Appeal For Safe Driving Made By Safety Group

The Texas Safety Association today made an appeal for safe and sane driving to drivers of "Hot Rods." A. W. Breeand, TSA president, stated that quite a number of complaints have been received from throughout the state regarding reckless and dangerous driving committed by hot rod drivers. Many of these vehicles are said to have illegal equipment, such as muffler cut-outs and straight exhausts. Speeding, racing and a flagrant violation of the rules of the road have been reported in several communities.

Parents should counsel with their teen-age children to see that they drive according to state and local traffic regulations, and that the vehicles themselves comply with the law relative to lights, brakes and other equipment.

President Breeand appeals to parents to encourage their children, of legal driving age, to enroll in driver education classes when school convenes this September. He stated that nearly half of the secondary schools of Texas now offer these courses, and that more will probably offer them if enough interest is evidenced locally. Records, thus far, prove amazing results from this training, as young drivers who are trained in school are seldom involved in accidents, while thousands of untrained teen-agers each year are involved in serious traffic mishaps.

Two new traffic laws are expected to help curb accidents, and they may effect hot-rods and their drivers who do not comply with safe driving rules. The vehicle inspection law will require all vehicles to have a thorough mechanical inspection and make any repairs and adjustments that might be needed. This inspection must be done before the vehicles can be registered. The Safety Responsibility Act, effective January 1, 1952, may be invoked against drivers involved in accidents with a resulting death, personal injury, or property damage of one hundred dollars or more.

The Texas Safety Association adds this final admonition; check your driving; check your vehicles; the life you save may be your own.

SAFETY COMMITTEE WARNS AGAINST GRASS, RANGE FIRE

COLLEGE STATION, Aug. — The continued hot, dry weather has created a situation that is "tailor made" for grass and range fires. Grass and other plants along the highways, in parks and pastures and ranges are all tinder dry and there are a lot of ways fires can get started. However, just plain carelessness or failure on the part of people to observe the rules of safety as they relate to fire account for a majority of the destructive grass fires.

The State Farm and Ranch Safety Committee of Texas, headed by J. Walter Hammond of the Texas Farm Bureau Federation and E. C. Martin of the Agricultural Extension Service are strong in their plea for every citizen of the state to join with them in conducting a campaign to hold down grass fires. They point out that the livestock industry of the state is basically dependent upon the grasslands of the state for its existence. A livestock producer without grass for his cattle is fighting a hard battle with a short stick. A blackened range caused from a fire that was started by a carelessly thrown cigarette, cigar or match can put a producer or producers out of business. Most would not be able to purchase feed to maintain their herd over any considerable period of time.

The nation needs every pound of meat that can be produced, and grass is our cheapest source of livestock feed. It must be protected. They urge the organization of community and county groups for combating grass fires. The local neighborhood groups should be coordinated on a community and county basis so that if necessary, an effective fighting force could be gotten together in the shortest possible time in case of a major outbreak.

Ranges should be protected by fireguards. Hazards that might

AMERICAN LEGION CLOSSES CONVENTION AT SAN ANTONIO

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 20 (UP)—The American Legion, department of Texas, closed its 1951 convention last night with the election of Charles C. Gibson of Amarillo as state commander and the selection of Dallas as site for next year's meeting.

In the final session, the state legion also voted to maintain its state headquarters at Austin and build an $85,000 home there. It emphatically voted down a proposal to move to San Antonio, which had offered its quarters. The resolution adopted at the convention's close touched upon almost every phase of U. S. Foreign Policy, and among other things demanded that secretary of state Dean Acheson be fired. Gibson, a World War I veteran and prominent figure in Panhandle politics, was elected commander after 3 other candidates for the post withdrew, the last one just as voting began. Other officers elected were Robert V. Keenan of Gladewater, Judge Advocate; W. F. Speigel of Port Arthur, re-named treasurer for the 23rd straight year; Mrs. Vera Langley of Dallas, historian; Rev. William Arms of Ft. Worth, chaplain; and Ernest Davis of Odessa, sergeant-at-arms.

The many-pointed resolution approved in the final session was presented by the State Sen. Rogers Kelley of Edinburg, chairman of the Legion's committee on foreign affairs.

It said president Truman should fire Acheson and Staff the state department with "men of high purpose and realistic views." The state department came in for criticism for its conduct of the Voice of America broadcast, which the legion said would be "revitalized," and for becoming an "operational" instead of a "policy-making" agency.

