleshoe. "The drug and alcohol problems in our area will not go away by themselves. The only way to eliminate these problems is through the efforts of all our citizens," he continued. "We must educate our adults, as well as our children."

Abuse of drugs is commonly defined as the use of harmful, mind-altering drugs in a non-medical way. These drugs, also known as psychoactive drugs, can cause personality and behavioral changes, as well as severe health problems. A number of abused drugs are illegal; meaning that their possession and sale are prohibited by law (marijuana, cocaine, heroin, LSD, PCP, and mescaline). Many other abused drugs can be obtained legally but only with a doctor's prescription (amphetamines, barbiturates, and other sedatives, morphine, and tranquilizers). The most commonly abused drugs can be bought legally without a prescription (alcohol, nicotine, present in tobacco; butyl nitrite and other inhalants, such as fumes from cleaning fluids, gasoline, and model airplane glue).

Addiction as it relates to drug abuse is the inability of a person to control their use of alcohol and other drugs. This person would be known as a drug addict, chemically dependent, or alcoholic. For these addicts, drug use is more than a habit. The craving for the drug also involves physical dependence, meaning that an addict's body depends on a drug so greatly that painful withdrawal illness results if the drug is not used. Drug addicts also develop a tolerance to the drug so doses that once satisfied their craving no longer do so. Addicts need larger doses to achieve the same effect. There are three major groups of drugs that can cause addiction; narcotics (heroin and morphine); sedatives (barbiturates, some sleeping pills, and tranquilizers); and alcohol.

"We do have a juvenile problem in Muleshoe," Police Chief Julian Dominguez told the group of Rotarians Tuesday at the noon meeting. "Probably the biggest problem in our town with our juveniles is inhalants. The kids spray them on socks and then inhale them."

Dominguez, along with his assistant at the meeting, patrolman Benny Parker, educated the group on the smell of marijuana, passed around marijuana cigarettes for them to examine, and showed them a variety of drug paraphernalia.

Addiction to alcohol or other drugs is difficult to escape. In order for an addict to break their addiction and begin to recover they must do three things. First, admit to themselves that they have an addiction and that something must be done about it. Second, contact a group that can recommend or provide treatment and moral support. Third, admit their problem to their family. Mobilizing the strength of the family unit will help provide support needed to address their reasons for use and the difficulties of addiction.

How Can You Help? If someone confides to you about a problem with alcohol or other drugs you should avoid being sarcastic, accusatory, or self-blaming. Instead try to be understanding. Listen to the reasons why the person abuses alcohol or other drugs. Be firm. Explain why you feel that their behavior is harmful and why they should seek treatment. Be supportive. Assist the user in finding help and providing moral support. Self examine. Ask yourself if you have provided a good role model.

Addicts use drugs (including alcohol) to deal with stress or to avoid problems. Signs of addictive behavior include:

- changes in mood, attitudes, friends or clothing.
- secrecy about actions and possession.
- temper flare-ups.
- borrowing or stealing money from parents or friends.
- legal and financial crises.

Denial is a large part of an addict's problem and why their addiction continues. People never want to admit that their lives are out of control or they are ashamed of their addiction. Sometimes family members or close friends must confront the addict, a process called intervention. Intervening in the case of a family member or friend who uses alcohol or other

Board President Meets With SBOE Members

Muleshoe ISD trustee Cindy Purdy was among 31 school board members from across Texas who met with Education Commissioner

Lionel "Skip" Meno, State Board of Education (SBOE) members, and other education leaders in Austin, November 12-13.

The trustees' are all members of the Texas Association of School Board's (TASB) 1994 Leadership TASB class. The two-day meeting was the second in a series of five training workshops class participants must complete as part of their leadership development curriculum. Friday, the trustees attended the SBOE General Meeting, which was followed by a dinner with state and local policymakers.

In his keynote speech, Meno stressed the need to return the focus of education to the children and the educational results Texas must achieve. "We need to begin to organize the view differently how to create conditions to improve interaction and where the child will learn most beneficially---in the classroom environment, the campus and district, as well as the regional and state level," Meno said.

