3 Board Races Still In Doubt

DALLAS, Nov. 10 (UP)—Three Board of Education races were still in doubt today as was the final outcome of the proposed constitutional amendment calling for a lunacy trial reform.

The Texas Election Bureau said it hopes to complete its tabulations during the day on the closely fought board of education races in the fourth, ninth and nineteenth districts.

Only the amendments proposing rural fire protection and revision of district court rules were approved out of ten submitted, on the basis of fairly complete returns to the Texas Election Bureau.

The last tabulation on the lunacy amendment, taken at 7 p. m. yesterday, showed it behind by about 8,000 votes on the basis of returns from 249 of 254 counties of which 58 were complete.

The nineteenth district board of education race between E. H. Boulter of Lubbock, former deputy state superintendent of schools and J. M. Rankin of Falls, former school superintendent and a newspaper publisher, was the closest.

Mrs. Joe Wessendorf of Richmond and George A. Duncan are the opponents in the ninth district board of education race, and Paul T. Mathews of Greenville, a banker, and Roy G. Baker of Sherman, former national president of the Young Democrats, were contestants in the fourth district.

Mrs. Wessendorf is a clubwoman widely known over the state. Her opponent is a farmer and a former member of the Alvin school board.

Among amendments defeated by large margins were the proposals to repeal the poll tax and increased pay for legislatures, plus annual sessions.

Built In 1919, Memorial Fountain Has Unique, Interesting History

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Mrs. Samuel Butler, chairman of the Memorial Fountain committee of the Eastland Civic League and Garden Club, has written the following article outlining the history of the fountain, located on the Courthouse lawn, where the annual Armistice Day Memorial service will be held Friday morning.)

By MRS. SAMUEL BUTLER

The present is the sum total of the past.

I think this is not only true in the life of the individual but also true of the life of an organization.

As I give you the history of the Memorial Fountain it will be necessary for you to think back, with me, to the year 1919 - thirty years ago. The Civic League was about two years old, having been organized by Mrs. P. S. Wolf, our first president in 1917.

At this time Eastland had no Chamber of Commerce, but the women of the Civic League were always ready to help in any project that would make Eastland a better place to live.

The permanent population in 1919 was 12,000 and most of them arrived within a period of two years. The Oil Companies built houses for their employees but the housing situation was most inadequate. There had no paved streets and our highway was no ribbon of moonlight - but a muddy road.

The Civic League women were not discouraged. The men were busy building new schools, churches, homes, leasing land and making money. The Civic League members were busy in various committees raising money for cleanup campaigns, yard beautification, tree planting, sanitation and health protection.

We raised $2500.00 for playground and Park equipment but could not get enough land donated for a park. Small lots in Eastland sold for five and six thousand dollars in those days.

The Armistice was signed November 11, 1918 - almost a year had passed and most of the boys of World War I had returned home. After taking an inventory of the war years, we knew that some 27 in number of our Eastland County boys had given their lives, as we and they thought, "To make the world safe for Democracy."

The women of the Civic League grieved over the loss of these

Vocational School To Close Friday

The Eastland County Vocational School will remain closed Friday, Nov. 11 for Armistice Day, it was announced by Director M. H. Perry.

Ending the season in a blaze of glory, the Eastland Junior High Dogies trounced a strong Dublin delegation here Wednesday night 19 to 7.

Earlier in the season, Dublin defeated the Dogies 26 to 6 there, but it was Eastland all the way in the return match.

Eastland scored early in the first quarter when Left End Eckey Jordan, who is rapidly gaining recognition for his ability to nab seemingly impossible passes, latched on to a 30 yard pass and ran the remaining 15 yards for a touchdown. Fullback Hill Gaeta did the chunking. Playing in an old practice suit, Jordan gave the faded material probably the best workout it ever had, Gerald Ables, left half, kicked the point.

The first half ended 7 to 0 in favor of Eastland, as a Dublin aerial attack bogged in the second period with Quarterback Jamie Jessop intercepting. Later, Gaeta recovered a Dublin fumble to stave off another attack.