"Instead of giving away the substance of America in a very unrealistic way," the resolution said, "We recommend that the state department concentrate on the major task of formulating American plans to combat the very real threats to our security throughout the world."

The Legionaires also sniped at the United Nations and the Marshall Aid plan. The former was called an "ineffective instrument" for halting aggression. The Marshall plan aid, the resolution said, should be extended only to countries striving to help themselves. It said the UN should demand military, economic and political contributions from all its members to help fight Communism.

The UN also should stand firm in denying membership to Red China, the veterans said. The resolution urged a continuing build-up of the North Atlantic defense forces, and suggested a similar defense pact be worked out on a regional basis in the far east.

Plans were offered, as well, in the prosecution of the Korean War in event cease-fire talks fail. The legion advocated bombing of Manchurian bases and air reconnaissance over China, a blockade of the China coast, and U. S. Military aid to the Nationalist Chinese.

Accused OSS Man Offers To Stand Trial In Army

GOP PROPOSES ALLIANCE OF REPUBLICANS AND DEMOCRATS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (UP)—A Republican proposal for a GOP-Southern Democratic alliance in 1952 would, if made effective, destroy the nation's political balance and lead to dangerous extremes in government, according to Rep. Walter Rogers, D., Texas. Rogers, the Pampa, Tex., attorney who ousted a Republican to win his place in Congress, made the statement in a radio debate in which Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R., S. D., author of the coalition plan, said the alliance must be made "if we are even sincere about this business of trying to stop Socialism."

Mundt said he and his Republican colleagues would support Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D., Va., for president if the Democrats would nominate him. Byrd is an outspoken opponent of the Truman administration.

But Rogers argued that the Mundt plan would cause "a complete cleavage" between the left and right, with conservatives and liberals in two different parties.

He said Britain's present labor government is the outgrowth of a similar split.

"When you get a complete cleavage—that is, statism on the one side against free enterprise—on the other, you have an unbalanced situation," Rogers said. Then, he added, the party in power has "complete power."

Mundt said a great many Southern Democrats have been voting like Republicans for years and might as well join the party. The slender Texas reported that the proposal could be reversed, to make Democrats out of Republicans who have voted with the Southern wing.

Southern Democrats felt that Republicans cooperate with them when it is to the GOP's advantage, Rogers said, but the friendship ceases "when the southerners need their help."

He cited as example the defeat by northern and eastern Republicans of an industry dispersal plan which would have benefited the South and West.

"Whichever one of the parties gets in power," under Mundt's plan, Rogers said, "there is going to be a great mass of people that have no place to turn. And your result is going to be a dictatorial power by that bunch in control."

Mundt disagreed with use of Britain as an example, saying the Liberal party there gives labor control of the government, although it doesn't command a clear majority. He said the present "unrealistic political alignment" is leading this country toward Socialism anyway.

He said the South could get the votes to elect a president in 1952 "who would be against further trends toward Socialism" only by going to the North. Likewise, he said, there is no place for the North to get such votes except in the South.

"So, if we are even sincere about this business of trying to stop Socialism, we have got to make an alliance—but unless we get the man in the White House who will go along with this alliance, we cannot perfect the alliance," Mundt said.

Rogers pointed out that the Republican Party's "most conservative man," Sen. Robert A. Taft, O., has introduced a public housing bill.

The Texas said he also "believes" Taft included socialized medicine in his platform last election. "So where are the northern Republican leaders who think like we of the South coming from?" he demanded.

The debate was broadcast by the Texas Quality Network.

Farm Bureau Picnic Set For Thursday

The Eastland County Farm Bureau will have their annual picnic at the city park in Eastland Thursday, August 23, 7:00 p.m. There will be recreational activities and singing for the members attending the picnic.

Bob Lilly, recent employee of the Texas Farm Bureau will be there to tell how the Farm Bureau can help the farm family, the state and the nation.

Every one is invited to come and bring a picnic basket. Drinks, ice cream, and paper plates will be furnished. All members are urged to come and bring a neighbor family. The Farm Bureau also announced the recent election of Mrs. Joe Bob Browning as reporter.

19 Enroll In Workshop Course

Nineteen persons were present and enrolled at the organizational meeting of a workshop course in education at the Eastland High School Friday night. The course will be held for two weeks, Monday through Friday from 6 p.m. until 10 p.m. beginning tonight.

Others were expected to be entered in the course this week. Anyone interested in taking the course is urged to be present.

Dr. B. A. Collins, Dean of Education at Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene, organized the workshop.