Dinner meeting table topics facilitated an exchange of educational concerns, ideas, problems and potential solutions among the board members and state leaders.

"This forum encouraged an openness among trustees and state leaders that does not occur in more formal meetings," said Virginia Trchalek, Leadership TASB program manager. "They had the opportunity to learn and discuss, to understand one another's perspectives, and to get past the bureaucracy to the heart of the issue---achieving education goals.

Legislative issues and advocacy training were the focus of Saturday's meetings. Trustees heard an overview of the education lobby and a panel discussion on the differing roles and interests of the many education associations. Master trustee graduates of the 1993 Leadership TASB charter class also presented a workshop on using the Texas Education Network information system, and former Biologists have long recognized that habitat should be the crucial focus for most forms of wildlife management. For pheasants in Bailey County, that key is management of cropland. The quality of the pheasant habitat is directly related to the cropland management practices that affect the pheasant's food supply and cover.

The pheasant, unlike many of the other game birds which need and prefer rangeland, is an inhabitant of cultivated areas. He is a seed eater and in most cases his primary diet consists of grains such as corn and grain sorghum. As a general rule most harvest procedures in this county leave enough waste grain in the fields to sustain a pheasant population through a winter if it is left on top of the ground and accessible to the birds. Corn and sorghum residues provide valuable winter cover. Leaving fence rows, odd field corners, tailwater pits and playa lake areas in weedy cover also provides excellent winter cover.

During a favorable year, a hen pheasant will raise approximately eight to 10 chicks. Up to 75 percent of the fall population will not survive a full year. Mortality factors such as starvation, predation, accidents and winter

Local Youth Works In Chemistry Lab

The tiny sensor that Jon Watkins from Muleshoe is currently helping to test in a South Plains College chemistry lab could ultimately help farmers conserve their most precious resource---water.

In fact, Watkins and his mentor, Dr. Jesse Yeh, associate professor of chemistry at SPC, have been so successful in monitoring soil moisture for crops with innovative sensor that the project has received an additional $17,000 research grant from the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board.

"This is simple research, but it is allowing me to get acquainted with what it would be like to do

Although community colleges traditionally focus on teaching rather than research, Dr. Yeh sees the project as a unique opportunity for his students to get experience doing research. "We emphasize teaching at SPC, and we don't have much time for research. But I wanted to provide an opportunity for students on the community college level to experience the concept of simple research," he said.

"For the past 100 years, people have come up with all kinds of ideas on how to monitor soil moisture," explained Dr. Yeh. "Some have been very accurate but very expensive; others have been expensive and difficult to maintain."

Through his research at SPC, Watkins is involved in a unique scientific adventure. Only 300 out of 3000 proposals submitted by colleges and universities in Texas were accepted for $60 million in grants from the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board under an Advanced Research Program. Only one other community college is participating in the advanced research project, Dr.

Watkins, who receives a scholarship for his efforts, is

Better Business Bureau Report

Requests from groups claiming affiliation with law enforcement organizations have been the lead generator of inquiries to the BBB in recent months. The police and firefighters in our communities are people who put their lives on the line to protect you, your family and your business. When you are asked to give - WAIT. There are a lot of hype merchants out there who are only too happy to take your money without giving you all the facts needed to make an informed decision - or the 'facts' they give are inaccurate, jargon reeled off by the paid solicitor who may know little or nothing about what the money actually does. If you donate to groups like these, our hardworking local law enforcement agencies may not be helped much, if at all. Don't assume that just because the caller claims to be affiliated with a law enforcement agency, that the money goes there. Give us a call at 763-0459.

The BBB is a unique organization that it is supported entirely by business. However, the services of the Bureau are utilized not only by business, but by the public. The demand by the public for the Bureau's services is based mainly on the BBB name and a confidence in the integrity of the organization has an unbiased source of information. The BBB name is its most valuable asset, which must be protected at all times. Recently, the Bureau's name has been misused by two local companies claiming they are members of the BBB, which they are NOT. This implied endorsement in an attempt to cash in on the Bureau name and take advantage of the public's trust cannot be tolerated. Our dues-paying members have agreed to NOT use the BBB name in advertising because they want to maintain the integrity and credibility of the BBB name.