Dublin took the offensive in the opening of the third quarter,

Dewey Silent On Future Plans

ALBANY, N. Y. Nov. 10 (UP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey kept silent on his future plans today while elated Democrats began checking over possible candidates to try for his seat next year.

Dewey pronounced the victory of ex-governor Herbert H. Lehman in Tuesday's senatorial race a "set back" to President Truman's "Fair Deal" program. He told reporters yesterday that the election could not be counted as a gain for the Democrats because Lehman won by less than two per cent of the total vote even with the support of minority parties.

Dewey had only praise for Sen. John Foster Dulles in his defeat by Lehman. But the Republican governor refused to say whether Dulles would seek the Senate seat again next year or what he himself plans to do.

Democrats, however, quickly seized on Lehman's triumph as a forecast in the 1950 elections.

Bro. Smith To Be Minister At Weatherford

Bro. Claude Smith, minister of the Eastland Church of Christ for the past three years, announced today he has accepted a similar position at the Weatherford church, effective Dec. 1.

Bro. Smith will preach his first sermon at Weatherford on Sunday, Dec. 4. He and Mrs. Smith and eight year old daughter, Carol Ann, will move there after Dec. 1.

A successor to Bro. Smith here has not been named. Before coming to Eastland, he was minister of the Merkel Church of Christ.

Weather Due To Remain Same

The weatherman, after thoroughly scanning his charts today, said there was no substantial weather changes in sight for Texas during the "next few days."

Continued partly cloudy skies, with high humidity at night, were forecast. Temperatures were expected to remain unseasonably warm.

Minimum readings this morning varied from 71 degrees at Brownsville to 39 at Ozona, in West Texas. However, most lows were in the 60's, except in extreme West Texas where most thermometers dipped to the 40's.

There was no rainfall to break yesterday's top readings which varied from an uncomfortable 87 at Laredo to 65 degrees at Guadalupe Pass.

DOGIES END SEASON BEATING DUBLIN

continuing their aerial attack which connected down to the shadow of the goalposts. Here the Eastland line tightened and held the Dublin team on downs. Kicking out of danger, Eastland gained possession of the ball minutes later when Jessop intercepted another Dublin pass.

In the opening plays of the fourth quarter, Ables on a quickie took the pigskin 22 yards to pay dirt. Gaeta's kick was wide, making the score Eastland 13, Dublin 0.

Following the kick, Dublin again launched their aerial tactics which backfired, when Jessop made his third interception and ran 50 yards down the sidelines to score in Choo Choo Justice style. Gaeta's kick was wide, with Eastland leading 19 to 0.

Dublin's score came in the closing minutes of the game, after their passes had connected down to the 3 yard line. A Dublin palyer took the ball over for the score and ran the extra point.

right half, did some excellent kicking during the game, having an approximate 40 yard average.

Stand-outs in the line were Jordan, Gerald Harris, Derald Harris, Alan Vermillion, Stanley Harris, Jimmie Jumper, Fred Williams, and Landon Jordan.

Coach Joe Williams' Dogies, as they hang up their suits for the season, had a record of three wins and four losses.

Immediately following the game, the mothers were hosts to a feed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Jessop. Attending were the Dogie team, Coach and Mrs. Joe Williams, Principal and Mrs. W. C. Robinson, the game officials and their lady guests, and Bob Moore, Telegram editor. During the entertainment, Capt. Gaeta in behalf of the team, expressed appreciation to Coach Williams for his efforts during the season and to the mothers for the feed.

Our "B" string also played a game but were defeated by the Ranger "B".
Vocational Agriculture
The vocational agriculture classes of Eastland High School have been studying soil conservation and range and pasture conservation during the past week. After recognizing the improper conservation practices being used by Eastland County farmers and ranchers, which tend to decrease the productivity of our pastures and cultivated lands, the boys set up lists of practices which would conserve and increase the fertility of our soils. Field study was made on the J. H. Reynolds Ranch northwest of Eastland to observe how proper management practices will increase productivity of pastures. The Soil Conservation Service assisted in the above field study.