Waco Planning New Plant

WACO, Aug. 20 (UP)—Plans to build a new tobacco by-products and chemical corporation insecticide plant here was announced today by the chamber of commerce. The plant, employing some 75 workers, will be constructed on a 20-acre site in east Waco.

Hurricane Moves Into Yucatan Peninsula Today

MERIDA, MEXICO, Aug. 20 (UP)—A killer hurricane that claimed 109 lives when it raked the Caribbean island of Jamaica caused "widespread damage" today as it slammed 100-mile-an-hour winds across the Yucatan Peninsula.

Panic-stricken inhabitants of this provincial capital of 100,000 persons took shelter in churches and public buildings as torrential winds and rains lashed the city.

But government weather reports said the storm might veer around Merida and hurtle into the Gulf of Mexico without striking any of Yucatan's population centers.

The tropical hurricane, losing force as it moved across the peninsula, was 60 miles southwest of Merida at 8:30 a.m. (CST) and driving west toward the gulf coast at 15 miles an hour. Weather officials said it would hit the coastline north of Campeche "sometime around mid-day."

Mexican airlines and the weather service whose radio circuits were the only communications link with the "mainland," reported "serious damage" to flimsy native villages in the hurricane's path.

They had no reports of loss of life, however, because of primitive communications in this center of the ancient Mayan civilization.

Telephone and cable connections were inoperative across the entire peninsula. Airline service was suspended.

The Isla De Mujeres (island of women) and Cozumel island, where a large air base built by the United States during the war now is held by the Mexican Air Force, took the first blow of the storm as it swept out of the Caribbean last night. "Moderate damage" to the two islands was reported by weather officials. But "there was no known loss of life."

Only scattered villages and hardwood forests were in the hurricane's path across the peninsula.

"It may cut a wide swath," a government official said, "but loss of life should be low."

In the golden age of whaling, between 1833 and 1863, America had as many as 675 ships on the seas seeking the great ocean mammal.

BOTH SIDES CHARGE THE OTHER VIOLATES NEUTRALITY

By Peter Kalischer United Press Staff Correspondent UN ADVANCE BASE BELOW KAESONG, Korea, Tuesday, Aug. 21 (UP)—The United Nations and Communist commands exchanged charges of deliberate neutrality violations Monday while a cease-fire subcommittee tried to break the long deadlock over the fixing of an armistice line.

The Chinese Communists introduced a new angle into an already complicated situation by sending letters to soldiers in the UN battle line proposing that front line units arrange an informal armistice of their own while cease-fire talks continue.

United Nations forces replied by capturing at least three key hills in the third day of a flaming new offensive.

The atmosphere of the cease-fire negotiations, which had been promising, became less hopeful as the subcommittee negotiating the cease-fire line prepared to hold their fifth meeting at 11 a.m. today (7 p.m. Monday CST). The North Korean Pyongyang radio accused the United States of making a bargaining game out of the negotiations. It said that if the Communist had wanted to bargain they would have demanded a cease-fire line along the Nakdong River in South Korea where

U. S. GOVERNMENT REJECTS OFFER OF ACCUSED KILLER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (UP)—The Army today rejected an offer by a former OSS officer to re-enter the Army and stand military trial on charges of murdering his commanding officer during a wartime cloak-and-dagger mission behind enemy lines.

It said that Aldo Icardi, former Office of Strategic Services lieutenant who made the offer, could not be tried by court martial even if he were taken back into the army.

Icardi and former Sgt. Carl Lodolce of Rochester, N. Y., have been accused by the Defense Department of the murder of Maj. William V. Holohan of New York while on a mission in Italy in 1944.

Icardi has branded the Defense Department's charges as "absurd, vicious and completely untrue." Lodolce also has denied that he and Icardi poisoned and then shot

Sears Pig Tour Schedule Set For Wednesday

The annual Eastland County Sears Pig Tour will start at 8:45 a.m. Wednesday, August 22, from the City Hall in Eastland, C. V. Whitaker, assistant county agent, has announced.

First stop on the schedule is at the home of Dale Swindel. The group is scheduled to leave that stop at 9:35 a.m.

The remainder of the schedule on the time for leaving stops is: Ralph Berry, 10:10 a.m.; Don Jobe 11:15 a.m.; Clyde Douglas, 11:40 a.m. and Wayne Cozart, 12 noon. Following that stop the group will have lunch.

