Five Teams Enter City League; Two Games Slated Each Week

Kilgore and Carbon clash in the opening game of the 1950 Eastland City Softball League at 8:30 p. m. Thursday on the Volunteer Fire Department softball diamond.

Five teams have entered the league. They are Kilgore, Olden, Carbon, King Ford, and Lamb Motor. Jack Muirhead is the Olden sponsor.

The schedule calls for two league games to be played each week. These games will ordinarily be played on Thursday and Friday nights, but for this week only they will be played on Thursday and Saturday nights.

Willy Willy's girl team is tentatively scheduled to play Friday night. Olden and Lamb Motor will play in Saturday night's league tilt.

The regular league season will last ten weeks, with a play-off and a tournament scheduled for post-season.

Plans are also near the completion stage for the organization of a Junior League of five teams which will have its games immediately preceding the regular contests. Teams in the Junior League to date include the Cub Scouts, Kilgore Juniors, King Ford Juniors, and Crawford Juniors. One other team as yet unnamed, will complete the Junior League.

All City League games will begin at 8:30 p. m. Junior League games will be played at 7:30 p. m. with a time limit on each game so that City League games will begin promptly on time. Willy Willy's girl team is planning to play one game each week on nights other than league nights.

All league games will be played at the Volunteer Fire Department's park. The park is owned and cared for by members of the department.

The league is still in need of an umpire or two. Anyone interested in officiating games is asked to contact Sgt. Brannon at the U. S. Army Recruiting Station, or Chief Hennessee at the Fire Station.

Primaries To Get Underway Today In Iowa

WASHINGTON, June 5 (UP)—Another round of congressional primaries gets underway in Iowa today with President Truman's controversial Brannan farm plan coming up for a critical test.

Six other states also are scheduled to join the primary parade soon. California, New Mexico and South Dakota vote tomorrow; Maine on June 19; North Dakota 27.

All of the states, except New Mexico and Maine, will be nominating candidates for the senate as well as the house and governors.

If primaries already held this year are any indication, the chances are bright for incumbents to win their bids for re-nomination.

So far, only one present member of congress—Sen. Claude Pepper, D., Fla.—has lost his race.

With one major exception, all others breezed through their primary trials with ease. Sen. Frank Graham, D., N. C., ran into trouble when he failed to muster a clear majority and will face a run off if his nearest rival requests it.

THOMAS NAMED LEADER

CLEBURNE, June 5 (UP)—Clayde C. Thomas of Fort Worth was named commander of the American Legion's 12th District Sunday.

Thomas, past commander of Bothwell Kane post in Ft. Worth, succeeds Milton A. Stewart of Cleburne.

Britain Has Own Pool Plan

LONDON, June 5 (UP)—Britain's own plan for the pooling of Western Europe's heavy industries will be submitted to the British cabinet soon, possibly at its meeting tomorrow, informed sources said today.

A total of 25,000 carloads of apples are shipped yearly from Wenatchee, Wash.

LAVA POURS AT RECORD RATE

This spectacular night photo shows molten lava racing down the side of famed Mauna Loa volcano, near Kona, Hawaii, as it erupts, sending its heaviest lava flow of the century to the Pacific Ocean. The great geysers of steam and other bursts of flame in the picture are caused by gas exploding inside the cooling lava. Sixty to eighty homes were destroyed by lava and many others evacuated since no one knew where the deadly steams would strike next.

Large Gallery Turns Out To See Reed Win On 21st Hold, Sunday At Ranger Invitational Tourney

A bad tee shot into the rough on the third hole at the Country club Sunday cancelled C. A. Dewesse's chances of winning the championship flight.

Dewesse and Buster Reed played 18 holes even up Sunday afternoon in the finals of the championship flight of the fifteenth annual Ranger Invitational golf tournament.

The two champions stayed together through the nineteenth and twentieth hole. But at the twenty first, or third on the course, Dewesse, a Fort Worth Stereotyper, got away a bad shot that sliced into the rough. He sank his hole one stroke more than Reed to lose the tournament and win the runner-up prize of a $70 silver service tray. Reed received a $216 coffee and tea service.

