Vacancies For Recruit Salesmen

A number of vacancies exist for recruiting salesmen, for assignment to duty in the US Army and US Air Force, Texas Recruiting District area S-Sgt. Chas. H. Brannon Recruiting Sgt. of the Eastland Recruiting Station, announced today.

These vacancies will be filled from applicants whose last previous service was in the Air Force, who possess the following prerequisites:

Efficiency and character rating of excellent or higher; have performed a minimum of 3 years of service with a rank of grade four or above, last discharge being within the past three years; be qualified for general service; and be able to attain a minimum sales adaptability score of 190 on a test to be administered to otherwise qualified applicants.

S-Sgt. Brannon emphasized the fact that, since recruiting personnel are the sole representatives of the Army and Air Force in many localities, all applicants accepted for enlistment for duty assignment in the recruiting service must be of the highest caliber.

It has been the experience of the Recruiting Service that a direct relationship exists between the appearance, bearing, and conduct of the recruiting salesman and the quality and quantity of recruits enlisted.

Applications will be accepted at the US Army and US Air Force Recruiting Station, located at Eastland Sgt. Brannon concluded.

No Protest On Ranger Planned By Eastland

A rumor originating in Hamilton, that Eastland and Dublin were filing a protest with Interstate League officials against Ranger for "alleged spring practice with Ranger Junior College football boys" was flatly denied this morning by Head Coach Wendell Siebert of Eastland.

Siebert said it sounded like wishful thinking to him and that Eastland had made no such protest, nor contemplated such a protest. The coach said, however, he was not advised what action, if any, was planned by Dublin.

17 Jersey Calves To Be Given Eastland County Youths Dec. 10

Seventeen registered Jersey heifer calves will be awarded to as many Eastland County 4-H and FFA club boys in Eastland Saturday, Dec. 10, Theo Lamb, chairman of Eastland County Dairy Association committee, stated at the Tuesday noon luncheon of the Eastland Lions Club.

The calves were recently purchased from a herd at Tyler, with delivery expected in the near future. The animals will be housed and fed until presentation to the boys. Lamb stated.

The committee attended the awarding of 34 heifers at Cleburne, Johnson County, last Friday, where the program originated nine years ago to further the dairy industry of the county through the youths.

Under provisions of the plan, boys who receive one of the heifers must furnish another heifer to the program before he becomes sole owner of the animal. Purchase of the original heifers was made possible through donations by various organizations, business firms and private citizens.

which they were blindfolded and hit each other over the head with rolled newspapers, resulted in a tie.

Mrs. Sidney E. Seale had the most original hat. Day won a big cigar for being the fattest man present. Mrs. Johnnie Hart was the best "husband caller" in the cracker eating-whistling contest, Charles Collins was winner for the boys and Betty Walker for the girls. Mrs. Hubert Westfall was the fastest talking lady present.

One of the most hilarious stunts was a contest between I. C. Inzer and H. H. Hardeman, in which they were required to dress in ladies clothes.

Proceeds from the entertainment will be used by the Quarterback Club for its projects to provide recreation for Eastland's young people.

THREATENS 2ND WALKOUT OF UNION NOVEMBER 30

Observers Believe Steel Strike May End As Early As Friday, Nov. 11

BY ALFRED LEECH
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Nov. 9 (UP) — John L. Lewis, United Mine Union Chief, today unexpectedly ordered all striking miners in the Bituminous coal field to return to work immediately but threatened a new walkout Nov. 30.

The order affected 380,000 UMW members east of the Mississippi River who have been on strike since Sept. 19. The strike now is in its 52nd day.

Lewis and his 200-man policy committee, in a resolution passed unanimously, ordered the UMW members to continue work until midnight, Nov. 30, under the terms, wages and conditions of employment in effect under the wage agreement which expired July 1, 1949.

Lewis' order did not stipulate whether miners would go back on a three-day or five-day work week. But the contract which expired July 1, and on terms of which the miners return, did not specify how many days a week miners should work and presumably they could return only on a three-day week.

A union statement, believed to have been written for the most part by Lewis, said the back-to-work order was "an act of good faith designed to contribute to public convenience."