Wednesday afternoon's schedule will be Charles Steel, 2 p.m.; Jimmy Sandlin, 2:45 p.m.; Vernon Stewart, 3:30 p.m. and Roy Nelson at 4:30 p.m.

All of the pigs will be observed on the tour were awarded by the Sears-Roebuck Foundation and are registered Durocs. The purpose of the tour is to let the boys who are participating in the program compare the progress of their pig with the progress of the pigs of other boys in the program.

Anyone who desires may go on the tour and everyone is invited to go, Whitaker said. Those making the trip should bring their lunch because the noon stop will not be near a cafe.

Holohan with the help of two Italian partisans.

The Army's refusal of Icardi's offer apparently left only two alternatives—for Italian courts to try the two Americans in absentia or for this government to extradite them if the Italian government makes a formal request. The two have retained counsel and have indicated they will fight extradition.

American civil authorities cannot prosecute the two men because the murder was on foreign soil. And military authorities are stymied because Icardi and Lodolce are no longer in the army.

An army spokesman explained that the break in Icardi's service would prevent him from being court-martialed under the old law, which applies in his case. The new unified code of military justice, which became effective last May 31, provides for bringing men back into service to stand court martial. But this cannot apply to Icardi or Lodolce because the code is not retroactive.

The court of Assizes in Novara, Italy, has moved to extradite the two men for trial there. Italian officials said they were named in confessions of two Italian partisans held on charges of complicity in the slaying.

Icardi told the United Press that "enemies of this country a trying to extradite me to Italy, where I wouldn't stand a chance of fair trial."

"Rather than be extradited," he said, "I would be willing to re-enter the army and face a military court."

A defense department spokesman said there was "no precedent for this situation." Icardi might face a tough time getting back into the army.

Legal technicalities prevent the Army from prosecuting Icardi and Lodolce now since they have been separated from service. Federal courts do not have jurisdiction since the crime took place in an enemy country in time of war.

The OSS mission of Holohan, Lodolce and Icardi was to supply arms and ammunition to guerrilla bands fighting behind Nazi lines.

After a dispute, the defense department said, Holohan was poisoned, shot and dumped into the waters of lake Orta. His weighted body was found in the lake with a bullet hole through its head. The department said Lodolce fired the fatal shot.

Heat Wave Is Losing Ground

Eastland's temperature climbed up to 100 degrees Sunday, but there were indications that the brunt of a terrific August heat wave might be broken.

Saturday the mercury soared to 108 degrees, but partly cloudy skies Sunday somewhat relieved the heat.

Monday morning the sky was overcast promising hope of rains and an end to the long heat wave which has seen the temperature in Eastland climb to the 100 degree mark or above every day in August except one.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

'Frustration' Keeps Many Experts Out of Washington

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Mobilization Director C. E. Wilson once asked a business associate he had known for many years to come to Washington and help him out on the three-year national defense production job. The reply he got was something like this: "If you're fool enough to give up your job, to give up your home, to give up your time—and go to Washington to live in an apartment, to work six days and six nights a week, and to be smeared all over the place—if you're fool enough to do those things, go ahead. I'm not going to."

There you have it in a nutshell one of the biggest problems in Washington. It is to recruit competent experts with wide experience in some highly technical field like steel production or distribution, for temporary jobs with the government. Plenty of second stringers can be hired. What's tough is getting the good ones.

Edwin T. Gibson, retiring as acting head of Defense Production Administration, says there are three principal reasons why most businessmen dodge the draft for defense jobs.

They are: 1—They are needed by their companies, who won't release them. 2—They don't realize there's an emergency. 3—They are frustrated by Washington.

THIS last point, which is the most intangible, is also probably the most important. Businessmen aren't trained in politics. They can't understand why, if something has to be done—it has to be cleared with Congress, the White House, State, Defense, Commerce, Agriculture, Interior, Labor and the Attorney General.

The chastisement which C. E. Wilson and Stabilization Director Eric Johnston have recently taken from the National Association of Manufacturers is on a par with what President Truman wrote to the music critic.

Mr. Johnston reports that some business friends he has known for years now won't speak to him when they pass. Mr. Wilson had Sidney Weinberg and Gen. Lucius D. Clay as his assistants for a time. But they refused to take the punishment and went home. In trying to replace them, Mr. Wilson gets called "a fool."

There is of course a fourth reason why businessmen won't come to Washington. Government doesn't pay enough. Top government salaries—outside of cabinet officers and ambassadors—are $17,500. But most government bureau heads are in the $8000 to $12,000 bracket. And men whom private industry would pay $10,000, the government expects to hire for $8000 to $7500.

