Just call me a jailer-Balif-or what have you. I'm for telling you. I had more fun Saturday at the Ranch Day celebration than I have had in many moons. I walked up to the jail house to get a couple of lines on those arrested and they threw the book at me. The ticket book, that is. Then they gave me the key, (not to the city but to the jail) and I was in charge of the

Didn't have too much trouble keeping my charges in order, except once. One lady charged with me obscure crime, was tossed in but didn't want to stay. So she instigated a plot to break out as soon as the door swung open to receive another customer. She was determined to break out-I was determined that she wasn't. She tried, I tried. The bruises are almost gone and the doctor will remove the stitches from my haid and the cast from my arm today.

But most of the boys locked up didn't mind, nor the ladies as far as that goes. They were a very congenial bunch. They squutted right down on the jail floor and played dominoes. At least that's what they said they were playing. Only I didn't know that dominoes were cubes and I didn't know that you hollered, "come seben, come leben," when you played dominoes Guess I have a lot to learn.

And I figured out what Sheriff J. B. Williams' initials might stand for-Jail Bird. He was arrested, right along with the rest of the peeples. Coining a phrase of some of his customers, he lent voice to the plea, "I didn't do it, lem'me out."

'Bout the cutest thing to hit Eastland's streets Saturday was Wee Kathy Cleveland. She could easily have been the inspiration for "Daddy's Little Girl," a popular song now making the rounds.

And speaking of songs, I heard one this morning on an early morning (5:30) program that knocked me for a loop. Titled performing exactly the same fun-"Pin Ball Millionaire," it w a s short-comings of things in gener al, (H-SU instructors mostly). Or I guess you would call it bull sessions. Your Health

After a physical examination to check for abnormal physical structure which would be a cause of sterility, one of the first tests a doctor might make in the study of a barren marriage is to determine the time of the wife's fertil-

This simple test is a daily re ord of temperatures which the wife makes over a period of two or three months. Such a chart will show, in normal cases, an elevation of body temperature towards the middle of the monthly menstrual cycle. Presumably two or three days following this period of higher temperature set the period of maximum fertility.

What happens when the temperature rises? When the egg which a woman normally produces each month leaves the ovary to enter the womb, her body releases a hormone called progesterone. This for 30 minutes. hormone prepares the womb for what is, thought to be nature's way of nourishing the egg if fertilization takes place, and is there fore vital for the continuation of pregnancy.

In fact, in cases of threatened miscarriage, this is one of the medications which is given in hopes of retaining the hoped-for child. The failure of the body to manufacture progesterone at the proper time, is one of the many causes of infertility in women.
