More Study Slated GORMAN EXPERIMENT STATION GETS CHECK FOR $40,000 FOR RESEARCH ON PEANUTS

A check for $40,000 in support of research on more efficient methods of production, harvesting, storage and marketing of peanuts has been given the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Gorman. This fund will be used during the next two to four years in research projects developed cooperatively with the peanut growers' organization, according to Director R. D. Lewis of the Texas Station. Also announced were terms of a memorandum of understanding signed by J. D. Sargent, president, and E. D. David, manager of the Southwestern Peanut Growers Association, and by Lewis. The research-aid fund became available from the participation of peanut growers in the 1942 distribution of profits from the sale of quota excess peanuts under the Production and Marketing Administration programs of that year, Lewis said. Participants had already received profits amounting to $10.00 and $14.35 a ton, respectively, in the southwestern and southeastern peanut-growing areas. There remained with the Commodity Credit Corporation an additional profit of about $150,000 from the total peanut production of 1942 in the United States. About half of this fund belonged to members of the Southwestern Peanut Growers Association.

Large as it is, this sum represented only a few cents due the average grower in the Southwestern States. Officials of the peanut growers organization figured that the cost of distributing this money would be nearly as much as the sum available. The Secretary of Agriculture had ruled that these funds were the property of the peanut growers associations, and that they could be used in cooperative research programs with the Agricultural experiment stations of the respective states. The grant to the Texas Station is one of five totaling $74,289.65 made recently by the Southwestern Peanut Growers Association. Other grants included $30,000 to the Oklahoma Agricultural Experiment Station; $2,200 to the New Mexico Agricultural Experiment Station; and $1,089.65 for the preparation and distribution by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service of approximately 200,000 pamphlets to peanut growers on

Blind Man Led Down Plank
HAMBURG, Germany, Aug. 14 (UP)—The blind man from Texas was led down the gangplank at the airport to his waiting bride, whom he remembered only as a child.

Automobiles — C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors, predicted that auto production will be cutback only about 10 per cent in 1951. He said that manpower shortages may be more serious than any scarcity of steel.

Lumber — The Defense department predicted that it will need 1,500,000,000 board feet in the next year, leaving 33,500,000,000 board feet for civilian use. Private industry experts claim this will be enough.

OUR GROUND SPOTTERS are in constant and direct communication with the planes," Capt. John P. Kelly, of Morristown, N. J., explained. "The planes are overhead every hour of the day from dawn to darkness. As soon as one flight is ordered to return to its base, another replaces it, and the squadrons stay over the front lines or stations until they are called or run low on gas."

In their first Korean operation Marine aviators destroyed more than 100 enemy vehicles, bombed out motor, machinegun and artillery positions, and cleaned out a score of enemy roadblocks.

Experts Express Optimism About Civilian Goods
Wilson Says Only 10 Per Cent Drop In Car Manufacturing
WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (UP)—Government experts agreed today that the Korean war may not affect the production of civilian goods as much as they first expected. Military and civilian economists, after a careful second look at the industrial demands of the war effort, came up with these revised predictions about civilian output: Steel — Military needs will be stepped up from the current level of 2,000,000 tons a year to only 5,500,000 or 6,000,000 tons.

Admiral Says Navy Has Stopped 35 Per Cent Of KoRed Supplies To War Front

By Jack Burby United Press Staff Correspondent WITH TASK FORCE 77 OFF KOREA, Aug. 14 (UP)—Rear Admiral John M. Hoskins, tactical air commander of task force 77, said today that his carrier planes stopped 35 per cent of the North Korean supplies from reaching the fighting front during the past week. "There's no question that we've hurt them badly," he said. "Our troops have been able to hold this (past) week and the critical period is over." Rear Admiral Eddie Ewen, who flies his flag from a nearby carrier, reported that the highways between Incheon and Suwon west and south of Seoul were littered with the wreckage of enemy trucks and jeeps caught moving in daylight. "They are getting desperate for supplies and are forced to move during the day," he said. Hoskins said the airmen of the task force had their biggest single day of the Korean war yesterday. The Panther Jets, Corsairs and Sky Raiders destroyed five Yak fighters and damaged two others on the ground at Seoul's Kimpo airfield, destroyed at least six locomotives, set fire to ammunition dumps, warehouses, flatcars and railway yards, and strafed numerous troop concentrations. The Panther Jets tagged the enemy planes in a raid from only 15 feet altitude on Kimpo airfield.

