18 Persons Die Violent Deaths In Texas

By United Press
A survey by United Press showed at least 18 persons died violently in Texas during the weekend, all but four of them in traffic mishaps.

The worst accident occurred between Decatur and Alvord. Mrs. Oliver C. Harbin, 43, Houston, died Sunday of injuries received in the accident, the third victim. Earlier, her husband, 40 and Bill Roy Cobb, an airman from Roscoe, Tex., stationed at Sheppard Air Force Base, had died as a result of the two-car smash-up Saturday night. Three other airmen were slightly injured.

In a freak accident near Grandbury, Dick Umphress, 43, former Hood County sheriff, was crushed to death between a tractor he was operating and a post hole digger.

Another unusual accident occurred at Sherman where Miss Louise Cobter, 3, died of injuries she received when she fell out of a moving car.

At Fort Worth, Mrs. E. W. Jackson, 52, was killed when she stepped in front of a speeding automobile in front of her home.

Two teen-age cousins drowned near Argyle Sunday afternoon while swimming in a stock tank. The victims were Lewis Brown, Jr., 16, of Argyle, and Fred Reed, 15, of Plano.

Two men, Dempsey Sessions, 26, and John Holley, 31, both of East Bernard, were killed Sunday afternoon when a car struck them as they worked on a flat tire 3 miles east of San Antonio.

Allies Refuse To Give Ground In Peace Talks

ATOM DRIVEN AIRPLANES ARE NOT TOO FAR IN THE FUTURE

WASHINGTON, July 30 (UP)—The atomic energy commission said today that the scientific feasibility of atom-driven airplanes has been established.

It also reported that actual development of atomic aircraft engines—by the General Electric Co.—has "advanced" in the past six months as part of a "long-range reactor development program."

Such engines in theory could drive airplanes many times around the globe at tremendous speed and now unattainable altitudes.

The AEC's brief discussion of atomic plane engines, revealing "establishment of the theoretical feasibility for nuclear-powered flight," was contained in its 10th semiannual report to congress. The report also disclosed that:

Production of atomic weapons, explosives, and raw materials hit new all-time highs in the past six months.

Domestic raw material production, has jumped to where this country now ranks second among the free world's uranium producers. New foreign sources are being tapped.

Early construction work is well under way on two huge new atomic explosives plants, the $900,000,000 works near Aiken, S. C., and the $500,000,000 plant near Paducah, Ky.

Construction of an atomic engine for submarines is well advanced at the Arco, Ida., reactor station and design work is progressing for another one. Navy sources predict a submarine propelled by splitting atoms will be undergoing tests in two years.

Revolutionary new reactors for production of atomic explosives are being built, presumably for the South Carolina plant. They differ radically from those at Hanford, Wash., and are understood to be much more efficient.

Hospital Meet Slated Tonight

Progress of the past week on the Eastland Memorial Hospital drive will be reported at a meeting at the Texas Electric Service Building at 7.30 p.m. today.

Among the topics to be presented is the progress of the funds drive and progress of the building committee.

Texas Electric made a foundation test on the hospital site last week and results of that test will probably be told along with the presentation of plans for the building.

REDS DEMAND BUFFER ZONE SET UP ON 38TH PARALLEL

United Press Staff Correspondent
By Ernest Hobeicht
UN ADVANCE BASE BELOW KAESONG, Korea, July 30. (UP)—Cease-Fire negotiations appeared stalled tonight over a Communist demand that the Allies give up 2-125 square miles of North Korea and fall back across the 38th Parallel.

United Nations and Communist delegations ended their 14th and longest single session in Kaesong today agreed only on two points: (1) that they meet again tomorrow. (2) That the fighting should go on while they talk.

A UN spokesman said Chief Allied Negotiator Vice Admiral C. Turner Joy "hoped" for a solution to the four-day-old deadlock on location of a cease-fire buffer zone, but added:

"There is nothing to indicate that a colution is in the immediate offing."

A U.N. communique said both sides "held firm to their views" on the second item on the agenda—the whereabouts of the cease fire line and the creation of a demilitarized buffer zone between the opposing armies. A 15th session will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow (9 p.m. today EDT).

The meeting lasted three hours and eight minutes and included one of the longest speeches of the conference.

It was a 61-minute prepared statement read by Chief Communist Negotiator North Korean Gen. Nam Il reiterating the enemy demand that the armistice line be established along the 38th Parallel — pre-war frontier between South and Communist North Korea.

