PRICE FIVE CENTS

Around The Square

By Mack

The rain came and the wind blew, and Eastland county residents are happy. We suppose the price of shave will go down, as faces won't be so long, and the barber won't have so much brushy territory to cover. People who have been drinking milk or beer can now go back to a water diet, even though it may be a little muddy. King Motor Company may also find the rain a blessing as they may be able to eliminate water hauling for car washing. Seems this particular company has been washing cars with water hauled from Cisco in a tank truck.

The motor company could not get very rich washing cars for a dollar fifty when the water itself cost that much delivered. Just a matter of taking care of their customers, maybe. People who left their cars outside Monday night got them washed free. The hail may have given them a kind of ripple finish, but if all cars are like ours the little dents won't be noticed—it's the big ones that worry us, and hail didn't put them there.

Most people today have been asking about the lake. How much did it catch, etc. We tried to be truthful, by telling them their guess was as good as ours, but this answer did not satisfy. Local Solomons have been giving cut figures all day. The lake is reported to have caught as little as one inch by a conservative, and as much as three feet by an optimist. Both are wrong. Our rainfall was almost two inches, so it stands to reason that the lake caught that much at least. The three guys must have been drinking something stronger than water. He should quit the Optimist Club and join the Liars' Association of America. As a matter of fact, we have learned from a rather reliable source that the lake caught slightly more than 12 inches of water. We don't know whether the measurement was taken while the hogs were bathing or at a time when they were out dodging hail stones. Doesn't make much difference, one way or the other, for the flavor is still there.

But don't be alarmed. There is nothing to worry about. We don't have to drink this raw water. It is gassed, strained and settled before it is piped out for human consumption. Not a microbe is left, and if by accident you imagine you smell a kind of porky order, just remember it is purely coincidental—has nothing to do with this case, whatsoever. Go on and drink your water while you have it. We have drouths in this country sometimes, and when we do they are the very driest type.

Fall is really here. Early today the thermometer stood at 40 degrees—just eight degrees above freezing. So we slipped on a top coat and grabbed our old pipe (we smoke it in cold weather) and fired it up. Really this is the most beautiful season of the year. Just wait until we get a little frost and the ripening season will have been completed. Even the leaves will turn to gold or maybe red and the whole country will take on an appearance similar to that of the gem studded temple. Then comes winter with all its quietness. Sparkling snow flakes will greet us, and as we sit by the cozy fire, warm and happy, we understand why God is good and that America with all its love and freedom, is worth fighting for. Yes, my friend, America to us is a kind of second heaven, a place where we prepare for the real heaven, eternal in the skies.

Lightning Pulls Nails From Room

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 24 (UP)—Lightning struck only once at Capt. J. E. Bassett's home here yesterday, but it hit so hard it yanked all the nails out of the living room wall. Bassett said the bolt smashed a full length mirror as his wife stood before it and knocked a hole in the wall "big enough for a man to crawl through." Bassett suffered a cut on the chin, and his wife was treated for shock at Brook Army Hospital.

New Canal Incidents Occur; Egypt Orders Rioting Ended

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 24 (UP)—Reliable sources said Egyptian coastal batteries opened fire today on an Israeli patrol vessel near Egyptian-occupied Gaza in southern Palestine and forced it to withdraw.

The shooting erupted about 125 miles northeast of the tense Suez Canal Zone and brought new anxiety to the troubled middle east.

The sources said Egyptian coastal guns blasted forth when the Israeli coastal patrol entered Egyptian territorial waters.

In Cairo, the Egyptian government banned all anti-British demonstrations throughout the land today and threatened drastic penalties for any recurrence of the bloody battles yesterday between demonstrators and police.

At the same time, the Egyptian government ordered its officials in the Suez Canal Zone to follow a program of rigid non-cooperation with the British forces there. The order was issued in defiance of a British threat to invoke "severe measures" against striking Egyptian workers.

The Port of Suez, southern gateway to the Canal, has been partly crippled by the walkout of Egyptian dock workers. In addition, Egyptian canal pilots have paralyzed ship movements at the port by refusing to guide vessels with British military equipment.

In Cairo, Alexandria, and other centers, police were ordered to deal ruthlessly with any efforts to disturb law and order, informed sources said. Authorities took rigid precautions to prevent a repetition of yesterday's clashes in which police employed bullets, tear gas and clubs against nationalist demonstrators.