Financial credit can be baffling. Consumers need as much information as they can get to manage credit and know their rights.

Remember Fire Safety When Planning Holiday Decorations/Celebrations

Texans enjoyed a special holiday gift last year: No one died in a fire related to Christmas trees or other holiday decorations.

The Texas Commission on Fire Protection urges all Texans to keep up the good work by avoiding fire hazards this holiday season. "Christmas trees and decorations, Hanukkah menorahs and New Year's Eve fireworks are all fire hazards uniquely related to the holiday season," said Executive Director Michael E. Hines. "By using common sense, you can avoid needless fires that would ruin your holiday."

The Commission on Fire Protection recommends the following steps to prevent holiday fires:

1) Keep natural trees well-watered and moist.

Natural trees require special care. According to fire statistics, natural trees used as decorations in the home are three times as likely as artificial trees to be involved in fires.

Water trees daily. Letting the water supply run out even once can keep the tree from drawing any more water through the trunk.

Heaters dry the air, which dries natural trees. Use a humidifier to replace air moisture.

As the tree dies, don't leave lights on for extended times. Never leave a lighted tree unattended.

2) Dispose of natural trees and decorations safely.

The largest number of Christmas tree fires occur during January when the trees have been put out for trash collection. Take used trees and branches to recycling centers or landfills. This will keep children from being tempted to experiment with matches and the dried greenery.

3) Avoid candles, and assign "candle-watchers."

Fire statistics show that candles caused half of the holiday decoration fires last year. The best option is to replace wax candles with battery-operated candlesticks.

If wax candles are used, be sure someone is in the room whenever the candles are burning. Put out all candles before going to sleep or leaving the home.

4) Assign "lightwatchers."

Faulty or unattended electrical lights caused half of the Christmas tree fires last December, according to fire statistics. Be sure someone is at home and awake whenever decorative lights are on. Turn off lights before going to sleep.

5) Avoid the common hazards of fireworks.

Most fires caused by fireworks were grass, tree or brush fires. Almost half were caused by children playing with fireworks. The safest option is to avoid all fireworks. The safest option is to avoid all fireworks.

Set off fireworks in open areas clear of grass and trees. Do not use fireworks in windy, or dry weather. Check with the local fire department to see if fireworks are legal in your area.

6) Remember home fire safety.

Be sure there are working smoke alarms near all bedrooms. Give smoke alarms as gifts to those who don't have smoke alarms or who need to replace old smoke alarms.

Don't leave cooking unattended. Plan and practice an emergency exit drill in the home.

Last December, 19 fires involved Christmas trees and another 25 fires involved holiday decorations, according to the Texas Fire Incident Reporting System operated by the commission to gather fire statistics from Texas fire departments. Only one person was injured in a Christmas tree fire. In December 1991, five people died in fires involving Christmas trees.

The most common causes of accidental holiday fires were candles and electrical malfunctions, especially involving lamps and lights. Fire statistics also show that the largest number of holiday fires were caused by children playing with fire or fireworks or by arson or suspected arson.

During the 1992 winter holiday season, fireworks were involved in 11 building fires and 81 grass or brush fires.

The Texas Commission on Fire Protection is a state agency involved in numerous aspects of fire protection. Through the Texas Fire Incident Reporting System, the commission collected fire information during 1992 from 439 Texas fire departments, representing about 75 percent of the state's population.

CHICKEN ESPANOL

2 1/2 pounds frying chicken pieces	1 clove garlic, minced
1/3 cup all-purpose flour	1/2 cup red wine
2 tablespoons vegetable oil	3 tablespoons Kikkoman Lite Soy Sauce
1 medium-size green bell pepper, chopped	1 medium tomato, chopped
1/2 cup chopped green onions and tops	Hot cooked rice

Coat chicken pieces with flour; brown on all sides in hot oil in large skillet or Dutch oven over medium heat. Remove and drain on paper towels. Reserving 1 Tbsp., pour off pan drippings; return reserved drippings to same pan. Add bell pepper, green onions and garlic; saute 2 minutes. Stir in red wine, lite soy sauce and tomato. Return chicken pieces to pan; cover and bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer 25 minutes. Turn chicken pieces over; cover and simmer 20 minutes longer, or until chicken is tender. Serve chicken and sauce over hot rice. Makes 4 servings.

