Around The Square With Mack

Speaking of special days, years, months, etc., which are spread out all during the year, we would like to add one or two new ones. We have Mothers Day, Fathers Day, Flower Day, National Sardine Week, National Kraut and Frankfurter Week and scores of others. How about 'Economy in Government Week' or may 'Be Kink to Taxpayers Week.' They could, of course, run concurrently. We got this idea from Guy Gabrielson, and we think he has something.

There is a saying that should be disseminated, or at least modified. It is this: "It's the best I can do." Well if your "best" is no good, you should quit and let someone take over who can do better. Well, Harry hasn't said he has been giving us his best, but what he has been giving is "no good, and we think there are almost 150 million voters who would be willing to accept his resignation. Trouble with Harry is that he lived in Missouri too long—you can't show that guy anything. Apologies to honest Missourians—they can't help what Harry does.

But let's skip politics for a minute while we settle a local question. Seems somebody has been circulating a story that about half of Eastland's business firms are closing and moving to other cities. In one instance this was true, but in other instances it is not true. A day or so ago we heard O. B. Shero was closing out his furniture store and moving West.

It so happens we owe the store about thirteen dollars for a stove and naturally the story worried us, for we don't happen to have that much money at this time. So we went over to see M. Shero, and found the report was "news" to him. He not only is enjoying good business, but is right in the middle of a big sale. It seems he has no intention of moving, now or ever, which means that eventually he will collect that thirteen dollars from us. It seems we never get a break. Why that Shero guy may stay here for 40 years, for he has no intention of moving. Maybe we can hang him for enough advertising this year to pay for that stove.

If you are going to run—do it now. That's our advice to candidates. We're just about out of cigars, and on top of that the boss needs a little "announcement cash." It looks like a sure thing for most of us, as we get the cigars the boss gets the cash, and you get the office—maybe, but unless you announce, and the sooner you do this the better your chance for election.

Man is trying to announce, but it seems nobody wants his money—maybe it is tainted. He wants to be president, but will settle for a Dictatorship, so long as he can be boss have "Dean" for his office boy.

Ike isn't interested enough in his own candidacy to buy a cigar for himself, much less some voter. That is one reason he will make a good president, for he won't have to promise 51 per cent of the American voters a federal job in order to get their votes. His slate is clean. Not one political debt does he owe.

Harry though his troubles were over when he shipped like to Europe, but now that he may come back, Harry is worried. One thing is sure, when Ike starts "Coming" Harry had better start "Going." It will be time for him to "Went", says Pedro of television fame.

Man Leaps Under Train
FORT WORTH, Jan. 10 (UP)—A man leaped to his death under the engine of a passenger train rushing toward him as he walked along the track near here yesterday.

"He took a nosedive right under the engine," said Texas & Pacific engineer A. N. McCullough. The train's speed was 55 miles per hour.

Papers on the man's body gave the name Ernest Henry Aisup, 37, and the name of a sister, Frances M. Dugan of Ventura, Calif.

Trio Apprehended By Ranger Officers Admit Two Crimes

On a tip from a person who became suspicious after a trio of boys had stopped at a cafe near Ranger, City Policeman Ed Freeman and L. L. Tackett took into custody three Arkansas men who admitted to taking a late model car from a showroom in Arlington, entering and taking money and merchandise from an establishment at Gordon, before they were booked in Ranger on suspicion of burglary and theft.

The trio from Benton, Ark., James Martin, Tommy Rose, and Dale Rhea, were picked up by the two policemen after a call came in telling about the new car they were driving that had no license plates.

After taking the three to the Ranger jail they admitted to taking the 1951 Plymouth from Arlington along with a quantity of oil, a pocket knife, and a hatchet; and also admitted breaking into an establishment at Gordon where they stated they took a .16 gauge shotgun, roll of pennies, a pocket knife, candy, cigarettes, and about fifteen dollars in cash. Ranger Chief of Police, W. G. Pounds, said this morning

Mrs. Vera Patton of 313 St. Charles Street, Eastland, died in a Ranger hospital this morning at 7:15. She was the wife of C. O. Patton who operated a feed mill in Eastland.

She is survived by her husband and six children, they are Mrs. Eral Thomas, Mildred, Betty, Glen, Elizabeth and Carolyn Patton, all of Eastland.

