POLICE HEAD SOUNDS OFF

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 7 (UP)—New York police commissioner Thomas P. Murphy says state and local crime commissions should hold a convention to coordinate their fight against the underworld.

But, he said in a speech last night, the battle against interstate crime should be left to municipal authorities, with the federal government fighting interstate crime.

"I think it is necessary for the various commissions, state and city, publicly appointed or privately underwritten, to get together, draft minimum working modes, and arrange to exchange information regularly," he said.

Murphy said the legislative program outlined by Sen. Estes Kefauver, D., Tenn., as chairman of the senate crime investigating committee would eliminate "further intervention in local matters" by letting state and municipal officials continue local enforcement.

"Thus no officeholder would be tempted to attempt the gallant, but impossible task of effectively policing the entire nation."

Nazarene Set Sunday Topics

Rev. William C. Emberton, Nazarene pastor, is continuing a series of messages during the month of April at the services Sunday. He will speak at the morning worship hour on, "Consider Jesus, Our Apostle and High Priest," taken from the book of Hebrews. At the evening services at 7:45 he will speak on, "Who Shall Be Able to Stand," from the book of Revelations.

Rev. Emberton says, "We invite you to attend our Sunday School at 9:45. At this hour a quartette from the Eastland County Singing Convention will sing several numbers for us. You will enjoy worshipping with us, so make your plans to attend."

Minister's Group To Meet Monday

The Eastland Ministers Fellowship will meet at a regular meeting Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the Methodist Study. All the ministers of the group are invited to be present.

Lift Up Your Heart

By Rev. C. Nelson
The most priceless jewel is not yet to be cut or mind. The most precious jewel is in your hands. That of the little life committed into your hands by the grace of God.

The greatest heritage a person has ever had committed to them, outside of salvation, is the heritage of fatherhood and motherhood. The greatest obligations a person has ever taken upon himself is not the obligations of a fraternity, not the obligations of social decorum, but the obligation, first, of being a Christian, and second, of being the right kind of a parent.

The earthly recognitions; the victors wreaths; the honors bestowed upon our transient achievements fade into oblivion as we estimate the value of a human life. I don't know the achievements of the woman but she gave the world a son named Abraham Lincoln. I doubt if the mother ever dreamed of being great, but she gave birth to a son and they named him Robert E. Lee. I doubt if we will ever be able to estimate the contribution of Christian parenthood.

As of any other heritage we can use or abuse it. We can honor God with it or dishonor God in refusing it. We can help that blessing God gave us become distinguished or delinquent. The clay is in our hands. The potter's wheel is our home. The master teacher of the art is the Christ. The explicit book of instructions is his Holy word, but the will must be ours and the patient faith must be ours. Oh God help Godless America reclaim this heritage.

An Editorial TO THE PEOPLE OF TEXAS

You are going to pay more and higher taxes than ever before as a result of the underhanded work of "Honest Harold" Ickes, President Truman, Tom Clark, and the Supreme Court of the United States, in the robbery of the Tidelands of Texas.

For sometime Texas and other southern newspapers have carried stories of how the submerged oil lands of Texas were literally stolen from this state and her people by the unjust power of Federal Courts.

Two days ago, this writer had the extreme pleasure of talking with State Land Commissioner Bascom Giles, who was in Ranger for the "Boyce House Day" celebration. Mr. Giles apparently shares the views of this writer on the Tidelands situation.

Mr. Giles pointed out that the people apparently don't realize what has taken place. He said:

"The people must come to realize that the Tidelands are now lost and that it will take Congressional action to get back for the state of Texas and her permanent school fund the interest which it once held in it's land. We must have offensive Congressional action."

"It is going to take concerted militant action on the part of the people of Texas to recover her Tidelands. Everyone from the biggest state official to the man who digs the ditches, must get in this fight. It is your fight. Taking the Tidelands was a move which could have deprived your children of ample education.

But the people of Texas will not neglect the education of their young. Therefore we must pay more and higher taxes to replace the money taken from the school fund by the power mad Administration in Washington. The people of Texas must become aroused if they expect to regain ownership or even a small portion of the interest they rightfully own and once held in their Tidelands.

Texas has the full claim that any other state has to her submerged lands and in addition holds and "agreement of annexation". This agreement had the effect of a treaty and was a document of a "meeting of the minds of the people of two separate independent nations". Texas joined the union under the condition that she retain all tidelands.

For years this was not questioned and all money derived from these lands and the oil leases of these lands were put in a school fund. Therefore Texas has always paid smaller school taxes than any other state. She has been able to have more state supported schools and to educate more of her youth.

The Federal Government envied those lands for many years but always before knew that a treaty signed by representatives of the United States should not be broken. With the Truman administration came the "Big Grab" of a power mad Federal Government who didn't claim any right or show any right to the lands. They just took a Federal Court order and took them over.

The value of the principal involved herein is something which we must fight for. However we must not overlook the present value as the potential value which is estimated billions and billions of dollars. It must be kept foremost in the minds of the people that these lands were theirs. By owning these lands they paid less taxes. Now because of the loss of these lands taxes will definitely increase. We MUST do this to provide our children with education which the revenues from the Tidelands would have otherwise done.