The worst riot occurred in Alexandria where one demonstrator was killed and four injured after police drove back a stone-throwing crowd with clubs and shots. One police officer and several policemen were reported injured.

Interior Minister Fuad Serag El-Din Pasha denounced the anti-British demonstrations last night and threatened stern reprisals.

"These traitors of their own country do not deserve the pity of the people and the government," he said. Serag El-Din said the government will not hesitate to use "the severest measures" hereafter to repress unruly elements.

Davis-Maxey Drug Store Robbed Tuesday Night

The Davis-Maxey Drug Store at 114 Commerce Street in Eastland was robbed last night, with early estimates putting the loss from three to four hundred dollars.

Heaviest loss will be from the electrical appliances taken by the burglars from the drug company. "Doc" Davis, co-owner of the establishment, said the thieves took a large percentage of the irons, clocks and other appliances, along with the entire stock of Ronson lighters. Some cash was taken from the cash drawer at the soda fountain.

The police reported that at their ten o'clock check of the doors at the drug store everything was in order and locked. At a later check at eleven o'clock the store was found open and the place burglarized. The usual closing hour for the store is 9:00 p.m.

Houston Part Of MacArthur Trip Here Is Paid

HOUSTON, Oct. 24 (UP)—A week-long session of bickering over who would pay for Gen. Douglas MacArthur's visit to Texas last June was over today.

Oil millionaire Glenn McCarthy, who first said he didn't intend to be "stuck" with the $8,500 bill, kicked in $2,500. Added to $1,000 sent by an anonymous donor, this will pay for Houston's part in the festivities.

McCarthy first refused to comment on an early offer by H. R. Cullen, another Houston oil man, to pay the $5,000 fee charged by Eastern Airlines for hauling the MacArthur family to Texas. In a statement released yesterday, however, McCarthy said Cullen's money would be accepted.

Truce Talks Will Resume Thursday

Resumption of the talks at 11 a.m. tomorrow (9 p.m. today EST) was announced today following Communist ratification of the conference "ground rules."

Less than an hour later, U. S. troops arrived in a 22-vehicle convoy. The Americans installed a wooden floor, heat and lights in the Communist-erected conference tents and threw up six additional tents to house, feed and guard the United Nations delegation while 25 North Korean and Chinese onlookers gulped at their speed.

Even while the work progressed, U. S. Lt. Col. Norman B. Edwards of Diamond, W. Va., and North Korean Col. Lee Pyong Il met in the conference tent to arrange the mechanics of joint policing the 1,000-yard radius neutral zone around the tent.

One disagreement arose, and final decision was left to the full truce delegations. The UN wanted two UN military police guards stationed at the entrance to the conference tent. The Communists said the guards should be 100 yards from the tent.

First business on the conference agenda Thursday will be the location of a cease-fire line and buffer zone across Korea—the same problem that deadlocked 22 consecutive meetings before the truce talks were suspended Aug. 23—two months and two days ago.

Little Items Of Local Interest

Guy Warden was in Dallas last week showing his steer, Major, at the state fair. The calf was sold Saturday morning to Swift & Co., for forty-seven cents a pound. He weighed 1,075 pounds and brought $505.25. Guy says he had a very educational and enjoyable trip.

Leslie A. Hagaman of near Ranger, prominent Eastland county livestock grower spent several hours in this city Tuesday. He reports a good rain in his section of the county, though it was accompanied by very high wind. Oak trees up to eight or ten inches in diameter were snapped off near the ground, he says.

J. V. Harbin, prominent farmer who resides three miles south of town, was a business visitor here Tuesday. Mr. Harbin is caring for a nice herd of cattle at this time, and was seeking information from the county agent about feed. He will plant a field of rye for winter pasturage, and will supplement this with ground corn. Mr. Harbin is no new comer. He is 68 years old and is living right now in less than a mile from where was born.

R. T. Ezzell, cotton farmer of the Rising Star community, spent a few hours in Eastland Tuesday, shaking hands with old friends and waiting for it to get dry enough to plant a patch of rye for winter pasturage. Last year Mr. Ezzell was champion cotton grower in the county, but he is not doing any boasting at this time. He has 80 acres in cotton this year, and despite the poor season, says he will make about a quarter of a bale to the acre.

