Eastland now has an estimate of what purchasing the present Canon Clinic and adding onto it to make a 15 bed hospital will cost.

Now is the time to decide if this plan is to be followed through. If it is, activity to raise the money for the building should be started immediately.

Many of the hospitals built throughout the country have been tax-supported.

The Callahan county hospital at Baird pays its own way without county funds. Here is the story: "One county-owned hospital in West Texas which is paying its own way is the Callahan county hospital at Baird.

"With a fine reputation for food, the 25-bed institution serves a wide area of West Texas. It was a 1939 WPA project.

"We have patients from Odessa and some from New Mexico," says Mrs. Beattie Pass, administrator, who came here six years ago from Cisco to take her first hospital job.

"X-Ray equipment and the hospital's laboratory are practically new.

"Three physicians use the hospital. They are Drs. R. L. Griggs and M. L. Stubblefield, both of Baird, who have offices in the hospital and Dr. R. W. Evans of Clyde."

Crying towels were the order of the day when coaches Wendell Siebert of Eastland and "Stubby" Warden of Ranger got together over a cup of coffee in Ranger Friday afternoon.

"Stubby" moaned that he was not going to win a game this fall and Siebert said his plight was the same, except more so.

With Ranger and Eastland playing each other this fall, looks like one of their predictions is off, unless the teams settle for a tie.

Then someone asked "Stubby" about his non-conference schedule. "We open with Jackboro," he said with a noticeable wince. "And then we catch Stephenville." The look this time was downright painful, and Siebert even looked a little sympathetic.

"After this fall we won't even be able to score," Siebert moaned as Warden paused to gulp down his sorrow and dry his eyes.

The big result of the whole conversation was that Warden finally gave Siebert a lead on where he might contract a game for an open date on Oct. 11.

Seems the coach at Ft. Worth Tech had called Warden trying to schedule a tilt on that date.

Siebert seemed to like the idea and said that he would check into it. But on second thought, he decided the competition might be too strong. Warden however, convinced him that it might be a chance to win a game this fall, explaining that since he hadn't scheduled Tech this fall they were very weak.

So Siebert is calling the coach at Tech to see about filling that open date on the Maverick schedule.

Baptist Sunday Subject Named

"Genuine Repentance" will be the subject of Rev. Loyd Chapman, pastor, at the 11 a. m. service of the First Baptist church, Sunday.

The choir will sing an anthem during the morning service. A brotherhood meeting will be held Monday night at the church. Supper will not be served.

The Baptist Workers' Conference will be held Tuesday, Feb. 22 in the First Baptist church at Moran. Theme of the conference will be "The Church."

Charlie Jones will lead the song service at the meeting with special music by the Moran Ladies on the afternoon program.

W. H. Robinson will bring the message at 11:45 a. m.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 (UP)

Congress moved a long step closer today to giving the administration permission to start the nation's first peacetime draft of 18-year-olds.

The bill, high on the administration's "must" list, was approved, 7-1, by a Senate Armed Services subcommittee yesterday, and full committee approval is virtually certain.

But the measure is a far cry from the unlimited authority the administration requested. The subcommittee wrote in several restrictions, including:

1. 18-year-olds could be drafted only after local selective board exhaust pools of older eligible men.

2. Current deferments to non-veteran, childless husbands would be revoked.

3. Men under 18½ could be deferred by enlisting in the National Guard in states where governors say they are needed.

Elsewhere in Congress: Rosenberg — congressional witnesses who accused assistant defense secretary Anna M. Rosenberg of Communist affiliations faced possible perjury indictments.

Attorney General J. Howard McGrath said the justice department will ask a federal grand jury for indictments next week. He named no names.

Communism — the House Un-American Activities Committee prepared to recall movie star Edward G. Robinson for a command performance. One committee member said the action "inevitably" would touch off a sweeping investigation of Communism in Hollywood. Robinson appeared voluntarily last December and denied he is or ever was a Communist or fellow traveler.

RFC — A Senate subcommittee began a preliminary check on hearsay reports that White House stenographer Loretta Young received a "white milk or ermine" coat as part of her husband's fee for expediting a government loan application for a furrier. Her husband, E. Merl Young, has been identified by the committee as a key figure in a "favoritism and influence" ring around the Reconstruction Finance Corp.

Security — the Senate Internal Security Committee subpoenaed "several thousand documents" of the Institute of Pacific Relations, which figured prominently in last year's investigation of Communism in government. Sen. Homer Ferguson, R., Mich., said the institute is known to have had "considerable contacts with the state department."

Big Valentine Party Monday At South Ward

The mothers of the First Grade students are sponsoring a Valentine Party at the South Ward School, Monday, February 12.

Sandwiches, hot dogs, pie, coffee, punch and ice cream will be served beginning at 6 p. m. until 9 p. m.

A door prize of a Valentine cake will be awarded. Everyone who attends the party has a free chance on the cake.

As an added attraction, Cap Houston and son, World's Champion Old Time Fiddlers, will present a program at 7 p. m.

He is the winner of 78 nationwide Old Time Fiddlers contests and the Paul Whiteman gold and silver cup.

With Houston will be his Western Jamboree, starring Billy Bryant Houston, the mocking bird genius.

According to advance word those attending will see the fiddles played as never seen or heard before. The audience will select tunes for the Houston's to play. Also there will be a demonstration of expert Irish step dancing and Uncle Cap will call the square dance.

Everyone is invited to attend the party. Doors open at 6 p. m. and refreshments will be served until 9 p. m.