NO smart and rising engineer or executive is going to give up his chances of promotion with his company to come to Washington to work and live in shoeboxes for less money.

To meet this situation, Congress has provided for a limited number of "WOC" and "WAE" in the defense agencies. The first are "without compensation" employees. They get $1 a year, plus transportation and $15 a day living expenses. The "WAE" get $50 a day plus transportation and $15 a day keep, "when actually employed."

There are now 412 WOC's in the defense agencies under Mr. Wilson. There are about 300 WAE's. They get to keep their private industry salaries, paid by their companies. In return, the companies agree to loan some of their best men to the government for periods of from six months to a year.

No self-respecting man will take a government job in the face of these excursions. But as Manly Fleischmann and as David Lilienthal, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission point out, such men are an absolute necessity to the success of the defense effort.

THE SKI'S THE LIMIT—Behind a speedboat, Jake McGuire, left, and Dick Pope, Jr., tune up at Cypress Gardens, Fla., for the National Water Ski Tournament at Lake Placid, N. Y. McGuire and Pope, eastern and world titleholder, respectively, also will compete in the North American Championships, to be held during the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto, Aug. 30. (NEA).

Texas Looking For State Welfare Workers

The State Department of Public Welfare is looking for Field Workers and Child Welfare Workers, according to Chas S. Gardiner, Director of the Merit System Council.

The salary range for both jobs normally is $230 to $260. But Gardiner points out that the beginning salary has been raised to $240 during the present emergency.

Applicants for the Field Worker job must have completed a minimum of 60 semester hours of college work, or 30 semester hours of college work plus one year of full-time paid social work employment in a recognized public or private welfare agency. High school graduates who have had two years of full-time paid employment in social work in a recognized public or private welfare agency may also qualify for the Field Worker examination. The Child Welfare position, however, requires applicants to be graduates of an accredited four-year college or university.

In order to get the required number of workers, Gardiner said a system has been worked out to give examinations on the first and second Saturday of each month. On the first Saturday examinations will be given in the following Texas Employment Commission offices: Amarillo, Corpus Christi, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Longview, San Angelo, San Antonio, and Waco. In Austin, the examinations will be held at the office of the Merit System Council and in Texarkana at the Texarkana Junior College.

Examinations on the second Saturday of each month will be held in Texas Employment Commission offices located at Abilene, Beaumont, El Paso, Galveston, Harlingen, Lubbock, Odessa and Wichita Falls. On the same dates examinations will be given in Laredo at the Laredo Junior College and in Tyler at the Tyler Junior College.

Additional information may be obtained at any local office of the Texas Employment Commission or State Department of Public Welfare.

Finds Plant Life Link Between U. S., and China

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., (UP)—A close parallel between plant life in the eastern United States and China indicates a common ancestry of the plants and a link between continents in the prehistoric past, according to a Chinese graduate student at West Virginia University.

Philip Cring-Cheng Chen, who returned to Lanchow, China, to teach after gaining his master's degree, wrote in his research thesis that similarity between the widely separated plant life is "amazing."

There are 38 plant families comprising 77 genera which are common to both regions but which are not found in other sections of the United States or Europe," he wrote. "Eighteen identical specimens are found in the two areas under study."

The Arctic regions may have once served as a "bridge" for plant distribution between Asia and North America, Chen theorized.

Hollywood Film Shop

HOLLYWOOD, (UP)—Nerves and jitters keep many an actor from fulfilling his early promise. So it is also with dog actors.

Tex Chambers, owner and trainer of a remarkable mongrel named Mr. Troubles, soon to be seen on the screen with James Cagney and Phyllis Thaxter in the Warner Bros. picture, "Come Fill the Cup," is the authority.

Chambers says Mr. Troubles is too smart for his own good and will have to quit learning new tricks for several months.

"He's taken about as much as he can for his age," Tex said. "If I keep hammering new commands into his little head, he will get nervous and jittery just like some actors do and pretty soon he won't be any good at all."

Jose to Record

Tex thinks Mr. Troubles can claim some sort of record among canine geniuses for having learned 71 commands by the age of four and a half months. He is eight months old now and knows 87 commands, about half of which he will perform in his first movie.

"Right at this point he has learned how to accept knowledge," Tex said. "That's the most important thing. I'm going to let him relax now and make a game out of the commands he knows without giving him any more for a while."

Chambers picked up his dog at the Los Angeles pound when he was only eight weeks old.

