The Maverick football schedule for 1951 has been completed with the scheduling of a game with Diamond Hill of Ft. Worth to be played at Farrington Field in Ft. Worth, October 11.

This fall schedule looks a little odd with only four conference games on tap.

The conference games are the last four of the season and are: Comanche there Oct. 19; Dublin there, Oct. 26; Ranger here Nov. 2; and Cisco here Nov. 9.

Cross Plains is another newcomer to the Eastland schedule this year, with a game scheduled there September 21.

Other tilts this fall will be Coleman at Eastland Sept. 7; Ballinger at Ballinger, Sept. 14; Hamilton at Eastland, Sept. 28; and Winters at Eastland Oct. 5.

Hamilton and DeLeon, teams which were in Eastland's district last fall, are no longer in the same circuit.

Comanche has a new coach in Pug Galiga, late of Hillsboro, and may become a district power. Galiga coached at Hillsboro for 14 years.

The Mavericks start spring practice about the middle of April, and should be improved over last year, although three outstanding players Bob Womack, Gerald Davis, and Doug King, will be gone by graduation. Again the Mavericks will apparently be hurt by lack of depth.

We recently received a letter from S-Sgt. Charles H. Brannon, who was recruiter for the Army and Air Force here for about two years.

Brannon is stationed in Great Falls Montana, and says that he misses Eastland a great deal. He is serving as mess Sgt. at the base, but is on orders for overseas duty.

Quoting from his correspondence: "I find that I don't miss the worries that I had as a recruit, but I miss all the fine folks around Eastland. I guess it was the only real home I ever had."

"I have been pleased on Overseas Orders and will be going to Arabia about the first of April. It is about 28 below zero here and they say it is about 125 above there in the shade and no shade."

Tell my friends that I said hello and hope someday that I will see them again. I would like to hear from them."

His address is: P. O. Box 8728, Great Falls Air Base, Great Falls, Montana.

Brannon was a great booster of Eastland and played a big part in recreational events of the city during his stay here. He was especially active in the development of Junior High athletics, and was instrumental in the summer softball league.

The fishing season is near underway according to a card received from Baileys Camp at Possum Kingdom.

Mrs. J. A. Dixon reports that Johnnie Gage, Dee Sharp, and Lon Sharp caught a 7-12 pound bass, a 42 pound yellow cat and a 40 pound string of crappie there recently. The men are from Afton, near Spur.

Herringbone twill is apparently on its way out as the material for Army fatigue clothing according to a recent announcement from the Department of the Army.

A new type cotton sateen cloth is slated to replace it. According to the report, the new fabric has been found, after extensive testing, to have much better wearing qualities than herringbone twill.

The new fatigue clothing will not be issued to troops, however, until the present supplies of herringbone twill uniforms are exhausted.

Final Week Of Campaign Must Raise County's $6000 Quota Mrs. John Love, Chairman Says

With the Eastland County Chapter of American Red Cross more than halfway to their county quota of $6000 in the 1951 fund raising campaign, Mrs. John Love, fund campaign chairman expressed hope that this the final week of the campaign would bring in many more contributions from all over the county and take the county chapter over the top. Money is so badly needed to carry on the greatly increased activities of the entire organization, both national and local, this year since the Korean incident began.

The American Red Cross has turned over more than 175,000 pints of blood for Korean wounded and military stockpiling since it was first called upon to supply blood to the armed forces last August. E. Roland Harriman, Red Cross President has notified the local chapter. In addition, Mr. Harriman said private blood banks, cooperating with the Red Cross in the procurement of blood for military purposes, have supplied over 38,000 pints.

Whole blood is flown from the United States to the Far East to supplement blood collected in Tokyo by the United States blood bank. It is also used for processing into plasma for military stockpiles and in domestic military hospitals.

Red Cross blood collections have more than tripled since last July, Mr. Harriman wrote and the organization has been able to fill all requests for whole blood for Korea and to make a good start on stockpiling plasma.

"Collections must continue to increase however," he said, "if we are to continue to meet military and civilian needs." In commending the Red Cross on the expansion of its blood facilities to meet defense needs, Dr. Richard L. Meiling, Chairman of the Armed Forces Medical Policy Council said:

"The armed forces will continue to need blood not only for overseas shipment but for our military hospitals and for our stockpile of plasma. Because the American people are giving their blood for the armed forces the death rate among our military patients in the Korean campaign is lower than it has been in any other similar military campaign in the history of this country."

The death rate of Korean wounded is less than half of the World War II figure and only one-quarter of the rate among combat troops during World War I, according to Dr. Meiling. On an average the Korean casualty not only receives whole blood more promptly than the wounded of World War II, but he receives it in greater quantities.

A twenty-year-old sergeant, one of the first Korean wounded, was given 75 transfusions while undergoing surgery and treatment for a leg wound and two machine gun bullets in his abdomen. One in every ten men suffering from frozen feet during the bitter winter fighting had to undergo major amputations. Five pints of blood is about average in the treatment of these patients. Some require more.