In northern Spain the Basques are famous for their hearty lamb, chicken and beef stews. "Chicken Espanol," enhanced by the addition of naturally brewed Kikkoman Lite Soy Sauce, captures the heritage of these classics. While not a traditional seasoning in Spanish dishes, lite soy sauce adds richness to the braising liquid.

One Lord

Newspapers on November 23, 1963, were ablaze with headlines reporting the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. Few people noticed a short obituary appearing, if at all, deep inside their papers announcing the death of a man who had held the Chair of Medieval and Renaissance Literature at Magdalene College, Cambridge.

Focus On Faith
Curtis Shelburne

We're far too close to the events of that November in 1963 to be able to look at them now with anything approaching real perspective, but decades from now, when the world is far enough down the road to see the big picture more clearly, it may well be that of these two men who died on November 22, 1963, the man who will ultimately be remembered as having the greater effect on the world is the unassuming professor, Clive Staples (C.S.) Lewis.

A convinced skeptic early in his life, C.S. Lewis became undoubtedly the most influential apologist (defender) of Christianity in our century. His best-known apologetic work is Mere Christianity in which he sets forth the foundational truths upon which all believers in Christ stand regardless of their religious tradition.

It was not a task without risk. Lewis, himself a member of the Church of England, writes, "The danger clearly was that I should put forward anything that was peculiar to the Church of England or (worse still) to myself." And so he sent the manuscript to a number of different clergymen from different groups for their comments which were, on the whole, quite favorable.

By doing this Lewis made a significant discovery. He found that the worst opposition and haggling came from those who were on the borderline in their commitment to whichever group in which they found themselves, "men not exactly obedient to any communion."

He reflected, "I find this curiously consoling. It is at her centre, where her truest children dwell, that each [Christian] communion is really closest to every other in spirit, if not in doctrine. And this suggests that at the centre of each there is something, or a Someone, who against all divergences of belief, all differences of temperament, all memories of mutual persecution, speaks with the same voice."

That "Someone" is the one Lord. Those who truly love the just themselves or their own tradition or sect more than they, love the Lord share only a common failure to bow before the One who is Lord of all.

Curtis Shelburne is the minister of the 16th and Ave. D. Church of Christ in Muleshoe.

PROCLAMATION MADE—Mayor Robert Montgomery officially signs a proclamation, proclaiming the week of November 28-Dec. 4 as National Home Health Week. Pictured with Montgomery are Lisa Wright, Director of the Muleshoe Home Health Care Agency, and Richard Murphy, hospital administrator.

Muleshoe Home Health Care Agency Celebrates National Home Health Care Week Nov. 28-Dec. 4

Muleshoe Area Home Health Agency, a local agency, provides hospital-quality care at home for sick and disabled individuals. Some areas served are Muleshoe, Bovina, Farwell, Friona, Sudan, Earth, Needmore and Lazbuddie.

Under a physician's plan of treatment, an individual may receive health services in their home setting to promote, maintain, or restore health or minimize the effects of illness and disability by achieving maximal rehabilitation.

At home, patients can enjoy a sense of well-being and comfort. They feel more independent and can take more responsibility for their own care. That feeling of independence and self-control can aid a patient in their recovery.

An individual qualifies for home care services if they:

- *Are essentially homebound

- *Have the services prescribed by a physician
- *Require intermittent care

Services provided by the agency may be reimbursed by Medicare, private insurance, private pay or worker's compensation.

Record Cotton Crop Being Harvested

This year's cotton crop on the High Plains seems almost too good to be true, but something obviously happened along the way that led to this record-breaking season. With weather conditions less than perfect, the 1993 crop is a dream come true for most area growers.

"It is a record crop in terms of both yield and quality and quality continues to be excellent overall," said Kater Hake, cotton agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. With 90 percent of the area's cotton already harvested, crop predictors are estimating the yield to be 3.6 to 3.8 million bales in the 25-county area often called the nation's biggest cotton patch.

