Hospital Meeting Set Friday Night; Big Group Invited

What will happen in the present drive for a hospital in Eastland may well be determined at a meeting at the Woman's Club at 7:30 p. m. Friday.

Mrs. James Horton, president of the Civic League and Garden Club, and Mrs. John Turner, chairman of the club's hospital committee, have invited representatives of all the civic clubs and other civic organizations in the city to attend the policy-making meeting.

At the session, it is expected that the hospital committee will lay before the group its findings on the possibility of a hospital for Eastland, and its tentative recommendations.

At a meeting of the committee Sunday with Dr. Kenneth Cowan, former Eastland doctor, and Charles Root, owner of a Colorado City Hospital, Root gave his opinion on various hospital possibilities for Eastland, and said in his opinion it would be more feasible to enlarge the Caton-White Clinic into a hospital than to do anything else. He gave this opinion after a look at every suggested alternative.

What actually will be done on the hospital plan, however, likely will be determined at the meeting Friday.

It has been stressed by officers of the Civic League that the organization is not going to build a hospital, but is willing to help the community obtain one if a practical way can be found.

Oil Activity Holds At Good Pace

As oil activity continued at a good pace this week in the Briggs Owen Field northwest of Eastland, a second well was under way on A. D. Bradley and others' Holcomb lease just east of town, as the No. 1 well seemed to be headed for good production as a pumper.

Pump was being rigged on the No. 1 Holcomb, which hit pay in the Lake Sand between 3120 and 3175 feet recently, but final verdict still was not in on the well, oil men said.

The No. 2 Holcomb was drilling Thursday at 1650 feet in the Strawn, and was a good way from the Lake Sand. The No. 2 is an offset to the No. 1.

In the Briggs Owen pool, the Cooper and Hemphill No. 3 Carlisle was reported at 3285 feet in the Caddo. The well is a north-west offset to the No. 2 Carlisle, which has been rescribed as the best well yet in the pool.

Bankline Oil Co. started drilling on the No. 3 J. H. Reynolds, north offset to the No. 1 Reynolds. The No. 1 well has not been completed yet.

The Lohan No. 1 J. S. Hart well, in Sec. 58, H&TC Survey, a half mile west of the No. 3 Carlisle, was reported drilling a little below 2500 feet.

Lions Hear Report On State-Wide Camp

Eastland Lions Tuesday heard a report on the proposed $200,000 Texas crippled children's camp at Kerrville for which Texas Lions are trying to raise $100,000 by Feb. 1.

Ed Slaughter of Weslaco explained the camp idea, and said the obtaining of over 500 acres of land free near Kerrville as a campsite is conditioned on the $100,000 being in the bank on Feb. 1.

The matter was referred locally to the club's finance committee.

Collie Tells Rotarians Of Austin Trends

New taxes and new methods of stretching state income further will be chief topics at the new session of the Texas Legislature which met Tuesday, State Rep. Turner Collie of Eastland told members of the Eastland Rotary Club Monday.

opening of the legislative session in Austin.

He spoke on the eve of the tax and sales tax measures would be introduced at the session, but would be defeated.

Commissioners Court Raises Courthouse Salaries

Telephone Co-op Goal Of 500 Members Is Set

An objective of 500 members in an Eastland County rural telephone cooperative was set at a meeting of the cooperative in the Courthouse in Eastland Wednesday. The group made plans for a series of community meetings over the county to explain the plan and to sign up members.

On hand to explain the cooperative program and to answer questions were E. G. Ammons of Stephenville and B. W. Chesser of Weco. Rural Electrification Administration representatives.

Community meetings were set tentatively as follows: Flatwoods School, Friday evening, Jan. 19; Cheaney, at the Church of Christ, Monday, Jan. 22; Crocker School, Friday, Jan. 26; and Grant School, Friday, Feb. 2.

Meetings will begin at 7 a. m., and will be conducted by County Agent J. M. Cooper and other members of the cooperative. Ammons agreed to help out with the community meetings wherever possible.

Howard Ingram is president of the county cooperative group.

Ammons at the meeting explained terms of the federal bill under which farmers and ranchers can have telephone service, with the installations covered by a federal loan.

Only about 40 percent of the rural homes in the United States now have telephone, Ammons said, and of this number, only about half can be said to have adequate service.

