Around The Square

By Mack

Some things we like, others we dislike, and a few things we despise. Moving comes under the last heading, and yet we put in a full 10 hours "despising" (yesterday) Sunday. We had to move. Now this does not mean that our landlady threw us out, for our dues were paid in full, and so far as we know she thinks about as well of us as she does any other ordinary Irishman.

Five weeks ago we landed in Eastland, and during the first ten days we put in all spare time looking for a place to live. But as a hunter we are no good. We found a couple of houses, but rent was so high it would have taken a salary of four editors to have paid a month in advance. In plain English the houses were O.K. but our finances were O.W.O.L. We have a nice home in Fort Worth, which we rented when we moved to Eastland, and we figured we could rent a similar place here for about the same as we collected for our home. But it seems we figured wrong. It just couldn't be done.

We have a comfortable place to stay at the "Lilly Courts" and we stuck on until our luck changed. Mrs. Lilly did her best to see that we were comfortable, and when we finally found that house we almost hated to leave.

But we are now permanently (we hope) located at 410 W. Moss Street. Six rooms and a yard big enough to train our better half. At the Lilly Court we didn't have this yard, and there were times, while in this crowded condition, that we came very near being hit—just couldn't dodge those cups and saucers fast enough. But with a big back yard to run in, we will be able to get out of range before she begins throwing skillet and other articles in the heavy hardware line. Yes, sir, we feel pretty safe now.

The only worry we have is the Johnson grass. At our present domicile there is a big garden, and one of our kind hearted neighbors slipped the news to us before we got the door open, that the garden had a little Johnson grass. Close investigation revealed it a solid mat of grass. However, we're planning to keep it under control without any physical effort on our part, or even any cash out-put. You see Herb Tanner lives on the same block, and we are told that during summer months he has a hobby of getting in his shorts and mowing his lawn. As it joins ours will be easy to walk over and tell him a few funny stories, and while we talk he will work and before you know it he will have our hay crop mowed, too. After that we will have it plowed up and order us a seed catalog. From that point on, the wife will handle it while we watch the television.

As this has been one of our hard days—moving. Of course we are not injured beyond repair and in the morning will be just as spry as you please. However, it may be a week or more before the wife is able to leave her bed. The hard work we did almost killed her.

In the new home we will be enabled to get you up a better column. She is bitterly opposed to lying and there are times she interferes with our business. But we'll write this stuff now even if we have to go to the barn to do it. While we were crowded up over at the Court, she would read over our shoulder and make us delete some of the biggest lies we ever told. Personally we thought they were good, but she said they were a disgrace. But from now on we are going whole hog or none. Remember we told you once before that just because you see it here, doesn't necessarily denote it is so.

CHANGE IN THE WEATHER—Chicagoan Jule Perdue finds a winter wonderland where a flower garden thrived only a few days ago. The city's 14-degree weather was typical of the early-season cold blast that swept over much of the nation, bringing record low temperatures for so early in the fall.

WATER BONDS APPROVED, AND WORK ON LAKE TO BE RUSHED; VOTE WAS 160 FOR, 66 AGAINST

Eastland's water bond election Saturday, carried by a vote of about 3 to 1; the vote being 160 for and 66 against.

For a while it appeared that the vote would be almost unanimous for the bonds, but after two rains, it is likely people forgot their thirst, and were willing to let nature take its course. Also we have learned that some of the opposition votes came from individuals who felt that the $25,000 would not be enough to do any good, and that it would be a waste of that amount that should have gone in toward erecting a dam for a permanent water supply.

However, the bonds have been voted, and barring technicalities, work will begin shortly. This may mean the lake repairs will be made in time to impound Fall and Winter rains, and that during the coming Summer no serious water shortage will exist.

Most people consider the bond measure only an emergency affair, and will start working immediately on a plan which will insure Eastland a permanent and almost everlasting water supply.