The taking of the Tidelands by the Federal Government constitutes a threat and endangers the inland waters as well as other public properties such as the University of Texas lands, those of the Texas A & M College, and . . . yes . . . even your private home and other property.

Texas had over 18 million acres in the Tidelands and had collected some eight million dollars from this area. Yet, only one-sixty-fourths of the area had been offered for lease. From these figures the immense value of this property can be visualized. You can see what this means to you and to your state. The loss of this revenue will have to be made up by you as a tax payer. YOU ARE GOING TO PAY MORE TAXES.

Commissioner Giles compared the money which the Tidelands had brought in during his administration and showed where the permanent school fund had grown from 56 to 160 million dollars in a 12 year period from the Texas ownership of her Tidelands. The University of Texas and A & M fund grew into 110 million dollars from the 27 million it was twelve years ago. Had Texas been allowed to keep her Tidelands there is no telling what we would be worth today.

Mr. Giles stated that he has "Profusional praise for the splendid work done by Texas members of Congress on this Tideland issue." He singled out Senators Johnson and Connally, Speakers Rayburn, and Congressman Fisher, as some of the men he believed would continue to fight for Texas in her crusade to regain her rightful property.

He has urged the public to continually write to friends, congressmen, and voters in other states to stress the importance of this matter. What has happened here could happen in Georgia, Virginia, Mississippi, or anywhere else. But next time it may be your farm or your automobile may be needed by the Federal Government. Lets not take this lying down. ACT!

The meeting will be held in the Adult II room of the Sunday School department in the Educational building. Hite is connected with the West Texas Supply Co., in Abilene.

"I'm Cleaning My Own Back Yard First"

AMARILLO, April 7 (UP)—Amarillo police chief A. S. Harper vowed today he planned to "clean up my own back yard" as he continued his one-man investigation of "laxity" by several officers on the midnight to 8 a.m. shift.

"I'm responsible for this department's operation 24 hours a day and I intend to see that it's run right," he said.

So far, the chief's onslaught had netted two resignations and one dismissal.

The dismissed patrolman was also convicted of theft and sentenced to 10 days in jail this week after Chief Harper met him returning with merchandise stolen from a furniture store. The convicted man's partner resigned as did night captain Bob Marshall.

Marshall's letter of resignation said "due to circumstances beyond my control, I feel it would be better for the city and myself to resign."

Harper said he also found two nighttime patrolmen who held other regular daytime jobs.

"They think they can work at another job during the day, then if they need a little sleep, they think they can catch it sometime during the night," the chief said. "It's a full time job checking these patrol-car beats."

"There has been a lot said about crime activities elsewhere, committee investigations and the like," he said. "If any member of the (state) crime investigating committee here I mean for him to find a good, clean police department."

"I'm cleaning my own back yard first," Harper said.

Thugs Don't Take Peanuts

DALLAS, April 7 (UP)—Thugs tried once the back door of the Lone Star Peanut Company office today, knocked the knob on a safe and escaped with the company's weekly payroll.

Peanut company officials said the loot amounted to some $1,600 all in cash. That, they said, was not peanuts.

Pictured above is Quana, Appaloosa horse of James Ratliff of Ranger, which will be displayed at the Eastland Roping Club Horse Show, Saturday, April 14. The Appaloosa is a rare type of horse, but is becoming popular in horse circles. Since there is not an Appaloosa class in the show, Quana will not enter the competition. Proceeds from the show are going to the Eastland Hospital Fund.

City Hospital

A Real Investment

As the hospital drive starts Monday, April 9th, and is to be completed before the end of the month, it gives the citizens of Eastland a real opportunity to make a good investment, one that will pay big dividends in health, happiness and security.

This investment should be considered a privilege by the citizens and an opportunity to contribute to something that will be of benefit to all for the many years to come.

This is by far the biggest undertaking ever attempted in Eastland and one that seems to have the endorsement of all of its citizens, but the real way for you to show whether you are in favor of Eastland having a hospital is by the amount of money you invest in the project, as conversation or holding up your hand will not provide the means to secure it.

Again, this should be considered a real investment and one that does not have a money dividend, but a dividend that means much more to the many citizens and people living within our trade territory in having the very necessary facilities that Eastland should have had a long time ago, and it is now up to you to make it possible or forever forget about needing a hospital or attempting to secure one.

No doubt many of you will be called upon within the next week or ten days, so decide if you want a hospital by the size of your investment.

Truman Ties MacArthur's Hands Assuring No End To Truman's War

By Donald J. Gonzales

WASHINGTON, April 7 (UP)—Official pressure built up today for President Truman to crack down on Gen. Douglas MacArthur's complaint against U. S. policy conduct of the Korean War.

But some influential Republican senators took the view that the administration was guilty of mishandling of policy. Several Republicans said they might introduce a resolution in the senate next week asking MacArthur to appear before Congress. Sen. Homer Ferguson, R., Mich., hinted it might be better for a senate delegation to meet with MacArthur in Tokyo.

Authoritative sources reported that at the Washington-MacArthur conference over what the next move should be in the political arena of the Korean War. Britain and the United States already have failed to agree on a policy declaration—a situation which officials trace to MacArthur's statements.