One patient during an operation for removal of a part of his stomach at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C., needed 23 pints of blood in one day between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. This represented replacement of his normal blood supply twice. Another case received 15 pints during a 14-hour operation for transplantation of a heart artery. Without these blood transfusions both of these men would have died attending physicians said.

Over Half Inch Rain In Eastland

A total of .63 inches of rain fell in Eastland Sunday night and Monday, according to Jimmy Don Huckabay, official weather record keeper.

Rainfall for the 24 hour period ending at 8 a.m. Tuesday was .55 inches, with .08 inches falling before 8 a.m. Monday.

Other readings in the county were .64 inches at Olden and .75 inches at Faltwoods.

The rains were general over the state and apparently assured sufficient moisture for regular planting of spring crops, although more moisture is needed in most areas.

COHEN FAILS TO SHOW TODAY AS TEXAS CRIME PROBE OPENS Will Face Consequences Group Chairman Asserts

AUSTIN, March 27 (UP)—The Texas House of Representatives today opened an investigation of the Texas underworld, but it looked like the star witness, Los Angeles gambler Mickey Cohen, would not be on hand.

"I've got thirty bucks in the house," the West Coast gambler said at his Los Angeles home last night. "If they want me down there, they can send me a ticket."

"I don't even think the legislators want me there. I think this is just a cheap trick to get publicity."

Cohen said he would come to Texas on his own terms—money in advance for travel expenses. The committee wasn't offering any terms.

Rep. Fred V. Merdith, chairman of the crime group, said last night Cohen would come to Austin, as ordered, "or face the consequences."

The "consequences" could mean a fine of as much as $1,000 and up to one year in prison, or both, if Cohen is cited for contempt.

Six other witnesses, all Texans, have been subpoenaed for the hearing. They included: John Hartridge, El Paso policeman fired after Cohen visited his home last Wednesday.

W. D. White, El Paso detective temporarily suspended after he allegedly invited Cohen to El Paso to attend the funeral of slain policeman Ralph Marmolejo, Jr.

Acting El Paso chief of police, R. H. Lessor, who fired Hartridge and charged White with acting against orders in inviting Cohen to the funeral.

Joe Campbell, former El Paso sheriff who visited Cohen at the gambler's home last fall.

Paul Harvey, Odessa relator and Alto Davis, Freer. Two brothers, Bernie Shaw and Dick Shaw and one sister, Mrs. Eva Wamble of Breckenridge. The couple resided in the Cisco area for 45 years. Funeral services will be conducted today from the First Baptist Church in Breckenridge.

Also involved in the accident was Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Hughes, 438 Spring Street, Weatherford. They were hospitalized but escaped major injury. A third car which was unidentified was involved in the accident also.

Enthusiasm Is Reported High For Hospital

Enthusiasm was reported to be high among business men regarding the city-wide hospital meeting to be held at the high school, Friday night, March 30.

No money will be asked for at the Friday meeting. The meeting is only for the purpose of presenting plans and preparing for the fund drive.

A representative from Wyatt-Hendricks architects in Ft. Worth will be present at the meeting with plans.

A spokesman for the group which has been gathering plans for the hospital said one purpose for the meeting is to find out if the people really want to proceed with a hospital for Eastland. If they do they will make it known by their presence at the meeting.

"The business men of the city are definitely interested in a hospital if the citizens are," Mrs. James Horton said.

Jurors Adopt Get-Tough Act

FORT WORTH, March 27 (UP)—Bribery-probing grand jurors adopted a "get tough" policy today as a "professional dice man" claiming he was too ill to testify was told he must appear or present a doctor's certificate.

The man, described by the jury as a professional "dice man," was subpoenaed last week but said he was confined to his bed with an illness and could not testify.

Meanwhile, the jury prepared to resume its investigation of reported gambling payoffs tomorrow after an Easter recess.

SOUTHERN SENATOR INTRODUCES BILL WHICH WOULD LIQUIDATE ASSETS OF RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION

A number of southern and western lawmakers have fallen behind Senator Harry Flood Byrd (D-Va.) in effort to abolish and liquidate the assets of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, target of recent Crime Investigations.

Byrd has, throughout the career of President Harry S. Truman, been a critic of the administration's wild spendings and the high taxes which constitute useless and political ways of getting rid of taxpayers money.

Byrd has introduced a bill to the Senate which is expected to throw a monkey wrench into Truman's scramble to continue the RFC. The following remarks were made by the senator when introducing the bill.

Without going into the sordid record of the fiscal vandalism which has been practiced against the Federal Government of the United States through the facilities of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation which is being brought to light in daily chapters by the Fullbright Subcommittee, I submit the Reconstruction Finance Corporation should be abolished.