Negro Girl Accuses Store Officials Of Forcing Her To Undress To Prove She Had No Money To Pay Account

MACON, Ga., Feb. 10 (UP)—The $25,000 damage suit of a Negro girl who charged she was forced to undress in a department store to prove she had no money to pay her account ended in a mistrial last night.

Evelyn Hansford sought the damages from Askins Stores, Inc., a chain with headquarters in New York, and two of its officials, Macon Manager Frank Mantell and Assistant Manager Thomas E. Barberito.

Judge A. M. Anderson declared a mistrial after the jury reported it had been deadlocked 9 to 3 from 5 p. m. to 11 p. m. Jurors said later they stood nine in favor of the plaintiff.

Miss Hansford charged in her suit that Barberito forced her to undress in a back room of the Macon branch of the 60-store chain when she went to pay $1 on a $27 bill.

Miss Hansford testified that Barberito pulled open her blouse and searched for money under her brassier. She said when he found none, he made her remove the remainder of her clothing to further assure himself she was not hiding cash.

She testified that Mantell came into the room while she was almost nude, laughed and told her to put on her clothing.

Barberito said Miss Hansford voluntarily opened her blouse to prove she had no money in her bosom when he pressed her for more than $1. He said he then called in Mantell who told her to button her blouse and leave.

Several other witnesses testified they were mistreated when they went to the store to pay bills.

Another Negro woman, Ollis Thomas, is suing the company and Mantell for $5,000 for embarrassment she said she suffered when he allegedly forced her to pay more money than she intended.

Mantell and Barberito also faced criminal charges of assault and battery in the case.

Bailey Announces Sunday Subjects

Rev. J. Morris Bailey, pastor, will preach on the subject "Reverence unto the Lord," Sunday morning at the 10:50 worship service at the First Methodist Church.

Boy Scouts and Scouters of Eastland will attend the service in a body in observance of annual Boy Scout Sunday. The chancel choir will sing "Jesus, Lord of All Acclaim," by Mueller. Mrs. J. P. Kilgore will play the pipe organ for the service.

Sunday evening at the 7:30 worship service Rev. Bailey will preach on the theme "Symbols of Suffering." The men's choir will sing, with R. Pat Miller as leader and Mrs. T. J. Haley will play for the service.

Sunday School will meet by classes and departments at 9:45. Evening meetings of the MYF and the MIF will be at 6:30.

The Board of Stewards will meet Monday evening at 7:30 in regular meeting.

Lobos Outstroke Eastland Team

Bobby Isabell was the only Eastland High golfer to win a match as the local group bowed to Cisco High in their first match of the season, 5-1.

Isabell defeated Bill Mitchell 1-up.

Other results included Ben Taber over Jimmy Harris, 1-up on 20 holes; Buddy Dean over Herman Hassell, 5-3; Bill Bennie over Tompper Conner, 5-4; and Bobby Bennie defeating Charles Collins, 7-6.

The next match for the Mavericks will be played at Breckenridge next Friday when they clash with the Breckenridge High group.

POLIO VICTIM HOME FROM ARABIA—Mrs. Margaret Maxson, 29, left, of Fort Worth, Texas, who was a missionary in Arabia, chats with son, Charles 3, and twin sister, Mrs. Gordon Gooch, Bar Harbor, Main, stateroom aboard the S. S. American after it docked in New York. Mrs. Maxson was severely stricken with polio while in Arabia about six months before giving birth to her son, Jack. Cisco Defeats Local Cagers

Cisco's Lobos dropped Eastland's Mavericks from the district 8-A basketball tournament, 43-33, in Cisco Friday night.

The Mavericks were as cold as six day ice cubes on their shooting as was evidenced by their making only three of 18 free throw attempts.

Cisco opened the scoring with a free throw. Womack missed a free throw which would have tied it up and Haines missed another, but Haines hit a field goal to put Eastland in front, briefly, 2-1.

Cisco made a field goal to regain the lead which they never thereafter relinquished. They added two free throws and Womack missed two for Eastland. Cisco made a field goal, Haines hit a two pointer and Cisco got it right back as the quarter ended, Cisco 9, Eastland 4.

The first quarter was marked by the many misses of the Eastland cagers on their shots.

Cisco stretched its lead by five quick points as the second quarter began before Haines and Womack made field goals and Womack sank a free toss. Cisco made two fielders and Womack and Haines scored for Eastland. Cisco made a free toss as the half ended, Cisco 19, Eastland 13.

Cisco made six points in the second half before Doug Williamson scored two free throws for the Mavericks. James Freeman fouled out of the game at this point and was replaced by George Harris.

Cisco made four points while Womack made two for the Mavericks as the quarter ended.

Haines made two and Harris two for Eastland as the final quarter began and it looked as if the Mavericks might get back in the game, but Webb, tall Cisco center, quickly settled the issue by dropping in four points and then adding two free tosses. Haines made another and sent in his subs.

Williamson made a long shot and Womack punched in a crisp for Eastland. Cisco made two points and Williamson sank another beauty from far out.

The Lobos made a free throw and Womack and Rodney Stephenson made field goals for Eastland as the game ended.

The officiating was not of the same caliber as that of Thursday afternoon when the Mavericks downed DeLeon, but the real difference was the unerring accuracy of Webb who chalked up 20 points for Cisco, and the inability of the Eastland players to find the range.

Both Cisco's boys and girls teams advanced to the finals to be played Saturday night. The Lobos will meet Hamilton's boys and the Lobo Queens will play Dublin.

Nazarene Begin SS Emphasis

The Nazarene Sunday School Department will begin a six weeks Sunday School emphasis beginning Feb. 18 and closing with Easter Sunday March 25.

The stated purpose of this drive is to enlist in attendance those who do not attend Sunday School elsewhere.