Mrs. Patton's body is at the Morris Funeral Home in Ranger awaiting completion of funeral arrangements.

No changes were made in the personnel at the Eastland National Bank when directors met this week for their annual meeting and election of officers.

Walter Murray was re-elected as president, as were Guy Parker, vice-president, Russell Hill, cashier; Ida Plummer and Virginia Collings, assistant cashiers.

Directors are Walter Murray, Guy Parker, Russell Hill, Ida Plummer and J. A. Beard.

GOP Bigwigs Think Truman In The Race

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (UP)—Many Republicans believed today that President Truman fired the opening gun in a bid for reelection in his state of the union message to congress yesterday.

But Democrats were not so sure. Some said they got the impression from what Mr. Truman said—and the way he said it—that he will not be a candidate.

House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr., joined other House GOP bigwigs in a statement saying that "plainly, the president hopes to campaign once more on phantom programs which provide the music for campaign oratory but somehow always fail to be reduced to the cold print of enacted law."

Democrats did a lot of speculating but no talking for quotation. Several said privately that Mr. Truman's failure to present anything new in his program, and the sober manner in which he spoke, indicated to them that he did not intend to run again.

Other Democrats called attention to the fact that Mr. Truman asked again for nearly all the things he has previously sought in vain to get congress to approve. To these Democrats, Mr. Truman sounded like a candidate.

One thing was obvious in all the speculation: Mr. Truman has a well-kept secret.

Bloodstained Car, Owner Remain Mystery To Cops

FORT WORTH, Jan. 10 (UP)—The owner of a blood-stained mystery automobile remained missing here today and in Lancaster, Calif., the man's brother feared he had met foul play.

George Emerson Hauser, 29, owner of the car which police found on a Fort Worth sidewalk three days ago, was last seen in California shortly before midnight last Saturday, his brother, Al Hauser, said.

Al Hauser told the Lancaster County Sheriff that his brother's life had once been threatened by the brother of George H. Hauser, Al Hauser, with whom George's former wife, of Tulare, Calif., had been living, said the missing man left his clothes and personal effects, and had been expected home soon. A rifle and several shells were found in the abandoned car here.

Appeals Court Upholds Death In Slaying

AUSTIN, Jan. 10 (UP)—A Dallas Negro will be executed for the slaying of a man who died a week before the date set in the indictment, the Court of Criminal Appeals held yesterday.

The case involved Booker T. Reed, sentenced to death for the slaying of Boyt Adron Lovelace, a 42-year-old cabinet maker. The state contended Lovelace died of a shattered skull after Reed hit him in the head with an axe.

The defense appeals—refusal of the trial court to grant a continuance or a motion for a new trial—were not sustained by the higher court.

Texas HD Clubs To Aid In March Of Dimes Drive

During the month of January the Home Demonstration Club women of Eastland County will join in a concerted effort with other groups toward the March of Dimes Drive against the much dreaded disease—Polio.

Mrs. R. M. Almonrode, president of Texas Home Demonstration Association, made her appeal late in December so the HD members may organize to help this great cause.

On January 31st, for one hour, every mother will have the opportunity of helping with a Mother's March on Polio. And each County in Texas Home Demonstration Association chairman is asked to get her women enlisted—get ready now for a good report on statewide efforts by Texas Club Women.

Olden Boy Has Appointment In Officer School

LUBBOCK, Jan. 9 — An Olden student at Texas Tech has been selected to attend the U.S. Navy Officer Candidate School at Newport, R. I., in February.

James Butler, a January graduate in business management, is one of four "Techsians" selected for the February class. Commander H. H. Heine, Jr., officer in charge of Naval Officer Procurement, Dallas, notified the boys and the college that four Techsians were eligible for OCS.

Other January graduates who will go to OCS with Butler are Robert Guthrie, Fort Worth, Gerald N. Hise, Lubbock, and Robert L. Shannon, Houston.

Protests Are Against Inspection Procedure; Not Text Of The Law

Over coffee cups and at the dinner table, across the piece goods counter and at the bus stop, one topic of conversation was universal today in Texas—compulsory automobile safety inspection.

Protests rolled against the program not because of its essential aims, but because of the inadequate means of making the new law work.

Long lines of cars idled before hard-pressed inspectors who examined them at approved inspection stations.

There were cries of "unconstitutional," "gouging" and others in stronger language.

