PRICE FIVE CENTS

Around The Square With Mack

Stray Vote ballots started coming in early today though we are not going to make a report for at least another day or so. We will say, however, that the first six voters were rather talkative, and told us how they voted. It was Eisenhower 6, Harry 0.

We do not feel that Harry will be completely "skunked" but he will not get enough support to bother him.

Monday night we attended a "roasting" contest. In fact we took part in the contest, though we filed our plate only one time, some contestants had to get the second and even third helping. We didn't win. Most of this group were individuals, who an hour before, could not eat goat meat. The reason was they had never tried it. After eating the first half pound sample, they hit it like a rooster picking up corn.

There were several who thought they were eating barbecued beef, and it was too late for them to change their minds after they found what it was and they'll never know whether they could eat it or not. One fellow flatly refused to eat it, but so far as we are concerned he looked about as carnivorous as the balance of us. He should grow a "roastee" to prove goat-ee is to "wear" and not to "eat."

Fact is barbecued goat meat is one of the choicest of all fresh foods. The goat is a clean animal, even if a Bible interpretation is necessary to convince. A goat is a lot more particular about what he puts in his mouth than the average man. He is a very clean animal, and while a goat is a goat, but there are several varieties. Some breeds afford vast supplies of good milk, relished by either sick or well members of the human family. Others produce mohair which is used for a thousand and one things. But the trim little goat that produces little milk and less mohair is known as the "brush" goat, but he certainly makes wonderful barbecue.

Melvin Rathaal was chief coffee maker at Monday's banquet, while we served as official taster. We worried along with that guy for two hours in an effort to get him to put a little coffee in hot water. He added coffee and poured and reproduced the brew all this time, but never did get it strong enough to float an iron wedge. It did very well if you took it straight, but if sugar or cream was added you couldn't taste the coffee. Next time we'll make it ourselves. We probably drank 14 cups of that stuff during the "tasting period", but it didn't seem to hurt us at all. After the banquet was over he came around and asked us if we felt alright. We answered in the affirmative, and he gave us a "thumbs up" and said, "well I didn't know. You see the custodian had been storing his rat poison in the urn, and Melvin was just washed out as good as it should have been. That's the reason he elected us official taster, for he didn't want to kill off any really good Baptists, but to lose us didn't amount to much. The world is full of just such Baptists as we are, and he knew it would be easy to replace us."

We plan to attend the next banquet over there, but he can do his own tasting. We want to help take up the collection, which is an age old Baptist custom. And if a fellow doesn't get too much glue on his fingers it is very profitable at times.

NO VACANCIES—"No Vacancy" signs are the rule at most all of Reno, Nevada's transient hostleries as the "Biggest Little City" in the world is being rocked by the worst snow storm in 15-years. The city is all but isolated as the wind-whipped blizzard stalled highway and rail traffic, stranding scores on the icy roads outside the city. (NEA Telephoto).

Broiler Industry Discussed At Meeting Tuesday; Many County Poultrymen To Try Experiment

Virtually every section of the county was represented by the 40 men and one lady in attendance at the poultry meeting in the Eastland Courthouse Tuesday where the possibilities of the development of the broiler industry were frankly discussed.

Okra, Rising Star, Carbon, Gorman, Cisco, Eastland, Ranger and other communities were represented.

Opinions as to the possibilities of the broiler business were quite varied but no definite plans were made.

"You can't make a thing on them with broilers at 28c and feed selling for more than $6.00 per sack. It is a losing game," was one man's opinion.

"I don't know about others but I have my house nearly ready for my chicks and I will soon be in the broiler business turning out 1500 at a time", said C. H. Groomer of Gorman.

"If the people in Arkansas can grow broilers and make money then I know we can too, for we Texas people are as smart as those in the state of Arkansas", said a man from Cisco.

County Agent J. M. Cooper asked those present to be absolutely frank in their opinions when they were called upon.

"The price and the market is the main thing in the poultry business," said still another man.

Market Needed

The question was raised about the possibilities of the market to the South and West of Eastland County and it was said that some investigation will be made of markets in those areas.

J. P. McCracken, Cisco banker gave a report of what a Terrell banker had told him recently concerning the broiler business in that area. McCracken was the only banker present although others had been invited it was said.

Those at the meeting, in general, felt that it would be necessary to have volume production in order to make any money.

