Sam Maceo's Records Are Ordered To Austin For An Investigation

AUSTIN, June 1 (UP)—Five associates of the late Sam Maceo were scheduled to appear before the Texas House of Representatives' Crime Investigating Committee today to tell what they know about "wide-open gambling" in Galveston.

The five were ordered yesterday to bring with them all their business records connected with Maceo's interests. Those subpoenaed were Rosario Maceo, a brother of the late Sam Maceo who is generally considered of Maceo Enterprises since his brother's death; Frank Maceo, Sam's and Rosario's cousin; Victor Fertitta, General Manager of the Swank Balinese Room, plush night spot owned by the Maceo interests; Sam Serio, Business Manager for Maceo Enterprises; and R. N. Cox the auditor.

Maceo, for years king-pin in the resort city's night life, died recently at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.

Today's hearing, which was scheduled for 9 a. m., was closed but Rep. Fred V. Meridith of Terrell said records would probably precede a public hearing later.

Meridith said the closed hearing would take "at least two days" and would "launch the first step in probes to be conducted by the crime committee after the legislative adjourns."

Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., Director of the Department of Public Safety, took personal charge as the new inquiry was launched.

Now in Galveston, Garrison once told a legislative committee that "the people there (in Galveston) seem to think because they live on an island they are immune from the laws of this state."

Meridith did not readily identify the type records the committee was particularly interested in, other than saying they deal "with all of the Maceo interests."

He added that "it might take a truck" to haul them all to Austin.

Serio, contacted by telephone last night, only laughed when asked for comment on his subpoena. He said he had "no idea" of what the committee would ask him.

Serio is generally believed to be manager of the Maceo Real Estate holdings.

STAR PLAYER IS DROPPED

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 1 (UP)—Doug Atkins, considered by coaches as University of Tennessee's potential All-American football end for 1951, and Bill Evans, a prospect for this year's varsity team have been dropped from the squad for repeated "misconduct and low scholastic averages."

The announcement was made yesterday by Tennessee's head football coach, Gen. Robert Neyland.

Atkins, a six-foot, five-inch end from Humboldt, Tenn., played right end on the defensive team last fall and was considered a potential All-American candidate for 1951. The 200-pound athlete also played basketball at Tennessee.

Evans, a six-foot, two-inch, 200 pound end from Clint's nooga City high school, played on last year's freshman team and was considered to be a fine prospect for this year's varsity squad.

Sam Will Speak

AUSTIN, June 1 (UP)—House Speaker Sam Rayburn will deliver the principal address at Saturday night graduation ceremonies for more than 1,500 University of Texas students.

Some 250 students will receive graduate degrees at the traditional ceremonies in front of the University's main building.

NEGROES INVITED TO ATTEND PLAINVIEW COLLEGE CLASSES

PLAINVIEW, June 1 (UP)—Tiny Wayland College opens its doors today to students of all races, the first college in Texas to accept Negroes on a non-segregated basis.

Dr. J. W. Marshall, president of the Baptist School, said a majority of the 36 trustees voted yesterday to lower the race bar "because we felt it was the only Christian thing to do."

"We believe it is the only thing to do to keep in harmony with Democratic principles," he said.

The action was taken after Anna Taylor, a Negro school teacher, applied for admission to the sum-

RJC Student Leads NIRA In Bronc Riding

E. M. "Dutch" Taylor, a Ranger Junior College student, is leading the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association in the saddle bronc event by one hundred eighty-five points.

Taylor has won the saddle bronc average at four NIRA rodeo performances. He also rides bare back broncs, bulls, and bulldogs steers. He ranks second in national all-around average.

At San Marcos this year, he won first each day in saddle bronc riding and first in the average; at Baylor University, he won first each day in saddle bronc riding and first in average at Hardin-Simmons he won first in bull dogging, one first in bare-back riding, second in the average, one second saddle bronc riding and third in average; at Texas Tech, he won one first and a second in saddle bronc riding and first in average.