1st Methodist Ladies To Have Bazaar, Dinner

Ladies of the First Methodist church, Eastland, are planning a turkey dinner and bazaar for Friday of this week. The affair will be held in the church basement, beginning at noon.

Mrs. R. C. Ferguson is chairman of the ticket committee, and will be assisted by Mrs. I. C. Heck. There will be plenty of good home made pie as well as turkey, dressing and all the trimmings, and they admit that you can not go wrong if you spend your dollar with them.

OPS Head Hopes To Retire Soon

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 (UP)—Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle hopes he won't be in his present job long enough to find out what Congress does with controls legislation after the 1952 election.

He made the statement during an interview on the National Broadcasting Co.'s American Youth Forum television program yesterday, but said he has not decided whether to seek the Ohio Democratic Senatorial nomination next year.

Eastland County Farm Bureau To Convene Nov. 6

A convention for Eastland County Farm Bureau members will be held Tuesday November 6th in the basement of the First Methodist Church in Eastland.

The convention will take care of business matters and pass resolutions to be submitted at the state convention to be held November 19-21 in Houston. The election of directors for the new year will be held and delegates to the state convention will be selected. The Kendrick quartet of Cisco will provide a musical program.

Members of the resolutions committee for the county convention are Luther Cunningham, John Love, Joe Bob Browning, and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Freeman. A. Z. Myrick of Cisco is the president of the county bureau and Mrs. John Love is service agent.

All members and interested people are invited to attend.

Henry L. Parsons On Korean Front

Pvt. Henry L. Parsons, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Parsons, Route 1, Eastland, has joined the 1st Cavalry Division on the front in Korea.

The division is currently engaged in heavy patrol actions and limited objective assaults northwest of Yonchon, a rail and road hub ten miles above the 38th Parallel.

The 1st Cavalry, which fights as infantry, has been in Korean combat for more than fourteen months.

The 20-year-year-old private is a graduate of Eastland High school. Private Parsons was employed by the T&P Railroad before entering Army on April 9, 1951. He is a member of the 1st Cavalry Division's 8th Cavalry Regiment.

Olden Hornets To Play Desdemona

The Olden Hornets (boys and girls) will meet Desdemona in the Olden gym Tuesday night at 7 p.m. These games should be good in that Desdemona always comes up with good clubs and a desire to win.

Coaches Hillard and Weaver insist that the fans turn out to see these games and to back their clubs as the Hornets have a hard season ahead of them.

Bull Available For Artificial Breeding Here

A Holstein Bull by the name of Carnation Madcap Discovery, half brother to the Holstein cow which broke the world butterfat production record is available for breeding to dairy cows in Eastland and parts of adjoining counties by artificial breeding, Clyde Hickson, Cisco, inseminator for such work said recently.

The cow Carnation Homestead Daisy Madcap produced 24,553 pounds of milk testing 4.1 percent and 1413.6 pounds of butterfat. This is equivalent to 1767 pounds of butter and 16,071 quarts of milk every year.

The North Texas Artificial Breeding farms near Dallas, operated by Dr. D. G. Smoller recently furnished Hickson with the above information.

There are a total of 19 bulls of the Holstein, Guernsey, Jersey and Shorthorn breeds available to dairy cow owners in North and Northwest Texas including Eastland County, Hickson said.

Owners of from one to one hundred dairy cows within a 30 mile radius of Cisco can breed their animals to outstanding bulls of the above breeds at a very nominal cost.

The breeding technician can be reached by calling 605 W at Cisco. Hickson suggests that calls be placed prior to 10 a.m. if service is wanted that particular day. He makes up his daily route from calls that come in early in the morning and leaves shortly after this hour to make his rounds.

Arterburn And Crossley Star For Texas Tech

Concerning Texas Tech's football players the Lubbock Morning Avalanche had the following to say about two Eastland county boys playing on that team. Under the heading "Unsung Players Star For Tech", The Avalanche said:

"Unsung but vital in recent games have been End Lewis Crossley, senior from Eastland and a d Halback John Thomas, sophomore from Brownfield.