Ammons said the rural telephone co-op is organized along the same lines as the REA, and went ahead to tell of the steps organizing.

First, he said, is signing up members, who pay a token fee of $5 when signing up, and between $25 and $50 as a membership fee later. The membership fee actually is an investment in the telephone system, and the members will own the system after the federal loan is paid off in 35 years, he explained.

There will be no other initial charges, Ammons said, and no other charges of any kind except the monthly bill.

After members are signed up is the time to think about the charter for the organization, Ammons told the group. The application must show wide coverage in the county, he said.

After the systems have been installed, there will be room for expansion of service, but only to a limited extent, and the wise rural resident will sign up early, the REA man said.

When the telephones are installed, 98 percent will be on the dial system, Ammons estimated. The county will be divided into trade areas, with local automatic exchanges. A number of trade areas will be grouped to form a service area, with calls outside the service area subject to toll or long distance charges.

A county office will be set up, with a manager who will be responsible to the board of directors. The Rural Phone Co-operative is responsible to the REA.

County Agent Cooper said there is a need for volunteer workers to canvass the county for memberships. He estimated from the 1945 census that there are 2475 prospective farm customers for a rural telephone cooperative in Eastland County.

A Comanche County representative indicated that applications for telephone service made by residents of Eastland County to a similar Comanche County group likely will be turned over to the Eastland County co-op.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Murphy have received word from their son, Capt. H. B. Murphy, who is stationed with the Air Force in Japan, that his furlough will not come due until September, if then.

He was originally scheduled to start his furlough the latter part of this month. He also reported a nice quiet Christmas in Japan.

Dr. Kenneth W. Cowan, ex-resident now of Colorado City, was an Eastland visitor this week. R. N. Wilson of Eastland returned to Colorado City with Dr. Cowan.

MODERN EDUCATION

Basketball Teams To Meet Ranger

Eastland High School's basketball teams, after dropping hard-fought games to Comanche Tuesday night, will take on Ranger's boy and girl teams in the Eastland gym Tuesday night of next week, with the games not counting in conference play.

Then Friday night the girls and boys will go to Dublin for their second district contests of the season.

The Ranger games Tuesday will begin with a B game at 6 p. m., continue with the girls' game at 7:15 p. m., and wind up with the boys' set-to at 8:15 p. m.

Eastland's boys came very close to winning their first district contest of the year Tuesday when they led Comanche right down to the wire, only to lose 46 to 41.

The Eastland boys had a fairly safe-appearing lead of 33 to 29 going into the final quarter, after leading 11 to 6 at the first quarter and being tied 21-21 at the half.

But inexperience told on the Mavericks in the final minutes as they became flustered, their defense fell apart and Comanche pulled ahead rapidly.

Eddie Haines was high for the Mavericks with 19 points. Other Eastland boys who played were Rodney Stephen, Douglas Williamson, James Freeman and George Harris, starters, and Edwin Aaron, Bob Womack and Doug King.

Williamson and Harris are freshmen. Womack, a senior who had not played before this season because of an injury, looked exceptionally good.

In the girls' game, Comanche pulled far ahead to win easily, 44 to 31, after Eastland put up a tight tussle in the first half. In the later stages of the game, Eastland Forward Edith Hazard was shooting wildly from almost anywhere she got the ball, and rarely connecting.

Last week end, the girls' team won the Scranton tournament to show itself the class of this immediate area. The boys' team lost a thriller to Moran in the first game of the tournament.

In earlier games Eastland had barely beaten the Ranger boys' five, while the Ranger girls took the measure of the Eastland girls.

Dr. Kenneth W. Cowan, ex-resident now of Colorado City, was an Eastland visitor this week. R. N. Wilson of Eastland returned to Colorado City with Dr. Cowan.

Mrs. Horton's Funeral Rites Held Tuesday

Survivors include four daughters, Mrs. Inez Lynam of Houston, Mrs. W. H. Loving of Oklahoma City, Mrs. Lela Mae Thorn of Houston, and Mrs. W. F. Barton; two sons, G. W. Horton of Gorman and J. C. Horton of Ada, Okla.; several grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Jean Richardson Is Safe In Korea

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Richardson of Corpus Christi have received a letter from their son, Pfc. Jean Richardson, who is with the 5th Regiment of the First Marine Division in Korea, saying he made it safely out of the Chosin Reservoir trap of northern Korea, and was on board a ship at the time.

