37 MORE DEATHS CAUSED BY HURRICANE IN CARDENAS, MEX.

CARDENAS, Mexico, Aug. 24 (UP)—A flood caused by the killer hurricane "Charlie" left 37 persons dead and missing today in this small railroad town 120 miles west of Tampico.

Mayor Jose Garcia Ramos said the bodies of 23 children and "very old people" already had been recovered he expressed little hope for 14 who are missing.

The known dead here brought the toll exacted by the hurricane to 177 in its five-day 1,300-mile drive through the Caribbean Sea, the Gulf of Mexico and into Mexico.

A 100-foot long earthen dam, soaked by heavy hurricane rains, collapsed yesterday and a 20-foot wall of water washed away more than 200 adobe huts.

A landslide accompanying the flood buried three coaches of a train 12 miles east of Cardenas, but the 200 passengers and crewmen aboard escaped serious injury.

The hurricane, which had cut the port of Tampico off from the outside world for 23 hours, blew itself out against the Sierra Madre Mountains, which cradle Cardenas in the foothills.

Garcia Ramos said some of the flood victims drowned when the water cascaded into their flimsy huts while they were sleeping. Others were knocked flat by the force of the onrushing flood and drowned.

Refugees were taken with what possession they had salvaged into the Sierra Madre Mountains to wait until the high water recedes. Rail lines running across the dam were washed away, halting train service between Tampico and San Luis Potosi. There were other washouts in the foothills, but authorities said working crews were attempting to restore the line.

A relief train was made up at San Luis Potosi and prepared to leave today for Cardenas with medical supplies, doctors and nurses as soon as word arrives that it can get through to the stricken town.

Tampico, 120 miles east of Cardenas, still was without a water supply for its 90,000 residents.

The August meeting of the Association will be held at the Ranger Country Club at 8 p. m., Thursday, Aug. 30th, and the Ranger Chamber of Commerce extends you a special invitation to attend this meeting.

Sam E. Von Rosenberg, Texas representative of the American Dairy Association, will address the meeting and tell of the work of the National Association. He is a very capable and entertaining speaker with a message not only for dairymen, but business and professional men also.

The Country Club road turns North from Highway 80 (or the road to Fort Worth) about two miles East of Ranger. After you turn North, you go about one mile and take the first left hand road where the main road turns to the right. A sign will be found at this turn directing you to the Club.

The Livestock committee of the Chamber of Commerce will serve coffee and doughnuts to the group and we'll be looking for you Thursday night, Aug. 30th.

No Dollar Quotas For Defense Bond Drive Chairman Reports

The "largest possible" total of sales will be the goal of the Defense Bond Drive to be held Sept. 3 through Oct. 27, Nathan Adams of Dallas, state Defense Bond chairman, announced Thursday.

There will be no dollar quotas, Mr. Adams said in a letter to Mr. Cyrus B. Frost, Jr., Defense Bond chairman for Eastland county.

"Instead, Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder has asked us to sell as many defense Bonds as possible, to back up our armed forces and to help resist the pressure of inflation," Mr. Adams said. He urged the local chairman, however, to set for the county a real

United Press Mexico City Bureau and the only wire service correspondent in Tampico during the hurricane, said those who had not caught rainwater in their wash-tubs were drinking beer and soda pop.

City authorities said the water supply would not be restored until flood waters ebb from lower Tampico and reduce the danger of contamination.

During the 23-hour period power and communication blackout of Tampico, residents used candles or lanterns for illumination.

Tampico's rich Poza Rica Oil Fields and installations were spared, but the hurricane's winds tossed two private planes 400 yards. The port's sugar and banana crops were leveled by the winds.

Tamaulipas Gov. Horacio Teran, who was struck by flying debris while inspecting Tampico during the height of the storm, said the city was fortunate in not suffering a large loss of lives.

"I doubt if the official toll in Tampico will rise higher than the three persons we know are dead," Teran said.

Mrs. Nellie Pate Funeral Services Will Be Saturday

Funeral services for Mrs. Nellie Pate will be held at 4 p. m. Saturday at the Hamner Funeral Chapel with Mac Bartee, minister of the Church of Christ in Eastland, conducting.