He said the buffer zone should be established along six miles on either side of the parallel.

This would mean an allied withdrawal of 30 miles or more from positions deep inside North Korea on the central and eastern fronts and put the Communists in a position to invade South Korea again.

It would mean the Allied abandonment of an estimated 2,125 square miles of North Korean territory won by the Allies on the battlefield. By contrast, the Communists hold only about 950 square miles of South Korean territory south of the parallel.

Joy argued again that the fighting should end with the armies in their present positions. He contended that a withdrawal south of the parallel would involve political questions which he was not authorized to discuss.

A UN spokesman said that it was evident the two sides are still far apart.

"Most of the time today was devoted to attempts to clarify the UN stand and cut through the language, which has caused considerable misunderstanding," he said.

The spokesman said Nam Il for the first time seemed to lack "verve and zip" that previously marked his speeches.

Although the North Korean General's attitude could not be described as "cearalized," he said there was a relaxed listlessness about him that had not been noted previously.

The spokesman, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, said the Communists have been given the UN views on the buffer zone and cease-fire line and in turn have replied to the Allied proposals.

"But," he said, "they are still deadlocked over the issue and there is no solution seen in the immediate future."

MARSHALL HOUSEWIVES FACE LOSS OF PROPERTY FOR BALK

MARSHALL, July 30 (UP)—Marshall housewives today said they planned to use "strategy" in their public protest against paying social security taxes for their domestic help.

Mrs. Carolyn Abney, wife of an attorney and leader of the group, refused to disclose the next move in their fight with Treasury men who have threatened to seize personal property if the women don't turn in their payments of $1.96 to $4.97.

"We don't want to give away our strategy," Mrs. Abney said, "but I can tell you some good heads are working on it."

Mrs. Abney said that at least 500,000 American women agreed with their stand.

"A minimum of half a million women are making a silent protest," she said, "by just ignoring income."

The housewives complied with the law, up to a point. They filed the required returns, but not the money. They received the bills for sums ranging from $1.96 to $4.97, which they refused to pay.

Some 20 Marshall women have sent a petition to Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder, asking him to act in the matter.

Housewives are required to collect one and one-half per cent of their servants wages and contribute a matching amount themselves and then send the total to the collector of internal revenue.

The penalty payment for the first quarter of 1951 was due April 20. Mrs. Abney and the others here received new notices setting July 16 as the deadline.

"That's two weeks ago," Mrs. Abney said. "No chance to meet that deadline."

Moran Man In Calvary Unit

WITH THE 1ST CAVALRY DIVISION, U. S. ARMY, in Korea—(Delayed)—A Moran, Texas Army man is on the frontlines serving with one of the most famous infantry regiments battling Communists in the Korean War.

Private Edwin B. Wier, son of Edgar L. Wier, Moran, in the Eastland area, is in the 1st Cavalry Division's 5th Cavalry Regiment.

Wier's colorful unit splashed ashore in Korea in July 1950. It was one of two regiments that completely crushed three North Korean divisions early in the war near Waegwan.

After UN forces had punched through Communist lines in September and rolled into North Korea, Wier's regiment made the historic October 19th capture of the vital North Korean capital city of Pyongyang.

More recently, the 5th Cavalry sent a task force against an estimated three enemy divisions pressing a French-American position at Chip'yong-ni. The regiment's armored-infantry force completely crushed the enemy threat, killed at least 2,500 Chinese and freed the encircled UN forces.

Adair Will Get New Sanity Trial

KAUFMAN, July 30 (UP)—Fred Felix Adair, Jr., convicted "love burglar" who terrorized Dallas women for nearly a year, will face a new sanity hearing here today, his third since being convicted of raping a Dallas housewife as her two small children watched.

The first hearing ended in a deadlocked jury. The second jury found the mild-mannered payroll clerk insane and committed him to the Terrell State Hospital last April.

On June 25, Dr. A. D. Cotello, superintendent at the hospital, filed affidavits saying he and other doctors at the institution believe Adair is sane.

Adair, who escaped the electric chair when found insane, would be electrocuted if found sane at the hearing in Judge A. A. Dawson's 86th District Court.

Tidelands Bill Certain To Pass

WASHINGTON, July 30 (UP)—The House appeared certain to pass the tidelands oil bill today, and the only question was whether Congress would override President Truman's promised veto.