At Ft. Collins Sky High Stampede in Colorado, he won second in bull dogging, fourth in bare back, fourth in saddle bronc, which placed RJC in second place for the entire show. At RJC's rodeo, he won three firsts in saddle bronc riding, one first and a third in bare back, first in average and one third in bulldogging.

In addition to money won at the shows, Taylor has won several gifts. His home town is Albany. The points won by Taylor and other RJC rodeo entrants have placed RJC in fourth place for the NIRA for 1951.

Mercedes Has Water Again

MERCEDDES, June 1 (UP)—Mercedes residents turned from emergency bottled water to their own faucets for a drink today after undergoing a 36-hour "drought" that left the city's water mains bone dry.

Workers yesterday completed work on a broken canal wall that sent the city's water supply cascading across cotton fields and into a deep ravine.

The canal break was discovered Tuesday. Cause of the break was unknown. But some believed that Gophers had channeled the wall with holes during the long drought and that the weakened wall gave away when heavy rains filled the canal.

Gordon Slates Homecoming Date

The annual Gordon Homecoming will be held Sunday, June 10, at the Gordon gymnasium.

Registration will begin at 10 a. m. The main program will take place at 11 a. m. and a basket lunch will be served at noon. All are invited to attend.

E. M. "Dutch" Taylor, a Ranger Junior College student, leads the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association in the saddle bronc event for 1951 by 185 points. Taylor and other RJC rodeo entrants have earned enough points to put that college in fourth place in NIRA standings for 1951.

College Students May Get Another Chance At Test

AUSTIN, May 29 — Students who were scheduled to take the Selective Service college qualification test on May 26 and did not due to circumstances beyond their control may get a chance at a later test.

Brigadier General Paul L. Wakefield, state Selective Service director, was advised to this effect today in a telegram from Major General Lewis B. Hershey, national director of Selective Service.

Previously, test rules made it impossible for any student to take the test if he missed it for any reason.

Gospel Singers Here

The Weatherford gospel singers will sing here tonight at the Macedonia Baptist Church. The choir is invited to attend this affair.

Houston Post Has Increase In Paper Cost

HOUSTON, June 1 (UP)—The Houston Post announced today that it was increasing its daily and Sunday subscription price 25 cents a month, from $1.50 to $1.75, to meet the "rising costs of newspaper production." The increase became effective today.

The announcement said street and newsstand prices will remain the same—five cents daily and 15 cents Sunday.

"Approximately half of the increase—12 cents, in fact—will go to the carriers and the independent distributors," the announcement said. "Taxes will take six and one-fourth cents and the rest will be absorbed by other increased costs."

Pointing out that this was the first circulation price increase since March, 1947, the announcement said "the Post has been reluctant to increase its rates even though a great many newspapers advanced their prices many months ago. An increase has now become unavoidable."

French Throw Back Assault

HANOI, FRENCH INDO-CHINA, June 1 (UP)—French and Vietnam Forces have thrown back a three-day assault by 40,000 Communist-led Viet-Minh troops along the southern edge of the Red River, a French communiqué said today.

The Rebels lunched their main attack on the 3,000 defenders of the Minh Binh sector May 28. In the bloody fighting that followed, three-fourths of a commando unit were killed or missing.

The Vietminh renewed its attack the following day, but was repulsed by French reinforcements led by Lt. Bernard De Latre De Tassigy, 23-year-old son of the French Commander in Chief, Gen. Jean De Latre De Tassigy.

Young De Tassigy was killed by a mortar shell during one of the Rebel assaults.

The Rebels used mortar support automatic weapons and heavy bazookas in their attacks.

Yesterday additional French reinforcements succeeded in cutting their way through to rescue the remnants of the beleaguered outposts.

According to some of the defenders, orders were heard being given to the enemy forces in French, German, and English. This led to speculation that elements of an "international brigade" took part in the action. There was no official confirmation of this.

Injured Man's Condition Fair

M. A. Clyatt was injured Tuesday when his car was in collision with another automobile near the Eastland Lake.

Clyatt is reported to be in fair condition at the Ranger General Hospital, where he is undergoing treatment for his injuries.