Truce Talks Will Resume Thursday

The Communists want the line to be along the 38th Parallel, pre-war frontier between North and South Korea. The UN command says the line must be along the present battlefield, at some places 45 miles north of the parallel.

Rat Campaign To Get Underway

Warfarin, new rat control bait to be used in the rural rat control campaign by the Eastland County Farm Bureau next month was discovered by the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation Madison, Wisconsin and has proven highly effective against the rodents, officials of the organization announced.

The countrywide rat campaign is expected to get underway shortly after Nov. 6 when the farm organization holds its annual county convention in Eastland. Further plans are expected to be developed there when the names and places of the demonstrators will be picked at that time.

Bob Wilson, Ft. Worth of the Rodent Control Service or some other representative is expected to be present to help further the plans along.

A large number of demonstrations will be held on different farms in the various communities over the county. At these demonstrations a member of the Farm Bureau will accept orders for the poison bait. The bait will be sold at cost, $30 per pound. It is already mixed up ready to be put out.

It is necessary for the rats and mice to eat the ready mixed Warfarin bait for from three to five time in a period of a week for it to be effective. To eat it one time will not be effective. Farm Bureau officials said. Once they eat the necessary accumulated amount of the material they begin to hemorrhage. Once the bleeding starts it does not stop until death.

Because of the very nature of the poison it is the least dangerous of any of the rodent poisons to the humans and to animals.

Records show that fresh forest fires break out on an average of one every three minutes, day and night, the year around.

Shivers Against Federal Aid To Texas Cities

MINERAL WELLS, Oct. 24 (UP)—The "growing tendency to look toward Washington for financial assistance" can destroy the element of responsibility in local government, Gov. Allan Shivers said last night.

Speaking at the League of Municipalities banquet here, Shivers told the city officials they must have "the courage to tax and spend in their respective fields as obligations warrant and resources permit."

The final meeting of the group was attended by 574 city officials from 538 incorporated towns.

Shivers said that if Texas cities are to stay in the black, financially, "it may be necessary to create new fields of taxation, or for the state to abandon some present fields to the municipalities."

Shivers said that while the state has offered no new sources of revenue "it has imposed some additional burdens by setting higher pay scales for firemen and policemen."

The "basic problem" of cities, he went on, "is revenue." Shivers called on the federal government to abandon the gasoline tax and "let us raise our own money and build our own roads."

Cities, he added, should not look to the state for aid in financing local roads and streets.

Eastland County Farm Bureau Sets Meeting Nov. 6

The directors of the Eastland County Farm Bureau met Oct. 18 in the Texas Electric Rec. room in Eastland. Plans were made for the County Convention which will be Nov. 6. Directors for the coming year will be elected and voting delegates elected to represent Eastland County at the State Convention which will be held in Houston Nov. 19, 20, and 21.

Luther Cunningham, John Lowe, Joe Bob Browning, and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Freeman were appointed to serve as the resolutions committee. Anyone having any suggestions on any phase of agriculture which they are not pleased with get in touch with any member of this committee before Nov. 6. They will be presented at the County Convention and voted on by all Farm Bureau members attending. The resolutions that are passed here will be presented at the State Convention.

We urge every one to send their resolutions to this committee and plan to attend the County Convention Nov. 6 in Eastland.

Examinations are scheduled at Abilene, Amarillo, Corpus Christi, Dallas, El Paso, Houston, San Antonio and Shreveport, La. About 1,800 men are to be processed on Nov. 5, 13, 26 and 27, with the rest due for examination Dec. 6, 7, 13 and 14.

Married Men To Get Draft Call

AUSTIN, Oct. 24 (UP)—State selective service headquarters began mailing orders today for physical examinations of 3,600 draft eligible men, including childless husbands, to local boards.

Brig. Gen Paul L. Wakefield, state director, said childless married men will be affected "principally" by the orders, which are designed to bring registrants in that classification to examiners "as early as possible."

Examinations are scheduled at Abilene, Amarillo, Corpus Christi, Dallas, El Paso, Houston, San Antonio and Shreveport, La. About 1,800 men are to be processed on Nov. 5, 13, 26 and 27, with the rest due for examination Dec. 6, 7, 13 and 14.

Hospital's 260 Patients Are Moved From Burning Building

By Carter Jefferson and W. J. MacGlosson
United Press Staff Correspondents
DALLAS, Oct. 24 (UP)—Heroic Nuns and nurses shepherded 260 patients out of St. Paul's Hospital today as a five-alarm fire burst through the roof and threatened to send it crashing down on them.

