Mental Patients Roam After Fire Guts Dormitory
KNOXVILLE, Tenn., May 19 (UP) — Eleven of the 152 mental patients who ran screaming from their blazing dormitory here last night were still roaming the county today, authorities said, after a search of the ruins disclosed no burned bodies.

A nose count of patients from the fire-gutted Eastern State Mental Hospital's farm dormitory today showed 11 of the male inmates missing, Supervisor L. O. Campbell said.
"They must be wandering around in the vicinity," Campbell said. "After searching the ruins we feel positively sure that none of the inmates died in the fire."

Police and firemen had rounded up all the other white and blue-overalled inmates by midnight last night, but early today they reported no trace of the 11 missing men.

TWO KILLED AS TORNADOES MOVE INTO SEVERAL SOUTHWEST STATES

Storm-stricken communities in four southwest states counted two persons dead and an undetermined number of injuries today as a result of slashing tornadoes and several hail and rainstorms.

A twister which battered four small communities in southeast Missouri late yesterday afternoon was fatal to 11-day-old Sammy K. Stewart on his farm home four miles northwest of Parma.

The range of the intense wind and electrical storm included parts of Nebraska where one man was a victim of lightning. Dead was Walter Kinney, near Campbell.

The Parma storm took a toll of injured, including Sammy Stewart's sister, Norma, and aunt, Lorthy Stewart. They were reported in serious condition in Popular Bluff, Mo. Other seriously hurt at Parma included Mrs. Earline Neal Lula McCase, 75, and Neal Schuemyer, 35.

The same twister smashed two warehouses at the Malden, Mo., Air Base damaged farm property.

Olden Marine Now On Guam

GUAM, M. I. — Headquarters, First Provisional Marine Brigade, Marine Private First Class Richard M. Hall, son of Mrs. and Mr. George Hall, Box 5, Olden, Tex., arrived recently on Guam from the United States.

Private First Class Hall is now stationed on Guam, serving with the First Provisional Marine Brigade, a streamlined combat unit of the Fleet Marine Force.

A former student of Olden High School, he enlisted in the Marine Corps on July 7, 1948. Private First Class Hall underwent "boot" training at San Diego, California, and was later transferred to Treasure Island, California, for further transfer overseas.

Stanley Stephens, Gerald Wingate To Go To Boy's State June 5-12

Stanley Stephens and Gerald Wingate, Jr., students of Eastland High School, were selected by the Eastland American Legion Dalmatian Post Thursday night to go to Boy's State in Austin, June 5-12, it was announced by George J. Lane, sergeant-at-arms of the Post.

County Judge P. L. Crowsley headed a committee to make the selection. The Post will defray all expenses to send the youths to Boy's state, where practical knowledge of state government will be learned.

Selections were made from the American History students of the Junior class.

Stanley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stephens, has been drum major for the Maverick band the at Berniff, and hammered Fisk, Mo., furiously.

Wind estimated at 75 miles per hour velocity battered Fisk near Popular Bluff, damaging almost every house in the town. No injuries were reported, though some of the houses were demolished.

Some 300 students were ushered into the basement of the Fisk school by two teachers and all escaped injury as the storm hammered the building. Damages to the structure were estimated at $20,000.

The roof of the school was torn off and nearly every window smashed.

Fairbairn Rites Held Locally

Graveside services were held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Eastland Cemetery for Rawleigh Fairbairn Jr., 35, of Odessa, and a former resident of Eastland, who died suddenly Monday night of a heart attack.

The local services were in charge of the Eastland Masonic Lodge, with the Rev. J. M. Bond, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiating. Interment was under direction of Hamner Funeral Home.

Fairbairn was associated with his father in operating the City Electric Company in Odessa. The family moved from Eastland, where they operated the City Electric Co., about 17 years ago. Fairbairn was graduated from Eastland High School and was in the service during World War II.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rawleigh Fairbairn Sr., and his wife, all of Odessa; aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Day (Mrs. Fairbairn Sr. is a sister of Mrs. Day), and a cousin, Mrs. E. R. Townsend, all of Eastland.

Quartet To Give Concert Tonight

The Kendrick Quartet of Eastland will give a concert tonight in the May High School auditorium, under sponsorship of the Senior class.

A Fisk druggist, Frank Grisley, said there were two "terrific puffs" of wind. One of them blew away a store across the street from him.

Grisley estimated damages in Fisk would total $100,000.

Across the bottom of the state in the southwest corner, Poplin was pounded by large hailstones, reportedly as big as baseballs. The barrage lasted a half hour and caused extensive damage to automobiles and windows.

