CHINESE COMMIES CONTINUE WAR OF NERVES WITH U. S.

By Charles Moore
United Press Staff Correspondent
TOKYO, Sept. 1 (UP)—The Chinese Communists said today "bestial" American air attacks on Manchuria were no mistake but planned in advance to slow down Red reconstruction.

At the same time a U. S. Far East Air Force spokesman in Tokyo said he could add nothing to the American statement in the United Nations Security Council that one American F-51 fighter plane "may have by mistake" strafed the Antung airstrip in Manchuria Aug. 27.

The statement was made yesterday by Ambassador Warren R. Austin, Chief U. S. delegate to the UN. Warren said evidence of such an accidental attack has not been fully confirmed. He denied the broad Chinese Communist charge that U. S. planes bombed and shot up Chinese territory.

The Air Force spokesman said: "We will have to stand on the Austin statement. It is complete and correct."

The spokesman flatly denied a Japanese allegation that four-engined Russian bombers flew over Northern Japan three or four times since Aug. 23.

Japanese sources who made this report said they expected it to be denied "for at least a while."

Chinese Communist propaganda broadcasts attacking American air "degradations" and demanding withdrawal of U. S. troops from Korea continued without let-up. Leading newspapers throughout China swelled the campaign. Their editorial attacks were broadcast over the Peiping radio.

A Chinese Communist news agency dispatch from Peking said a report in the Washington Star on Aug. 26, on the eve of the first U. S. raid in Manchuria, showed that "U. S. government authorities for some time have been plotting an attack on Northeast China."

The Washington Star, the Red dispatch said, reported that U. S. authorities were considering raids on Manchurian bases which allegedly were supplying the North Koreans.

"Talk of Chinese bases supplying North Korea with military equipment was only a pretext for the crime of the U. S. Air Force," the Communist agency said.

A dispatch from Antung said American B-29 Superfortresses circled the airfield there at 2:30 p. m. Aug. 27, and at 4:30 "two U. S. F-51s" dived and fired at 600 feet.

200 County Farmers Attend Tour Thursday

Over 200 Eastland county farmers attended the annual soil conservation tour and field day for Zone 5 of the Upper Leon Soil Conservation District at Kokomo Thursday, according to L. R. Higginbottom, Gorman, district supervisor for this area.

Higginbottom was chairman of the annual meeting and tour for the day. R. F. Reeves, Rising Star, Soil Conservation Service, was leader of the morning tour where soil conservation and saving measures were inspected on the farms of Albert Hendricks, J. C. Caraway, J. C. Donaldson and Cecil Self.

Lunch was served to the group at noon through the courtesy of the Gorman Lions Club and the Chambers of Commerce of Eastland, Ranger and Cisco.

Kilgore's Creamery, Eastland, and the Coca Cola Co., also cooperated in the lunch.

The afternoon tour under the direction of John Simpson, De Leon, soil conservation service, checked soil saving devices on the farms of J. W. Brown, J. J. Brown, Odie Rodgers and Ed Harrison.

Soil conservation practices viewed by the group included semi-channel type terraces, contour and strip crops, a new summer legume soil building crop named Guar, results of vetch seed inoculation, Crotolaria and vetch strips, Little Bluestem pastures and a large 23,600 pound brush cutter following a bulldozer which was knocking down the brush.

FOURTH HURRICANE SMASHES LEEWARD ISLES WITH BIG WIND ON WAY TO PUERTO RICO

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 1 (UP)—The fourth hurricane of one of the busiest storm seasons on record flailed the Leeward Islands with 140-mile-an-hour winds today on a drive up the stepping-stone chain toward Puerto Rico.

Hurricane warnings were posted in the Virgin Islands. Storm No. 2, meanwhile, breathed its dying gasps in wet but impotent puffs through the Mississippi and Ohio valleys after mopping up the Gulf Coast to the tune of about $1,000,000. The third big blow, which never came very close to land, was away up in the North Atlantic and the season-opener had already blown itself out.

The new one looked like a humdinger—"severe and dangerous" the weather bureau called it. It apparently was giving the islanders a hard time although there were no direct reports because of communication difficulties.

A 4:30 a. m. (CST) advisory located the "eye" at latitude 17.1 north, longitude 62.2 west, which is smack in the middle of the cluster of tiny islands that lie east of the Virgin Islands about 1,500 miles southeast of Miami.

Hurricane winds were estimated to extend 50 to 70 miles east of the center. This would mean another battering for little Antigua, since the storm was centered 20 miles east of there. The British possession took a direct hit from the earlier storm.