Even the bill's bitterest opponent, Rep. Emanuel Celler, D., N. Y., conceded that he would take a licking.

It generally was believed that the Senate also would pass the measure, which would give the states title to their offshore land including $40,000,000,000 in oil reserves off Texas, Louisiana and California.

Celler predicted, however, that the bill's supporters could not muster the necessary two-thirds vote of either Senate or House after Mr. Truman bounces the bill back to Congress.

But Rep. Francis E. Walter, D., Pa., said he was sure of enough House support, and added that the Senate would override the veto by two or three votes. Walter previously had been uncertain about the Senate.

Rep. Mike Mansfield, D., Mont., said he would try to substitute a bill leaving control of the submerged land in federal hands but giving all revenue to the states for aid to education. Walter said he would try to get this proposal ruled out of order.

Walter's bill would wipe out three Supreme Court decisions establishing federal dominion over offshore lands. It would give to the states a strip seaward from low-tide mark, three miles off Louisiana and California, and 10 1-2 miles off Texas.

Walter's backers claimed that the land had been claimed by the states for more than a century until the Federal government saw that it was valuable.

They charged that the Supreme Court decisions also would mean Federal control of the great lakes bottom and all under inland streams, including sand and gravel under various rivers.

Celler's side bitterly denied this, saying that the government specifically renounced any claim of inland waters.

Hawkins shot a 68-67-66-66 for 267 and second place.

Jack Burke of Houston, shot a 269 good for a fourth place tie with Dr. Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn.

Chuck Klein of San Antonio had a 276 to tie three others for ninth place. Harry Todd and Earl Stewart, Jr., both of Dallas, shot 277 and shared 10th place with four other golfers.

Antitrust Laws Hurt Instead Of Help Minor-League Clubs

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Antitrust laws protect the little fellows from having the big boys gang up on them. They work just the other way around in baseball, as interpreted by the Department of Justice.

If Rep. Emanuel Celler really wants to do something for the game, the chairman of the House subcommittee on monopoly will recommend legislation exempting it from antitrust laws insofar as rebroadcasting and retelevising major-league games in minor-league territory is concerned.

Representative Celler might also advise the major-league owners to protect themselves against themselves, for they are only killing their own business by glorifying members of parent clubs in minor-league country.

Individual clubs are free to work out their own rules regarding radio and video. If a vote could be taken, rebroadcasting and retelevising undoubtedly would go out the window, but under the present legal set-up the Department of Justice would regard that as conspiracy.

One front office being afraid that another will get something it missed, the major-league clubs sell rebroadcasting and retelevising rights for inconsequential amounts compared with the cost to their minor-league departments.

President Frank Shaughnessy of the International League could tell Representative Celler and his subcommittee plenty. How major league broadcasting and televising has organized baseball out of Newark and Jersey City, which long enjoyed one of the sport's keener rivalries.

That is quite all right with Shaughnessy, however, for Newark and Jersey City are too close to New York and Brooklyn to escape the Yankee, Giant and Dodger wave lengths and channels.

It is rebroadcasting and retelevising in burgs removed to which Shaughnessy and all other minor-league officials object.

Frank Shaughnessy could give Representative Celler and his forgers a striking illustration. It is that half of this year's attendance in the eight-club Class Triple A International League will come from the two cities—Montreal and Toronto—in which there is no major-league radio and television.

In two years, major-league rebroadcasting and retelevising has done the minors more damage than they have suffered since the depression.

Three of the four titles were won by two Detroit model plane enthusiasts, Paul Simon, 18, and Bob Bienenstein, 24.

Simon was awarded both the national and the senior titles while Bienenstein, an automobile salesman, copped the open championship.

The winners were presented their awards at a banquet last night attended by top Naval brass, including Assistant Secretary for Air John F. Folberg, and Radio Funnymen, Arthur Godfrey.

Detroit Takes Flying Honors

DALLAS, July 30 (UP)—Detroit, Mich., could claim a majority of the championships stemming from the 1951 National Model Airplane meet which ended at Hensley Field here yesterday.

Three of the four titles were won by two Detroit model plane enthusiasts, Paul Simon, 18, and Bob Bienenstein, 24.

Simon was awarded both the national and the senior titles while Bienenstein, an automobile salesman, copped the open championship.