The pastor, William C. Emberton, in commenting, said, "There are scenes of people in our city who do not attend church and Sunday school. Every parent should feel their responsibility in training their child in Christian teaching the Bible to the pupils as the only way of life. During this emphasis many special attractions will be on from time to time. If you are interested in your child attending Sunday school and cannot bring him, feel free to phone 165 and our bus will bring him to our school."

Services Set For Mrs. Hale

Funeral services for Mrs. Jennie Hale of Mingus, a pioneer of this area, will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Baptist church in Mingus.

Mrs. Hale died Friday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Foster, at Mingus.

Annual County Orchard Day Held Friday

T. E. Denman, horticulturist of Stephenville, discussed new and old fruit varieties as well as the orchard outlook and the fruit market at the Eastland County Orchard Day meeting held in the American Legion Hall at Rising Star, Friday.

About 78 persons attended and heard Denman and other speakers and visited orchards in the county.

J. W. Foster, Jr., of Weatherford, discussed the control of insects and insecticides, and B. G. Hancock of Texas A&M College discussed cover crops, cultivation and fertilization.

After lunch the group went to the Doss Alexander orchard in the Pioneer community where they checked on peach borers and San Jose scale, types of insects.

Then the group went to the J. D. Inabnet farm where a demonstration on pruning young and old peach trees as well as an apple tree was held.

Inabnet discussed adapted varieties of apples, suitable soils for apple growing and the possibility of growing apples in Eastland county.

He explained that some soils in the county were very suitable for growing apples.

Eastland County Orchard Day is an annual affair.

Lane Is Elected Head Of Youth Dairy Program

George I. Lane was elected president of the Eastland County Youth Dairy Program replacing Theo Lamb at a meeting of the executive committee of the group in Cisco Friday night.

Lamb retired as president of the group because of business reasons. Other officers elected included Bennie Butler, secretary and Dick Lourterdale, treasurer.

Lane was highly commended for his short administration. He explained that he has lost none of his enthusiasm for the program and will give his full support to this rural youth program.

Jack McCarthy of Rising Star is taking pictures of the youth's helpers for publicity for the program. Visits will be reported in each case.

Five calves have been pledged for the next award which date is to be set later in the year.

Collins Gets Call

Jack Collins has received his call to active duty in the Armed Forces. Collins is the proprietor of the Collins Dry Cleaners in Eastland. He expects to report to duty in the near future.

Styling changes include a new wide sloping hood that helps to increase driver visibility; new front fenders; new curved bumpers and massive bumper guards, among many others.

A new wrap-around "Clearbac" window is now used on all models, increasing rear-window area by

INCHON, KIMPO FIELD FALL; MORE RED TROOPS REPORTED

TOKYO, Sunday, Feb. 11 (UP)—The Allies scored their greatest series of conquests of any day in the Korean War yesterday. In a massive air, land and sea offensive they seized Inchon, Kimpo Airfield and the Seoul suburb of Yongdungpo and sent troops into the battered capital itself.

The Reds put up little opposition to the United Nations offensive on the western front, but snipers appeared later to harass the advancing troops and considerable enemy activity was spotted late in the day on battle scarred south mountain, in Seoul.

On the central front, a 9th Corps spokesman said Saturday night that between 5,000 and 8,000 Communist troops, believed to be Chinese, had been reported moving southeastward along the Hukchon River, three miles north-west of Cipyong.

The UN offensive has met heavy resistance in this area, which is east of the Han River's deep southward bend. The Reds have held the Allies to small gains in this region.

Intelligence sources said they believed the Chinese squeezed out of the area south of Seoul on the west may be shifting eastward into the center of Korea.

United Press war correspondent Jack Burby reported from 3rd Division headquarters, however, that "somewhere north of the Han" the Communists have hundreds of trucks and at least one tank division. Wary UN commanders, he said, are not celebrating their victories of yesterday yet.

Several South Korean patrols crossed the Han River into Seoul yesterday. Up to 9:30 p. m., some of them had not yet returned to their U. S. 25th Division headquarters.

British tanks duled across the half-frozen river Saturday afternoon with Communist self-propelled guns dug in on the Seoul side.

The Chinese Communist forces apparently have moved north, but have left the North Koreans in contact with our troops," a spokesman for the 25th Division said.

In some places, the Allied advance was slowed down by enemy mine fields which had been sown skillfully along the path of the UN mechanized advance.

"The damn things were everywhere," one officer said.

But the offensive went ahead with unexpected speed anyway. The 36th Regiment of the 25th Division raced into the industrial suburb of Yongdungpo Saturday morning. Kimpo Airfield was secured by mid-afternoon and by 5:30 Maj. James H. Lee, Dallas, Tex., a 35th Regiment battalion commander said that some Communists were trapped in Yongdungpo and had to fight.

"All they had behind them was a cliff, and at the foot of the cliff, the river," he said. "They knew if they got out on the ice, our fire would kill them. All they were waiting for was for it to get dark. We could take their position, but we don't want it yet. It gives the boys good practice with their rifles."

Sheriff's deputies said Ivey had made several trips into the flaming frame house. On his last trip, the burning roof caved in. Three other persons who lived in the house escaped without injury.

DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 10 (UP)—James Edward Ivey, 50, burned to death early today when he was trapped as he tried to remove some furniture from his blazing house.

Blevins Motor Company Shows 1951 Chrysler Here Saturday

The 1951 Chrysler went on display Saturday at Blevins Motor Company in Eastland, featuring advanced styling inside and out, a new 180-horsepower Fire-Power engine and an improved Chrysler Spitfire engine.