EHS Gridders Meet At Gym On Tuesday

Eastland's 1950 football Mavericks meet with coach Wendell Sieber, at the high school gymnasium at 5 p. m. Tuesday. Only five retraining lettermen will be on hand to greet the coaches, none of them offensive starters last year. Siebert said that the first week or ten days would be spent with conditioning exercises. The team has about four weeks to train before the first game of the season with Coleman in Coleman. Six conference games and four non-conference games are on the 1950 Maverick card. Home games are scheduled with Ballinger on September 15 and Albany in September 22, both non-conference scraps. Conference tilts at home will be with Dublin, DeLeon and Cisco. Cisco is a new member of the district, and is dropping down from class AA circles. Other games for the season will be with Ranger Hamilton, Winters and Comanche. All except Winters are district foes. Siebert urged all who are interested in playing for Eastland High this fall to report Tuesday afternoon. Heavy equipment will not be issued Tuesday, Siebert added.

Reds Mass 60,000 Troops Ready For Taegu Offensive

By Earnest Hoberecht United Press Staff Correspondent TOKYO, Tuesday, Aug. 15 (UP)—Counter-attacking U. S. troops drove half way through the Communist bridgehead in the elbow of the Nakdong river today. They may have upset enemy plans for a big offensive against the Nakdong defenses. Troops of the U. S. 24th division attacked the six-mile rim of the Nakdong bridgehead southwest of Taegu. In some sectors they advanced more than a mile to strategic heights near the middle of the bulge. Another bridgehead across the Nakdong just west of Taegu was smashed by the U. S. 1st Cavalry division. About 700 or 800 Communist troops were wiped out. The early hours of Tuesday brought no sign of the big offensive indicated by a massing of six enemy divisions totaling perhaps 60,000 men on a 20-mile stretch of the west bank of the Nakdong opposite Taegu. A LATE DISPATCH FROM U. S. Eighth Army headquarters in Korea said military leaders expressed cautious optimism over the defensive situation on this second anniversary of the independence of the Korean Republic and fifth anniversary of the end of Japanese control. The anniversary had been heralded as the likely day for the start of the Communist offensive along the Nakdong. But the 8th Army dispatch said that in the pre-dawn hours, at least, there was little more than what one officer called the usual activity along the front. Gen. Douglas MacArthur's midnight communique said the 24th Division, reinforced by units from another division, pushed the Communist Fourth Division back about 1,000 yards in the main Nakdong bridgehead. BUT FIELD DISPATCHES covering later developments gave the U. S. advance as 2,000 yards, and said it carried to high ground from which the enemy had been giving the GI's considerable trouble. One enemy tank has been reported in the bridgehead, the communique said. It reported that the Pohang air field, the biggest and best in the Allied beachhead, still was in friendly hands. But the Air Force had abandoned it as an operating base when the Communists advanced virtually to the edge of it. AMERICAN AND KOREAN Republican troops were reported fighting a force believed to be the North Korean 12th Division west of Pohang. Front reports said they were trying to wedge in between the enemy forces holding Pohang and several thousand other Communists in the hills to the northwest. United Press correspondent Robert Vermillion reported from the field: "Negro and South Korean infantry and white gunners, tankmen and engineers were determined to keep the United Nations grip on the field, and were hopeful they eventually could drive the Communists back into the mountains."

Ft. Worth Toad Is Derby Winner Eastland Entries Take Second, Third Place In Saturday Race