The general yesterday blamed "political decisions beyond my authority" for failure of the United States to provide arms for 400,000 unarmed South Korean reserves. MacArthur made the comment in response to a query from the magazine, Freeman, in New York.

Horse Show Trophies On Display; Mystery Picture Contest Set

A picture which was made somewhere in Eastland of an Eastland owned horse is now on display in the window of Carl Johnson's Dry Goods Store, and to the person who can tell where the picture was made and the breeding of the horse will be awarded two tickets to the Eastland Roping Club Horse Show by Pete Tindall.

Tindall said that the horse was well known in Eastland. The picture was taken a number of years ago.

Also on display in the window of Johnson's store are a number of the trophies which will be awarded at the Horse Show, April 14. Proceeds from the show are going to the Eastland Hospital fund.

Greenglass Gets 15 Years In Jail

Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman sentenced David Greenglass, 39, former Army technical sergeant, to serve 15 years in prison for his prime part in the widespread espionage plot that delivered America's most prized defense secret to Soviet Russia even before the first test A-bomb was exploded.

While Greenglass heard his fate, his sister, Ethel, 25, and her husband Julius Rosenberg, 32, waited in heavily guarded prison cells to be transported to the death house of Sing Sing Prison. Greenglass was the chief witness against them. Admittedly they could not have been convicted if he hadn't repented his treason and aided the government.

Greenglass, who pleaded guilty to war-time espionage, received part of his reward when the government refrained from bringing his 26-year-old wife, Ruth, to trial although she played an important part in the espionage plot. The indictment named her as a co-conspirator but not as a co-defendant and she also was a key witness against the Rosenbergs.

Kaufman told the husky moon-faced Greenglass that he did not condone his acts of treason to his country.

"They were loathsome and contemptible," the judge said. "But I have to be realistic and I recognize that despite my own inclination to be more severe—due to the revolting nature of this crime—I must subordinate my own feeling. Our national security is more important."

Like To Have A Talk

HOLLYWOOD, April 7 (UP)—As one ex-child star to another Diana Lynn said today, she'd like to sit down for a little talk with Margaret O'Brien on "girl stuff."

Margaret announced a few days ago she doesn't want to grow up and this, Diana thinks, is bad.

"I know how she feels," the 24-year-old actress sighed. "Ten years ago I was right where she is—scared of boys, worried about clothes, frightened at the prospect of growing up."

Crown prince and princess were William Douglas King and Shirley Anne Hightower.

Representatives from each high school class were also on the program.

now on display, and other trophies are now on the way here. The trophies are engraved, "Eastland Roping Club Horse Show, 1951," and the class of the winning entry is also engraved on the trophies.

Tindall said that a large number of horses will be present for the show, and that horses from as far away as Ohio will be here. The show is sponsored by the Texas Palomino Association of which Bob Lucas, Ft. Worth, is president.

Lucas was in Eastland to discuss plans for the show about two weeks ago. At that time he promised that some of the best Palomino horses in the state will be in the show.

Bill Elliott, the star movie cowboy, will be in Eastland for the show. He will arrive here Friday night and will be present for a downtown rally Saturday morning and will be at the show all day Saturday. He will work his champion cutting horse at the cutting horse and roping contest Saturday night.

Tickets for the show are now being sold in the city with all the money taken in on the tickets going to the Eastland Hospital fund.

Annual Round-Up Ends In Austin

AUSTIN, April 7 (UP)—The 22nd Annual University of Texas Round-Up, built around the Texas relays, ends tonight with a king-size revenue and ball.

A campus sweetheart, who is crowned as the two-day extravaganza reaches its climax.

The celebration opened yesterday with the traditional big, beautiful and spectacular parade through downtown Austin.

It involved some 60 floats, beauties from the University and other Southwest Conference Schools, state and university officials and a score of bands.

The parade's theme this year was pegged on beauty, rather than comedy and satire. Most of the floats were huge reproductions in crepe paper flowers of characters from fable, song or fiction.

However, two floats jabbed at the Women's Christian Temperance Union, which recently attempted to push a prohibition amendment through the state legislature.

The parade ended with floats saluting three Texas heroes—Judge Roy Bean and former Texas Football and Coaches Blair Cherry and Jack Gray.

Eastland Rain Measures .30 Inches Friday

April showers brought .30 of an inch of rain to the dry Eastland area late Friday, but much more moisture is needed before the dry condition will be alleviated.

Olden recorded one half an inch of rain Friday and to the west, Cisco was more fortunate with a total of one inch.

County farmers have been able to plant very little of their crops because of the dry ground which did not contain enough moisture to properly sprout the seed.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Secret Service's Zeal Almost Ruins U. S.-French Relations

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The U. S. Secret Service came darn near wrecking friendly relations between La Belle France and the United States the other night, and spoiling the Washington visit of French President Vincent Auriol to boot. It happened at the big chateau which is the French embassy. President Auriol gave a dinner there, in honor of President Truman.

The dinner was for 30 assorted Supreme Court justices, senators and other bigwigs in the U. S. government and their wives. For afterwards, the French invited in some 1500 smaller fry. They were supposed to come at 10:30 p. m. But the Secret Service, whose job it is to protect the life of the U. S. President and the French President, too, when he's on U. S. soil, wouldn't let any of the 1500 in until Mr. Truman and family had gone home. And they were having such a good time that they stayed late, shaking the hands of some 600 people.