The RFC began as a depression measure and is useless in the period of the highest plateau of inflation we have ever reached. It is an agency which is being used as a workshop by get-rich-quick political predators. The Hoover Commission Task Force recommended its abolition. Jesse Jones, its highly respected original chairman, has recommended abolition.

The Senate Banking and Currency Committee has conceded that none of its original requirements now exist and that the only reason for continuing this easy money Federal lending agency is for "stand-by" purposes in case there should be another depression. There is no depression in sight, and such defense activities as have been assigned to it could better be administered by other agencies.

I submit, in view of the Federal debt—now a quarter of a TRILION DOLLARS—the hazards of easy credit in the current inflation, and in view of the abundance of other costly Federal credit agencies, that the authority for future lending activities of the RFC should be abolished, its outstanding assets be liquidated, its activities in the liquidation of government-owned World War II

WHAT ARE PROSPECTS OF A KOREAN CEASEFIRE ORDERS?

By EARNEST HOBEBRECHT United Press Staff correspondent TOKYO, March 27 (UP)—American troops began mopping up south of the 38th Parallel in the Seoul area today while South Korean troops on the east coast drove into North Korea in Force.

The Americans decimated one Chinese regiment and isolated part of another in the area of Uijongbu, on the main highway 10 miles north of Seoul.

U. S. 8th Army Forces in general were on or within artillery range of the parallel along the 140-mile front. In some areas they moved their lines forward without firing a shot.

The Chinese regiment, a part of the 77th Division of the 26th Army Corps, tried to fight a rear guard action six miles south of the border.

The Americans killed or wounded 350 Reds in a sharp clash. An American staff officer said the 77th Division could no longer be considered an effective fighting force. Two Communist artillery pieces also were knocked out.

Three miles northwest of Uijongbu and American unit outfit cut off another Chinese Communist force in a clash with three Red battalions.

The Americans called for surrender leaflets to be dropped on the encircled Chinese, giving them a chance to quit before moving in on them. They also asked for a surrender broadcast by loud-speaker.

Warplanes continued smashing Red efforts to build up a defense line along the Parallel, flying 499 sorties despite low visibility.

South Korean troops on the east coast were pushing north from Kaupno, three miles north of the 38th Parallel, along the same route they followed last summer.

The South Koreans were advancing along the same highway they followed all the way to Chongjin, some 250 miles north of the Parallel and only 55 miles from the Soviet Siberian frontier, last winter.

This time, however, they were expected to advance much more cautiously to protect their flank. There was no expectation they would go more than a few miles into North Korea at present.

An 8th Army spokesman scoffed at reports the South Koreans were defying the United Nations command with a headlong plunge across the Parallel. All their advances have been on orders from Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Commander of the 8th Army.

Other 8th Army forces were on or within artillery range of the old frontier between South and Communist North Korea all across the 140-mile-wide peninsula.

Front dispatches indicated the Communists were showing up new defenses or delaying positions at key spots ranging from just south of the border in the west to north of it in the east.

The Reds apparently were planning to make their strongest stand in the west athwart the roads running from Seoul, capital of South Korea, to Pyongyang, capital of Red North Korea.

Rear guards of the Chinese 26th Army launched a company-sized counter-attack against the advancing Allies some 11 miles north of Uijongbu on the easternmost Seoul-Pyongyang highway early today.

However, it was easily repulsed and seven prisoners were taken. The action took place about seven to eight miles south of the 38th Parallel.

Seventeen B-29 Superfortresses flew through rain-filled skies from Okinawa today and dropped more than 140 tons of bombs on North Korean military targets. The main attack was made on Pyongyang, the Communist capital.

Criticism of G.I. Conduct In Europe Pops Up Again

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—First of what is probably a new crop of reports on the questionable behavior of American troops in Europe are beginning to appear. This is an old story—as old as war itself. Yet it's always treated as something new. Latest manifestation of this phenomenon comes in the form of a letter to Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas. Senator Johnson is chairman of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee. This group has thus far been so busy investigating the material evils of the defense program—waste and inefficiency—that it hasn't got around to investigating the human relationships and moral values of the cold war. Senator Johnson's letter of criticism on American troops' conduct in Europe comes from one of his constituents, W. Jack Lewis of Austin. He was a Navy reserve chaplain during the war, and he served with the Marines in their Pacific island-hopping campaign from New Guinea to Leyte in the Philippines. Currently the Rev. Mr. Lewis has a Westminster fellowship for advanced study at St. Andrew's University, Scotland. Recently he boarded a train for London and entered a compartment in which were three American airmen—"nicely dressed, good-looking young men." They had a case of beer on the seat. They mistook the Rev. Mr. Lewis for a Britisher.