Mr. and Mrs. Richardson saw their son in the newsreel "On the Road to Seoul," and obtained the frames showing Jean giving blood plasma to a wounded Marine.

Jean is the grandson of Mrs. W. H. Richardson and Mrs. Ida Harris of Eastland, and the brother of ex-Corp. Billy Ray Richardson, who was wounded on Iwo Jima in World War II.

Mrs. Joe Collins Is Sworn In As County Treasurer

Eastland County commissioners voted themselves and most other Courthouse officials raises Monday at the first regular meeting of their new terms.

The commissioners got the biggest pay increases, from $268.75 a month each to $295.62, or an increase of $26.87 each per month. Next in line came major elected Courthouse officials, including the county judge, sheriff, tax assessor-collector, county clerk, district clerk, county attorney. They all got raises of $74.94 a month, from $329.22 to $404.16.

The county auditor's pay was increased from $295.62 a month to $320.83.

Mrs. Joe Collins was sworn in as county treasurer, but she got no pay increase in her new job, which was filled by her husband before he was called to service by the Air Force.

Appointed county employee's pay increases ranged from a top of $24 a month to nothing.

Highest pay increase of $24 was won by Mrs. Edna Hatcher, secretary to County Attorney Elzo Boen.

The pay increases as voted by the court to appointee employees went to each employee by name. Some got $14 a month raises, a good many got lesser increases, and some got none.

The pay increase round was the second in the county in the post-war period, and came as a second big spurt in the cost of living was making itself felt.

More Men Leave After Enlisting

Samuel Wilson, formerly of Eastland, left Wednesday to join the Air Force, and James Newton Liles of Ranger left Thursday to join the Airborne Paratroopers, S-Sgt. Charles H. Brannon, Eastland recruiting officer, announced Thursday.

Joe Bob Davenport of Eastland left this week for the Air Force base in San Angelo for processing and reassignment, and Bob Vaught of Eastland was accepted for the Air Force Band. The two enlistees were part of a group of 15 who left Monday for examination. Most of the rest of the group were placed on the numerical waiting list, Brannon reports.

New regulations for Air Force enlistments announced by Sgt. Brannon provide that applicants with at least two years of college work completed, and those with previous service in the Armed Forces may now enlist.

Other applicants will be placed on the waiting list until they can be forwarded to the main station, Sgt. Brannon says. That will probably be in February, he noted. All applicants for the regular Army will be accepted, he added.

The New Plymouth Cranbrook Four-Door Sedan

Featuring improvements which produce unprecedented roadability and riding qualities, the beautifully redesigned 1951 line of Plymouth cars have numerous mechanical improvements and have retained their traditional roominess. Shown above is Plymouth's Four-door Cranbrook sedan.

New Plymouth Combines Beauty and Riding Ease

Detroit, Mich.—Spectacular new qualities which produce driving and riding ease heretofore unknown in automobiles of any price feature the new line of Plymouth cars. Combining smart new body lines with unprecedented interior luxury, the new Plymouth will go on display in dealer showrooms throughout the United States Saturday, Jan. 13.

Designers have given the Plymouth a striking new silhouette, and refinements in the interior are innovations in the lowest price field. The styling improvements retain the traditional roominess of the cars.

Easier to drive and more comfortable, the new cars have greater beauty, more safety features and broader ranges of vision than ever before.

Engineers say the new "Safety-Flow ride" takes the bounce and wallop out of bumps. A new application of hydraulic flow control in the shock absorbers provides a more gradual change of resistance during spring deflections and thus a softer ride when driving on average roads. It also exerts extra resistance on rough roads to a degree where driver and passengers are almost completely freed of the discomfort of being jolted around.

The "Safety-Flow ride" is one of the greatest contributions to driving comfort and safety in recent years, according to D. S. Eddins, president of Plymouth Motor Corp.

"The new Plymouth gives you roadability never before offered in any car," he said. "There is no necessity for steering wheel fatigue to control the car on difficult roads. The driver is no longer required to focus full attention on the condition of the road. He may be more watchful of oncoming traffic, pedestrians, curves, crossroads and other potential hazards."

Eddins called the new development a major step toward restful motoring. More confidence is gained by driving or riding in a new Plymouth with the "Safety-Flow ride," and as a result there is less driver and passenger fatigue, he said.