Burial will be in the Eastland cemetery with Hamner Funeral Directors in charge.

Mrs. Pate died at a Ranger hospital Friday morning. She was born May 24, 1882, in Bell County but had lived in Eastland since she was a child.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. W. B. Duke, Iraan; Mrs. A. M. Hilbourn, Monahan; and Mrs. D. A. Collins, Eastland; one son, C. R. Pate of Hampton, Arkansas; one brother, D. A. Henson, Eastland; two sisters, Mrs. Jim Morton, El Paso; and Mrs. Sam Edwards, Ranger; and nine grandchildren.

Eastland Man In War Games

Corporal Robert U. Jones, camera repairman with the 17th Tactical Reconnaissance Squadron, Shaw Air Force Base, South Carolina, is one of the Air Force men currently engaged in the huge Carolina maneuvers "Operation Southern Pine."

Son of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Jones, 202 N. Ammerman St., Eastland, Corporal Jones was ordered to active duty in January of this year from the Cisco contingent of the Air National Guard.

Corporal Jones' squadron is one of the units assigned to the "Aggressor" in the war games. The "Aggressor" is a fictional enemy nation that has its own uniforms, tactics, politics, etc., and is composed of American units specially trained to give other units—the "Friendly" forces—an intelligent opponent in field exercises. The Operation thus gives air and ground forces a clear insight into actual combat conditions.

Goal "high enough to be a challenge to you and your committee."

"The people want a part in the nation's defense effort," he said. "Right now the most practical way for them to help is for them to buy U. S. Defense Bonds."

Mr. Adams said that volunteers are being organized in every community of the state to conduct intensive campaigns during the drive, which is the first since outbreak of the Korean war more than a year ago. Emphasis will be placed on increasing sales through the payroll savings plan, which permits employees to buy bonds by having deductions made from wages or salaries, and the Bond-A-Month Plan, through which bank customers can buy bonds automatically.

TIME RUNS OUT—Gen. Nam Il, head of the communist delegation to the Korean peace talks, glances at his watch as he prepares to enter a recent conference at Kasong. The gesture proved prophetic as late reports have revealed that time had run out for further negotiations when the communists broke off all further talks claiming an Allied aircraft had bombed the natural area. Col. A. J. Kinney, investigating the charge, claimed the whole incident was a "frame-up." (NEA Telephoto).

Volunteers Sought For Work Tonight On Hospital Eqpt.

Persons who are interested in furnishing some volunteer work for Eastland's memorial hospital are urged to report to the Old Texas Electric Building, next door to the company's present office, to help in re-finishing the hospital equipment recently brought in from Kilgore.

M. H. Perry said that about 20 persons worked on the equipment last night and that a great deal of work has been accomplished.

A larger group is desired tonight so that the equipment will be cleaned and ready for repainting over the weekend.

The Boy Scouts, who have volunteered to do some work, are asked to participate in the clean-up tonight.

Work on the equipment will be done in the building and along the street in front of the building.

It is the aim of the hospital committee to have the equipment ready to be installed by the time construction actually begins on the building.

A large ceremony is planned for the groundbreaking on the project, scheduled to be Monday, September 3.

No Cause Of Death Found

HOUSTON, Aug. 24 (UP)—An elderly man was found injured and dying in a busy Houston street late last night, but not a single witness could be found who might shed light on what happened to him.

Neither were there indications, police said, that he was struck by an automobile on the heavily-traveled street, although there was a one-and-one-half-inch gash on his cheek and a cut on the back of his head.

Officers identified the slightly-built, gray-haired man as Marcus Johnson, 66, believed to be a side walk pencil peddler. He died with out regaining consciousness and an autopsy was ordered.

Advance Payment On Water Meters Nearing $3000

Advance payments on the special water meter assessment have climbed to $2883, I. C. Heck, city manager, has announced.

Those who have made recent payments include Wayne Caton, $12; Cecil C. Collins, $36; Mrs. Jim Taylor, $5; J. W. Williams, $9; R. L. Rust, $36; Mrs. Buda Butler, $72; J. J. Beggs, $20; F. H. Toombs, $12; Toombs Richardson, $12; T. E. Richardson, $12.

