Locally the interest is swinging to the Old Rip Horned Toad derby this week.

The climax will come Saturday at 7:45 p. m., with the running of the Old Rip Derby.

L. E. McGraw, chairman of the toad derby committee, told of the achievement of the derby in its short life.

The first derby, officially, was held last year. It was an outgrowth of the children's derby which has been held here for some time.

In the first derby, the concentration was mainly on the local viewpoint of the thing. Derby day found 149 entries with all but about 30 or 40 from Eastland.

This year the derby committee decided to get a little more recognition out of the city.

A group of businessmen decided to write letters to out-of-town friends and business associates, soliciting entries for the derby.

Officials hoped to get about 300 entries for the derby, and perhaps something over 100 from out of town.

McGraw reported to members of the Rotary Club Monday that 371 entries had been received for the derby this year, 285 of them from out of town.

Parks Poe has led the group in solicitations with 34 to his credit, including entries from such notables as James Farley, former postmaster general, and Edgar Bergen, radio and movie star.

Others who have done a commendable solicitation job include: Bruce Pipkin, 19; Theo Lamb, 15; McGraw, 25; Herb Tanner, 25 and several others.

McGraw pointed out that the derby and Eastland had received a great deal of publicity in trade magazines as a result of the campaign.

A program of the derby activities, including pictures of several Eastland buildings and a story of Eastland activities will be sent to each person who entered a toad.

Thus from the Horned toad derby, Eastland is receiving much good publicity, and the derby is being carried on in a profit making way.

Herb Tanner has announced that the Kid's Derby will be held at 3 p. m., Saturday, as a preview to the big derby.

Kids up to 15 years of age are eligible to enter a toad. The race will be run in heats with heat winners eligible to enter the sweepstakes. The sweepstakes winner will receive $5 with the runnerup getting $3 and the third place winner, $2.

No entry fee will be charged for the afternoon derby.

Toad hunters began flocking in to the chamber of commerce office early Monday to get their catch in the first 425, and receive a dime for each toad brought in.

Tanner reported that at 10:15 Monday a total of 125 toads had been purchased. The chamber will purchase toads at 10c a head until 425 are brought in.

Tanner also announced that anyone who wishes to have his own personally trained toad in the derby should bring his animal into the chamber of commerce office by 12 noon Thursday.

Otherwise he must accept the toad assigned to him for the races Saturday night. If you have a fast toad which is hard to catch, it might pay to have somebody round him up and get him in before the deadline. First prize is $300 you know.

L. W. Aldredge, Jr. Enroute Overseas

Sgt. Leonard W. Aldredge, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Aldredge of Eastland was departed for an unknown overseas destination.

Sgt. Aldredge is in the observation corps with a heavy artillery group. He has been in the army three years, and is 20 years of age.

The wife and baby of Sgt. Aldredge live in Cisco with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Butler.

Aldredge was shipped from Fort Sill in Lawton, Oklahoma, last week.

Mr. Aldredge has done masonry work in Eastland county for about 15 years.

Marine Offensive Bogs Down As KoReds Infiltrate Lines, Set Roadblocks To Cut Off Supplies

By Robert C. Miller

United Press Staff Correspondent

WITH U.S. MARINE IN KOREA, Aug. 8 (UP)—The two-day-old campaign of the U.S. Marines and the Army's Fifth Regimental Combat Team on the south coast of Korea was not, to borrow a military cliché, going according to plan tonight.

Commanders of the units were saying little. They didn't need to. The Marines and Infantry bogged down in their push to roll back the south wing of the Communist forces threatening Pusan.

By 5 p. m., 36 hours after the dawn jumpoff, the drive had made only 4,000 or so yards—about 100 yards an hour.

There were reasons for it, of course. The Communist resistance was stiff, and the enemy still was using his classic infiltration tactics that have stood him in good stead all the way down the Korean peninsula.

North Korean patrols kept sneaking in behind the American positions and setting up road blocks along the coastal highway.

One such block, established briefly only five miles west of Masan, cut off Marines and Fifth Regiment troops from their headquarters and supply bases.

AMERICAN POWER SO BADLY needed in this first offensive

Charlie Hubbard Services Held In Ft. Worth Mon.

Funeral services for Charlie G. Hubbard, 43, Fort Worth, son of Mrs. Ella Hubbard of Eastland and brother of Mrs. Joe Anderson of Eastland, were held at 2 p. m. Monday at Gauseware Memorial Chapel in Fort Worth.