Good And Bad News Split The Headlines For The Week....

By Harry Ferguson
United Press Foreign News Editor
Balance sheet for the week between good and bad news in the hot and cold wars:

Good News

1. Round No. 2 of the Chinese Communist offensive in Korea has ended in the biggest United Nations victory of the war. All lost ground has been recovered and the UN troops have made a successful counter attack. The victory was won with unexpectedly small casualties for the Allies and extremely heavy ones for the enemy. The Chinese Reds have not been destroyed but the edge of their offensive power has been blunted badly.

2. Communism has suffered its second political defeat of the year, able to poll only about one-third of the votes cast in provincial council elections. Next to Russia, Italy has the largest Communist party in Europe. Earlier this year there was a bad split in the Communist party of its leaders broke away on the issue of too much interference from Moscow in Italy's internal affairs.

3. After about three months of fruitless negotiation in Paris, the Western Powers have called for a showdown on whether the foreign ministers of Russia, France, Britain and the United States can get together to discuss ways of ending the cold war. The three western powers handed a note to the Russians asking them, in effect, to say yes or no on whether there should be a meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers.

Bad News

1. The Communists are on the offensive again in Indo-China where the French are attempting to hold the line. This is an attack designed to gain control of the rice growing sections so the Reds can harvest the crop. If it were not for Korea, Indo-China would be the No. 1 danger spot in the world. The Chinese Reds would be pouring troops and

Chinese Reds Surrendering To Allies In Huge Groups

Truman Plays As GI Fights

ABOARD PRESS YACHT VAGABONDIA, III, June 1 (UP)—President Truman's waistline today is just what the doctor ordered.

The president never felt better since shortly after he licked the Republicans in 1948.

The report came from Presidential Physician, Gen. Wallace H. Graham, who is aboard the Williamsburg with Truman on his vacation cruise.

Truman's weight now is under 180 pounds, and both he and the doctor find this ideal.

From non-medical members of the presidential staff came the report that the chief executive was in a bouncy fettle.

The president was scheduled to sail early today back up Chesapeake Bay and into the Potomac River late this afternoon for one final night afloat in his five day cruise.

Truman spent a leisurely evening with his staff last night off the Lee Bank of the Naval Air Test Center at the mouth of the Patuxent River in Southern Maryland.

As the yacht Williamsburg beat up the west side of the bay yesterday the president worked only when his radio teletype brought urgent official business from Washington. Most of the time he dozed on the after deck in shorts and a sun helmet.

Truman still has not given definite word on whether he would go next weekend to Topeka, Kan., for the annual reunion of the 35th division, his old World War I outfit. Despite heavy pressure from Missouri and Kansas, the press of business at the White House may make it impossible for the president to squeeze in the Topeka trip.

Barbaria, brother of a widely-known Dallas attorney, was struck in the leg and shoulder by parts of three shotgun blasts fired from about 75 feet as he left his garage.

Barbaria told detective Ted Wells he noticed two men sitting in a dark Mercury sedan when he drove in to the garage with his wife. When he came out, the man on the right side poked a shotgun out a window and fired three times. The sedan drove away.

The grocer said neither of the men spoke to him and that it was too dark to recognize them.

Officers M. H. Bromley and F. M. Leamer quoted Barbaria as saying he knew of no reason for the attempt on his life, adding that he had no known enemies.

Barbaria's brother, Sam Barbaria, has received considerable publicity in the past for defending a number of persons as Communists, including Allen Jose Estrada, Dallas bricklayer.

Olden Seniors Receive Diplomas

Graduation for Olden High School seniors was observed Thursday at 7:30 p. m. at the school gymnasium.

Receiving diplomas were Ester Alvarado, Pauline Coltharp, Nita Graham, Tommy Edwards, Lettie Faye Taylor and Jackie Clack.

Miss Coltharp gave the valedictory address and Miss Alvarado the salutatory speech.

The class completed an annual during the year and almost all members of the group participated in various sports.

Home Is Sold

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Halkias have completed the sale of their home at 106 East Sadosa to Mrs. Mable M. Scott of Fort Worth.

