GIs Kill Commies But Contribute Pay To Keep Youngsters Alive

By Jack James
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 SOMEWHERE IN KOREA, Aug 12 (UP)—American G. I.'s are violently killing Communists in Korea. But they're charitably keeping youngsters alive in Japan.

The American soldiers are members of the 27th Infantry Regiment. When they were back in Japan as members of Uncle Sam's peacetime Army of Occupation they had a pet charity — the Holy Family orphanage of the Vincentian Sisters of Osaka.

End of a Chapter

By Edwin Rutt

THE STORY: Alice Pine has been engaged as literary secretary by Mrs. Muriel Halleck, who writes popular stories under the name of Jo Paigrove. Alice soon learns that Mrs. Halleck does not want an ordinary stenographer, but a typewriter. Alice also meets Brent, Mrs. Halleck's artist husband. He seems a little nervous and Alice is not sure she likes him. Alice has just begun work on her new job and has been reading Muriel's story plan.

IT was then, perhaps, that Alice Pine understood rather clearly. Muriel Halleck had the essentials of a fine, possibly a great, writer. And despite her becoming modesty, Muriel knew it. This book was doubtless an experiment which, if successful, would bring Muriel into a new and more important literary classification. And it certainly promised to be successful. By comparison, the shining but basically shallow serials she wrote under the pen-name of Jo Paigrove were trifling.

Brent stood now between tree and gardener. His face was twisted with anger. "Who told you to do this, Sloan?"

"Well," Muriel urged, "there must be some bugs. Nothing's 100 per cent."

"There is one thing," Alice said. "I couldn't quite get from the outline the payoff on Larry." She referred to the book's central character.

Muriel glanced at her keenly. "Amplify that, will you?"

"What's all the fuss about?" she asked quietly. "If it's the tree, Sloan's only doing what I asked him to."

"That's a very shrewd observation, Alice. I really don't exactly know what I'm making of Larry, in the end. Oh, I've got some nebulous ideas. But I'm hoping that something will crystallize soon."

"I don't care if it's as old as Methusalem," Brent barked. "It stays."

outside of that, I can't think of a thing."

Alice thought that Muriel harrumphing her. "What was that?"

"I've made a start, anyhow. But just now Mrs. Halleck—Muriel—hasn't anything for me."

"I'm sorry," Brent repeated, and this time he sounded so. "I don't intend to interfere with whatever it is you and—er, Alice are doing. But—his eyes, opaque black now, fastened on his wife's—" "I'd better tell you again, since that does seem necessary. This land, and what grows on it, is mine."

Army Hunts Enlistees; Some Offers Good; More Officer Training Set

The initial processing machinery began to roll this past week as thousands of young men reported to the various induction centers for the pre-induction examinations. This first call will effect about 10,000 men in the Southwestern Recruiting District, which includes Texas and New Mexico. Meanwhile, the Military Personnel Procurement section at Fourth Army headquarters in San Antonio, announced that there will be no curtailment in the voluntary enlistment effort. Men who have not received pre-induction notice are being urged to take advantage of the opportunities offered to Regular enlistees. Volunteers are given their choice of a three, four, five or six year enlistment in the Army; or a four, five, or six year enlistment in the Air Force. Army enlistees are also given their choice of the combat arm in which they prefer to serve. Soldiers and Airmen alike have the chance for highly specialized training in various fields if qualified. The career advantages such as retirement benefits, still apply to current enlistees. It is evident that many young men are taking advantage of the Regular enlistment opportunities, as Recruiting Stations report that enlistments have more than doubled since the advent of the Korea, crisis.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICE

"Soul" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 13. The Golden Text is: "The Lord is my portion, saith my soul; therefore will I hope in him" (Lamentations 3:24). Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible "Yea, in the way of thy judgments, O Lord, have we waited for thee; the desire of our soul is to thy name, and of the remembrance of thee" (Isaiah 26:8). The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Only by losing the false sense of Soul can we gain the eternal unfolding of life as immortality brought to light" (page 335).

John Jay of New York was the first chief justice of the United States.

Editor Charges Slandering

ASHLAND, Wis., Aug. 12 (UP) — John Chapple, editor of the Ashland Daily Press, has asked the Justice department to issue a warrant charging Jacob Malik, chief Soviet United Nations delegate with criminal slander.