Reed, a Denton boy, had the edge on Dewesse with his long shots. Dewesse kept in the running and held a crowd estimated at anywhere from 350 to 600 breathless.

Jimmy Phillips played his opponent a tough final game; but was one hole behind Kenneth Cole of Odessa, coming into the 18th Sunday afternoon. Phillips failed to pull a long putt out of his golf bag and Cole took the first flight championship.

The tournament is reputed to be the largest Ranger has yet had. There were 143 qualified Friday night. One hundred and thirty-eight of those stayed for competition, making seven flights and a large hotball.

The grounds were packed Friday night with players and fans that got a good barbecue dinner with their ticket.

The large number of flights forced an early start Saturday morning and late work that night and Sunday evening. The championship flight didn't finish up until about 7 p. m., Sunday.

The gallery crowd on the wind-up was hard to estimate. This reporter came up with the figure of 350. Another experienced hand figured it at five or six hundred.

Bill Dill of Cisco won the consolation prize in the championship round; Roy Ferguson of Breckenridge took the first flight consolation prize.

Dan Childress Ranch Is Sold

Dan Childress has sold his 1400 acre ranch located on the Cisco-Breckenridge highway northwest of Eastland, Childress has announced.

Childress has owned the ranch for the past 18 years, and has lived on the ranch for the past three years. The ranch was purchased by Alvin Kincaid of Artesia, New Mexico. Kincaid will occupy the ranch within the next 30 days.

Childress stated that he has no definite plans for the future at the present time.

WEATHER

By United Press
Heavy hail and rain caused considerable damage in Odessa last night but skies were clear in that area today.

Police Sgt. J. J. Wife said no immediate estimate of the damage was available but that it would run into "thousands of dollars."

The hail, some stones as large as golf balls, beat through some roofs and shattered windows including heavy plate glass windows in the downtown area.

Galveston, hit by the worst flood since the disastrous one in 1900 that claimed upwards of 5,000 lives, was back to normal yesterday as the water drained rapidly. The 14-inch rain caused an estimated one half million dollars in damage, principally to business concerns.

The weather bureau in Dallas said more scattered thunder-showers were in prospect for the state during the next 24 hours.

First Round Winner

McCarthy Takes First Victory In Inside-Republican Contest

WASHINGTON, June 5 (UP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R., Wis., won a clean victory in the first test of organized party sentiment since Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R., Me., made her spectacular appeal to the Republican Party to repudiate him and his tactics.

Mrs. Smith uttered her "declaration of conscience" on the senate floor last week. It was a bone-shaking rebuke to McCarthy for his methods in seeking investigation of Communist infiltration into the State Department.

Mrs. Smith was joined by six of her progressive Republican colleagues. They were: Sens. George D. Aiken, Vt., Irving M. Ives, N. Y., Wayne Morse, Ore., Edward J. Thye, Minn., Charles W. Tobey, N. H., and Robert C. Hendrickson, N. J.

Right under Ives' nose in Wingdale, N. Y., the annual convention of New York Republican clubs unanimously climbed on the McCarthy bandwagon Saturday night. It adopted a resolution approving "the action instituted by Sen. McCarthy and the spirit in which it was brought."

The young Republican organization is an active and somewhat significant political outfit. Its endorsement puts some foundation under a statement often heard here—that McCarthy's noisy and in-temperate campaign has caught on through the country.

Here in Washington even McCarthy's well wishers feel that his scatter-gun methods have all but defeated his objectives.

The New York Young Republicans had Ives as their guest when they repudiated the stand he, Mrs. Smith and their colleagues have taken.

Ives was in Wingdale to tell the Young Republicans the GOP would fold up as a political organization and fairly soon unless present trends are changed. He reported that two of every three new voters registered are taking the Democratic side. That is a death warrant for the GOP if it continues.

West German's Plea For Cops Gets U.S. Ear

CONNALLY SAYS IT POSSIBLE U. S. MIGHT WANT TO HELP ARM

WASHINGTON, June 5 (UP)—West Germany's plea for permission to create a strong federal police force got a sympathetic response today among high U. S. officials and from at least one member of Congress.