Mrs. Scott and her husband will move into the house as soon as possible, she said.

Man Killed Near Houston

HOUSTON, June 1 (UP)—A man was killed and three other persons were injured seriously when an automobile and truck collided at a street intersection last night.

The dead man was identified by police as Lewis Hogan of Brookshire.

In the car with him were Aaron Carr, 27, and Ethel Mae Bell, 25. Both were hurt seriously.

The truck driver, P. B. Hyatt, 32, of San Antonio, suffered a possible skull fracture and cuts on the head. He was in the Heights Hospital.

WITH THE U. S. 2ND DIVISION, Korea, June 1 (UP)—More and more Chinese Reds are surrendering to the Allies. One even tried to give up to the commanding general of the U. S. 2nd Division.

"This guy came out of the woods and stepped up to my jeep with his hands in the air," Maj. Gen. Clark L. Ruffner said. "I couldn't stop to fool with him so I motioned for him to sit down beside the road and wait for the approaching column. He did. The last I saw of him he was still squatting there waiting for someone to take him in."

Since the Reds hit the 2nd Division on the east central front last May 16, the Indian Head Division alone has captured 2,130 Communists.

Grocer Shot In Dallas

DALLAS, June 1 (UP)—Police were puzzled today over a motive for last night's shooting of grocer Joe L. Barbaria who suffered two minor wounds when he was ambushed at his home in northwest Dallas.

Barbaria, brother of a widely-known Dallas attorney, was struck in the leg and shoulder by parts of three shotgun blasts fired from about 75 feet as he left his garage.

160 Texans Commissioned

AUSTIN, June 1 (UP)—Reserve commissions in the Army, Navy and Air Force were awarded today to 160 graduating seniors of the University of Texas.

The newly-commissioned officers, all graduates of the University's expanding Reserve Officers Training Corps, will receive their academic degrees at commencement exercises tomorrow night.

The University ROTC program, embracing the three branches of the military services, had a combined enrollment this year of more than 1,600 students.

High military authorities participated in the mid-morning commissioning exercises. In addition to University of Texas president T. S. Painter, the cadets and midshipmen were scheduled to hear addresses by Brig. Gen. Bruce C. Clarke, commanding general, First Armored Division, Fort Hood; Rear Admiral William J. Phillips, commandant, Eighth Naval District, New Orleans and Col. Donald J. M. Blakeslee, commanding officer, 131st Fighter-Bomber Wing, Bergstrom Air Force Base at Austin.

Power Companies in Argentine Find U.S. Cool Toward Loans

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—First feelers for U. S. government loans to electric power companies doing business in the Argentine have been turned down cold. This is the latest and perhaps the most hopeful development in the tangled tale of high finance between the two governments.

It is recognition of the fact that, since the closing of the great Buenos Aires liberal newspaper, "La Prensa," any further extension of credit to Peron's government would meet strong opposition from Americans. U. S. Export-Import Bank, which is a government corporation, has now disbursed over $79 million of the $125 million loan to bail the Peron government out of its financial embarrassment of a year ago. This was not a direct loan to the Argentine government. Technically the loan was made to a combination of Argentine banks. But the credit was guaranteed by the Argentine government.

Actually, none of this money is going directly to the Argentine. All of it will eventually go to American banks, exporters and manufacturers, who extended too much credit to the Argentine, then found they were unable to collect dollars for goods delivered. Good old Uncle Sam came along with a loan to save their shirts. Just how many of these creditors there will be is still not known. They divide roughly into three classes:

First are 10 big banks, mostly in New York. They were all paid off in January for a total of nearly $32 million. Biggest beneficiaries were National City Bank of New York and First National Bank of Boston, which got $5 million apiece. Chase National of New York got a total of $3 million, but through five different accounts. The Bank of London and South America, New York branch, got approximately $3 million in two accounts. Agency of the Royal Bank of Canada got $2.5 million. Central Hanover Bank and Trust got $2 million.