However, informed sources interpreted Lewis' action as "beating the administration to the punch." Federal Mediator Cyrus S. Ching has summoned Lewis and the Bituminous mine operators to a meeting in Washington tomorrow in an attempt to end the walkout. If that meeting failed, President Truman could be expected to act.

Observers said that when Lewis orders the miners back to work he is free to call them out again. But he would be hampered in a strike call if the men were ordered back by injunction.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 9 (UP) — Settlement of the CIO United Steel workers 40 day strike against giant U. S. Steel Corp. by Friday was foreseen today.

The corporation announced its negotiations "probably" will meet with the union tomorrow. Simultaneously CIO President Philip Murray called his 170-man policy committee to meet here Friday.

The moves were regarded as preliminary to an agreement which would virtually end the steel strike. Already three of "Big Steel" principle competitors have made peace with the union and a fourth was expected to sign momentarily.

Murray customarily calls the union's policy committee only when he has an important decision to lay before them. The committee has not been in session since the strike against the basis steel companies was called Oct. 1.

Both the union and big steel announcements were terse. Neither side would elaborate. But industry observers confidently predicted that the stage was set for the final in the long struggle of the union for company-financed $100 a month pensions.

At Union Headquarters, Murray was ready to put an end to the strike of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company's 20,000 workers. It is the nation's fifth largest producer.

Republic Steel and Jones & Laughlin met the unions terms yesterday to swell the number of workers now covered by the union's welfare program to 137,000.

Almost simultaneously with the U. S. Steel's announcement United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis said he would accept the settlement.

Public's Cooperation Requested By Post Office In Xmas Mailing

Cooperation of the public in preparation and early mailing of greetings and gifts parcels for Christmas, has been requested by E. E. Layton, Eastland postmaster.

Layton stated handling of Christmas mails is a tremendous task, and there is every reason to believe the volume this year will be as heavy or even heavier than in prior years.

Mails are requested to keep in mind the following pointers as a guide:

1. The time limit for mailing Christmas parcels overseas with assurance of their being delivered by Christmas is November 15.
2. Prepay postage fully on all mail matter.
3. Unsealed printed greeting cards which have heretofore been mailed for 1-2 cents now require 2 cents, except cards addressed for overseas which must be sealed and bear 3 cents postage.
4. Save time by buying stamps in advance of the rush period.
5. All mail matter must be well packed and wrapped, plainly addressed, preferably in ink.

Amendments Defeated In Precinct 1

All ten proposed amendments to the state constitution, voted upon in an election held Tuesday, were defeated in Precinct One of Eastland, with 216 votes cast, according to an unofficial report by Walter Gray, election judge.

E. J. Woodard of Sweetwater, only candidate for the State Board of Education, 17th congressional district, received 214 votes.

Patrons having a large number of greeting cards to deposit are URGED to tie them in bundles with addresses all faced one way before mailing to facilitate their handling in the post office.

Dogies Play Final Game Tonight Here With Strong Dublin Team

In their final game of the season, the Eastland Junior High Dogies will play a return battle with Dublin tonight at 7:30 o'clock on Maverick Field.

The Dogies will be gunning for a victory against the strong Dublin delegation, which handed them a setback 26-6, earlier in the season.

Cocher Joe Williams urges citizens to really turn out and support the Dogies in their last game this year. Proceeds will be used to buy badly needed equipment and this is the only means which the team can raise funds.

Student Dies Of Turpentine Burns

STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 9. (UP)—Turpentine, mistaken for water during a "playful fight" in a college boarding house, resulted in the death of a New Mexico student when the inflammable liquid ignited. Bernard Freeburg, 21, Lordsburg, N. M., suffered burns on three fourths of his body yesterday when a classmate, Edgar Huxley, Blackwell, Okla., tossed a jar of turpentine at him during a water fight. Freeburg died a few hours later. The Oklahoma A&M students were scuffling and Freeburg ran into a bathroom, Huxley said. When the New Mexico youth threw water, Huxley picked up what he thought was a jar of water and pitched it toward Freeburg.