"Lonely Hart" owned by Marian Hart of Ft. Worth won the Eastland Old Rip Derby and a prize of $300 over more than 430 competitors before about 1,500 persons Saturday night at the Firemen's Field race track. Buddy Aaron's "Lightning Rod" took second place and the $200 prize. M. L. Keisler received third money of $100 when his entry, "Gulf Lube," won that spot. Both are from Eastland. The three toads won over such publicized frogs as Edgar Bergen's "Mortimer Snerd," James Farley's "Big Jim" and Coalinga, California's air mail special delivery toad, "Coalinga Oiler II." Mortimer Snerd won heat 19, but failed to place in the sweeps-takes race. The other two lost in their initial heats. There were waiting for them were several concessions, furnishing games of skill, hot dogs, sandwiches, cold drinks, bingo and amusements. JOE STANLEY STEPHENS served as bugler for the races. Wendell Siebert was the official starter. Charles Sandler and Dizzy Dean of Cisco, Mayor Price Crawley and Morris Newman of Ranger were judges for the races. Dr. Kenneth Cowan and Tom Lovelace served as gatemen and E. K. Henderson gave the crowd a description of the races over a public address system. Boy Scouts acted as retrievers when the races were finished. OWNERS OF TOADS WHICH won their heats in the race were Bailey C. Malone of Dallas; Coca-Cola Bottler, Atlanta, Georgia; A. W. Dodson, Childress; L. P. Francis, Electra; E. W. Patton, Houston; C. C. Dean, Eastland; Commercial Medals, Dallas; Freychlag Insurance Agency, Eastland; M. L. REDS THREATEN YANK LIFELINE—Reinforced Korean Communist troops broke out of their main Nakdong River bulge, cutting 24th Division's Changnyong - Yongsan-Miryang supply route (1). Reds captured Yongsan and thrust to within 12 miles of vital Pusan-Taegu transport artery. Americans defending their best airstrip six miles south of Pohang (2) faced attack by estimated 10,000 Reds regrouping south of Kigye. In southwest, Task Force Kean drove within three miles of Chinju (3), and Marines were racing up from Kosong to complete solid north-south line. U.S. artillery and troops battled enemy thrust across the Nakdong at Taksongdong (4). Reds' five divisions—estimated at 25,000 men—massed in that area threatens key transport hub Taegu. ### New Battle Tactic Marines Prove Air Support Will Do Job; Enemy Fears Its Force

By Robert C. Miller United Press Staff Correspondent WITH THE MARINES, Korea, Aug. 14 (UP)—The Marines in their south coast drive have smashed at the North Korean Reds with a deadly new battle tactic—close air support. The product of eight years' development, it has paid the highest dividends since the Marines struck west from Mazan. Marine planes directed from control-jeeps below worked over enemy positions as close as 50 yards ahead of the ground troops. Captured Red soldiers said it was the most destructive American weapon they had faced since the war began. Marines from Brig. Gen. Edward A. Craig, 1st Division commander, to riflemen were unanimous in their praise of the pilots and the ground controllers attached to the infantry. Maj. R. E. Johnson, of New Smyrna Beach, Fla., emphasized that "it is not a hit or miss proposition but a scientific approach to the coordination of air and ground forces in which we (pilots) act as a mobile heavy artillery ready to blast any target requested from the ground." "We started experimenting in the Pacific war," he said, "and

The Texas and Oklahoma Stations are now cooperating in the preparation and distribution of a handbook on peanut production and marketing in the two states, to be financed from this grant-in-aid.

In addition to the cooperative handbook, the Texas Station already has approved projects entitled "Methods, Practices and Costs of Handling that Affect Market Qualities of Peanuts," "Breeding for Disease Resistance in Peanuts," and "Maintaining and Increasing Foundation Seed of New Peanut Strains for Texas Growers."

The Texas Station will also provide personnel, land, and office and laboratory space for conducting these studies. It will analyze and interpret the research data obtained and publish it for the benefit of the peanut growers of the State.

Most of Texas peanut research is now centered on the research station at Stephenville, in the heart of Texas' main peanut producing areas. Under the expanded program made possible by this research-aid fund, workers at the Main Station at College Station will be called upon for more assistance in their specialized fields of crop production, Lewis said.

Lewis pointed out that peanut production is an important part of the Texas agricultural economy. The State ranks fourth in peanut production in the country, following Georgia, North Carolina and Alabama.

Before World War II, Texas farmers planted about 300,000 acres to peanuts annually. The peanut acreage was greatly increased in the early 1950's, due to war demands for vegetable oils. The largest acreage of peanuts picked and threshed in the State was 906,000 in 1943, and the greatest total production was 430,080,000 pounds of nuts in 1942. The Texas peanut acreage in 1949 was estimated at 572,000 and production of nuts at 300,300,000 pounds.

War Turning Iron Ore Into Precious Metal

The principal peanut-production areas in Texas and the West Coast Timbers, an area south of San Antonio and an area immediately west of Houston. Peanuts, however are grown to some extent throughout East Texas.