Someone to Love

By IRENE LONNEN ERNHART Copyright, 1949, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Jenny's marriage to Tod Duncan has been unhappy because Tod can't forget Liz Conover, who jilted him before his marriage and who now is trying to win Tod back. Liz invites Tod to a cocktail party given by her father's advertising firm. When he returns to his basement apartment he finds Rick Morris, an old friend, visiting. He remembers to apologize the next day for accusing Rick with being in love with Jenny and then tells Jenny he has been offered a very good position with the Conover firm. It will mean an end of skimping, he says.

XXV

THE write-up of the Conover party gave more space to Tod than it did to the guest of honor, it seemed to Jenny.

The pictures of Tod were extremely flattering—"Tod Duncan, former All-American." And Liz was looking her usual perfect self, like something out of a fashion magazine.

Jenny didn't blame Tod for feeling heady, after such an experience, and to have received Mr. Conover's job offer on top of it.

They began at once to look for a house. The bright young men in the Conover agency could not live in a musty basement in an obscure and slightly tawdry section of town. Tod would have chosen a house in some exclusive new development, but Jenny found one in a less pretentious suburban neighborhood, a modest colonial with an acre of ground and a small orchard.

It was wonderful to get the twins into the pink and white freshness of a nursery all their own. Nice, too, to be able to buy the things one needed from Max, without feeling guilty.

Max was thinking of selling his shop. Business had declined some and he had always dreamed of buying a trailer and going to Florida. Now seemed an opportune time. He suggested that Jenny go into partnership with Nina and take over the shop.

"But Max, there's no need now for me to work with Tod's new job, and besides I haven't the money to invest in anything like that."

Max waved his hand and shrugged. "Borrow like I did."

"There's still Tod and the twins, my first and most important job."

Max turned away, lighting one of his long cigars. "If you change your mind," he broke off, shrugging again.

There was something vaguely puzzling to Jenny in Max's attitude, and in Nina's too. Nina had forgotten the quarrel and she warmly urged Jenny to do as Max suggested.

JENNY hired a girl to look after the twins while she shopped for furniture for the new house and conferred with a decorator. The furniture that had been her mother's looked out of place in the spanking newness of the house, and Tod wanted everything new. The bill for the furniture frightened her, but Tod waved it aside airily.

He'd have it paid off in no time once he got a few good accounts lined up. Besides the furniture was a good investment. He wanted to have a big housewarming and invite a lot of important people.

They scarcely had a moment together any more. Tod worked late quite often, and he was always having to see an important client out of office hours. He saw an awful lot of Liz too, openly under guise of business. But its openness did not prevent its being observed.

Maurice Cory's gossip column carried a small note. "Is there a marital rift in the offing for a certain prominent football player turned advertising genius? Or is it strictly business with that beautiful boss's daughter he's been squiring to cocktail parties?"

Jenny didn't mention it to Tod. But she wondered whether gossip about Liz and Tod had anything to do with Max's suggestion that she might change her mind about going into partnership with Nina.

Then Tod one evening mentioned a new account he'd acquired for the firm only that day. "You see, Jenny, I told you it wouldn't take long to pay for the furniture. The commission on that single account will almost do it. If it hadn't been for Liz I—"

"You see an awful lot of Liz, don't you?" Jenny said. She tried not to let that note of coolness creep into her voice.

"After all, Jenny," he burst out as he rose from his chair, "there isn't any way to avoid seeing a lot of Liz when we work in the same office. But think what it's meant to work there!"

Yes, she was thinking, it certainly had changed things. It was as though a magic wand had been waved over them. A month ago they had been lost in a welter of ever-mounting bills, and half crazy over the money situation. Funny how much money really meant. Everyone was always saying, "Money can't buy everything," but that was silly, wasn't it? Because there were few worthwhile things that money couldn't buy.

It brought a comfortable place to live, and fresh air and sunshine and exquisite new outfits for the babies. You didn't have to shop around to save three cents on a dozen of oranges, or spend hours trying to save a few dollars making little overalls for the babies out of remnants you'd picked up in a basement somewhere.

THEN came the night of their house-warming.

Jenny was uneasy because Rick was practically the only person present with whom she was acquainted, excepting Liz Conover, of course. She felt uncomfortable because these people moved in a world she had never known.