The "water" proved to be turpentine and ignited when it splashed a gas heater.

Just Sleepy
MT. CLEMENS, Mich. (UP)—The sheriff's department cruised Lake St. Clair for four hours looking for a "boat drifting with two bodies in it." The boat was located finally but the "bodies" turned out to be two sleepy fishermen who had lain down for an afternoon's nap.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—Bang's disease costs the livestock industry $100,000,000 annually, W. M. Coffee, president-elect of the American Veterinarians Medical Association, estimates.

BLASTS "BIG STEEL"
James W. Gerard of New York, a powerful stockholder in U. S. Steel, gave unexpected support to striking steelworkers. Gerard criticized the company's failure to grant industry-paid insurance and pensions as "a disservice to the employees, the shareholders and the country." Gerard, who was ambassador to Germany in World War I, said he holds more U. S. Steel stock than the majority of the firm's board.

Query Continued In Death Of Ft. Worth Man

FORT DAVIS, Tex., Nov. 9, (UP)—Sheriff Tom Gray today sought aid of State authorities as he continued an investigation into the apparently accidental death of Clyde Burns, a Fort Worth automobile dealer.

Gray said he would leave for Austin today, taking with him two deer rifles. He hoped, he said, that laboratory tests would determine if the fatal shot that killed Burns on Monday was fired from either gun.

It would be at least three days, he said, before the investigation was completed.

Someone to Love

By IRENE LONNEN ERNHART Copyright, 1949, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Jenny's marriage to Tod Benson has been unhappy because Tod cannot forget his Conover, who killed him before his marriage. Even the arrival of twin sons fail to bring the happiness together. One bright spot for Jenny is Tod's old friend Rick in Harris, but Tod suspects Rick is in love with Jenny. Jim meanwhile has divorced Jim Conover, with whom she slept; and is setting her up for a cocktail party on the same day Jimmy meets Rick on the street and invites him to see basement apartment for dinner. Tod comes home late, very unsteady.

TOD had been drinking quite a lot. He was very gay and effusive, especially when he saw Rick. He kept saying, "I had to work late. That's my story and I'm going to stick to it. And if Jenny doesn't like it, you can cheer her up."

Between the two of them they got him to bed, and as he drowsed off he was still muttering about Rick being the one to "love her and take care of her."

"I don't know what to say, Rick," Jenny whispered as they cleared off the table later.

Rick looked at her gravely. "You don't have to say anything. 'I don't think Tod's happy!' The words tumbled over one another in her eagerness to make excuses. 'He doesn't care too much for his job, and we're in debt, his mother's sick, and—well, things keep piling up. But I'm sure everything will be straightened out.'"

"Of course, Jenny," Jenny's eyes fell away from his. She twisted a paper napkin into a ball in her palm. "I'm especially ashamed of Tod for saying the things he did. He'll be ashamed too, tomorrow."

There was a queer look on Rick's face as he stared at her for an instant, as though he were about to say something. He didn't speak, but Jenny knew all at once that Tod was right, and Nina had been right. Jenny said, herself had been incredibly stupid and blind. Rick was in love with her!

Tod awakened the next morning bewildered and contrite. She was pouring his coffee when he came out all shaved and ready to go to the office. "I hope I wasn't too obnoxious last night, Jenny."

"You weren't." She tried to smile.

"I remember saying something about—"

"Forget it," Jenny said. "All of it." She poured her own coffee and set the pot back on the stove.

"I can't remember much what happened after I left the party," "Party?" She dropped her spoon in the saucer. It made a loud clatter in the stillness.

He gulped his coffee down and then looked at her. "You'll probably find out sooner or later anyway, so I might as well tell you. I went to a cocktail party at the Conover Agency. It was a special shindig for a client. A big shot."

JENNY felt a little numb. Or maybe she hadn't wakened up enough yet to grasp what he was saying.

He stood up and reached for his hat, from the top of the icebox where someone had put it the night before. "We had quite a time. There were even reporters there and photographers. That's why I thought I might as well tell you. They might sort of play me up a little on account of my football career." He flushed as he gave her a quick goody peck on the cheek.