"I knew he was a winner," he said.

Blueberry Time Produces Cash in New Jersey

MT. HOLLY, N. J. (UP)—It's blueberry time, and a busy time, in Burlington County this summer.

Old-timers can remember when this southern New Jersey area, the nation's largest source of fresh blueberries, was just a big stretch of barren pine land.

Now the popular berry blooms in thousands of cultivated acres. It brings New Jersey farmers nearly $2,000,000 a year and has increased the value of their once-barren land from $600 to $1,000 an acre.

A U.S. Agriculture Department botanist and a local cranberry grower were responsible for "taming" the wild blueberry bush, which withered and died when offered the care lavished on other cultivated crops.

The botanist, the late Dr. Frederick V. Coville, discovered that the blueberry root bore a minute fungus which furnished nitrogenous food to the bush. After that it became a problem of growing

I CAUGHT a glimpse of the angry face of Mrs. Dalrymple, my next door neighbor, peering through the doorway across from my own.

"It's all right, Mrs. Dalrymple. These men are going." I turned to Nanabarro. "Better run along."

"A grand for the film," repeated Al Nanabarro to Nick Ricardo. Ricardo took it and Nanabarro reached into his pocket and counted out 10 $100 bills. Ricardo removed the film and handed it to Nanabarro and took the bills.

Nanabarro turned to me and I gave him back his gun. "Get this straight, Marshall. That thing at the club happened just as I planned. When I try to kill somebody, I don't miss."

"How about the Fountain Parkway miss?"

"I had no part of that." After he and his pals had gone, I mixed two drinks and handed one to Ricardo, who looked pleasantly surprised. I pulled up a chair and sat opposite him. "Too bad I didn't have the money to bid for the pix."

"What pix?" Ricardo laughed. "Do you think I'd get anything worth printing in this kind of light, even with my lens and fast film?" Nanabarro paid the highest price ever paid for a roll of blank film.

Ricardo had been at the La Jolla Club when Nanabarro had rounded up his little party and the reporter had followed to see what was cooking. He found my front door jimmied and my door unlocked.

"Look here, Marshall, you were in a bad way when I walked in with my little camera! You owe me some cooperation. I don't want to see Tanner run Star out of the law business! Star's the best copy I ever had! What is the low-down on what's going on?"

I gave him a thoughtful look.

would get out of bed to answer a telephone. Then I opened my eyes. The sunlight came reprovingly into the room, and the clock on my stand said 9:30. I got up and answered the phone. It was Sonya.

"I want to see you," she said, "but I've nothing to wear. Clara promised to pick up some clothes at my place during her lunch hour. Can you come over here?"

I couldn't argue that Sonya would look good slinking around in the a. m. with the deep V thing on, so she gave me Clara Maynew's address.

I had a fine time shaving. My face didn't look as bad as I thought it would, but it was plenty sore. My ribs ached, too, where Nanabarro had kicked me. As I started for the garage a window screamed upward and Mr. Shelton, the superintendent, called to me.

"Mr. Marshall," he said, "I've had complaints this morning. Mr. Lessingwell, in the apartment beneath you, wants me to evict you. Mrs. Dalrymple said she saw no less than two women of the looser sort visit you late at night. And Mr. Buscher in 2-C said you put on a regular drunken brawl. I demand an explanation."

"Well, Mr. Shelton, bless your heart, you're certainly entitled to an explanation. First, a lady magician armed with an automatic pistol picked the locks and entered my room surreptitiously where she lay in wait upon my arrival. Whether there would have been bloodshed is problematical, for we were interrupted in our tete-a-tete by a mortician and the employe of a burial vault company. Afterwards a chorus girl tricked me into opening the door and admitting three desperate gunmen. I might have been killed but for the timely arrival of a photographer with a candid camera and the intervention of Mrs. Dalrymple. After all parties had departed I went to bed and had a good night's sleep. And, oh, by the way, Mr. Shelton, the uncouth hoodlums jimmied your front door lock as you will no doubt notice. Just send the bill to me."

the blueberry fungus and locating superior wild bushes to start with.
Paid for Discoveries
Elizabeth White, a cranberry grower, joined Dr. Coville in collecting a stock of good plants to start cultivation of the blueberry. She paid native cranberry pickers $1 for each bush spotted.
I never ceased to wonder," Miss White, now 79 years old, related, "how they led me through pathless thickets and undergrowth, where all the bushes looked alike to me, to the one bush which was producing berries superior to the surrounding plants in the bog."
All cultivated blueberry bushes today are descendants of the best bushes or crosses of the experimental early specimens grown by Dr. Coville and Miss White.
From bogland, worthless and unwanted, southern New Jersey now has a new industry which brings a big cash crop and employs some 3,000 workers during the peak season.