Chrysler division officials state that in no previous year has the division introduced so many major mechanical features nor done more to increase the esthetic appeal of the Chrysler models.

Major developments include an Oriflow shock absorber, standard equipment throughout the line; Hydraguide hydraulic-mechanic power steering and a Fluid-Torque Drive torque converter.

Styling changes include a new wide sloping hood that helps to increase driver visibility; new front fenders; new curved bumpers and massive bumper guards, among many others.

A new wrap-around "Clearbac" window is now used on all models, increasing rear-window area by 201.7 square inches or 30 per cent as compared with 1950 models not having this feature.

Length of the car is accentuated by the new front fender line, which extends further back in the front door panel. A distinctive turn signal and parking light combination is found on each model, and the span between the headlights has been increased 3.5 inches better to outline the width of the car.

Interior styling included improvements in upholstery and trim with an unusually wide choice of materials that the most luxurious and tasteful that Chrysler has ever offered.

A. J. Blevins and A. J. Blevins, Jr., invited everyone to come by their display window at 305 West Commerce and see the new Chrysler.

We're Off to Head Start In Many Defense Needs

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—U. S. mobilization problems today are far different from what they were in 1940-41, says Assistant Secretary of Defense W. J. McNeil, comptroller for the armed services. This is one of the main reasons why Department of Defense has not moved faster in its demands for cut-backs on the civilian economy and all-out mobilization. Here are some of the main differences cited:

In the first place, the United States does not have a big shipbuilding program. At the beginning of World War II, the United States didn't even have any shipyards. Today all Navy shipyards have been expanded. Private yards are begging for business and are capable of easy expansion in case of need.

In the mothball fleets are both merchant freighters and fighting ships. To build these fleets took millions of tons of steel and other scarce metals at the beginning of the last war. That doesn't have to be duplicated this time. So the demands on steel capacity will not be so great. And there is greater steel production available.

As fighting ships are taken out of mothballs and put into active service, some modification will be necessary. This is principally installing new electronics equipment—radar and communications devices developed since the last war.

DESTROYERS are still good with some similar modernization. Super-destroyers now being developed will be the models for new construction and delivery about 1955.

New submarine development is top secret. An atomic-powered engine is still some years away. But old subs are being streamlined and converted to the Guppy type, with snorkel, to increase their speed.

"In World War II, the greatest consumer of military and naval equipment was the Atlantic Ocean," Secretary McNeil points out. Production schedules had to be stepped up then to replace what was sunk by submarines. That isn't necessary—yet.

For the Army, a big military camp construction program is not necessary, as it was in 1941. That cuts down requirements for materials, men and money in today's mobilization.

There is said to be an ample supply of basic equipment—rifles and .38-cal. ammunition, 105 and 155-mm. howitzers for the artillery, mess kits, packs and so on.

The big shortages are in the new weapons. There aren't enough tanks. There aren't enough of the new 3.5-inch bazookas and shaped charges. Rocket supplies are inadequate.

In the air, the United States had to start from scratch in 1940. Today the Air Force has the biggest and best bombers in being and in production. Jet aircraft fighter production is in such condition that these planes are now being supplied to National Guard units.

OF the $10,000,000,000 of new procurement authorized by Congress on Sept. 27 for this year's spending, over $9,000,000,000 worth of contracts have been let. For the $8,000,000,000 new procurement authorized in the supplemental appropriation bill just signed by the President, contracts have been prepared and two-thirds of them will be let by Feb. 1.

It is on the scheduling of new procurement that there is major controversy in Washington. It would be a help in making these plans if anyone could know whether there will be a third world war, and if so, when it will begin.

One group of executives believes that plans should be based on the assumption that war might come by July 1, 1951. For this schedule, all civilian production would have to be drastically curtailed and industry converted to all-out war production immediately.

The other school of thought in Washington is that the present crisis will be a long haul. To prepare for it there should be a gradual build-up of productive capacity that could meet any emergency without too great a strain on the economy and no severe shocks of conversion and reconversion.

Big Squawks Stress Tough Life of Basketball Officials

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—When his Long Island team was nosed out at Arizona, Clair Bee had a few thousand choice words to say. No part of the coach's speech was complimentary to an official named W. H. Kissner.

"We wuz robbed," said Bee, in effect, adding that it was the worst he had seen in 40 years, give or take a season.

Outbursts such as the one by Bee, a rather conservative gentleman by the way, are not new in basketball. His just happened to be heard across the land.

When Philadelphia La Salle lost at North Carolina State, Ken Loeffler said it was the worst steal since the Louisiana Purchase.

Squawks like these stress the difficulty of basketball officiating, by far the toughest job of its nature.

Bill Grieve of the American League, who did both for years, says calling balls and strikes is simple compared with officiating a basketball game.

In baseball, football and most games, a rule is a rule period. In basketball, for example, the ball is either over the plate or it isn't.

In basketball, the official has to make one split-second decision after another while on the run, most of them made more troublesome because usually it is a question of interpretation.

COLLEGE basketball is as yet fully standardized only in the matter of equipment.

Rule infractions are viewed differently in various sections of the country.

Games such as those between LIU and Arizona and La Salle and North Carolina State are bringing the sectors closer together in this regard, so the lamentations of the Bees and Loefflers serve some purpose.

Every spectator will tell you there is too much whistling-tooting. If officials call the fouls tight, they ruin the game, slowing it down to a cakewalk.

If they call them loosely, they are blamed for the rough play that inevitably follows as the laddybucks practically undress one another.

If the officials call too many fouls against the home team, they are imported crooks paid off by the visitors, and also related to the visiting coach.

