

While we have never thought very much of "fortune tellers," "star gazers" or others who make a living telling people what is to happen in the future, many of their predictions naturally come true, but we have never considered that "predictions" had anything to do with it.

Last year we know of a man who is a professional prediction artist, and he boldly announces at this time that his 1952 predictions were 87 per cent correct. If this is true, and we presume it is, we consider him as a most excellent guesser.

For 1953 he has another list of "predictions" which we pass on to you, for whatever they are worth. First our Air Force will admit that flying saucers do exist, and a great step will be taken to fathom the mystery. A trip to the moon will be carefully planned by jet rockets and a flight secretly made. Our first landing platform in space will be built on a small scale. Henry Ford II, Howard Hughes, and Charles Lindbergh will announce startling inventions that will revolutionize three industries. A new individual plane to sell for less than $1000. A face lift in your own home for only $5 through the combined action of a newly discovered chemical. A new cosmetic skin cleanser adapted from the effective antiseptic wound cleaner of World War II. A powerful drug which will sober alcoholics and keep them sober. A positive cure for cancer to be discovered by a San Francisco doctor. Prices firm, continued prosperity, buy a buyer's market. A coming war on outdated electrical appliances, TV sets, used cars, frozen foods, nylon hose and clothing. A new electric brain which can compute your physical condition and accurately predict the number of days you have yet to live. A new revolutionary insurance plan to be placed in operation on a world-wide basis for every individual. Politics: Thomas E. Dewey will become Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. President Truman will go down in history as the greatest reconstruction president we have ever known. Eisenhower as president, will take America to new heights in world influence. Month of Crisis: September, due to the death of Stalin, the inner Russian revolution, Iraq and Siam. The financial flop of Queen Elizabeth's Coronation in June. Fashion: Wide-eyed innocent look for women, college boy cue clothes for men, nylon wigs for everyone at $10. Suicide insurance plan to be placed in operation on a world-wide basis for every individual. Air crash to take lives of 5 notables at once. World-wide freak weather. Waltz craze. Sentimental tunes. Medical care in reach of everyone. More liberal pension plans. A $50 TV set that will project a 5x7 picture on your wall in color. A new small economical American car.

Now you have some kind of an idea as to what you may look for, and we trust you will not be disappointed.

In the meantime we will keep on working and paying taxes while waiting for "Ike" to do something about lowering them.

If half these predictions come true, and we have a wet year, Eastland county will sure be in the swim.

CAMPBELL SLAYING IS SOLVED! Police Dragnet Out for Missing Killer

Jos. M. Perkins, Rotary Speaker, Tells Of Canada

Jos. M. Perkins was guest speaker at the Rotary Luncheon Monday at noon, and his subject, "Canada," was handled in a very instructive and entertaining manner.

Mr. Perkins is a citizen of Eastland, though his work keeps him on the move most of the time. He is a geologist working in the higher bracket, and spends almost as much time in Canada as he does the United States.

In area, he stated, Canada is slightly larger than the United States, though in population there is no comparison. The United States has a population of more than 155 million, while Canada only boasts about 16 million.

Most of Canada's population is in the southern part of the country along the U.S.-Canadian border. This does not mean that the north is worthless, for it is not, but people have found it to their advantage to settle close together.

Most mineral rights in Canada are government owned, though large holdings still remain in the hands of the Hudson Bay Co. and the Canadian Pacific Railway Co.

1953 March of Dimes Drive Is Under Way

The 1953 March of Dimes campaign is under way in Eastland County and over the nation as volunteer workers continue an extensive canvass for funds to wipe out the debt incurred by last year's record polio epidemic.

The dread disease took a toll of 13 persons, mostly children, in Eastland County during 1952. And the county operating on limited funds, has been forced to negotiate two loans—one for $2,200 and another for $5,000—to finance treatment and care for the area's polio victims last year.

With more persons stricken with infantile paralysis in 1952 than ever before, and with the prospect of a staggering patient care bill, the Eastland County unit and 3,100 other national county chapters of the March of Dimes organization are launching an all-out effort to match the record polio onslaught with a record 1953 March of Dimes.