So, until pretty near midnight, 1500 of Washington's supposedly best people, all dolled up in white ties, tails and their best evening gowns, stood in line outside and waited to get in. Comparison to a line before a soup kitchen would be apt, if the folks hadn't been dressed up so fancy and if the free feed hadn't been French pastry and champagne.

The line extended all the way down the walk along the wide, curving driveway that led to the embassy and on for another block to Connecticut Ave. Oh my! the thoughts they think and the things they said! Traffic was jammed for blocks.

THERE were a lot of diplomats from other embassies in the line, stove-pipe hatted, and with ribbons across their chests and medals on their lapels. They shook their heads and said seriously that this was no way to promote friendly relations between nations.

Madam Pandit, the Indian ambassador, finally gave up in disgust and started home. The line behind her moved up one step. Later she was back, however, for the word spread that diplomats—the top diplomats and their families, that is—would be admitted. So they pulled their rank and pulled out of line and crashed the gate. Nobody cheered.

Fortunately, it was a nice night. A few well-placed stars, low white fleecy clouds, magnolia trees just busting into bloom, a magnificent big silver birch silhouetted against the night sky, the bright lights from inside shining a welcome to the little match girls and boys in line outside. But if it had rained a few drops, you might just as well have written the North Atlantic Treaty Organization off as a bust and let the Communists have Europe.

BUT at least 1450 of the 1500 stuck it out. "This proves," as one wag remarked, "how much we really love France."

There were a few dozen curious sightseers in nice warm spectator sports coats, lined up on the other side of the street, laughing at the folk in the slow-motion conga line. Later they started roaming around the embassy lawn for closer look-sees. As one group came over the brow of a small rise of greensward, the cry went up, "Here comes the Red Cross!"

About midnight, a loud speaker started blaring out of the night, wailing the birds with, "Car for Vice President Barkley!" "Car No. 666!" And so on. Fortunately, some of those on the inside were going home, to make room for those on the outside.

So at last the line began to move. By 1 a. m., everybody was inside. And boy was it wonderful and worth waiting for. Vive le President Auriol! Le Foreign Minister Schuman? Magnifique! Vive l'Am-bassadeur Henri Bonnet. Madame Auriol et Madame Bonnet—Tres belles. Vive les Paris dressmakers and vive le champagne. After a couple, nobody was mad at anybody.

But as for the U. S. Secret Service—

Texas A&M Offer Summer Training

COLLEGE STATION, April 7 (Sp)—For the first time in its history outside of the war period, Texas A&M College is offering first year military training during the summer session of 1951, Dr. C. Clement French, dean of the college, announced today.

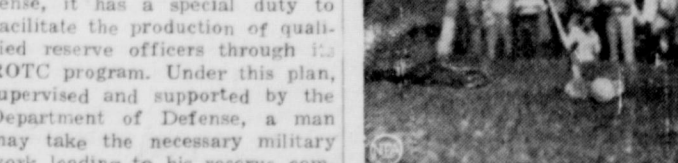

This work will be available for all freshmen who enter in June 1951, for present freshmen who entered in February, 1951, and for entering transfers from junior colleges whose military course work is less advanced than their academic standing, Dean French said.

"By taking advantage of this opportunity students may advance by one semester their date of graduation and possible reserve commissioning," the dean said.

"Texas A&M College, with its long history of training men for service to their country, both in military and civilian fields, recognizes its special obligation in the time of emergency," Dean French pointed out.

"As one of eight colleges in the country classed as a military college by the Department of Defense, it has a special duty to facilitate the production of qualified reserve officers through its ROTC program. Under this plan, supervised and supported by the Department of Defense, a man may take the necessary military work leading to his reserve commission while securing, at the same time, preparation in the field of his future professional activity.

"Any deferment in his military obligation which may result for those enrolled in such an ROTC program is entirely under the reg-

Crimson Holiday

By Jane Holsinger

COPYRIGHT 1951 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Lavinia Grenable, uncompromising and hateful old harridan, has ridden her deathly linchpin wheel chair which rolled into a ravine at her home. Prior to the tragedy, Lisa Farwell had been asked by Court, oldest of Lavinia's two sons, to become his bride. Lisa's father, opposing the marriage, had told his daughter he would give his life to keep her from becoming Court's wife. Just after Mrs. Grenable's violent death, which Lisa saw in company with Angus Kent, Lisa spies her father, Henry Farwell, on a ridge near the scene. Next, Lisa noticed a movement in the shrubbery near where the wheel chair had been. Lisa is taken home by Angus and Mr. Farwell, who met them at the door, tells them that he had been informed of the tragedy by Elizabeth Stratton, sister of Lavinia.