If they detect a reasonable amount of fouls on the visitors, they are homing pigeons, with rabbit ears yet.

MONEY TO BURN—Ever dream of using a $100 bill to light your cigarette? John M. Tatum hasn't done that perhaps, but in the past 28 years he has burned up millions of dollars by tossing bundles of bills into this Treasury Department furnace in Washington. It's his job to dispose of worn-out paper currency.

BRANDING OF RED CHINA AS AN AGGRESSOR

This Last Night

THE STORY: May, a waitress in Pete's tavern in a West Virginia coal mining town, is curious about a stranger, dressed like a miner, who occupies one of the booths. The man looks tired, and as if he were afraid, or in great sorrow. When the radio starts a news broadcast, the stranger listens. A commentator tells the story of what he terms "a miscarriage of justice." The father of a little girl, Judy Twigg, returned from the war and found his wife had left him for another man. The father committed suicide, and his brother, Paul Twigg, had attempted to obtain legal custody of Judy, but had failed and the child had remained with her unworthy mother. Then Paul Twigg had met the child after school one day and had taken her away. Now Paul Twigg was charged with kidnapping, a crime punishable by death. The stranger in the tavern, after the broadcast, tells May that a $5000 reward would result in Paul Twigg's quick capture. But May asks: "Who would take such money?"

III

The man at the table made an explosive, derisive sound in answer to May's question. "Plenty of people would grab $5000," he said. "You know, everyone isn't as ready as you to swallow the story as that commentator told it." He gestured with his thumb toward the radio. "Maybe they figure that Paul Twigg must be wrong or the courts wouldn't have let the mother keep the kid. How about that? How do you know he's got the facts straight?"

His cynicism infuriated her. The incessant toying with the beer glass tore at her nerves. She ripped the glass from his fingers and, leaning on the table, fired her words right at him.

"Then tell me why the father killed himself! Tell me why Judy told the stories she did about the way her mother treated her! Sure, those smart lawyers said she made it up and they brought in a bunch of her friends to tell about stories the little girl had told, but what normal kid doesn't make up stories when it's for fun?"

"And tell me this: why, if it isn't true, did the uncle go to all that expense and trouble to fight it through the courts and then take the chance he's taking now to get her away from that woman? Why?" she demanded, breathing angrily, waiting for his reply.

He wrinkled his brow and pursed his lips as though weighing her words. "What chance has he got of getting away with it?" he asked quietly. His eyes met hers.

She stood erect and stared out of the window into the barren street. She felt dejected and spent. "I don't know," she said, "but he must have some plan. He must have thought it out first. He probably has some woman with him, someone who loved him enough to share the chance."

"Why a woman?"

"I just thought he might," she shrugged. "It would be easier. They're looking for a man and a little girl. If he has a woman with him and maybe dressed Judy up as a boy they'd have a better chance."

ONE of the men at the other table tapped on his empty glass with a coin. May went off to serve them. She felt his eyes on her the whole time she was away.

"Can't you sit while we talk?" he asked when she returned. He indicated the seat on the other side of the booth.

She shook her head.

"What's your name?" He leaned toward her. She noticed that his fists were clenched. The way he had asked the question made it seem as though there were some deadly serious purpose behind it. It was a little frightening.

"May," she answered. "May Jenkins."

"Are you married, engaged—is there a boy friend?"

"Oh look, brother, I . . ."

He reached out and took her hand. "Wait a minute, May. You're wrong. This isn't what you think it is. I'm not on the make and I'm not just a nosy guy. Look, instead of my asking you a lot of questions, I'll tell you frankly how I size you up. Then, if you want, you can tell me if I'm right or wrong, or tell me where to get off."

She withdrew her hand from his. His questions and his manner confused her. He wasn't trying to be fresh. He was excited and nervous. She knew that she was reacting to his apparent tension.

It would be better if she walked away, but she said, "Go ahead. I'll see how I like it."

He smiled his gratitude. He studied her before speaking. She realized that she was blushing. She was conscious of her too thin figure, her rough hands. His voice was soothing.

"You're about twenty-two or three, May. My guess is that you were born nearby and have never been far away. Your father was probably a coal miner. You've had a pretty rough time of it. I don't think you're married or engaged and I don't think you have too serious a boy friend. I think you live alone, May, and I don't think you're happy."

SHE looked down at the table. It was as though he had torn the clothes from her. No, not torn, it was too gentle. She spoke huskily. "I'm twenty-four."

"And the rest is right?"

She met his eyes again. It required an effort. "Why don't you think I'm married or engaged or have a boy friend?"

He pointed to her hand. "You're not wearing any rings and as far as the boy friend I'm concerned, I just feel that if I was your guy I'd raise particular Cain if you took a job in a dump like this."

A touch of warmth mingled with her embarrassment. It was such a little thing, but this man had a way of saying things that made her want to believe him.

STYLE AND POWER FEATURED IN 1951 CHRYSLERS

The 1951 Chrysler New Yorker Newport with new fender line that accentuates its low sleek beauty, and massive front-end that typifies the power and luxury of the new Chrysler line.

Interior of the 1951 Chrysler New Yorker Newport features rich appointments, extra roominess. Upholstery and trim selections are available in colorful, durable and luxurious combinations of leather and nylon cord.

View of the new Chrysler "FirePower" engine. Conservatively rated at 180-horsepower, the new 8-cylinder powerplant is a 90-degree valve-in-head V-type engine.

Advanced styling inside and out, a new 180-horsepower FirePower engine and an improved Chrysler Spitfire engine head the list of 73 major improvements incorporated in the new 1951 Chrysler line.