Burial was in Mineral Wells. Revs. B. F. Dearmore and Earl Richards conducted the services.

Hubbard was found dead near his bed at the home of a friend, Hubert Gunnels, in Fort Worth, Sunday morning.

Gunnels found Hubbard on the floor when he started to wake him, after Hubbard had spent the night in Gunnels home.

A verdict of death by natural causes was returned by a peace justice.

Hubbard had lived most of his life in Mineral Wells, but had resided in Fort Worth for about seven years, and was a pipeline employe at Irving.

Survivors include his wife; mother, Mrs. Ella Hubbard of Eastland; two daughters, Miss Sue Hubbard and Miss Marilyn Hubbard, both of Fort Worth; a son, Charles Hubbard of Fort Worth; a brother, Jack Hubbard of Dallas; two sisters, Mrs. Joe Anderson of Eastland and Mrs. Dick Wilcox of Abilene.

KOREANS THREATEN TAEGU; BREACHING NO RETREAT POINT

U. S. Drive Goes Eleven Miles More

TOKYO, Wednesday, August 8 (UP)—An American offensive that has driven 11 miles along the Korean south coast in two days removed any immediate threat to the port of Pusan today. But a perilous situation developed to the north where the Communists breached the Naktong river defense line and began pouring troops through Taegu, South Korean emergency capital, was in danger. Reports from Korea said some 3,000 Communist troops had crossed the Naktong through gaps in the American line northwest and southwest of Taegu.

Lt. Gen. Walton Walker, commander of ground forces in Korea, sent to the Naktong front fresh units of American troops who arrived only recently from the United States.

Other North Korean forces attacked some 30 miles due north of Taegu. Three regiments of possibly 10,000 men pushed across the headwaters of the Naktong when the Allies withdrew last week attacked the South Korean defenses and advanced about a mile and a half.

THE COMMUNISTS BUILT up their three-day-old bridgehead across the Naktong, where it swings east toward Pusan, to the strength of a regiment. It was to that sector that Walker dispatched the fresh troops to reinforce the hard pressed 24th Division.

Two Communist battalions with at least one tank crossed the river 14 miles northwest of Taegu and penetrated between the U. S. 1st Cavalry Division and the South Koreans. Another seized a bridgehead 17 miles southwest of Taegu, and 1st Cavalry units were sent to deal with it.

GEN. DOUGLAS MacARTHUR's headquarters reported in the midnight communique that the offensive, which had carried within 10 miles of Chinju, had resumed after a pause to clean out isolated pockets of Communists.

Reports from Korea said the Americans advanced another six miles on the main road running westward through Chinju. Opposition was light in that sector, the reports said, and the 35th Regimental Combat Team spearheaded the push had to hold back because the U. S. Marines and 5th Regimental Combat Team on its left were checked by Communist counter-punches and infiltration.

Dark Horse Sets Channel Record

DOVER, England, Aug. 8 (UP)—Florence Chadwick, a dark horse in the 1950 English channel competition, broke the women's record today by swimming from the French coast in 13 hours and 23 minutes.

That was an hour and 16 minutes better than the time Gertrude Ederle made in her famous swim 24 years ago.

Seventeen-year-old Shirley May France of Somerset, Mass., the youngest swimmer ever to get within scoring distance, started 32 minutes after Miss Chadwick but soon fell behind and had several hours yet to go when her rival waded ashore. She abandoned her attempt.

Sanitation is a very important factor in the control of diseases and parasites in the turkey flock. The lack of sanitation can wipe out all expected profits from the flock.

McGraw Tells Rotary About Derby Set-Up

L. E. McGraw explained the working of the Old Rip Horned Toad Derby to members of the Rotary Club at the regular meeting in the Connellee Hotel yesterday.

David McKee, president, presided at the meeting. W. H. McAnale of Cisco and Garland Lavender of Ranger were guests.

It was announced that Friday October 20, would be Rotary day at the state fair.

Jim Horton had charge of the program. He introduced McGraw who told of the founding and purpose of the toad derby.

The objectives of the derby committee were pointed out as to promote publicity and good will for the city, to make the derby self sustaining and to raise money for various civic activities.

McGraw said that 371 entries had been received for this year's derby from 20 states and one foreign country. About 285 of the entries were from outside of the city, he said.

This compares to a total of 149 from three states last year, with something over thirty coming from out of town, he added.