One responsible official hinted cautiously that if France does not object too strenuously, the United States might approve a force limited to 5,000 men.

Chairman Tom Connally, D., Tex. of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said it was "perfectly possible" this country might want to help arm such a force to counter-balance the Russian-sponsored 50,000-man force in Eastern Germany.

Konrad Adnauer, West German Chancellor, has asked the Big Three western powers for authority to create a 25,000-man force with authority to operate throughout the Allied occupation zone of Germany.

The proposal now is being considered by the high commissioners and no formal U. S. position will be taken until recommendations are received from John J. McCloy, the American representative.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson has said repeatedly that this country has no intention of letting Germany build up the nucleus for another mechanized army. But high U. S. officials here no longer discourage speculation that a force—limited numbers and under strict Allied control—may be allowed.

Abraham Lincoln was offered the first governorship of the Oregon Territory but declined. Gen. Joseph Lane took the position.

Truman Hails Bill Typical American Help

WASHINGTON, June 5 (UP)—President Truman today signed a bill authorizing $3,248,500,000 for foreign recovery, hailing it as typical American help in building "a safe and prosperous world."

The third Marshall plan authorization, the President said, will speed the day when Western European nations will become self-sustaining and contribute to the economic growth of a free world.

The foreign economic assistance act which the President signed on July 1, 1948, authorized the $3,248,500,000. Congress still must appropriate the money. Efforts will be made to cut that figure.

Anticipating that Truman congratulated the Congress for its "wisdom and vigor" and said he was confident Congress would "promptly" put up the full amount. The act authorizes $2,977,000,000 for European recovery; $100,000,000 for Korea; $94,000,000 for underdeveloped areas under the "point four" program; $27,500,000 for Arab refugees from Palestine, and $15,000,000 for United Nations programs for children.

"If we can, gradually but steadily, help to replace sickness with health, illiteracy with education, poverty with higher standard of living, for the millions of peoples who live in underdeveloped areas," Truman said, "we shall make a tremendous contribution to the strength of freedom and the defeat of Communist imperialism."

He was "especially glad" the act authorized funds for Arab refugees from Palestine. But he said this program's success depends in large measure on cooperation of the UN and private agencies.

As for independent Korea and non-Communist China and other Southeast Asia nations, American help already has been "considerable," he said. More aid, he said, will convince them of our friendship.

He said the first two years of the European recovery program enabled Western Europe to make great strides in rebuilding its economy and "to deal successfully with the threat of Communism." A third year of help, he said, will add greatly to "their collective strength" and push those free nations to a self-sustaining basis.

Supreme Court To Rule On Tidelands

WASHINGTON, June 5, (UP)—The Supreme Court today worked toward an early adjournment with racial segregation and the Gulf of Mexico oil dispute as major last-minute issues.

Some 18 cases still were pending. It was uncertain whether the court would meet its goal of adjourning today or whether it would have to allow itself another week.

Last year, the justices did not finish until June 23.

When the term closes, the court will recess until early October after having handed down about 100 decisions.

The segregation cases concern the right of negroes to eat with whites in railroad diners and to attend state-supported universities.

The court could either renounce or reaffirm its 54-year-old doctrine that segregation of negroes and whites is all right so long as the two get "equal treatment." Some observers believe the court may simply dispose of the cases on technical grounds without going into the question.

The oil lands dispute is a sequel to the suit decided in favor of the federal government against California in 1947. The United States won control of multi-million dollar submerged lands along the Pacific Coast and now wants the same rights in the gulf.

Gene May Injured In Auto Crash

Gene May, 11, was slightly injured when the pickup in which he was riding was in collision with a 1949 Ford, four and one-half miles West of Eastland at about 11 a. m. today, State Highway Patrolman O. A. Avera reported.

The pickup was driven by the boy's father, B. U. May, and Frank Liles was the driver of the car.

Patrolmen estimated that damage to the car would amount to about $600. Damage to the pickup was slight.

Old Rip Derby Meeting To Be Held Wednesday

A meeting of the Eastland Old Rip Horned Toad Derby will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Chamber of Commerce office, H. J. Tanner, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce has announced.