State Rep. H. A. (Salty) Hull announced he would file an injunction suit at Fort Worth today to prevent the Department of Public Safety from enforcing the law.

Hull was engaged with Guy Buell to represent Al Wooten, president of the Fort Worth Used Car Dealers Association. He said the case will attack validity of the law, submitting that the safety standards for cars were established arbitrarily.

He also planned to challenge language of the law as "ambiguous" offering no recourse, causing restraint of trade, and tending to prevent another law (requiring automobile registration) from functioning.

One county tax assessor, John Oberndorfer at Galveston, declared flatly he would issue registration plates to a vehicle even if it failed the mechanical inspection.

Oberndorfer said, "unless I am forced with an injunction I am going to issue a 1952 license to a motorist even if he can't get his inspection tag. I am not going to hold up a poor devil who has to get to work in his car every day."

Asked if his office would issue a license for a car inspected but rejected, Oberndorfer replied, "yes." He added, "it takes time to get your car through that line the second time, I don't see how we can refuse to issue licenses because drivers have not been able to get through a line."

Attorney General Price Daniel has labeled the turmoil "an emergency matter" and began checking the possibility of extending the law's 1952 inspection deadline to Sept. 7.

The law's co-author, F. H. Sherman, said his bill clearly allowed the Department of Public Safety to extend the deadline.

Directors of the Tax Assessor-Collector's Association waded into the fight. Spokesman Roy Law, secretary, said "inspection facilities are wholly inadequate to meet the deadline on registrations for 1952."

Clayton Rand Says

PHILOSOPHIC PIECES

Between the turn of the year and March 15 there comes a period of despondency which is not marked on the calendars. It comes when one begins to wonder what he can keep, if anything, out of what he has earned.

If you are inclined to have the pip in January you may find consolation in paragraphs I plucked from a full mail during the holiday season.

"Life is easier to take than you'd think," said Kathleen Norris, "all that is necessary is to accept the impossible, do without the indispensable, and bear the intolerable."

Reinhold Neibuhr philosophized, "God grant me the Serenity to accept the things I cannot change; the Courage to change the things I can and the Wisdom to know the difference."

Then a friend who has the knack of picking pithy pieces for me sends this paragraph from the monthly letter of the Royal Bank of Canada, entitled "On Straight Thinking."

"They are lucky persons in whom to share spiritual thoughts. They can never be poor in the things that matter most. They are people in whom the art of thinking is always making the world to be born again."

I wish somebody would coin a poetic piece about the federal income tax.

Citizens protested that varying standards were used in the inspections, and that some station operators were "gouging" them for repairs.

Homer Garrison, Jr., Director of Public Safety, said he personally would sign the complaint of the first case to be prosecuted. Safety officials said most complaints had been more "misunderstanding" than actual.

More than a quarter million persons are employed in the textile industry in North Carolina, which leads the nation.

Second Freighter Abandoned By 45 Men In N. Pacific

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 10 (UP)—Rescue vessels plowed at full speed through the stormy North Pacific today to reach 45 men adrift in lifeboats after abandoning the sinking American freighter Pennsylvania in "mountainous seas."

Seven ships were en route to the Pennsylvania's position 700 miles off the Washington coast. They battled rain, snow and winds up to 35 miles an hour to reach the disaster scene.

A Coast Guard PBM Mariner carrying Cmdr. R. M. Dudley took off from Sandpoint Naval Air Station and was due to reach the Pennsylvania between 5 and 7 a. m. (PST).

Dudley said the big flying boat would not attempt to land, but would direct other rescue craft to the stricken ship and the men in the lifeboats.

Two Air Force B-17 rescue planes equipped with lifeboats were enroute to Queen Charlotte Island off the coast of British Columbia. The Air Force said they would wait for daybreak before taking off for the scene.

The first rescue ship scheduled to reach the Pennsylvania, a 7,800-ton Victory ship, was the Canadian Weather Frigate Stone-town. Fortunately, it was equipped with radar which would aid in locating the drifting seamen.

The fate of the men who left the disabled freighter was not known. The last message from the ship was sent at 4:40 p. m. (PST) yesterday.

Nor was it known whether Capt. George P. Plover, master of the vessel, went over the side with his men when he gave the order to abandon ship or whether he chose to stay aboard such as Capt. Kurt Carlsen of the Flying Enterprise elected to do.