The blaze was discovered at 12:27 a.m. and was extinguished an hour and 26 minutes later. It roared through the roof of the five-story brick building as members of the hospital carried and guided the patients out into 50-degree weather to await removal to other institutions.

Patients who underwent surgery less than 24 hours before the blaze walked down as many as three flights of stairs. A mother whose baby was born yesterday dashed to the nursery and carried her child out in her arms.

A child was born in the nurses' home five minutes after the mother was evacuated.

DALLAS, Oct. 24 (UP)—An 8 1/2 pound daughter was born to a Dallas couple minutes before a five-alarm fire broke out early today at St. Paul's hospital here. The parents name, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Lucky. Mother and baby were safely evacuated to another hospital along with 258 other patients.

Nuns under the direction of Sister Alberta, Mother Superior of the Order of Daughters of Charity, and student nurses called from their beds, removed mothers and babies first.

The 30 infants were taken to the nearby nurses home and "assigned" to nurses for care.

The fire, believed to have resulted from defective electrical wiring, broke out in the fifth floor quarters of the Nuns.

Sister Alberta said she awoke to see the ceiling of the room "spluttering and then it and a wall broke into flame. It spread quickly through the dormitory."

Every ambulance in Dallas, dozens of police and sheriff's department cars, countless taxicabs and a city bus were used in the evacuation.

Sixty-two patients were taken to Baylor Hospital four blocks away; 30 were received at Parkland Hospital; four were taken to Methodist Hospital, and patients not seriously ill were taken home by relatives.

Fire Chief C. N. Penn said the blaze caused about $125,000 damage before it was extinguished at 1:57 a.m.

One patient, a 75-year-old woman critically ill with cancer, was the only sick person not removed from the hospital. She was carried on a stretcher to a ground floor office. There a Priest administered final rites of the Catholic Church while firemen rushed hose and other equipment through the office.

Quilts and blankets were brought from nearby homes to keep the patients warm until their turn came in the ambulance run to other institutions.

Many of the patients were in shock, and moaned as they were moved about by relatives or spectators aiding nurses assigned to the street.

Mrs. Anna May Farmer, suffering from an injured leg, said "everybody was calm, and there certainly was a lot of heroic work."

She said the blaze seemed to have started just above the maternity ward, and the 30 babies in the nursery were directly under a part of the fire.

Joseph K. Lane, St. Paul's personnel director, said "it took little more than 15 minutes to evacuate all the patients."

Many were first taken to abandoned Baylor Dental College building, across the street. But they were moved again in a half-hour, because the run-down building had no heat. Temporary wards were set up in the basement of the Pediatrics building and in a vacant former nurses home.

Dancer Here Will Make King Forget Egyptian Dancer

HOUSTON, Oct. 24 (UP)—Treasure chest dancer Evelyn West said today if Sheppard W. (Abdullah) King III sees her shimmy dance he'll forget about exotic Samia Gama! faster than you can say "Abdullah."

In fact, Miss West whose chest is insured for $50,000 said she had invited King to see her perform at the Pasadena Fair and Rodeo where she is appearing.

"I can out-shake and out-shimmy Samia anytime," she added.

Tennessee Rated Top Team Of The Nation By UP

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (UP)—Power-packed Tennessee, scourge of the South, replaced California as the nation's No. 1 college football team today, while Southern California made the longest stride of the week by moving up into the top 10.

ing coaches that make up the United Press rating board re-evaluated their ranking extensively from the previous week.

Illinois jumped from seventh to third place behind runnerup Michigan State; Georgia Tech advanced from sixth to fourth; Maryland from eighth to sixth; Baylor from ninth to seventh, and Princeton moved up one notch to ninth place in other significant changes.

Meanwhile, California, the top team for the three previous weeks, dropped to eighth; Texas from fourth to 10th and Texas A&M from fifth to 13th after suffering their first setbacks of the season.

Tennessee, which beat Alabama, 27-13, for its fourth straight victory last Saturday, received 22 first place votes and a total of 311 points in the coaches' weekly ballot. The volunteers, who achieve remarkable results from their "old-fashioned" single-wing offense, were ranked tops in the pre-season and first week by listings.