Heroic Captain Has Airliner Troubles Too

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 (UP)—Capt. Henrik Kurt (Stay Put) Carlsen, jinxed in the air as well as at sea, heads homeward again today to the arms of his wife and the hearts of New York's parade loving millions.

Carlsen, who doesn't know how many times he has sailed across the fickle Atlantic, boarded a Pan American Airliner at the Shannon, Eire, airport last night for his first transoceanic flight.

But the big plane carrying the intrepid skipper of the sunken Flying Enterprise to a ticker-tape parade down New York's "Canyon of Heroes" developed mechanical trouble 280 miles out and returned to Shannon an hour and 25 minutes after its take-off.

Carlsen was sleeping when the airliner set down on the runway

Truman Asks For 5 Billion In New Tax For 1952 Budget

PROCLAMATION

GREETINGS:
History teaches, and many recent examples in various parts of the world have demonstrated with startling clarity, that freedom such as we cherish cannot long exist without popular understanding and appreciation of individual responsibility.

One of the basic institutions upon which we rely for the furtherance of our American ideals is the public school system. Public schools, by enabling every child to gain a liberal education regardless of station in life, promote recognition of the responsibilities of citizenship and constitute a major bulwark against subversive doctrines.

We in Texas are proud of the school system that has been developed in our state. Its success has been due to many factors—the interest of mothers and fathers in their children, the cooperative efforts of state and local officials, and the energy and determination of those public spirited men and women who are devoting their lives to the teaching of our children.

The continued progress of our school system requires increased public understanding of the importance of education and the greatest possible encouragement and support of our teachers. To this end, I, Allan Shivers, Governor of Texas, do hereby designate the period March 2-8, 1952 as PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK in Texas, and I urge that during this week ever citizen visit a public school and become personally acquainted with the work and activities of our public school system.

In official recognition whereof, I hereby affix my signature this 16th day of January, 1952:

Allan Shivers

Delegate To Agriculture Meet In Washington Reports Results

The following is a report by Joe Bob Browning, representing The Eastland County Farm Bureau, of the peanut and cotton meetings held in Washington on Jan. 12 and 13 by The American Farm Bureau Federation.

The outlook for cotton is favorable for both 1952 and 1953. It isn't likely there will be acreage allotments in 1953 even though we have a 16 million bale crop this year. It is estimated that the carry-over of cotton this year will be the lowest since 1925.

The price support level for 1952 crop of upland cotton has been announced at 90 per cent of the parity price of cotton as of August 1, 1952. The Amask and Pima 32 varieties of long staple will be supported at $1.071 per pound for grade No. 2, 1 1/2 inch staple.

I want to point out that these meetings were held by The American Farm Bureau Federation to find out what the producers want and then help us get it.

There were several important points discussed, most important of all to us, I think, being the excess oil peanuts. Other things were the proposed C. C. loans and purchase agreements, and moisture.

After discussing the different problems for some time the following resolutions were adopted:

1. The excess oil peanut program be repealed as soon as possible.
2. Direct CCC loans and purchase agreements be supported.
3. Allowable moisture content be the same as that in the Virginia-Carolina areas.
4. Pending repeal of excess oil peanut program, that no excess oil peanuts be allowed into edible trade unless declared in short supply by the Sec. of Agriculture.

This meeting was held in order to get prepared for the meeting to be held Jan. 31. At that meeting there will be nine producers, nine processors, and nine end-user delegates. This is where the big battle will be. The end-users want to get peanuts dropped as a basic

Texas Woman Bullfighter Is Now Pro

EL PASO, Jan. 16 (UP)—Former Texas co-ed Patricia McCormick, the only woman recognized as a "novillera" by the Mexican bullfighters union, will make her professional debut in Juarez today.

The blonde former Texas Western student from Big Spring will leave the amateur ranks and become a professional torera in the Juarez ring.

Her designation as a novillera followed her fight with a bull at Garabato in Agua Caliente, Mexico. The recognition came from the union matadores and volveros.

Patricia withdrew from Texas Western last fall to begin her new career. She entered the ring for the first time last Aug. 12, and killed her first bull a month later.

Hospital Workers Wanted Tonight

Many good loyal workers reported for duty at the hospital site Tuesday evening according to M. H. Perry, construction chairman.

Work will be resumed about the same time this evening and all who can help tonight with this worthy cause were asked to report about the usual time.

Much good work is being accomplished and enthusiasm is running in high he said.