The Gulf storm which rumbled over the Leeward Islands later flattened out into a squally wave and, like a giant humpty-dumpty, never could put itself together again. Its center was still ill-defined when it hit the coast between Panama City, Fla., and Mobile, Ala., and the winds never measured up to the 115-mile-an-hour velocity expected.

Nevertheless, the rain-laden whizzer washed out enough roads, uprooted enough trees and flattened enough crops to give north-west Florida an estimated $600,000 repair bill. Alabama's damage was estimated at $500,000.

Two persons were killed and five injured in Alabama in accidents caused by the blow.

Enemy Uses 50,000 To Break Line

By Earnest Hoberecht
United Press Staff Correspondent
TOKYO, Sept. 1 (UP)—American forces snapped back today after the initial blow of the greatest Communist offensive of the war, and recaptured Haman under cover of bombing, strafing and rocketing U. S. planes.

Fresh troops rushed into the line to reinforce the mauled 24th regiment went over to the counter-attack at 4 p. m. By 8 p. m. they had recovered the lost ground and were fighting west of ruined and smoking Haman.

Haman, eight and a half miles from the port of Masan, is at the southern end of the flaming 50 mile front along which the Reds loosed their greatest offensive and advanced up to eight and a half miles at one point.

On the Naktong river line farther north, where the Reds made 17 crossings, a Second division spokesman said the Yanks were "stacking up dead Koreans by the hundreds."

In the Masan area, the initial attack alone cost the Communists 1,000 dead.

American losses were described as "moderate to heavy." Front reports indicated that on the Masan and Naktong river fronts the Reds were using possibly as many as 50,000 men. However, many of their divisions have been cut up badly and may be below strength.

Waves of 1,150 Air Force, Marine and Australian fighters and bombers ranged over the swaying front. Returning pilots said their strafing was "very satisfactory."

Greatest air support was thrown into the Haman area, athwart the route to our major supply port of Pusan. The planes worked as close as 50 yards ahead of the ground troops.

United Press Correspondent Charles Corddry, with the 25th division, reported the recapture of Haman.

He said the attack which retook the smoking town was preceded by intense air strikes. Light bombers dropped 1,000 pound proximity fuse bombs on the area in addition to strafing and rocketing enemy positions.

The Reds had opened a new mortar and artillery bombardment on the American left flank, but on the center and right side of the line our troops were on the attack.

North of Haman, the 35th Regimental combat team counter-attacked after the Reds penetrated 3,000 yards on the extreme right flank in the vicinity of Masan-Ni. Masan-Ni is near the confluence of the Nam and Naktong rivers. A military spokesman said one company of the 35th was surrounded by 600 Reds, but pressure was relieved somewhat by two flights of fighter bombers which dropped jellied gasoline bombs on the enemy.

The spokesman said one battalion of the 24th regiment which took the brunt of the attack last night and this morning is secure, but that another had been "Disorganized and driven back."

The 25th division was to have air cover all night, but a division spokesman said, "I think we are in for a bad night."

On the 2nd division front along the Naktong, where the defenders reeled back as much as eight and a half miles under the initial Red assault, observation pilots said the Communists were loading rafts on the west side of the river to reinforce their already extensive crossings.

B-26 Marauders ranged up and down the river, shooting up everything in sight in an effort to halt the Communist drive.

The Communists were using oxcarts, packhorses and vehicles to stream across hastily constructed sandbag bridges over the Naktong in the central sector.

The 50 mile line today was sway-backed, anchored in general at Hyongpung, about 15 miles southwest of Taegu, and at recaptured Haman. It dipped in the center where the Communies scored their greatest gains in terms of miles. It was just above the point where the Nam and Naktong rivers join, and then around the curve of the Naktong eastward, that the Communists made the greatest number of their 17 river crossings.

The Allies' main communications road on the Naktong line runs 21 miles southward from Hyongpung on the north, all the way to the river's great eastward bend on the south. The enemy had been able to throw at least one block across the highway and it was under artillery fire near its southern end.

52 TURN OUT FOR FIRST DAY OF RJC GRID PRACTICE MEET

scheduled two practices per day until school starts, September 6.

Dr. G. C. Boswell, president of the college, said that today's turnout of players was about 20 more than had ever turned out for the first practice session at the Junior college.

End of a Chapter

By Edwin Rutt

THE STORY: Alice Pine, secretary to Muriel Hallock, who writes popular stories under the name of "Jo Palmarva," suspects Muriel's husband Brent of having been cruel to her. His four-year-old adopted son, although Alice cannot forgive her, she feels strangely drawn to Brent. One night Muriel sees Brent take Alice in his arms, but Muriel does not seem to be disturbed. Brent leaves his Connecticut home to take a job in Providence. One week-end Muriel answers her literary agent's summons to New York, leaving Alice home alone and Brent turns up unexpectedly. Brent asks Alice to go sailing with him, but Alice does not believe it would look so good. Later Alice feels irritated by Brent's absence and manages to become considerably angry with him.

leek would be there for dinner, a point upon which Alice could not enlighten her.