The hail was blamed indirectly for serious injuries suffered by R. H. Hodson, Kansas City Mo., who drove his car into the side of a freight train at Carl Junction, Mo., on the Missouri-Kansas line near Joplin.

Joplin's storm was the second in a single day. Earlier it was lashed on the westside by a tornado which damaged four cabins, a hotel and a restaurant in a large park.

The storm's fury in Oklahoma was felt most in Washington County, where the farm house of Walter Brown near Wann was partly destroyed. Brown's five-year-old daughter was in the house but escaped injury.

The Oklahoma twister was sighted at Bartlesville, Dewey and Barnshall before it swooped down on the Brown farm.

Kansas was hit, too. A windstorm caused damages estimated at several thousand dollars at Chetopa in Labette County. One building was unroofed and the glass front of several stores blown in.

Four buildings were flattened on the Frankie Albertini farm southwest of Chetopa with damages expected to exceed $5,000. The storm was accompanied by a two-inch rain.

Rutledge On Stand After Wife's Testimony

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia. May 20 (UP)—Dr. Robert C. Rutledge was called to the witness stand in his murder trial today to tell what happened in the Cedar Rapids hotel room where his wife's alleged seducer was stabbed to death Dec. 14.

The 28-year old St. Louis baby specialist was called shortly after his honey-blond wife, Sydney, 23, had been recalled for brief cross-examination.

She said she could see "on looking back on it" that she may have thought she was "to blame" in the death of Byron C. Hattman, 29.

Prosecutor William Crisman asked Mrs. Rutledge whether she told police after her husband's arrest in St. Louis Dec. 17 that "she had not resisted" when Hattman allegedly seduced her in the Rutledge apartment. He asked her if she had told police that "she was as much to blame as Hattman."

"I don't remember what I did say, but on looking back on it I can see that I may have thought I was to blame," she replied. "I was feeling very foolish to have gone out with him in the first place, and I may have thought it was my fault for being so gullible."

The prosecution charges that Rutledge killed Hattman, an engineer employed by the same firm where Mrs. Rutledge worked, to avenge her alleged seduction last July. The defense contends Rutledge acted in self defense during a fight in which Hattman pulled a knife.

Some Response For Flood Victims Made Locally—But Not Enough

Some response was made, but not near enough, to an appeal made Thursday by Cecil Holfield, owner of Holfield's Firestone Dealer Store, 111 West Main Street, and the Eastland Telegram for donations to Fort Worth flood victims.

About 25 packages had been picked up by Holfield's this morning, consisting of wearing apparel and bedding. No food had been given.

Persons who will contribute to the relief of the 13,000 victims of the Fort Worth flood disaster are asked to phone 102 and a truck will be sent to your house to pick up the gift.

Holfield stated pick ups will be made on Sunday also, and it is hoped to secure enough donations for two truck loads to be sent.

Several calls were received from Cisco and neighboring communities and trucks will be sent to pick these up, Holfield stated.

No organized relief has been set up for the 13,000 people made homeless by the Fort Worth flood and any gifts from Eastland County people would be appreciated.

Breckenridge responded magnificently to the appeal, with two vans of clothing, food and bedding being sent Thursday afternoon. The drive was spearheaded by the Chamber of Commerce and a Breckenridge radio station.

FT. WORTH RELIEF PUMP PRESSED INTO SERVICE

FORT WORTH, Tex. May 20 (UP)—Water started coursing into Ft. Worth mains at mid-morning today as a huge motor pump rushed here from Indiana to operation at the Holly Municipal Plant.

Water department officials urged, however, that it be used only for essential needs and then sparingly. They warned, too, that all water from city mains should be boiled before using until further notice from the city health department.

Normal water production is not expected at the plant before the first of next week.

Thousands of citizens continued however, to obtain their water from distribution tanks around town supplied by tank trucks.

The city's 330,000 residents have been without a municipal water supply since Tuesday, and have been receiving rationed water from tank trucks hauling it from artesian wells to distribution points throughout the town.

The motor arrived shortly after midnight as State Police of Oklahoma and Texas escorted the speeding trailer truck bearing it from Fort Wayne, Ind., across their respective states. Workers immediately began the task of unloading and installing it.

Engineers said the motor pump would be stepped up to an output of 20,000,000 gallons today, which is 5,000,000 over normal capacity. Combined with the ancient steam pump which has been nursed along to produce 8,000,000 gallons daily the water supply is expected to be about 80 per cent of normal by tonight.

Death toll from the flood still stood at eight known dead and two others missing and presumed drowned. A woman and her three children who previously had been listed as missing turned up yesterday and was safe with a relative. She is Mrs. Candidario Salas, Mass. Intercity has continued as health authorities took precautions against possible outbreak of typhoid. All food establishment permits have been cancelled in the flood-struck areas by the city health department. New permits must be obtained before those places may reopen.