In 1952, Mrs. J. A. Bates of Ranger, Eastland County campaign director, said Tuesday, the National Foundation had:

Cold Wave Due Here Tonight

Baird Quints To Clash Mavericks In Games Tonite

Eastland Mavericks, both boys and girls, are to meet the Baird Quints in Eastland tonight.

The games will be played in the high school gym, with the girls game starting at 7 o'clock, followed by the boys.

All these teams have good players, and most anything may happen, it is said. The usual admission charges of 50c and 25c will be made, and the public is urged to attend.

New Well Is Completed At Depth Of 3,680

Another oil well has been completed in Eastland County.

It's the G. A. Bloomquist No. 1, E. C. McClelland, Section 466, SP Survey, Bloomquist Lake Sand Field, 10 miles northwest of Cisco.

The well was completed for a daily potential of 10.35 barrels of 41 gravity oil, with a gas-oil ratio of 19,400-1.

The project, flowed through 12-64 choke with 110 pounds on casing and 160 pounds on tubing from 42 perforations at 3,681-88 feet. Total depth was 3,723 feet and casing was set at 3,723 feet.

In natural resources, Canada is a very wealthy country. Oil and gas have been found and the country's fields add much to the wealth. Potash, iron and other metals are found there, and these will not only contribute to the wealth of the Dominion of Canada, but will furnish employment for many Americans.

Most mineral rights in Canada are government owned, though large holdings still remain in the hands of the Hudson Bay Co. and the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. Canadians are an industrious people, and their country is being developed by leaps and bounds.

Jobless Dallas Bus Driver, Father Of Two Children, Is Charged With Brutal Crime

By GROVER LEE

A Southwest-wide manhunt which may extend over the nation within a matter of hours was launched last night for a fleeing red-haired, blue-eyed unemployed bus driver—Donald Hawkins Brown of Dallas—who has been charged with murder in the brutal New Year's Eve slaying of Joe Campbell, 24-year-old finance company collector and son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Campbell of Ranger.

Homicide Captain Will Fritz of the Dallas Police Department told this newspaper early this morning that the case against Brown, believed to be between 23 and 26 years of age, now is definitely "wrapped up" and that he and his aides are mopping up final evidence on the fugitive who's expected to be apprehended and arrested by alerted law enforcement officers at any hour.

The wanted man is about 5 feet 9 inches tall, freckle-faced, of muscular build, and weighs about 160 pounds. The fugitive's automobile is a gray 1947 Buick sedanette. License number: JV-7801.

FIRM GAVE LEAD

"Break" in the bizarre and sensational case came when Capt. Fritz and his staff learned from the finance company that of half a dozen "tough" delinquent accounts, other Pacific collectors encountered much difficulty in repossessing the 1947 Buick sedanette from Brown, who was far in arrears on his payments.

Campbell, rated an "excellent" collector by the company, was given the account and spent most of Wednesday afternoon attempting to locate Brown's residence. He apparently found the unemployed bus driver in his small apartment in a South Dallas rooming house—only a block and a half from the spot where the ex-Rangerite's body was found in his flaming automobile Wednesday night.

At the apartment house, apparently, an argument started and later wound up with Brown beating Campbell, then firing four bullets into his head with a .25-caliber revolver, drenching the dead victim with gasoline, and finally driving the collector to the 3400 block of Gunter where he closed the doors of the finance company car, first tossing in a match to set its interior aflame.

FIND BLOODY PANTS

"We've been checking the Brown angle for several days," Capt. Fritz revealed this morning. "But our case against him was cinched when we searched the house where he lived at the time of the crime and found a pair of bus driver's trousers, covered with blood, hidden up in the attic of the dwelling. Brown's name and tell-tale laundry marks are on the bloody trousers."

Lab tests prove the blood on the pants is that of the dead man.

The wanted fugitive is the father of two young daughters—age 7 months and two years. The entire family, including Brown's wife, vanished from the small apartment a few hours after the brutal New Year's Eve crime had been committed.