One Eastland Station Now Testing Cars

Stations chosen to test automobiles, and make them roadworthy are getting off for a slow start in most sections of the State, and Eastland is no exception.

At least four stations in this city have made application and have been accepted as "official" testing stations, though so far only one station has been issued supplies. Rushing Motor Co., not only has testing equipment, but stickers, books etc., and has tested a few cars.

But three other stations, which include Blevins Motor Co., Lamb Motor Co. and King Motor Co., have equipment but no supplies. This means they are not in position to examine, test, approve or reject any car. Cause for this delay is not known.

The Telegram has been informed (officially) that Gorman and DeLeon both have testing stations that are in operation. In fact one Eastland woman said she had her car tested in Gorman and was given a sticker indicating her car had passed the test.

Now that additional time has been given for this work, car owners are not so eager for tests. They have until midnight, September 6th to get their test and still comply with the law. Licenses plated will be issued this year, as usual, without the test, and many owners will take their time to comply, it is thought.

Two Cities Enter WTCC Voting Race

ABILENE, Jan. 16 — Brownwood and Midland are the first cities in the 20,000 to 50,000 population group (Group 2) to be entered in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Fundamentals of Citizenship contest.

Other groups are for cities in counties of more than 50,000 population, 10,000 to 20,000, and less than 10,000.

The chamber of commerce representing the winning city in each group will be awarded a plaque. All chambers of the 132-county area served by the West Texas Chamber are eligible to enter their towns.

The contest will be decided on the following basis: portion of 1950 population of the county that pays the 1951 poll tax, portion of population that casts ballots in the first and second primaries and the general election, the campaign conducted by the chamber to promote the contest in its town and county, and portion of population that attends party precinct conventions.

Other towns entered are: Group 1—Amarillo, Lubbock; Group 3—Breckenridge, Dumas, Hamilton, Memphis, Coleman, Del Rio; Group 4—Albany, Stanton, Spur, Crosbyton, Santa Anna.

Counties other than Brown and Midland eligible to compete in Group 2 are Cooke, Denton, Eastland, Ector, Gray, Hale, Hockley, Howard, Hutchinson, Johnson, Jones, Lamb, Parker, Scurry, and Wilbarger.

UMT Would Make Better Boys Out Of "Umtees"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (UP)—UMT planners promised today to return 18-year-old trainees to civilian life with better morals than when they were inducted.

Dr. Karl T. Compton, atomic physicist and member of the National Security Training Commission, also assured Congress that graduates of the proposed new Universal Military Training camps will make better students in college as a result of their six months in the barracks.

Compton said every possible step, including assignment of more than twice the normal number of chaplains to UMT camps, will be taken to protect the "Umtees" from such moral pitfalls as liquor and prostitution.

He and other commission members were called as witnesses as the House Armed Services Committee pressed its study of UMT plans submitted by the commission and soon to be voted on by Congress.

Federal Spending Estimated At 85 to 90 Billion Dollars

By Merriman Smith
United Press White House Reporter
WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (UP)—President Truman called on a reluctant Congress today to raise more than $5,000,000,000 in new taxes.

He said this must be done "very soon" because the "tragic necessity" of rearmament requires it.

Mr. Truman couched his urgent recommendation with a warning against "torpedoing" the defense program by what he called "false economy."

Burglars Enter Ranger, Olden Schools Monday

Three county school safes were robbed Monday night, and cash amounting to approximately $180 was taken.

Officers are working on the case, though the only clue they have to work on is just a fair description of the car the burglars were driving.

In Ranger the high school loss amounted to something like $300.00, it is said, and the grade school there lost about two dollars. In Olden the loss amounted to more than $100.00.

Indications are that the work was done by the same party of parties, who began in Olden. Later they moved to Ranger and entered the Ward School, and finally the High School. The high school was entered early in the morning, between 4 and 5 o'clock, it is thought.

Officers working on the case, stated that there have been numerous school burglaries over the state during recent months, and they attribute this to the fact that most schools do not have good burglar-proof safes, and that is many cities the school's location is in a remote section where the burglars work with comparative safety.

UN Jets Hit Two Red MIGs

8th ARMY HEADQUARTERS, KOREA, Jan. 16 (UP)—U.S. Sabrejets damaged two Communist Mig fighters today in two 10-minute air battles at 30,000 feet over Northwest Korea.