The lines of the new Plymouth have been beautified. An appearance of massiveness combined with smart streamlining is induced by a new grille, beautifully redesigned front fenders and hood, a wider windshield and a larger rear window. Narrower windshield pillars together with the wider windshield provide additional lateral vision. To utilize fully the greater vision through the new rear window, the rear view mirror is two inches wider. The chair-height front seat and the new design of hood and front fenders permit the driver to see the road nearer the car.

There are numerous mechanical improvements. Windshield wipers are electrically operated, and are of the single-speed, self-parking type. A unique pressure-vent radiator cap, which has been added as standard equipment, permits the cooling system to be operated at atmospheric pressure during normal driving conditions. Under high-load, high-temperature driving conditions, the new radiator cap provides a pressurized cooling system to allow high coolant temperature without boiling or loss of anti-freeze.

All Plymouth engines now have a built-in by-pass cooling system permitting water circulation and resulting in more uniform temperature throughout the engine during the warm-up period. The new system consists of a passage in the cylinder head and block providing direct access to the water pump, and a choke-type thermostat to regulate coolant flow to the radiator.

The generator output has been raised to 45 amperes, an increase of five amperes, providing greater electrical capacity for the operation of car accessories. The new hand brake "T" control handle is more accessible, and, as on former models, it operates independently of the foot brake as an added safety measure.

In the convertible club coupe, the spare tire is mounted vertically as in other coupe and sedan models, rather than on the trunk floor.

The new Plymouth interiors offer the finest selection of upholstery and trim and the most harmonious color schemes in the company's history. The colors which have been chosen provide throughout the interior a pleasing combination of shades in harmony with the car's exterior color. Designers say the interior is an unparalleled achievement in combining practicality with luxury. Always noted for spaciousness, Plymouth now has even more head room and more room to stretch out in comfort in the rear seat.

To go with the high quality of the upholstery, there is a handsome new instrument panel which features a more convenient grouping of controls, newly shaped instruments and improved coloring and lettering for easier checking while driving.

The wide, deep chair-height seats, the ease of entrance and exit, and all the other traditional Plymouth features for driver and passenger comfort have been retained.

There are nine body-types in the new Plymouth line; the Concord series includes a two-door sedan and a three-passenger coupe as well as the two all-metal utility models, the Suburban and the Savoy; the Cambridge series has a four-door sedan and a club coupe; and the Cranbrook series includes a four-door sedan, a club coupe, and a convertible club coupe.

The Suburban and the Savoy, with their smart, distinctive lines are all-purpose vehicles. They have the beauty and comfort of a sedan, and by simply lowering the rear seat flush with the floor they become sturdy cargo carriers for farmers, salesmen, sportsmen, tourists or others who require large cargo capacity. The Savoy, called the "country-club companion" of the Suburban, provides a greater variety of luxurious interior appointments and more exterior refinements to enhance the car's striking appearance.

Among the "high-priced car" features which are retained are six-cylinder, 97-horsepower engine with a 7 to 1 compression ratio, the combination ignition and starter switch, automatic electric choke, super-cushion tires, safe-guard hydraulic brakes, and safety-rim wheels.

- THEY'RE HANDSOME!
- THEY'RE LUXURIOUS!
- EASIER TO DRIVE!
- EASIER TO RIDE IN!

Don't Miss Seeing These NEW Cars

There are beautiful new lines in the new 1951 Plymouth cars. A new grille, redesigned front fenders and hood, and a wider windshield provide an appearance of massiveness combined with smart streamlining. The cars feature unprecedented roadability and riding qualities, and numerous mechanical improvements.

New Interior Luxury

The new Plymouth interiors offer the finest selection of upholstery and trim and the most harmonious color scheme combinations in the company's history. The colors provide throughout the interior a pleasing harmony of shades blending with the car's exterior color. Designers say the interior is an unparalleled achievement combing practicality with luxury. Always noted for roominess, Plymouth now has even more head room, and more room to stretch out in comfort in the rear seat. There is a handsome new instrument panel with more convenient grouping of controls, newly shaped instruments, and improved coloring and lettering for easier checking while driving.