NO SURVIVORS BY WILL HENRY

THE STORY: John Clayton, a former civilian scout, has "gone Indian" and falls in love with North Star, an Indian holy woman. Taboos of the Sioux make this love seem hopeless. However, a white whiskey runner named Slatemeyer whose horses were destroyed by Clayton, kidnaps Star.

XVII
SLATEMEYER, having no reason to expect such immediate pursuit as was already upon him, would travel at an accepted trail-gait, only a moderate speed-up of the ground-covering, shuffle-trot of the Indian pony.

Crazy Horse would travel faster, probably at a canter, but knowing his prey was within reach would rate his pace to overtake Slatemeyer at dawn, always the Indians' favored attack hour.

I, holding a rolling gallop through the night, would outdistance the Sioux, coming up to Slatemeyer an hour ahead of both dawn and the Oglaia.

These were assumptions, the kind any fighting man makes daily. If he's right, he wins. If he's wrong, he doesn't care. The dead never do. What I meant to do when I came up with my enemy I didn't know. The hour itself would have to decide that.

I tightened my grip on the braided leathers of Hussein's hackamore, snacking his gait. Under any fighting things the flow felt in reach and timing. No tiring yet. The miles rolled endlessly back into the night.

Slatemeyer's way led down a long shallow valley, a well-traveled Indian track familiar to me, reaching from the Cheyenne to the White River. When I had gone as far down this as I felt I could without running over Crazy Horse's camp in the dark I slowed Hussein, swinging him wide of the valley trail, heading for the foothills to the left. He was trembling under me, very tired now.

I hoped he would get a fair blow while we walked our way around where I supposed the Sioux camp to be, this respite being out of no consideration for him but due to my respect of the fact an Indian can ground-hear a running horse for a good two miles.

As we padded through the thick dust of the hillsides I got the first satisfaction in days. Off to my right and directly below was the querulous whickering of ponies carried up on the night air. My in-the-dark computations hadn't missed by 400 yards.

Once around the Sioux camp I put Hussein back on his gait. He was running unevenly with probably not more than an hour's effort left in him. His breath came scraping into his lungs metallically. Under my knees the exhausted hammering of his heart was ragged and heavy.

Pity came thick in my throat. I loved this vicious horse not knowing until this night, how well. But now as he ran dying under me, his whole body faltering with every stride, I knew. Leaning far over his outstretched neck I buried my head in the ragged backstream of his forelock. My mouth close to his foplar I spoke to him, my words as soft as a mother's whisper.

"HOPO, you ugly crowbat. Do you know I love you? Do you know I am killing you? Hi-yea, Easy."

Staggering brokenly, then finding his stride, he managed a racking whicker. His neck then, at the spot my face lay against it, was wet not from lather alone.

Three miles more and I eased him down and left him. He stood spraddle-legged, head to the ground, gaunt flanks whipping in behind slatted ribs with every gulping breath. His eyes protruded fixed and glazed, his tongue hung swollen and lifeless between the long yellow teeth. Thin blood ran in twin streams from the bell-flare of his nostrils. As I turned to leave him he raised his head, looking for me, then staggered a step or two as though to follow. He moved directly away from me. He was still alive.

FINDING 30 Crow Indians and a renegade white gunman in three miles of pitch-black prairie was no easy chore but I did what I could. I began quartering the wind from a spot I considered to be well to the nearside of their camp. Luck was with me, the fresh morning air shortly bringing what I sought—the pungency of their pony herd.

I worked upward to a point I thought would be about 100 yards from the horses. Here I holed up for an Indian will always sleep between his horses and his enemies and I had no desire to find myself wading knee-deep in Crows.

In an hour a ghost-glow of light appeared. Fifteen minutes more and the true dawn would start facing the night. In 20 the camp would come alive.

In the uncertain glow, not two shades of real darkness, I could make out the black lumps of sleeping men all about me. These lay singly, Indian fashion.

The wind and luck held in my direction. Not 10 paces away, sheltered from the main group by a clump of elder bush, lay a double shadow. From the larger shadow came the stertorous breathing of a man in deep sleep, from the other no sound at all. The smaller shadow, then, was awake. It was Star.

It seems unreal to me now, as it did then. I went over that intervening 10 yards as noiselessly as a hawk's shade over hard rock. The whites of Star's eyes rolled up at my looming figure. She had no way of knowing who this was crawling in at her out of the black prairie, but Indian-wise, made no outcry or motion. She was between her guard and me, leaving no way to get at him save over her.