THIS is a highly condensed and expurgated version of his letter: "I know the difference between 'salty talk' and filth. I have served with officers and men of whom it was said that every time they spit the grass withered. But these men weren't on some coral isle cursing mosquitoes and coconut rats. . . . They were on a public conveyance in a foreign country. . . . utterly irresponsible. . . . These fellows looked up in astonishment when I refused both beer and cigar. One of them began to say that I oughta come to the States to see how things were run. So, with as much calm as I could muster, I told him. . . . "It suddenly seemed useless to build armies, fight battles, to kill and be killed to preserve freedom in the world when freedom was used as they were using it. . . . "When I left the airmen I kept trying to convince myself that I had simply stumbled into an unfortunate set of circumstances which showed our servicemen up in an extremely bad light. . . . But next morning I was having a conversation with a man I had met a few months earlier. His name is the Rev. Dudley Jones, an Anglican priest and chaplain at Cambridge. I had made no mention of my previous experience. He said: "Jack, I believe I know you well enough to tell you an experience I had recently. It preys on my mind. . . . I had to make a trip to London and when I got on the train in Cambridge I saw four American servicemen. . . . "I HAD brought my newspaper (as all Britishers do) but before I could unfold it, one of the Americans took the paper off my lap. . . . Remarks were made about the British which indicated they thought all British people were jealous of America. . . . They were insulting to the conductor and later to me. . . . When I got off the train I had the peculiar sensation of having been in the presence of troops of an occupying power. . . . troops which regard Britain as a satellite of the U. S. A. . . . Now, these are only a couple of isolated incidents from prejudiced witnesses and a whole Army should not be condemned on the basis of such complaints. Senator Johnson, in all fairness to him, didn't make the letter public and he doesn't intend to do anything about it because the evidence isn't conclusive. Chaplain Lewis made it public by sending 250 copies to friends in Texas.

Maybe That's Why They're Called 'Reds'!

J. EDGAR HOOVER CLAIMS CRIME WILL DIE IF COPS COPE WITH LOCAL VIOLATORS

WASHINGTON, March 26 (UP)—Attorney General J. Edgar Hoover told the Senate Crime Committee today that crime is undermining local self-government.

Hoover, who has put many gangsters behind bars, said flatly organized gambling—a backbone of criminal rings—would die in 48 hours if local officials went after the violators. "Blast the foundation of the local gambling czar by vigorously enforcing the statutes against gambling without fear or favor, and he will collapse," he said. "And, like a house of cards, the vast pyramid of gambling will collapse."

McGrath said the mob leaders of 10 to 20 years ago have been supplanted by a new type. These, he said, combine the "worst" features of big business manipulators with violence and corruption.

He suggested a broad program of federal legislation to swing the full force of the federal government against these elements. But he and Hoover voiced the strong feeling that local responsibility is the first line of action.

Both opposed any action that would create a "national police force" on grounds such an organization does not benefit a democratic land. Hoover said the defeat of racketeers, hoodlums and similar persons preying on the nation depends on the people themselves. In other developments as the Crime Committee under chairman

Estes Kefauver, D., Tenn., reached the last week of its 11-month national inquiry:

1. McGrath told the committee there is no federal law which would allow him to start deportation proceedings against New York racketeer Frank Costello, who defied the senate investigators in New York hearings.

2. Former New York Mayor William O'Dwyer telegraphed the committee that the sworn statement of a fireman's union official that he gave O'Dwyer a $10,000 campaign contribution in 1949 was a "vicious lie." This question is under investigation by a New York grand jury.

3. Kefauver invited anyone whose name has been mentioned in the hearings to come forward with a reply if they feel an explanation is needed. Nobody will be denied a hearing, he said.

Hoover told the committee only an aroused united citizenry can bring about a "crime-free America." Law enforcement "is only as effective as the citizens demand," he said.

"If the community, as a group or as individuals, does not desire effective law enforcement, then there will not be effective law enforcement," he said. "That proposition has been abundantly proven."

He scored the tendency of recent years to "back pass" the problem to the federal government. The federal government, he said, "can never be satisfactory substitute for local self-government in the enforcement field." At the outset of yesterday's hearing Kefauver read O'Dwyer's letter to the committee. Then the chairman added:

"We want to caution anyone expecting sensational developments they will not come out of these hearings."

The committee, he said, has now reached the stage of "pick and shovel" work. He said the bulk of working remaining is concerned with possible legislative proposals.

Kefauver said the committee has received "complaints" that newsreels of the hearings are being televised with paid sponsors. He said the committee had "no control over that" but hopes that the "good judgment" of the industry will keep TV shows "in line with the dignity of a Senate hearing."

McGrath said local grand juries should make an annual study of criminal activities and act to end them. With the stricter federal laws, he said, this "would solve our problem."

He said racketeers carry their operations across state lines and make a "mockery" of local police efforts.

This Last Night

By Ferd Nauheim

A QUIVERING groan escaped from Paul Twing's swollen lips. He went back to the first path again. Exhausted, he dropped on to the park bench near the sailor and the girl. Paul's body was racked with pain, but he didn't notice it. Only the cruel agony of his mind and heart reached his consciousness. It was over.

Judy Twing would be taken back to that creature of a mother, May Jenkins—they probably wouldn't kill May—not fast and clean in the electric chair anyhow. They'd send her to jail—five years, ten years, twenty.

