"TROPIC LIGHTNING" STRIKES—Units of the U. S. 25th "Tropic Lightning" Division have teamed with South Koreans on the east coast to capture Yeghok (ship symbol) after allied naval forces bombarded the town. On the central front, a Negro unit of the 25th helped capture Yechon. Meanwhile American First Cavalry troops moved into the battle line seven miles south of Taejon as North Koreans drove the battered 24th Division back to Okchon. South of Taejon, Reds sent a column to Kumsan in an apparent end run. Further west, Communists were engaged in wider flanking movement, driving on Imsil. (NEA Newsmag).

Three Run-Offs Set For County Voters; 6,300 Vote Saturday

Eastland county voters will decide the winner in two county offices and help decide the winner of one district office in the Democratic run-off, August 26. Run-offs will be held in the races for county judge, sheriff and for state representative, 107th Flatorial district. More than 6,300 votes were cast in Saturday's primary.

The closest race in the primaries Saturday was in the one for county judge where run-off opponent were in doubt until the large West box from Ranger reported early Sunday morning, showing P. L. Crossley, the incumbent, and John Hart to be winners of a place in the run-off. C. S. Eldridge ran a very close third.

With one box unreported, the vote was, Hart, 2348; Crossley, 2078; and Eldridge, 1905. Officials said that the box was small and could not change the race.

In the race for sheriff, incumbent J. B. Williams polled 2982 votes. J. F. Tucker gained a run-off spot by getting 1,864 votes. John Barber, the third candidate, received 1,447 votes.

L. R. Pearson and O. O. Odum Jr., both of Eastland county, will be opponents in the August run-off, despite the fact that Pearson outpolled both Odum and Charles Dawson in Eastland county in the primary.

In Eastland county, Pearson had 3,433 votes to 2,036 for Odum and 692 for Dawson. Returns from Callahan county gave Pearson 801 votes as compared to 758 for Odum and 831 for Dawson.

Christopher Is Bankline's New Superintendent Sixth Well Begun; 5 Are Producing

Bankline has sent a new superintendent, John Christopher, here to take charge of operations in the new Lake sand pool about three miles west of Eastland, it has been announced.

Christopher is a well known petroleum engineer. He is to move to Eastland with his family next month from Manhattan Beach, California. He replaced L. E. Kanne.

Choate Drilling company is drilling Bankline's No. 1 A. V. Clark, on the Clark place, less than 3 miles west of Eastland.

The well is an offset to Bankline's No. 4, Mrs. Briggs Owens, and is located one location north of that well which has just been completed.

Completion work on the No. 4 Mrs. Owens has been finished and the well tested at a rate of about 12 barrels in 24 hours on a 1/2 inch choke.

The No. 4 Mrs. Owens was the Lake sand pool's fifth producing well. It was given the hydraulic treatment. The Clark well will be the sixth in the new pool.

There are 46 recognized colleges and universities in Illinois.

Maynard Hurls No-Hit Tilt As King Ford Takes District Title

Walter Maynard hurled a no-hit no-run game as King Ford became the district softball champions at Fireman's Field Saturday night by defeating the Cisco Wranglers, 5-0.

Maynard faced only 22 men, one over par for the 7 inning tilt. Only two Wranglers managed to reach first base, both on walks as Maynard received brilliant support from his fielders. One of the runners was out trying to steal.

Meanwhile, the King Batters slammed out seven hits to score their five runs, four more than were necessary.

Matthews started off for the King team with a walk, and scored on singles by Brashier and Crowley. They added another in the second on singles by Blair and Collins.

No more runs were made until the sixth when Brashier lead off with a double and scored later.

The final runs were scored in the seventh frame when singles by Sparks, Brashier and Maynard resulted in two runs.

Action in the city softball league will resume this week. King Ford and the Cisco Wranglers will participate in the state meet at Brownwood next month. Lamb Motor of Eastland lost to Cisco Friday night, 2-1.

King had earlier defeated Wooten's of Abilene, 6-4, on Thursday to enter the tourney finals.

MacArthur Says American Troops Beat Off Attack On Center Of Line

By Earnest Hoberecht
United Press Staff Correspondent
TOKYO, July 25 (Tuesday) (UP)—American troops have beaten off repeated attempts to break the center of their line Southeast of Taejon, Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today.

They were fighting desperately to save the strategic rail center of Yongdong, 23 miles southeast of Taejon. The Communists threw thousands of troops, led by armored formations, into two drives Northeast and Southwest of Yongdong. Red artillery shells fell into Yongdong yesterday, and Maj. Gen. Hobart R. Gay, commander of the First cavalry division, said: "The situation is very serious."