"Weighing less than 170 pounds, Crossley, you'd guess, would be in the lineup for his pass snatching ability. He can snag a toss directed in his way, but Crossley's chief value has been his blocking. Tech uses the split T and Crossley's ability to hold off the opposing end while Quarterback Junior Arterburn of Ranger, either flips out to a Halfback or keeps the ball has been a factor in the Red Raider's surge to the front after a 3-8 season last fall."

Atlantic Union Wants Support Both Parties

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 5 (UP)—Both the Democratic and Republican parties were asked today to endorse Atlantic Union—a formation of a federation of free nations to keep the peace—and to seek official support of the plan in Congress.

At the closing session of its convention here yesterday, the group also voted to ask President Truman to call a conference of the Atlantic Democracies to explore possibilities of the envisioned federation.

Some 150 delegates reelected former U. S. Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts president. Also reelected was vice-president Will Clayton of Houston, former under-secretary of state.

New board members elected include Marshall Webb, San Antonio.

Upon completion of their 11-week training period at the training center, graduates are assigned to duty stations with the Fleet or at Navy shore stations, or are sent to service schools for advanced technical training.

Methodists Plan Ground-Breaking Service This P. M.

Ground-breaking services for the new parsonage of the First Methodist church will be held at 5:30 this evening on the site of the recently purchased lots in the 800 block on South Seaman, Rev. J. Morris Bailey, pastor, announced today.

Mrs. R. B. Truly is the only resident charter member of the Eastland Methodist church, which was organized in 1875. She will be present if her health permits. All oldtimers are especially urged to be present for the symbolic service. Everyone is invited.

The new three bedroom brick parsonage is to be built by W. N. Bourdeau under a contract calling for its completion in 90 working days from November 6, 1951. The parsonage building committee let the contract to the lowest bidder after advertising in the Eastland Telegram for bidders.

Neil Moore is chairman of the building committee composed of Grady Pipkin, Dr. R. C. Ferguson, Robert D. Vaughan, Frank T. Crowell, T. L. Fagg, Don Hill, Frank Sparks, Cyrus B. Frost, Jr.

Several subcommittees have served and will serve in the new parsonage project.

Fisherman Reels In Man In New Rescue Method

NEW YORK, Nov. 5 (UP)—Elbert Sprecher, 37, was surfing casting for striped bass off Far Rockaway Beach yesterday when he saw a swimmer in trouble about 50 yards off shore.

"He was being carried out by the undertow and I knew the only way to save him would be to send my line out to him," Sprecher said. "There wasn't even time to take the hook off the end. I cast it out three times and the third time it wrapped around his body and I pulled him in."

Witnesses said Sprecher drew his strange catch in so carefully that the sharp hook at the end of the line never touched the swimmer, Robert Stuls, 59, who was barely conscious when brought out of the water Stuls said he swam in the ocean year-around as a health measure.

"He was lucky I was using a heavy line," Sprecher said. "He was my only catch of the day."

Shoemaker Gets Italian Medal

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 5 (UP)—Shoemaker Joseph D'Amico was the possessor today of one of the highest non-military honors of the Italian government—the Star of Solidarity.

The medal was presented D'Amico yesterday by Turiddu Simoni, of the Italian Consulate in Trenton, N. J., for his one-man crusade that brought a modern water supply system to his home town in Italy.

D'Amico's fund-raising efforts among Italian-Americans here helped to build a reservoir and viaduct to bring water to the little mountain town of Santa Croce Di Magliano.

Communists Hurl Tanks, Guns And Infantry Against UN Lines

8th ARMY HEADQUARTERS, KOREA, Nov. 5 (UP)—United Nations planes, artillery and troops smashed at Communist forces on the western front today in retaliation for the strongest tank-led Red attack in recent months yesterday.