Fields in the northern part of the area, most of which are irrigated, are averaging 658 pounds of lint per acre. The estimated yield for those 620,000 acres is 850,000 bales. Growers in the southern area, much of which is dryland, are harvesting 2.48 million acres with an average yield of 503 pounds an acre, or some 2.6 million bales.

Cotton specialists with the Extension Service say conditions throughout the 1993 growing season weren't what producers would have requested, but the results are more than satisfactory. Only some 180,000 of the 3.3 million acres planted to cotton--about five percent--were lost to drought or other causes. The area's longterm average loss between planting and harvest is 14 percent of the acreage.

Last year, more than half the 3.2 million acres of cotton planted on the South Plains was lost to bad weather, insects and disease from start to finish of the season. As a result, area producers harvested only 1.4 million bales.

The quality of this year's crop is another cause for joy among producers. Hake said fiber strength

What Can Parents Do To Reduce The Likelihood Of Their Child Being Sexually Abused?

Some parts of our society has a way of making us feel to blame for a child being sexually abused. For example, let's say a father sexually abuses his child. Some people tend to think two things: 1) The protecting mother must not have been a good mother because this happened. The fact is that a parent cannot possibly watch their children all the time. It's impossible. 2) The mother must not be a good lover because the man choose someone else. The fact is, I've known of people who have had a good sexual relationship with their spouse (as far as activity is concerned) and still choose someone else.

There are some things parents can do to lessen the chances of their child being sexually abused by providing a child with tools for protecting themselves. It lets children know they do not need to accept abuse from older people and that they will be supported. Some things that can help are:

1) A touching code-can be agreed upon by the entire family. It's to be used in any situation where another person's touch is uncomfortable. By letting your child participate in developing the touching code it shows respect for them. The code may be a word or phrase to use when they don't want to be touched. It may simply be "No" or "Please don't" or "It's my body. Don't touch me! I don't like it" or "No, I won't touch you!", etc.

2) It helps for children to feel good about themselves in order to refuse abuse from an older person. Find some practical ways you can show your children you value them, building their self-esteem and help their decision making abilities.

3) Create a family environment in which feelings and expressing them are acceptable. Some children are made to feel that feeling of fear, sadness, and suspicion are not correct. So when they have those types of feelings, they are kept to themselves.

Child sexual abuse is not a pleasant subject to talk about but it's important we not avoid knowing some facts about it.

Smoking-Related Diseases Cost Texans $4 Billion In 1990

The thirtysomething-and-over crowd of smoking Texans coughed up an estimated $4 billion for health care and lost productivity in 1990, according to an article published in the November issue of Texas Medicine.

The expenses incurred by Texas smokers age 35 and older were for treatment of smoking-related disease, treatments provided by hospitals, physicians and nursing homes, as well as loss of productivity due to premature death and disability.

Texas Medicine is the official magazine of Texas Medical Association.

The article was written by Anna

Fay Williams, Ph.D., and Jack Franklin, Ph.D. Information for the article was provided by The University of Texas M.D. Anderson Cancer Center Office of the Vice-President for Health Policy and Texas Department of Health.

"Hospitalization costs, about $818 million, represent the largest share of the direct healthcare costs attributed to smokers," the authors write. "The second largest category of costs is physician fees."

In 1990, there were 24,600 smoking-related deaths-one in five deaths recorded in Texas. Deaths in 1991 caused by auto accidents, homicide, AIDS, alcohol, fires and illegal drugs combined only reached 9,430. An estimated 1.8 million Texans age 35 and over are smokers. Cardiovascular deaths accounted for the largest number of smoking-attributed deaths, followed by lung cancer and respiratory ailments.

"Deaths due to smoking and their associated costs continue to rise in Texas," the authors write. "These deaths constitute the largest group of preventable deaths in the state."

Texas Medical Association is a professional organization of nearly 32,000 physician and medical student members. It is located in Austin and has 118 component county medical societies around the state. The Association represents 82 percent of the doctors of medicine licensed and residing in Texas

Texas Farm Bureau President Commends Passage of NAFTA

The president of the Texas Farm Bureau calls the approval of the North American Free Trade Agreement by the House of Representatives "one of the greatest decisions made by Congress in this century."