Chapple telegraphed the U. S. district attorney's office in Madison, Wis., asking for the warrant on the basis of Malik's statement before the UN Security Council Aug. 3, that Warren Austin, chief United States delegate, is guilty of blackmail.

"I maintain that this statement is criminal slander under the laws of the United States, and as a citizen I ask for a warrant for the arrest of Malik," Chapple's telegram said.

The Comfort of Religion

WE live in an Age of Comfort... physical comfort, that is, and we like it. In fact, we demand comfort. Our homes must be comfortable... warm in winter, cool in summer, equipped with electrical conveniences and good plumbing. Our furniture must be comfortable. Our clothes must be comfortable. Our automobiles, trains, airplanes must give comfort in every detail. Even the style of our architecture has changed to reflect this modern trend toward, above all else... COMFORT.

YET, are we indulging ourselves in the Supreme Comfort, the COMFORT of RELIGION? A man with folded hands; that means a soul in fellowship with the Almighty. See what aids he has summoned in his hour of great need! As our nerves are torn ragged each day from the wear and tear that must come in every routine, do we restore our souls in the BLESSED PEACE OF OUR RELIGIOUS PROMISES? When a crisis comes, when someone dear to our hearts lies sick beyond reach of medicine or skill, when we must stand by helpless and watch death take away our sweetest treasure, or when we find that we must live daily with tragedy, do we experience the Comfort of a Divine Presence ever with us, to give us stout hearts and strong courage? Read Psalms 103:2-4.

THE HOLY COMFORTER brings joy, peace, patience, loving-kindness. As you walk down a busy street, notice how few faces reflect this Spirit within. Harried, cross, impatient, unkind faces betray a pitiful need for Spiritual Comfort. The strain and stress of complicated modern life are more than any human can bear alone. Psychiatrists are stampeded; mental institutions are overflowing. Our nerves simply can't take it. Why not turn to the COMFORT of RELIGION? The man with folded hands and open Bible; we do not know just where he is reading... But he is in company with noble souls of all the ages. FOR MAN, IN HIS DARKEST HOURS OF SORROW, SEEKS THE COMFORTS OUR CHRISTIAN RELIGION OFFERS. There's room, there's welcome, there's COMFORT waiting for you in your church.

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "Pay in the Church and the Church in you"—form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH-GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

THE STORY: Alice Pine is a new literary secretary to the popular writer, Mrs. Muriel Halleck, whose pen name is "Jo Palgrave." Alice likes Muriel and she also has met Brent, the writer's artist husband, and Rick, Brent's four-year-old nephew who was adopted by the Hallecks after his parents were killed in an accident. Alice is not pleased with Brent's disposition and she has just witnessed a quarrel between Muriel and Brent over the cutting down of a tree near the house. Muriel says that Brent acts like a "spoiled baby." Brent says, "This land, and what grows on it, is mine." They tried it, exhaustively but futilely. The words that flowed so easily to Muriel's fingertips balked at getting off her tongue. "Oh, darn it!" Muriel exclaimed at last. "It's no use. I'm just a wooden Indian. Why wasn't I born an Edgar Wallace or a E. Phillips Oppenheim? They made fortunes simply by talking to pretty girls and into dictaphones." "You were born a Jo Palgrave," Alice reminded her. "That puts you in the upper brackets." BUT the situation distressed Alice. She was being highly paid and left that, under these conditions, she wasn't worth it. Without hypocrisy, she suggested a downward salary revision. Muriel blasted the idea. "Look! I engaged you thinking I could work in a certain way. It's not your fault that I can't. The salary stands. But"—her quick smile flashed—"you're going to suffer now, my dear." "A pound of flesh?" Alice laughed. "Definitely. For years I wrote in longhand. I really like doing it that way. But it's a bit old-fashioned and lately I've tried to learn to think on the typewriter. I'm not much good at it, though. So-o-o, back to longhand. And you can struggle with my chicken tracks." Muriel's handwriting, however, was reasonably legible. Alice found she could do everything required of her and still have plenty of leisure. But the question of what to do with this extra time puzzled Alice. But Muriel solved this problem for her. "I saw a golf bag in your room," Muriel said one day. "Play much?" Alice's blue eyes lighted. "Every chance I get."