Thirty-six F-86's of the 4th Fighter-Interceptor Wing tangled with part of a formation of 80 of the swept-wing Mig-15's in one of the dogfights over "Mig-Alley." The remainder of the Red fighter group was tackled by 22 Sabres of the 51st Wing.

Damaged Mig's were credited to Capt. William A. Todd of San Gabriel, Calif., and Maj. William T. Whisner of Shreveport, La. Todd belongs to the 4th Wing and Whisner the 51st.

The claims boosted the 5th Air Force's score to 164 Mig's destroyed, 81 probably destroyed and 341 damaged.

In the ground war, the 8th Army reported 3,930 Communist casualties in the week ended last Monday, a drop of approximately 2,000 from the previous week. The evaluated figures listed 2,300 Red killed, 1,586 wounded and 44 taken prisoner.

He laid down his bold program in a 13,000-word annual economic report which disclosed that federal spending will hit a stratospheric $85,000,000,000 to $90,000,000,000 in the next year. And he put the American people on notice that they must prepare to bear some inconveniences and hardships because this "is going to be a year of strain."

In unveiling his election-year request for still higher taxes, Mr. Truman did not specifically mention higher personal income taxes. But he clearly hinted such. He said his request could be achieved "by eliminating loopholes and special privileges, and by some tax rate increases."

But his proposal seemed foredoomed. Congressional tax leaders already have served notice they will oppose any further tax boosts, barring all-out war.

Mr. Truman's call for still greater taxes was part of a 12-point legislative program which included:

- Stricter price and credit controls;
- More foreign aid;
- Continued rent controls;
- Revision of the Taft-Hartley labor law;
- Improved Social Security and Unemployment Insurance Laws.

"1952 is not going to be an easy year for the economy," Mr. Truman said. "Americans must give up many of the things that we can afford to do without", to build our military strength against the threat of Communism.

Total federal spending for the present fiscal year is estimated at about $71,000,000,000. The new budget will be submitted to Congress next Monday.

The president's tax recommendations stemmed from congressional failure to provide the $10,700,000,000 in new revenue which he requested last year. Congress approved a tax increase which the Council of Economic Advisors estimated would yield only $5,400,000,000.

CONTEMPLATE THE STARS
The American Astronomical Society reported that 4,600 giant red stars, some of them thousands of times bigger than our sun, had been recently discovered.

The new stars were found by Mrs. J. J. Nassau and Victor Blanco of the Warner Swasey Observatory, at Cleveland, and Dr. D. W. Morgan of Yerkes Observatory, University of Chicago.

Other astronomers described a total eclipse of a blue star five times bigger than the sun by a yellow star 150 times bigger than the sun that lasted from August 11 to October 18, 1951. It was discovered that the big star would eclipse the smaller one for 63 days every 10 years and five months. The big star is 135 million miles in diameter and if it took the place of our sun would reach three-fourths the distance to our earth.

Men look into the heavens, count the stars, measure their distances from the earth, determine their age, their weight and their momentum.

Contemplate the wisdom of our kind—how we explore the outer fringes of creation and predict to the twinkle of an eye the second some colossal speck will kick stardust into the face of the firmament! Behold the genius of a generation that can penetrate infinitesimal space and split infinitesimal atoms and, yet, cannot crack the New Year nor find a desirable tenant to occupy the White House!

DAIRY INDUSTRY RALLY TO BE HELD AT A&M JANUARY 23

AUSTIN — A state-wide dairy industry rally to be held on January 23rd at the Memorial Student Center of Texas A&M College is announced by Mr. James Kizer, President of the American Dairy Association of Texas, Inc.

"We wish to invite and urge dairy farmers and dairy leaders from all parts of Texas to attend this meeting," Kizer said. "This meeting may well prove to be the most important held in Texas during 1952. The meeting will begin promptly at 10:00 a.m. on Wednesday morning, January 23rd, and will adjourn at 4:00 p.m.," he said.

"The state-wide rally being planned at Texas A & M College has a main purpose of building greater understanding of the AD A program," states Sam von Rosenberg, Field Director of ADA in Texas. "This organization is building great cooperation in our Texas Dairy Industry in helping us all

Our Texas dairy industry is vitally important to our entire state agriculture as one dollar out of every eight dollars earned by Texas agriculture is a dairy dollar. There is a great opportunity for our dairy industry in Texas and great strides are being made in developing this opportunity.