"You mean you wouldn't have told me, except that I'd probably see the pictures and read about it in the paper?"

"Why—of course I'd have told you." He turned his hat over in his hands. "Why should I try to hide anything. After all, Liz invited you too."

"Oh—Liz." There was a long frigid pause.

The Fort Worth man, hunting alone on the Walter McElroy ranch in the Davis mountains, was found dead. Some 20 other hunters were reported on the ranch at the time.

However, the sheriff said only two deer hunters were believed in Burns' vicinity at the time he was killed. Gray said he had talked with both men. Both denied having seen Burns.

"If either of them shot him, I'm convinced they thought they were shooting at a deer," Gray said.

THREATENS—

L. Lewis called off the strike of the nation's soft coal mines. This gives new impetus to the drive for a steel settlement by assuring, at least for a period, coal for the steel mill fires.

The peace pattern set by Bethlehem in Cleveland a week ago was fully expected to bring Giant U. S. Steel Corp. and Inland Steel Co. in line soon.

Government labor officials, elated over the quick breakup of the strike, said the price-meal settlements eliminated the possibility of a national emergency.

The Bethlehem and J&J agreement differed slightly in the language of the contract, but both granted company-paid minimum pensions of $100-a-month for 25-year men at 65 years of age and five-cent an hour insurance programs, financed equally by management and the employees.

Republic alone had no previous pension plan for hourly-paid workers but has an insurance program to which its 55,000 employees will continue to contribute 3-1/2 cents an hour. The company will contribute 2-1/2 cents an hour.

New Mexico ranks second in the production of zinc in the western states.

"I knew you couldn't go on account of the kids, and—"
"Go on. You knew I didn't have the proper clothes either, that if I went you'd be ashamed of me."
"Jenny, for heaven's sake, don't be so dramatic. If I'd have thought you cared about going we could have got a sitter and managed a new dress."

She stood unmoving listening to the slam of the front door after him, and then his footsteps going up the stairs. One of the babies awakened and began to cry. She moved toward the sound automatically.

So Liz had asked Tod to the party, and he had gone, without telling her anything about it at all.

Tod phoned at 2 o'clock, his voice strained. "Jenny, I'm darned sorry about last night, and about the things I said this morning too. It's been on my mind all day."

"When she didn't say anything because she couldn't, he went on. 'Jenny, are you there? Did you hear what I said?'
"Yes."
"And listen, I'll be home early, because I've got great news."

SHE was still apathetic after Tod had told her his "great news."
"But Jenny, you don't seem at all excited. Think what it will mean."
"I am thinking."

He took hold of her shoulders and gave her a little shake. "If you're worried about me getting mixed up with Liz, just because I'm going into the Conover firm, you're being silly. Why, this is the chance of a lifetime!"

"We'll look for a house to buy, a suburban, where the kids can have plenty of fresh air and sun. And we'll buy a car. Gosh, won't it be swell to have a car again! Gee whizz, Jenny, you know when Conover called me over there this afternoon and made me this proposition, the first thing I thought was, 'Now Jenny and I and the kids can really begin to live—like other people! No more basements and skimping. I can pay up that nursing home and get Ma back into a decent place.'"

DETROIT, (UP)—Walter J. Burnett was granted a divorce when he testified that his wife, Eileen, consumed his beer and liquor while he was at work, and in 350 B. C. the famed Greek physician, Hippocrates, "Father of Medicine," used a leather-soled boot in the treatment of club-foot.

OWOSSO, Mich. (UP)—An English setter and a fawn have become great friends here. The two became acquainted when the setter discovered the little fawn in a thicket. Since then they have been close companions, emerging from the woods twice a day, to take food from a tavern owner.

American Art Week Observed In Las Leales Club Program, Monday

"Delight of Living" was the title of a program given Monday night at Las Leales Club in observance of American Art Week, November 1-7, sponsored by American Artists Professional League and General Federation of Women's Clubs.