Heck said that it is believed that enough other advance payments will come in to make the total at least $3,000.

City Employees Still On Strike

GALVESTON, Aug. 24 (UP)—Garbage cans heaped higher and higher today as two-thirds of Galveston's municipal employees remained on strike for the third day.

More than 400 members of the state, county and municipal employees union left their jobs Wednesday in support of demands for pay increases averaging $30 monthly.

The city offered $20 additional for salaries employees and an additional 10 cents an hour for hourly workers.

Irate housewives telephoned complaints of garbage piling up. They were told to haul it to the city dump since no truck drivers were available for the job.

A DDT fogging machine circulated through the city to guard health. It was manned by supervisory personnel.

Public works department employees refused to turn on street lights again last night. Three extra police squads patrolled the dark streets.

The only services not cut by the strike were the police and fire departments.

Police Commissioner Ambrose Lukovich said the strikers were orderly.

Fire Injures Fire Captain

HOUSTON, Aug. 24 (UP)—A $12,000 pre-dawn flash fire seriously injured a fire captain and within an hour completely destroyed a combination drive-in, grocery store, ice house, lounge and outdoor dance pavilion.

Capt. W. J. McAlphine was treated at a hospital for serious neck burns after melted asphalt from the roof of the blazing wooden structure poured onto his neck.

A 13-year-old girl, Bertie Everett, who lives with her parents in a small cabin back of the drive-in, discovered the fire shortly before 4 a. m. today.

Baylor Honors 15000th Grad

WACO, Aug. 24 (UP)—Henry Allen Coe, Jr., of Kohnize, Tex., was honored today as the 15,000th graduate from 106-year-old Baylor University.

Coe, 26-year-old law student and part-time bronze buster, became the 15,000th graduate in summer ceremonies last night, and came as a surprise to the Army veteran who is married and is currently president of the Baylor Rodeo Club.

The summer class boosted the total of degrees awarded to 15,150, but the no. 15,000 went to Coe.

UN Planes Bomb Red Supply Point

US Soldiers Among Injured In Collision

SANRY-SURNIED, France, Aug. 24 (UP)—A speeding express train crashed into the rear of the stopped Frankfurt-Paris train here today, killing at least 12 persons, including two American soldiers, and injuring 40 others.

Eleven American soldiers, the wife of an American serviceman and an American school teacher in Germany were among the injured. The servicemen, stationed in Europe, were on their way to Paris on leave.

Two bodies were pinned under the wreckage and one was possibly that of an American soldier.

Four injured Americans were taken to the Metz Military Hospital, 12 miles west of here. They were identified by hospital authorities as:

Pvt. John Triant, Sgt. Fred Grant and his wife, Lillie, and Pvt. Samuel Gerald.

Hospital authorities did not know where the American were stationed in Germany and their home towns were not immediately available.

The crash occurred when the engineer of the Frankfurt-Paris train halted because he thought track signals were not working.

Realizing the other train, bound from Basel to Calais, was only minutes behind, the train crew rushed to set out warning signals.

They were too late. The second train smashed into the stationary Paris-bound train at more than 60 miles an hour. A postal car at the end of the Paris train was demolished.

Ex-Congressman Comments On Tideland Bill

AUSTIN, Aug. 24 (UP)—Former congressman Ed Gossett has expressed "disappointment" in a pessimistic view of the tidelands situation taken by Land Commissioner Bascom Giles.

Giles was quoted in Washington Wednesday as saying "the tidelands legislation is in bad shape." He expressed belief a house-approved bill giving to the oil-rich lands has little chance of Senate enactment.

Gossett, who resigned his congressional post recently to join Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, said yesterday "I do not agree with his (Giles') pessimism. Nothing is ever settled until it is settled right. Texans should stop talking about compromise."

Texans To Send Relief To Asia

FORT WORTH, Aug. 24 (UP)—Despite the drought, West Texas farmers were expected today to be able to fill their quota of 40,000 bushels of wheat for the Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP).