RIGHT now, in the peace and familiarity of her own home, Lisa Farwell couldn't pin her thoughts solely on Court Grenable, to whom she was engaged. Half angrily, Lisa dropped into a chair near her father, and what she said was because of that self-anger: "I guess we won't need to worry about Mrs. Grenable any longer, will we? She can't hurt me now." She saw Angus Kent take in the closed expression that took possession of her father's normally placid, round face. Henry Farwell took off his glasses and polished them before he answered. He shook his head. "I would not like to be too sure, Lisa," was what he said, "that Lavinia Grenable will not make herself heard, even in death." Without knowing why, she felt suddenly that she had said something very dangerous. She understood better the next morning. But that night before events began to take on a terrible, double meaning, while the false peace protected her and she was given time to straighten her thoughts, she thought mostly of Angus. Angus and her father had revealed a comfortable acceptance of each other when they met. They were alike basically, she decided, and the decision startled her. In that flash of realization she knew now why it was that she had felt a strange, compelling acquaintance with this man when she first met him on the road that afternoon. Though they looked nothing alike for her father was shorter and broader and balding and Angus was tall, almost angular and his hair was thick and wheat-colored, nevertheless they were alike. They were of the same mold of man. The knowledge shook her considerably.

SHE was in her room preparing for bed. Angus had not stayed for dinner because the Ellsworths were expecting him. And Lisa, after a late dinner, had pleaded a headache and had gone upstairs to her room. She undressed, showered, and went through the routine of face cream and astringent and then in the middle of long, vicious thrusts at her yellow hair she laid down the brush and stared at herself in the mirror. "You're a fool," she said. "You moon around all through adolescence for a man you hardly know, one that you idolized from a distance, and when you're rewarded with his proposal—you promptly fall in love with the next man you meet!" The brush clattered to the floor with her abrupt motion of self-condemnation. Courtney Grenable, Angus Kent. Direct opposites. Perhaps that was it. Court the colorful, the romantic, the exciting; Angus, quiet, calm, self-possessed, completely wonderful, and exciting in his own way.

She knew almost before he spoke what he wanted to say and it was like stirring the depths of imagination within herself to match his mood, exactly, to feel his thoughts as a blind person would sense beauty—and she had known him exactly five hours! Lisa put her head down on her folded arms and cried as she had not cried since she was a child. She felt as she had years ago in her first long party dress when she came down the stairs and her father looked over his newspaper and exclaimed, while her knees went all tremory, "Lisa, you've grown up!" She lifted her head and looked at herself again in the mirror and suddenly she understood that only tonight had she really grown up. She dug through the medicine cabinet in the bathroom until she found the sleeping pills left over from an old prescription of Martha's, took one, and went to bed.

WHEN Lisa opened her eyes to the first tinge of daylight the following morning she was amazed because she had slept all night and hadn't expected to sleep soundly at all. This morning there was a peculiar peace within her, though actually she had settled nothing beyond the necessity of honesty with herself.

The truth changed nothing, of course. Angus would go back to the city and she and Court would be married. She would forget Angus in time. She hurried into her clothes escape the darkness of the lie, went downstairs quietly. She was on the landing when she heard the unmistakable sound of her father's voice coming from the den. She glanced sharply at the grandfather clock beside her. Henry Farwell was a leisurely man. He could afford to be. He'd built up a reputation as an architect around a hundred years ago that enabled him now to turn over the routine work to his assistant. He liked to read late in the night and sleep until 8 in the morning. For Henry Farwell to be up and around at 6:30 was as unreasonable as the sun to shine at midnight.

Report Of The 11th Court Of Civil Appeals

The following proceedings were had in the Court of Civil Appeals Eleventh Supreme Judicial District of Texas:

Mrs. J. M. Stinnette, et al vs. H. C. Mauldin, et al. Motion of Appellants, Producers Investment Corporation, to submit oral argument at Eastland, Texas, Court of Civil Appeals.

Devine Girl Is Killed In Auto Accident

NATALIA, April 7 (UP)—Joyce Howard, 16-year-old Devine, highschool senior, was killed and three other persons were injured near here last night when their automobile went out of control. Highway patrolman said a tire rod on the car apparently snapped as they were passing another automobile. The vehicle pulled across the road and plunged down an embankment.

Miss Howard was thrown from the car, which then rolled over her. She was scheduled to graduate from high school next month. Three other persons in the automobile were not seriously injured.

Fresh Spring Crop of Phenoms Is Healthy Sign for Baseball

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Reports on Mickey Mantle would lead you to suspect that the switch-hitting kid with the current edition is the 1927 Yankees rolled into one.

The greatest ball player for his age I've ever seen. Speed, sock and sense. This reckless boy could be a combination of Ty Cobb and Babe Ruth. "It is a typical appraisal of the New York Americans' 19-year-old by experienced observers. Fantastic."

Chuck Ward, who OK'd his $40,000 bonus from the Phillies, and Jack Coffey, who coached him at Fordham, call Tom Casagrande the best prospect they've seen since Ruth.

"He has the ability," says Scout Ward, the one-time National League shortstop. "He can make good or be a bum. It's up to him."

Unlike Ruth, the gigantic, 19-year-old Casagrande, who also was a left-hand pitcher, will attempt to keep his home run hat in the thick of things from the outset. He is going to the Terre Haute branch as a first baseman.

Marty Marion and the Cardinals believe they possess a left-handed Dizzy Dean in Vinegar Bend Mizell.