Responding to the House's 234-200 vote in favor of NAFTA, TFB President S. M. True said the House's margin of victory followed a late turnaround in public support that underscored "how important it is to trade with our neighbor to the south (Mexico)."

What was expected to be a tight vote turned out to be a surprisingly strong pro-NAFTA tally by House members. True cited the tremendous efforts of many groups, both rural and urban, that came together to push for passage of the trade agreement last week.

In a post-vote national address, President Clinton said business and agricultural leaders deserved a lot of credit for the victory. Clinton has said he believes the Senate vote will be more decisive than that of the House.

As president of the state's largest general farm organization, True called adoption of NAFTA a "win-win situation for agriculture" and a vote for expanded markets.

True said he is proud of the members of the Texas congressional delegation who voted for NAFTA. Twenty-four of the 30 House members from Texas voted in favor of the agreement.

Assessing his long career as a farmer, rancher and Farm Bureau leader, True said the House vote on NAFTA stands out as one of the most important decisions he has witnessed.

try and raise the standard of living of Mexico and make it a better place to live."

Drinking + Shopping = Bad Combination

Here's a combination to avoid: drinking and shopping. Drinking alcohol can lead to impulse shopping, said Dr. Stuart C. Yudofsky, a psychiatrist at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

"If you have a few drinks at a party, go home, not to the mall," Yudofsky said.

To avoid impulse buying and over-spending on gifts, make a list, allow a certain amount of time for shopping and shop in advance, he said.

You might also want to leave your credit cards at home.

"Spending cash makes the purchase seem more 'real' than using plastic," Yudofsky said.

Robert Dole, U.S. senator (R-Kan):

"I wouldn't risk any American lives to put Aristide back in power and try to force democracy on Haiti."

Health News

Two drugs that researchers hope will prevent the transmissibility of the AIDS virus during pregnancy are being tested at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston and other top U.S. medical schools.

Intravenous immunoglobulin (IVIG) and a derivative of that drug called HIVIG, will be given to 300 pregnant women who are positive for the AIDS virus. The two-year study will be conducted at 30 medication centers.

"All of the pregnant women are already receiving AZT, the current treatment of choice for AIDS," said Dr. William T. Shearer, a professor of pediatrics at Baylor and head of pediatric allergy/immunology services at Texas Children's Hospital.

One group will receive IVIG, which has already been proven in recent studies to reduce the number of secondary bacterial and viral infections in children with AIDS."

Mary E. Arnett Services To Be Held Monday

Services for Mary E. Arnett, 74, of Earth are scheduled for Monday, Nov. 29, 1993 at 2:00 p.m. at St. Ann's Catholic Church of Morton, TX., with Father Joseph Augustine and Father Elbert Fadallon officiating.

Burial will be in Morton Memorial Cemetery, under direction of Parson-Ellis Funeral Home, Earth.

Mrs. Arnett died November 25, 1993 at her home.

She was born March 19, 1919 in Amarillo, TX. She married James Wesley Arnett on April 6, 1961 in Carlsbad, NM. He died October 30, 1983.

Mrs. Arnett had been a resident of Earth since 1960, moving from New Home, TX. She was a graduate of Slaton High School and had formerly lived in Morton. She was a nurse and a homemaker. She was a Catholic. Mrs. Arnett will lie in state in Parson-Ellis Funeral Home in Earth on Friday and until Saturday at 4:00 p.m., when she will be moved to Ellis Funeral Home in Morton, where she will lie in state until service time on Monday.

Survivors include two sons, Bill Garner of Earth, TX and Jim Garner of Lubbock, TX; two brothers, James Bates of Lubbock, TX and Bill Bates of Sacramento, CA; three sisters, Dorothy Stinson of Lubbock, TX, Barbara Burgess of Chandler, TX and Betty Bates of Chandler, TX; twelve grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to Kidney Foundation or the Earth EMS.

he said. "The other group will receive HIVIG, an altered version of IVIG that had had a special protein added."

Shearer says that there is suggestive evidence that women who have high amounts of antibodies against HIV have fewer HIV-infected children.