The sweetest, most decent, bravest woman Paul Twing had ever met, and he had to drag her into this mess. Savagely, he cursed himself for a stupid, selfish fool.

The sailor and his girl rose from their bench. They walked slowly past Paul, the sailor's arm about the girl's waist. Bitterly Paul Twing looked after them, hating them for their complacent happiness.

As Paul looked he saw a slight figure running across the street toward the sailor and the girl. The lights from the display windows of the stores across the way were behind the figure and he could see no more than the slim silhouette—but he knew—he knew that silhouette!

He was on his feet when May reached him and flung herself into his waiting, joyous arms.

They held each other close. He could feel the wild beating of her heart against his. Then his mouth found hers and he kissed her hungrily. He kissed her wet eyes and the tears that were racing down her cheeks, and then her lips again.

"Oh, May, May, my darling. I thought I'd lost you!"

His voice was a moan but it tingled with elation, thanksgiving, devotion. "Is Judy all right?"

May's pinched face beamed up at him, alive with love and salvation. "In the little restaurant across the street. We've been sitting there watching for you for—forever."

They hadn't moved. Paul clung to the ecstatic haven of her warm, pulsating body. Then he remembered that in addition to the joy of reunion there were more good news—the Dolphin was waiting.

A DIM bulb illuminated the sign: "CYNTHIA—Capt. H. Cross, DEEP SEA FISHING PARTIES." Paul, holding Judy's hand, looked at the sign from across the dark street.

The sound of water lapping against the shore was music. He looked back. May smiled happily as she watched them. She was a block behind.

Coming to Sheephead Bay in the subway they had taken the precaution of separating. Judy had been with Paul who had kept his face concealed behind a newspaper. May had hidden in another car.

The road that ran along the shore of the bay was deserted. Paul motioned to May to join them. As she approached them she looked across to the Cynthia's dock. The sign formed the top of a timber archway and beyond it there was a narrow plank wall. She could make out the dim outline of the boat hugging the side of the slender pier.

Paul's face shone with happiness. "There's freedom, May."

There were triumph and release in his voice. She slipped her hand into his, smiled her joy and said nothing.

They went through the arch and down the dock to the boat. A light shone through the curtains of the cabin window. As they drew nearer she saw the black silhouette of a man detach itself from the shadows of the deck and vault the rail. The man stood, hands on hips, waiting for them.

"Captain Cross?" Paul called softly.

The man remained silent until they were closer. "We ain't taking out no parties tonight." The voice was deep and gruff.

"That's not what your brother Royce said."

"You got a friend?" It was a challenge.

Paul gestured toward Judy and May. "I have two friends."

"I mean a particular friend."

"I guess you mean Jo-Jo." "Get on board." He moved aside to let them on.

"Are we going for a boat ride?" Judy exclaimed happily.

Paul picked her up and swung her over the rail. "You bet we are, honey."

CAPTAIN CROSS clambered aboard after them. "Go in the cabin," he ordered.

The door to the cabin was closed. Paul turned the knob and pulled the door open. Light streamed out across the deck. May was right behind Paul with Judy.

She saw him stiffen with surprise. Her eyes flew to the open doorway.

A few steps led down to the small cabin. There was a rumpled bunk on each side and beyond the one on the right was a sink. Two men were standing in the narrow space between the bunks.

They were staring up at Paul Twing.

THE SCOREBOARD

Bosox Plan to Crash Through With Depth on the Bench

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

SARASOTA, Fla.—(NEA)—The most noticeable change in the Red Sox is that Joe McCarthy's celebrated thin line has gone out the window.

A year ago down here, Manager McCarthy had four infielders, three outfielders and barely enough pitching to go round. Marse Joe didn't even have Billy Goodman for all-round duty. The one-man ball club was at first base, for Walloping Walter Droppo had been assigned to the Louisville club.

McCarthy had the old-fashioned notion that a ball player should hit both types of pitching and play every inning from the start of the exhibition games up to and through the World Series.

General Manager Joe Cronin padded the pitching in acquiring Ray Scarborough and Bill Wight from the White Sox, but this meant the loss of Joe Deaton and Outfielder Al Zarilla.

Harry Taylor, an ex-Dodger brought up from St. Paul in time to turn in two great performances last fall, could be the star of the staff if he has finally shaken the arm trouble that has plagued him for several years.

If Scarborough and Wight demonstrate they can win with a winner, Steve O'Neill should fashion plenty of pitching out of a staff which also includes Parnell, Willard Nixon, Masterson, Stobbs and McDermott, with Old Granddad Kinder on relief.

PLAYING anywhere near his 1948 form, Lou Boudreau, 20 pounds lighter and free of managerial worry, could be the carburetor, especially with Goodman going back to right field.