The average yield of peanuts in Texas is too low for profitable production, except at a high price per bushel, Lewis said.

Whether the acreage be large or small, the future of the peanut industry in the State depends upon increasing both the yield per acre and producing nuts of better quality.

"Teamwork, such as that afforded by the Southwestern Peanut Growers Association, will go a long way toward pin-pointing the needs of the industry and helping in the solution of many of its problems," Lewis said.

Skunks Join Family

ROANOKE, Va. (UP)—Kitty, a black cat owned by Mrs. Garvin Stanley, adopted three baby skunks, and added them to her family of three kittens. The Stanleys have not found them objectionable and plan to keep at least one as a pet after they are "deodorized."

The measure is out of committee now and is being written into the defense production act which Congress is preparing for the President. The House already has approved it and the Senate is thinking about it.

The iron rep. Blatnik is interested in is called Taconite. This stuff, he says, will have to supplement the better grades of iron which the steel industry is eating up at a rate of 100 million tons a year.

When the Minnesota man first brought up the subject a lot of people turned up their noses. They did until the Korea crisis came and they started looking around. Mining taconite was tried once before, in 1922, but it was considered too costly a project. But Blatnik points out that new processes developed by the University of Minnesota may change this.

Sen. Ed Thye, former governor of Minnesota, backed his colleague and so did a lot of others. Mineral experts from Texas reported that they have low-grade iron that can be washed pretty clean with water. Pennsylvania, California, Virginia and several other states have discovered all of a sudden that there is iron in their back yards, too.

It was hard for Blatnik to win a point in this one, but Johnny has made points the hard way before. During the war he was a Captain in the Air Force. He was sent to the OSS and was parachuted into Yugoslavia for a unique and perilous job. Behind enemy lines, together with Randolph Churchill, son of Winston, he spent 14 months helping our downed fliers sneak through German and Italian lines and back into active duty.

But back to taconite: The Representative found skeptics wondering why a government loan was necessary. He explained to the doubters that the grinding and crushing of the very hard rock takes the biggest machinery of its kind ever conceived by engineers. Estimates of what is needed run from $100,000,000 to $300,000,000.

Thinking it over later, Alice persuaded herself to be glad that Molly had not amplified her remarks. She had to live at the Hallecks indefinitely. No doubt, the less she knew about their private lives, the better.

But presently Alice Pine found still another interest in the Halleck family. It was the small, tuff-haired Rick.

Texas In Running For $200 Million Hydrogen Plant; Arkansas Leads

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (UP)als.—Speculation on the site of The joint Congressional Atomic Energy Commission already has bomb plant centered today on the discussed the problem of site location Southwest section of the country, with AEC officials. In a formal It was aroused by published re-statement, the legislators said ports that Arkansas has been tag-tat two factors will weigh heavily ged—at least tentatively—as the in the final decision. 1. A location that is as far re-moved as possible from the range of an enemy attack. 2. A location near already existing facilities to house the workers in the plant. (The AEC has complained frequently over the burdens of operating the so-called "Atomic towns" of Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Los Alamos, N. M.) Apparently, little attempt will be made to conceal the location once it has been selected. Officials have discussed the problems fairly freely on the theory that it could not be hidden away. Rep. James W. Trimble, D., Ark., said that he and Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D., Ark., have re-commented that the plant be constructed on the White River in North-Central Arkansas. He said reports that the site has tentative approval "are at least premature and possibly in error."

The two legislators discussed the question with President Truman last Monday and later with Chairman W. Stuart Symington, of the National Security Resources board. Trimble said that both were non-committal.

Trimble said that the University of Arkansas has suggested three sites to the commission. Sen. J. William Fulbright, D., Ark., later told reporters that four sites in his state have been put forward. He said that two are in the Ozark National forest and two in the Ouachita National Forest.

"But the best information we can get is that it is still in the survey stage," he said.

Everybody in the little town knew that Banker Smithers, who had just passed away, was wealthy and many were guessing as to just how much his fortune had been. One citizen knowing the attorney who had drawn up the will made a thinly-veiled inquiry.

"Would you like to know how much Mr. Smithers left?" the lawyer asked.

Key West, Florida, originally was called Cayo Hueso, or Bone Key, by the Spaniards because of the large number of Indian skeletons they found there.