Jenny and Rick slipped off upstairs to the nursery to look in on the twins. There was so much noise downstairs Jenny was afraid they might waken. She and Rick were talking in whispers over the cribs in the nursery when they heard voices from across the hall. Jenny froze and Rick gripped her arm hard as they listened.

Designers Vie To Outfit Mrs. Hadley

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 10, (UP)—New York designers probably will have the honor of creating the wedding dress of Mrs. Carleton S. Hadley, bride-to-be of vice-president Alben W. Barkley.

A close friend said last night that the 38-year-old attractive widow had looked over many designs and favored one offered by a New York firm. It will be a street length ensemble.

Designers have been eager to have their creations accepted by Mrs. Hadley. One firm in Hollywood announced that Mrs. Hadley had picked her wedding dress from their offerings, but friends said that was not true.

Mrs. Hadley, who is recovering from a slight case of flu, will be married Nov. 18.

Boy Helps Himself To Airplane Ride

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 10 (UP)—Eleven-year-old Arthur Briggs, (225 East 66th St.) New York, may be impractical about such necessities as food, clothing and money, but he knows how to get around.

Arthur, without luggage, food or money, climbed aboard a TWA airliner at New York's La Guardia Field yesterday and sat down. No one noticed him until the plane was flying over Ohio.

St. Louis County police took him into custody when the plane arrived here. The boy told police he liked to travel. His mother, a Bellevue Hospital nurse, sent the airline return fare for his trip home.

Isn't America A Wonderful Country!

All over the world today there are people teaching bitterness and hate.

Here in America we have learned to live together in friendship.

For us here at A&P, it has been a wonderful and thrilling experience to get from those with whom we compete day after day such astounding evidence of friendship and respect.

The things that have happened since the anti-trust lawyers from Washington brought suit to destroy A&P have amazed us.

While we sincerely believed that we had earned the friendship of millions of consumers for whom we have provided better food at lower prices, and the friendship of millions of farm families for whom we have provided a better market for their produce, we were not prepared for the avalanche of offers of support.

But most of all, we have to confess that we had underestimated the fine sportsmanship of many of our competitors all over the country.

Can anyone believe that these competitors would rush to our defense if, as the anti-trust lawyers allege, we had been trying to put them out of business?

We and they have fought hard for business.

There are nearly 350,000 individual grocers competing with us. They have a larger share of the nation's grocery business today than they had ten years ago or twenty years ago.

Many of them do as good a job as we do, and they make it plenty tough for us.

Now, day after day, these same competitors are letting us know that they are in our corner.

All we can say is, thank you from the bottom of our hearts.

Isn't America A Wonderful Country!

Who hollered for Uncle?

Who wants him to break up A&P?

COULD IT BE INDEPENDENT GROCERS? Doesn't seem likely. In ten years America's independent storekeepers almost tripled their business. In 1938 they did just under 5 1/2 billion dollars worth of food business. Last year the independent storekeepers handled over 15 billion dollars worth of food.

WHOLESALE GROCERS? Hardly. For many of them are directly or indirectly engaged in or supporting some form of voluntary or cooperative chain to match chain economies.

THE EMPLOYEES? That would be funny—except that some folks probably believe it. Actually, less than 25 years ago many food chain stores could have paid all expenses—rent, heat, light, wages, etc.—out of the money a store manager alone gets paid now. And the store manager of 25 years ago would have been happy to get what a clerk gets today.

PRODUCERS? Well, take farmers. Certainly part of their prosperity must be attributed to the markets that big chains create for them. The big chains buy the entire pack of many a canner. Those canneries pack the farmers' crops. What would the farmer do with his highly perishable crop if the food chains were eliminated as big volume buyers?

COMPETING CHAINS, MAYBE? No. Practically every chain in the grocery business had more sales last year than the year before. One chain that we know a lot about increased its food business 21% last year and is up 19% in the first eight months of this year.

THEN IT CERTAINLY MUST BE THE PEOPLE! Like fun. If the people hated food chain stores, would they have spent 9 1/2 billion dollars in them last year? Folks like the low prices and high standards of chains—and the better the chains are run, the better folks like them.