Second class of creditor, which will be paid off by the Export-Import Bank includes some 2000 bills for collection. Banks will again be principal beneficiaries here. Finally there are an unknown number of open accounts of U. S. firms that shipped goods to the Argentine and never got paid for them. There are some big items in this category, including $5 million due International General Electric, and $4 million due Ford Motors. Many of these accounts are small.

Whether all of the $125 million will be required to pay off these long overdue accounts is still unknown. Argentine officials believe it won't all be needed. They have made a few passes at having any balances left over used as additional credit to buy tractors and such things. But Ex-Im Bank officials haven't committed themselves on that one, not being too happy about this deal, even in its present form.

LOANS to the private power companies still operating in the Argentine are a different matter. The Argentine constitution provides for expropriation of all public utilities. The formerly British-owned Argentine railway system has thus been taken over by Peron's government. So has the formerly American-owned International Telephone & Telegraph system. Eventually it is believed the power companies financed by foreign capital will be similarly taken over. Principal reason this hasn't been done before is that the Argentine government doesn't have the money. Since the Peron government is not a member of the International Bank, the Argentine can't borrow development loans here.

There are two principal foreign power companies operating in the Argentine. Biggest is "CHADE"—Compania Hispano-Americana de Electricidad.

In the provinces, the principal operating company is an American and Foreign Power subsidiary of the Electric Bond and Share holding company. Both these companies would naturally like to save themselves from the dreaded but apparently eventual Peron expropriation.

Handmacher Has Adopted Pro Ladies' Golfers' Assn.

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA)—Alvin Handmacher felt that industry should contribute something toward sports.

So a year ago he adopted the Ladies' Professional Golfers' Association of America.

And Britain gets its first Ladies' Open—the Weathervane International Cup Matches at Sunningdale, July 13-14.

Headed by the incomparable Babe Didrikson Zaharias and Patty Berg, six of the first seven in the Weathervane Transcontinental Championship are to fly to England to compete against the pick of British amateurs. Previous commitments prevent Louise Suggs from making the flight.

The proceeds of the inaugural British Ladies' Open go to charity, but members of the Weathervane team have six other dates in England and France, where they will shoot for prize money.

HANDMACHER, a pleasant, reddish-haired man of 45, is paying all expenses as a reward for the players' participation in the Weathervane Transcontinental.

Handmacher, who describes himself as a left-handed hacker, took a survey, found more women turning to golf than any other game. This appealed, because he is one of the nation's biggest manufacturers of women's suits and coats.

Tournament Director Fred Corcoran of the Ladies' P. G. A. couldn't believe his ears when approached by Handmacher. A real national championship, with 36 holes each at Pebble Beach on California's Monterey Peninsula, Chicago, Cleveland and New York.

This year the show went to Dallas, Pebee Beach, Indianapolis and New York.

There were 40 amateur prizes, 10 in each city. One way or another, it costs Alvin Handmacher $100,000 a year to indulge in his hobby.

"Aren't Prices Terrible?"

PLUG 'N TRIGGER

By RONNIE LUSTER

United Press Guest Columnist
For sheer fishing enjoyment, probably nothing can compare with a jaunt to beautiful and fabulous acapulco on the west coast of Mexico.

Located a little more than 1,000 miles south of Laredo over an all-paved highway, Acapulco offers spectacular scenery and even more superlative fishing.

The writer can vouch for the authenticity of these statements, for he has recently spent several enjoyable days probing the waters around the Mexican resort with a wide assortment of gear.

Whether you drive or fly, the almost breathtaking beauty of Acapulco will take you by surprise as you clear the last mountain range overlooking the blue Pacific and the bay of Acapulco.

Normally, Acapulco is among Mexico's more expensive vacation spots. But, during the summer months the wealthy vacationers usually trek elsewhere and seasonal rates bring the price down.

But, it doesn't affect the fishing. Boats are more plentiful, too. The lovely waters provide a home for multitudes of game fish, ranging in size from one foot to eleven feet—and any size in between you care to choose.

There's a fish to fit almost any size rod or reel, from the smallest casting rod to a 14-ounce tip and size 12-0 reel. It is a virtual anglers' paradise and gives every indication of remaining so for many years to come.