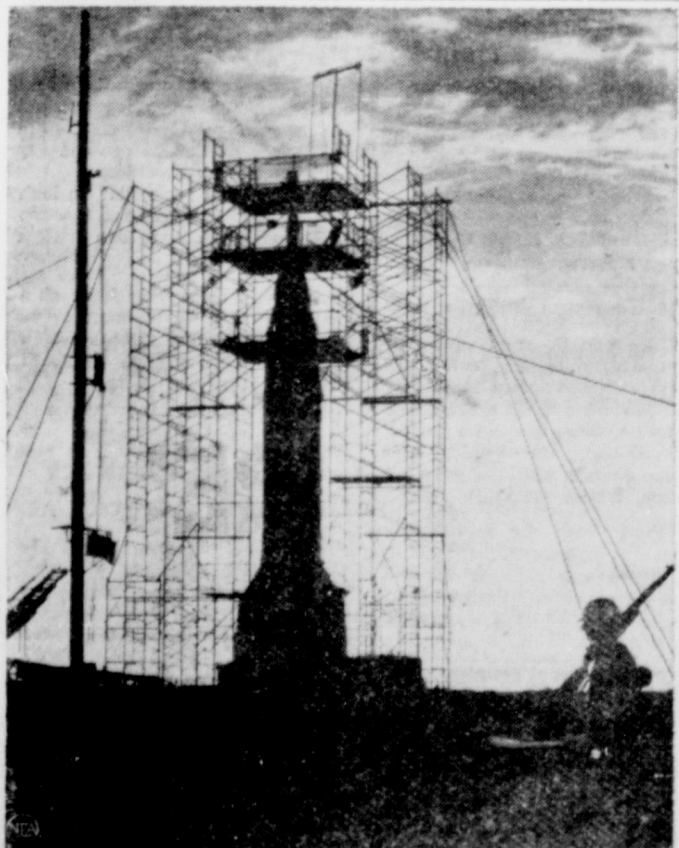

The Tigers and their opposition are convinced the Tigers have a left-handed Bob Feller in 18-year-old Bill Hoelt, with less than a year of D ball behind him.

They're saying that Luis Marquez, a Puerto Rican Negro outfielder up from the Portland Coasters, is faster than Sam Jethroe. Budding hopefuls used to be swifter than Cobb. They were faster than George Washington Case until he took over at Rutgers. Now Jethroe appears to be the yardstick.

The Giants have a pleasant problem in Artie Wilson, an Alabama Negro swiftly determined to crash the infield. He made 475 hits in two years in the Pacific Coast League.

It happens every spring. A year ago Chico Carrasquel had Chicago's south side excited before the Venezuelan Virtuoso saw Comiskey Park, or could speak any more English than "babe" and "steak." Jim Brideweser was the darling of the Yankees' camp. It was said that Whitey Ford would be back like an election repeater. Luscious Luke Easter and Flip Rosen were to knock down American League parks, etc.

Phenomenons are a healthy sign for baseball. They prove that superior performers are still coming on. Look at the Philadelphia Whip Kids—Hammer, Puddin' Head Jones, Gollat, Ennis, Ashburn, Roberts. Bob Miller and Church.

SHADOWS OF THE NIGHT—A V-2 rocket, ready for firing from its weird-looking frame, and a lone sentry silhouetted against the sky symbolize America's growing preparedness for defense. The scene is the joint range proving ground at Cocoa, Fla.

GOSSIP
 Has everyone seen Neta's ring? If you haven't, it isn't her fault. She has been proudly displaying it all day.

Well, another surprise. Betty Allen got married this week. Congratulations and best of luck!!!

Looks like the married women are overrunning the school—especially the senior class.

The Seniors certainly had fun Friday! Wish it could happen more often. The day was just too short!

Margie and Lydia had a good time at the track meet at Stephenville Friday when they went to Dublin. Complicated isn't it? The boys are going to Hamilton

 The sophomore spotlight shines this week on Janie Dutton. Janie is 5' 3" in height, has dark blond hair and green eyes.

Janie's favorite song is "If". The persons she likes to hear sing are men singers. In the movie world John Garfield is number one as actor, and Claudette Colbert is her number one actress.

Her favorite show is "Three Came Home." Anything good is her favorite, food. In school she likes all of her teachers and World History. As a sport she chooses football, and as a past time she chooses riding around. She plans to go to college at Hartin-Simmons. Good luck to you Janie!

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICE

God's creation endures forever, says Christian Science in the Lesson-Sermon on "Unreality" to be read in all Christian Science churches on Sunday, April 8. The ultimate destruction of that which God has not made is clearly stated in the Golden Text, "Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire" (Matthew 7:19). Further elucidating the subject is this citation from the Bible, "For the Lord knoweth the way of the righteous: but the way of the ungodly shall perish" (Psalms 1:6).

In the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," Mary Baker Eddy writes, "When false human beliefs learn even a little of their own falsity, they begin to disappear" (page 252). Thus does the Lesson-Sermon show that mankind's false beliefs are unreal, while all that God has made is real and good.

Murder Charges Are Filed On Dallas Hoodlum

DALLAS, April 7 (UP)—Police filed double charges of murder against Charles V. Saterino yesterday after the gambler tripped himself in explaining to officers what he knew about the twin-shooting.