More than 40,000 typhoid shots have been given since Tuesday, and the city has started spraying of the flood-ravaged areas with DDT.

Army engineers plan to heighten by three feet the Trinity River levee around the Holly Pump Station. Temporary repairs of the smashed dikes throughout the city will begin early next week.

Houstonian To Install Powerful Radio Stations

HOUSTON, Tex., May 20 (UP)—Roy Hofheinz, onetime State Legislator and former Harris County Judge, held the distinction today of being the largest private radio station operator in the country.

The youthful attorney, still in his thirties, within two days has secured Federal Communication Commission grants to build powerful radio stations in New Orleans and Dallas. A 50,000-watt station is already under construction at Harlingen, and another application is pending for a station in San Antonio.

Hofheinz and his partner, oilman W. N. (Dick) Hooper, jointly operate station KTHI and its F-M Affiliate, KOPY, here. Also Hofheinz recently acquired WTNB in Birmingham, Ala.

Questioned about his splash in radio at a time when television jitters has gripped the industry, the energetic Hofheinz observed that T-V might be long removed from less Metropolitan areas.

"Television is no a daytime competitor of radio," he said. "And if you'll notice, the markets we have sought are large ones which justify investments. In the valley, for example, television may be as much as 10 years away."

U. S. ASKS REDS TO END AID TO GREEK REBELS

WASHINGTON, May 20 (UP)—The State Department today rejected Russia's proposals to settle the Greek civil war outside of the United Nations.

In a statement replying to Russia's terms for settling the Greek strife, the department said the United States would welcome any "bonafide effort by the Soviet Union" to settle the civil war by ending Communist support for the rebel forces.

The announcement was made shortly after President Truman conferred with his cabinet. It followed a similar rejection of the Soviet plan announced by the British foreign office.

By United Press
Britain threw cold water on Soviet proposals for a Big Three conference on Greece.

Moscow disclosed early today that Russia had suggested informally to Britain and the United States that the three powers try to settle the Greek civil war on the basis of proposals by the rebel Greek "government."

The Soviet approach included a demand that the two western powers cease all aid to Greece and withdraw all their troops. The United States and Britain promised to study the proposal, Moscow said.

But a British foreign office spokesman disclosed later that Britain has rejected the Soviet approach.

"We will take no step behind the backs of the Greek government," the spokesman said.

Had the western powers accepted the Soviet proposal, Russia intended to put the Greek question on the agenda of the Council of Foreign Ministers opening Monday in Paris.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin led London by train for the Paris meeting. He told newsmen at the station: "It's all in the lap of the Gods."

U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson is due in Paris tomorrow. The arrival time of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky was not known.

R. H. Shackford, United Press general European news manager, reported in a review of the world situation on the eve of the conference that the Russians may seek at Paris at least a truce in the global cold war.

Other foreign news included:

SHANGHAI—Chinese Communist forces all but completed the isolation of Shanghai by land and water. They were massing at or near the east bank of the Whangpoo river north of Shanghai.

PRAGUE—The archbishop of Prague complained that the Czechoslovak government has suppressed religious freedom and is censoring and halting the publication of the Catholic press.

MUNICH—The Bavaria state parliament has decided to accept the new west German constitution only if two thirds of the other German states also approve it.

RANGOON—Karen insurgents proclaimed a Karen state in an area 100 miles north of this Burmese capital.

Waltz into Darkness

BY WILLIAM IRISH

THE STORY: Several days pass and nothing happens. There are no more letters. Then on the fifth day, Bonny dresses carefully to go out. She is gone until after dark and returns home drunk. Her husband knows that the sender of the mysterious letter addressed to "Miss Mabel Greene" is now right here in town.

XXXVI

HE made no reference the following day to her liquored out, much less the greater transgression that it had encased. He waited to see if she would attempt to repeat it (in his mind some half-formed intent of following her and killing the man when he found him), but she did not. If a succeeding appointment had been made, it was not for that next day. She did not go out of the house that day, nor the day after that. Again he waited, again he held his breath, but she remained dutifully at hand. The appointment, if there was to be another, still hung fire.

Nor the next, either. The cleaning woman came, and coming down the stairs, he caught sight of them standing close together in the hall, as if they had been secretly conferring together. He thought he saw Bonny hastily fumble with her bodice, as if concealing something she had just received.

There are other ways of communicating than by the rendezvous direct, he reminded himself. Perhaps the appointment I have been dreading so has already been kept, right before my eyes, on a mere scrap of paper.