But a communique from MacArthur's headquarters early today indicated the center of the American line had held firm. It added that the Communist attempts to encircle the Americans had failed.

There was no indication that the Communists would ease their attempt to break the center of the line. On the extreme flanks of the American-South Korean battle line the news was bad.

MacArthur's communique said a South Korean division had lost the city of Yonju, near the Korean East coast. He said the South Koreans fell back two miles from the city to "more tenable positions."

W. O. Shafer Wins In Odessa Election

American Warships Patrol

WASHINGTON, July 24 (UP)—The Navy said today that American warships have moved into the Yellow Sea and are now patrolling the West Coast of Korea.

Measures which are being taken to contain or eliminate these roving bands cannot be disclosed at this time," the communique said.

Kim Il Sung, Premier of Communist Korea, issued an order of the day in which he said the Red captors of Taejon had "completely destroyed the U. S. 24th division... and captured several hundred American prisoners" in the battle for that city. A Communist communique also claimed that the commander of the 34th regiment of the 24th American infantry division had been captured.

Fear Expressed That Korea Dunkirk Coming; Know July 31

By Harry Ferguson
(UP) Foreign News Editor
This is the week that probably will decide whether we stay in Korea or get kicked out.

After a month of war the Communists still are on the offensive. We are still trying to hold them until we can build up enough troops and equipment to stabilize a line of battle and get ready to go over to the offensive. Whether we hold onto a beach head depends on how many troops we can get into Korea and how soon.

Jack James, United Press war correspondent, cables from the front that the troops we have there now won't be enough.

South Korean troops. This is not enough to stop the Communists. The Communists have about 160,000. In the extreme Western part of Korea the Reds are reported to be advancing unopposed. No American or South Korean troops can be spared to stop them.

The busiest place in the Far East today is Pusan, a city of 300,000 persons on the Southeast coast of Korea. It is the American port of entry to the battle field, and from it a double-tracked railroad runs Northwest toward where the guns are roaring.

The United Nations must protect Pusan at all costs. If we lose it, or even if the Communists get close enough to reach it with heavy artillery, we lose everything. Our only recourse then will be to stage a Dunkirk on the Korean beaches, retire to Japan, and in some distant day, mount an amphibious assault in an attempt to recapture Pusan.

The news from the front today is that we are slowly being hammered Southeastward from the battle fields toward Pusan. The sheer weight of Communist manpower is doing it to us, and there seems to be plenty more Red troops from where the first ones came.

It is a dark picture, but there is one ray of light in it. If our retreat continues, we soon will be in the best defensive position we have ever held in Korea. A range of mountains stretches out in a protective semi-circle about 75 miles Northwest of Pusan.

It is rugged country with steep cliffs, and deep, sudden valleys. Communist tanks would find it tough going there, and American machine gun nests at strategic points could hold up regiments and even divisions of Reds.

A strong defense line in the mountains may be the salvation of the Americans, but they still would be exposed to one of the Communists' most successful tactics in this war—infiltration and flanking. If we prevent that we can hold the line. If we can't prevent it, the Communists will break through and roll down the Naktong river valley to Pusan and victory.

We will know the answer this time next week.

MOBILIZATION PLANS INDICATE THAT TWO MILLION WILL GET UNIFORMS BY END OF YEAR; EVEN MORE AFTER THAT

By Fred Mullen
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, July 23 (UP)—Present mobilization plans indicated today that there will be at least 2,000,000 men in uniform by the year's end. More will be called to active duty soon after that.

When the Korean war broke out, fewer than 1,500,000 men were in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force. Since then, the services have issued a series of calls for reserve and National Guard units needed to bolster hard-pressed Yank forces in the Far East.

Defense officials have made it clear there would be no let-up in future until the armed forces reach their legal limit of 2,005,000 men. And both the house and senate already are considering proposals to abolish even this manpower ceiling.

In another move to strengthen the services, the senate yesterday passed a bill to keep in uniform for an extra 12 months some 193,000 servicemen whose enlistments were scheduled to expire this year. The house is scheduled to vote on this bill and the companion manpower ceiling measure Tuesday.

The latest defense department move to supplement regular fighting men came yesterday when the Army called selected units of the organized reserves and the National Guard. A high Army spokesman said some "may go overseas."

In line with Pentagon policy of keeping the enemy guessing, the Army did not disclose how many men were involved.