New Riding Comfort

The new "Safety Flow ride" in the 1951 Plymouths is one of the greatest contributions to driving comfort and safety in recent years. The new Plymouth gives roadability never before offered in any car. This is effected by a new application of hydraulic flow control in the shock absorbers to provide a more gradual change of resistance during spring deflections, and thus a softer ride on both average and rough roads. The softer action also provides far greater steering ease, and practically eliminates driver fatigue usual on rougher roads.

WTCC ACTIVITIES TO BE EXPANDED, MANAGER SAYS

Abilene, January 8—Agricultural and livestock activities of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will be projected into every section of West Texas as part of the organization's 1951 program of regional and community level services, Fred H. Husbands, executive vice president and general manager of the WTCC, announced today.

George A. Logan, former manager of the agricultural department of the Waco Chamber of Commerce, assumed management of the WTCC's agriculture and livestock department on January 1. Logan will spend most of his time in the field on regional projects and activities, and cooperating with local chamber of commerce and farm and ranch groups in organizing and activating agricultural and livestock programs, Husbands said.

Development of more efficient marketing practices and procedures for agriculture and livestock, more and better farm roads, and water and soil conservation for improved and increased production will be important area-wide projects of the department, Logan said.

Services of the WTCC will also be available to chamber of commerce and other farm groups throughout the territory in helping to organize and expand local agricultural and livestock programs, and in county and area fair planning. These services will include advisory assistance in the selection of committees, planning of work, financing, and methods of successfully executing the program for maximum benefit to all concerned.

A graduate of Texas A&M College, Logan has spent several years in extension and soil conservation services and on the faculty at Texas A&M as graduate assistance in agricultural economics. He is 36 years old.

At Waco, he received wide recognition for outstanding work in developing the state's first Save-A-Farm Day with the complete rebuilding of a worn-out 185-acre farm, the state's first economy beef program for farm boys and girls, an extensive milk production program, an early cotton stalk destruction project, and the development of plans for a $1,250,000 agriculture and livestock exposition.

Other Central Texas projects supervised by Logan were corn contest activities and a coordinated cotton production program. This included cotton insect control, cotton labor supply, cotton growing contest, and first bale auction.

The Waco Farm and Ranch Club was developed by Logan to meet the needs of landowners and "windshield" farmers and ranchers.

Logan is a charter member of the Texas Commercial Agricultural Council, and was made an honorary Lone Star Farmer in 1948 for outstanding work with FFA programs in the Central Texas district.

BIG GROUP DUE TO HEAR COX

A large crowd of farm and ranch folks is expected to see Murray Cox's film on farming and ranching in the Pacific Northwest at the Eastland High School auditorium next Tuesday night, Jan. 16, according to A. Z. Myrick, president of the Eastland County Farm Bureau, whose organization is sponsoring the meeting.

Murray Cox, Dallas, popular farm radio reporter, whose noon program over W.F.A.A. is listened to by thousands in the Southwest, is coming directly to Eastland from a livestock show at Goldthwaite, will show the film himself and make comments.

The film was made by Cox when his special train of Texas farm and ranch folks toured that area of the country last summer.

The meeting will begin promptly at 7:30 o'clock. The meeting is opened to the general public as well as farmers and ranchers, Myrick said. Parking areas can be found on the East and South side of the high school building.

The officers and directors of the Farm Bureau met in Eastland on Tuesday night and planned additional features for the program besides the film.

Membership in the Farm Bureau in the county is growing according to the officials. The County group is an affiliate of the state organization and of the American Farm Bureau Federation, largest farm organization in the world.

Hospitalization as well as fire, life and car insurance is now available to the membership of the organization. Mrs. John Love of the Alameda Community, Rt. 1, Ranger, Texas is the insurance and service officer for the group.

Besides Myrick, and Mrs. Love, other officers of the Farm Bureau in the County include, Howard Ingram, Nimrod, Vice President; Joe Bob Browning, Gorman, Secretary-Treasurer; and Mrs. J. E. Moseley, Olden, Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Seaberry, Jr., returned this week from their wedding trip, and are now making their home in Eastland.

Successful Parenthood

MRS. CATHERINE CONRAD EDWARDS Associate Editor, Parents' Magazine

IN PROTECTING a child from accidents, no matter how carefully you watch over him, you can't take the whole responsibility for his safety. The child must be taught respect for dangerous objects and places so he can exercise caution. Sharing this responsibility not only insures greater safety for him, but the child is less likely to grow up with unreasonable fears. He understands the real dangers and has more freedom of action within safe boundaries.