Toward the latter part of their evening meal, that same day, she became noticeably pensive. The woman, the go-between of treachery, had gone and they were alone together.

Her casual remarks, such as any meal shared by any two people is seasoned with, grew more and more infrequent. Soon she was making none at all of her own volition, only answering the ones he made. Her thoughts were obviously elsewhere.

Then, quite as insensibly as it had begun, it ended again, this abstraction.

Her eyes now saw him when they rested on him.

"Do you recall that night we quarreled?" she said, speaking softly. "You said something then about that old insurance policy you once took out when we were living on St. Louis Street. Was that true? Do you really still have it?"

"I still have it," he said inattentively. "But it has lapsed, for lack of keeping up with the payments."

"No, if the back payments were made up it would come into effect again. Not too much time has passed, I think."

"How much would be required?"

"Five hundred dollars," he answered impatiently. "Have we got that much?"

"No," she said dolefully. "But is there any harm in asking?"

She pushed her plate back. She dropped her eyes, as if he had rebuffed her, and allowed them to rest on her clasped hands. Then taking one finger in the others, she began slowly to twist and turn about the diamond ring that had been his wedding gift to her.

She shifted it this way, that, speculatively, abstractedly.

"How would one go about it? I mean if we did have the money. In what way is it done?"

"You simply send the money to New Orleans, to the insurance company. They credit the payments against the policy."

"And then the policy comes into force again?"

"The policy comes into force again," he said somewhat testily, annoyed by her persistence in clinging to the subject.

He had divined, of course, what her sudden interest was. She was entertaining a vague hope that they could borrow against it in some way, obtain money by that means.

"Could I see it?" she coaxed. "Right now? It's upstairs, somewhere, among my old papers. But it's of no value, I warn you; the payments have not been maintained."

She did not press him further. She sat there meditatively fingering the diamond on her finger, shifting it a little bit this way, a little bit that, so that it gave off sparks of brilliance in the lamplight.

SHE did not ask him for it not about it again, but remembering that she had, he set about looking for it on his own account. This was not immediately, but some two or three days later.

He couldn't find it. He looked where he'd thought he had it, first, and it wasn't there. Then he looked elsewhere, nor could he find it in any of the other places he looked, either.

It must have been lost, during their many hurried moves from place to place, in the course of busy packing and unpacking. Or else it would perhaps yet turn up, in some unlikely place he had not yet thought of looking for it.

He desisted finally, with no great concern; with, if anything, a mental shrug. Since it was worthless and could not have been borrowed against (which he thought had been the motive behind her asking about it), there was no great loss, in any case.

He did not even mention to her that he could not locate it. There was no reason to, for she, too, seemed to have forgotten her earlier interest in it, as she sat here across the table from him, idly striking and contemplating her ringless hands.

Prison System Radio Program Being Planned

HOUSTON, Tex., May 29 (UP)—A Houston radio station announced today plans for giving inmates of the State Prison system a bond with the "outside" that may aid in their adjustment of civilian life.

A new program, "thirty minutes behind the walls," will be aired over KPRC beginning June 4. Collaborating in its presentation are the State Prison System, Houston Rotarians and the radio station.

Jack Harris, general manager at KPRC, explained that prison talent will be featured, and that prisoners soon to be released will talk to the audience, tell their story and their complete background.

Listeners will be urged, Harris said, to help find these men jobs where they can once again become useful citizens.

O. B. Ellis, general manager of the Texas Prison System, has given his full endorsement and support to the program.

All Presidents of the United States have been inaugurated in either March or January, with one exception, George Washington. He was inaugurated April 30.

Keep all the stoves on the farm in a state of good repair at all times. Never fill gasoline or kerosene stoves while they are burning. And, it's safer to fill stove tanks out of doors.

The coming of warm weather emphasizes the need for prompt cooling of milk and cleanliness in production. Milk from clean, healthy cows contains few bacteria as it comes from the udder.

Second Victim Of Shooting Dies

HOUSTON, Tex., May 29 (UP)—The second victim of a shooting fray died last night in a hospital here.

Lups Garza, 47-year-old cafe operator, died of wounds received Wednesday night when Eloutheris Almaraz, 50 entered the establishment and fired.

Almaraz, in turn, was killed almost instantly by a shot fired by Felipe Flores, 31, Garza's brother-in-law. Flores has been charged with murder.

Too Many Grasshoppers

MINNEAPOLIS, (UP) T. L. Aamodt, state entomologist, said a survey indicates the grasshopper population had built up in Minnesota to a comparison with 1929 and 1930, just prior to the largest outbreak of grasshoppers in the history of the state.