"They left in a big hurry," Capt. Fritz said, "because they left some things behind." He said some of the articles left at the apartment included a child's tricycle and a baby bed.

The landlady of the rooming house also reported that the Brown family had moved "suddenly" and had failed to give notice of their departure.

GUN STILL MISSING

How about the death weapon? "The gun is still missing," Capt. Fritz admitted. "But we think Brown has it with him."

"The Dallas detectives have a copper-jacketed bullet, taken from the dead man's head, which can be used in a ballistics test.

"We've got plenty of evidence already," Capt. Fritz declared, "and now we're piling up more."

How about witnesses? "I'm not able to give out any information regarding witnesses at this time," Capt. Fritz said. "We're still winding up a few details of the case for the final wrap-up."

"But we'll be able to release more details a little later," the homicide sleuth promised.

"Right now," he explained, "we're banking on grabbing Brown through that automobile. You know, he seems to think a lot of that car—hasn't wanted to give it up, even though he's three payments behind. We're hoping that Buick will trap him."

Capt. Fritz, who was born and reared at Dublin in nearby Erath County, has been with the Dallas Police Department for 30 years and has stacked up an outstanding record in solving homicides.

COUNTY IS SHOCKED

The fiendish murder shocked Eastland County when it was first reported in Ranger early Thursday morning—New Year's Day. First word of the tragedy was received by Max Ohr, father-in-law of Morris Campbell of Ranger, one of the brothers of the slain man, Thursday morning at 3:30 a.m.

Capt. Will Fritz Dallas Detective Found Bloody Trousers to Solve Campbell Case

Gunter—across the street from the Suggs Funeral Home, 1001 Second Street—in a Dallas residential section by firemen who had been summoned to extinguish the blaze.

A few seconds after they had begun work to snuff out the conflagration, one of the fire-fighters noticed blood oozing from under a back door of the car, and smashed one of the closed rear windows to discover Campbell's body. His remains were charred—his blue gray suit was half-burned off—and the corpse was sprawled on the floorboard and back seat of the Ford which was owned by the Pacific Finance Co., his employers.

All doors, with exception of the right front, were locked and the windows were rolled up. Capt. K. W. Moore of the Dallas Fire Department and his aides also noted that Campbell's body—and his clothing—had been drenched with gasoline prior to the start of the blaze.

Only minutes later, investigating detectives, headed by veteran and wily Homicide Captain Fritz of the Dallas Police Department, found three empty .25-caliber cartridge cases in the car. Another was later found in the dead man's mouth. The sluths also noted blood stains on the front seat, and blood smears also were found on the back doors of the death car.

AUTOPSY REVEALING

An autopsy report showed that Campbell had been beaten and also that he had been shot four times, coinciding with the earlier discovery of the empty cartridges—one on the left front floorboard and two under the front seat—in the company-owned vehicle.

All the small gun-shot wounds were in the head. One bullet entered through his left ear. Another, entering under his chin, lodged in his upper jaw bone. One slug also ripped through the left side of his face near the mouth. The copper-jacketed .25-caliber pellets were removed, and one was in excellent condition for use in a ballistics test.

In addition to the bullet wounds, the autopsy disclosed other minor wounds and bruises on the victim's body. There was a severe contusion over one eye and another over a temple. One of his jaws also was broken, presumably by a blow to the face and not by a bullet.

Further autopsy reports revealed that the slain man had not been drinking, and a test of his blood also showed that he had been dead prior to the fire. In addition, the evidence that his blood had not yet coagulated indicated that he had been murdered only a short time before the car had been fired up into a blazing inferno.

Practically all identification had been removed by the killer—Campbell's billfold, his handkerchief, and even the keys to the car were missing. His identification wasn't finally determined until 11:30 p.m. Wednesday when Donald H. Mackey, manager of the Dallas office of the Pacific Finance Co., was summoned following tracing of the license plates and recognized Campbell's body. A tie clasp bearing the initials "EJC" and a Texas Tech class ring, initialed "C", found on the remains of the corpse, also clinched his identity.