Saterino was held without bond pending a hearing and District Attorney Henry Wade said he would recommend that no bond be set at the examining trial.

Still at large, however, in Wednesday night's gangland shooting was Eddie Daniel Hay, identified by witnesses as one of those who was with ex-convict John Zupancic when Zupancic and John C. McDowell were cut down by a gunman in McDowell's crowded tavern.

Homicide Capt. Will Fritz said that Zupancic's new Oldsmobile sedan, in which he, Hay and a woman companion arrived at the tavern, was also missing. Fritz believed Hay took the car as he fled.

Saterino, victim of a gangland-bombing attack on his place of business Tuesday, was charged with the two murders after several witnesses to the shooting identified him as the gunman. One of the witnesses was the woman with Zupancic at the time of the shooting.

During the day he also mentioned that two guns were used in the shooting, a fact which had not been made by police.

Capt. Fritz said the only apparent motive for the shooting was a long-standing feud between Saterino and Zupancic over a woman to whom both had been married, and divorced.

Saterino told police he was certain Zupancic had bombed his establishment early Tuesday and police were looking for the slain ex-convict for questioning at the time of his death.

Still a mystery to police, however, was the motive behind McDowell's killing, whose bar was described as a hangout for various Dallas hoodlums.

Investigation Is Wanted In Morrow Case

AUSTIN, April 6 (UP)—The Texas Interscholastic League today asked the Southwest Basketball Officials' Association to investigate the "Johnny Morrow Case" and report its findings to the league.

Dr. Rhea Williams, league athletic director, announced yesterday that the TII's Executive Committee had exonerated Waxahachie

Coach Hal L. Curry in connection with a game fight involving Morrow. Williams said the incident occurred following a late-season basketball game between Waxahachie and Waco at which Morrow was officiating.

The TII announcement said that, on the basis of facts available, Waxahachie officials were exonerated of charges "growing out of the fracas. Morrow was not present at the executive committee hearing.

He advised the executive group, notice of hearing was delayed in reaching him because he had recently moved. When the notice did arrive at his home in Waco, he was out of town.

In Daddy's Tracks

There they are! We were so busy at the task of the moment that we forgot we were leaving our footprints. Every step we take leaves its mark. Eager young minds see them so clearly even when we have not noticed them ourselves. Why not let your steps lead them to church!

Ask the average boy what he expects to do to make a living. His first impulse is to do just what his father has been doing. That is somewhat modified today, when so many new opportunities are offered, to which parents are directing the attention of the growing boy. But it is surprising how many farmers' boys return to the farm, how many preachers' sons go into the ministry, and how many bankers' sons carry on in the place of their dads. Your son will follow you to church too.

Listen to the speech of your neighbor; the words he uses, his characteristic expressions, the very inflection of his voice. Then ask his son to talk about some matters in which he is interested. He is following in Daddy's tracks, even to the tone of his speech.

How important then that we walk ahead of these growing children with our feet turned in the right direction, along the best paths! Do we want our girls and boys to be interested in community welfare? Then let them follow us to the meetings where community-minded women and men are giving their best thought to helping build a good society. Do we want them to be faithful worshippers of the Living God? Then let them sit with us in the place of worship. Whether we wish it or not our children are walking "in Daddy's Tracks," just as you and I walk where our fathers walked.

The school annuals would get here!!

We could chew gum in Home-making.

All the freshman boys weren't so silly.

The girls basketball sweaters would come in.

The boys would let the girls wear their basketball sweaters.

All the freshman boys were like Douglas Williamson.

The seniors could "dress up" more often. It was cool.

The seniors could have more group parties and picnics.

The ones who went to Dublin would have won first place.

Everyone would be sweet until school is out.

Buckey Harris May Surprise American League

By LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor
NEW YORK, April 7 (UP)—Buck Harris believes he may have another surprise in store for the American league.

He fooled them all last season when he brought the Washington Senators, generally assigned to the cellar in the pre-season ratings, home fifth.

He isn't thinking in terms of any pennant, but he said today: "We could easily fool them again. This is not a bad ball club and it's going to get better."

He feels there should be "a congressional investigation" if the Red Sox do not win the pennant and what the Yankees, Tigers and Indians have to be favored for first division berths.

"But if any one of them should stub their toe, we could slip into the first division," the plain and frank talking Harris said.

There will be few changes from the team he fielded at the end of last season, but one reason he looks for "considerable improvement" is the fact that he will have the services of pitchers Bob Kuzava and Gene Bearden, first baseman Mickey Vernon and second baseman Cass Michaels for the full season. Last year he didn't have Kuzava and Michaels until May 30, Vernon until June 14 and Bearden until August 2.

Kuzava (9-10) and Bearden (4-8) will be regular starters along with Sid Hudson (14-14), Sandilo Consuegra (7-8) and Conrado Marrero (6-10).

Mickey Harris (5-9) will be the No. 1 relief man with Joe Haynes (7-5); Floyd Ross (0-1); Albert Sima (4-5) Julio Moreno (1-1) and rookie Ed Davis, a 10-game winner at Charlotte last season, rounding out the staff.