The largest switchyard in the world operated by a single railroad is the Chesapeake and Ohio yard near Ashland, Ky.

Waltz into Darkness

BY WILLIAM IRISH

THE STORY: Several days pass and nothing happens. There are no more letters. Then on the fifth day, Bonny dresses carefully to go out. She is gone until after dark and returns home drunk. Harry knows that the sender of the mysterious letter addressed to "Miss Mabel Greene" is now right here in town.

XXXXV

HE made no reference the following day to her liquored out, much less the greater transgression that it had encased. He waited to see if she would attempt to repeat it (in his mind some half-formed intent of following her and killing the man when he found him), but she did not. If a succeeding appointment had been made, it was not for that next day.

She did not go out of the house that day, nor the day after that. Again he waited, again he held his breath, but she remained dutifully at hand. The appointment, if there was to be another, still hung fire.

Nor the next, either. The cleaning woman came, and coming down the stairs, he caught sight of them standing close together in the hall, as if they had been secretly conferring together. He thought he saw Bonny hastily fumble with her bodice, as if concealing something she had just received.

There are other ways of communicating than by the rendezvous direct, he reminded himself. Perhaps the appointment I have been dreading so has already been kept, right before my eyes, on a mere scrap of paper.

Toward the latter part of their evening meal, that same day, she became noticeably pensive. The woman, the go-between of treachery, had gone and they were alone together.

Her casual remarks, such as any meal shared by any two people is seasoned with, grew more and more infrequent. Soon she was making none at all of her own volition, only answering the ones he made. Her thoughts were obviously elsewhere.

Then, quite as insensibly as it had begun, it ended again, this abstraction.

Her eyes now saw him when they rested on him.

"Do you recall that night we quarreled?" she said, speaking softly. "You said something then about that old insurance policy you once took out when we were living on St. Louis Street. Was that true? Do you really still have it?"

"I still have it," he said inattentively. "But it has lapsed, for lack of keeping up with the payments."

"No, if the back payments were made up it would come into effect again. Not too much time has passed, I think."

"How much would be required?"

"Five hundred dollars," he answered impatiently. "Have we got that much?"

"No," she said dolefully. "But is there any harm in asking?"

She pushed her plate back. She dropped her eyes, as if he had rebuffed her, and allowed them to rest on her clasped hands. Then taking one finger in the others, she began slowly to twist and turn about the diamond ring that had been his wedding gift to her. She shifted it this way, that, speculatively, abstractedly.

"How would one go about it? I mean if we did have the money. In what way is it done?"

"You simply send the money to New Orleans, to the insurance company. They credit the payments against the policy."

"And then the policy comes into force again?"

"The policy comes into force again," he said somewhat testily, annoyed by her persistence in clinging to the subject.

He had divined, of course, what her sudden interest was. She was entertaining a vague hope that they could borrow against it in some way, obtain money by that means.

"Could I see it?" she coaxed.

"Right now? It's upstairs, somewhere, among my old papers. But it's of no value, I warn you; the payments have not been maintained."

She did not press him further. She sat there meditatively fingering the diamond on her finger, shifting it a little bit this way, a little bit that, so that it gave off sparks of brilliance in the lamplight.

She did not ask him for it not about it again, but remembering that she had, he set about looking for it on his own account. This was not immediately, but some two or three days later.

He couldn't find it. He looked where he'd thought he had it, first, and it wasn't there. Then he looked elsewhere, nor could he find it in any of the other places he looked, either.

It must have been lost, during their many hurried moves from place to place, in the course of busy packing and unpacking. Or else it would perhaps yet turn up, in some unlikely place he had not yet thought of looking for it.

He desisted finally, with no great concern; with, if anything, a mental shrug. Since it was worthless and could not have been borrowed against (which he thought had been the motive behind her asking about it), there was no great loss, in any case.

He did not even mention to her that he could not locate it. There was no reason to, for she, too, seemed to have forgotten her earlier interest in it, as she sat here across the table from him, idly striking and contemplating her ringless hands.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., May 29 (UP)—Six long-term prisoners at the State Prison Farm near here shot their way to freedom today.

Four other guards were overpowered. Their weapons—four automatic shotguns and three .38 caliber revolvers—were confiscated.

Five of the prisoners, described as desperate and highly dangerous, then commandeered a pickup truck and sped into Milledgeville, a few miles from the site of the break.

COLLEGE STATION—The five "S's" of poultry laying house sanitation introduce the new poultry circular recently released by extension poultry husbandmen of Texas A&M College.

Cleaning and disinfecting the poultry house and equipment makes for healthier disease-free birds. And it's one of the first important steps in getting maximum egg production. The five "S's" of laying house sanitation are scrape, sweep, scald, scrub and spray, say the extension poultry specialists.