McGraw explained that the derby committee is working for the future. Several local businessmen have solicited the entries in the derby by writing letters to friends and associates.

Those who enter are not forgotten, he pointed out. An official receipt is sent to each entrant, along with a letter of thanks. Later the official program for the derby will be sent, McGraw added.

The derby has rated write-ups in several trade publications, McGraw continued. He concluded that the program would include favorable publicity for the city, which would help carry out the aims of the event.

Linked To Bookmaker

NEW YORK Aug. 8 (UP)—District Attorney Frank S. Hogan today linked Charles Binaggio, slain Kansas City gambler and politician, to Jules Bender, who faces trial here as a $5,000,000-a-year bookmaker.

NEW YORK Aug. 8 (UP)—At that time, Billy Jones was a 19 year old boy, the youngest of six children of Tom Jones and Mrs. Ora Jones.

Now Billy has taken the place of a peace officer, this time for the entire nation.

Eastland citizens are proud of Tom and Billy Jones. Billy is following in the footsteps of his late father in doing a dangerous, necessary job.

Billy had completed 13 missions over Korea about a week ago in his B-26. He may get to come home after he completes 50.

Mrs. Ora Jones, mother of Billy, is very proud of the job her son is doing too. "But most of all," she says, "I want him to get his job done and come home."

PRESIDENT TO GET WARTIME PRICE GRIP

Senate Committee Gives Truman Almost Free Hand

WASHINGTON, August 8 (UP)—Speaker Sam Rayburn told President Truman today that he expects the House to pass legislation tomorrow giving the chief executive war powers over the national economy.

Rayburn reported at a White House conference of Congressional leaders with the President that the House will not vote on the bill today because several members have gone home to cast their ballots in primary elections.

But the speaker said the House may act today on amendments to the control legislation and that the House banking committee may come up with suggested additions.

The house, after four days of fruitless debate last week, was taking a new start on the economic control legislation. The Senate banking committee yesterday approved a bill to give Truman an almost free hand in imposing price-wage-rationing controls.

Chairman Brent Spence, D., Ky., of the House banking committee called his group together to see if Democrats and Republicans could agree on how much power to give the President.

The New Plymouth Special Suburban

Here is the new Plymouth Special Suburban, a luxurious all-metal utility vehicle which is the latest addition to the Plymouth line of automobiles. It is now being produced and shipped to dealers throughout the country.

Plymouth Announces Production of Luxurious New Utility Car

Production is under way and shipments are being made to dealers throughout the country of the Plymouth Special Suburban, according to R. C. Somerville, general sales manager of Plymouth Motor Corp.

The Special Suburban is an all-metal utility vehicle with luxury sedan refinements. Patterned along the lines of the DeLuxe Suburban, which Plymouth first introduced in 1949, the new Special Suburban has retained the styling and utility features which made the DeLuxe Suburban an immediate success. In addition, there are 37 different improvements which add to the car's beauty and comfort.

The exterior of the new car is richly trimmed with chrome and there are many interior refinements. Seat cushions and backs are upholstered in tan Bedford cord; the instrument panel, the windshield garnish moldings and the door garnish moldings are tan leather grained, and the radio grille is chrome-plated. There are arm rests for both front and rear seats, and assist straps for the rear seats. Appointments throughout the interior have been carefully planned to provide maximum comfort and beauty.

The Special Suburban offers the same three-cars-in-one utility that characterizes the DeLuxe Suburban. It has the riding comfort of a fine sedan, and is easily converted into a roomy cargo carrier.

Soviet Wins Friends In South Korea

By Rutherford Poats
United Press Staff Correspondent
WITH 8TH ARMY, Korea, Aug. 8. (UP)—A refugee from fallen Seoul said today the Reds are winning converts by saying Korea will be given two Manchurian provinces after the Americans are driven out.

They have convinced a third of the residents of the former South Korean capital that they will win, according to Kim In Yung, 33, former instructor at a girls' school and a candidate for the National Assembly in the last Korean election.

Yet United Nations handbills dropped by American planes are reaching many persons despite police efforts to seize and destroy them, Kim reported.

Kim said he left Seoul July 27 and trekked 150 miles to the UN field headquarters. He said American bombing has killed almost 3,000 civilians in Seoul and the Reds are taking advantage of this in their propaganda.

He said the promise of annexing Manchurian provinces bordering on North Korea is being circulated in vague form by Red Korean authorities. He said to his knowledge Soviet officials in Seoul have made no public statement on this topic.

