VOLUMNE TWENTY-THREE No. 261

We can't please 'em all. Fast is we have just about quit trying, for it is a hopeless and impossible

Got another one of those "Dear Editor" letters yesterday, and while the writer was strong in criticism, he wasn't strong enough to sign his name. (Maybe it was a "her" the writing looked fe-minine.) "Constant Reader" is the only clue we have to work on, and as we are rather busy we are not going to lose much time trying to guess.

It started off like this: "Durhese dry and distressing times are grasping at a straw, hoping against hope that it will rain, or that something will turn up that will give employment to those who need it so badly, or at least liven things up a bit."

So far so good, but just listen to what follows. "Just northwest of Eastland and in Eastland trade territory are three wells in the process of drilling. Those who are personally interested in these wells crave knowledge on how they are coming Here we pause to put out in formation: They are still dry, only just a little more so than yesterday. And tomorrow they will likely be about the same. Were it in our power to bring in a little oil of our hands we just can't. even if times are hard and the nemto spend a lot of time boosting "dry holes" to make people feel better.

news" when and if they come in Should this happen we will waste a ton of good, high priced newsprint and a couple of barrels of ink in an effort to let the world know about the Eastland Discov ery. But until we see, taste and smell good, live, high gravity oil we are going to confine most of our oil column to "Service Station Ads." They really have something the tests do not have.

Constant Reader threatens to dur paper and take the Abiget oil news from the Eastland City limits pool. Now that's something. It is news and should be published. How we ever got an oil pool in Eastland is beyond us. There has never been so much as a test well drilled in the Eastland city limits. Our records go back to the day Noah left the Ark, and we are pretty sure prehistoric people didn't work promotion rackets in West Texas during their day.

We do quite a bit of reporting and write for six daily newspapers, but to date we haven't had the "guts" to try to pan off a dry test on the public in an ef-fort to create an "oil boom." There is some oil in this county, and there may be some discovery wells to come, but until something happens of a postive nature, our from oil as a lot of our dry tests.
If and when oil is discovered you may expect to hear from us in

But right now we don't think the Lord is trying to lead us into

Warm Weather Brings Problem For Dairymen

COLLEGE STATION, April 10 The coming of warm weather vill bring with it new problems for the dairyman. Higher bacteria counts are sure to show up in the milk unless precautions are taken. High counts can be caused, says R. E. Burleson, dairy husbandman milking procedure, milking unlean and unhealthy cows, using hat cooling facilities are adequate the milk. start a fly control program. The ranchers. elimination of breeding places is be spread on fields and all lots of the program.

To control horn flies, dairy cator washes containing five-tenths per cent methoxychlor. Such applications are usually effective for wo to four weeks and in most areas of the state, two or three treatments in the spring and one n the fall is sufficient.

As an aid to controlling huose flies, Burleson suggests spraying the inside of the barn and around two and one-half per cent UDT and two per cent chlordane pre pared from an emulsion concen trate. Washing the walls occasion ally before spraying is also an aid

And finally, says Burleson, now s the time to plant a sudan or a udan-cowpea mixture for sumner grazing. Plant one acre per ow and use plenty of fertilizer. July pastures depend on action it April and May.