The 42-year-old captain, whose home is in Portland, Ore., is a sea-going veteran of many years in the merchant service. He brought the Pennsylvania safely into port when her hull cracked in the Pacific several months ago.

The Coast Guard at Seattle said the vessel radioed shortly before the order to abandon ship.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Poe of Denton visited briefly here Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Dick, enroute to Cisco to visit relatives and friends.

Ray Harkness of Garden City, Kan. was a business visitor in the Telegram office Wednesday afternoon.

Britain Regards Terms With Red China "Lightly"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (UP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill considers Britain's recognition of Red China only a "paper relationship."

Churchill doesn't intend to have his new conservative government withdraw at this time the diplomatic recognition hastily granted by the late British Socialist government.

But he did promise President Truman, according to American officials, that Britain's recognition of the Chinese Communist regime will not stand in the way of British action with the rest of the free world to meet any threat of aggression by Red China.

Both Churenu and Mr. Truman were thinking especially of India-China where, it is feared, the Chinese Communists might make their next move if and when the Korean War ends.

British sources disclosed meanwhile that Churchill has no intention of trying to arrange a personal meeting with Russian Premier Joseph Stalin at this time.

There had been advance speculation that the British leader might go to Moscow alone if—as proved to be the case—Mr. Truman was cool to the idea of a big three meeting.

British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden remained behind when Churchill went to New York yesterday, in order to continue talks with Secretary of State Dean Acheson today and tomorrow. They planned to give special attention to Middle East and Far East problems.

American officials had feared that Britain's nominal diplomatic relations with China might pull the British punch a little in meeting any new Red thrust in Asia.

But Churchill, who left Washington with a fairly full bag of accomplishments in his talks with Mr. Truman, gave what were described as complete assurance on this score.

Football Safer Than Walking Or Driving

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10 (UP)—A survey of football fatalities during 1951 reveals the game is safer than driving a car or being a pedestrian, Dr. Floyd B. Eastwood, chairman of the Football Fatalities Committee of the American Football Coaches Association, disclosed today in his annual report.

Football was directly responsible for the deaths of only 12 players, the report stated. One of the fatal injuries was to a college player, six were to high school players and the others were to sand-lot or semi-pro players.

The fatalities, lowest since 1945, mean that less than one out of 100,000 high school players and about one and a half out of 100,000 college players were killed.

Once In A Lifetime

Temple, an. 10 (UP)—Temple produced one of those rarities yesterday—an eager draftee.

A young man who wanted a second chance at passing the armed forces qualification test—a test he failed once because he was "so nervous"—confronted chief selective service clerk Elizabeth Cornick.

Failure on the test made him a 4-F, and he told clerk Cornick, "I think if I could go again, I could pass it."

He will get his chance.

Modern "Enoch Arden" Applies For Annulment

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 10 (UP)—A shapely blonde and her second husband agreed to end their marriage because her first husband wrote that he is still alive in a Communist prisoner of war camp.

Mrs. Agnes Dixon Sasser, 22, main character in a modern "Enoch Arden" story, asked Fulton Superior Court yesterday to annul her marriage to Pfc. William S. Sasser. She indicated they have separated.

Her petition said she was notified in June, 1951, that her husband, Pfc. Walter B. Dixon, had been killed in action and that she later entered into marriage with Sasser, believing herself to be a "widow."

Sasser signed an affidavit agreeing to abide by the court's judgment and a hearing was set for Jan. 28.

Unlike "Enoch Arden," the returning shipwrecked sailor who, in Alfred Lord Tennyson's poem, concealed his identity after learning his "widow" had remarried, Dixon presumably will be reunited with his wife when he is released by the Communists.

Dixon probably was unaware that his wife remarried unless the Communists permitted the information to reach him following his wide-spread publicity in newspapers of Democratic nations.

The Sassers, who were stunned when Dixon's name appeared on the prisoner of war list released by the Communists last Dec. 19, refused to discuss the case with newsmen at her small duplex last night.

A short time later Sasser left the duplex to return to nearby Fort McPherson, where both she and her bride of four months work in an Army machine records center.

T. Blake Jackson, Mrs. Sasser's attorney, said she received a letter from Dixon, confirming he was alive and a prisoner, on Jan. 2.