Does This Sound as Though We Need Help? Thorfare Super Markets came into existence 10 years ago. The food chains Thorfare replaced were doing about three million dollars worth of business a year. Housewives liked our policies well enough to boost their purchases in our 90 stores to about 30 million dollars a year.

We call that a vote of confidence. And we're going to keep right on proving that as long as we stick to good brands and better-than-average selections at rock-bottom prices, we can compete with anybody in the business. And keep right on growing, too!

We don't believe any chain will be punished for being efficient, or for pleasing housewives so well that it is forced to grow.

We, too, believe that it is a storekeeper's duty to bring the public the best food at the lowest possible prices, and hope to see the chain store way of doing business vindicated.

And as long as the producers, the employees, the customers, the wholesale grocers, the independents and the competing chains thrive so well, we will continue to think it's a good way to do business.

Telephone Wantagh 2-0309 Bellmore, N.Y.

We Don't Want the A&P Put Out of Business

The owner of the undersigned store is an independent merchant in this community. We run our own store, set our own prices, maintain our own policy. We consider the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. as a chain store. Because they are a chain they give us stiff competition. The competition offered by the A&P keeps us on our toes.

The Department of Justice has brought a suit against the A&P claiming that the A&P is a monopoly.

Whether it is or not we are in no position to judge. What we do know is that the A&P doesn't do all of the grocery business in this area. We are here and ready to serve local customers.

WE DON'T WANT TO SEE THE A&P PUT OUT OF BUSINESS.

The A&P is keeping food prices down. We in turn keep our prices down; and that helps us to sell more goods.

KUGLER'S SUPER-FOOD MARKET PHILADELPHIA, PA.

I Welcome A&P Competition BECAUSE

••••• like myself, many hundreds of independent grocers got their start with the TEA COMPANY.

••••• The great A&P is not detrimental to the progress of the grocery business. On the contrary, A&P has always been beneficial to any open-minded businessman who believes in FREE ENTERPRISE. Founded on the principle of FAIR PLAY and FAIR PRICES, A&P developed from a humble start to its present commanding position in the field of retail merchandising.

••••• My experience as a former employee of the TEA COMPANY has served me well. I attribute my success to the ideas and methods tried, developed and proven by the A&P stores—at a great cost.

••••• A&P upholds the rights and privileges of a good worker. I know this from personal experience. A&P is ever on the lookout to promote sincere and ambitious employees to trustworthy and important positions and has never crossed the efforts of any employee to enter into business for himself. A&P helped me to start in business... IS THAT AN ACT OF A COMPANY MONOPOLIZING THE GROCERY BUSINESS? NO!

A&P taught me to serve the public BETTER—MORE ECONOMICAL and MORE EFFICIENT, thanks to the start given me by B. F. VINSON.

••••• During the depression of the thirties, A&P paid higher wages than any other chain. A&P has striven to keep up the standard of living in this country. I shudder to think what would happen to its 110,000 employees if it was forced out of business.

••••• I am not afraid of A&P competition—I welcome it. It's democratic—it's the American Way.

We Agree With A&P

Yes, we want our A&P competitors to stay in business on their present scale because we know what it would mean to the American people without them.

We are only one store and are striving to serve our community with good food at low prices, but the A&P is a nationwide organization serving the American people everywhere with good food at low prices.

Destroying the A&P would mean eliminating competition nationally in the food field which every poor man knows consumes the major portion of his salary.

We congratulate the A&P for a job well done. Keep up the fight.

We welcome any fair competition which helps us bring lower food prices to the consumer.

SCHWEGMANN BROTHERS GIANT SUPER MARKET 2222 St. Claude Avenue New Orleans

A COMPETITOR'S OPINION of The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.

The self-styled "trust busters" of the government recently made headlines as a result of a move to destroy the A&P.

Frankly, we don't like it. A&P is charged with having control of SOME of the production and processing ends of the food business. As a result, they can offer foods at low prices.

So What... And if monopoly of the food business is charged, that sure hands us a luff. We... at P.M. are growing like wildfire. Seems like we're able to sell better foods at better prices.