Tanner stated that the derby committee was particularly anxious to have all representatives of organizations who are planning concessions at the derby and all others interested at the meeting.

Derby entries are now being received, and as of Monday morning, 36 entries have been recorded.

Derby officials are aiming at a total of 300 entries in the event this year. Last year at the first annual derby, 149 entries were made.

A new feature of this year's derby will be the crowning of a Horned Toad Queen. Queen candidates are now being selected.

Officials are optimistic concerning the derby this year. They believe it will far surpass the scope of the first derby last year which attracted nation-wide attention.

Body Due For Re-Examination

(UP)—Authorities are re-examining the body of 17-year-old Lorraine Hess for additional clues to the slayer who strangled her with her own coat belt and a pair of bobby socks snatched from a clothesline.

The dark-haired Millville High school junior was exhumed from its grave secretly in the hope a "fresh start" might come from the second autopsy. The body, disinterred with permission of the girl's mother, was taken to an undertaking establishment for "further examination."

The dark-haired Millville High school junior was garroted on a lot between two bungalows as she returned from a performance of the school play "June Mad" last May 13. Dr. Irvin Atkinson found in the first autopsy that the girl had not been raped and that she sustained no severe bruises.

Director of Public Safety David Reid said the exhumation was decided on at a conference with State Police Captains Arthur Keaton and Howard Carlson and County Prosecutor George H. Stanger. Reid did not disclose where and by whom the second autopsy would be performed. Carlson revealed that two additional men were appointed to aid in the investigation of the case. He said they were detective Sgt. Louis Borneman and Detective Cpl. William Piana.

A REPORTER QUESTIONS...

By ROLAND BROWN

(Here are more exciting experiences of leading citizens whose trouble was caused by the lack of vitamins B₁, B₂, iron and niacin in their systems.)

THE QUESTION
Are you taking the remarkable new HADACOL treatment everyone is talking about? What are the results?

THE ANSWERS
Mrs. L. M. Hammack, 1025 Tulane St., Houston, Texas. "I have been sick for quite some time with neuritis, aches and pains. I could hardly walk on my right leg for over a month. I started taking HADACOL and am on my fourth bottle and now I can walk as good as ever. Had no appetite at all but now I'm gaining. HADACOL is the most wonderful medicine in the world and I'm going to continue taking it."

Lawton Smith, Homerville, Georgia. "I had been down with weak spells, neuritis pain, and I just couldn't sleep at night. I had no appetite and nothing seemed to help me. I am now on my third bottle of HADACOL. I feel good, sleep good and eat better and no such pain. Thanks for HADACOL."

Varnella Sargent, Magnolia, Arkansas. "I had been weak and my mother heard about HADACOL and bought me some. I started taking HADACOL and now have more energy than most of my fellow students. I am 13 years old. I weigh more, eat more, and sleep better. I took only 5 bottles of HADACOL and feel such a medicine should be praised."

Mrs. I. E. Nelvis, Sr., 2622-A St. Vincent Ave., St. Louis, Mo. "I could hardly eat anything at all that did not hurt my stomach. Now I eat most anything I want and it doesn't hurt me. I can't praise HADACOL enough and have recommended it to all my friends and neighbors. I feel much better since I have been taking HADACOL."

NOTE: Why don't you get that wonderful, wonderful HADACOL feeling everyone is talking about? HADACOL treats and removes the cause of neuritis aches and pains, stomach distress, gas, bloating, insomnia, and a run-down nervous condition due to lack of vitamins B₁, B₂, iron and niacin in the system. That's why it's so amazingly successful and has brought relief beyond belief in case after case where all hope of getting relief had been given up. Sold on a strict money-back guarantee. Trial size, only $1.25. Large family or hospital size, $3.50.

Distant Star

XXXIII
WHEN Loulie set down the tray beside her bed, Clemency awoke and sat up with a start.

"Baba?"
"Nurse says she is still sleeping. She has had a wonderful night. Praise be to Allah, she will get well," said Loulie joyously. "The doctors both have gone."

