confiscate and prosecute

By Will Wilson District Attorney, Dallas County

(Editor's Note: This is one of series of short case histories, all taken from court records showing how legal loopholes often enable criminals to escape punishment in Texas. Will Wilson, of Dallas is chairman of a special steering committee of the State Bar, which is working for revis ion of the antiquated Criminal Code and Code of Criminal Procedure in order to eliminate these loopholes.)

The Big Boss of the slot machine racket in one of Texas' lar ger cities where gambling is prevalent was very unhappy when law enforcement officers raided warehouse and confiscated 150 of his one-armed bandits. He was indicted for keeping and exhibiting slot machines for the purpose of gambling.

But when the Big Boss came to trial he was happy, for he gained a prompt acquittal. The Texas law prohibiting slo machines provides that the chines must be actually exhibited and accessible to players before there is a violation of the law. It was held that the slot machines stored in the warehous were not being used or exhibited, and thus the law was not viola-are all bound up together. The family who keeps adequately insured is not only wise but thrifty since insurance provides protection for the thrifty dollar. If loss occurs in the household of the uninsured his life's savings may be wiped out, but not so with the insured man. To be thrifty and wise, be insured. And the less we have the more it is a part of wisdom to guard against financial destruction.