Di Maggio In Top Form Again

NEW YORK, July 30 (UP)—Joltin' Joe Di Maggio, with a grin that would make a Cheshire cat look like a sour puss by comparison, suggested today that "there's life in the old boy yet," but that was just one reason the future looked rosy for the Yankees.

"As DiMaggio goes so go the Yankees," has been an axiom for years, so there can be no underestimating the importance of the two big homers that produced five runs in yesterday's 8 to 3 and 2 to 0 sweep over the White Sox.

But it was just as important at this stage of the race that quick Vic Raschi definitely has licked his annual mid-season slump, and that Bob Kuzava finally looks like the additional starting pitcher the Yankees needed to be at or near the top of the rest of the way.

The Yankees held a two-game lead in the hectic American League race today, which isn't much at this stage of the race, but which seems like a gap to compare with Mammoth Cave the way the contenders have been battling the past month.

Cleveland topped the Red Sox, 5 to 4 to go into a second place tie at Boston, while the twin losses of the White Sox dropped them 1/2 games behind in fourth place. In other American League games, the Tiger stopped the A's, 8 to 4 then lost 3 to 0, while Washington won a 7 to 2 decision from the Browns, then lost 8 to 6.

Brooklyn topped the Cardinals for the 12th straight time, 9 to 3 and the second place Giants won 3 to 1 and 6 to 4 decisions from the Reds, while elsewhere the National League the Cubs won a pair from the Phillies, 5 to 4 and 8 to 6, and the Braves edged the Pirates, 5 to 4 after losing 6 to 2.

But most of the excitement was at Yankee Stadium where DiMaggio was slugging as of old Raschi and Kuzava turned in pitching jobs that bristled with brilliance. It was old time "blow 'em down" baseball for the hurlers as the Yankees came up with 22 strikeouts for the day. Raschi, now the Major League leader with a total of 108, struck out 12 in the opener and Joe Ostrowski, who relieved him when he bruised his hand stabbing a hot drive in the ninth, got another. Kuzava whiffed nine in the second game.

State Fair To Begin October 6

The State Fair of Texas has virtually completed its lineup of major attractions for the 1951 exposition, Oct. 6-21, James H. Stewart, executive vice president and general manager, has revealed.

The biggest and best of all state fairs expects to crack wide open the national records set by last year's fair, which drew a whooping 2,176,519 attendance, Stewart said. Here are some impressive samples of this year's top caliber attractions.

"Guys and Dolls," successor to "South Pacific" as Broadway's hottest musical smash hit, will play 24 performances in the Auditorium. An impressive cast is headed by Movie Star Allan Jones.

The Pan-American National Hereford Show will have more than 500 whiteface aristocrats competing for $25,000 in premiums. Total livestock and poultry premiums add up to a record $90,414, highest in history. There will be 26 breeds of beef and dairy cattle, horses, swine, sheep and Angora goats shown.

There'll be a bigtime college football game in the Cotton Bowl each Saturday of the fair—SMU vs. Missouri Oct. 6, Texas vs. Oklahoma Oct. 15 and SMU vs. Rice Oct. 20—plus six other games.

Featured will be "The Storybook of Texas Agriculture," revolutionary new presentation of Texas' Agricultural riches in a massive, animated display; a Science Engineering Show that will show how research laboratories of the nation's industrial giants are creating modern miracles of science; the 35th annual Southwestern Automobile Exposition South's largest automobile show.

The fabulous million-dollar Midway will be bigger and brighter with the nation's best side-shows, 33 great thrill rides, a half-acre of rides just for the kids, and the sensational Sky Wheels, towering double ferris wheel that will carry fun-seekers to new heights indeed.

Free lectures, flower shows, contests and a vastly expanded list of competitive classes will boost the Women's Show to the top among the nation's events of that type.

And that's only the beginning.

NEVER A HEADACHE

PHILADELPHIA—"Ample lighting in the office and good eye-glasses are my recipe to avoid eyestrain," Mrs. Mary Genter, a reader with the Mutual Press Clipping Service, said. "The boss provides plenty of fluorescent lighting and I own several pairs of inexpensive ready-to-wear reading glasses. I keep one pair of spectacles in my purse, one in the desk drawer and one at home. Then I can't possibly forget them and always have a pair close at hand."

Mrs. Genter reads hundreds of newspapers daily as she watches for clippings for her employer's clients. She claims she never has a headache.