Chrysler Division officials state that in no previous year has the division introduced so many major mechanical features, nor done more to increase the esthetic appeal of the Chrysler models.

Major developments in the new line include an Oriflow shock absorber, standard equipment throughout the line; Hydraguide hydraulic-mechanical power steering; and a Fluid-Torque Drive torque converter.

The power steering unit and torque converter are standard equipment on the Imperial 8-passenger sedan and limousine, and may be had as optional equipment on all other Imperial and New Yorker models.

The 1951 Chrysler is offered in twenty-one body styles in the Windsor, Windsor Deluxe, New Yorker and Imperial lines.

Styling Advances

In appearance, the 1951 line fully sustains the pace of the mechanical improvements. All models have been completely restyled, inside and out, and each model has its distinctive individual characteristics that make it readily distinguishable from all others in the line. Changes have been made in the direction of further streamlining and the enhancement of sleek, luxurious appearance.

Styling changes include a new wide sloping hood that helps to increase driver visibility; new front fenders; new curved bumpers and massive bumper guards; new front and rear ornamentation; new grilles that are distinctive for each model; new front and rear fender moldings; and a belt molding that now completely encircles the car.

The new wrap-around "Clear-bac" window is now used on all models, increasing rear-window area by 201.7 square inches or 30 per cent as compared with 1950 models not having this feature.

Accent on Beauty

Length of the car is accentuated by the new front fender line, which extends further back in the front door panel. A distinctive turn signal and parking light combination is found on each model, and the span between the headlights has been increased 3.5 inches, better to outline the width of the car.

Interior styling includes improvements in upholstery and trim with an unusually wide choice of materials that are the most luxurious and tasteful that Chrysler has ever offered.

Gambling Rooms Suddenly Shut Down In SW. La.

LAKE CHARLES, La., Feb. 10 (UP)—Anti-gambling sentiment aroused in Louisiana by the Senate Crime Committee spread today to this southwest corner of the state, playground of wealthy Texas coastal dwellers.

All gambling places in Calcasieu Parish, from plush casinos to roadside slot machine establishments, stopped doing business as abruptly as those in Jefferson Parish in the New Orleans area had previously done. But no explanation was given.

When Sheriff Frank Clancy ordered gambling halted in Jefferson Parish, he was being threatened with contempt of Congress for failing to answer committee questions and wanted to "purge" himself.

Calcasieu Parish, however, did not come under the scrutiny of Sen. Estes Kefauver when his investigating committee was meeting in New Orleans. Calcasieu Sheriff Henry A. Reid, Jr., had nothing to say about the lock-ups.

A newspaper at Orange, Texas, 37 miles west of here, said the shutdowns was part of a plan to "run Frank Costello out of Louisiana." Orange and the oil-rich Texas coastal area furnish most of the patrons for casinos in this part of Louisiana.

The Orange Daily Leader said Calcasieu gamblers "got 'orders from higher-ups.'"

Whatever the reason, it was a total blackout on gambling. One-armed-bandit slot machines disappeared from even the smallest bars and the big clubs closed everything but their dining rooms.

SWC Basketball Lead Left To Aggies, Texas

Boys at School Only to Play Get Into Basketball Fixes

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—While often smirked at sardonically, treated as a funny situation that doesn't really exist, the sad fact is that many boys attend college only to participate in athletics.

It is those kind that become involved in basketball fixes.

Jack Byrnes, one of the two players mixed up in the Manhattan basketball scandal, was one of the leading scorers in New York when dismissed from school for overcutting most of his courses.

Dan Gallagher reports that Byrnes had many offers to play for other colleges, but his father would not let him accept any of them. "The main reason for Byrnes' part in the mess," says Gallagher, "was his former sports editor of the Manhattan Quadrant, 'was his sentiment of authority, especially authority at Manhattan."

"He wanted to play basketball, but had no great interest in studies, although he felt he needed his degree. His father was determined that his son would be graduated from Manhattan.

"So Byrnes unwillingly made a fresh start, paid his own tuition for a year while scholastically ineligible for athletics."

COLLEGE to Hank Poppe, the other player in the Manhattan swindle, was just the minor league for professional basketball, a necessary stage where you built a reputation.

Here is a most striking illustration of the game being considered more important than education. The first, or more important, thing is ranked dead last.

"Poppe, too, resented the idea that he should be expected to go to class and pass all his subjects," reports Gallagher. "He did it, in order to play basketball, but didn't like it. He did not go to college to get an education.

"It was perhaps when he realized that the pros were not going to fight about him that he decided to get what he could."

The Manhattan story broke about the time the National Collegiate Athletic Association was loosening its so-called Sanity Code. The NCAA should have substituted a strait-jacket.

fifth-place Arkansas at Fayetteville in the night's only conference game.

The big weekend show already was over. Texas ran its conference record to 6-1 last night with an easy victory, 77 to 51, over Rice Institute while the Texas Aggies, a half-game off the pace at 6-2, had a comparatively easy time with Baylor 48-36.

The Longhorns, making good 63 per cent of their field shots, led all the way and their margin by halftime was 41-26. Coach Jack Gray cleared the bench of substitutes during the second half but still the Longhorns gained.

Sophomore guard George Sealing scored 20 points in the 31 minutes he played to lead Texas' scoring. Joe McDermott netted 17 points for Rice.

At College Station, the Aggies had temporary difficulty solving the Bears' tight zone defense. But they turned to long shots and built up a 34 to 28 halftime lead. Jewell McDowell, A&M guard, hit 14 points for individual scoring honors.

THEY STAND FOR THE BEST IN ALL OF US

It's a happy coincidence that the birthdays of these three great Americans fall a few days apart. For in honoring them together we realize that they inspire us because, together, they exemplify the best in all Americans.