Allied F-80 Shooting Star jets and F-51 Mustangs teamed with massed artillery in pouring death and destruction on Communist troops entrenched on two hills west of Yonchon. Then UN infantry stormed the enemy positions.

An 8th Army communique said the allied troops were "reported heavily engaged with the enemy" at mid-day.

The communique said Allied units had withdrawn from two "key terrain features" west of Yonchon following the enemy attack, but front dispatches said UN units had recaptured all lost ground by last midnight (10 a.m. Sunday EST).

Three new light Communist probing attacks southwest of Yonchon were repulsed.

On the eastern front, the 8th Army communique said, UN forces pushed their deepest spearhead in North Korea still farther up the coast. The Allies gained 2,000 to 3,000 yards northwest of Kamsong and seized a hill south of Kamsong, 46 miles north of the 38th parallel.

UN troops on the central front repulsed a light Communist attack southeast of the former enemy stronghold of Kumsong, 29

UN WANTS LINE BASED ON FRONT AT TIME OF TRUCE

PANMUNJOM, Korea, Nov. 5 (UP)—The United Nations made a sweeping new proposal today that the Korean cease-fire line be based on the battleline at the time an armistice is signed rather than on the present front.

A NU spokesman said the Communists called the proposal "unfair, unjust and unreasonable" at a truce summit committee meeting, but asked time to study it further. They presumably will make their formal reply at a meeting at 11 a.m. tomorrow (9 p.m. today EST.)

The surprise UN proposal in effect would be an invitation to the opposing armies to try to capture more territory while the truce negotiators argue details of an armistice agreement.

Hospital Walls Going Up; May Finish Saturday

Walls for the new hospital building are going up at this time. A group of workers put in several hours Saturday, and made an excellent showing. It is hoped that a representative number of workers will be on hand today for setting up this tile.

Tonight workers will be needed to scatter sand, and the regular plumbing crew is expected. Should weather conditions remain as they are now it is thought that the walls will be up and the concrete beams poured before the close of the week.

BLANKET BANK ROBBED

BLANKET, Tex., Nov. 5 (UP)—The Blanket State Bank was looted of an estimated $1,500 in cash by week-end burglars.

Cashier S. E. Lacy discovered the loss when he opened the bank this morning.

The burglars forced their way in the back door and knocked the knob off the bank vault. The money taken from about 10 of 50 customers' boxes in the vault. The loss included $1,200 of the bank's money.

UN troops on the central front repulsed a light Communist attack southeast of the former enemy stronghold of Kumsong, 29 dis, UN spokesman, hinted that the 8th Army might attempt to surround disputed Kaesong, three miles south of the 38th Parallel, if it got the chance.

The proposal was given the Communists at the longest meeting yet—4½ hours—of the joint subcommittee charged with fixing a cease-fire line across Korea.

Specifically, it provided:

1. The truce line will be based on the actual line of ground contact at the time of the signing of the armistice, "with appropriate adjustments."
2. The truce buffer zone between the opposing armies will be four kilometers (2½ miles) wide.
3. A committee of three officers from each side will determine the lines of contact whenever called for, and present it to the negotiators when the armistice is ready to be signed.
4. The full armistice delegations in the meantime would discuss other points on the agenda and fix the demarcation line last "in order to reach an agreement on all questions relating the armistice in Korea at the earliest possible date."

Nuckels said any adjustments in the final truce line would in general be equivalent with each case determined on its own merits.

He said this meant Kaesong would be in whatever zone happens to prevail when the final agreement is signed.

"That, of course, could be anywhere in Korea," he said. Nuckels' remarks were taken as a clear indication that if the Reds persisted in their refusal to swap Kaesong for some UN-held territory elsewhere, the Allies would try to push north and surround it.

The UN has agreed not to attack a 3,000-yard radius around Kaesong because it is the headquarters of the Communist truce delegation, but there is nothing in the agreement to prevent them from surrounding the area and bringing it behind UN lines.