Map spotlights latest potential trouble spot in Europe. Russia has threatened reprisals if Norway allows the North Atlantic Pact Organization to establish bases on Norway's Arctic islands of Spitsbergen and Bear. As map shows, the islands are within bomber range of Russia's great naval bases at Kronstadt and at Parkkala in Finland. Russia bases its threats for reprisals on a nine-power pact signed in 1920 and a note sent in 1929 which allegedly "assured" Russia that Norway would never join in aggressions against the Soviet Union or permit her territory to be used for such purpose.

Hunt Started For Murder Suspect In N. M.

AMARILLO, Oct. 24 (UP) — Sheriff Claude Moncus of Tucuman, N. M., on the trail of a murder suspect identified by a discarded match folder, checked all tourist camps and filling stations here today in search of the hunted man.

Moncus said the suspect, a 29-year-old veteran of World War II, was traced through a match folder left in the car belonging to John Gunnish, 39, of Martin's Ferry, O., who was found dead in a ditch four miles from Tucuman, Oct. 12.

The match book came from a Wisconsin restaurant. The cafe's owners said a man answering the description of the suspect had worked there as a short order cook until Sept. 4.

Army discharge papers belonging to a Brooklyn, N. Y., veteran, who had deserted his wife and son were found among the suspect's baggage at the restaurant. Moncus said two filling station operators on Highway 66 recalled servicing the Gunnish's car the day before his death, and

OPS May Order Further Cattle Price Control

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (UP) — The government may put a "super" ceiling on price on cattle as part of its effort to enforce beef price controls, informed sources said today.

The "super" ceiling would be a lid on the price that a slaughterer could pay for any one steer or cow.

Under present beef price regulations, a slaughterer must make the prices he pays for all cattle merely average out to the ceiling price for each grade of cattle in each accounting period—usually four weeks.

The present "average" ceilings range from about $19 to about $37 per 100 pounds, depending on the grade of the animal.

The "super" ceilings also would vary from grade to grade. They would be designed to help prevent the kind of beef price violation that the office of price stabilization has found in more than one-third of the slaughterhouses investigated during a crackdown that began Sept. 24. These violations generally involved upgrading of cattle and false weighing, according to OPS. Slaughterers have overcharged customers in order to cover up illegal buying, OPS claims.

Agency sources admitted that the "super" ceilings would not supply the whole answer to the problem. But they said it might help.

Doctors for an insurance company say three out of every five person would like to reduce but only one out of five has seriously tried to do it.

showdown," Johnson said. "Someday, somewhere, someday there must be a clear-cut settlement between the forces of freedom and the forces of Communism."

Johnson made the statement in a speech prepared for delivery at a celebration of "Lyndon Johnson Day."

"It is foolish to talk of avoiding war," he said. "We are already in a war—a major war. The war in Korea is a war of Soviet Russia."

Johnson said Russia started the Korean war, directs it and is the only power capable of ending it. He said truce talks cannot "get down to business" until they are moved from Kaesong to Moscow.

Johnson, chairman of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee, warned that the struggle between freedom and Communism will not end when the Korean War is over.

He said the United States must gird for battle and build up its defenses so it will be prepared should Russia attempt to spread the Korean War across the globe.

Johnson also cautioned the American people not to be distracted by domestic problems from the Russian plan to bring the United States to "total destruction." The people must sacrifice "a little bit now or else all of it will be taken away from us later on," he said.

"We've got to get the influence peddlers, the chiselers, the middle-headed free-riders out of opposition of influence in our government," Johnson said. "But we can't afford to drop everything else while we do that."

"We're hunting bears. We're not out to chase rabbits."

AUTOMATIC GAS RANGE Sale NOW ON!

Cleanliness counts most

To keep her kitchen utensils mirror-bright and her kitchen walls spotless is every homemaker's goal. Ninety-six out of 100 homemakers in this area cook with a Gas range. It is no secret that many of them choose Gas on the basis of cleanliness alone.

CLEAN! Greasy steam from foods (which comes from all foods) stays inside the pan with "waterless" Gas cooking—doesn't escape to settle on kitchen walls. Only Gas ranges give exact control so necessary for this cleaner-kitchen cooking. Why? Because Gas ranges give you dozens of heats to cook with—not just a few.