Rotund Carlos Barnard of the El Mirador Hotel—who might well be called "Mr. Acapulco"—saw to it that the full treatment was made available.

This good sportsman knows the Acapulco waters like the average man knows his own home.

His first description was of the beautiful sailfish, which are as thick in that area as are goggle-eyed perch in private lakes in the states.

Sailfish are caught by trolling with anything from a six-ounce tip and six-thread line to the heaviest tackle you've ever seen.

It is not unusual to have as many as seven or eight of these scrappers on your line in a short day's fishing. Landing them is something else again.

The way these fellows perform on a hook provides a show unequalled by any other fish. They leap, summersault, or even tailwalk circles around a boat in an effort to shake loose. Anything under nine feet is considered small.

For variety, every once in a while a Marlin will inhale your bait. These fellows go up to 400 pounds.

For those who like their fishing a little less strenuous, mackerel, dolphin, barracuda and a few other varieties can be caught on smaller tackle or trolling with a spoon or feather.

But, perhaps the best sport of all comes while easing along close to the rocks chunking a spoon into the white water where the surf breaks—then trying to get it back before a fish can grab it.

Seventeen varieties of fish were caught, on the initial experience, at this phase of fishing bait. A pargo (dogsnapper) made away with the spoon. This fish, about as big as a No. 2 washtub gave a terrific battle for about three minutes before breaking away.

Another thrill comes in fishing the Papagayo River where this fast moving stream empties into the Pacific. The rabalo (snook) will give you a fit. These specimens range from five to 35

Negress Will Get Hearing

By RONNIE LUSTER

SA N ANTONIO, June 1 (UP)—A hearing on the new trial motion for Emma (Straight Eight) Oliver, Negress condemned for murder, was set for today in Judge E. C. Sanders' District Court.

The Negress, who is convinced she will be spared from the electric chair, was brought to Bexar county jail from Huntsville's death house to attend the hearings.

Judge Sanders summoned the woman on a habeas corpus and bench warrant and will hear arguments on whether she was deprived of her constitutional rights by being sentenced without counsel present.

Attorneys Sam Harris and Theo Pat Henley had been scheduled to present their case for the condemned woman yesterday, but were granted a postponement until today after reporting more time was needed to prepare their case.

The board of pardons and paroles has denied clemency in the case and Emma Oliver faces electrocution next Wednesday. If carried out the death penalty would be the first exacted against a woman in Texas.

The woman was convicted of a knife murder. Her record of almost 20 years in and out of Bexar county jail included 59 cases, including two previous stabbings. She was nicknamed, according to

THE STORY: Tim Reese, a crippled veteran, saves the exclusive even shop "Jean Paul" from bankruptcy with drawings he made under an assumed name in order to obtain money for an operation to make him walk. When the operation is unsuccessful, Tim stops drawing. Paul Panciera and Jean Roland, partners who own "Jean Paul," are frantic, but Jean traces Tim through a farm girl named Midge and learns his identity. With Jean's financial security at stake, she must persuade Tim to continue sketching. At last Tim agrees. After Jean goes, Midge returns and asks if the woman fell in love with him. Tim pretends to be astonished, but there was pleasure in his pretense.

XI
PAUL PANCIERA and Jean Roland celebrated that evening in their apartment on 56th Street. Mr. Panciera had a special dinner sent in from Coquelin's, his favorite French restaurant a block away.

The wine flowed freely and Mr. Panciera was himself once more, jubilant and theatrical, confident again of their golden future.

At first, Jean did not join in his gaiety. Tim Reese stayed in her memory.

"You ought to see him," she said, moodily toying with her glass. "He's mostly wheel chair. They have to lift him in and out of bed. And he's pale as a corpse."

"We'll raise his check to $50 a sketch. That ought to console him some," Mr. Panciera suggested.

"Nothing's going to console him." Then, she added pensively, "Except, maybe, me."

Mr. Panciera was delighted. "He's in love with you! Superlative! Superlative! We will not have to worry about losing him again!"