"Echoes of Yesteryear" was given by Miss Verna Johnson, who exhibited 30-year-old copies of the once-popular Godey's Ladies' Book. These issues, published before the War Between the States and now preserved in bound volumes, are the property of Mrs. Jno. W. Turner. Taking her material from the small pages and fine type of this and another old magazine, "Peterson's", Miss Johnson painted a vivid picture of cultural life of nearly a century ago. Her talk covered fashions of that day, recipes and menus, etiquette, and contemporary reviews of literary works by such authors as Hawthorne and Poe, closing with a colorful biography of the editor of Godey's Sarah Josepha Hale, well-known feminist of her time.

"Flair for the Modern," a contrasting picture, was given by Mrs. W. Q. Verner, who spoke on the life and works of two modern artists in their respective fields, Madame Elsa Schiaparelli, world-famous French designer, and Grandma Moses, 90-year-old American artist whose fresh and simple landscapes have brought her fame within the past decade.

Mrs. Prentiss Jones, hostess for the meeting at the Woman's Club introduced the program with a quotation from Platen: "The more things thou learnest to know and to enjoy, the more complete and full will be for thee the delight of living."

The two fourth grades at South Ward will present the second of afternoon programs Thursday of the South Ward Book Fair in recognition of Education week, Nov. 7 to 12, and Children's Literature Week, Nov. 14th to 19th.

The program will be given at 2 P. M. in the auditorium of the South Ward School for their parents and friends.

"One String Fiddle" by Eric Berry will be given in pantomime to music.

"The Lavender Cat" will be given as a film on a screen of a miniature theatre. Pictures from the book have been drawn and colored by the students and fastened together in queue to form the film.

Some from the book, "Some Folks Say" by Stephen Foster and a song "I Can't Do That Sum" from the book, "Babes in Toyland," by Victor Herbert.

There will be displays of other books in the halls. Children have illustrated many of them in art crafts, clay modeling, and posters, each of which will be explained by the child who did each piece.

The public is invited this will be a good opportunity for parents and friends of children to select books for the library or for gifts.

The Bruins yesterday devoted most of their practice session to working against the Wyoming single wing formation.

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 9 (UP)—The absence of two tackles from regular practice today brought a shower of pessimistic comment from Southern Methodist Coach Matty Bell.

Tackle Bob Vann was out for the season and Bob Collier worked without pads but was slated to be ready to play against Arkansas here Saturday.

The Ponies worked on defense yesterday against Razorback play "They looked terrible," Bell said.

Meyer had hoped to have the Horned Frogs in near top-notch condition for the Texas game at Austin Saturday.

Missing practice yesterday were guards Dick Lowe, Milton Farmer, and Bill Willingham; tackles Harold Kilman and Clarence Marable, and linebacker Keith Flowers.

All the missing men were injured, except Kilman who was at the bedside of his sick mother.

States Argue Against Federal Tideland Control

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9, (UP)—Louisiana and Texas argued today that the Federal Government's powers of regulation apply to "marginal" waters of the Gulf of Mexico, but not to ownership of the oil land beneath it.

In a statement prepared for the Supreme Court, Louisiana said regulatory power and title are two different things. The Federal Government, it said, has the first but not the second.

The states were required to file replies to the Justice Department's suit over control of the so-called "marginal sea" among their coastline. In the case of Texas the U. S. claims lands stretching to the edge of the continental shelf. In the Louisiana suit, the limit is 27 miles out into the Gulf.

Atty. Gen. Bolivar E. Kemp, Jr., of Louisiana and Price Daniel of Texas conceded that they had granted leases in the area to oil companies. But they said this constituted no conflict with any federal power.

In addition, Daniel asked the court to appoint a special master to take evidence in his case, in accordance with its constitutional rights for a "full hearing." Daniel said he wanted to introduce a great many historical documents "diplomatic correspondence, foreign records, and personal papers of many men who had a part in the annexation of Texas." He said these would show that Texas had always retained title to the disputed area.

Louisiana took the same position but did not request the special master. Both states stuck to their previous contention that the suits should not have been brought in the supreme court in the first place.

The Justice Department acted after the supreme court found that the Federal Government has a "paramount interest" in a similar area off the coast of California.