COLLEGE STATION—"You'll get a better buy in butter if you'll look for a U. S. Graded product," Myrtle Murray, extension home marketing specialist of Texas A. & M. College points out. Today's packaged butter cannot be tasted for quality, as grandmother used to do before buying by the crock or in the bulk. The modern homemaker, however, has an even more reliable guide to quality—and that is the U. S. grade.

COLLEGE STATION—The dates for the annual 4-H Club Round-Up on the campus of Texas A. & M. College have been set for June 14 and 15. Acting Extension Director J. D. Prewitt of Texas A. & M. College announced recently.

The Round-Up is the big event of the 4-H club year in Texas. For the first time since 1940 the boys' livestock judging contests and the girls' dairy foods demonstrations will be held in conjunction with the Round-Up. Mr. Prewitt said. Contests will be held June 13.

County quotas have been set at two boys, two girls and two adult leaders, with contestants in the dairy foods demonstrations and the state 4-H dress revue over and above the quotas.

The annual conference of Texas county agricultural and home demonstration agents will follow the Round-Up on June 16 and 17.

COLLEGE STATION—Gifts and grants totaling $59,192.31 and loans of animals and equipment of unestimated value were accepted on behalf of the Texas A. & M. College system by its board of directors, in session here Saturday. Gifts and grants were made in support of research, scholarships and fellowships, while animals and equipment were loaned to the system for classroom and research use.

The bulk of the cash, $40,665.12 was for scholarships and fellowships, the greater part going to the school's Opportunity Awards program.

AUSTIN, Texas—With 14 reported cases of diphtheria within the past week, and a total of 397 cases reported in the first 19 weeks of this year, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, is urging Texas parents to have their immunized children Shick tested to determine immunity, and if inoculation is necessary, to have it done immediately.

Commercial broiler production where 5 thousand to 40 thousand broilers are produced each 10 to 12 weeks on the farm will continue to increase the sales of ready-to-cook poultry. And this tends to increase quick frozen poultry on the market and consumer acceptance if a high poultry and price ratios are favorable.

Keeping the poultry flock on full feed during the summer is important in good poultry production. Feed the layers all the laying mash they will consume.

Hitler's gas chambers and the post-war exodus to Israel have stripped eastern Europe of most of its estimated 5,000,000 pre-war Jewish population. By the end of this year less than 600,000 will remain in the "iron curtain" countries. This map gives the country-by-country figures with emigration-to-Israel quotas.

Whaley made the location for this operation last week and the Company have applied for their permit, and now all that remains is for the weather to fair up so that the machinery which is on the No. 3 location across the road can be moved in on the 40 acre tract. ## New Feature Planned For Annual Calf Scramble At Ranger Rodeo

By R. B. Thomas Jr.
Voc. Agr. Teacher
Ranger High School

The Future Farmer and 4-H club calf scramble will again be one of the feature attractions of the 1949 Ranger Round-Up Rodeo to be held July 20-23. Those who were lucky enough to witness last year's scramble will remember it as one of the most entertaining parts of the show and this year it will be even better.

The Ranger Jaycees have taken the responsibility of organizing this scramble with the objective of expanding the Dairy Industry throughout Eastland County and adjoining areas. Last year the boys scrambled for beef type steers and were required to fatten and show their calves with the understanding that all profits resulting from their project were theirs to keep. This year's scramble will be organized on much the same basis but registered Jersey heifer calves will be given away and each boy will be required to return his first female offspring to the scramble which in turn will again be given away in future scrambles. After that the original scramble calf belongs to the boy.

This program has two very commendable objectives in addition to its value as rodeo entertainment. First, it will help to encourage these farm boys towards dairying, which has long been one of the most stable farming industries, even during the most severe period of the last depression, a good milk cow or two was the farmer's best insurance against starvation and a pretty safe source of income. Second, it will help to improve the quality of dairy animals that are registered Jersey herds in the state and will cost an average of about $200 each. The boys who catch the heifers will be required to have them bred through the Eastland County Artificial Breeding Association and this will insure the maintenance and possible improvement of their fine quality.

An analysis of some of the most prosperous farming areas in Texas has shown that dairying is the most dependable source of income and even in adjoining counties of Erath and Comanche dairying plays an important part in retail business as well as farm income. Farmers in the immediate vicinity of Comanche receive more than $100,000.00 per month from the sale of milk alone, and this type of income is a great advantage to every business in that case. It is hoped that a permanent program such as this scramble will eventually develop such an industry through Eastland County.