Washington's selfless sense of duty and devotion, Lincoln's steadfastness, courage, kindness and humor, Edison's truly American curiosity, perseverance and inventiveness . . . all show the typical American at his finest. These are what we stand for. These are what all of us, at one time or another, would like to be.

Mrs. Perkins Speaks On Guest Day Program Of Alpha Delphians

Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins talked on "United States of America" Thursday afternoon at the Guest Day program of the Alpha Delphian Club at the Woman's Club.

Women of Eastland study these when they are downcast by the broadcasts of the present day commentaries.

Mrs. H. A. Tweed accomplished her husband when he sang, "Three For Jack" by Fred Weatherly, "A China Tragedy" by Clayton Thomas and led the group in the singing of God Bless America.

Mr. and Mrs. Tweed of Pentwater, Mich. were introduced by Mr. Tweed's sister, Mrs. LeRoy Arnold, who presided during the afternoon's program.

Mrs. Amis Honors Past Matrons At Valentine Party

Mrs. T. L. Amis honored the past Matrons of the Order of Eastern Star Tuesday evening at the close of the regular chapter meeting, when she entertained the group with a Valentine party.

The refreshment table was laid in the banquet room at the Masonic hall and was in the valentine motif. A large blue bowl was filled with carnation corsages to which names of the group were attached. The flowers decorated the table and were given later to the group.

Refreshments of cherry tarts and coffee were served to Mmes. George Cross, T. M. Johnson, L. J. Lambert, Ed T. Cox, J. E. McWilliams, Bam White, Claude Boles, Cyrus Miller, Aubrey Van Hoy, G. L. Wingate, Mary Barton and Ina Bean.

Mrs. W. C. Vickers presented a gift from the club to Mr. and Mrs. Tweed and to Mrs. Perkins. A social hour followed the program during which a tea plate was served to the following members and their guests, Mmes. Arnold, Vickers, George Cross, L. M. Chapman, B. O. Harrell, Ina Bean, L. C. Brown, J. A. Doyle, LeRoy Patterson, W. B. Harris, E. L. Middleton, Carl Jones, W. B. White, E. K. Henderson, Parker, N. N. Rosenquest, George Lane. Guests were Mmes. Perkins, Charles Lucas, W. H. Mullings, C. W. Hoffman, J. L. Cottingham, Claud Boles, J. F. McWilliams, Clyde Garrett, Allen D. Dabney, Clara Cokerell, Don Parker and Mr. and Mrs. Tweed.

Home Makers Party To Be At Cornelius Home

The Home Maker's Class Party will be held Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the home of Mrs. C. C. Cornelius, 416 East Conner Street and will be the regular covered dish supper.

All members and associate members as well as prospective members were invited.

Mrs. Ancil Owen, Jr. and her mother, Mrs. M. H. Wagner of Meertzon are the guests here in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ancil Owen.

World Prayer Day Observance Program Well Attended Here

Prayer, Music and Scripture reading led by women from the various churches of Eastland at the meeting held at 2 p.m. Friday in the First Christian church, climaxed the observance of the World Day of Prayer.

Mrs. E. C. Johnston, president of the Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church was the leader and presented women of the other churches.

Mrs. Emberton represented the Nazarene church, Mrs. R. C. Ferguson represented the Methodist church and Mrs. L. W. Hart represented the Presbyterian church. Mrs. J. W. Watson represented the Christian church.

The Rev. Otto Marshal, pastor of the First Christian church outlined the theme of the program, "Love Casts out Fear" and told of the many worthy uses to which the special offering would be allocated.

Mr. H. A. Tweed of Pentwater, Mich., sang the hymn, "Seek Ye The Lord", accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Tweed.

Mrs. Cyrus Young furnished a background of organ music and

Shorthorn Cattle Bring $19,000 At Stock Show

The Texas National Shorthorn Sale, held in conjunction with the Southwestern Fat Stock Show at Fort Worth, Texas, saw 34 head of Shorthorn breeding stock bring an average of $571.00, for a total of $19,410.00. The high quality offering was sold into six different states to 23 final bidders at the sale.

The top price in the sale came on the first bull sold, Marellbar Empire, a white son of Beaufort Bonspiel out of Marellbar August 18th. The bull was consigned by W. C. Anderson & Son, West Liberty, Iowa, and sold to W. E. Carter & Sons, of Brimfield, Illinois for $1625.00. This was the only purchase in the sale by Carter.

Top selling female in the offering was Highland Nonpareil Lady, red daughter of Mercury's Royal Leader out of Commando's Nonpareil Lady. Consigned by J. A. Collier, of Fletcher, Okla., the cow sold to C. M. Caraway, of DeLeon, Texas, for $853.00.

Four Texas breeders were quantity buyers in the sale accounting for 14 of the 34 head offered. C. B. and Benton Barker, of Mosheim, bought four of the quality heifers, with John C. Ley, of Cuero, accounting for four more. O. H. Allen, of Mexia, took two heifers to go along with his single bull purchase, and George Beggs, of Fort Worth, had the final bids on two bulls and one heifer in the sale.

THAT'S A MARINE, SON—A Korean boy stares in awe at the "different" uniform worn by Marine Pfc. Norman L. Hoeker of St. Joseph, Mo. The "dress blues," which Hoeker asked his mother to send him while stationed in California, reached him in Korea. "My buddies dared me to wear them and I did," said Hoeker. "I just hope the colonel didn't see me."