Ready-to-wear reading glasses can be purchased without an examination or prescription at variety and dime stores. Physicians recommend them for middle-aged farsighted people who need help to see clearly.

KILLER'S PACE

THE STORY: In order to save Rose Bidault from the electric chair, Star Williams, her lawyer and my (Jim Marshall's) boss, did some sleight of hand. His trick was exposed and now he must prove Rose innocent or be hanged. This will be hard to do because right after the trial Rose was murdered and there have been two attempts on my own life.

XVII
EVERYBODY stared when I walked into the restaurant where I was to meet Paul Waltz, the man from the World Wide Detective Agency. Earlier in the day I'd collected a skinned chin, a bump on my nose, and my suit was a mess from rolling around on the pavement. After I cleaned up in the washroom, I joined Paul.

He listened impassively although I was figuratively curling his hair, which was almost platinum blonde and flattened down. It was turning white, so that it was hard to tell where the white began. His complexion was florid, contrasting with his hair. You would think he would be the last man to succeed in the FBI, but he had been outstanding, only quitting because of a personal row with a stuffed shirt superior. They have them even in the FBI.

I gave him everything, holding out nothing. "The main thing," I concluded, "is to find out who killed Barney Bidault and why. If Rose Bidault did the job, Star Williams is through. If she didn't, proof of Rose's innocence is all that can keep the bar association from tossing Star out, which if they do would kill him as surely as the electric chair."

Paul chuckled. "Twice in one day, only the breaks keep you from stopping slugs, and all you worry about is whether the bar association throws out Star Williams!"

"Maybe there's some logic for that. If the Bidault killing is cleaned up, it's a cinch that we'll haul in whoever's sending gunmen to blast me. I think we're getting warm. This Fifth Street First National stick-up is a new lead. What do you know about it?"

"Nothing. I wasn't within a thousand miles of here at the time, and I was detailed to narcotics. But I've a friend in the FBI office. Maybe he can turn up something that will help us. As for the Carl Prater angle, I think it's a bust."

"You've got an agency man tailing him?"

"Yes, but I think it's a waste of time. Insofar as I've been able to learn, he's just a lucky inventor who came up with an idea that's making a mint of money for his burial vault firm."

"For Barney Bidault's firm, you mean—or whoever gets the Bidault estate now?"

"I've been wondering when you were going to get around to that. Did Rose Bidault leave a will?"

"Not that I know of. Maybe Dave Grafton does."

DAUL shrugged. "It could have been a murder-parlay from the start. Jim Kill Barney, then Rose, and two million bucks falls into the murderer's lap. Now, if it turned out that Rose left a will giving all to Larry Stone—"

"Nothing but a magician's stunt could have saved Rose from conviction for Barney's murder, and that would have prevented her inheriting Barney's estate. So how could Stone hope to gain anything from murdering Barney in the first place?"

"Maybe he didn't know that the law prevents inheritance by a person convicted of murder from the estate of his victim. Lots of homicides have failed to net a profit simply because the perpetrator didn't know the legal score."

I shook my head. "Larry Stone I don't like, but he isn't anybody's fool. But it would be interesting to learn who's principal beneficiary under Rose's will. I've a hunch it isn't anybody named Larry Stone."

"Hunch players go broke," said a voice at my elbow. It was Star. I introduced him to Paul Waltz, and Star sat down beside me.

"I overheard your remark about a beneficiary not being Larry Stone. I finally got to Grafton a while ago and asked him about Rose Bidault's will. She had one, all right. Guess who inherits her estate."

I glumly asked: "Larry Stone?"

He nodded. "Grafton has already told Merica about that. He didn't want to tell me, till I got nasty about one of his professional skeletons. Rose had ordered him to write the will right after her arrest. He brought it to the jail on one of his early trips there. He made lots of trips to see her about matters pertaining to the estate. He was sure she had murdered Barney, but there was always a chance she would walk out free, so he cultivated her."

"SHE wanted it kept secret about naming Stone in the will. She was afraid someone would find out about it and link Stone with Barney's death. After she found out that the accidental death story he had sold her wouldn't work, she changed her mind. Of course Grafton didn't know why. He only knew that after Andy Tanner's experts had testified that the gun couldn't go off accidentally, Rose phoned him from jail and said the first thing she wanted to attend to after the trial was a new will."