Meat Packers Agree With Wilson's Policy

Commenting on the statement by Defense Mobilizer C. E. Wilson that the abolition of meat slaughtering quotas may lead to extensive black markets, a disruption system, and a concentration of "the supply in the large packers at the expense of independents" the American Meat Institute said:

"We are glad to see that administrative officials associated with price control efforts are becoming concerned about the development of black markets and disruption of distribution. It is high time they did.

"Since early June, when the government's beef compliance order became effective, 95 leading beef-producing plants located throughout the country, which normally handle nearly 60 per cent of the beef produced under Federal inspection, have experienced a sharp decline in volume. This is shown by the fact that while all cattle slaughtering under Federal inspection declined during the period referred to by 19 per cent, the slaughter of the 95 plants declined 37 per cent, and their proportion of the total declined from 58 per cent last year to 45 per cent this year.

"It may or may not be significant that meat slaughtering quotas were in effect during the entire period. The figures showing which slaughterers are losing volume are readily available in the Department of Agriculture or in agencies associated with Mr. Wilson's own office.

"It is clearly apparent from the figures cited that, far from concentrating supplies in the hands of established companies, the actual fact is just the opposite: they have been losing beef volume at an alarming rate.

"In the case of pork, we believe that most companies in the industry lost heavily on their operations during June and July, especially July.

"As we have pointed out repeatedly, experience has proved that livestock and meat controls are unworkable and lead only to the development of a huge black market which benefits no one but illicit operators.

"We respectfully suggest that, instead of trying to saddle the disruption of distribution on others, when their own regulations are to blame, the officials concerned get busy at once to make it possible for honest operators to carry on their normal service to consumers, to maintain their volume, to stay in business, and to earn a reasonable profit. That is not generally the case now."

Life In These United States

From Readers Digest

French Accent

A professor from France was visiting a former colleague at the University of Miami. When a beautiful coed entered the office where they were talking, the Frenchman's eyes lit up with obvious approval. "Ah, lovely, lovely—poor child!" he exclaimed when she had gone.

"Why 'poor child'?" the University of Miami professor asked.

"But to be so young, so beautiful, and not to be in Paris!" was the reply.

A young French physician, serving on the staff of a Chicago hospital, volunteered to teach conversational French to a group of others. One evening he was asked, "Jacques, have you taught the girls 'Je vous aime' yet?"

"Ah, but no, mon ami," he replied. "We save that until last, for, you see, in France when conversation reaches 'Je vous aime'—there is no more conversation."

On His Way!

The lower grades were having a hobby show, and food parents flocked to view their offspring's handiwork. On each child's desk was an exhibit with a brief description of his hobby. There was the usual assortment of postage stamps, dolls, model airplanes, seashells, papermatch folders, etc.

But the entry that attracted the greatest attention was a display of Christmas cards with this note: "My hobby is selling Christmas cards. A box like this one sells for 25 cents, or five for $1. If you order now, I will get them to you three weeks before Christmas. You can put your order in the box on my desk, or telephone me at Wilson 4025. Charles Thompson."

Old Frank, owner of a scrubby farm on which oil had been discovered, was talking to the president of a southern Illinois bank. "I got to get out of this country," he said.

"I can understand that," the banker replied. "With all the money you have now you don't need to live in that old shack with all those coon dogs of yours."

REPLACEMENT—If you wonder who's going to take Dagmar's place on that TV program next fall, it's shapely Barbara Nichols, above, of Las Vegas, Nev., currently appearing at El Rancho Vegas. When she replaces buxom Dagmar, Barbara will be billed as "Agathen."

"Tain't that," said Frank. "I like it fine here. It's the dogs—the smell from all those oil wells is ruinin' their scent. I got to get them out of here or they won't be any good for trackin' coons."

German Expert Aids U. S. With Guided Missiles

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (UP)—Dr. Walter H. Dornberger, a German scientist who played a key role in the development of the Nazi V-2 rocket, now is helping the Bell Aircraft Corporation develop guided missiles.