Now's The Time For Treatment Of Cattle Grubs

Extra feed is required for cattle infested with cattle grubs and there is no profit in feeding these parasites, says U. D. Thompson, assistant animal husbandman for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The losses caused by cattle grubs are borne by the livestock producer and he can do something about it, adds Thompson. These parasites annually cause damages to hides and high priced meat cuts that amount to millions of dollars to say nothing about lowered milk production in the dairy herds. This loss could be added to the income of cattle producers and dairymen if the parasites were controlled.

Thompson recommends the use of a power sprayer—with a pressure of 200 to 400 pounds. Lower pressures decrease the effectiveness of the treatment, he says. The animals should be held in a chute while they are being treated. The spray nozzle should be held no further than four inches from the backs of the animals. It is best, says the specialist, to use a full gallon of spray on each animal and from 10 to 15 seconds are required for doing a thorough spraying job.

The spray material should consist of 7 and one-half pounds of 5 per cent rotenone dust for each 100 gallons of water. Mix it thoroughly, says Thompson.

The first application should be made as soon as the grubs appear in the animals backs and repeated at intervals of three weeks as long as needed. Three or four treatments are usually sufficient to get good control.

A good control job should result in weight gains for cattle of up to 20 per cent and materially increase the value of the hides and cattle when they are marketed. The dairyman with a grub free herd can expect a good increase in the herd's milk production and, adds Thompson, a good job done now means there will be few or no heel flies next spring. Animals tormented by these parasites lose weight rapidly and is coupled with milk losses for the dairy herd.

Controlling the cattle grub breaks the life cycle of the parasite and thus stops the damage from grubs and the multiplication of the heel fly.

Right now feed is about the most important item being considered by livestock producers and Thompson says, the animals cannot fully utilize their feed if they are heavily infested with grubs. Thompson adds that local county agricultural agents will be glad to supply additional information on controlling this livestock profit robber.

Bloodhound Tough, Officers Doubt It

WACO—Police and the owner of a robbed meat market differ about the value of the latter's watchdog.

Ed Kousal said his "bloodhound pup" drove away burglars after they had taken some meat.

"Police had a different idea. 'That sure was a friendly bloodhound,' said officer Tilley Buchanan. 'He ran up wagging his tail and tried to shake hands,' said officer H. L. Wilson.

Nothing Easy About Journey To The Moon

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Traveling to the moon or other planets isn't going to be a simple matter of getting into a space ship and blasting off.

Pennsylvania State College scientists, who have been studying the characteristics of outer atmosphere, say the ship will have to stand the stress of greatly varied temperatures, deadly cosmic and ultra violet rays and absence of air-pressure.

Dr. Marcel Nicolet and Phillip W. Munge of the ionosphere research laboratory said the dangers revolve around the low density of molecules in outer space.

They explained that temperatures will vary as the distance from earth is increased. As an example, a 70 degree temperature on the earth's surface will drop to minus 150 degrees 50 miles up and climb to about 3,500 degrees 250 miles away from the earth.

The lack of molecules in space, the scientists revealed, also will increase the power of deadly ultra violet rays discharged from the sun. Ordinarily, the damaging effects of ultra violet is filtered by the molecules in our atmosphere.

CALL 601 FOR CLASSIFIED AD SERVICE

There is still time in most sections of the state to plant winter legumes provided, of course, sufficient moisture falls to insure a stand.

Milk production may be cut as much as 25 per cent by heavy infestations of cattle grubs in the milking herd.

Most hunting accidents could be prevented if hunters would observe the simple rules of safety with firearms.

CAMPBELL—

by baffled until the whirlwind finish Monday. They were able to trace Campbell's movements from early Wednesday morning when he left his home to go to work until early that afternoon at 1 p.m. when he had reported in to the Ross Avenue office of his firm for a conference with some of his associates. There the trail ended.

Officials of the finance company told Dallas detectives that Campbell's collections had all been turned in. And they also disclosed that while in the office shortly after noon, Campbell decided not to go to Terrell to see about delinquent car payments due the company. Instead he took several other delinquent Dallas accounts in his brief case and left the office.