Nuckels refused to be drawn into any discussion as to whether the two delegations were closer together or farther apart than before.

"If they accept our proposal, we are closer together," he said. "If they reject it, we are further apart."

He said the UN proposal would permit the main delegates to get on with the business at hand while a six-man subcommittee made a continuing study of where the battle would stop.

Nuckels said U. S. Maj. Gen. Henry I. Hodes submitted the new plan after the UN rejected a Communist proposal to fix the cease-fire line at the present battleline and the Reds turned down an Allied proposal to make Kaesong a neutral city occupied by neither side.

Japan Has First Snowfall Of Year

CHITOSE, Japan, Nov. 5 (UP)—Old man winter donned his familiar white uniform of snow and frost today on Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost island.

Americans and Japanese awoke to find the year's first snowfall had come down during the night. The sudden beginning of the winter season came after several days of rain.

At Camp Chitose, Japan, logisticians task of providing winter quarters for members of the 48th Infantry "Thunderbird" division in spite of the snowfall. Although the major position of the work, construction of cold weather quarters already is completed, JLC engineers, together with Japanese contractors, now are working on recreational facilities. The entire project, down to the last light switch, is scheduled for completion this month.

One Generation Late For Book

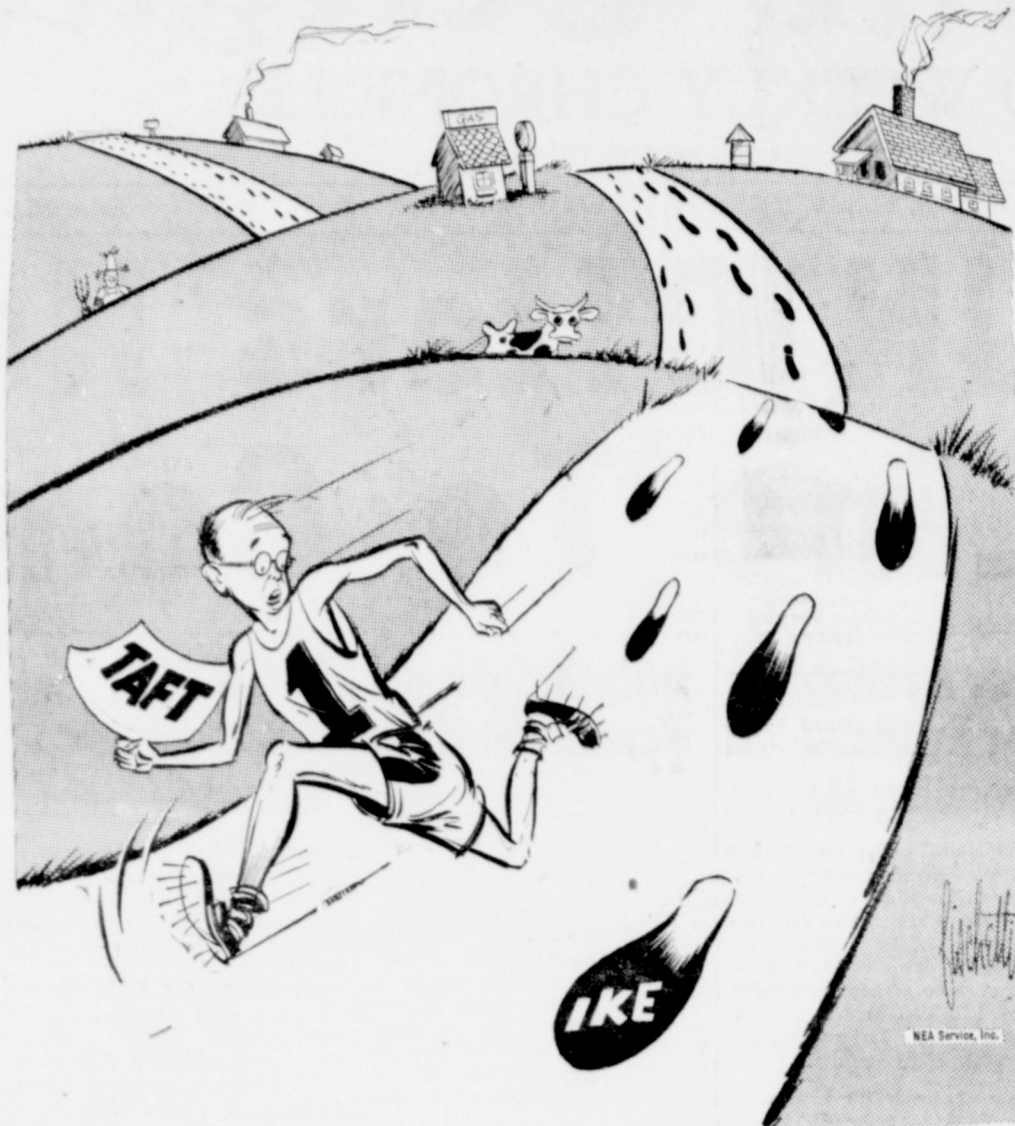

DELAWARE, O., Nov. 5 (UP)—Librarians at Ohio Wesleyan University's Slocum Library blinked in amazement while a freshman explained how he happened to be returning a book that was 25 years overdue.

Warren Kahle of DeKalb, Ill., said yesterday that his father, Raymond Kahle, took the book out while he attended the university during the 1920's. The elder Kahle thought he lost the book but found it in a chest after he had graduated and returned home.

The younger Kahle said, "well, he waited for the first chance to return it, and—here I am." The book was Albert Schweitzer's "History of Philosophy."

The Invisible Candidate

NO SURVIVORS