The Marine Corps has ordered its entire organized reserve—47,000 men—to active duty and the Navy called up nearly 4,000 persons in its organized air reserve units.

At the same time orders were going out by the thousands to enlisted and officer reserves of the Army, Navy and Air Force on an individual basis. Selective service officials also were rounding up 20,000 men to fill the first draft call since the outbreak of hostilities.

The defense department was drafting a unified policy for the armed services to follow in deferring men in the reserves and officials said it would be made public soon. In the meantime, each service is granting deferments according to its own standards.

So far, there is no plan to call out full divisions of the National Guard. But defense department officials would not even discount the possibility that they might do so before the end of the year.

Units called to active duty yesterday were needed to build up transportation and communications lines. These groups specialize in such things as warehousing, railroad maintenance and security operations.

The call also included some regimental combat teams, of which there are 20 with a total strength of 41,000 men.

Among these units are 20 tank battalions, 15 mechanized cavalry reconnaissance squadrons, 68 coast artillery batteries, 27 combat engineer battalions, seven chemical mortar battalions, 45 field artillery battalions, 14 bridge engineer companies, 21 searchlight maintenance teams, 21 medical battalions, 15 military police battalions, 89 ordnance companies and 74 radar maintenance units.

So far, the Air Force National Guard has announced no plans to call up any of its squadrons, but there were signs a decision may be coming next week. The Air Force itself disclosed yesterday that it may need authority to start drafting World War II veterans if it doesn't get more men soon.

Michigan state police average 4,518 traffic arrests each month.

Just hint to the gas pedal and she steps out like no other low-priced car. And that's true whether you're driving a Ford V-8 or "Six". But this stepper is a low spender when it comes to costs. You can own a V-8, for example, for hundreds less than most "Sixes"—and a Ford "Six" for even less.

What a stopper!

This '50 Ford actually helps you apply the brakes. They're 35% easier-acting King-Size Brakes that use car momentum to help you stop. Like Ford's extra-rugged "Lifeguard" Body, they give you the kind of protection you'd expect only of costliest cars. And for added safety and comfort, you ride low and level in the "Mid Ship" section of the car, between the wheels—not over them. You're cradled in comfort on "Hydra-Coil" front springs and "Para-Flex" rear springs that give a road-bugging smoothness truly amazing.

What a looker!

Yes, again in '50, Ford received the Fashion Academy Gold Medal as "Fashion Car of the Year." And Ford's stay good looking because their harkness finish is "made to live outdoors." That means high resale value which, together with Ford's low running costs, puts Ford further out front as America's savgiest car.

Club Woman—Christian Mrs. M. H. Hagaman Hasn't Had Time To Be Unhappy; Still Busy

Quick on her feet, quicker in her mind is Mrs. M. H. Hagaman, club worker, politician and Christian.

She hustled down to the Ranger Daily Times office Thursday morning to get a little news story about Women's Society for Christian Service sponsoring transportation to the polls Saturday.

Instinctively, the Daily Times editor stood up, not because it was good manners or the politic thing to do but because she has the kind of presence that must have started men standing for women in the first place.

Because she did a politician's and woman's parrying of a reporter's question as to her age, it isn't possible to tell her age. But in 1893 she married, while still in school. And as she probably didn't marry when she was 10 years old, a reasonable guess at her age would be somewhere between 60 and 70.

Many when they reach this age think it is time to retire.

But Mrs. Hagaman's voice and bearing indicates a much younger woman. And she's a long way from retiring. Only Saturday she was elected a delegate to represent the fourth precinct at the county democratic convention.

She is president of the Sixth District and vice president of the state federation of women's clubs. She is trustee of the Sixth district's headquarters building in Austin, president of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Cisco district, legislature advisor of the Federation of Women's clubs and a member of the legislative committee.

From 1931 to 1937 she was a member of the chairman of the building committee of the State College for Women.

Mrs. Hagaman married M. H. Hagaman, the first oil boom mayor of Ranger.

And while he was her teacher. She says that she didn't have much trouble with him as a teacher. He never flunked her. "I'd always made good grades," she said when asked if she got better grades after the marriage.

Mrs. Hagaman didn't stop her education after her graduation from the Ranger school. She enrolled at the George Peabody Normal college for teachers in Nashville, Tenn., and was graduated in 1893.

The Daily Times reporter tried to find out what drove her to continue school after her marriage. The best answer she could give is "I was always interested in studying."