"Grafton figured she had thrown in the sponge and had decided she was going to fry in the chair. He knew she'd have little left if convicted, and he told her there was no point in bothering about the will till after the trial. After he heard of her acquittal, he drove out to see her."

"When he saw you went away, planning to come back later. After Rose was killed, he figured Stone for the killer for he was sure Larry knew about the first will and Rose's intention to write a new one."

Made-In-Dallas Tag Got Start On Bearskin

DALLAS, July (UP)—The proud Dallas-made label might want to forget this, but its great grandfather was a bearskin coat.

That was the glorious product which the first made-in-Dallas label adorned back in 1907 when the city first showed in the fashion manufacturing field.

The evolution of clothes manufacturing in Dallas followed a route rapidly leading from house dresses to simple cotton frocks until today when the Big D label means highest fashion at moderate prices.

It's a city that is no longer a follower in the field of fashion. The second largest Texas metropolis now the third-largest fashioning center in the nation, bowing only to the superiority of New York and California. Manufacturers here fan out their products to 20,000 stores throughout the United States and most foreign countries to the very profitable tune of $150,000,000 in annual retail sales. Four per cent of those sales are in Texas.

When buyers from throughout the United States return to Dallas the week of Aug. 21 for second fall market, they'll be treated to another Dallas first in fashion.

Love it, hate it, cuss it or praise it, it's television. And several fashion manufacturers now have invaded this new medium with an unusual experiment.

Five Dallas dress manufacturers, one jewelry designing and manufacturing firm and one milliner have joined forces for a co-operative fashion show that's the first of its kind anywhere.

The 30-minute weekly show had its premier last week. At the present time it reaches Texans within a 100-mile radius of Dallas over WFAA-TV's channel 8 from 8:30 to 9 p.m. Fridays.

The show is pretty much the brain child of Miss Julie Benell, its commentator and one of the most enthusiastic and best-looking salesmen of the Dallas fashion industry to be found.

In a nutshell, she explained today, the co-operating manufacturers furnish samples of the wares they're delivering to retail stores throughout the southwest the week of each show. Another unusual and, of course, profitable feature of the show is that it gives retail credits that direct Miss and Mrs. Texan to their home stores selling the fashions being shown.

The co-operating manufacturers include Gordon Edwards, Ike Clark Sportswear, Shirlynn, William S. Miller and Devine of Dallas; and jeweler ring of Dallas and milliner Jan Leslie.

There's original music by Hugh Waddill and there's Miss Benell to add up to a fast-moving, sparkling show.

Not by any means to be overlooked are the lovely gals whom these Dallas fashions adorn. Ann Daniels, Evelyn Watson, Juanita Ransome, Virginia Arnold and Shirley High are the eye-treats chosen by fashion writers throughout the nation attending the recent press week here as the top five models of the southwest.

All of which adds up to a big step for a Dallas industry that started with bearskin coats.

TEETH FOR TWO—Felicita von Sendenhorst, 20-year-old Hunter College zoology student, gets an eye-tooth view of Mile. Elle at Aqueduct. The pretty veterinarian-to-be spends several mornings a week examining ailing thoroughbreds. The horses don't seem to mind a bit. Who would? (NEA)

Shoulder Blades Under Emphasized

HOLLYWOOD, July 30 (UP)

Sculptor Yucco Salamunich thinks women should give their bosoms a rest for a while and concentrate on developing sexy shoulder blades.

Salamunich, who has sculptured many of filmland's most glamorous women, believes the shoulder blade is being neglected in the search for sex-appeal.

In the first place, he says, women cover their shoulder blades too much, showing them off only in bathing suits.

"That's hypocrisy," snorts Salamunich. "I prefer them exposed, even in restaurants."

But most women need more meat on their backs to keep the spine from showing between the shoulder blades and spoiling the effect, says the sculptor.

US Officials To Stop Child Labor

DALLAS, July — When the school bell rings this fall, Federal officials here are going to be raking extra efforts to see that employment does not interfere with education.

Employment of children under 16 years of age in agriculture during school hours is unlawful under the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act. William J. Rogers, Regional Director of the Wage-Hour and Public Contracts Divisions of the U.S. Department of Labor in Dallas says his staff plans to enforce the law this fall as it did last year. His region includes Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, and New Mexico.

He pointed out today that the law applies directly to farmers whose crops or products, either directly or indirectly, go into interstate of foreign commerce. He illustrated the matter with the case of a farmer who sends his product outside the state or delivers his product to a ginner, processor, canner, or dealer who will send it outside the state—either in its original form or as part of another product.