BY WILL HENRY

DISTRIBUTED BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: John Clayton, former civilian scout, is captured and adopted by the Sioux. He falls in love with an Indian medicine woman named Star, who is kidnapped by a North Star, who is kidnapped by an old enemy named Slatemeyer. Clayton rescues Star and Slatemeyer is captured. Clayton, who has promised Star to bring her the heart of an enemy, requests a "trial by knife" for Slatemeyer. This means that Clayton and Slatemeyer will duel to the death with knives.

XXI

WHILE I waited, I examined the knife. Peering closely at the shoulder of the blade I made out the flowing Spanish inscription, M. Villalobos, Toledo, MCDLIV. Mangu Colorado indeed! Cortez himself may have sheathed this slender cuchillo.

My fingers tightened on the aged haft. A strong warmth flooded up my knife-arm, seeming to come in pulsing waves from the strange foreign blade lying so lightly in my right hand.

Hearing my name called, I glanced up. Star was seated upon a raised dais across the ring, behind the row of lancers. Around her squatted and stood the medicine men of the tribe. As my eyes found her she raised a slender arm toward me, calling out softly, "Courage!"

Smiling in return, I noticed she was carrying something in her other arm. I perceived it was the sacred buffalo-hide doll owned by every holy woman.

But now I had a figure more compelling than a rawhide doll to examine. Slatemeyer was entering the ring.

All the man promised by the way his buckskins drew over the curve of thigh and bicep now stood revealed, for he was naked as I, save for a loose doekskin breechcloth and bare-bladed knife.

There is no use describing that physique. It was faultless. A big, powerful, highly-trained fighting man with shoulder, arm, celly, back and leg muscling to shame the best imagination. Looking across at his easy slouching stance I met his pale gaze and knew he in his turn was "looking across the ring."

I had been with the Sioux seven months, the last two spent in loin-cloth, moccasins, even though light snow still lay on the ground. The spring sun, glaring off the light snows, had burned me a dirty mahogany. I was no pygmy in stature.