"If the study is successful, it could have tremendous benefit for stopping the spread of AIDS from mother to baby--of particular importance in Africa, where such transmission is common," he said. "In the U.S., the numbers of mother-to-baby HIV cases are increasing."

IVIG has historically been safe when used during pregnancies, said Shearer, director of the AIDS Research Center at Baylor. The drug has been prescribed for 25 years to treat pregnant women who have hypogammaglobulinemia, and there has been no harmful effects to mother or infant.

The "H" in HIVIG, means that there is a special part of the immunoglobulin that binds to the AIDS virus.

"We obtain this special antibody from HIV-infected people who have high antibody levels," Shearer said. "The antibody is purified through a special procedure that eliminates the AIDS virus. Another extra step using an organic chemical is added to ensure the virus is killed."

Treatments with IVIG and HIVIG are being tested in pregnant women because they contain a protein small enough to cross the placenta. Other viral diseases such as hepatitis B, have been successfully treated with antibodies, Shearer said.

The IVIG/HIVIG study is funded through the National Institute of Allergies and Infectious Diseases, the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute, and the National Institute of Child Health and Development.

Breast Feeding May Require Some Planning

Planning ahead can make life easier for mothers who choose to breast feed. "Following some simple steps before and after delivery can make a big difference," said Dr. Judy Hopkinson of the USDA's Children's Nutrition Research Center at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

Hopkinson recommends discussing the hospital's breast-feeding policies so nursing can begin immediately after delivery.

She favors "rooming in," which allows mother and baby to spend

24 hours together. "The mother can cradle the baby next to her chest for long periods and nurse on demand," Hopkinson said. "Research indicates skin-to-skin contact promotes bonding."

Hopkinson also suggests finding a pediatrician who will support the decision to breast feed.

A PLACE TO PRAY

Man can, and should, pray anywhere. God has placed no limitations on his communing with him.

Our Lord has said, "... Ask and ye shall receive." God listens when we seek him, no matter where, however he desires that we gather together in prayer too. "... mine house shall be called an house of prayer for all people."

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

December 7, 1941 Fifty Two Years Of Memories

This day will be remembered as one of deceit, treachery, and one of being too complacent and too sure of the feeling of complete security.

And the day was one that ended with most catastrophic results. This is the reason for this article today.

It was December 7, 1941, a day that dawned with beauty, as only a day can be in the Hawaii Islands. A day for attending religious services, going to the City of Honolulu for a movie, liberty, going to the beaches, such as Waikiki Beach, Ewa Beach, or any of the other beaches on the island. Or be having a cold beer at one of the PX's. But this was not to be. No indeed it was not.

At 0755 AM, time for changing the watch, or the guard if you prefer. The first light of aircraft from the Imperial Japanese Navy, came roaring from the East, over the mountains, with the bright sunlight at their backs. The day was brilliant, the sunlight making it very difficult to see the make and markings on these aircraft. A perfect moment for deceiving the United States Military. Especially the ships that lay at anchor, within, Pearl Harbor proper.

The Imperial Japanese Naval Force had certainly used the advantage of early morning, the mountains, the bright sunlight, and of course complete deception to strike, to rain death and destruction on Pearl Harbor Naval Base, Ford Island Naval Airbase, Hickam Field Army Airbase, Kaneohe Naval Airbase, Bellows Field Airbase and numerous other military bases. Even dropping two bombs on the city.

I need not tell again, the total destruction that was rained down on our service installations this day.

Lone Star Santas Back At Work

It's hard to be a child and wonder if you'll be forgotten once again this holiday season. Thanks to Lone Star Santas, many deserving children in Muleshoe will remember this holiday season as an exciting, happy time.

Lone Star Santas is a non-profit organization whose goal is to collect and distribute new toys through established community organizations to children throughout Texas. Bank of America Texas is the primary sponsor of Lone Star Santas.

During the past ten years, Lone Star Santas has given new toys to almost 250,000 children throughout Texas through more than 300 charitable organizations. The toys are given to community organizations serving children in need such as child abuse shelters, orphanage, hospitals, battered women's shelters and children's homes.