"Better expect him only if you see him," she said.

The cook grumbled, without venom but from long-established habit, as cooks do.

BRENT did not return until about 9 o'clock.

"No Muriel yet?" he asked casually, as he came into the living room where Alice was again concerned with the non-arresting book.

She informed him of Muriel's telephone message. "And someone else," she added pointedly, "might have done some phoning."

"You mean about dinner? I guess I should have. But I imagined you'd do all right without me."

"I did." She punished him a little. "Beautifully."

"Well," said Brent, "I didn't do beautifully. Spent the afternoon wandering around and wound up at the Tolliver diner."

"Brent, you don't need to sound as if I'd ruined your day."

He looked at her speculatively. "The day's gone. But—would you take a walk with me now, Alice?"

"Certainly." She got up at once.

Brent took her arm, drew her out to the lawn. Light-squares on the grass cast by windows fell behind: snatches crowded to meet them.

"Rick been all right?" Brent asked.

"Perfect."

"No trouble?"

"None whatever." It was pointless to mention the recent tantrum. Nothing had come of that literary war. "By."

Glad of even small details to occupy her, Alice looked up the arrival time of the last train and went to instruct the cook. The cook wanted to know if Mr Hal-

BOYCE HOUSE SAYS

A man was reclining in a barber's chair, his face swathed in a hot towel when a little boy ran in and said, "Mr. Jones, your house is burning down."

The man leaped from the chair and dashed down the street. He had gotten two blocks when he stopped and said, "What in thunder am I running for? My name is not Jones."

Two acquaintances met and one remarked, "I saw your wife at the store just now—at least I think it was her." The other asked, "Did she have a gold tooth?" The first one replied, "I don't know; her mouth was closed." "Then that wasn't my wife."

WASHINGTON COLUMN

How Spanish Loan Plan Was Put Across in House

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—There is considerable monkey business behind Nevada Sen. Pat McCarran's surprise victory on the $100,000,000 Spanish loan authorization. As amended by Wyoming Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, the McCarran proposal would direct Marshall Plan Administrator Paul Hoffman to issue $100,000,000 in notes. Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder would be directed to buy these notes. The money would then be loaned to Spain under terms of the Marshall Plan act. Export-Import Bank would be the collecting agency.

Effect of the McCarran-O'Mahoney amendment would be to give Generalissimo Francisco Franco $100,000,000 worth of Marshall Plan loan benefits, without Spain's being admitted to Marshall Plan membership. Interest rates and repayment terms would be more liberal under a Marshall Plan loan than under a straight Export-Import Bank loan. Also, Spain would not be required to live up to the obligations of other Marshall Plan countries.

In other words, this is a back-door approach.

Similar Spanish aid proposals have been made by Senator McCarran in the past, but they have always been defeated. The last time was April of this year, when the vote was 35 senators for the Spanish loan, to 46 against.

The switch to a 65 to 15 vote victory for Senator McCarran is largely a result of the Korean crisis. It is also the result of considerable pressure from the Department of Defense.

During the Senate debate on the McCarran-O'Mahoney amendments, however, there were a couple of distortions of fact. One was a statement that the State Department was opposed to a Spanish loan. The other was a statement that the Export-Import Bank had been slow in granting credit to Spain. It was for these reasons that the Senate wanted to force the issue by requiring that loans be made through the Marshall Plan.

AS a matter of record, on April 27, Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Tom Connally released a letter from Secretary of State Dean Acheson which said, "... the normal channel for credit from the United States government, namely the Export-Import Bank, is open to Spain on the same basis as any other country."

At that time, the Spaniards had not applied to the U. S. government for any loans, but soon after they did. Formal application was made for a $700,000 loan to modernize and enlarge a fertilizer plant. That application is now before Export-Import Bank and may be granted some time soon.

In May, Andres Moreno, director of Banco-Hispano-Americano, came to Washington and talked somewhat grandly about Spain's need for credits of $1,250,000,000. As this was $400,000,000 more than the bank's total assets, the idea was rejected.

Spain then came back and began discussions on the possibility of obtaining Export-Import Bank loans for a total of nearly $70,000,000. For more fertilizer plants, $13,000,000; for mining machinery, $9,000,000; for commercial planes, $6,000,000; for electric power plants, $5,000,000; for railroad equipment, $15,000,000, and for tractors, $20,000,000.