Rev. Walter O. Parr, Texas regional supervisor from CROP, expressed optimism at a state board meeting here yesterday.

Texas' contribution this year has been estimated at $220,000 worth of commodities contributed by farmers, compared with $65,000 last year.

The gifts will be put aboard a "Texas friendship and fiber ship" to be dedicated Nov. 30 in Houston. It will be sent to Asia.

Attorney General Rules On Housing

AUSTIN, Aug. 24 (UP)—A military housing project to be privately constructed at Carswell Air Force Base, Fort Worth, will be subject to state and local taxes unless Texas gives the land to the government, Attorney General Price Daniel ruled yesterday.

The opinion was requested by Stewart W. Hellman, District Attorney of Tarrant County.

Large Crowd At Farm Bureau Annual Picnic

One hundred guests and members of the Eastland County Farm Bureau were present for the picnic and program Thursday evening at the Eastland Park.

The membership in the local farm bureau is now between 150 and 175 and the organization has accepted a quota for next year for 325 members.

A. Z. Myrick of Cisco is president; Howard Ingram, Nimrod, vice-president; Jo Bob Browning of Gorman, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. John Love, Rt. 1, Ranger, service agent and Mrs. Jo Bob Browning, reporter. There were twelve directors present at the meeting.

Raymond McElrath of Coleman is District 7 director and Bob Lilly of Zephyr is field representative of 38 counties.

The group gathered at the park at 7 o'clock and as each one came on the grounds they were divided into groups by a very attractive ice breaker game that made it possible for everyone to get acquainted quickly. After several games, the lunch was served. Everyone brought a picnic basket and the Bureau furnished drinks, ice cream and paper plates.

Rev. Massegue of Ranger returned the blessing before every- one partook of the bountiful meal.

After the lunch, Laker Palmer of Gorman led the group in a good lively sing-song beginning with "What a Friend we Have in Jesus" and continuing with "The More We Get To Gether", "Old Gray Bonnet" and etc. A group of young people from Cisco sang "On Top of Old Smoky."

Mr. Myrick introduced a number of visitors including Judge L. R. Pearson of Ranger, Mr. and Mrs. Overshine and Mr. and Mrs. Grinnen of Comanche.

After Raymond McElrath talked on enlargement within the organization, Mr. Myrick introduced the speaker of the evening, M. P. Howell, area service supervisor of Abilene who explained some of the benefits deriving from being a member of the Farm Bureau.

He stressed the fact that Eastland County was soon to have an office with a full time worker to help care for the needs and problems arising among the farmers and ranchers in this county. He also explained some of the "Drivers Financial Responsibility Law." The Farm Bureau is designated as the "Voice of Agriculture."

Flatwood Meet Is In Progress

Good attendance has been reported at a gospel meeting at the Church of Christ in Flatwood which began August 20.

Sunday, August 26, a picnic lunch will be spread after services. The meeting is to close Aug. 29.

FHA Aims To Help Farmers Improve Efficiency Of Land

Helping family farmers make needed improvements to bring their farms to maximum efficiency and produce the food, feed and fiber that is needed for national defense, is the major aim of the Farmers Home Administration in Eastland County.

The operating loan program helps farmers to obtain the livestock, equipment, fertilizer, and other items needed to increase production. Its object is to assist families to become firmly established in carrying on sound and efficient farming systems.

The real estate program makes farms more productive by providing funds for land clearing, drainage, fencing, permanent seedings, or the construction or repair of necessary farm buildings.

Supervision in working out farm and home plans that make full use of the family's land and labor resources accompanies the loan.

In each county a committee of local farmers gives direction to

ALLIED PLANES LEAVE FERRY CROSSING SCENE OF RUIN

By Robert C. Miller
United Press Staff Correspondent

8TH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Aug. 24 (UP)—Powerful fleets of United Nations planes destroyed or damaged 137 Communist trucks, 28 barges, an underwater bridge and huge amounts of supplies today in three savage attacks on Communist reinforcement convoys.