Commenting further on the meeting, von Rosenberg stated, "It is time we take inventory and not fail to utilize every value our industry offers. With short feed supplies and rising production costs on every hand, we must be sure to build the sales strength of our product. This can only be done by reaching and telling consumers through advertising and merchandising activities.

Committees are completing plans for a most valuable industry-wide program for the days meeting. Highlighting the program will be a talk entitled "Doing for Ourselves" by Mr. Chet Texas dairy farmers and others interested are invited to attend this meeting. A large representation is expected. Many leaders among milk distributors and handlers are expected. The meeting promises to represent all parts of the dairy industry throughout Texas.

Egypt Has New Crown Prince; Born Today

CAIRO, EGYPT, Jan. 16 (UP) — A Crown Prince was born today to 18-year-old Queen Narriman, the beautiful commoner who became King Farouk's second wife last May 6.

The government promptly declared an official holiday, and all Egypt joined Farouk in celebrating the birth of his first son—named Ahmed Fuad, for the king's father. Both mother and son were reported doing well.

Simultaneously 101-gun salvos boomed in Cairo, Alexandria and Port Said. Radio Cairo said the glad event was a "good omen" in Egypt's struggle to expel the British from the Suez Canal Zone and the Sudan.

By mid-morning, some 10,000 cheering Egyptians had massed in the square before Abdin Palace. The crowd grew steadily. Secondary school students were marching toward the palace from all sections of the city.

The king's bodyguard donned bright red fezzes, white gloves and other ceremonial dress. Mounted guards at the palace gates sat on prancing horses and held lances from which fluttered their regimental flags.

Some 500 police in black uniforms and khaki-clad auxiliary police moved through the square to keep order. Cheers for Farouk

MORE PRECIOUS THAN RUBIES

THE STORY: Once more Alma Conroy, woman jewelry designer for the exclusive House of Trumbull in New York, is in low spirits because her husband Tommy apparently is a failure. An opening as head of the photography department in The House will be given to someone else because Tommy is "not the caliber" for the position.

ALMA CONROY paused a little before she went on with the bad news—that Tommy wouldn't get the job he wanted at The House.

Tommy had his back to her now and was mixing a drink.

"They want a settled man, someone who is loyal to The House," she tried to explain. "And—oh, Tommy, perhaps Mr. Craig knew that you sometimes drink too much and what with having to handle those precious things when you photographed them. . . . I hope not, but I'm afraid that's what he thought. For you are a wonderful photographer—it's such a pity that you always seem to spoil your own chances!"

"Tommy looked at her over his shoulder and, surprisingly, laughed. "Thanks for the lecture!" he said. "Well, let that old fuddy-duddy keep his confounded photography. I've got something better."

"Where?" She was startled. "Right at Trumbull's. A big-time job—and you didn't get it for me either, my girl!"

"Tommy! But that's wonderful, dear! What sort of a job?"

"I can't tell you." "Nonsense—why not?"

He came over, put down his drink and took her face between his fine, long hands. "Do you know that places in Trumbull's class do a lot of confidential business?"

She nodded. "I suppose so. I never thought about it!"

"Well, that's all I can tell you." "Is that why you were out with Bright Muncie?"

Tommy shot her a quick look from under his heavy brows. He looked angry.

"I said, we are not going to discuss details. I don't even want it known that I'm working with Bright. He made that plain. Now will you shut up and believe that your husband is on the big time at last?"

"I want to believe it! Oh, Tommy, how I want to believe it—but you've crowded too soon before. This time I'd like a little proof."

"Okay! How about this?"

He flung his hat aside and thrust the package he had brought home into her hands. They shook a little as she unwrapped it, feeling numbed by the statement he had just made and curiously detached from all reality. Under the tissue paper inside was a stole of gorgeous silver fox. She lifted it out, staring incredulously.

"You must have worked awfully hard for this!" she said uncertainly. Tommy gave a short laugh.

"Easiest money I ever made!" he said. "Try it on—it won't bite! What's more, it's all paid for. From me to you with love."

Under the tissue paper inside was a stole of gorgeous silver fox. She lifted it out, staring incredulously.

SLIDING the soft fur around her shoulders she suddenly wanted to cry. After all these years Tommy had brought her a present like this! Only a man who was making real money would buy such a thing—unless he were Tommy Conroy!