"But I'm the one who has to take the beating. You know how I love pretty things, perfect things," she shuddered a little.

"He gives me the willies. He's handsome and amusing, too, and that makes it worse. He makes me think of some good thing that's been broken."

He shot a sharp look of concern. "You're not being too sympathetic, are you, sweet?"

"I feel sorry for the poor gink. Of course. Even you would if you saw him." Petulantly, she swished the wine around in her glass. "I wish I didn't have to go out there again, that's all."

"I understand, precious." He filled her glass to the brim. "In a few weeks now, we'll be on our way to Europe. He can't hold you to your promise then, and you can forget him."

"I hope, I hope," she said. Gaily, he touched his glass to hers. "To beautiful people to whom beautiful things happen!" He raised his glass in toast. "To us!"

She jumped up out of her mood. "Right! We're in business again, anyway!" She lifted her glass. "To us!"

TIM now worked with an enthusiasm he had not possessed before. His sketches, drawn only with Jean in mind, began to show new grace and allure.

Jean came about once a week and modeled his creations. Her adaptability to any mood or concept, her gifts for graceful deception worked to create a convincing illusion. She completely persuaded Tim she enjoyed her trips out from Manhattan and loved nothing better than being with him.

The day for Jean to leave for Europe approached. She explained to Tim the trip was business purely and she subtly gave him the idea she hated to leave him and was unhappy she had to go.

She would be out to see him for one last visit before she left. The afternoon she told him of her going was the afternoon of the year's first snowfall.

They were seated together in a small reception room. She saw his dejection and pretended to be concerned about it but she carefully avoided any comment that might bring out what she was quite sure he had on his mind.

After she had gone, he watched through the window the whitening landscape, and he felt that winter had also come to his heart.

LATER, Midge came with an apple pie, so carefully wrapped as to be still warm from the oven. She came upon him still in the little reception room, still staring out at the snow, brooding. She stood before him, her dark blue stocking cap and pea jacket wet with snow, her eyes shining and her cheeks red.

He shook his head slowly. "It's even worse than that."

She laughed softly. "What could be worse than that?"

He grinned his empty grin and said, "Male and female, God created them."

"Who?" Midge was puzzled.

"It's an old problem, Midge. You haven't had to face it yet. He paused a moment. "Jean is going away. To Europe."

"For good?" She barely disguised the eagerness in her voice.

"Oh, no. Just for a few weeks." He tried hard to speak lightly, casually. "And I've got a problem, a tough problem. I want to tell her how I feel about her before she goes and I haven't what it takes."

American Naval Officer Busted Because He Upheld His Beliefs

WASHINGTON, June 1 (UP)—Lt. (J. G.) William H. Evans, Jr., busted out of the Navy for writing a "very nasty" anti-administration letter, defended his action today by saying his oath required him to defend the nation "against all enemies, at home and abroad."

"I feel that I expressed the opinion of the majority of those (fighting) in the Far East," Evans said. "I feel it was my duty to write that letter. They (Americans in Korea) are not afraid of the enemy in front of them. They are afraid of the enemy behind them."

Will Build Up The Air Base

WASHINGTON, June 1 (UP)—The Air Force has been urged to "intensify its efforts to build up its staff of qualified instructor personnel" at Sheppard Air Force Base, Wichita Falls.

The recommendation was one of several made public last night by the U. S. Senate preparedness subcommittee of the committee on armed services headed by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, D. Tex.

The committee's 10-page report was based on a study of conditions at the Texas Base last Feb. 19, 20 and 21. The base is operated by the 3750th Technical Training Wing, under Maj. Gen. Caleb C. Hayes, who assumed command approximately three weeks prior to the investigation.

The primary mission of the post is to operate, supervise, and administer an airplane and engine maintenance school. There were approximately 7,800 basic trainees on the base at the time of the inquiry, one of several conducted by Johnson's committee.

"The subcommittee is pleased to note," said the report, "that off-post offenses by Sheppard personnel—reports of which led in part of this investigation—have been decreasing recently. Likewise, there has been a decrease in the discharge rate."