Slatemeyer may well have been totting up some of these points as he watched me, but if he was, his expression gave no indication he found the sum total impressive.

CRAZY HORSE entered the ring and with no delay issued his brief statement. Any fighter stepping out of the ring would be lanced. The fight could end only with the death of one or both fighters. The survivor held full right to all the status of the vanquished. If Cetan Mani won he had his life. If the white dog won he had his life and his freedom.

He looked at both of us carefully, stepped quickly to the edge of the circle, called out sharply, "Hono! Let's go!"

The feral voice of the Sioux leader released Slatemeyer almost before I heard it. He struck across the ring at me with a speed I couldn't follow.

I could see the sweeping arc of the broad bowie knife coming from the ground up. There was no time to go forward or to either side. I leaped and fell backward, expecting to feel the bite of the steel in my vitals as I went over. Instead I felt a searing through my right buttock.

A soldier can go into any action knowing beforehand he may get killed, even that he probably shall. Yet not until the enemy wounds him personally does he seem actually to get the idea that death is involved.

Well, Slatemeyer had bled me and I was beginning to fight. It may seem peculiar that one who claims the combat record I do could be so unstrung as I was in the opening of the duel.

The full answer lay in the knives. A knife is not the white man's weapon. He fears it, hating those who use it. The white who will brace any man with a gun grows weak at the sight of bare steel.

I REMEMBERED a cute little thing Yellow Bird had taught me. Drooping both hands to my sides I moved straight in. My opponent stopped, crouching. As I came up to him he struck at me, his right arm throwing the knife at my left side. I moved to my right, shifting the blade to my left hand in the movement, whirling the knife to strike to the rear into the kidneys. The danger lies in making the shift of hands too soon, allowing him to twist away from it.

Classically, this maneuver is designed to make your enemy miss, his miss carrying him past you, his left side grazing your right. Without the shift of knife hands you would also be out of position, but with it you are ready as his body passes yours to strike to the rear into the kidneys. The danger lies in making the shift of hands too soon, allowing him to twist away from it.

I made the shift beautifully but was so farred by the impact of his body brushing past mine that the backstroke was deflected. The blade found not the soft kidney fat but the hard fiber of the great back muscle.

Slatemeyer turned in mid air, the steel entered his back, freeing himself of the blade. But I felt it so deep.

Arm-locked, we struggled, his weight and strength driving me backward. I felt a sudden weakening of his left hand.

The severed back muscle was giving away.

Exerting my whole force I threw my knife-arm up and forward. The thin blade found his left side, low down, just above the hip-point, and again I knew it had gone deep.

In staggering back and away he nearly tore the knife from my numbed grasp.

4-H Winners At State Fair Get Large Checks

Checks totaling $128,537.42 have been mailed to farm and ranch youngsters throughout Texas—their payment for livestock and poultry sold in junior livestock auction sales at the 1951 State Fair of Texas.

The checks went to 600 Four-H Club boys and girls and Future Farmers who live in 200 of the state's 254 counties. The total of $128,537.42 exceeds the total price of $122,970.18 paid last year by $5,567.24. Average per-pound prices paid for all animals and poultry were higher than current market prices.

The fair had its most successful auction sales in history, Ray W. Wilson, the fair's livestock manager said. There were more individuals and firms participating—203 of them buying. The state fair conducts the sales and processes the checks without any kind of charge or commission.

The checks ranged downward from the $1,244 paid to Willard Jordan of Mason for the grand champion steer in the junior livestock show. His steer went for $2 a pound.

Record prices were paid for champion flocks of turkeys and broilers. The junior grand champion barrow sold for $763.80 and the junior grand champion Negro barrow for $703.35. Both pigs brought $3.25 a pound, highest prices ever paid for junior pigs at a state fair junior livestock auction sale. Also record prices were the $485 paid for the grand champion exhibitor of five turkeys and the $225 paid for the five champion broilers.