The sponsors of last year's scramble have already shown a lot of enthusiasm to help with this year's scramble too, and several new sponsors are entering the program already. Those businesses that have already indicated that they would sponsor this scramble are: Commercial State Bank, Banner Creamery, Texas & Pacific Railway, Ranger Frozen Food Lockers, Ranger Peanut Company, Ranger Daily Times, Ratliff Feed Store, Ranger Junior College, and Ranger Jaycees. Other sponsors will be announced as the program develops.

Davis Farm In Cook Community Is Praised By George I. Lane

The Laurence Davis farm, located in the Cook community, was visited by George I. Lane, representative for the Farmers' Home Administration in Eastland County, and others Friday, May 13, in a Farm Unit Administration tour.

County Agent J. M. Cooper conducted the tour. While those making the tour were not many in number, they were rewarded by the first hand visual achievements accomplished by Mr. and Mrs. Davis, Lane stated.

"We saw at work most all the practices and recommendations that the U. S. Department of Agriculture has in the program for this county. Davis has pasture improvement projects, with a water tank in each and has permanent water for home use; soil conservation and improvements; brush eradication, stocked properly with sheep, cattle and goats; diversifies his crops; plants a rotation of crops to avoid erosion; has a well-planned farm plan; and in every word a farmer."

David Joiner And Ben Koonce Write Prize-Winning 4-H Essays

Two more of the prize-winning essays written by Eastland County 4-H Club boys in the Sears Foundation pig contest program for Eastland County follow.

Subject of the essays was "Why the Cow, Sow and Hen Is Important To Eastland County Farmers".

BY DAVID JOINER
Gorman 4-H Club Boy

"I think farming is not only a business but a way of living. When the price of peanuts is good a man can make a large profit by "selling" his farm as peanuts and hay. After a few years of this all of the good soil is washed away. So he must buy or rent another farm. This has been a bad thing for Eastland County land.

Now we like to live on the farm. So since Daddy bought our farm in this county we have helped him build up the soil. Each year our peanut field is stripped in combine maize and cow peas to hold the sand. This maize gives us grain to feed our leghorn hens. We have plenty of chickens and eggs to eat and some to sell. Maize and peanut waste feed one or two sows and their pigs. The hay we do not put back on the land helps to feed our cows.

We thresh our peanuts and maize with a combine. This leaves the hay and stalks in the field to keep the soil from blowing. The few years we have taken care of our place already show up. When we moved here our land produced no more peanuts to the acre than our neighbors, but stripping is giving us more peanuts to the acre each year. While the neighbors land which was lanted until to peanuts had blown away until their peanuts are hardly worth gathering.

Our chickens, cow, and sows also enjoy the winter cover crops of rye and legumes planted on our peanut fields each fall. These cover crops provide green food for them all winter and a nice soil building cover crop to turn under in the spring. If we count the worth to us and our land in food money and soil building the cow, sow and hen are of more real value to us than the peanuts which we consider our money crop."

The cow helps the farmer in many ways. She gives milk, cream, and butter for the family use. The surplus milk and butter can be sold on the market. The milk is also good for hogs and chickens. The calves can be sold for the market. The best heifer calves can be kept to increase the dairy or stocker herd. Some of the calves can be butchered for the family meat. The hides can be used for making shoes and other useful leather goods. It takes very little feed for the cow, if she has a good pasture to graze. The feed can be raised on the farm, and this way the cow is very little expense.

The sow is very important, because she raises about three litters of pigs a year, increasing the herd while the extras can be sold on the market. The sow also furnishes meat, lard and soap. She can be fed the waste vegetables, milk and feed. The sow is not choicy what she eats. There could not be anything but the sow that would make the farmer more money as fast as she does.

The hen is small but she scratches and does her duty until after dark, and up before daylight, cackling again. She is always on the job laying eggs for the farmer. Some of the eggs are eaten while others are sold or hatched. The chicks can be kept to increase the flock while the others can be eaten or sold on the market.

A farm would not be a successful life without the cow, sow, and the hen because while the farmer is sleeping, working or playing his faithful animals are going on with their duty raising their young offspring to make a steady income for him. So with a cow, sow and a hen a farmer has his living made and his troubles behind him."

Production Of Chicks Higher

AUSTIN, Tex., May 20 (UP)—Commercial hatcheries in Texas produced 14 per cent more chicks last month than the same period a year ago, the United States Department of Agriculture reported today.

However, the total of 12,500,000 chicks was down 5 per cent from a 1943-47 average for the month, the USDA said.

Egg production by the state's flock during April showed no change over a year ago, the department said. A 5 per cent reduction in the number of layers was offset by a corresponding increase in the rate of lay. Some 357,000,000 eggs were produced during April.