The branches of Bank of America Texas serve as collection points for the toys. Each branch of Bank of America Texas chooses a charity or charities serving children within their own communities to receive the toys. In Muleshoe, new, unwrapped toys may be dropped off at the Bank of America branch located at 304 Main Street, between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. on Friday. Toys will be collected through Christmas Eve.

"This is our 11th year for helping kids' dreams come true and letting them know that someone out there cares about them," said Bank of America Branch Manager Rubie Craft. Even though Lone Star Santas has been extremely successful, it's never enough. There are always more children who may receive nothing unless everyone pitches in. Giving to these kids teaches you the true meaning of Nor to tell the number of deaths, to our service personnel. This has been told and retold many many times, since.

I just want to remind each and everyone of you, that are enjoying your freedom, the honor of living in this great country of ours, irregardless of your race, color or creed, that we must never again be caught in an unguarded moment by anyone or anywhere. I will always remember, not just on this day, but everyday of my life, seeing the fear, shock, the pain, misery and disbelief on the faces of young men, lying wounded, burned beyond recognition, faces in death, young men with gaping wounds burned flesh, hanging from bodies with its sickening smell from the bombs, the torpedoes, the burning decks of ships, caused by Japanese war planes. I can never forget the terrible blast of the USS Arizona, when it exploded, wounding and killing many service men. Nor can I forget the explosions that racked my own ship, the USS West Virginia, nor the sinking and capsizing of the USS Oklahoma, directly at our bow, nor seeing many other ships burning and sinking in the Harbor this day. What was a sight to behold, as the ships at anchor lay in Battleship Row, were now burning as an inferno.

National Government Auction To Be Held Dec. 9

I can never forget and maybe never forgive this day. Remember and appreciate this country as it is today. You can travel this world over, and never find the "Freedoms" you have here. Believe me, I HAVE BEEN THERE.

computer equipment, and household furniture.

Winners of the 1993 Denius-UIL Award

Ten University Interscholastic League (UIL) sponsors in extracurricular activities, three in athletics, have been selected as winners of the 1993 Denius-UIL Sponsor Excellence Award, UIL Director Bailey Marshall announced.

A panel of judges selected the ten winners from a field of 91 nominees submitted by school principals and superintendents from across the state. The ten winners will each receive a $1,000 check from the UIL.

In its third year, the Denius-UIL Sponsor Excellence Award seeks to highlight the contribution of sponsors to UIL scholastic competition. The award was created to identify and recognize outstanding sponsors who assist students in developing and refining their extracurricular talents to the highest degree possible within the educational system while helping them to keep their personal worth separate from their success or failure in competition.

The winners of the award are Tony Clines, band director at Robinson High School; Milton Pullen, choir director at Clear Creek High School; Rodney Klett, band director at Georgetown High School; Dow Tate, journalism sponsor at Dallas Hillcrest High School; Brenda Stelzel, journalism, keyboarding and accounting sponsor at East Bernard High School; Edward Zamora, one-act play and speech & debate sponsor at La Feria High School; Mary Nabers, literary director at Blanco High School; Garland Nichols, boys' basketball coach at South Garland High School; Lucy Haug, girls' basketball coach at Plano East Senior High School; Bob McQueen, athletic director and head football coach at Temple High School.

Garland Nichols has coached basketball for 25 years and is currently the boys' basketball coach at South Garland High School. Nichols has been named district coach of the year 15 times and currently serves as president of the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches. His teams have advanced to the UIL state basketball tournament three years, the regional basketball tournament seven times and a total of 20 post-season playoffs 20 appearances. Thirteen of Nichols' students at South Garland received college scholarships and 90 percent of his players have gone to college.

Lucy Haug of Plano East High School is in her 17th year of teaching and coaching girls' basketball. Haug has conducted summer basketball camps, coached at collegiate basketball camps, served on the All-Region Girls' Selection Committee as the Texas High School Girl's Coaches Association and been selected coach of the year in 1988-89, 1991-92, and 1992-93 while at Plano East High School. A total of 79 players at Plano East have received honors under the leadership of Haug. In addition, she has coached five teams to the playoffs.

Have A Nice Day