At the Bell plant he is regarded as the biggest "catch" that U.S. industry has made from the German scientific field. His presence on the Niagara frontier has been little publicized, however.

my fiance and I were taking a midnight stroll in Washington, D. C. As we passed a school playground the sight of the empty swings tempted us. We were swinging gaily away, enjoying the rush of cool air, when a ghostly figure approached. It proved to be a man from a nearby house, clad in pajamas and holding an oil can in his hand. "If you don't mind," he said wearily, "I'd like to oil the swings."

On a flight from Miami to Chicago I sat beside an elderly lady, evidently on her first flight and extremely nervous. About an hour out of Miami we hit some very rough weather. As the plane continued to buck and rock alarmingly, she exclaimed to me, "My what a terrible driver!"

Reds Propose Informal Peace Talks On Line

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA, Aug. 17 (Delayed by Censor) (UP) — United Nations patrols all along the front have been receiving for three days mysterious letters proposing that UN and Chinese Communist front line units arrange an informal armistice themselves while cease-fire talks continue at Kaesong, it was disclosed today.

The letters, ungrammatical and awkwardly composed, have been left in advance of the front lines where UN patrols would find them or have been delivered by Korean farmers who approach the patrols under a white flag.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

THERE is plenty of good food at the right price around and menu-making can be easier than you think. A well fed family is usually easier to get along with.

To begin with, here's a budget main dish with a fist full of protein and it can be prepared in the cool of the morning and cooked later when needed.

Hamburger Lima Bean Pot (8 servings)

One pound dried lima beans, 1 tablespoon prepared mustard, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon chili powder, ½ cup cider vinegar, 1 can condensed tomato soup, 1 pound hamburger, 1 medium onion, chopped, 2 tablespoons cooking fat, ¼ pound bacon.

Soak beans overnight in 6 cups water; cook slowly in same liquid until tender. Add seasonings, cider vinegar, and tomato soup to 1½ cups bean liquid.

Brown meat and onion in cooking fat and add to sauce. Alternate layers of drained beans and meat in a 3-quart casserole. Top with slices of bacon. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 45 minutes.

To that tiresome never-ending question "What shall we have for dinner tonight?" here are a few air-conditioned answers. Prepared for this column by budget wise and family wise Mrs. Frances Foley Gannon of the New York Department of Markets, they will enable you to make the family happy and keep the budget down:

Tomato juice, stuffed breast of veal, mashed potatoes, broccoli, bread, butter or fortified margarine, cherry cup cakes, coffee, milk.

Fried chicken, home fried potatoes, Harvard beets, molded vegetable salad, bread, butter or fortified margarine, raspberry sherbet, coffee, milk.

Luncheon meat with pineapple rings and sweet potatoes, snap beans, sliced tomatoes, bread, butter or fortified margarine, cookies, coffee, milk.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Melon, soft-cooked eggs, cinnamon toast, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Tomato and corn chowder, toasted bacon sandwiches, fresh plums, iced tea, milk.

DINNER: Hamburger lima bean pot, boiled new potatoes, buttered green beans, sliced cucumbers with vinegar and sugar, enriched bread, butter or fortified margarine, blueberry pie, coffee, milk.

New Drugs May Aid Fight Against Malaria

NEW YORK, Aug. 20—Antimalarial research has come up with two new drugs which are promising though still in the testing stage, according to Chemical Week, McGraw-Hill publication. So promising are they that security wraps have been clamped on much of the current investigation.

Primaquine, newest of the quinoline antimalarials, is claimed to be four times as effective as existing drugs. A synthetic, developed by professors Robert C. Elderfield, of Columbia University, and Alving and Schwartz, of Cincinnati University, it proved successful in 32 of the first 33 clinical tests made.

Results of additional tests in malaria-ridden Nicaragua have been kept secret, but it appears that the drug is effective against some of the stubbornest disease-causing parasites, the magazine says. Therapy involves a two-week course of administration with quinine as an accompanying remedy.

The second promising drug comes from the Welcome Research Laboratories. Now being tested in Africa, the new drug's true value has not yet been determined. Preliminary tests indicate its potency is such that a single ounce would constitute a five or ten year supply and cost of treatment would be extremely low. Made from readily organic chemicals, the drug could easily swing into major production.

If you are in a hurry to defrost your gas refrigerator, remove the ice cuts from the trays and fill with hot water.

HOME HINTS

If you plan a breakfast bar in your kitchen, be sure that it is at least 18 inches deep. The length will depend on how many there are in the family.

Young fry who cavort under the lawn sprinkler may get cooled off, but not clean. So make sure they have a proper sudsy scrub-up before tumbling into bed.