Junior Stephens will have to hit considerably more than his weight away from Fenway Park to keep a bouncing Boudreau out of the shortstop slot, and the former Indian chief is even more versatile than Goodman, for he can catch.

Speaking of catching, that's where the Red Sox have numbers rather than quality. With Birdie Tebbets, an accomplished workman in the books of a lot of baseball men, vetoed by Manager O'Neill and age, the Back Bay Millionaires are left with Matt Batts and the veterans Al Evans, purchased from the Senators, Mickey Guerra, obtained from the Athletics, and Buddy Roser.

There is a tremendous difference there, when you think of the Yankees with Yogi Berra, and the accomplished receiving given the Indians by Jim Hegan.

But this trip Steve O'Neill at least won't have to look around for an usher when someone gets hurt or a pitcher is crying for help.

CHRYSLER TO SET PACE IN INDIANAPOLIS '500'

This is the car that will set the pace on Memorial Day for the fastest fleet of racing cars ever assembled. The Chrysler New Yorker Convertible, equipped with the new 180-hp V-8 "FirePower Engine"—most powerful power plant of any passenger car—has drawn the coveted honor, and here is shown on the famous Speedway at Indianapolis where the 500-mile race will be run. At the wheel is D. A. Wallace, president of the Chrysler Division of the Chrysler Corporation, who will guide the 53 racing cars around the 2 1/2-mile brick and asphalt track. At his side is Wilbur Shaw, president and general manager of the Speedway and three-time winner of the "500," and seated in the rear seat is Tony Milton, chief steward of the track, who was a famed racing driver of the Twenties, when he brought home two winners of the Indianapolis. Billy Graham Enroute Home

FORT WORTH, March 27 (UP)—Evangelist Billy Graham left for his Montreat, N. C., home today after ending a four-week revival that attracted an estimated 336,300 persons, including some 36,000 at Easter services.

Sunday's services were held at the Texas Christian University football stadium. Graham said he planned to rest at his home before beginning a three-week meeting April 8 in Shreveport, La.

Firemen Must Relax

BRIGHAM CITY, Utah (UP)—Volunteer firemen here advertised in a local paper that they would appreciate it if anyone would co-operate and not send in any fire alarm on a certain Friday night. The fire-fighters explained they weren't shirking their duty; they just didn't want to miss the fun. The firemen's ball was that night.

Court Sets Negro On Road To Chair

WASHINGTON, March 27 (UP)—The Supreme Court today set Willie McGee of Laurel, Miss., on the road to the electric chair for the fourth time.

The court again refused to consider an appeal by the 38-year-old Negro, thrice convicted in Mississippi courts of raping a white woman in November, 1945. McGee appealed after Federal Judge Sidney C. Mize denied him a writ of habeas corpus.

McGee's execution was stayed by Justice Hugo L. Black March 15 until the court could look at his case again.

His appeals had been based primarily on the grounds that the state obtained the convictions by means of perjured testimony. In his latest petition he claimed that he and the white woman had engaged in voluntary sexual relations. But he said the truth had never come out in his trials because of southern prejudices about intimacies between whites and Negroes. Mississippi Atty. Gen. J. P. Coleman said that claims are "absolutely false."

The Civil Rights Congress which has been labeled subversive by the Justice Department, has taken a lively interest in McGee. His lawyers include former Rep.

Investigation Left To Ft. Worth Cops

DENTON, March 27 (UP)—Investigation of the latest attempt on the life of Herbert (The Cat) Noble, self-styled retired Dallas gambler, will be left up to Fort Worth authorities, Denton County officers said today.

The latest, and at least 10th attempt, occurred Thursday when a bomb attached to Noble's private plane exploded at his ranch near Grapevine in Denton County.

Noble named two Fort Worth ex-convicts as the ones he believed responsible for the attempted assassination.

He appeared in Fort Worth yesterday looking for Detective Chief Clay Bishop, but left when told Bishop was out of town. Noble left some dynamite caps at Bishop's office, however, and said

O'Dwyer Brands Crane As Liar

WASHINGTON, March 27 (UP)—Former Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York branded as a "vicious liar" today the sworn statement of a Firemen's Union official that he gave O'Dwyer a $10,000 campaign contribution in 1949.

O'Dwyer said in a telegram to chairman Estes Kefauver, D. Tenn., of the Senate's Special Crime Investigating Committee that John Crane head of the New York Firemen's Union, had lied about the campaign contribution "to save his own skin."

O'Dwyer asked that Kefauver read his telegram into the committee's records, which Kefauver did soon after yesterday's session opened.

Auto Kills More Than War—

... according to statistics just published by the National Safety Council. Nearly a million persons have been killed by the automobile family since the advent of the auto in 1906 while total casualties for all of our seven wars including the Revolution have been only 845,000. We know of no way to stop auto slaughter, but we do know that careful driving will help and adequate insurance will pay the bills in case of accident.

Police Car Hauled Top Criminal

WASHINGTON, March 27 (UP)—FBI director J. Edgar Hoover said yesterday that a "prominent" criminal was chauffeured in a police car between LaGuardia airport and his New York office in 1945.