The 877 animals sold at the sale, with average prices per pound, included:

90 steers, $1.65 cents; 78 commercial steers, 45 cents; 187 lambs, 44.2 cents; 416 pigs, 26 cents; 106 pigs owned by Negro youngsters, 29 cents. The 465 turkeys sold brought an average of 60 cents per pound and the 705 broilers sold at an average of 65 cents per pound.

Early Wynn Makes New Type Rescue

SARASOTA, Fla., Nov. 5 (UP)—Pitcher Early Wynn, often a life-saver for the Cleveland Indians, saved six crewmen of the yacht Elsdor after the schooner was severely damaged in a Gulf storm.

Wynn and his brother-in-law, Ben Dunn, answered a Coast Guard distress message Saturday and towed the Elsdor and its wet and hungry crew to Venice, Fla., with their 47-foot cabin cruiser Low-Jo.

The 57-foot Elsdor, just bought by Benjamin Laning of St. Petersburg, Fla., lost its two masts in high winds and seas Friday night and was drifting helplessly.

Edwards, originator and master of ceremonies of the "Truth or Consequences" show, gives the broadcasting company his exclusive services for five years under the contract, one of the biggest ever signed in the radio-TV industry.

Decisive Week Ahead For High School Football

By United Press

Texas schoolboy football's two smaller divisions moved closer to the regular finish line this week with crucial leadership battles in 15 districts. Only two such contests are on tap in the upper echelons.

Many teams in classes AA and A close out their schedules this week, but others will take advantage of the Nov. 16 deadline for deciding playoff berths in those divisions of the state race. Classes AAAA and AAA have until midnight Nov. 24 to settle their district titles.

One championship already has been decided—Tahoka in district AA—and several other teams can clinch title ties by winning this week, including Shamrock, Seminole, Arlington, Pleasant Grove, Terrell, Atlanta, Ennis, Lavega Lampasas, Gonzales, Lamar Consolidated, Cuero and Robstown in AA and White-Oak in A.

Despite the heavy run of crucial games, only one of them, will pit any of the 26 undefeated-untied teams against each other. That one sends Eden against Eldorado in a 6A decisive battle.

In class AAAA, Dallas Sunset and Dallas Adamson, sharing the lead along with Dallas Wilson, meet in the only showdown battle.

In class AAA, San Antonio Edison can upset once-tied Harlandale in district 7.

But class AA will have eight such contests in which the winner will join 15 other teams as undisputed leaders in their districts. These will be Tulsa-Floydada in district 2, Childress-Wellington in 3, Quanah-Electra in 4, Ranger-Dublin in 10, Jacksboro-Diney in 12, Brenham-Bellville in 25, Eagle Pass-Covale in 29 and Donna-Westlake in 32.

Pittsburg can win the 15AA title by beating Commerce, as can Cameron in 23AA by downing Belton.

Ray Hillbilly Qualifies For Officer Training

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 5 (UP)—The Army said today that an unschooled mountaineer who wandered down from the New Mexico hills to enlist had scored 113 on an intelligence test—more than enough to qualify as officer material.

But 26-year-old Peter Grainger told officers, "just give me a gun and send me out to fight."

Grainger who claims he never went to school and knew almost nothing of civilization until two weeks ago, passed the Army's comprehensive intelligence test with an IQ rating of 113—good enough to make him officer material, with three points to spare.

Last week, Grainger made 93 on another test in which most high school graduates score about 35.

Grainger claims to have spent his entire life in a thatched-roofed mountain cabin in New Mexico, wearing animal-skin clothing and getting his education only from some 200 books provided by his "paw" and a doctor who visited them once in a while.

The recruit said his mother died 20 years ago and he and his father lived alone in the mountains until last May, when his father died. "I buried Paw on top of a mountain, and decided to join the Army," he said.

Grainger claimed the car in which he hitched a ride to San Antonio was the first he'd ever seen. He said he never heard of the draft or store-bought clothing.