After graduating from the Peabody college, she taught in the local schools. About 1900, her husband began ranching and Mrs. Hagaman began to rear her family which interrupted the school teaching. She had three children, Leslie H. Hagaman, who is now operating the Hagaman ranch, the present Mrs. E. F. Harrigan of Austin and Fred W. Hagaman of Conway.

Mrs. Hagaman did not become real active in club work until after Fred enrolled at Kemper Military academy in 1917.

But from 1900 to 1917 she served as substitute teacher, been interested in the Parent-Teachers association and a worker in the Methodist church.

After Fred entered the academy, she became much more active in club work while her husband, who'd always been interested in civic affairs began to take an active part in building Ranger. She pointed out that Hagaman did not run for mayor—did not want the job especially. "I'd say," she said, "that he was no more interested in civic affairs than any good citizen should be."

And perhaps that statement and her apparently boundless energy explains Mrs. Hagaman's own interest in club work.

It was during the twenties that women's clubs became a force recognized by politicians. And Mrs. Hagaman became one of the most active and most powerful of the Texas club leaders. She was a charter member of the 1920 club in Ranger, the oldest women's club. And by 1931 she had gained such prominence that she was appointed to the board of regents for TSCW.

Perhaps one of the most indicative things about Mrs. Hagaman is that a reporter finds it easier to discuss current events with her than history. She knows her history—but it interests her apparently only as a means of better understanding the problems of today.

She feels that it is too early yet to make a statement on the Gilmer Aiken bill. But she thinks that it is a progressive step forward—one of the many since the first reorganization of Texas schools in 1924.

When questioned about the segregation of Negroes, she pointed out that there is a fourteenth amendment, that Texas is part of the Union and must abide by the constitution. She indicated that she thinks the abolishment of segregation in the Texas school system is coming too fast; that the people are not yet ready.

During a discussion on the front porch of her rambling ranch home, Mrs. Hagaman expressed a great admiration for both Franklin Delano and Mrs. Roosevelt. She said of FDR, "He handled problems in the very best way he could. He has been hard to follow. He met a very severe crisis in a most splendid way."

Mrs. Hagaman said that she agreed that Mrs. Roosevelt is one of the most popular women today in the world. "She is an influence for good."

When asked about the unhappy times of her life, Mrs. Hagaman laughed. "I never had time to think of unhappiness." She said that she had lived by this rule. "Meet every day courageously and well. Make that day worth living."

She has found her philosophy of life in the life of Jesus. James W. Riley, the Hoosier poet, expressed it. "Everybody is good if only they can be understood."

Perhaps not so coincidentally, Mrs. Hagaman admitted along with Dr. Bob Hodges, whom this reporter interviewed previously, that she felt a personal relationship with Jesus. While Dr. Hodges began to feel this relationship on a personal basis in his twenties, Mrs. Hagaman says that she had always felt it.

Army Holds Hope That Dean Lives

By Robert Bennyhoff
United Press Staff Correspondent
WITH THE FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION, Korea, July 24 (UP)

A U. S. Army intelligence officer said today there is good reason to believe Maj. Gen. William F. Dean may be alive and hiding behind the enemy lines.

But the officer conceded that hope the missing commander of the 24th division escaped safely from fallen Taejon was based largely on reports of various soldiers and officers who claimed to have seen the general during their own escapes from the city.

Dean was cut off in Taejon when Red forces surrounded it in a sudden attack last Thursday. He was fighting then with an advance baroque team and knocked out at least one enemy tank personally.

The North Korean radio today claimed that Red forces killed 2,000 to 2,500 American soldiers and captured 400 to 500 others in "annihilating" the remnants of the 24th division around Taejon and Southeast of it. But the obviously exaggerated broadcast made no mention of Dean and this was taken as a hopeful sign.

A number of 24th division stragglers from Taejon reported seeing the general alive South of the city. Some said that Dean had led a platoon back to Taejon under enemy fire in an attempt to recover American artillery.

An Air Force Lieutenant who reached safety Sunday said that the general was riding in a jeep, three cars ahead of him, two miles South of Taejon.

When an enemy machine gun opened up on the retreating 34th regiment infantry units, the Lieutenant said, Dean leaped into a rice paddy and later made his way up a ridge.

A South Korean intelligence agent said he saw Dean in the hills two days ago.

Another straggler said he heard Communists behind the enemy lines call:

"General Dean, General Dean, I need help!"

Army intelligence officers said they were certain Dean had not reached safety yet.

"We have not seen him," one said. "We are sure that if he had come into any American outpost, he would have made his presence known."