Your increasing patronage of our stores is positive proof that A&P has no monopoly on the food business. Let's get down to good old American horse sense. A&P is doing a good job of serving the people of this country. They're no bogey men. We are for them 100% in this controversy.

FARMERS BRANCH, Tex., Nov. 10, (UP)—Miss Mary Herring, trim and green-eyed, pushed back a lock of sun burnt black hair and glared today at her star football guard—170-pound Gerald Bayless.

"You haven't done that block right all afternoon," she shouted in a very un-ladylike manner. "Here's the way to do it."

Hoisting her skirts slightly, she took a line man's stance, counted signals, and charged low and hard. She buried a shoulder in Bayless' stomach, and he moved—back.

"Now, that's the way I want to see it done," Miss Herring said. She turned to 29 other wide-eyed youths:

"Are there any questions?"

No one said anything. "All right, now . . . let's make this 23 play work."

Bayless, the tall rawboned guard, and key man in the off-tackle play, charged low and moved about three "B" squad players out of his path.

"That's much better," 30 year old Miss Herring, his coach said. "Now let's make our passes work."

Miss Herring is the football coach at Farmer's Branch, Tex., elementary school. Her team so far this season is undefeated.

She was preparing for crucial games with Grapevine today and Union Bower on Nov. 18.

As she explains it, she became what is possibly the only woman football coach in the southwest by accident.

Farmer's Branch, an off-the-main highway country town of 800, never had a football team until this year. The school has 590 first through eighth grades, and originally Miss Herring was just a playground supervisor.

Early this year, Carrollton, a nearby school, challenged Farmer's Branch to a football game. The chore of getting 11 "men" on the field fell to Miss Herring.

She did get her "men" on the field, and in less than a week she built a team which whipped the Carrollton Challengers, 6 to 0.

There was no stopping her after that.

Two weeks later, Carrollton smoldering from the upset, tied Farmer's Branch, 6 to 6, for Miss Herring's only coaching setback. Union Bowl fell 21 to 0 the next week, and then other schools decided they had had enough. Farmer's Branch couldn't schedule a game, but this week Union Bower and Grapevine decided they would play against Miss Herring's fast working "T" formation.

Miss Herring, at present, is in love with football. She has a steady boy friend, a Dallas iron worker, but she prefers throwing her husky 157 pounds at a weakside tackle rather than at the kitchen sink.

She describes herself as a "steak and potato girl" of the playing field. "That's all I can cook . . . so, the man I marry will get a steady diet of just that," she said.

She admits that she has "stolen" most of the 30 plays her team uses. "We see one we like, an then work out the blocks on the blackboard."

Her players, all 7th and 8th graders, range in age from 12 to 14. Weights run from a slight 102 pounds to Bayless' 170.

They fit perfectly into her streamlined version of the powerful "T". Her "man down under," Louis Ackery, 145-pound ball handler, tosses 35-yard passes, and kicks about the same. He is the backfield star.

During the game she strides up and down the sidelines, calling encouragement to the players. At half time, accompanied by the school nurse, she delivers her mid-way "pep" talk in the dressing room rebandages ankles and corrects mistakes.

Nearly all the remainder of the school forms a noisy cheering section. Once in a while, she said, an overly enthusiastic fourth grader rushes onto the field, and has to be dragged off. That's about all, no other demonstrations, because football is a serious business at Farmer's Branch.

The faculty—all women—frowned on the idea that Mary should wear slacks on the playing field. She shrugged her shoulders, hiked up her skirts, and went to work.

She can kick and pass further than any of her players, and Bayless, the big guard, said, "she can hit harder than anyone that I've played against—ever."

The other players and students—just say—"she's a swell coach."

The Maverick's Corral

By The Wrangler
THE WRANGLER BANDS 'EM
Eastland 26, Ranger 25.

While we had another 100 percent average on predictions last week, the Mavericks almost made us 50 per cent wrong in nearly pulling an upset over Hamilton. At least, they won a moral victory. Ranger, as expected, ran roughshod over poor little DeLeon.

Hope the old crystal ball is really working this week in predicting Eastland to take Ranger by one point. Believe they can do it, if they play like they did against Hamilton.

See you at the Eastland-Ranger game.