She wanted terribly to accept the gift as a symbol of accomplished fact, even though offhand it just did not seem possible. But there were the furs; they spoke for themselves and spoke eloquently. Perhaps at last the moment for which she had longed so long had really arrived. How she would laugh now at Papa Victor's misgivings about Tommy, at Joe's disgust at his friend's backslidings! Tommy making good! It justified everything—the fact that she had supported him, given him one fresh start after another, shielded him from the consequences of his own mistakes, built up his courage with flattery and faith.

A slow warmth began to fill her: the youth and strength of which long subconscious worry had sapped her, came flooding into her veins again.

"Tommy," she said chokingly. "My darling, my darling, I knew this would happen some day!"

"That I'd eventually pay off!"

She could not endure the taunt, even though it was flung laughingly.

"Oh, Tommy, it isn't that—it's just that I wanted you to be a man! I love the present, of course! But your having stood on your own feet to get it is even more precious to me."

She looked at him under lowered lids for a long moment, allowing him to see the great welling of tenderness in her eyes. "Darling!" she added softly.

"Darling!" He echoed the word with infinite meaning, his eyes meeting hers in that deep, basic understanding which was the thing that had held them together despite all reason.

THEN the years of quarreling seemed to fall away from her like a tattered cloak leaving her naked before the old passion which she had sometimes felt was dead. His arms were around her, his lips and the new Crown Prince rang out continuously.

Royal princes, minister, diplomats and other notables flocked to the palace to sign the register and congratulate Farouk, who will be 32 Feb. 11.

All school and university students were given a two-day holiday.

Florist shops were flooded with orders to send flowers to the palace.

Narriman gave birth to the Crown Prince at the palace at 8:30 a.m. (1:30 a.m. EST) with two doctors in attendance—Dr. Ibrahim Magdy Bey, a well-known gynecologist, and Dr. Youssef Rashad, chief doctor aboard the royal yachts, who accompanied the royal couple on their European summer honeymoon.

The child was Farouk's fourth, but his first son. His first wife, Queen Farida, gave him two daughters before they were divorced Nov. 17, 1948.

gentle on the edge of her hair, she trembled in his embrace and clung to him.

It was only later that her mind began to function. And as usual, her reasoning was not all her own. In her mind there seemed to come, as they often had before, the faces of the two widely different women, now dead, who had reared her.

They were Aunt Pleasant Lee, her mother's old-maid sister with whom the summers of her childhood had been spent and whose mind was as upright as her grimly clean body, and Gran' Bijou, Papa Victor's French wife. Alma could not remember her own mother who had died at her birth, but Gran' Bijou was very vivid—a gay old lady with suspiciously black hair, bright lipstick on her withered lips and a warm love of life hovering about her like an aura.

Alma had adored both the summers on the bleak New England farm and the winters in New York where Gran' Bijou sang the supposedly naughty French songs of her youth and Papa Victor taught Alma the glorious art of jewel making. The two women spoke very clearly tonight.

"Far be it from me to criticize," Aunt Pleasant was being severe about it, "but I do hope, Alma, that you haven't driven your husband into anything wrong by nagging him about being a failure! Easiest money he ever made, eh? Don't like the sound of it. Nagging is no way to build up a man!"

Gran' Bijou, laughing at the pomposity of mankind's penalizing of sex, broke in.

"How foolish!" she said, her earrings twinkling like her laughter. "He brings you into his arms with a gift, and at once you try to find a moral issue! Do not deceive yourself, bebe! Take this hour of happiness lightly. It is a good thing in itself, and that suffices!"

They are both right, Alma thought. She and Tommy could not live happily on love alone. They had tried that before and it had failed.

While the mistakes we made stick out like a sore finger and our failures almost overwhelm us, yet these discouragements are small indeed compared to the unhappiness and tragic experiences of some who happen to live in other countries. Arlington Leading Pioneer Loop; RJC's Bridges Second In Scoring

ARLINGTON, Jan. 16—As predicted, the Arlington State College Rebels vaulted into the lead in the Pioneer Conference basketball title chase last week by racking up convincing victories over the Tarleton State Ploowboys and the Ranger Junior College Rangers. The Rebs are unscheduled in conference through the next two weeks.

Closing in to assume the role of challenger for the title is the San Angelo Junior College Ram quintet, which last week downed Ranger, 51-42.

If the Rams can defeat the Schreiner Mountaineers in the opening conference tilt of the season for the Kerrville quintet at Kerrville, Wednesday night, the Rams will be tied with the Rebels in the conference race.

The Mountaineers have shown signs of making great improvements since dropping their first nine exhibition games of the season.