"The people there now believe a World War III is inevitable," Kim said. "They are beginning to think the Communists will win in Korea and then they will be on the Russian side when the big world war starts."

"You must tell the people that we will win and unify Korea and it will be peaceful forever."

The cost of living has skyrocketed in Seoul, he said. The price of rice has soared almost 3,000 per cent since the war began, he reported, and that of other foodstuffs is up two or three times.

He said the North Koreans have set up a new city government and a 100 per cent Communist police force, enrolling Communists who had been in hiding and political prisoners whom they had released.

THE STORY: Seeking a job as literary secretary to Mrs. Muriel Halleck, who writes popular novels under the name of "Jo Pine," Alice Pine goes to the Halleck home, at the end of Grosvenor Point, Conn., off Long Island Sound. Alice is pleased both with the surroundings and Mrs. Halleck, who says she wants more than "just a stenographer." Alice has just given Mrs. Halleck her background and her age, which is 28.

MURIEL HALLECK drummed her fingers on the table. "Would it surprise you, Miss Pine, if I engaged you? Right now?" Alice Pine started. She hadn't expected to land the job so easily. But Muriel continued: "Why not? I think you'd be perfect. And your references are splendid. But do you have any questions of your own?"

"No," Alice said. "I ought to say, though, that the salary you mentioned is pretty—well, terrific." Muriel waved a quick decisive gesture. "Not for what I want. Listen! For years I've written stuff that editors and the public expected me to write. But now I'm blowing myself to the luxury of a novel. Something I really want to do. I need the right kind of help. And I'm willing to pay for it."

"Well," Alice said slowly, "if you're sure you really want me, I'm ready to work for you." "You mean now?" Alice smiled. "Perhaps I was rather overconfident. But I packed a bag on the chance that I might be staying. The other things I'll need can be sent up."

Muriel Halleck arose. She dropped a friendly arm around Alice's shoulders. "Why, that's splendid. I hadn't hoped... Oh, my dear! I'm forgetting. You've had a long drive. What would you like? Tea? A drink?" "Tea, please," Alice said. She felt a little stunned. A plush job had fallen into her lap, with scarcely any selling effort on her part.

TEA was a pleasant interlude on a flagstone terrace beneath the study window. After it Muriel conducted Alice upstairs to a large airy bedroom.

"I hope you'll be comfortable here," she said. "In any case, it's private. You have your own bath, and my room and Brent's is miles away."

"Comfortable!" Alice looked at luxurious appointments and colorful drapes. "I should think so. It's lovely." "Well, make yourself at home. Dinner's at seven-thirty. We have an unpredictable artist. He does a lot of his work outdoors and never comes home till the last whistle."

her with neither interest nor approval and did not speak. He looked rather surly, Alice thought. But she had no time this afternoon for surly gardeners. She felt both contented and elated. It was miraculous to have stepped so quickly from a good-paying job into a better-paying one. And Grosvenor Point, Conn., would be an ideal spot in which to spend the summer.

"Miss Pine," she told herself, aloud and gaily, "it's your day out!" She walked toward the beach, enjoying the salty tang of the Sound.

Then, on the beach itself, she stopped. A small boy of about four had come into view, running along the water's edge. He had hair the color of pulled taffy and a compact little body. At intervals he paused to kick delightedly at curlers of white spume infiltrating the shore. As Alice watched, one kick was too vigorous. He sat down abruptly, to the confusion of his blue play suit.

Alice moved forward. "Hello, there!" The youngster scrambled up. His cheeks were like ripe apples; his eyes large and brown.

"You're not Mural?" he said, almost accusingly. "Mural?" Alice repeated. "I... Or, I see who—"

She didn't finish. A voice from behind said: "I imagine I should put up a sign here, too."

Alice whipped around, upon a tall man in tweed slacks and frayed sports jacket. He had black hair slightly gray-tipped, and dark unsmiling eyes.

amused at the little misunderstanding. "Well, my wife's been talking about getting a secretary. But I didn't know she'd actually done it. My apologies, Miss Pine. You see, Tolliver—that's the village here—is a summer resort. And sometimes visitors try to use this beach. I thought you were an early visitor."

Brent's jaw jutted. "It's not that I want to hog the country's natural playgrounds. But, after all, this is my property."

THE small boy had been inspecting Alice curiously. "She's not Mural," he told Brent now.

"No," said Brent. "She's Miss Pine and she's staying at our house. Say 'how-do-you-do?', Rick."