WELDON'S TRIM SHOP

he has decided that, from the way his case was handled, "If you are Pro-American you have to go underground or else suffer the consequences."

The 29-year-old Annapolis graduate said he was not aware that he had violated any regulations in writing the letter which branded the Truman Administration as "Pro-Red," ripped into Roosevelt and Truman Foreign Policy and assailed Secretary of State Dean Acheson as "the Red Dean."

The young Naval Reservist had written the controversial letter to Alfred Kohlberg, outspoken critic of the Administration and a New York Importer of Chinese goods. Kohlberg, who was present at the news conference, said he had circulated the letter among all Congressmen in keeping with instructions from Evans.

The letter was written in March while Evans was serving aboard the Destroyer Rogers in Korean waters.

In it, Evans said, in part: "... We have to fight with both hands tied behind our back. One hand, bound by Acheson and his pro-Red gang, and the other by the Pro-Soviet United Nations."

"That pro-Soviet, one-world administration of ours and our senile Congress would rather have Americans slaughtered than attack Red China everywhere—Damn the United Nations, long live the United States."

"The Roosevelt-Truman-Acheson-United Nations followers of the U.S. should be loaded onto ships and used as shock troops in Korea... Americans are dying by the thousands, thanks to the Pro-Red Administration."

He complained that in hearings before a Naval Board of Inquiry in Japan and a disciplinary hearing here, he was told that the content of his letter was not a factor in his dismissal. But he said he was convinced that the language he used was the real cause for his discharge.

Evans, who lives at Edgewater Md., was fired by Navy Secretary Francis P. Matthews last Tuesday.

He acknowledged the Navy's right to dismiss him, but he said he did not feel he violated any regulation with which he was familiar.

Evans' honorable discharge order said his letter contained "highly intemperate criticism of the Foreign Policy of the United States and implied the motives and good faith of officials of the highest levels responsible for the formulation and implementation of that policy."

"Your action in this respect is considered to have constituted unsatisfactory performance of duty."

Vegetables Can Be Spring Tonic, Says Eastland Home Demonstrator

"Fresh vegetables can be the 'spring tonic' for lagging appetites," says Mrs. Ethel Sparks, Eastland County home demonstration agent. She believes they give your appetite a lift, for "fresh, crisp and attractive vegetables offer vitamins, minerals and good eating for family meals."

Mrs. Sparks explains that the Texas Food Standard recommends three different types of fresh vegetables every day. The green and yellow group includes beans, peas, asparagus, carrots, greens, a n d yellow squash; another group includes beets, okra, corn, white squash, onions, celery, radishes, and half mature beans and peas; and the third group is either sweet or Irish potatoes.

Vegetables should be prepared well in order to make the "tonic" more effective, says the home demonstration agent. She suggests fresh greens wilted with a hot French dressing and served with green onions. This could be garden head lettuce or others like spinach, tender mustard or turnip greens.

Mrs. Sparks also suggests that turnip and mustard greens, spinach, and beet tops be cooked as a mixture, seasoned with bacon drippings or salt pork.

"Leave some of the green stems on radishes and on fresh onions. Eat fresh string beans when they are young enough to have seeds no larger than a pin head. Try English peas cooked with tender young asparagus in cream sauce.

An arrangement of fresh vegetables on a relish tray—radish roses, celery curls, carrot strips, fresh green onions, sliced tomatoes and green pepper rings with garden lettuce as a garnish, is another of her suggestions.

Further recipes and directions may be obtained at the county home demonstration office in the courthouse, Mrs. Sparks says.

Lady Bugs Hard At Work

SEBASTIAN, June 1 (UP)—Ten gallons of lady bugs were hard at work today in E. L. O'Meara's cotton fields, and all because his Texas lady bugs let him down.

The Texas insects failed in their chosen duty—eating aphids from cotton plants. Just couldn't keep up the pace.

O'Meara "imported" the Arizona bugs, fine sturdy creatures, to lend a hand. They were reported winning the battle today.