A total of 116 planes, mostly Jets, caught the Communist at a bottleneck ferry crossing on the Chongchon River in northwest Korea. Striking into the attack from every side, the Allied planes left the entire area a mass of burning trucks, barges and supply dumps. Only a handful of the Red vehicles escaped. Some drivers, trying desperately to get away, crashed headlong into each other and wrecked their trucks.

A loading ramp and a crane used to load the barges were destroyed along with the vehicles.

In heavy ground fighting, South Korean troops battled grimly to recapture three hills from which they had been thrown by Communist counter-attacks during the night.

They retook one hill in a 5 1-2 hour battle and at last report still were attacking the other two with UN plane support.

Vengeful South Korean infantrymen jumped off at dawn against North Koreans who had driven them from newly-captured hills on the east-central and eastern fronts only a few hours earlier.

Two of the hills were on "bloody ridge," so-called because of the heavy casualties inflicted on the Reds by the South Koreans in their original capture of the heights earlier this week.

The ridge lies north of Yanggu, eight miles above the 38th Parallel at the eastern end of the Hwachon Reservoir.

The Communists launched their first assault at 9:30 p. m. (7:30 a. m. EDT) Thursday and drove the South Koreans from the crest an hour and a half later.

The North Koreans struck at the second hill at 10:30 p. m. (8:30 a. m. EDT) and took the summit within an hour.

Further east, a determined North Korean counter-attack at 9 p. m. (7 a. m. EDT) knocked the South Koreans from a dominating height west of Kansong, east coast town 27 miles North of the 38th Parallel.

The Communists also launched two probing attacks south of Kumsong on the central front, but both were repulsed.

Twenty-four American shooting stars disrupted the Communist attempt to ferry supplies across the Chonchon River, which was swollen by rains accompanying the typhoon surge.

More flights of fighter-bombers were ordered to the scene, just above Anju, to finish the job. The Chonchon lies astride the main Communist supply route from Manchuria.

The typhoon brought high winds, rain and fog to Korea Thursday, but skies had cleared again by Friday morning and allied air fleets were out again in strength.

Eight B-29 Superfortresses flew through the storm Thursday to drop 55 tons of 100-pound bombs on Communist supply bases near Chinnampo, northwest coast port for Pyongyang, the Communist capital.

The U.S. Navy's twin-jet Banshee fighters made their first appearance over Korea Thursday. During a brief break in the weather, they hit Communist transportation routes in northeast Korea.

The county supervisor or members of the county committee will be glad to give additional information regarding loans, or arrange for trips to see some of the work being done. Applications are made at the county office, 209 Petroleum Building, Eastland. George I. Lane is county supervisor.

KILLER'S PACE

BY JULIUS LONG

COPYRIGHT 1951 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

CLARA MAYHEW lived in a south side duplex. Sonya let me in as soon as I rang. She had abandoned the slinky gown and was wearing one of her hostess's wraps. I greeted her and after some preliminary conversation I got around to some questions. I suggested that Barney Bidault's death might have been connected somehow with Frannie Martin's death.

She let it out that Barney was interested in Frannie before he met Rose and then asked: "What about Larry Stone? He was interested in her too." I might have connected them myself. She stamped out her cigarette and bit her lip. She said: "There's a confession floating around somewhere. Al Nanabarro must think you have it—otherwise he wouldn't have come out in the open with his hoods to call on you last night."

"A confession? As to who killed Barney Bidault?" She shot an impatient glance at me. "Don't be absurd. A confession about the death of Frannie Martin, of course. That's what Rod LaGrange was looking for when you walked in on him at the Bidault house!"

I remembered the rifled desk. Sonya went on. "Al Nanabarro told me that there was a confession about Frannie's death and that Barney Bidault had it on him the night of his murder."

I whistled. "And Al didn't say how he knew that?" "No. But he was positive that Rose had the confession. That's why I rigged up the trick with the gun to save her and get her out of jail."

I scoffed. "You spin a fine yarn, Sonya. Then why did you tip off Nick Ricardo as to what good pictures he could take?"

Sonya stiffened, then she got up slowly.