The law does not apply to a farmer's own children working on their parent's farm, he said. But if farmers hire other underage children during school hours, the farmers themselves are responsible, he declared.

"By 'school hours' is meant the hours when school is in session for the district where the employed children under 16 currently are living he explained. That includes children hired either as individuals or as part of a family group directed by labor contractors, processors, or others. It includes both children and alien children.

Any person who wilfully violates the child-labor provisions of the Federal law is subject to a maximum fine of $10,000, or after second conviction for a similar offense, a maximum fine of $10,000 or imprisonment for as much as six months, or both, he said.

Red-ripe peaches can be successfully preserved in the home freezer.

The Federal law sets no minimum age for the employment of children in agriculture before or after school hours on any school day, or at any time on school holidays, or during school vacations. But most states have school attendance laws and whichever statute, Federal or state, sets the higher standard governs the matter in any given state, he says.

Red-ripe peaches can be successfully preserved in the home freezer.

HAM is in top supply now—usually is a better value during the summer months. All the ordinary cuts of ham are good—picnics (from the shoulder), shank and butt end hams, the boned rolled ham, and center slices for steaks (although these are a little high). In addition, the smoked shoulder pork butt is far less expensive, but with the smoked ham flavor.

Maybe you'd like a recipe for baking and glazing the pork butt—called by some packers a daisy, a tenderloin, or a cottage roll.

Glazed Smoked Shoulder Butt (Serves 6 to 8)

One smoked shoulder pork butt (2 to 3½ pounds), 3 peppercorns, 3 whole cloves, 1 onion, whole cloves for studding, ½ cup prepared mustard, ¼ cup New Orleans molasses, 1 cup ginger ale. Place shoulder butt in water to cover. Add peppercorns, 3 whole cloves, and onion. Bring to a boil, reduce heat, and simmer about 45 minutes per pound (from 1½ to 2½ hours). Drain well. Score and stud with cloves. Combine mustard and molasses.

Add enough ginger ale to make spread easily. Place on rack on baking pan. Bake at 425 degrees F. 25 minutes or until well browned and glazed, basting with remaining ginger ale and pan drippings. Slice thin to serve.

Party Ham Loaf

Mix 2 pounds ground smoked ham with 1 pound ground veal, 2 cups soft enriched bread crumbs, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, ¼ cup minced onion, 1 teaspoon dry mustard and ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Shape into a loaf and place in greased pan or pack into a well-greased mold. Bake in a slow oven, 300 degrees F., 2 hours. Pour off drippings and turn loaf or mold onto a platter.

Garnish with sliced pineapple, crabapples and parsley. Serve either hot or cold with horseradish sauce made by folding ¼ cup horseradish into ½ cup whipped cream.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Orange juice ready to eat cereal, French toast, honey, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Chicken bouillon (made with cubes), crackers, cottage cheese and fresh vegetable salad, sour cream dressing, peanut cookies, iced tea, milk.

DINNER: Glazed smoked shoulder, ham butt, baked potatoes, corn and green pepper pudding, rye bread, butter or fortified margarine, sliced tomatoes, sliced peaches, cookies, coffee, milk.

Miss Frazer, Mr. Thompson Reveal Names Of Their Wedding Party

Miss Shirley Frazer and her fiance, Ralph Dale Thompson, of Ft. Worth, whose wedding date of August 11th, was announced here last week by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Frazer, have named their wedding attendants to be the following:

Mrs. Lonnie Park, Houston, will be the matron of honor; Mrs. Jack Messer of Fort Worth, Miss Ellen Flewelling of Canadian and Miss LaVerne Cornelius will be the bride's maids. Miss Ann Simmons of Midland, junior bride's maid, and Alice Frazer, sister of the bride-to-be, will be the flower girl.

Mrs. Bill Edleman of Arlington and Miss Lynda Hassell of Eastland and San Antonio, will be the candle-lighters.

Jack Messer of Ft. Worth will serve Mr. Thompson as best man and Mrs. Bryan Merrell, Eston Thornton, and Bill Drake, all of Ft. Worth, groomsmen.

Rev. J. Morris Bailey, pastor, will officiate at the 8 o'clock ceremony at the First Methodist Church.

emony at the First Methodist Church. Miss Gladys Womack will be the vocalist and Mrs. J. P. Kilgore, organist.