$5000 Award To Be Given Leading Texas Farmer

STEPHENVILLE, TEX., Feb. 10 (Special)—Call for nominations which will lead to a Texas farmer, rancher or agricultural worker becoming the possessor of $5,000 cash and a gold medal for distinguished agricultural achievement during 1949 and 1950, was issued throughout Texas this week.

In the North Central Texas area, Dean Paul A. Cunyus of Tarleton Agricultural College, Stephenville, Chairman of Regional Committee No. 5 for the Hobbittelle Achievement Award for Advancement of Texas Rural Life, announced his Committee is ready to receive nominations in its area.

The Award, with its $5,000 cash and its medal, offered as prizes each two years by Kari Hobbittelle of Dallas, will go to the Texan who has made the most notable two-year contribution to the advancement of agriculture.

This is interpreted as being work or activity the effects of which have, more than any other, caused people to progress in the field of agriculture. It may have contributed to leadership or to inspiration, but it must have had a direct practical application.

Anyone who wishes may nominate any farmer or rancher of Texas, or their wives, or practically any professional agricultural worker, administrator, educator or writer, specialist, etc., other than persons assigned to formal research, provided their contributions have made definite agricultural progress possible in Texas. The nominee may live either within or outside the Region in which he is nominated.

These nominations are to be forwarded, not later than March 1, to the Chairman of the Regional Committee, together with description of the achievement of the candidate, and with any available clippings or publications.

Counties included in Region 5 are: Archer, Baylor, Bell, Bosque, Brown, Burnet, Callahan, Clay, Coleman, Collin, Comanche, Cooke, Coryell, Dallas, Denton, Eastland, Ellis, Erath, Falls, Grayson, Hamilton, Haskell, Hill, Hood, Hunt Jack, Jackson, Jones, Kaufman, Knox, Lampasas, Limestone, McLennan, Milam, Mills, Montague, Navarro, Palo Pinto, Parker, Rockwell, Shackelford, Somervell, Stephens, Tarrant, Throckmorton, Wichita, Wilbarger, Williamson, Wise and Young.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Washington May Put Leash On Soviet Diplomats in U. S.

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—New restrictions on the movement of Russian diplomats in the United States are being considered. U. S. government now limits movement of Roumanian and Hungarian diplomats as they please. This in spite of the fact that American diplomats in Russia are strictly limited in their movements by Soviet government.

In 1948 the Russians officially informed the American embassy that travel restrictions on diplomats, originally ordered in 1941, were still in force. These restrictions had never been lifted, but during the war they were not rigidly enforced.

Under present restrictions, American diplomats in Moscow may travel freely only 30 kilometers—19 miles—on some roads, 50 kilometers—31 miles—on others. Theoretically they may apply for permission to travel in other areas. Siberia is supposed to be open for travel. U. S. Ambassador Kirk got to Irkutsk last year, and was there when the Korean war broke out. But he had considerable trouble arranging his trip even to a main line railroad stop. All transportation has to be applied for through the Intourist agency. And this office can refuse to issue tickets to any place it doesn't want visitors to go.

Large areas of Russia are closed to visitors. In effect, the only places Americans can arrange to go are Leningrad, Odessa and Tiflis. The American ambassador is guarded by Russians 24 hours a day and followed openly wherever he goes. Members of his staff are followed less openly.

This trailing has accidentally resulted in several highly amusing incidents. Ambassador Smith, at a Russian resort, once got into a rowboat and left his escort stranded in consternation on the shore. Ambassador Harriman went skiing one day and left his escorts floundering in snowdrifts. Next time, his guards carried skis.

RECOMMENDATIONS for new rent control bill have been sent to White House for approval and will be relayed to Congress soon. They call for two-year extension of rent controls at present levels, plus authority to impose controls in defense areas where necessary.

There's considerable sentiment in Congress to allow new rent increases, since landlords have not had benefits of price rises taken by other lines of business on which controls were removed after the war.

House Banking and Currency Committee, which will handle new rent control legislation, has four new Democrat and four new Republican members. Extension of rent controls may not have much trouble there. Senate Banking and Currency Committee is a different proposition. Sen. Glen Taylor of Idaho, who favored rent controls, was defeated. Republican Senators Tobey and Flanders transferred to other committees. So did Senator Cain of Washington, who was bitterest opponent of rent controls. New members are Republicans Ives of New York, Schoeppel of Kansas, Dirksen of Illinois and Bennett of Utah. How they'll vote on rent control extension will play an important part in determining fate of new legislation.

Woman May Still Recover From 'Deep Freeze'

CHICAGO, Feb. 10 (UP)—Doctors said they "dared to hope" today that Mrs. Dorothy Mae Stevens may recover from the "deep freeze" which sent her body temperature to 64 degrees.

The 23-year-old Negress rallied in her fight-for-life early today but doctors still would not say she was out of danger.

Her temperature today was 100.8, only slightly above normal. Her pulse was 100, respiration 24 and blood pressure 132/84, all "just about within normal range."

"The fact is that right now we're not sure when we'll be able to say she's out of danger," a doctor said. "We've simply never seen a case like this before."

"But we're beginning to dare to hope she'll live."

Dr. Harold Laufman of Northwestern University, in charge of the case, said it would take three or four days more to determine whether Mrs. Stevens' hands and feet could be saved.

Laufman said all organs, including the brain, appeared to have recovered from the deep freeze but scientists at Michael Reese Hospital were running extensive chemical tests to determine what effects the cold had on her body.

Mrs. Stevens was found at 8:15 a.m., Thursday in an alley where she lay, frozen "stiff as rigor mortis." Two policemen thought she was dead but took her to Michael Reese Hospital.

There it was found that she was still alive but that her temperature was 64 degrees, almost 35 degrees below the normal of 98.6 and