Rick did so gravely, then darted back toward the water, raising sand furies in his wake.

Brent looked after him. "He meant my wife, of course. But 'Mural' is beyond him."

"He's adorable," Alice said. "Is he your son?" Brent's thick dark brows lifted. "Muriel didn't tell you?"

Police Go To Trap Bandits But Walk Into Trap Themselves; Gang Escapes After Robbing Oilman

DALLAS, Aug. 8. (UP)—Two bandits apparently escaped from a police trap today after a blazing gun battle in which a third outlaw was shot and captured. The gunmen made off with $15,000 in jewelry taken when they held up wealthy oilman E. R. Brann and his wife in their fashionable Preston Hollow home. Thirty officers searched the area for several hours before dawn and Capt. Lloyd S. Reeves said the two men apparently had made good their escape. Ten or more squad cars prepared to search a wooded area east of here after daybreak. The gunfight broke out when police surprised the bandits in the act of robbing Mr. and Mrs. Brann. The captured gunman, who was wounded in both knees, was identified as Fleming Van Derriek, 33, of Chickasha, Okla. Tim Treadway, a neighbor, called police when he became suspicious of a car parked near the Brann home. Officer William C. Grinnell, one of two policemen answering the call, said he was met at the door of the Brann home by a man who said, "Come on in. I know why you're here."

"I started in," Grinnell said, and another man stuck a gun in my back and took my pistol. Then they emptied my pistol at my partner in the squad car outside." The spray of bullets missed the other officer, however. The bandits ran out a rear door of the house, taking Grinnell's pistol with them. Grinnell ran to the squad car and grabbed a shotgun. "I saw them near a car and I started that way when a man opened up with the machine gun," he said. "They fired a burst and I dropped to the road. When it ended, I got up and blasted away with the shotgun. Then there was another burst and I hit the deck again."

Then the men raced away in their getaway car. Grinnell thought he had missed with his shots. But officers found Van Derriek lying in the street. He was taken to Parkland hospital. His condition was not believed serious. Meanwhile, other police squads and sheriff's officers had surrounded the neighborhood and believed they had the remaining two gunmen trapped in the area. The bandit car was found not far away. Both rear tires had been punctured by gunfire. An Army M-3 submachine gun of the type nicknamed "grease-guns," two carbines and a pistol were found in the car. The rear trunk contained a book, "Valley of Thieves."

Before dawn today, the officers moved through alleys and weed-covered fields with cocked guns as searchlights probed dark areas. Nervous residents gathered in small groups to watch them. Mrs. Brann, whose husband is an independent oilman, said the gunmen walked into her house last night and said, "stick up your hands." At first she thought they were neighborhood boys playing a joke.

"However," she said, "I realized they weren't kidding when they started collecting my jewelry."

The bandits tied the Branns, and Mrs. Brann's mother, Mrs. Bessie Smalling. "They laid me face down on a Navajo prayer rug and, brother, I prayed," said Brann, who moved here from Durango, Colo., in February.

Mrs. Brann said the jewelry taken by the bandits included two $5,000 rings, four other rings worth $1,000 or more each, and a $1,000 wrist watch. Officers believed the bandits were members of a gang known as the "Tie-Up Robbers" who have staged several robberies in the region recently. Sheriff Bill Decker planned to call in previous victims of the gang for a possible identification of Van Derriek.

Lipstick Smear: Handkerchief North Korean Intelligence Man Carries Memo Of Life To Death

By Gene Symonds
United Press Staff Correspondent
WITH U. S. FORCES, Korea, Aug. 8. (UP)—He was a handsome young intelligence officer of the North Korean army who carried a lipstick-smearred silk handkerchief among his secret papers. They found him dead, half his head blown off by American mortar fire north of Masan—one of the many Communist casualties in the southern front. A picture he carried showed a young man with wavy black hair, wearing a Russian style tunic. The papers in his leather dispatch case were highly informative. He was a Manchurian, 26, a senior lieutenant—equal to Captain in the American Army—and the assistant intelligence officer of the Red 6th division in charge of reconnaissance behind American lines.

A diary revealed he was in command of North Koreans who infiltrated our lines by twos and threes. They passed their information back to him, and he correlated it and passed it on to higher headquarters. The dispatch case contained shoulder boards indicating his rank—practically identical to Russian insignia. There were papers revealing he had been born in extreme north of Manchuria near the Siberian border. Apparently he was not too well educated, for the diary he kept up to Aug. 5, the day before he was killed—was in basic Korean. And stuffed among his military papers was that small square green silk handkerchief smearred with bright lipstick.