The May chick production will probably be larger than May of last year, the USDA added. Eggs in incubators on May 1 was 20 per cent larger than the same date a year ago.

New Feature Planned For Annual Calf Scramble At Ranger Rodeo

By R. B. Thomas Jr.
Voc. Agr. Teacher
Ranger High School

The Future Farmer and 4-H club calf scramble will again be one of the feature attractions of the 1949 Ranger Round-Up Rodeo to be held July 20-23. Those who were lucky enough to witness last year's scramble will remember it as one of the most entertaining parts of the show and this year it will be even better.

The Ranger Jaycees have taken on the responsibility of organizing this scramble with the objective of expanding the Dairy industry throughout Eastland County and adjoining areas. Last year the boys scrambled for beef type steers and were required to fatten and show their calves with the understanding that all profits resulting from their project were theirs to keep. This year's scramble will be organized on much the same basis but registered jersey heifer calves will be given away and each boy will be required to return his first female offspring to the scramble which in turn will again be given away in future scrambles. After that the original scramble calf belongs to the boy.

This program has two very commendable objectives in addition to its value as rodeo entertainment. First, it will help to encourage these farm boys towards dairying, which has long been one of the most stable farming industries; even during the most severe period of the last depression, a good milk cow or two was the farmer's best insurance against starvation and a pretty safe source of income. Second, it will help to improve the quality of dairy animals that are registered Jersey herds in the state and will cost an average of about $200 each. The boys who catch the heifers will be required to have them bred through the Eastland County Artificial Breeding Association and this will insure the maintenance and possible improvement of their fine quality.

An analysis of some of the most prosperous farming areas in Texas has shown that dairying is the most dependable source of income and even in adjoining counties of Erath and Comanche dairying plays an important part in retail business as well as farm income. Farmers in the immediate vicinity of Comanche receive more than $100,000.00 per month from the sale of milk alone, and this type of income is a great advantage to every business in that case. It is hoped that a permanent program such as this scramble will eventually develop such an industry through Eastland County.

Lane declared more people should make these tours and determine who is setting the pace for better farming in Eastland County.

All other farms and farmers visited in the tour are likewise doing yeoman jobs in farming, he stated.

4-H Camp To Be Held June 27-28

The dates for the Annual Five County 4-H Club Camp at Lake Cisco have been set for June 27 and 28, according to J. M. Cooper, Eastland County Agent.

Approximately 150 club boys from Palo Pinto, Stephens, Shackelford, Callahan and Eastland Counties will participate in the two day camp which is an annual affair, it was said.

Other agents participating are Ralph Lindsey, Palo Pinto; W. R. Lane, Breckenridge; W. C. Vines, Albany; O. F. West, Baird, besides Cooper and W. E. Steele, Jr., assistant agent in Eastland County. The agents met recently to plan the camp.

The camp will be recreational in nature with swimming, baseball, boxing, pole pillow fighting and others events scheduled for the two day affair.

A. E. Callender, Wildlife Specialist from A. & M. College Extension Service has been invited to appear on the program.

Bacon-Cheese Buns

Give finger buns a filling of cheese and a bacon wrap, and grill or bake to make delicious picnic sandwiches.

Here is a different way to use those frankfurter buns the youngsters like so well.

Fill buttered buns with a thick, but narrow strip of American cheese, wrap with bacon and grill in an outdoor fireplace or in the oven. Serve with a crisp carrot and cabbage slaw and milk.

Let the youngsters fix bacon-cheese buns for their lunch now that school is out and they are always asking, "Mother, what can I do?" You can point out a lesson in nutrition, too, for the enriched buns are an important source of B-vitamins and food iron, making buns a perfect supplement to calcium and protein in the cheese.

Bacon-cheese buns are a good flavor combination and an easy-to-prepare luncheon. Next time you stop at your bakeshop, get a supply of enriched finger buns to make a quick meal.

They'll Catch Up

WHEELING, W. Va. (UP)—A false-alarm addict has been bragging about his feats to local firemen. When they answered a false call, a note on the alarm box said, "This is my tenth false alarm and you haven't caught me yet. Ha! Ha!"

SHOES That Laugh At Oil and Grease

That's right—non-slip Neoprene soles are oil proof—waterproof—shock proof—acid proof—grease proof. They're made of the same Dupont Neoprene you see every day in gas-line and oil hoses—and when you get the heel-toe comfort of the Charles Chester Air Cushion Innersole* and Neoprene soles and heels in a semi-cross shoe for both work and street wear—Man, you've really got yourself a shoe. Factory-to-you prices only $8.50 and $9.95.