"This is the second time you've accused me of double-crossing Star. Last night I let it go by because I didn't want to waste time trying to convince you of something I couldn't convince you of anyway! But now I'm telling you straight—I had nothing to do with those pictures!" I laughed wryly. "Ricardo's already told me it was you who called him!"

SONYA'S face was crimson now. But her brow was furrowed in thought. She mused aloud: "Only I could have tipped him off!"

"That's right. Only you." I let her light her cigarette. She took a couple of drags, brow still furrowed and then stamped out the cigarette with an air of finality.

"That bartender! The man who brought the bottle! I remember now! While we were waiting I decided to run through the trick once more. We were talking about it. Then the bartender with the drinks rapped on the door. I remember now that neither one of us had heard him come up!"

By the time she had finished talking, my mouth was hanging open. Nick Ricardo had taken me for a beautiful ride, palming off Sonya as the squealer, knowing I was sold on the idea anyway. He'd protected his source, all right—that lousy Pete Crummit!

"So you believe me now!" Sonya was eying me with the old cold look. The phone rang. She answered it. After she finished she told me: "Clara, calling from the Prater office. There was a burglary there last night. Everything's in an uproar, she says, with police all over the place. A night watchman almost caught the burglar but got knocked out. She can't get my clothes, so I'll have to borrow a dress from her. Would you mind waiting till I dress, and then driving me home?"

I did not mind. She dressed in a few minutes and looked as if Clara's clothes had been made for her. The two girls were about the same size and I decided Sonya would look snazzy in a yellow bathing suit, too.

I LEFT Sonya at the Strand Hotel, and then I drove right around the corner and stopped in front of the Court Bar.

There were a few stragglers present, and the only bartender on the job was an ancient character called "Pops."

"Morning, Pops. Where's Crummit?" The old man frowned. "He's takin' the day off. He's just got some money burning a hole in his pants pocket. He hit a long-shot at the track yesterday."

At the corner I bought a paper. I was there big as life, with an old rogues' gallery picture of Theodore Delaney, also known as Trigger Delaney.

The Fifth Street First National caper was recalled, and it was stated that Rod LaGrange, leader of the gang, was the man I had shot, previously. A by-line story by Max Feldstein quoted "well-informed sources" as saying that the shooting "was believed to be a reprisal for my killing LaGrange."

Max Feldstein rated another front-page by-line, the story of Rose Bidault's "death-bed" version of the truth about who killed old Barney. Of course the version called was only sketchy, but Max was clever enough to make much of it. The yarn was worked in with the disbarment story, also front page.

It was a good story, and I knew Star would appreciate it. I folded the paper and capitulated to my stomach, eating a whale of a breakfast. Breakfast finished, I drove to the office. Kitty Coyle said:

"Go right in, Hero. He's waiting for you."

She wore an odd look which I did not understand till I opened the door and beheld Star. (To Be Continued)

STAR WILLIAMS had a pack of some kind on his left eye and I could see by the skin around the edges that he had a beautiful shiner. He looked up and growled "You better read over the World Wide reports." He handed them to me. "Paul Waltz is coming in shortly."

The first item concerned Carl Prater's movements. He had visited Dave Grafton's office and had later followed him to a restaurant where his dinner companion had been J. J. McNamara, the criminal lawyer. Afterwards Prater had gone to police headquarters, left after about five minutes and gone to a movie. He returned to headquarters afterwards and remained there till I showed up.

The second report was on Frankie Martin, nee Abigail Grunch, 24. There were measurements which all added up meant she was a slim blonde of medium height. She had a brother, Nathaniel Grunch, a barber in Columbus, Ohio, and a sister Mabel.

"Frankie Martin was murdered," I told Star. "There's a confession floating around, Sonya says."

"At least there was one," Star's smile broadened, till he winced from pain from his shiner. "While we're waiting for Waltz, here are the names of two business partners in Valleyville, upstate. I want you to interview these men—ask them if they ever knew a chorus girl named Frankie Martin. They'll answer 'No.'"

The names on the paper were David D. Brayton and George Esplin.

"If you know the answer, why send me 100 miles to ask the question?"

"Never mind why. It's a very important assignment."