One mother wrote recently that she had made the mistake of telling her child repeatedly, "You must never go across the street." He became so afraid of crossing streets that he refused later on to walk to school alone. With their second child these parents are following a different course. Instead of presenting crossing a street as something fearful like entering a bear's den or a lion's cage (something you don't do even when you're grown up) they explain, "You are too little now to cross the street alone, but you may do so when you are five years old."

In the meantime, there is plenty of drill in crossing streets safely—letting the child "help" mother cross the street by looking out for cars and waiting for the green light.

Here are some of the common dangers of childhood and suggestions on how other parents have taught their children to look out for them:

Turning on the gas jets is one of the first serious dangers a toddler runs into. Until he is old enough to understand what you tell him, you will simply have to keep him away from the stove, with a stern "No, no," every time he tries to grab the knobs.

When he can understand the knobs are turned only if you put something on to get water and then let him turn the gas while you explain the flame will be left on enough to make the water. When the water boils, let child turn off the gas. A lesson such as this will vine him that turning on gas is serious, practical business and not play.

A similar procedure usually succeeds in satisfying a child's nest in lighting matches. There are some children who are so obsessed with curiosity about that only constant vigilance keeping matches out of their will see them safely through phase. Watching his father's pipe and blowing out the is enough for most children first. Later on, when striking match himself is the big thrill him light the oven for you logs in the fireplace.

But always point out the dangers of fire—it is part of a child's safety education to well aware of risks and dangers.

In this day of houses all ground floor, teaching a child stay away from open windows not seem so important. But never know when he may someone who lives on a second third floor.

Living on the fifth floor and I am frequently terrified of friends' children seem to be aware of the danger of hanging over the widow's wherever you live, teach child caution in regard to windows.

Dale Carnegie Author of "HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

Make Yourself Do What You Fear

BATTERY, Portland, Oregon, says he grew up to young adulthood with a dreadful inferiority complex—which was the result of lack of education—and realized it. He was so afraid of educated people that he couldn't enter a restaurant or even go to a soda fountain for a drink without suffering agony.

Carnegie

As he grew older, he knew this mental handicap would handicap him all his life. How to overcome it? He realized that he had to go out among people, so he brought himself to accept an invitation to join a fraternal order.

At the first time, it came a little easier to mingle with the members, but he didn't really enjoy it, and when a meeting was made for home as fast as he could. It wasn't long before he was appointed to a minor position. But he dug in, did what was expected of him, and apparently what he did was to be good, for in what seemed to him an incredibly short time he was next in line for head of the lodge.

There was but one thing to do if he was to conquer his awful complex: join a class in public speaking. But the class was too large for everyone to speak each time, so the members volunteered when they wanted to speak.

At the first time he volunteered to speak, he became almost paralyzed with fear. Finally, he managed to walk down the aisle and get hold of a table. He said little and sat as long as soon as possible. He repeated that performance several times before his feeling eased. When he was appointed as head of the lodge, he suffered every time he spoke. He got through it somehow, and before his term was up he had public speaking, and by and by he found a class where he had to speak at every meeting. Then he began to make headway.

MAYOR McGUP

By John Jarvis

"American Home" Topic Of Program At Thursday Club

"The American Home" was the subject of the program presented at a meeting of the Thursday Afternoon Club January 5 in the home of Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins. Guests were greeted at the door by the hostess, and then were received in the den by Mrs. A. H. Gleason, mother of the hostess. Mrs. Frank Castleberry, program leader, presented Mrs. Pearl Grimes, who discussed "Heirloom Furniture." Each member brought a personal heirloom to display at the round table discussion.

Following the business meeting, presided over by Mrs. W. F. Davenport, president, the group heard a recording of the speech made recently by Mrs. Hiram C. Houghton, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, at the convention in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Gleason, assisted by the hostess, presided over the tea table in the hour which followed. The table was arranged in the sun room, with a holiday theme used in decorations on the table and throughout the house. Holiday fruit cake and white cake squares, made by Mrs. Castle-berry, were served. Mrs. Robert G. Perkins assisted in entertaining the guests. Mrs. Harry Wilson of Compton, Calif., sister and house guest of Mrs. Grady Pipkin, was a guest. Members present included Mes-