Hoover told the Senate Crime

Committee the man was Irving Sherman, who is being sought by the legislators for questioning. He said that a man who met Sherman at the airport later became a deputy police inspector. He did not give his name.

He identified Sherman as "one of the most prominent criminals of the underworld and a powerful politician in New York City." He said that in 1945, Sherman was "commuting" between New York and Washington.

The committee wants to ask Sherman about his connections with Frank Costello but has been unable to find him. Hoover offered to cooperate.

The chauffeuring is only one of a number of cases which demonstrate tie-ups between criminals and local officials, Hoover said. He cited others which included:

1. An FBI search for a fugitive in which a local sheriff was contacted. The sheriff said he knew nothing about the man but it developed later that the fugitive was a "visitor" at his home while the FBI was looking for him.

2. A case in which 100 slot machines were confiscated and turned over to a local sheriff. When the case came to trial, the machines had disappeared.

3. A California police chief "in a prominent movie community" ordered his men to report only "one-tenth" of the crimes that occurred so his records would "look better."

Hoover said these were all examples of what happens when apathetic citizens do not demand strict law enforcement in their communities.

FARM Facts

Sometimes, a livestock feeder or a poultry farmer, in giving serious thought to the nutritional requirements of his farm stock, overlooks the necessary vitamins and proteins in his own—and his family's daily diet.

Dr. M. J. Smith, Research Consultant, Kolston Purina Company

For an adult, two eggs for breakfast will contribute all the supplementary protein, all of the Vitamin D, one-half of the Vitamin A, one-third of the riboflavin and all of the iron and copper required per day, as well as sizable contributions of other important nutrients.

Truly, eggs rate highly as a protective food. In addition to their high food value, eggs are popular because they can be easily and quickly cooked in a variety of ways and because they can be used to improve the taste, texture and appearance of so many other foods.

The per-capita consumption of eggs is much higher among people on farms and ranches where eggs are produced and eaten in a fresh state than among those who have to depend on market eggs of uncertain age and condition.

A better quality market egg is a prerequisite for increased consumption among the 80 per cent of the people living in towns and cities. An improvement in egg quality could easily double the size of the American poultry industry with benefit to consumers as well as producers.

Statistics show that the per-capita consumption of eggs in the United States for 1950 was slightly less than one per day, a surprisingly small number when considered from the standpoint of either food value or relative cost as compared with other animal food.

An increased consumption up to two eggs per day would undoubtedly improve the nutritional value of the average American diet. In no other way could so much improvement be obtained at so small an increase in the food budget.

Rita Takes Powder From Aly Khan

LE HAVRE, France, March 27 (UP)—Rita Hayworth and her two children sailed secretly aboard the liner De Grasse for New York Saturday night, shipping officials said today.

Neither her husband, Prince Aly Khan, nor anyone else was on the dock to see her off, they said.

The screen glamor girl's sudden departure for the U. S. followed repeated rumors that she and the prince were separating. Both have denied the rumors.

Rita drove here from Paris with a nurse and the children and slipped "unnoticed" aboard the ship, according to Pierre Carcel, French line official in charge of passenger lists.

"She took us all by surprise," he said. "I didn't know about it until an hour before the ship shoved off."

The De Grasse is scheduled to arrive in New York April 2.

Cops Get Back Their Own WOONSOCKET, R. I. (UP)—Officers Joseph Baillargeon and Roland Nault halted an automobile for a routine check and found some stolen car accessories hidden under a blanket. Later, Baillargeon and Nault discovered that much of the loot had been stripped from their own private cars, parked across from police headquarters.

The history of the RFC shows that it has done a good job when it was really needed, but, as might have been expected, its access to the financial resources of the United States has been too great a temptation for political camp-followers in periods when it did not have a job to do.

Since its inception in 1932, the RFC has made some 30,000 direct business loans totaling approximately a billion dollars, and more than 5,000 business loans with bank participation totaling nearly $200 million. These are exclusive of defense loans to political subdivisions and exclusive of its mortgage loan program. Many have been written off as uncollectable. Of these uncollectable loans, 6 out of every 7 were authorized in periods when there was neither depression nor war in sight, and more than half of them have been authorized since World War II.

Most of the vandalism brought out by the Fulbright Committee to date has been the by-product of activities engaged in by a useless nonessential agency with no real purpose to serve.

To talk about reorganizing a nonessential agency with nothing constructive to do is completely impractical. In the first place, competent, responsible financiers, such as are required to direct an institution such as the RFC was supposed to be, will not make themselves available as useless bureaucrats feeding at the public trough of the Federal payroll.