"What time is it?" Clemency glanced at her clock. "Loulie! I should have been called before this!"

"No, Sitt. The Sidi Amberlev's orders. And you are to eat your breakfast in bed."

Clemency sank back on her pillows, still drowsy from the effects of the sleeping tablet she had been given last night.

The sunlight flooded the room like a benediction—Baba was going to get well. And then she remembered why this heavy ache lay at her heart, why it would be worse before it ever eased.

Nothing of what had happened during this last 48 hours had changed her own problem. She still had to give Piers back his ring, and tell him she was going away. It was useless to think things could ever be the same between them again—loving him so desperately only made them worse. She might forgive what he had done to her—but nothing could undo what he had done to Jon. What Syrie had made him do!

She clenched her hands until the nails dug into the palms. Last night when she came to bed she had wept, but the tears were out of her utter weariness, and her relief over Baba. Her own tragedy was too deep for tears.

Lauchon was over when at last she emerged from her room to go in search of Piers, but he did not seem to be anywhere about, and it was Syrie she found.

This morning only the shadows around Syrie's eyes which her make-up did not quite succeed in hiding, betrayed anything of what she had gone through. When Clemency found her, standing looking out on to the veranda, she appeared as exquisitely groomed as ever, in one of the thick white silk dresses she was so fond of, her shining hair piled high, lipstick and nail varnish perfectly matched.

How much real feeling is there in her? Clemency wondered with a bitterness that would not be repressed.

WHEN Syrie glanced around, and, seeing her, came back into the room, there was an embarrassment that was quite new in her manner.

"I was waiting for Piers," she said. "I think—he is with Jon."

It's dreadfu to hate anybody after what we have all just been through, thought Clemency. But the human heart has its passions, and there are limits to human endurance; it was perhaps a little unfair to blame herself.

She controlled her voice with an effort. "Then I will leave you. I was looking for him, but—what I have to say can wait."

But as she turned to go, Syrie spoke. "It's wonderful about Baba."

"Jon and I are planning to take her to the sea as soon as she is well enough. Perhaps—over to Southern France. It's an ideal part of the world to live. And if I can get someone reliable to look after her—"

Though she tried to hide it, some of the surprise Clemency felt showed in her face. Then: "She will need a lot of love," she said. "She will be a long time getting better and convalescing, and—she is bound to get spoiled. I hope you will find someone who—loves her a lot."

"I shan't get anyone she loves as much as she loves you," said Syrie frankly. "Or who manages her as well." She paused and added after a moment: "You will think I am very important if I ask you what you were waiting to say to Piers—"

Clemency felt herself freeze up. "If you don't mind, I would rather not discuss it."

"There is no need to," said Syrie. "Here is Piers, and—I think—I know he will have something to say to you." And then as Clemency moved swiftly towards the second exit from the room she exclaimed sharply: "Piers! Don't let Clemency go."

HE reached out, and taking Clemency's arm, drew her back. And so she stood, Syrie facing her, Piers on the other side, her heart beating furiously, but determined to save herself the indignity of a further attempt to escape.

"Piers," Syrie told him. "You have something to tell Clemency."

"He has nothing to tell me that I don't already know," said Clemency.

"Oh yes, he has—a lot," Syrie assured her, and with her eyes on Piers: "Has Jon spoken to you?"

"Yes."

"Then tell Clemency the truth. You shouldn't have trusted me at all," Syrie shrugged. "I'm a born liar when it suits. Go on, Piers. Tell her what I did to you and all the rest of it. She'll believe you now. Jon will have told you that I let her think what he said to her was true."

She turned her glance to Clemency's white, stricken face. "There's one truth I can tell. I loved Piers—I wouldn't have stopped at anything to make what I wanted you to believe come true. But he loathes me! I wanted to punish him for making me stay here. Months ago I made Jon believe what you believed. I suppose I wanted to punish Jon too."

"But something odd happened to me when Baba fell ill. I promised myself that if she got better, I'd tell the truth—make it all right between you and Piers."

As she spoke Clemency realized that Syrie Amberlev was unchanged. She was not repentant, only keeping a bargain with Fate.