A Needle Sewed Up Her Career

This engaging smile belongs to one of New York's most charming—and busiest—residents. She is Elizabeth Bryan, 20-year-old Salt Lake City girl who won a grand prize in the 1949 "Make It Yourself With Wool" Home Sewing Contest sponsored by The Wool Bureau and the Women's Auxiliary of the National Wool Growers Association. Miss Bryan is shown here studying at New York City's Traphagen School of Fashion, to which she won a year's scholarship with an evening ensemble of white virgin wool crepe of her own design which she modeled in the third annual home sewing contest.

Williams spent the week end in Mineral Wells, where they were joined by friends from Fort Worth.

Air Force Has New Jet Bomber

FORT WORTH, July (UP)—An experimental all-jet bomber with swept-back wing should be test flown here by the end of the year, Convair Aircraft officials said today.

Called the YB-60, the bomber is powered by eight jet engines. The first of two experimental models ordered by the Air Force is under construction at the Convair plant here.

The new multi-jet bomber is development of the basic B-36 design, Convair officials said, but differs markedly in appearance and performance.

Threat Of War Is Increasing

WASHINGTON, July 30 (UP)—Defense Secretary George C. Marshall was disclosed today to have warned congressmen recently that the likelihood of war with Russia "is increasing."

This is because "there has been a constant build-up in the Soviets and their satellites, of their military strength," Marshall told a House military appropriations subcommittee.

Marshall, in testimony delivered July 18 and made public today, warned also it probably would be six weeks or more before the Korean peace talks reach a conclusion. That would be in early September.

He urged fast action by congress to approve a $60,000,000,000 defense appropriation—biggest in peacetime history—on the ground its passage "will help us very much in getting the decision that we want" at Kaesong.

Subcommittee chairman George H. Mahon, D., Tex., asked Marshall: "What is your considered judgment, general, as to the likelihood of a major war now as compared to two or three months ago?"

Marshall first replied that it was about the same. Then he noted the continued build-up of Soviet forces, and said he unfortunately don't know much about that.

war is an ever-present consideration?" Mahon then asked.

"I think it is continuing," Marshall replied. "And, from the viewpoint of the enemy's buildup, it is increasing."

An off-the-record discussion followed, one of many that marked the first volume of the record of the subcommittee's long closed-door sessions on the big defense military budget in history.

Of the cease-fire talks, Marshall said it would appear "that the Communist very much want this armistice." But he wanted that, even so, the talks were sure to run into serious difficulties.

SPECIAL WATER NOTICE

The water in Eastland Lake is now 63" below the spill-way, and dropping at the rate of approximately 5" per week. This is the lowest point reached in the past several years. In order to conserve water remaining in the lake, we are reducing the minimum from 7,500 gallons to 5,000 gallons per month, effective with the month of August, 1951, and request that everyone be very conservative in the use of water, particularly water used on lawns and shrubs. We must conserve water for drinking and household purposes.

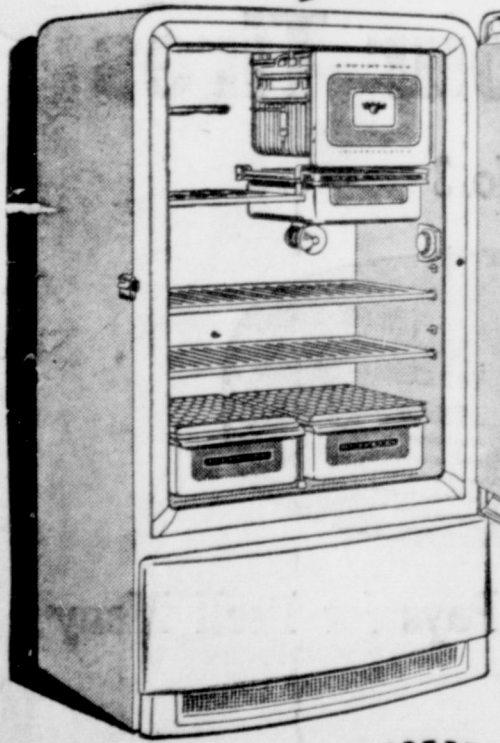

We hope we will have sufficient rains in the near future so it will not be necessary to make a further reduction in the minimum, or impose further restrictions.

Your cooperation and assistance is earnestly solicited.