About all that resulted from Paul Waltz's visit was a decision to take the tail of Carl Prater. It had paid dividends in showing that Prater lied about driving around after he saw me at the Bidault place after the LaGrange shooting, but Star said it was no longer necessary. Then Star gave me expense money for the trip to Valleyville.

As I started to go, I said: "This wild goose chase is your idea, not mine. If you never find out who killed Barney Bidault, don't blame me."

Star's brows lifted in some astonishment. "I've found out who killed old Barney, all right. Now hurry to Valleyville and maybe you'll be back in time for the arrest."

MR. BRAYTON and Mr. Esplin ran a funeral parlor in Valleyville. Mr. Brayton acted as if he were going to drop dead and Mr. Esplin was cool, but neither had ever heard of a La Jolla Club chorus girl named Frankie Martin.

Then I stopped at a florist shop and spent 20 bucks of my expense money for flowers for a character named Jeff Wingfield, who was lying in state at the parlor. I had Star Williams' name put on the card.

I drove 80 miles homeward without a beer, but enough is enough. It was 5:30, and I'd made good time when I pulled off at a wayside bar. My coat was off by then, as well as my shoes. I pulled on the latter, but the coat was too much. As I reached down to tie my shoes I saw the 389 in his holster. As an afterthought I removed the gun and stuck it into my trouser pocket. It wouldn't go all the way in till I stood up out of the car. I transferred my wallet from my inside coat pocket to my hip pocket and went in for that long overdue beer.

It was a cheery, cool place, with a cute barmaid. I had just finished my beer and my eyes fell on a copy of an afternoon paper lying upon the bar.

The banner headline said a warrant for Star's arrest had been issued on a charge of tampering with state's evidence and procuring a verdict by fraud.

My picture also was in the paper, and the Fountain Parkway shooting was treated separately from the news about Star. I also noticed a small item about an attempted burglary at the office of the Prater company. The watchman had been knocked unconscious several minutes but apparently nothing was missing.

"I swung and caught him a good one in the eye," said the watchman, Mervyle M. Sprague, 61, "then he hit me with a blackjack." He said he could identify his attacker, although the light was bad.

I HAD a good laugh. I wondered if Star Williams really had used a blackjack. At least I knew where he had gotten his shiner.

"Who ya laughin' at, buddy?" The character, a newcomer, was on a bar stool a few feet away.

"The funny papers, pal. You mind?"

"Yeah, I mind!" The character moved drunkenly toward me. He was medium-sized, but hard-looking.

The cute barmaid said: "No trouble, mister. Go on back and sit down!"

"Nobody laughs at me! I'm gonna show this punk a lesson!"

I saw that he wasn't just talking. I slipped off my stool just in time. The character almost caught me with his first one, for it came with a professional speed I hadn't counted on. I knew then it was no drunk pitching punches at me, and I knew I was in for something really serious. I heard a movement behind me and then I edged out, away from the bar grabbing my empty bottle as I did so. I was just in time.

I recognized at once the man who had come in back of me. It was the man who had driven the truck in Fountain Parkway and who had visited my apartment with McNamara and company the night before.

All Aboard Are Believed Dead In Plane Crash

OAKLAND, Calif., Aug. 24 (UP)—A United Air Lines DC-6B crashed and burned in a mountain canyon 20 miles south of here before dawn today and the sheriff's office said all 47 persons aboard the huge plane, first of its kind to crash, apparently had perished.

The airliner was bound for San Francisco from Boston. It had made stops at Hartford, Cleveland and Chicago and was due to land at Oakland before setting down at San Francisco.

The ship carried 42 passengers and a crew of five, United said. The sheriff's office sent out an emergency call for ambulances, stretchers and trucks with cables to help remove the bodies.

An hour and a half after the crash was reported at 5:30 a.m. (PDDT), the sheriff's office said seven bodies had been removed from the wreckage.

When the plane first crashed, the flames were so intense that deputies could not approach. Later, the flames died down and they could see wreckage strewn over the area.

"There are lots more bodies down in the canyon," Deputies radioed. "We're trying to get them out."

The plane was due to land at San Francisco at 6 a.m. PDA. The crash took place about 5:30 a.m.