Harris also would like to add an experienced catcher-like Fernin Guerra of the Red Sox. He almost had him once, but at the last minute the athletics called off the deal and sent him to the Red Sox instead.

As the receiving staff stands now, Newton Grasso, who hit .287 as the understudy to Al Evans last year, will be the No. 1 man. Evans was sold to the Red Sox. Rookie Frank Sacka, who hit .300 at Anderson, S. C., of the class B tri-state league last season, is the only other receiver on the roster.

Irv Noren, who hit .295 in his rookie year in 1950, will be centerfield; Gil Coan, Washington's leading hitter last season at .303 in left, and Sam Mele, the Red Sox's star, who batted .274, in right.

Sherry Robertson and the veteran Mike McCormick, who is reaching the end of the baseball trial, will be the utility outfielders.

Vernon at first and Eddie Yost at third are the only infielders sure of their jobs. Gene Verble, up from Atlanta where he hit only .279, is battling for one of the keystone jobs and may beat Sam Dante out of the shortstop post or Michaels out of the second base job.

"Verble definitely will stay with us even if he does not win a regular job," Harris said. The rookie is a good glove man and a peppy pitcher of the Eddie Stanky type.

A Cuban, Guillermo Miranda another good glove man but weak hitter, will be the sixth infielder.

PLUG 'N TRIGGER

Experienced anglers everywhere know what is the best fishing weather in their particular area and know that under certain wind conditions the fishing is good or bad just as it is under certain water temperatures, water levels, etc.

In recent years more and more anglers have derived great pleasure in "hooking their best fishing minutes" months in advance by the use of one of the many tables being sold for that purpose.

Some folks have been outspoken in their praise of these pre-determined fishing guides or tabs.

We've wondered about these fortune telling tables for a long time—whether or not they are any more than just an interesting experiment we don't know.

Probably no one will ever know until someone discovers whether or not Mr. Bass has been consulted and understands fully that as is supposed to bite more viciously at a certain hour on a certain day.

One thing is certain, these tables cannot forecast fishing weather conditions in advance in any certain locality.

To us, the barometer is the only accurate means of forecasting, effectively, good fishing conditions. Barometer fishing is scientific and definitely has been proven accurate and reliable. Try it on a rising barometer and see for yourself.

Incidentally, farmers can grow fish by the acre of water just as they grow beef by the acre on grassland.

At least, that is the opinion of R. E. Callender, an extension specialist in wildlife conservation at Texas A&M College.

According to Callender, from 300 to 500 pounds of fish to the acre have been produced annually in well-managed fish ponds. He adds that many more than 100,000 farm and ranch ponds in Texas—usually maintained primarily for stock water—are suitable for growing fish.

Callender points out that an acre of water has a "carrying capacity" just as an acre of grazing land. The amount of food produced in the water will depend upon the fertility of the land over which the water flows. Fertile land means a fertile pond of water.

Callender has a detailed plan for fertilizing fish ponds. It is available at all county agents' offices.

He warns, however, that a fertilization program should be completed before extremely hot weather arrives. A heavy application of fertilizer late in the season may cause the fish to suffocate.

The duck hunter should be a much happier nirod this fall.

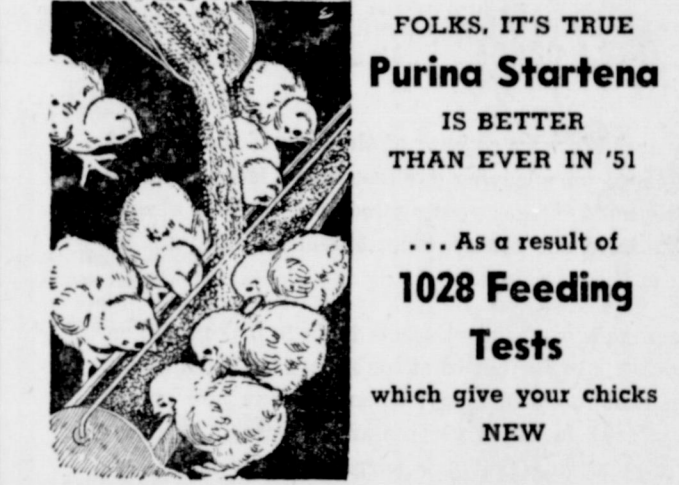

The 1951 annual inventory of North America's migratory waterfowl revealed an upward trend sufficient to about offset the decline reported in a similar inventory a year ago.

Barring unforeseen circumstances unfavorable to a good harvest in the nesting ground, more ducks should be available for hunters next season.

Soil Is Our Capital

It works for us, or else we work for it. Good soil produces profits; poor soil neither rewards labor nor pays profits.

Soil is made up of certain essential plant foods. If any one of them is lacking it cannot produce well. Maybe it is lime (acid soil), perhaps phosphorus, or potash. Pretty surely there is a shortage of nitrogen and humus unless it is "new ground".

We now know that all the mineral plant foods must be present in proper proportions; and best of all, we know how to find which are plentiful and which are deficient. A soil analysis tells the tale. The soils scientist diagnosis the case; the plant scientist can then write a sensible prescription.

Ask your county agent how to get a soil analysis; have it made long enough before planting time to get the right fertilizers for each crop. Let's keep the land productive.