The Spaniards were told to go back and prepare certain financial data on their country's economy. These data have now been submitted and are under study by Export-Import Bank officials. But formal applications for these loans have not yet been made by the Spanish government.

To these projects, however, Senator McCarran added $12,000,000 for construction and improvement of airports and $200,000,000 for cotton. The first would have a vote appeal for military-minded senators and the second for Southern cotton belt senators. The total rounds out to the $100,000,000 figure.

PASADENA, Sept. 1—Police Commissioner Ralph Davis today ordered police to close the city tight against pinball machines after two men were fined $50 each in corporation court on charges of exhibiting a gaming machine.

Acting Police Chief John H. Gaines made a roundup of one-ball machines Wednesday, picking up eight. Arrests were made at two places where officers testified they had witnessed payoffs on the machines.

"I will not tolerate pinball machines in Pasadena at any time," Davis said.

Recapping Is More Economical Than Ever, Jim Horton Says

Never in the history of the tire industry has recapping been more economical for the public, says Jim Horton, owner and operator of the Jim Horton Tire Service in Eastland.

Tires made now are mostly of the low pressure, air ride or cushion variety, made to carry less pressure and more air volume, giving greater cushion for the motorist as well as a greater durability to the tire itself.

"When a low pressure tire is worn almost smooth, or smooth, you have a carcass that is more than capable of wearing out two or three more treads with all of the safety it had to start with. A tire worn smooth is really safer than a new tire," Horton added.

"If any flaw, or defect is in a tire it will show up long before the tire has worn slick. If it goes on to wear smooth, that tire has all of the stretch taken out of it and there is nothing to give, and with another tread put on it, the tire will actually give you more miles than the regular tread did on the original tire."

"We find that if the public knew of the feasibility of capping the present day tire they would never buy a new tire just because their tires were worn smooth, and I should think it would behoove all motorists to take a look at the economical side of motoring and not throw a good carcass away. The actual cost of the manufacture of that carcass, or so-called smooth tire is 70 per cent of the cost of the tire, so why throw it away, when you can have a tread put on for one-half or less than one-half of the cost of the original tire?"

"Your safety is no better than your tire. Adhering to proper air pressure will give you 25 to 50 per cent more mileage on your tires."

"Come by and let us show you what is being done today in recapping. It is something new and I assure you when we recap a tire you can not tell it from a new one," Horton said.

Allied Planes Give Ground Close Support

TOKYO, Sept. 1 (UP)—A total of 1,150 Allied fighters and bombers hammered North Korean troops along a 55-mile front today in an attempt to stem the enemy Naktong river breakthrough, the 5th Air Force announced.

Air Force, Marine and Australian planes worked over Red ground troops as close as 50 yards in front of the battling G.I.'s. Coming out of their dives, the pilots often could see American troops waving at them.

The planes were still at it at sundown.

The 1,150-plane figure given by an Air Force spokesman did not include the B-29 Superfortresses and light bombers which ranged Korea pounding Red supply routes.

Close ground support of American troops was concentrated in the 25th Division sector near Haman, where pilots said they saw the fiercest ground fighting of the day.

The fliers said they killed many Red troops in foxholes and on the ridges. Destruction of a large number of artillery pieces and equipment was claimed.

The North Korean Air Force peeked out of hiding today. Two black planes — ground observers weren't sure if they were Yaks or IL-10s — ganged up on an American L-5 observation craft and shot it down.

Allied fighters scoured the area but couldn't find the attackers. Later a twin-engine enemy transport-type craft flew over Allied lines, dropped propaganda leaflets, and high-tailed it back.

The enemy's big new push brought the planes swarming from the Pohang front on the east

Three Week Work Shop Completes Work This Week

A three weeks work-shop in education under the direction of Dr. R. A. Collins, dean of education, of Hardin-Simmons University was completed here this week.

Purpose of the course was to prepare teachers for this year's work. The course was divided into four divisions and were: Improving average daily attendance, parents co-operation;

Survey of proper equipment for elementary schools; physical education in junior high schools; and methods of teaching music in elementary grades.

Teachers enrolled for the course included Smith, Mrs. Lillie Hazel and Tillie Tuck of Breckenridge, A. G. Koenig, Mrs. L. H. Hageman and O. C. Warden of Ran-coast to the Naktong river. Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced fighters and bombers were "throwing everything they had" against Communist ground troops.

Our modern design, materials and machinery turn out a finished product you can have full confidence in and be proud of.

Don't confuse modern retreading work with the old timey "top cap" of the war days. There is all the difference in the world.

Our modern low pressure retreads come down over the side wall of the tire and STAY ON. They give new tire appearance and long wear at about one third the cost of a new tire.