CLEAN! Greasy vapors are produced in broiling, too. But a Gas range gives cleaner-kitchen broiling. Why? Because a Gas range broils with the broiler door closed. Greasy vapors are locked in. These locked in vapors rise... right into the live Gas flame which consumes them.

CLEAN! Today's automatic Gas range burners give pure stainless heat. And when spillovers happen, burners don't smoke up the kitchen by "burning-off" spilled foods. Instead they can be shut off instantly. Spilled foods are cleaned up with soap and water (for which every homemaker agrees, there is no substitute).

Ceiling Price Placed On Auto Dealers By OPS

FORT WORTH, Oct. 22 — A new dollars-and-cents ceiling price regulation for resellers of new passenger automobiles has been issued today by the Office of Price Stabilization.

The regulation is Ceiling Price Regulation 83 and became effective October 15.

The new regulation provides that dollars-and-cents basic ceiling prices will be issued as "Special Orders" by OPS, covering new passenger automobiles of every make, by each body style, line or series. Current basic ceiling prices in general applies also to extra, special and optional equipment, and takes into account factory to dealer transportation costs, Federal excise taxes, a state and local taxes, customary established charges for preparing and conditioning a car for delivery, and customary established prices and charges for any other item of equipment or service requested by the purchaser.

These provisions in the new regulation are of particular interest to the prospective purchaser: (1) Retail dealers must conspicuously post their ceiling prices; (2) dealers must furnish purchasers with an invoice or other documents stating the ceiling price and certain other charges and allowances; (3) dealers must continue selling at no more than present ceiling prices until OPS establishes by special order specific ceiling prices for the automobile being sold; and (4) dealers may sell below their ceiling prices and need not add on the full amount of any authorized charge.

Within 20 days after the regulation became effective, every retail dealer must post in a conspicuous place on his premises, a

10% Nation's Cattle Grown In This State

Texas ranches had a cattle population of 9,260,000 head with a farm value of $1,314,920,000 at the beginning of 1951, it was disclosed in a statistical analysis compiled by the research staff of Capper's Farmer.

Texas had over one-tenth of the nation's total, and more than 4,000,000 head above the second state, Iowa, with 5,208,000 head.

U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates placed the total number of cattle and calves on the nation's farms at 84,179,000 on January 1, 1951. This number was 4,000,000 more than the previous January and was less than 1 1/2 million short of the all-time record number in 1945.

From January through June this year, 9 percent fewer cattle and 18 percent fewer calves were slaughtered commercially than in the same six months of 1950, said

Victor Hawkins, director of research of the nationally-circulated farm magazine.

However, this year's calf crop is considerably larger than last year's because there are 1,600,000 more cows in the breeding herd. With fewer cattle slaughtered and more calves born, numbers at the half year were fast approaching all-time high for the nation.

Sixty-one percent of the 1951 cattle crop is concentrated on Midwestern farms Texas, Iowa, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Kansas, Missouri, Minnesota, Illinois and Oklahoma hold 9 of the 10 top positions.

Citing cattle as the top farm income, Hawkins said that last year they accounted for a revenue of $5,715, 693,000. About 70 percent of the nation's total income from the sale of cattle went to farmers in 15 Mid-American states last year.

On January 1 all cattle and calves on the country's farms had an estimated value of $13.4 billion, but the big Mid-West livestock area accounted for 63 percent of the total with a value of $8.4 billion—a 27 percent gain in value over the previous year.

Rangers Meet Tarleton In Conference Tilt

The chips are down in the Pioneer Conference title chase this week-end as four of the five league teams square off in conference games. Results will determine the teams which may be expected to offer the San Angelo Rams serious opposition in the championship race. Sharing the spotlight will be two conference tilts set for Saturday night—Ranger vs Tarleton State at Stephenville, and Schreiner vs Arlington State at Arlington.

The Rangers, already beaten by San Angelo, must defeat the Flawboys to stay in the race. Both clubs have well balanced passing and running attacks. Games played thus far show the Flawboys holding an advantage in passing.

The game might well turn out to be a duel between Tarleton's passer Tommy Hudspeth, aided by Ted Whitmore, Edsal January, and Gene Harden on the ground, and Ranger's power runners Caddo Sanders, Rusty Talbot, Buddy Hamrick and Ken Burton. The Rangers also have good passing when it is needed, with Sanders and Hamrick on the throwing end.