All conference teams, with the exception of ASC, are expected to be strengthened by January high school graduates.

Following the Schreiner-San Angelo tilt this week, conference games will be suspended until January 30, on account of final examination schedules at the various member schools.

and was confused by the noise made by disembarking passengers until he got his bearings.

He told the pilot he wanted to stay put in his berth aboard the plane but was persuaded to sleep at the airport hotel when he was informed the takeoff had been scheduled for 8 a.m. EST.

That would bring him to New York's International Airport about midnight tonight, airline officials estimated, barring delays by bad weather.

It was expected that a small informal group composed of Governor Whalen, the city's official handshaker; officials of the Isbrandtsen Lines, which owned the Flying Enterprise, and Mrs. Carlsen would wait up for the skipper's arrival.

Carlsen's unforeseen delay caused the city's reception committee to alter its plans for the welcoming which the Danish-born sailor thinks he does not deserve.

The big parade, originally scheduled today, was postponed until 12:05 p.m. EST tomorrow, but none of the elaborate preparations was changed.

He will be taken by a Coast Guard Cutter tomorrow to the battery. Then he will walk to city hall in a parade of 2,000 including marches from the armed services and various city groups, through a blizzard of ticker tape.

Jury Dismissed In Constello's Contempt Trial

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 (UP)—The jury in the contempt trial of gambler Frank Costello failed to reach a verdict yesterday because one of its members held out for an acquittal.

Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan ended the trial by discharging the jury after its foreman reported it was "hopelessly" deadlocked.

One of the jurors who refused to be identified said the lone dissenter held out against conviction during 10 hours and 55 minutes of deliberation.

U. S. Attorney Myles J. Lane

immediately requested a retrial, Ryan set Friday for discussion of the new trial date and continued the 60-year-old gambler in $5,000 bail.

Costello was indicted on 11 contempt counts for refusing to answer certain questions asked by the Senate Crime Investigating Committee at its televised hearings here last March.

West Ward Parents, Teachers Met Tuesday In School Cafeteria

Members of the West Ward PTA met Tuesday afternoon in the school's cafeteria for a program on "Team Work Can Do The Job" with Mrs. E. C. Johnston giving the part titled, "How the Home can help the School" followed by Mrs. T. L. Amis, who gave "How the school can help the Home". Both women were introduced by Mrs. Dick Edwards program chairman.

Mrs. J. R. Lusk, president presided over the business session during which Mrs. T. D. Wheat was appointed chairman, with five other members to be named later, to gather ideas and information on the best use of the $150.00, now in the treasury, for the pupils and teachers of the school.

Electric Heat for Hotbed Costs Little, Gains Much

A hotbed is a cold frame equipped with a heating system. Nearly all small hotbeds in city and suburban gardens nowadays are heated by electric cables, rather than by fermenting manure, which was the old method.

Arrange the Heating Cable in Loops for Even Coverage.

Cables and thermostats are now obtainable at less than the cost to a townsman of suitable manure, were he able to find it. Current used for heating depends upon the insulation of the frame, and how early in the spring heat is turned on, but it seldom adds an important amount to the light bill. There is a much more even heat, which is beneficial to all plants and vital to those that chill easily. It gives a longer growing period, since the heat does not become exhausted, as does heat from manure, which sometimes fails before the outside temperature is safe.

A frame is constructed in the usual pattern as used for both hotbeds and cold frames, but there is no need to prepare a deep pit such as is necessary when manure is used to supply heat.

The frame is sunk in the ground about six inches. Soil is removed within it to an equal depth, and the cable is arranged on the bottom in loops, so that heat will be evenly distributed. The supply wire and cable are both connected to a thermostat, which can be set at the desired minimum temperature, so that as soon as the thermometer falls to that point heat is turned on.

When temperature rises a few degrees above the minimum, heat is shut off, and the variation between maximum and minimum temperatures is much less than with the old-fashioned hotbed.

The heating cable may be covered with four to six inches of soil in which seeds are sown. It is a good idea to place a sheet of fine meshed poultry wire an inch above the cable, with soil between. Another method is to grow plants in flats, which are placed above the heating cable, which may be imbedded in the soil on which the flats stand. A special type of cable may be obtained, which can be laid on top of the soil, and be protected by grating of wooden slats on which the flats stand. To improve insulation and reduce current consumption, the frame should be banked with cinders, which are covered with soil, to within a few inches of the top.