Two ears and one mouth give us a good tip—listen twice as much as we talk.

Perfect Reward for Achievement!

WHEN A MAN PLANS and dares and endeavors until he achieves something out of the ordinary—few would deny him some taste of the fruits of his labor. "Tis toil's reward that sweetens industry." "As you have sown, so also shall you reap." "According to the labour, so is the reward."

And we believe sincerely that—for the average man—there is no sweeter personal reward for achievement than a Cadillac car.

First of all, it is the perfect symbol of attainment. In almost every community where adequate highways exist, Cadillac is known and recognized as the overwhelming favorite of the world's distinguished people.

And few possessions, indeed, can give so much personal happiness to their owners—during so many days in the year.

A Cadillac car is a constant joy to drive. You can sit at the wheel, for hour after hour, completely at ease. Many owners say they drive hundreds of miles each week—just for pleasure and relaxation.

And it adds so much to your satisfaction to know that economy goes with you—each mile you drive.

It actually costs less to buy the lower-priced Cadillacs than certain models of numerous other makes of cars. A single tankful of gasoline will usually suffice for a full day's drive. And the full lifespan of a Cadillac has never yet been measured.

If you are one who has planned and labored until you've earned something special for yourself—come in and see us.

We know you'd enjoy a Cadillac—and even your severest critic would have to admit that it's a practical car to buy.

P.S.: Perhaps you know some modest man who ought to read this message. If so, we think you'd be doing right if you brought it to his attention.

Malik Talks — Men Die Western Observers See Little Hope Of Breaking UN Deadlock

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Aug. 8 (UP)—The Western powers will try again today to break Russia's filibuster on the Korean question in the United Nations Security Council.

However the chances were that the council will accomplish nothing constructive in its Korean war effort when it meets at 1 p. m. CST, in the opinion of qualified observers.

Throughout the weekend, Western powers held a series of "strategy conferences," seeking a way to end the obstruction that chief Russian delegate Jacob A. Malik has created through repeated introduction of procedural road blocks that have forced the council into long-winded debate.

They emerged refusing to discuss publicly their plans, but veteran observers believed their best strategy lay in the procedure followed by Bernard M. Baruch in the deadlock Atomic energy conferences of 1946. Then Baruch broke the back of Andrei A. Gromyko's filibuster by repetition of a three-word speech at every opportunity.

"Gentlemen, let's vote."

MALIK WHO RETURNED TO assume the council presidency in his regular turn last Tuesday, lost the first round of his long-lived procedural battle. He was voted down when he sought to rule the Chinese Nationalists out of the Chinese Communists first as his price for eventual consideration of "the peaceful settlement of the Korean question."

With the way apparently opened for the Council to consider an American resolution condemning North Korea's defiance of the UN and calling on all members to refrain from "assisting or encouraging" the North Korean authorities, Malik tried another trick.

HE DEMANDED THAT THE North Koreans and the Chinese Communists be invited to attend the Council's discussions of the Korean war and proposed a "peace" settlement that call for an immediate cease-fire and the withdrawal of all foreign troops.

Officer Says MacArthur To Win In Korea

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (UP)—A high ranking Army officer said today that Gen. Douglas MacArthur may be able to launch the eventual all-out counterpush in Korea without any additional U. S. divisions of ground troops.

But this officer said many units of ground troops smaller than divisions will be needed.

HE SAID THAT MORE ARTIL-lery and tank battalions probably will be required but that the main need will be for supporting and supply units. He mentioned as examples chemical, engineering, medical, ordnance, and signal units as well as various types of quartermaster battalions or companies.

The American divisions and other outfits already fighting in Korea also must have individual soldiers as replacements for casualties. Major American outfits now in Korea are the Army's four infantry divisions—the First Cavalry, Second, Twenty-Fourth and Twenty-Fifth—and Fifth Regimental Combat Team, and the Third Provisional Brigade of the First Marine Division.

THESE U.S. TROOPS, ALONG with the South Koreans still in action, probably bring up the numerical strength of MacArthur's forces to near that of the estimated 62,500 to 100,000 North Koreans on the battlefield. A military spokesman said that this fact, along with the domination of the air and sea—could put MacArthur's forces on fairly even terms with the North Korean Communists.