Plenty Of Beef; If We Can Only Put It In The Pot

FORT WORTH, Jan. 10 (UP)—There's more beef, or potential beef, afoot now than ever before and government controls will be the only thing to keep it from reaching the American dinner table.

That was the viewpoint of the American National Cattlemen's Association which closed a three-day convention here last night.

Beef animals are at "record inventories" today, said the association, slaughter quotas and government subsidies.

The resolution had the approval of 1,500 cattlemen who attended the meeting. They wound up the affair by electing Sam C. Hyatt of Hyattsville, Wyo., president, and selecting Kansas City as 1953 convention site.

The association branded Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan's program "socialistic." The cattlemen said Brannan recently had approved the Family Farm Policy review which they charged contained such suggestions tion in a resolution opposing price distribution among other farmers." Jay Taylor, Amarillo, was elected a vice president, and five others were reelected.

Judge Collings, H. J. Tanner Present Civilian Defense Program At Meet Of Civic League and Garden Club

Judge Cecil Collings told the members of the Civic League and Garden Club to keep themselves informed through their newspapers and periodicals so that they might know how to vote, at their meeting Wednesday afternoon for a program on Civilian Defense. He reported that only 51 of the Nation's population voted in the 1948 presidential election.

He was followed by Herbert Tanner, manager of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce, who brought an informative message on Eastland's water situation. Its needs and immediate plans to care for them. Both speakers were introduced by Mrs. I. C. Inzer, program and hostess chairman.

Mrs. Samuel Butler, presided over the business session and heard reports of the officers including Mrs. Sam Gamble, treasurer, who reported a balance of $212.67 in the treasury, with 92 paid memberships. She asked that the Club give a rising vote of thanks to Mrs. Ida Morris for her generous donation to the Club. Her motion that the dues to the State Texas Garden Clubs Incorporated, be paid, carried.

Mrs. James Whittington gave a report of the Clubhouse board. Mrs. John Turner gave a report on the progress of the hospital and announced that anyone wishing to donate linens for the hospital buy the heaviest possible muslin sheets in size 72 by 90, pillowcases of the same weave in 18 inch width. Medium size and weight towels. She said that the Eastland merchants were giving a special discount for the hospital linens. She presented Mrs. Charles Moore, who gave a message from Kilgore, telling that the $8,000 dollars paid for the hospital equipment had formed the basis for a fund for the new nurses home for the new Kilgore hospital.

Mrs. Horace Horton was next presented by Mrs. Turner. She reported on the color theme adopted last week by the Committee, displayed samples of the colors and told why they had been selected.

Mrs. Fred Maxey reported that the Welfare committee, in cooperation with the Men's 9:49 Bible Class of the First Methodist Church and the Chamber of Commerce, outfitted 17 children and three women with clothes during the holiday season, and asked that members donate any clothing, children, infants, or women that

Suit Yourself to Fashion

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The fashion-right blouse that's light, soft to the touch, wrinkle-resistant, that launders well and needs no ironing, absorbs moisture easily and holds its pleats under all conditions is that blouse that fills the bill for the paycheck girl.

In all orlon or part-orlon acrylic fiber fabric, this is the blouse for the full-time, working wardrobe. It can be laundered at night, along with lingerie, and turn up next morning ready for another day without benefit of ironing.

The new orlon and part-orlon blouses are done in basket weaves, in shantings, in crepes, in taffetas. The fabric is light weight but shape retention is inherent in the fibers.

Blouse colors (white, magnolia, mauve, charcoal, mint green) are planned to provide an accent for basic suits.

Long-sleeved blouse (left) is in basket-weave and is all orlon. A yoke front is tucked to create a pleated look. Tailored, notched collar and front closing with pearl buttons are classic.

Tailored shanting blouse (right) with short sleeves is in orlon-and-nylon. Zig-zag front closing, edge of sleeves and collar are corded.

U. S. Farmer To Need 250,000 Mexican Laborers

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 10 (UP)—United States and Mexican delegations discussing migratory farm workers predicted today that U.S. farmers will need 250,000 Mexican farmhands this year.

Last year, 144,669 Mexican workers were admitted to the U. S. under the Migrant Labor agreement between the two countries, the U. S. Labor Department reported.

More will be needed this year since the United States is expected to increase its crop production by almost 40 per cent in 1952, delegate here said.

The representatives of the two countries were meeting to consider extending or replacing the migratory workers contract which expires next month.