ONLY FOUR MORE TO GO—Thirty-two states out of the necessary 36 have now ratified the proposed 22nd amendment to the Constitution which would limit any future president to two terms. The proposal, passed by Congress in March, 1947, has until March, 1954, to secure ratification and become a part of the Constitution. However, eight states have already approved proposal this year, and at least four more are considered likely to ratify at an early date. Although President Truman is specifically exempted from the proposal, some politicians believe it is building up an ethical obstacle to his nomination in 1952.

To say that the RFC has made money is an argument to defeat not only its acting for a democracy. It was never intended that the government should make money off of the citizens of its nation. The RFC borrows its capital at 1 7-8 per cent and loans it at 4 per cent (raised to 5 per cent in November, 1950). This accounts for the profits which the Corporation claims it has realized. Any estimate as to such profits, however, must await the liquidation of the nearly $1 billion assets of the Corporation which is invested not only in loans but in the ownership of property that has been taken over by the failure of the borrowers to make the required payments. The liquidation will show definitely whether or not the RFC has made or lost money, and in no other way can this be ascertained.

To say that the RFC hasn't cost the taxpayers any money is to overlook its ramified inter-agency dealings by which money borrowed from the public in the form of government bonds at one rate of interest was borrowed by the RFC from the Treasury at a lower rate of interest. The RFC, in turn, loaned the money to other government agencies at a higher rate of interest. And, other agencies, in turn, loaned the money back to the public at an interest rate higher than the Treasury was paying the public for the money in the first place.

If we are going to keep the RFC idly standing by, awaiting the evil day of another depression emergency, then we may expect it, for lack of something to do, to continue the kind of lending operations the Fulbright Committee has been bringing out, or something worse.

Was it in the public interest for the RFC itself to have loaned $2,705,000 to a gold mine in Alaska which the RFC itself said was in trouble due to governmental restrictions, lack of available labor supply, the rising cost of materials and supplies, etc.?

Was it in the public interest for the RFC in 1946 to loan the Hal Roach movie studios $1,500,000 when the RFC itself said it found turmoil in the industry?

Was it in the public interest for the RFC to loan the Windsor Company of Washington $1,100,000 for construction of a swank apartment hotel at 2300 Connecticut Avenue in the Nation's Capitol?

Was it in the public interest for the RFC to loan the Kaiser-Frazer Corporation, operating in the Willow Run plant, $34,400,000 to manufacture automobiles and replacement parts, and then loan them $10,000,000 more for the establishment of a distribution and sales organization to sell the automobiles? This Kaiser-Frazer loan is in addition to wartime loans totaling more than $100 million to establish a steel plant.

I mention only several of the loans made by the RFC which are inconsistent with the policy and procedure directed by Congress when this Corporation was first established. There are hundreds of other loans that can come in for just criticism from the standpoint that such loans were not a matter of necessity, either for defense or in the public interest.

Such loans do not promote the public welfare. They provide easy credit which is not needed in inflationary periods. They provide employment in competition with vital defense requirements. Under current circumstances, it is competition by the Federal Government with private banking enterprize and a step toward nationalization of banking.

It is not in the public interest to use the RFC facilities to bypass the ordinary legislative procedure for making appropriations. It is not in the public interest to keep such an organization, fully staffed with incompetent people for another 5 or 6 years.

I disagree with this in company with the Hoover Commission Task Force and the Honorable Jesse Jones, former RFC chairman and former Secretary of the Treasury, in whom the nation has full confidence as a banker, as a businessman and as a financier whose reputation and integrity are unsullied.

The RFC, once useful, has now degenerated into a horrible example of a nonessential, useless Federal agency, making questionable loans involving the nonessential, expenditure of taxpayer's money, contributing to inflation, and operating on capitol out of the Federal debt which is costing more than $5 billion in interest a year. The public interest would be served by its abolition and the liquidation of its assets at the earliest possible date.

The RFC is now so permeated with political favoritism that it should be completely cleaned out. There is an old saying that you cannot measure a snake until it is dead. I think this will apply to the RFC, as a non-political liquidation of this agency will, in my judgment, disclose many evidences of favoritism, collusion, improper influence, and perhaps criminal practices. It has contributed in a large way to political moral delinquency and has done, and is doing, much to cause the people to lose faith in their government, and the agency should be abolished.

To this end I am now introducing a bill to liquidate the lending activities of the RFC immediately and to provide that, as soon as they can be liquidated, the RFC's assets be applied directly to reduction of the Federal debt. In addition, my bill would transfer the operational activities of the RFC to the Office of Defense Mobilization which is under the direction of Mr. Charles E. Wilson, an eminent businessman. The defense production business loans, in which the RFC has only perfunctory functions, are not involved in this legislation because the functions have been delegated by the President and would require only redelegation by executive order.

If the legislation is enacted, I hope the Secretary of the Treasury will designate as the liquidator Jesse Jones, who is not only familiar with its ramifications but has the courage to perform the task without fear or favor.

The RFC is just one of the numerous instrumentalities of the Federal Government originated to combat depression and inflation which are still hanging on with all their multiple and ramified activities as a drag on our efforts to combat inflation.