A check over the list of delinquent accounts eventually brought solution of the mysterious case. Prior to learning about Campbell's visit to Brown, officers Sunday jailed a 38-year-old Dallas taxicab driver, armed with a .25-caliber revolver, for investigation. The man admitted buying ammunition recently for the pistol which he said he used "to shoot tin cans" in outer Oak Cliff.

Due to the fact that Campbell was a devout Catholic and had an excellent reputation and no vice habits, until the "break" Monday, officers were stymied in establishing a motive for the brutal crime.

NEAR 'PERFECT' CRIME

Early Monday that had said that the brutality of the crime had indicated that the murderer was "exceedingly angry or was of extremely low mentality." While Campbell may have carried up to $2,000 in his pockets from his collections, detectives did not believe that robbery was the motive. Hijackers, they said, seldom go to such extremes used by Campbell's killer.

"In a sense the slaying of Campbell came near being the perfect crime," officers were quoted as saying in the Monday edition of The Dallas Morning News, "had the killer not made one mistake." Campbell was beaten, shot, dumped into the back seat of his car and drenched with gasoline. Then the killer tossed a lighted match and locked the car tight. "The killer's mistake was in closing the car so tightly," Capt. Fritz said.

Had the windows been left open, he said, the car would have been burned to a crisp. There would have been nothing left of the dead man but a few bones. The bullets would never have been found. His death might even have been ascribed as an accident.

As it was, officers said, Campbell's clothing was more than half intact and the odor of gasoline was strong in them. The bullets were not immediately discerned. In fact, not until X-ray pictures were made, was it discovered that Campbell had been shot.

Funeral services for Campbell were held at St. Rita's Catholic Church in Ranger Saturday morning, followed by interment in the Evergreen Cemetery. His survivors include his widow and infant son of Dallas his parents of Ranger; a sister, Mrs. Earl Jolley of Grand Island, Neb.; and two brothers, test your rugs and carpets from damage by moths and carpet beetles. Since wool rugs and carpets attract clothes moths and carpet beetles throughout the year, it is well to realize that these insects recognize no season in a well-heated home.

Morris A. Campbell and Charlie D. Campbell, both of Ranger, and a grandmother, Mrs. Flavie Bunch of Ranger.

J. C. Gaines, entomologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service says experiments with this treatment at the United States Department of Agriculture laboratory at Savannah, Georgia, have proved successful. Results, the specialists say, show the 5 per cent DDT solution spray will protect rugs and carpets from damage by moths and carpet beetles for more than a year.

To protect your rugs, the specialist says, apply a 5 per cent DDT oil spray uniformly over both top and bottom surfaces, sufficient to moisten the fibers. You can buy a common household spray under a variety of trade names, but check the label describing the ingredients for the 5 per cent DDT oil contents.

Mr. Gaines says a hand sprayer does a good job of applying the spray to the rugs and carpets. "Be sure to moisten them uniformly on the top and bottom to get longer lasting effects of the 5 per cent DDT oil spray," he adds.

Now is the time to winterproof the farmstead. The recent "cold-snaps" are the forerunners of more severe weather to come. Be on the safe side and be ready.

NOT RIGHT LINE
BOONEVILLE, Miss.— I. M. Womack says he picked the world's worst location for a store and has given up trying. Two stores he built on the same spot were blown away by tornadoes, one in 1931 and the other in 1950. Womack takes it he wasn't meant to be a merchant and has turned to chicken raising.

"Last year's record reflects a large number of second, third and fourth children born of post-World War II marriages," the statisticians comment. "This is to some extent the result of the relatively low age at marriage in recent years, and also may be considered as indicating a change in attitude as to the size of the family."

"The babies born in 1952 were blessed with a good start in life, it was observed.

"Infant mortality was probably the lowest ever experienced in any year," the statisticians point out. "The infant mortality rate was a little over 28 per 1,000 live births in 1952, the third successive year in which the rate has been less than 30. The reduction in infant mortality over the past 10 years has brought about a saving of 50,000 infant lives in 1952 alone."
